PREFACE.

BY REASON of the recent Consolidation of the Statutes and Rules relating to the practice of the Supreme Court of Judicature the Editors have been enabled to combine their previous independent labours in the field of the practice of the Courts, and thus to make the third annotated edition of the Ontario Judicature Act and Rules the most complete edition which has yet been published in Canada.

It embraces not only the notes appended to the 2nd edition of "Maclennan's Judicature Act" by Mr. Langton, so far as the same continue applicable, but also the notes to the Common Law Rules and Chancery Orders published by Mr. Holmested. In the present volume therefore has been embodied whatever has been thought of value in those two publications so far as they illustrate The Judicature Act and Consolidated Rules in their present form, besides a very considerable amount of new matter.

During the eight months which the work has been in course of printing many new cases have been published, and the more important of them, which could not be introduced into the text, will be found in the table of addenda.

The table of cases has been carefully prepared under the immediate supervision of the editors; and they have taken special pains to make the Index as complete and exhaustive as possible so that they hope it will be found to answer all reasonable expectations.

ORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

No one, who has not undertaken a work of like magnitude, will be able fairly to appreciate the immense amount of hard and persistent labour which it involves. The Editors are not presumptuous enough to suppose that their work is without a flaw; they are, however, conscious that they have endeavoured to make it as free from defects as possible, and they commit it with some confidence to the candid and liberal judgment of the profession.

ADDENDA.

PAGE 9—After reference to Long v. Hancock, line 4, add "But see Poulin v. Quebec, 9 S. C. R. 185, where the dismissal was without costs."

" 11—After reference to Peek v. Derry, line 2 from end, add "14 App. Cas. 337; Glasier v. Rose, 42 Ch. D. 436. The House of Lords in Peek v. Derry, 14 App. Cas. 337, has held that in an action of deceit the plaintiff must prove actual fraud, and such fraud is proved when it is shown that a false representation has been made knowingly or without belief in its truth, or recklessly, without caring whether it be true or false. A false statement made through carelessness, and with reasonable ground for believing it to be true, may be evidence of fraud, but does not necessarily amount to fraud; such a statement, if made in the honest belief that it is true, does not render the person making it liable in an action for deceit."

" 15—After the third paragraph from bottom, add: "An injunction to restrain a breach by an infant of an apprenticeship deed was refused: De Francesco v. Barnum, 43 Ch. D. 165.

Add after the seventh paragraph: "The Court has jurisdiction to declare a marriage void, but nothing short of the most clear and convincing testimony will justify the interposition of the Court: Lawless v. Chamberlain, 18 Ont. 296."

" 20—Line 7, add "Lawless v. Chamberlain, 18 Ont. 296."
Line 26, for "22 Geo. 3" read "22 Geo. 2."

" 27—Add after paragraph 9: "A post-nuptial settlement by a married woman while an infant, made under the sanction of the Court, was held valid against creditors: Hemingway v. Braithwaite, 61 L. T. N. S. 224."

" 38—After sub-section 2, add: "See post s. 55, p. 68."

" 43—At the end of paragraph 5 after reference to Jamieson v. Laing, add: "Similarly there is inherent jurisdiction to strike out a defence as frivolous, vexatious and abuse of procedure: Reichel v. McGrath, 14 App. Cas. 665."

" 45—Line 3, after "86" add "and 262."

" 47—Add as a note to Section 53 (1)—"See also Patrick v. Simpson, 24 Q. B. D. 128."

" 49—At the end of 3rd paragraph from the end add:—"See also Harding v. Harding, 17 Q. B. D. 442."

After second paragraph add: "A broker to whom shares have been transferred for the purpose of sale may, where rival claims are set up to them by a third party, call on the latter and the transferor to interplead: Robinson v. Jenkins, 24 Q. B. D. 167."

R. 100. An injunction should not be granted ex parte after appearance except in cases of urgency. If the defendant has appeared, that fact should always be mentioned to the Judge on an ex parte motion for an injunction: Harrison v. Cockerell 3 Mer. 1, and where it is not, the plaintiff will in any event be made to pay the costs of a motion to dissolve an injunction so granted: The Mexican Co. v. Maldonado, 88 L. T. Jour. 238, and see Walton v. Henry, 26 C. L. J. 154."

D. 590; 38 W. R. 61, where it was considered not just and convenient to grant a receiver to a mortgagee in possession, who desired to give up possession."

" 60—Second line from the end: Instead of "equitable execution" read "attachment of debts."

" 64—Add after paragraph five: "So also the writ may issue where the person, in whose custody the child had been, has illegally parted with the custody of the child, (especially if this be done to evade the process of the Court); it may be an answer to the writ that it is impossible to comply with it, but such impossibility must be clearly made out, Reg. v. Barnardo, Gossage's case, 24 Q. B. D. 283."

" 67—To second paragraph add: "But not so as to affect the running of the Statute of Limitations: Chard v. Rae, 18 Ont. 371."

" 74—Add after third paragraph from the end: "So an order directing an executor to pay costs of an administration action, on the ground that he has caused the litigation by refusal to furnish accounts, is appealable, as he is entitled to costs unless the right is displaced by misconduct, and whether there was misconduct is the subject of appeal: Re Pugh, Lewis v. Pritchard, 57 L. T. N. S. 858."

" 81—After reference to Re Gabourie, in line 24, add: "Re Clayton Mills Manufacturing Co., 37 Ch. D. 23. Esdaile v. Paine, 40 Ch. D. 520."

" 82—Add to first paragraph: "Leave was refused where the object of the appeal was to fix executors with interest on money which they had invested, and as to which a loss had occurred: Coates v. McGlashan, 2 Chy. Ch. 218."

PAGE 85—Line 4, instead of Ib., read, "Fraser v. Johnston, 12 P. R. 113."

" 87—Instead of the third paragraph, read: "Where a trial is commenced with a jury, the judge may, even after the evidence is taken, or during its progress, dispense with, and discharge the jury, and try the case himself: Marks v. Windsor, 17 Ont. 719; see also Denmark v. McConaghy, 26 C. P. 563; Adair v. Wade, 9 Ont. 15."

After the fifth paragraph, add: "Where at the trial both parties treated an issue as one which should be tried by the Judge, and not by the jury, and the plaintiffs obtained a rule nisi for a new trial on the ground that the Judge had decided the issue wrongly, they were not allowed to amend the rule so as to state that the Judge should have left the issue to the jury: Australian, etc. v. Smith, 14 App. Cas. 318.

As to the effect of withdrawing a juror: see Thomas v. Exeter Flying Post, 18 Q. B. D. 882.

In cases in County Courts an order made by the Judge before trial, as to trial of the action with, or without a jury, is not appealable under section 42 of the County Courts Act: McPherson v. Wilson, 13 P. R. 339."

After reference to Manning v. Thompson, add: "But it must be a judgment which finally and conclusively (subject only to appeal) settles the existence of the debt, so as to become res judicata between the parties: Nouvion v. Freeman, 15 App. Cas. 1."

" 96—Add at the end of the page: "In Raymond v. Little, 13 P. R. 364, it was held by Robertson J. under the circumstances of that case that on a reference to a Referee under section 101, the report did not become absolute, like the report of a Master, after being filed fourteen days under Rule 848, but that as soon as the report was made, the party in whose favour it was, might move for judgment thereon, and that, on the motion coming up, the report should be produced, accompanied by the evidence taken before the Referee, and the opposite party would then be heard against the motion, and it was open to him to take any objection to the report, and the Court could adopt it wholly or partially, and if adopted, enforce it as a judgment.

The contrary has since been decided by McMahon, J., in Hunt v. Darling, 28 Feb., 1890, where it was held that a motion against a report could not be heard, notice of appeal not having been given within 14 days from the filing of report."

PAGE 119—Add after section 137: "See Re Smith's Trusts, 18 Ont. 327, where money being rightly in Court as proceeds of settled estate, payment of the fund out of Court on the joint application of the life tenant and an infant entitled in remainder, in order to avoid the expenses of the Accountant's office incident to the holding of a fund in Court, was refused."

" 148—Add as note to Rule 41: " Under 52 Vict. c. 36, s. 46 (O), a Judge of the County Court has now the same jurisdiction as a Judge of the High Court to try the right of a municipality in the County of such Judge, to a Reeve or Deputy Reeve or Reeves, or the validity of an election, or appointment of Mayor, Warden, Reeve, Deputy Reeve, Alderman or Councillor. The practice in such proceedings in the County Court is to be the same, as nearly as may be, as on similar proceedings in the High Court: see Rules 1036, et seq. The Judgment of the County Judge in such cases is appealable to a Judge of the High Court, as in cases of appeal from the Master in Chambers."

" 164—After third paragraph add: " Where a covenant for payment of a debt is given by a principal and surety, payments by the principal on account of the debt which will prevent the Statute of Limitations from running in his favour will also prevent the Statute running in favor of the surety, though he be no party to the payments: In re Frisby, Allison v. Frisby, 43 Ch. D. 106; but see Paxton v. Smith, 18 Ont. 178."

D. 573, in appeal, 43 Ch. D. 191.

Where the mortgage provided that the total amount to be recovered by the mortgagee 'under these presents' should not exceed £900, payments made by the mortgagee for rent and insurance while in possession were held to be recoverable, though the aggregate amount of the claim exceeded £900: White v. City of London Brewery Co., 42 Ch. D. 237."

Under heading "Consolidation of Mortgages," after the first reference to Johnston v. Reid, add, "Smith v. Smith, 18 Ont. 205."

R. 78."

PAGE 325—Add to the last paragraph but one, after reference to "Trice v. Robinson": "But letters of administration obtained pendente lite will not relate back to the commencement of the action, so as to bar the running of the Statute of Limitations: Chard v. Rae, 18 Ont. 371."

B. D. at p. 128; but in Holtby v. Hodgson, 24 Q. B. D. 105, it was said that this was only a short and compendious way of saying that the judgment must be executed against her property, not her person: see also McLeod v. Emigh, 12 P. R. 45.

" 528—The reference to "Exchange, etc. v. Ass. of Land Financiers" should be "Hop Exchange, etc."

D. 839, where the plaintiff was given costs up to the time of payment into Court, and defendant costs subsequent thereto. The Judge at the trial doubtless has a discretion under Rule 1170 to give defendant the whole costs of the action. In Small v. Lyon, 10 P. R. 222, where judgment was given for defendant with costs, it was held that the Taxing Officer had no alternative but to tax the defendant all his costs."

Add as a note to Rule 635: "In an action for an injunction to restrain a nuisance, and for damages, the defendants denied liability and paid money into Court in satisfaction of the claim for damages. "Where to a claim for money had and received to the plaintiff's use, the defendant pleaded tender before action, and paid into Court the sum tendered in full satisfaction, it was held in England that the plaintiff could not take the money out in satisfaction, and tax his cost as of course, but the plea of tender raised an issue, which remained unsettled on the record, and in respect of which the defendants were entitled to go to trial: Ib."

Dele "When paid in, further money will now be subject to the same rules as in other cases where money is paid in," in note to Rule 640.

" 573—Add after the fifth paragraph: "A letter saying, 'We shall discontinue this action, and take out of Court the amount paid in, and tax our costs. We will send formal notice to-morrow, is not a notice of discontinuance within the Rule: Moon v. Dickinson, 38 W. R. 278."

" 578—Add as a note to Rule 647: "Where the plaintiff gives notice of trial, but neglects to enter the action for trial, the action cannot be dismissed under this Rule, and defendant's remedy is to enter the action himself, under Rule 663: McDougald v. Thompson, 13 P. R. 256; Simpson v. Murray, 10 C. L. T. 137; 26 C. L. J. 189."

" 580—Add at the end of third paragraph, under Rule 652, after reference to Syers v. Pickersville: "But actions will not be stayed unless the issues are substantially the same: Niagara Grape Co. v. Nelles, 13 P. R. 179, 258."

PAGE 580—After reference to the "Never Despair" add: "Girvin v. Burke, 13 P. R. 216."

" 581—Add after tenth paragraph: "In determining who is to have the conduct of a consolidation of two cross-actions, the main indicia to be regarded are, which action was first begun, upon whom does the chief burden of proof lie, and which action is the more comprehensive in its scope: Girvin v. Burke, 13 P. R. 216."

" 582—Line 11—Niagara Grape Co. v. Nelles is now reported in appeal, 13 P. R. 258.

Line 8: Shaw v. Crawford, is now reported 13 P. R. 219.

" 590—Add at the end of notes to Rule 663: "It has now been decided in Ontario that where the plaintiff gives notice of trial, but neglects to enter it, the defendant may enter it himself under this Rule, but cannot move to dismiss under Rule 647: McDougald v. Thompson, 13 P. R. 256; Simpson v. Murray, 26 C. L. J. 189; 10 C. L. T. 137."

" 594—Price v. Manning, in note to Rule 674, is now reported 42 Ch. D. 372.

" 596—Add at the end of notes to Rule 676: "In action for false arrest and malicious prosecution, arising out of a false information laid by defendant, a certified copy of the information being objected to, leave was given to put in afterwards the original, and an exemplification of the judgment of acquittal: Hamilton v. Broatch, 17 Ont. 679."

TITLE.

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as "The Judicature Act." 44 V. c. 5, s. 1.

INTERPRETATION.

Interpretation of terms. 44 Vict. c. 5.

2. Where the words following occur in this Act and in the Rules, made thereunder or under The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, they shall be construed in the manner hereinafter mentioned unless a contrary intention appears.

1. "Rules of Court" shall include forms.

2. "Cause" shall include any action, suit, or other original proceeding between a plaintiff and a defendant.

3. "Action" shall include suit and shall mean a civil proceeding commenced by writ, or in such other manner as may be prescribed by Rules of Court. (a)

(a) The original clause had the additional words "and does not include a criminal proceeding by the Crown."

An interpleader proceeding by a sheriff is not an action but a proceeding in an action; Hamlyn v. Betteley, 6 Q. B. D. 63; Coulson v. Spiers, 9 P. R. 491.

"Action" may include a petition; see Re Atkin's Estate, 1 Ch. D. 82; Finney v. Hinde, 4 Q. B. D. 102; Re Dynevor & Duffryn Collieries, W. N. 1878, 199; and in England includes proceedings by originating summons; Re Fawsitt Galland v. Burton, 30 Ch. D. 231.

4. "Matter" shall include every proceeding in the Court not in a cause.

5. "Plaintiff" shall include every person asking any relief (otherwise than by way of counter-claim as a defendant) against any other person by any form of proceeding, whether the same be taken by action, suit, petition, motion, summons, or otherwise.

6. "Petitioner" shall include every person making any application to the Court, either by petition, motion, or summons, otherwise than as against any defendant.

7. "Defendant" shall include every person served with any writ of summons or process, or served with notice of, or entitled to attend any proceedings.

8. "Party" shall include every person served with notice of, or attending, any proceeding, although not named on the record.

9. "Pleading" shall include any petition or summons, and shall also include the statement in writing of the claim or demand of any plaintiff, and of the defence of any defendant thereto, and of the reply of the plaintiff to any counter-claim of a defendant. Sec. 2.

"Summons" in this clause does not mean a writ of summons: Murray v. Stephenson, 19 Q. B. D. 60.

10. "Judgment" shall include decree.

11. "Order" shall include rule.

12. "Oath" shall include solemn affirmation and statutory declaration.

The above definitions are all taken from the English Jud. Act 1873, sec. 100.

13. "Proper Officer" shall, unless and until any Rule to the contrary is made, mean an officer to be ascertained as follows:—

(a) Where any duty to be discharged under this Act or under Rules of Court is a duty which has been discharged by any officer, such officer shall continue to be the proper officer to discharge the same, until otherwise provided by Rule;

(b) Where any new duty is under this Act or under the Rules aforesaid to be discharged, the proper officer to discharge the same shall be such officer having previously discharged analogous duties, as may from time to time be directed to discharge the same, in the case of an officer of the High Court, not attached to any Division, by the President of the High Court, and in the case of an officer attached to any Division, by the President of the Division. 44 V. c. 5, s. 91.

CONSTITUTION OF SUPREME COURT.

3.—(1) The Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario at present existing is hereby continued, and all commissions, rules, orders and regulations granted or made, in, by, or respecting the former Court of Queen's Bench for Ontario, the Court of Chancery for Ontario, and the Court of Common Pleas for Ontario, or the Supreme Court of Judicature,

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Sec. 3. the Court of Appeal, and the High Court of Justice, or the Judges or officers thereof, existing and in force when this Act takes effect, shall remain in force until altered or rescinded or otherwise determined. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 2; 44 V. c. 5, s. 3 (1).

By the Jud. Act of 1881 (sec. 3) the then existing Courts, viz., the Court of Appeal, the Court of Queen's Bench, the Court of Chancery, and the Court of Common Pleas, were united and consolidated together, and constituted one Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario. This Court is continued by the above section.

The Rules and Orders of the former Courts are now rescinded and a consolidation of all such Rules and Orders substituted for them.

The Jud. Act has not fused the two systems of Law and Equity, but has transferred each of these two jurisdictions to one Court which administers both systems: per Chitty, J., in Emmerson v. Ind, 34 W. R. 636, 54 L. T. N. S. 757.

The Supreme Court does not sit as a Court unless it be to make General Rules and Orders: sec. 105, sub-s. 1. The Judges of the Supreme Court are also to hold a Council once a year to consider the Procedure and Administration of the Law, and to report thereon: sec. 109. The Master in Ordinary, and Local Masters of the Court of Chancery, and the Taxing Officers, are declared to be Officers of the Supreme Court and attached thereto: sec. 112 (2), post: by order in Council of 22nd May, 1889, the Masters have been also made officers of the High Court. All the Judges, and their successors, are Judges of the Supreme Court, thus marking the uniformity which is aimed at in the administration of justice, and the abolition of all distinction between Courts administering Law and Courts administering Equity. The Appeal Judges are made competent to do any work which ordinarily is discharged by the Judges of the High Court, and the Judges of the High Court are to act, when needed, in the Court of Appeal: secs. 5, 9.

(2) The Supreme Court shall continue to consist of two permanent divisions, to be called "The High Court of Justice for Ontario," and "The Court of Appeal for Ontario."

(3) The High Court of Justice for Ontario shall continue to consist of three divisions, to be called the Queen's Bench Division, the Chancery Division, and the Common Pleas Division of the High Court. 44 V. c. 5, s. 3 (2, 3).

(4) The Queen's Bench Division shall, during the reign of a King, be called "The King's Bench Division," and during the reign of a Queen, "The Queen's Bench Division." R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 3.

The English Act did not identify the existing Courts with the Divisions of the High Court bearing the same names; the Ontario Act expressly makes the High Court and its several Divisions a continuation of the existing Courts, under a new name: see West Huron Election case, 19 C. L. J. 240; 3 C. L. T. 446; 8. S. C. R. 126, in note to sec. 163. The Divisions of the High Court are not however themselves Courts, but together constitute the High Court which is thus divided for convenience in transacting business: Reg. v. Bunting, 7 Ont. 118. See also Reg. v. Dudley, 33 W. R. 348: Serrao v. Noel, 15 Q. B. D. 557-8.

(5) The persons hereafter appointed to fill the places of the Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, the Chancellor of Ontario, and the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and their successors respectively, are to be appointed by the authority mentioned in The British North America Act, and with the same respective titles as heretofore. 44 V. c. 5, s. 3 (4). Sec. 3. Imp. Stat. 30-31 V. c. 3.

By the B. N. A. Act, section 96, it is provided that "the Governor-General shall appoint the Judges of the Superior, District and County Courts in each Province, except those of the Courts of Probate in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick."

(6) The persons to be appointed Judges of the High Court shall be Barristers-at-Law of at least ten years' standing at the Bar of Ontario. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 8.

(7) Save as in this Act is otherwise expressly provided, all the Judges hereinbefore mentioned, and their successors, shall have in all respects equal power, authority and jurisdiction. 44 V. c. 5, s. 3 (5).

So in England by Jud. Act, 1873, sec. 5.

(8) The Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench shall be the President of the Queen's Bench Division, the Chancellor shall be the President of the Chancery Division, and the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas shall be the President of the Common Pleas Division. 44 V. c. 5, s. 3 (6).

See English Jud. Act, 1873, sec. 31.

(9) Besides the Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, two Justices of the High Court shall be attached to the Queen's Bench Division; besides the Chancellor of Ontario, three Justices of the High Court shall be attached to the Chancery Division; and besides the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, two Justices of the High Court shall be attached to the Common Pleas Division. See 44 V. c. 5, s. 3 (3, 8); 48 V. c. 13, ss. 2-4.

(10) The President of the said High Court shall be that one of the Presidents of the Queen's Bench, Chancery and Common Pleas Divisions, who, for the time being, is first in order of seniority.

(11) Upon a vacancy happening among the Judges, the Judge appointed to fill the vacancy is (subject to the provisions of this Act, and to any Rules of Court which may be made pursuant thereto) to become and be a member of the same Division to which the Judge whose place has become vacant belonged.

(12) Nothing in this Act shall prevent, or shall be construed as intended to prevent, the transfer of any Judge of any of the said Divisions from one to another of the said Divisions. 44 V. c. 5, s. 3, (7-9).

Judgment by Judge who resigns after case heard.

4. Where a Judge resigns his office, and any case which has been fully heard by such Judge, either alone or jointly with other Judges, stands for judgment, he may give judgment therein as if he was still a Judge of the same Court; and any such judgment shall be of the same force and validity as if he were still such Judge, provided that such judgment of the Judge be delivered within six weeks after his said resignation. 44 V. c. 5, s. 86.

5. The Court of Appeal for Ontario, at present existing is continued, under that name, and shall consist of a Chief Justice, to be called the Chief Justice of Ontario, and three other Judges, to be called Justices of Appeal, and the Judges of the High Court, shall be ex officio Judges of the Court of Appeal, so as to provide for the cases mentioned in section 12 of this Act. 44 V. c. 5, s. 4; R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 3; 48 V. c. 13, s. 2.

Vacancies in Court of Appeal, how filled.

6. The Chief Justice of Ontario and the Justices of Appeal may be selected from the Judges for the time being, or retired Judges of the High Court, or from such barristers as are eligible to be appointed Judges of that Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 4.

Precedence of Judges.

7.—(1) The Chief Justice of Ontario shall have rank and precedence over all other Judges of the Courts in Ontario.

(2) The Justices of Appeal, the Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, the Chancellor of Ontario, and the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas shall have rank and precedence among themselves according to their seniority of appointment to any of the said offices.

(3) The other Judges of the High Court shall have rank and precedence among themselves according to seniority of appointment to their respective offices. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 6; c. 39, s. 7; c. 40, s. 6.

Secs. 8-11.

Appeal Judges may hold Assizes, etc.

8. The Chief Justice of Ontario and the Justices of Appeal, may, in addition to their duties as Judges of the Court of Appeal, preside over Courts of Assize and Nisi Prius, Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol delivery, and hold sittings of the High Court of Justice, for the trial of civil causes, matters and issues, and criminal matters or proceedings; and every such Justice in the exercise of such duties shall have the same rights, powers and privileges as a Judge of the High Court presiding at such Courts or sittings. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 8.

Provision for absence or vacancy in office of a Judge.

9. Upon the request of the Judge or Judges with or for whom he is requested to sit or act, it shall be lawful for any Judge of the Court of Appeal, or any retired Judge of the said Court, or of the High Court, who may consent so to do, to sit and act as a Judge of the said High Court, or to perform any other official or ministerial acts for or on behalf of any Judge absent from illness or any other cause, or in the place of any Judge whose office has become vacant, or as an additional Judge of any Division; and while so sitting and acting, any such Judge of the Court of Appeal or retired Judge shall have all the power and authority of a Judge of the said High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 10; c. 40, s. 22; 44 V. c. 5, ss. 40, 85.

Quorum.

10. No sitting of the Court of Appeal shall be held unless four of its members are present, where the appeal is from the High Court, or unless three of its members are present where the appeal is from a County Court, Provisional Judical District Court, or Judge of a Surrogate Court or Stipendiary Magistrate. 41 V. c. 8, s. 2.

Divisional Courts of Court of Appeal.

11.—(1) In case from pressure of business, or other cause, it shall at any time seem expedient to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, or to the Judges of the Supreme Court, or a majority of them (of which majority two Judges of the Court of Appeal, including the Chief Justice, unless absent on leave, shall form part), the Court of Appeal may sit in two Divisions at the same time; and in such case, and to enable two Divisional Courts to be held, the Judges of the said Supreme Court, or the said majority of them, shall select from the Judges of the High Court so many of the Judges thereof as may be necessary, together with the ordinary Judges of the Court of Appeal, to form two Divisions of the said Court, and the judges so chosen and acting shall have all the power and authority of the Judges of the said Court of Appeal.

(2) Unless otherwise arranged by the Judges of the Court of Appeal and the said Judges so selected, two of the ordinary Judges of the Court of Appeal shall, where practicable, sit in each such Divisional Court. 44 V. c. 5, s. 42.

The English Jud. Act of 1875, section 12, provides for the Court of Appeal sitting in two divisions at the same time when necessary; the two sections in some other respects do not correspond.

Quorum may be made up by the Judges of the High Court.

12. In case of there being a vacancy in the Court of Appeal, or in case from illness or some other cause, any of the Judges of the said Court is not present at some sitting of the Court, or in case any of the said Judges is under some legal disqualification to hear an appeal, the Judges of the High Court shall choose from amongst their number as many Judges as are necessary, to form a quorum; and the Judges so chosen and acting shall have authority to continue to hear appeals partly heard before them, and to give judgment in all appeals heard before them, notwithstanding that such vacancy may in the meantime have been filled up, or that the Judge who was absent may have resumed his duties. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 10.

One cause of disqualification is given in section 13. As to other causes of disqualification, see Boulton v. The Church Society, 15 Gr. 450; Dimes v. Grand Junction, etc., 3 H. L. C. 759.

Judge whose decision appealed from, etc., not to sit on appeal.

13. No Judge against whose judgment an appeal is brought, or who took part in the trial of the cause or matter, or in the hearing in the Court below, shall sit or take part in the hearing of or adjudication upon the proceedings in the Court of Appeal. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 13.

Written judgment of an absent Judge may be read by another Judge.

14. Where a Judge has heard a case in the Court of Appeal and is not present at the time of the judgment of the Court being delivered, his written judgment may be read by one of the other Judges of the Court, and shall have the same effect as if he were present; and in such case if the judgment delivered is on an appeal from the High Court, it shall be sufficient if three Judges are present; and if the judgment is on an appeal from the County Court, it shall be sufficient if two Judges are present; and it shall not be necessary that the Judges shall be unanimous. 45 V. c. 6, s. 2. See also s. 4, ante. Secs. 15-19.

Where the Court of Appeal is equally divided the judgment in appeal is affirmed, and usually with costs: Long v. Hancock, 12 Ont. App. 156; but where on a motion to quash the Court was equally divided in opinion as to their jurisdiction to hear the appeal, no costs were given: Whiting v. Hovey, ib. 119.

Judgment may be given in the absence of one of the Judges who heard the cause if other Judges are unanimous.

15. In case, after a cause or matter in the Court of Appeal has been heard and stands for judgment, one of the Judges by whom the appeal was heard is transferred to the Supreme Court of Canada, or resigns his office, or is absent from illness or other cause, or dies, the remaining Judges, if unanimous in their decision, may give judgment as if such Judge were still a Judge of the said Court of Appeal, and were present and taking part in the said judgment. 45 V. c. 6, s. 3.

Presiding Judge in absence of Chief Justice.

16. In the absence of the Chief Justice of Ontario, the Judge entitled to precedence over the other Judges present shall preside. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 14.

Sittings of the Court of Appeal.

17. The Court of Appeal shall subject to the provisions of section 57 of this Act, hold its sittings at the City of Toronto at such times and for such periods as the acting Judges thereof for the time being, or a majority of them, may deem necessary or convenient for the speedy despatch of business. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 15; 44 V. c. 5, s. 19.

Oath of office.

18. The oath to be taken by the Judges to be hereafter appointed shall be the following:—

"I do solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, that I will duly and faithfully, and to the best of my skill and knowledge, execute the powers and trusts reposed in me as ; so help me God."
44 V. c. 5, s. 5.

Administration of oath.

19. The oath is to be administered to the Chief Justices and the Chancellor by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, and to the Justices of the High Court, other than the Chief Justices, in presence of the President of the High Court; and to the Justices of the Court of Appeal in open Court by the Chief Justice of Ontario, unless the Lieutenant-Governor in any of such cases shall otherwise direct. 44 V. c. 5, s. 5.

By C. S. U. C., c. 10, s. 8, and c. 12, s. 8, it was provided that the oath should be administered to the Chief Justices and the Chancellors by or before the "Governor in Council." The R. S. O. c. 39, s. 9, and c. 40, s. 7, required the oath to be taken before the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. Since Confederation the oath has sometimes been taken twice, viz: both before the Governor and the Lieutenant-Governor. The Puisne Judges Sec. 20. of the Common Law Courts have heretofore been sworn in open Court by the Chief Justice of the Court, and the Vice-Chancellors in open Court in presence of the Chancellor. In England the Lord Chancellor takes the oath in presence of Her Majesty in Council, "or otherwise, as Her Majesty may direct": 31 & 32 Vict., c. 72, Sched. 1st part; and the other Judges take the oath in presence of the Lord Chancellor (Jud. Act 1875, sec. 5). The oath taken by the English Judges: 31 & 32 Vict., c. 72, differs a little in form from that given in the present Act, which follows the form hitherto prescribed in this Province: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 7; c. 39, s. 9; c. 40, s 7).

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

JURISDICTION OF HIGH COURT.

Jurisdiction of High Court.

20. The High Court shall be a Superior Court of Record of original jurisdiction, and shall, subject as in this Act mentioned, possess all such powers and authorities, as by the law of England, are incident to a Superior Court of civil and criminal jurisdiction; and shall have, use and exercise all the rights, incidents and privileges of a Court of Record, and all other rights, incidents and privileges as fully to all intents and purposes as the same were on the 5th day of December, 1859, used, exercised and enjoyed by any of Her Majesty's Superior Courts of Common Law at Westminster in England, and may and shall hold plea in all and all manner of actions and causes as well criminal as civil, and may and shall proceed in such actions and causes by such process and course as are provided by law; and as shall tend with justice and despatch to determine the same; and may and shall hear and determine all issues of law; and may and shall also hear and (with or without a jury, as provided by law) determine all issues of fact that may be joined in any such action or cause, and judgment thereon give, and execution thereof award in as full and ample a manner as might, at the said date, be done in Her Majesty's Courts of Queen's Bench, Common Bench, or, in matters which regard the Queen's revenue (including the condemnation of contraband or smuggled goods), by the Court of Exchequer in England. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 4; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

All that the Jud. Act has done is to give the High Court the jurisdiction which either the Courts of Chancery or the Courts of Common Law had before. It has conferred no new right to relief. An action to enforce a charge where the value of the subject matter was under £10 could not have been entertained by any of those courts before the Jud. Act, and therefore cannot now be maintained: Westbury v. Meredith, 30 Ch. D. 387: see Gilbert v. Braithwaite, 3 Chy. Ch. 413; Westbrooke v. Browett, 17 Gr. 339; Reynolds v. Coppin, 19 Gr. 627; Harding v. Cardiff, 29 Gr. 308; Allen v. Lyon, 5 Ont., 615; Shaw v. Freedy, 8 C. L. J. 136.

In Clarbrough v. Toothill, W. N., (1881), 110; 50 L. J. Chy. 743; 18 C. L. J. 101, it was held that where an Act passed before the Judicature Act and referring in terms to a common law action only authorized a certain proceeding, such proceeding might after the Jud. Act be taken in any of the Divisions of the High Court. Sec. 21.

In England it has been held that the prerogative writ of mandamus is still only granted on application to the Q. B. D. : Glossop v. Heston Local Board, 12 Ch. D. 115, 116, 122. In Ont., however, it is different : see notes to s. 53 (8).

Under The Criminal Procedure Act (R. S. C. c. 174) s. 2 h, any division of the High Court is a "Court for Crown cases reserved" under that Act, and by section 3 of that Act, every Superior Court of criminal jurisdiction has power to try any treason, felony, or other indictable offence. The regulation of the procedure in criminal cases is a matter within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament: B. N. A. Act, s. 91, s-s. 27, and proceedings in criminal cases are now regulated for the most part by The Criminal Procedure Act (R. S. C. c. 174).

21. The High Court shall also, subject as in this Act mentioned, have the like jurisdiction and powers as by the laws of England were on the 4th day of March, 1837, possessed by the Court of Chancery in England, in respect of the matters hereinafter enumerated, that is to say: Equitable jurisdiction.

1. In all cases of fraud and accident;

2. In all matters relating to trusts, executors and administrators, co-partnership and account, mortgages, awards, dower, infants, idiots, lunatics and their estates;

3. To stay waste;

4. To compel the specific performance of agreements;

5. To compel the discovery of concealed papers or evidence, or such as may be wrongfully withheld from the party claiming the benefit of the same;

6. To prevent multiplicity of suits;

7. To decree the issue of letters patent from the Crown to rightful claimants;

8. To repeal and avoid letters patent issued erroneously or by mistake, or improvidently, or through fraud. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 34; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1). See also s. 53 (9).

Fraud and Accident.—Fraud, the jurisdiction by this section vested in the High Court, in respect of fraud, is confined to fraud arising in reference to civil rights. A distinction has been attempted to be drawn between acts which are illegal but which are not accompanied by any moral turpitude, and acts which are both illegal and are the result of moral delinquency. The former class of acts have been termed "legal fraud": see Peek v. Derry, 37 Ch. D 541, and the latter "moral fraud," or "actual fraud," but it has been denied that any such distinction exists, and that in all cases where "fraud" is charged it must be supported by proof of moral turpitude: Joliffe v. Baker, 11 Q. B. D. 255; 48 L. T. N. S. 966; Weir v. Barnett, 3 Ex. D. 238, 243 per Bramwell, J.; and see In re Watson 21 Q. B. D. 301; Peek v. Derry, 87 L. T. Jour. 184. It is important that fraud should not be charged where it cannot be supported Fraud.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Sec. 21. by proof of moral turpitude, because where fraud is charged, but not proved, the plaintiff, though successful, may be compelled to pay the costs of the action: Neale v. Winter, 9 Gr. 261, or the costs occasioned by the improper charges: Hodgins v. McNeil, Ib. 305; and see McKenzie v. Yielding, 11 Gr. 406, where a successful defendant, who by his answer had improperly impugned the motives of the plaintiff's solicitor, was disallowed the costs of the answer; or the plaintiff may be denied his costs though successful: Watson v. Watson, 23 Gr. 70; McLaurin v. McDonald, 12 Gr. 82; Hughson v. Davis, 4 Gr. 588.

Where fraud is alleged in any proceeding, the facts must be set out in the statement of claim or petition, as the case may be, which are alleged to amount to fraud, mere general allegations that fraud has been committed are insufficient; Re Rica Gold Washing Co., 11 Ch. D. 36 per Jessel, M. R.

Accident. Accident.—By the term accident is intended not merely casualty, or the act of Providence, or what is technically called vis major, or irresistible force, but such unforseen events, misfortunes, losses, acts, or omissions as are not the result of any negligence or misconduct in the party seeking relief in respect thereof: Story. s. 78. One of the most common instances in which relief is sought under this head is in the case of lost bonds, or other instruments under seal. In such a case relief is usually granted on the terms of the plaintiff giving a bond of indemnity to the defendants: McDonald v. Hime, 15 Gr. 72; but see Macauley v. Boyle, 25 C. P. 339; and where a suit was brought to recover promissory notes alleged to be lost after maturity, and the defendant allowed the bill to go pro confesso indemnity was dispensed with: Abel v. Morrison, 23 Gr. 109. The jurisdiction of the Court also extends to giving relief in respect of instruments which have been destroyed: Frontenac v. Breden, 17 Gr. 645.

Under this head of jurisdiction the Court may also grant relief in the case of a defective execution of a power resulting from accident or mistake, or both, and also in regard to agreements to execute powers which may generally be deemed a species of defective execution: see Sugd. on Pow. 549. But this relief is only granted to persons having some moral right, and where there are no opposing equities. Thus, such relief may be granted in favor of a purchaser: Fothergill v. Fothergill, 2 Freem. 256; under which term a mortgagee, or lessee, are included: Barker v. Hill, 2 Chy. R. 113; Reid v. Shergold 10 Ves. 370; to a creditor: Pollard v. Greenvil, 1 Chy. Ca. 10; Wilkes v. Holmes, 9 Mod. 485; to a wife: Cowp. 267; Clifford v. Burlington, 2 Vern. 379, to a legitimate child; Sarth v. Blanfrey, Gilb. Eq. R. 166; Sneed v. Sneed, Amb. 64; and to a charity: Innes v. Sayer, 7 Ha. 377; 3 Mc. & G. 606; Atty.-Genl. v. Silthorp, 2 R. & M. 107: but not in favor of the donee of the power, nor a husband: Watt v. Watt, 3 Ves. 244; nor an illegitimate child: Tudor v. Anson, 2 Ves. Sr. 582; nor a grandchild: Watt v. Bullas, 1 P. Wms. 60; nor of remote relations, or volunteers: Smith v. Ashton, 1 Freem. 308.

Under this head of jurisdiction, personal representatives who have by mistake overpaid creditors, or legatees, beyond the amount they are justly entitled to receive, may recover the overpayment: Edwards v. Freeman, 2 P. Wms. 447; Hawkins v. Day, Amb. 160; Story s. 90.

But relief cannot be given from the consequences of a positive contract; thus, a lessee cannot get relief from payment of rent because of the destruction of the demised premises by accident: Pym v. Blackburn, 3 Ves. 34, 38; Story s. 101; nor can relief be given on the ground of accident to a party whose own gross negligence or fault has caused the accident: Ex p. Greenway, 6 Ves. 812.

Trusts. Trusts.—The jurisdiction in respect of trusts was formerly a part of the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery. By the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2, c. 3,) s. 7. All declarations or creations of trust or confidences, of any lands, tenements or hereditaments, shall be manifested and proved by some writing signed by the party who is by law enabled to declare such trusts, or by his last will in writing; and by sec. 9, all grants and assignments of any trust or confidence shall likewise be in writing, signed by the party granting or assigning the same, or by his last will. Section 3 makes two exceptions from the statute: (1) trusts arising or resulting from any conveyance of lands or tenements, by implication, or construction of law; (2) trusts transferred or extinguished by an act or operation of law. Trusts of chattels real must be evidenced by writing: Forster v. Hale, 3 Ves. 695; Riddle v. Emerson, 1 Vern. 108, but not trusts of chattels personal: McPhadden v. Jenkins, 1 Ph. 153; Benbow v. Townsend, 1 My. & K. 506. Sec. 21.

A trust of lands in a foreign country may be enforced by the High Court where the trustee is resident within its jurisdiction: Smith v. Henderson, 17 Gr. 6; and see Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 22 Gr. 449.

The Court has jurisdiction under the English Trustee Acts (10 & 11 Vict. c. 96; 13 & 14 Vict., c. 60; and 15 & 16 Vict., c. 55), which are virtually re-enacted in this Province: see post ss. 22, 23; Re Hodges, 1 Gr. 289; Taylor & Ewart, Jud. Act, pp. [136-176].

Under the provisions of these Acts the Court has power to appoint new trustees upon a summary application: Re Helliwell, 21 Gr. 346; Re Dillon, 3 C. L. J. 126.

The Court is authorized to allow trustees under any deed, settlement or will compensation for their services: R. S. O. c. 110, s. 38.

Executors and Administrators.—The jurisdiction of the Court over personal representatives authorizes it to entertain actions or proceedings to compel them to account for their administration: see Rules 965-988; to fix the compensation to be paid to them for their services: R. S. O. cap. 110, sec. 38; to control their management of the estate of their testator, or intestate, and if necessary to restrain them from exercising their office, and to appoint a receiver or other person to act in their stead: Harrold v. Wallis, 9 Gr. 443; Re Moore, McAlpin v. Moore, 21 Ch. D. 778; Re Murphy, before Boyd, C., 9 April, 1887; and an injunction may be granted at the instance of an executor against his co-executor to restrain him from intermeddling with the estate before probate: In re Moore, Kerr v. Moore, 58 L. T. N. S. 386. Executors, etc.

Co-partnership.—The Court of Chancery formerly exercised a concurrent jurisdiction with the Courts of Common Law in partnership cases, but in all cases of difficulty and complexity the equity jurisdiction was resorted to. Under this head the Court has power to entertain actions for the specific performance of agreements to enter into partnership for a definite term: Buxton v. Lister, 3 Atk. 385; England v. Curling, 8 Beav. 129; but not where no specified time for the duration of the partnership has been named: Hercy v. Birch, 9 Ves. 357. It has also power to enforce the specific performance of articles of partnership: Somerville v. McKay, 16 Ves. 382; England v. Curling, 8 Beav. 129; Miles v. Thomas, 9 Sim. 606, 609; Marshall v. Watson, 25 Beav. 501; Haggart v. Allan, 4 Gr. 36; but not where damages would be an adequate compensation: Street v. Rigby, 6 Ves. 815; British Empire Shipping Co. v. Somes, 3 K. & J. 433; nor where the partnership is in contravention of any public Act: Collins v. Swindle, 6 Gr. 282. Partnership.

It has also power to decree a dissolution of partnership: Rawlins v. Wickham, 1 Giff. 355; Hue v. Richards, 2 Beav. 305; Newton v. Doran, 1 Gr. 590; O'Lone v. O'Lone, 2 Gr. 125; and to appoint a receiver of the partnership assets: Prentiss v. Brennan, 2 Gr. 274; Ib. 322; Rule 116, note; and to decree the taking of the partnership accounts. The Court has also power to entertain an action to establish a partnership: Bingham v. Smith, 16 Gr. 373; and to decree an account up to the time of the commencement of the action, even where a dissolution is not asked: Loscombe v. Russell, 4 Sim. 8; Fairthorne v. Weston, 3 Ha. 387.

Account.—In this respect the Court of Chancery formerly also exercised a concurrent jurisdiction with the Courts of Law, but owing to its superior machinery for compelling discovery, and taking accounts, it practically exercised an almost exclusive jurisdiction in all cases of any complication. Under this head of jurisdiction the Court entertains actions for an account brought by a principal against his agent: McKenzie v. Johnston, 4 Mod. 373; Kerr v. Lafferty, 7 Gr. 412; Ridley v. Sexton, 18 Gr. 580; 19 Gr. 146; Arthurton v. Dalley, 2 Gr. 1; Wright v. Rankin, 18 Gr. 625; M'Lean v. Grant, 20 Gr. 76; Smith v. Henderson, 17 Gr. 6; Harrison v. Harrison, 14 Gr. 586; Landman v. Crooks, 4 Gr. 353; but not by an agent against his principal: Padwick Account.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Sec. 21. v. Stanley, 9 Ha. 627; Smith v. Leveaux, 2 D. J. & S. 1. An action for an account will lie where there are mutual accounts between the plaintiff and defendant, i.e., where each has received and paid on account of the other: Phillips v. Phillips, 9 Ha. 471; or by cestui que trust against his trustee; or by creditors, legatees, or next of kin against personal representatives; or by a client against his solicitor; or by partners against each other; or by a mortgagor against his mortgagee, or vice versa; or where the accounts are complicated; or where fraud is charged; or by any party having a statutory right to call another to account, e.g., by a municipal corporation against a registrar of deeds for an account of moneys received by him in excess of his salary, to which excess the corporation is entitled: Re Ingersoll, Gray v. Ingersoll, 16 Ont. 194.

See further as to proceedings in taking accounts: Rule 57, et seq. and notes.

Mortgages. Mortgages.—At Common Law the right of a mortgagee to the mortgaged property was, on default in payment of the mortgage, absolute; but in Equity, notwithstanding the mortgage, or default in payment, the mortgagor was still regarded as the owner of the mortgaged property, and the mortgage was considered merely as a security for the debt. In order to give effect to the equitable rights of the parties Equity had formerly an exclusive jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of the Court in respect of mortgages extends to actions by mortgagors against mortgagees to redeem, or by mortgagees against mortgagors and others interested in the equity of redemption for the foreclosure of their right to redeem, or for the sale of the mortgaged property. As to the mode in which this jurisdiction is exercised: see Rules 248, 341*a*, 717, 718, 124, 137, and notes.

Awards. Awards.—The Court of Chancery had formerly a concurrent jurisdiction with Courts of Law in respect of awards. The Court has power to set aside awards: Lawson v. Hutchinson, 19 Gr. 84; Edward v. Gordon, 12 Gr. 333; Kemp v. Henderson, 10 Gr. 54; Jekyll v. Wade, 8 Gr. 363; Hickman v. Lawson, 8 Gr. 386; Gillam v. Cleghorn, 7 Gr. 83. But an award was not impeachable in Equity on the ground that it was erroneous in either law or fact, unless the error appeared on its face. The cases in which the Court of Chancery could interfere were those in which such an error so appeared; or where there had been corruption, fraud, or excess of jurisdiction; or where the arbitrators making the award admitted that they had made a mistake: Re Grant & Eastwood, 22 Gr. 563; Pardee v. Lloyd, 26 Gr. 374; and see Le May v. McRae, 16 Ont. App. 348; Re Harvey & Parkdale, 16 Ont. 372. The Court of Chancery could also enforce awards: Armstrong v. Cayley, 2 Chy. Ch. 128, 163; Wilson v. Switzer, 1 Chy. Ch. 44, and see Bell v. Miller, 9 Gr. 385; Hodder v. Turvey, 20 Gr. 63; where specific performance was decreed: Darnley v. London, Chatham & Dover Ry. Co., L. R. 2, H. L. 43; Blackett v. Bates, L. R. 1 Chy. 117; Nickels v. Hancock, 7 D. M. & G. 300. Formerly it was customary in Chancery to make the award a rule of Court as a preliminary to proceeding to enforce it: White v. Kerby, 2 Chy. Ch. 452; Wadsworth v. McDougall, 5 Gr. 290; Allan v. O'Neal, 2 Chy. Ch. 452; but at law the practice was to make only the submission a rule of Court, and this latter practice it is said should now be followed in the High Court: see per Jessel, M.R., Jones v. Jones, 14 Ch. D. 594-5, and see In re Gifford, 20 Q. B. D. 368; but as to awards made since 1 July, 1889, see now 52 Vict., c. 13 (O).

An award must be moved against within the term following its publication or within the period which such term formerly occupied: Kean v. Edwards, 12 P. R. 625; but see now 52 Vict., c. 13, ss. 4-6, as to awards made since 1 July, 1889.

Dower. Dower.—The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery was formerly concurrent with that of the Courts of Law in actions to enforce claims for dower: Craig v. Templeton, 8 Gr. 483; Grieve v. Woodruff, 1 Ont. App. 617. Damages for detention of dower cannot be recovered where the husband does not die seised, even though a demand of dower be made: Morgan v. Morgan, 15 Ont. 194.

The Court had jurisdiction to compel a widow to elect between the provision made for her by her deceased husband's will and her dower, whenever it was inconsistent with the testator's intention to be collected from his will, that she should enjoy both: Lapp v. Lapp, 16 Gr. 159; Murphy v. Murphy, 25 Gr. 81;

Ripley v. Ripley, 28 Gr. 610; Laidlaw v. Jackes, 25 Gr. 293; 27 Gr. 101; Sec. 21.
Patrick v. Shaver, 21 Gr. 123; Armstrong v. Armstrong, 21 Gr. 351; McGregor v. McGregor, 20 Gr. 450; Coleman v. Glanville, 18 Gr. 42; Lee v. McKindy, 18 Gr. 527; Hutchinson v. Sargent, 16 Gr. 78; McLennan v. Grant, 15 Gr. 65; Kerr v. Leishman, 8 Gr. 435: and where a dowress has made her election she may be restrained from afterwards prosecuting an action for dower: Westacott v. Cockerline, 13 Gr. 79.

Infants.—The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery over infants, was partly Infants. exclusive, and partly concurrent, with that of the Superior Courts of Common Law. As regards the custody of the persons of infants, it was concurrent with that of the Courts of Law; but as regards their estates, it was exclusive.

As regards the persons of infants, the Court of Chancery could make order for their custody, education, and maintenance, and appoint guardians of their persons: Re Keith, 7 P. R. 138; McNabb v. McInnes, 25 Gr. 144; Re Irwin, 16 Gr. 461; Murphy v. Lamphier, 12 Gr. 241; Anon, 6 Gr. 632. The Surrogate Courts had a concurrent jurisdiction with the Court of Chancery to appoint guardians of the persons and estates of infants: Re Stannard, 1 Ch., Ch. 15; Re McQueen, 23 Gr. 191.

As regards the custody of infants: see Re Keith, 7 P. R. 138; Re Gillrie,, 3 Gr. 279; Re Davis, 3 Ch., Ch., 277; Andrews v. Salt, 8 Chy. 622; Re Smart, 12 P. R. 312, 435, S. C. in appeal, 24 C. L. J., 569; and see R. S. O., c. 137, ss. 1, 2, 10, 13, in notes to sec. 53 (11), whereby important changes were made in the law relating to the custody and guardianship of infants.

Formerly there was a conflict between the Courts of Law and Equity as to whether a testamentary guardian could be interfered with: see Re Andrews, L. R. 8 Q. B. 153; Andrews v. Salt, 8 Chy. 622; but the power to remove testamentary guardians is now expressly given to the Court by statute: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 16. Formerly it was not customary for the Court of Chancery to exercise jurisdiction in regard to an infant, unless the infant had some property in respect of which the jurisdiction could be invoked: Wellesley v. Beaufort, 2 Russ. 21; Clayton v. Clarke, 3 D. F. & J. 682; but the right of the Court to exercise jurisdiction is not considered to be limited to cases in which the property of the infant is involved: Re Spence, 2 Ph. 247; Re Tynn, 2 Dr. & S. 481; Re Smart, 12 P. R. 312, 435. Any suit relating to the estate or person of an infant and for his benefit has now the effect of making him, whether plaintiff or defendant, a ward of Court: Gynn v. Gilbard, 1 Dr. & S. 356: Re Berte, 9 H. L. C. 440; Pendleton v. Macrory, 2 Dick, 736.

The Court, upon an application for a habeas corpus by a father to obtain the custody of his children, cannot require the applicant to proceed by way of petition in order that the facts may be better inquired into: Re Smart, 24 C. L. J. 569.

The Court has power to order the sale of infants' estates when necessary to provide for their maintenance or education, or when by reason of any part of the property being exposed to dilapidation or depreciation from any other cause, the infant's interest requires it: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 3. The Court may also make provision out of an infant's estate for his maintenance and education: Ashbough v. Ashbough, 10 Gr. 430; R. S. O. c. 137, s. 7.

Idiots and Lunatics.—The Court of Chancery formerly exercised an Lunatics.
exclusive jurisdiction over the persons and estates of idiots and lunatics. This jurisdiction is now regulated, so far as regards obtaining declarations of lunacy and providing for the sale of lunatics' estates, and for their custody and maintenance and the payment of their debts, by R. S. O. c. 54.

Staying Waste.—The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery to stay waste Waste. was part of the concurrent jurisdiction of the Court which was exercised by means of injunction. The jurisdiction of Equity originally arose in England on account of the incompetency of the Courts of Law to give adequate relief. The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery was originally confined to cases of what was by a somewhat misleading use of words called "equitable waste," meaning thereby acts which were deemed waste only in Courts of Equity, and for which no action would lie at law; and to cases where no waste had been

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Sec. 21. actually committed, but was threatened; but by late statutes the jurisdiction was extended, and the Court was enabled to grant an injunction to restrain waste, notwithstanding that the party in possession claimed by an adverse legal title: R. S. O. (1877) c. 40, s. 39; Wightman v. Fields, 19 Gr. 559. This clause is now superseded by s. 53, s-s. 2 post: see R. S. O. p. 2087, which in effect abolishes the distinction between legal and equitable waste, by taking away from a tenant for life without impeachment of waste, the legal right to commit equitable waste. See, however, In re Cartwright, Avis v. Newman, 41 Ch. D. 532.

A mortgagee of a term of years being in possession, may, at the suit of the mortgagor, be restrained from committing waste, even though he have obtained the consent of the reversioner: Chisholm v. Sheldon, 1 Gr. 318.

A mortgagor in possession will not be restrained from cutting timber for fuel, fencing, or repairs upon the premises, but if the security is scanty he will be restrained from cutting timber for other purposes, at the suit of the mortgagee: Russ v. Mills, 7 Gr. 145; King v. Smith, 2 Ha. 239; or at suit of an execution creditor: Wason v. Carpenter, 13 Gr. 329.

An injunction has been granted to restrain waste pending litigation to the ownership of the property: Christie v. Long, 3 Gr. 630; and an injunction has also been granted to restrain waste in favour of an unpaid vendor against a vendee and his assignee: Lawrence v. Judge, 2 Gr. 301; Ferrier v. Kerr, 2 Gr. 668; Mitchell v. McGaffey, 6 Gr. 361; Walsh v. Brown, 4 U. C. L. J. 68; McLean v. Burton, 24 Gr. 134; Summers v. Cook, 28 Gr. 179. A tenant for life who is not entitled to hold without impeachment of waste, may be restrained from committing any waste in an action at the suit of the remainderman: Clow v. Clow, 4 Ont. 355; but see Drake v. Wigle, 22 C. P. 341; Saunders v. Breakie, 5 Ont. 603; Munsie v. Lindsay, 10 P. R. 173, and where the tenant for life holds his estate without impeachment of waste, if he is guilty of malicious, extravagant, or capricious waste, that was formerly called "equitable waste" and may be restrained at the suit of the reversioner or remainderman: Garth v. Cotton, 1 L. C. Eq. 806; Vane v. Barnard, 2 Vern 738; Rolf v. Somerville, 2 Eq. Ca. Abr. 759; Morris v. Morris, 15 Sim. 505; Micklethwait v. Micklethwait, 1 De. G. & J. 519; Turner v. Wright, 2 D. F. & J. 234; Talbot v. Hope-Scott, 4 K. & J. 96; and see s. 53, s-s. 2 post. He cannot be restrained from merely permissive waste: see In re Cartwright, Avis v. Newman, 41 Ch. D. 532.

A tenant in tail in possession cannot be restrained from committing waste: Turner v. Wright, Joh. 752; Saville's case Mos. 224, 1 L. C. Eq. 13, except after possibility of issue extinct; Attorney-General v. Marlborough, 3 Madd. 538; Abrahall v. Bubb, 2 Sw. 172.

Where the plaintiff has slumbered on his rights: Hughson v. Cook, 20 Gr. 238; or the injury is trifling: Bernard v. Gibson, 21 Gr. 195, an injunction will be refused.

Specific performance.

Specific Performance.—The jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery to decree specific performance of contracts was discretionary, but the exercise of this discretion was regulated by certain fixed rules and principles: Lumare v. Dixon, L. R. 6 H. L. 414. Speaking generally, the Court of Chancery refused to decree specific performance of contracts or obligations except in those cases in which there was no adequate remedy at law for breach of the agreement, and in which the Court could superintend and enforce the execution of its decree: Johnson v. Montreal & City of Ottawa Ry., 22 Gr. 290. Agreements for the sale or leasing of land will be specifically enforced: Dennison v. Kennedy, 7 Gr. 342; Simmons v. Campbell, 17 Gr. 612; even when made by parol, if there have been acts of part performance: Shennan v. Parsill, 18 Gr. 8; Butler v. Church, 16 Gr. 205; McDonald v. McKinnon, 26 Gr. 12; but payment of the whole, or part, of the purchase money is not an act of part performance sufficient to admit parol evidence of a contract for the sale of lands: Johnson v. The Canada Co., 5 Gr., 558; the acts of part performance relied on must be such as cannot be referred to any other than the alleged contract: Sexton v. Shell, 6 U. C. L. J. 94. As to how far signing the deed, without delivery by the vendor, is part performance, or evidence to satisfy the Statute of Frauds: see Gillately v. White, 18 Gr. 1; McClung v. McCracken, 3 Ont. 596. Sec. 21.

The sale and specific delivery of chattels may be enforced when damages would manifestly be an inadequate compensation. So also the specific delivery of heirlooms: Pusey v. Pusey, 1 L. C. Eq. 961; Somerset v. Cookson, 1 L. C. Eq. 961; or chattels of unique value: Falke v. Gray, 4 Drew 651; Dowling v. Betljemann, 2 J. & H. 544; Thorn v. Commissioners of Works, 32 Beav. 490; Elwes v. Brigg Gas Co., 33 Ch. D. 562; 55 L. T. N. S. 831; may be enforced: but specific delivery of merchandise will not usually be decreed: Buxton v. Lister, 3 Atk. 384; Fothergill v. Rowland, 17 Eq. 141; but a contract relating to saw logs has been specifically enforced: Farewell v. Wallbridge, 6 Gr. 634; Flint v. Corby, 4 Gr. 45; Stevenson v. Clark, Ib. 541; Fuller v. Richmond, 2 Gr. 24; 4 Gr. 657. Specific performance.

An agreement for the allotment of shares in a company, if any shares remain available, may be specifically enforced: Price v. Denbigh Ry. Co., 17 W. R. 572; Ferguson v. Wilson, 2 Chy. 77; Canada Life Assce. Co. v. Peel Manufact'g Co., 26 Gr. 477. Agreements for the sale of shares in companies: Duncuft v. Albrecht, 12 Sim. 190; Cheale v. Kenward, 3 D. & J. 27; Turner v. Moy, 32 L. T. N. S. 56; for the sale of patents: Cogent v. Gibson, 32 Beav. 557; or future inventions: Printing Co. v. Sampson, 19 Eq. 462; for the sale of good will with business premises, and fixtures: Smith v. Peters, 20 Eq. 511; Mossop v. Mason, 18 Gr. 453; 17 Gr. 360; 16 Gr. 302; or with plant and trade secret; Bryson v. Whitehead, 1 S. & S. 74; but not of good-will only: Baxter v. Connoly, 1 J. & W. 580. A contract between several manufacturers not to sell goods manufactured by them below a stipulated price may be enforced: The Ontario Salt Co. v. The Merchants Salt Co., 18 Gr. 540; as also agreements not to trade within reasonable limits: see Holcomb v. Nixon, 5 Gr. 278, 373.

As to specific performance of awards, and contracts relating to partnerships, see supra.

Agreements for the execution of separation deeds may be enforced: Wilson v. Wilson, 1 H. L. C. 538.

Sometimes where the Court cannot decree specific performance of a positive part of a contract, if the contract includes a separate negative contract, the latter may be enforced; e. g., an agreement by a singer to sing at a particular place cannot be enforced, nor an agreement by a writer to write for a particular publisher; but if the agreement also provides that the singer is not to sing elsewhere without the consent of the plaintiff, or that the writer will not write for any other publisher during the engagement, the negative agreement may be enforced: Lumley v. Wagner, 1 D. M. & G. 604; Rolfe v. Rolfe, 15 Sim. 88; Stiff v. Cassell, 2 Jur. N. S. 348; Daggett v. Ryman, 16 W. R. 302.

Discovery.—This was formerly a part of the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, but, even before the Judicature Act, the Common Law Courts were empowered to compel discovery; see R. S. O. (1877) c. 50, ss. 156, et seq.; 41 Vict. c. 8, s. 9. Discovery is now an incidental part of the relief which may be obtained in every action. This may be obtained by a plaintiff against a defendant, and by a defendant against a plaintiff. The method of obtaining discovery is prescribed by Rules 487-524. Actions for discovery only, in aid of a foreign action, will not be entertained: Dreyfus v. Peruvian Guano Co., 41 Ch. D. 151. Discovery.

Multiplicity of Suits.—The mode by which a multiplicity of suits in reference to the same matter, was avoided in the Court of Chancery, was by requiring all persons interested in the subject matter of the litigation to be made parties either as plaintiffs or defendants in one suit; but as this general rule sometimes operated inconveniently it was in certain classes of cases provided that some only of the persons interested need be made parties, and that those who were not made parties should be sufficiently represented by those who were made parties, and should be bound by the proceedings as if they had been themselves parties. This method of procedure is perpetuated: see Rules 300-311, 315-316, 320-322 and notes; or else it was provided that the parties interested need not all, be made original defendants, but might be added as defendants at a later stage of the proceedings: see Rule 306. Multiplicity of suits.

Sec. 21. Decreeing issue or cancellation of patents.

Decreeing the Issue, or Cancellation of Patents.—The jurisdiction conferred on the High Court by this section to decree the issue or cancellation of patents is probably confined to patents issued by the Provincial Government. But under the C. S. C. c. 61, s. 34, the Court has also power to decree the cancellation of patents for invention issued by the Dominion Government; and may also entertain actions to restrain the infringement of such patents, and for damages therefor: Ib. s. 30; Hunter v. Carrick, 28 Gr. 489; 10 Ont. App. 449; 11 S. C. R. 300; Smith v. Goldie, 7 Ont. App. 628. A prior patent to a person who is not the true inventor is no defence to an action by the true inventor under a subsequent patent: Smith v. Goldie, 9 S. C. R. 46. The Court of Chancery would formerly rescind a patent for land improperly granted by the Provincial Government, although the grant were voidable, or even void at law: Martin v. Kennedy, 2 Gr. 80. But it would not set aside a patent issued upon a deliberate view of all the circumstances, when there was no fraud or mistake: Simpson v. Grant, 5 Gr. 267; Boulton v. Jeffrey, 1 E. & A. 111; Barnes v. Boomer, 10 Gr. 532; Kennedy v. Lowlor, 14 Gr. 224; and see Farmer v. Livingstone, 8 S. C. R. 140; even though the patent issued contrary to a report of the Heir and Devisee Commissioners as to the party entitled: McDiarmid v. McDiarmid, 9 Gr. 144; nor if the plaintiff had an opportunity of bringing the material facts to the attention of the officers of the Crown before the patent issued, and neglected to do so: Mahon v. McLean, 13 Gr. 361. But a patent issued in error might be rescinded; e. g. where a patent issued to a third party after another party had contracted to purchase, and had gone into possession of the land: Martyn v. Kennedy, 4 Gr. 61; Attorney-General v. Hill, 8 Gr. 532; or when it issued without proper consideration by the officers of the Crown of all the facts; Fricht v. Scheck, 10 Gr. 254; or had issued to A., when an order-in-council had been passed for the grant of the land to B.: Attorney-General v. Garbutt, 5 Gr. 383; and see Saugeen v. Church Society, 6 Gr. 538.

The Attorney-General is a proper party to such actions whenever the person to whom the patent has issued would be entitled to compensation if the patent be rescinded: Ib; Rees v. Attorney-General, 16 Gr. 467; and see McIntyre v. Attorney-General, 14 Gr. 86; but if the case made by the plaintiff is one of fraud, and the patentee would not be entitled to any compensation on the patent being set aside, then the Attorney-General is not a necessary party: Rees v. Attorney-General, 16 Gr. 467; and see Cosgrove v. Corbett, 14 Gr. 617; Lawrence v. Pomeroy, 9 Gr. 474; but see Attorney-General v. McNulty, 8 Gr. 324; 11 Gr. 281, 581; Westbrooke v. Attorney-General, 11 Gr. 330; Mutchmore v. Davis, 14 Gr. 346, where the Attorney-General appears to have been a party though the patent was impeached for fraud.

The Court may be unable to grant relief where innocent parties have acquired a title under the impeached patent: Proctor v. Grant, 9 Gr. 26, 224; but see Stevens v. Cook, 10 Gr. 410.

The Court by virtue of its jurisdiction to decree the issue of patents, would not, however, entertain a suit for the specific performance of an order in council for the grant of land: Simpson v. Grant, 5 Gr. 267.

Rules of decision in such cases.

22. The rules of decision in the said matters in the last preceding section mentioned shall, except where otherwise provided, be the same as governed the Court of Chancery in England, in like cases, on the 4th day of March, 1837. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 35; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

This section must be read in connection with the rest of the statute law of this Province; and wherever any provincial statute modifies what was the law or rules of decision of the Court of Chancery in England in like cases on the 4th March, 1837, then the express provisions of the provincial statutes must control the decision of the High Court rather than those rules which governed the Court of Chancery in England at the date above mentioned: see Smith v. The Methodist Church, 16 Ont. 199.

Sec. 22. Imperial Statutes passed prior to 1837, how far in force.

By R. S. O. c. 93 s. 1, it is provided that in all matters of controversy relative to property and civil rights, resort shall continue to be had to the laws of England as they stood on the 15th Oct., 1792, as the rule for the decision of the same, and all matters relative to testimony and legal proof in the investigation of fact and the forms thereof in the several courts of Ontario shall continue to be regulated by the rules of evidence established in England as they existed on the day and year last aforesaid—except so far as the said laws and rules have been since repealed, altered, varied, modified or affected by any Act of the Imperial Parliament still having the force of law in Ontario, or by any Act of the late Province of Upper Canada or of the Province of Canada, or of the Province of Ontario still having the force of law in Ontario or by the Revised Statutes. So far as the rules of decision of the English Court of Chancery were, "relative to property and civil rights," on the 4th March, 1837, affected by Imperial statutes passed subsequently to the 15th Oct., 1792, this section seems to give to those Imperial statutes the force of law in this Province, but this point is not free from doubt: see Harrison v. Spencer, 15 Ont. 692. If that decision is correct, it may be a somewhat difficult question to determine how far, if at all, Imperial statutes affecting property and civil rights passed subsequently to the 15th Oct., 1792, but prior to 4th March, 1837, and which controlled the rules of decision of the English Court of Chancery on 4th March, 1837, are incorporated into the law of Ontario by sect. 22.

In a recent case it was held that the Imperial statute known as The Thellusson Act (39 & 40 Geo. 3 c. 9) was not in force in Ontario: Harrison v. Spencer, 15 Ont. 692; but since that decision it has by 52 V. c. 10 s. 1 been declared to have been, and to be in force. In Hodgins v. McNeil, 9 Gr. 305, it was held that Lord Lyndhurst's Act (5 & 6 W. 4 c. 54) relating to marriage between a man and his deceased wife's sister, had not been introduced into this Province. But in Re Hodges, 1 Gr. 285, it was held that where a mortgagee died intestate, leaving an infant heir, after a decree for foreclosure, but before final order, and the executor revived the suit and obtained the final order, that the infant heir was a person seized upon trust within the meaning of the Imperial statute 11 Geo. 4, 1 W. 4 c. 60 s. 6 (since repealed by Imperial statute 13 & 14 Vict. c. 60) and that under that Act he might be ordered on a petition, without suit, to convey the land to the executor, or to a purchaser from the executor: see now R. S. O. c. 110 s. 16 and c. 108 s. 4, whereunder the personal representative has now a legal title. So also it has been held that the Imperial statutes known as the Trustee Relief Acts 10 & 11 Vict. c. 96; 13 & 14 Vict. c. 60; and 15 & 16 Vict. c. 55): Morgan & Chute, Chy. Acts & Orders pp. 63-117 are in force in this Province: see Taylor & Ewart Jud. Act. pp. [136-176]; Re Lash, 1 Ch. Ch. 226; Re Kingsland, 15 C. L. J. 85; Re Croskery, 16 Ont. 207.

How far English statutes are made operative in Ontario must depend on the judicial construction of the Provincial statute by which they are claimed to have been introduced. In the cases which follow, questions arose as to how far the Imperial statutes referred to therein were in force. In Stinson v. Pennock, 14 Gr. 604, it was held that the Imperial statute 14 Geo. 3 c. 78, which provides for the application of insurance moneys in the re-building of the premises destroyed, upon the application of a mortgagee, had been made a part of our provincial law; but in the later case of Carr v. Fire Assurance Assocn., 14 Ont. 487, this decision was followed though with doubt. The Imperial Parliament has power by express words to apply its enactments to this country; see B. N. A. Act and 31 Geo. 3 c. 31; Attorney-General v. Grassett, 5 Gr. 412; 6 Gr. 200; 59 Geo. 3 c. 69; Regina v. Schram, 14 C. P. 318, and see Regina v. Sherman, 17 C. P. 167; Regina v. Slavin, 17 C. P. 205; but without such express words, or some necessary implication to be drawn therefrom, they do not apply: see Penley v. Beacon Assce. Co., 10 Gr. 422 per Vankoughnet, C.

The 9 Geo. 2 c. 36, commonly (though erroneously) called the Mortmain Act has, after some conflict of opinion, been held to have been introduced in Ontario: Doe d. Anderson v. Todd, 2 U. C. Q. B. 82; Hallock v. Wilson, 7 C. P. 28; Mercer v. Hewston, 9 C. P. 349; Davidson v. Boomer, 15 Gr. 1, 218;

Sec. 23. Imperial Statutes, how far in force in Ontario.

Hambly v. Fuller, 22 C. P. 141; Ferguson v. Gibson, 22 Gr. 36; Whitby v. Liscombe, 23 Gr. 1; Smith v. The Methodist Church, 16 Ont. 199; Butland v. Gillespie, 16 Ont. 486.

Whether the Imperial Marriage Act 26 Geo. 2 c. 33, is in force in Ontario has been the subject of a judicial difference of opinion: see Regina v. Secker, 14 U. C. Q. B. 604; Hodgins v. McNeil, 9 Gr, 305; Regina v. Bell, 15 U. C. Q. B. 287.

It has been held that the law of England in respect to the rights and powers of rectors of churches as to the land vested in them as such, is in force in this Province: Lyster v. Kirkpatrick, 26 U. C. Q. B. 217; and see Kirkpatrick v. Lyster, 13 Gr. 323; 16 Gr. 17. Lyster v. Kirkpatrick was decided in reference to a rectory established by the Crown under 31 Geo. 3 c. 31 ss. 38, 39, but there can be little doubt that the enabling and restraining statutes of Henry 8 and Elizabeth apply also to lands vested in bishops and incumbents in right of their offices under the Church Temporalities Act (3 Vict. c. 74), s. 16.

The Nullum Tempus Act 9 Geo. 3 c. 16, was held to be in force, but it does not apply to unsurveyed waste lands of the Crown: Regina v. McCormick, 18 U. C. Q. B. 131.

The Imperial statute 12 Geo. 2 c. 28, against lotteries has been held to be in force in Ontario: Cronyn v. Widder, 16 U. C. Q. B. 356; Corby v. McDaniel, 16 U. C. Q. B. 378; Marshall v. Platt, 8 C. P. 189; Loyd v. Clark, 11 C. P. 248; Cronyn v. Griffths, 18 U. C. Q. B. 396; but see now R. S. C. c. 159 ss. 2-8.

Imperial Statute once adopted does not cease to be operative on its repeal in England.

An Imperial statute once introduced in Ontario does not cease to operate even though repealed in England, until also repealed in Ontario; thus the Imperial statute 22 Geo. 3 c. 46, which relates among other things to attorneys sharing their business with persons not admitted, though repealed in England is in force in Ontario: Dunne v. O'Reilly, 11 C. P. 404; and see Andrew v. White, 18 U. C. Q. B. 170.

1 W. & M. c. 18, relating to disturbances in church is held to be in force, and not superseded by R. S. C. c. 15, s. 2: Reid v. Inglis, 12 C. P. 191.

So also the Imperial statute 5 & 6 Edward 6 c. 16, against buying and selling offices, was held to have been introduced as part of our criminal law by 40 Geo. 3 c. 1; and see 49 Geo. 3 c. 126; Regina v. Mercer, 17 U. C. Q. B. 602: Regina v. Moodie, 20 U. C. Q. B. 389.

So also the Imperial statute 26 Geo. 3 c. 86 s. 2, which provides that owners of ships shall not be liable for any loss or damage which may happen to any goods shipped on any such vessel by reason or means of any fire happening to such ship is held to be in force in Ontario: Torrance v. Smith, 3 C. P. 411; Hearle v. Ross, 15 U. C. Q. B. 259.

So also many cases have judicially recognized the fact that the Statute of Frauds (29 Car. 2 c. 3): Dickson v. Jacques, 31 U. C. Q. B. 141; McCarthy v. Cooper, 12 Ont. App. 284; and the Imperial Statute of Limitation, 21 Jac. 1 c. 16 (see R. S. O. c. 60 s. 6) are in force in Ontario.

Jurisdiction in cases where formerly no adequate remedy at law.

23. The High Court shall have the like jurisdiction and power as the Court of Chancery in England possessed on the 10th day of June, 1857, as a Court of Equity to administer justice in all cases in which there existed no adequate remedy at law. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 36; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

This section confers upon the High Court all the powers of the English Court of Chancery on 10th June, 1857, whether derived from the Common Law, or statutory enactment: see Re Hodges, 1 Gr. at p. 289, per Esten, V.C. The general words of this section, however, are controlled by other express enactments of the Provincial Legislature. See sec. 22, notes supra.

Secs. 24, 25. Jurisdiction in matters of revenue.

24. The High Court shall have the like equitable jurisdiction in matters of revenue as the Court of Exchequer in England possessed on the 18th day of March, 1865. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 37 ; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

This section in the Revised Statutes of 1877 was taken from 28 Vict. c. 17, s. 2, and was confined in its terms to the Court of Chancery. The Courts of Law appear also to have had jurisdiction both legal and equitable in matters of revenue : see R. S. O., 1877, c. 39, s. 4 ; and see s. 20 supra. Prior to 28 Vict. c. 17, s. 2, it had been held that the Court of Chancery had no equitable jurisdiction in revenue cases : see Norwich v. Attorney-General, 2 E. & A. 541 ; Miller v. Attorney-General, 9 Gr. 558 ; and even after equitable jurisdiction in revenue cases had been conferred on the Court of Chancery, it was held that the Court had no jurisdiction to relieve against the forfeiture of a recognizance of bail in a criminal case, which had been estreated into a court of Quarter Sessions : Rastall v. Attorney-General, 17 Gr. 1 ; 18 Gr. 138 ; but it was held that the Crown might proceed in Chancery for dues alleged to be fraudulently withheld, although there were no equitable circumstances connected with the demand : Attorney-General v. Walker, 25 Gr. 233.

Relief against forfeiture for breach of covenant to insure in certain cases. Imp. Act 22-23 V. c. 35, s. 4.

25. The High Court shall have power to relieve against a forfeiture for breach of a covenant or condition in any lease to insure against loss or damage by fire, where no loss or damage by fire has happened, and the breach has, in the opinion of the Court, been committed through accident or mistake, or otherwise without fraud or gross negligence, and there is an insurance on foot at the time of the application to the Court in conformity with the convenant to insure, upon such terms as to the Court may seem fit. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 49 ; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

Under the general jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery now vested in the High Court independently of this section, it has power to relieve against forfeitures in cases other than those provided for in this section : see sec. 58, s-s. 3 post. Wherever a penalty or a forfeiture is imposed to secure the performance of some act, or the enjoyment of some right or benefit, if the breach of the act, or the withholding of the right or benefit can be adequately compensated in money, relief from the penalty or forfeiture may be decreed : e. g., where the payment of a larger sum is imposed in the event of failure to pay a stipulated sum by a given day, such larger sum is regarded as merely a security for legal interest during the time the money is in default : Aylet v. Dodd, 2 Atk. 239 ; Sloman v. Walter, 1 Br. Ch. 418 ; Sanders v. Pope, 12 Ves. 282 ; Davis v. West, 12 Ves. 475. So where the performance of several acts is secured by a covenant to pay a sum, which as to some of the acts, would be too large, and as to others too small, a compensation for the injury, the sum is considered to be a penalty : see Kemble v. Farren, 6 Bing. 141. But where the damages from the breach cannot be measured, then the sum agreed to be paid in default of performance, is held to be liquidated damages from which no relief can be granted : Atkyns v. Kinnier, 4 Ex. 776, 783 ; Galsworthy v. Strutt, 1 Ex. 659 The general leaning of the Court was formerly against granting relief against forfeitures for breach of covenants to repair in the absence of special circumstances : Hill v. Barclay, 16 Ves. 402 ; 18 Ves. 62 ; Gregory v. Wilson, 9 Ha. 683 ; Nokes v. Gibbon, 3 Drew 681 ; Croft v. Goldsmid, 24 Beav. 312 ; but see Bamford v. Creasy, 3 Giff. 675 ; Hughes v. Metropolitan Ry. Co., 2 App. Ca. 439 ; neither would the Court grant relief against a forfeiture for breach of a covenant by a lessee not to assign the term without leave : Hill v. Barclay, 18 Ves. at p. 63. And prior to the 29 Vict. c. 28, s. 5, on which this section is founded, the Court of Chancery would not relieve against a forfeiture for breach of a covenant to insure: Green v. Bridges, 4 Sim. 96. Relief may be granted under this section in respect of a covenant contained in an instrument made before the passing of the 29 Vict. c. 28, as regards any subsequent breach: Page v. Bennett, 2 Giff. 117. See further as to cases in which the Court will, or will not, relieve against penalties and forfeitures: Story's Eq. chap. 34.

By s. 58 s-s. 3, post a general power is given to the Court to relieve against all penalties, forfeitures, and agreements for liquidated damages. Whether the Court in the exercise of its discretion will relieve against forfeitures which a court of Equity would not formerly relieve against, has not been determined.

When relief is granted, the same to be recorded. Imp. Act 22-23 Vic. c. 35, s. 5.

26. The Court, where relief is granted, shall direct a record of such relief having been granted to be made by indorsement on the lease or otherwise. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 50; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

The object of the indorsement required by this section is probably for the purpose of identifying the instrument, in respect of which the relief is granted, to give notice to third persons dealing with the property, of the fact that relief has been granted by the Court. In the case of lands this may also be effected by the registration of the judgment.

To what leases preceding provisions apply. Imp. Act 22-23 V. c. 35, s. 9.

27. The preceding two sections shall be applicable in the case of leases for a term of years absolute, or determinable on a life or lives or otherwise, and also in the case of a lease for the life of the lessee or the life or lives of any other person or persons. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 51; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

Jurisdiction Partition.

28. In any action or proceeding in the High Court for partition or sale of the estate of joint tenants, tenants in common or co-parceners, where any of the persons interested in the lands whereof partition or sale is sought are unknown to the plaintiff, or have not been heard of for three years or upwards, the Court shall have the same jurisdiction that, in proceedings under The Partition Act, it possesses for the purpose of binding the interests of such persons and dealing with the estate of such of them as by reason of long continued absence may reasonably be believed to be dead; and the like proceedings may be taken in such action or proceeding for the said purposes as might be taken upon a petition under the said Act; and every deed or vesting order made in any such action or proceeding shall have the same effect as a deed or vesting order made in proceedings under the said Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 52; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

Rev. Stat., c. 104.

The effect of this section is to enable the Court in an ordinary suit to avail itself of the powers and authorities conferred upon it by the Partition Act, without resorting to the procedure laid down in that Act: see Bennett v. Bennett, 8 Gr. 446; Cassey v. Cassey, 15 Gr. 399; Munro v. Munro, Ib. 431: and see Rules 998-991, and notes, and post s. 34. Secs. 29, 30.

29. The High Court shall have jurisdiction to grant alimony to any wife who would be entitled to alimony by the law of England, or to any wife who would be entitled by the law of England to a divorce and to alimony as incident thereto, or to any wife whose husband lives separate from her without any sufficient cause and under circumstances which would entitle her, by the law of England, to a decree for restitution of conjugal rights; and alimony when granted shall continue until the further order of the Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 43. Jurisdiction in alimony.

The jurisdiction by this section conferred on the High Court, is part of the jurisdiction formerly exercised in England by the Ecclesiastical Courts, as incident to proceedings for divorce or judicial separation.

Where proceedings are instituted against a defendent for alimony, if he is about to quit Ontario with intent to defraud his creditors generally, or the plaintiff in particular, he is liable to be arrested and held to bail: see R. S. O. c. 67, s. 3, Rule 1088: Richardson v. Richardson, 8 P. R. 274; Needham v. Needham, 29 Gr. 117; Harn v. Harn, 4 U. C. L. J. 261.

The defendant may be discharged from arrest if on the facts it shall appear that the plaintiff cannot reasonably be expected to succeed in the action: Macpherson v. Macpherson, 2 Ch. Ch. 222. The order of arrest issued pendente lite remains in force after judgment even though the wife resides out of the jurisdiction: see Macdonald v. Macdonald, 5 U. C. L. J. 66.

Pending the action, if the wife is in need of support, an order may be granted for payment of interim alimony; as to the mode of obtaining interim alimony: see Form 9 k., Rules 738, 530, and notes.

Permanent alimony is granted where the husband has been guilty of desertion and cruelty: Severn v. Severn, 3 Gr. 431; or desertion, where coupled with other acts of cruelty, Ib.; or cruelty alone: Jackson v. Jackson, 8 Gr. 499; but not as a rule where he has only been guilty of a solitary act of personal violence: Rodman v. Rodman, 20 Gr. 428. So also it may be granted for desertion and adultery: Henderson v. Henderson, 19 Gr. 464; and perhaps for adultery alone: Howey v. Howey, 27 Gr. 57; or for wrongfully accusing the wife of adultery: see Ferris v. Ferris, 7 Ont. 496. But where the wife leaves the husband without sufficient cause she is not entitled to alimony: Edwards v. Edwards, 20 Gr. 392. A judgment for alimony may be suspended on the application of the husband on proof of the wife's subsequent adultery: Severn v. Severn, 14 Gr. 150; but a husband who has deserted his wife, is not entitled as of right to have a judgment against him for alimony vacated on his afterwards offering to receive and maintain her: Cronk v. Cronk, 19 Gr. 283.

A bond given by a husband to a trustee to secure the payment of alimony to the wife in pursuance of a judgment, is not assignable: Reiffenstein v. Hooper, 36 U. C. Q. B. 295; Re Robinson, 27 Ch. D. 160.

30. An order or judgment for alimony may be registered in any Registry Office in Ontario, and the registration shall, so long as the order or judgment registered remains in force, bind the estate and interest of every description which the defendant has in any lands in the County or Judgment for alimony may be registered and thus bind lands.

Sec. 31. Counties where the registration is made, and operate thereon in the same manner and with the same effect as the registration of a charge by the defendant of a life annuity on his lands. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 44; c. 111, s. 49.

A judgment for alimony is registered by means of a certificate: see R. S. O. c. 114, s. 47.

The charge created by the registration of a judgment for alimony, binds all the lands of the defendant in the registration division in which the registration is made. The judgment itself does not contain any clause creating a lien, nor does it specify any lands to be bound; it can only be registered among the instruments having no local description: (see R. S. O. c. 114, s. 25). The simple fact of registration creates the charge. This charge may be enforced by a petition in the alimony action when the defendant has made default in paying the alimony ordered to be paid. Upon such a petition the Court may order the land bound by the judgment, or such part thereof as may be deemed necessary, to be sold and the purchase money to be applied in payment of the arrears of alimony, and the alimony as it accrues. For form of order in such a case: see Forrester v. Forrester, D. B. 37, fo. 232.

Vesting order, effect of.

31. In every case in which the Court has authority to order the execution of a deed, conveyance, transfer or assignment of any property, real or personal, the Court may by order vest such real or personal estate in such person or persons, and in such manner, and for such estates, as would be done by any such deed, conveyance, assignment or transfer if executed; and thereupon the order shall have the same effect as if the legal or other estate or interest in the property had been actually conveyed, by deed or otherwise, for the same estate or interest, to the person in whom the same is so ordered to be vested, or in the case of a chose in action, as if such chose in action had been actually assigned to such last-mentioned person. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 101; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

Only interests of parties before the Court can be vested.

The power of the Court to grant a vesting order extends to every case where it has power to order the execution of a conveyance, transfer, or assignment, of any property, real or personal; but the Court cannot order the execution of any conveyance by any person who is not before the Court and amenable to its jurisdiction, and it can therefore only vest the interests of those who are before the Court and subject to its jurisdiction: Re Hewish, 17 Ont. 454.

Where lands are sold under the judgment or order of the Court, a conveyance by the person having the legal estate is all that is necessary to vest the title in the purchaser. It is not necessary that parties to the suit having purely equitable interests should also join in the conveyance: Ross v. Steele, 1 Ch. Ch. 94; Moore v. Shinners, 1 Ch. Ch. 59; but persons having equitable interests who are not parties to the action would not (unless represented sufficiently by persons who are parties), be bound by the judgment. It is therefore necessary for a purchaser, before taking either a conveyance or vesting order, to see that all persons having any interest, have been made parties, or are properly represented by persons who are parties, and are bound by the judgment.

Effect of vesting order.

By a vesting order, all the interest, legal and equitable, of the parties to the action, or any of them, may be vested in the person named in the order: Re

Robertson, 22 Gr. 449. Even though some of them be infants: Donaldson v. Berry, 2 Ch. Ch. 16. But where the legal estate was in the plaintiff, who became the purchaser himself at a sale under a decree, the Court refused to make a vesting order because it had no power to order him to convey to himself: Bowen v. Fox, 1 Ch. Ch. 387. In such cases the purchaser's title would be made out by the production of the judgment and the master's report on sale duly confirmed; (see per Maclennan, Q.C., arguendo, 22 Gr. 452); but this has been thought an unsatisfactory mode of proving that the equitable rights have been extinguished, and in some cases under similar circumstances vesting orders have been made, no objection thereto being raised by the parties. Sec. 31. Vesting order when refused.

A vesting order will not be granted to a purchaser except on proof of payment of his purchase money, or on evidence entitling him to an order dispensing with its payment.

The purchaser is entitled to a conveyance with ordinary covenants for title, and he cannot be compelled to accept a vesting order: see Slater v. Fisken, 1 Ch. Ch. 1; but he may, if he choose, take a vesting order instead. Purchaser entitled to deed.

In Slater v. Fisken, supra, it was held that a purchaser, before taking a vesting order, was entitled to proof that the persons whose estates were sold were alive at the time of the sale; but in deducing title under a vesting order it has been held unnecessary to give this evidence because the order will be presumed to be rightly made until the contrary is shown: Re Morse, 8 P. R. 475; and see Gunn v. Doble, 15 Gr. 655; Shaw v. Crawford, 4 Ont. App. 371; McLean v. Grant, 20 Gr. 76. Evidence.

Upon a sale of the lands of infants under an order of the Court, it was held that an application for a vesting order by the purchaser might be made without notice to the infants: Boulton v. Stegman, 1 Ch., Ch. 199; but see Thorne v. Chute, 2 Ch. Ch. 221. So also a vesting order has been granted ex parte where a party to the action was ordered to convey, but could not be found after due diligence: McNair v. Simpson, 1 Ch. Ch. 299; and see Lawrason v. Buckley, 3 Ch. Ch. 270, where the costs of the motion were ordered to be paid out of the purchase money. But where one of the plaintiffs had become the purchaser in a mortgage action, notice of a motion to dispense with payment into Court and for a vesting order was required to be given to the mortgagor who had appeared in the suit: McMaster v. Kempshall, 1 Ch. Ch. 329. Where granted ex parte.

Where a purchaser takes a vesting order he usually waives all objection to the title, and if possession has not previously been delivered to him, he assumes the responsibility of obtaining possession: Bull v. Harper, 6 P. R. 36; and where a purchaser after the lapse of a year from obtaining a vesting order, applied to be allowed compensation in respect of certain taxes which the vendor should have paid, the application was refused: Kincaid v. Kincaid, 6 P. R. 93. But so long as the purchase money remains in court, an application by a purchaser who has inadvertently taken a vesting order without first requiring incumbrances to be paid off, to have the incumbrances discharged out of the purchase money, will be granted: Fleming v. McDougall, 8 P. R. 200; Turrill v. Turrill, 7 P. R. 142. Purchaser taking v. o. waives objections to title, etc.

As regards infants, whose estates have been sold under the direction of the Court, the Court may order some person to execute the conveyance in the place of the infants: R. S. O. c. 137, s. 5; and the Master in Ordinary or a Local Master may, in like manner, be ordered to execute a deed for adult parties who have been committed to gaol for contempt in refusing to execute the same, after the expiration of two calendar months from their being committed or detained under such process: 11 Geo. 4 & 1 W. 4, c. 36, s. 15. See ante s. 23; Ledyard v. Campbell, O. B. 26, fo. 719. Infants.

Under the Imperial Trustee Act, 1850, the Court has also power to make vesting orders. See secs. 5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 13, 14, 15, 16, 19, 23, 25, 34, 35, and under sec. 20, wherever the Court can under that Act make a vesting order it may also appoint some person to execute a conveyance. Trustee Acts.

Sec. 32. Jurisdiction of Court of Chancery in respect to leases, settled estates, estates of infants, and special cases.

32.—(1) The High Court shall have the same jurisdiction as the Court of Chancery in England had on the 18th day of March, 1865, in regard to leases and sales of settled estates, and in regard to enabling infants, with the approbation of the Court, to make binding settlements of their real and personal estate on marriage; and in regard to questions submitted for the opinion of the Court in the form of special cases on the part of such persons, as may by themselves, their committees or guardians, or otherwise, concur therein. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 85; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9.

(2) The examination of a married woman apart from her husband, as to her knowledge of the nature and effect of an application for the sale or leasing of any settled estate, or as to her consent thereto, shall in no case be necessary unless expressly directed by the Court or a Judge.

(3) Infants and persons of unsound mind (not so found), required to be served with notice of any application to the High Court, may be served by delivering to the official guardian ad litem a copy of the petition or other proceeding required to be served; and from the time of such service, the said official guardian shall be the guardian ad litem of the infant or person of unsound mind, unless and until the Court or Judge, otherwise orders; and the said official guardian, or any other guardian appointed by the Court for the infant or person of unsound mind, shall take all such proceedings as he may think necessary for the protection of the interests of the infant or person of unsound mind in the proceeding in which he is so appointed guardian.

(4) In case there be more than one infant or person of unsound mind (not so found) for whom service is made on the official guardian ad litem, one copy only of the petition or other proceeding, need be so served, but the name of each person on whose behalf the official guardian is served, is to be stated on the copy served.

(5) Money realized from the sale or leasing of any settled estate or any interest therein, shall be paid, applied or invested, as the Court or a Judge shall direct. 49 V. c. 16, s. 8.

Settled estates, leases and sales of.

Leases and Sales of Settled Estates.—The jurisdiction of the English Court of Chancery in regard to leases and sales of settled estates on the 18th March, 1865, was regulated by the Imp. Acts 19 & 20 Vict. c. 120; 21 & 22 Vict. c. 77; 25 & 26 Vict. c. 108: 28 Vict. c. 45. As to what are settled estates within the meaning of these Acts, see Re Laing, 1 Eq. 416; Collett v. Collett, 2 Eq. 203; Re Shepheard, 8 Eq. 571; Beioley v. Carter, 4 Chy. 230.

This section modifies the practice prescribed by those statutes. Sec. 32.

Settled estates, leases and sales of.

The Court has no power under this section to order the sale of a part of a settled estate in order to make improvements on the remainder: Re Moore, 6 P. R. 28; Re Chambers, 28 Beav. 653; nor can it sanction an exchange: Re Bishoprick, 21 Gr. 589.

Applications under this section must be made to a Judge and not to the Master in Chambers or any local Judge or local Master: Rules 30, 41, 138.

Errors in the advertisement of the application to lease or sell a settled estate may be waived by the Court, if in its opinion they are not misleading; Re Whitely, 8 Eq. 574; Re Bicknell, 14 Eq. 467: Re Hemsley, 16 Eq. 315.

The marriage of a petitioner after the publication of the advertisement was held not to be a ground for requiring its republication: Re Marshall, 15 Eq. 66. And on the death of a petitioner after advertisement, the petition may be amended by stating the fact, and substituting a new petitioner: Re Wilkinson, 9 Eq. 71.

Where property was vested in a trustee in trust after the death of the tenant for life to sell and divide the proceeds among numerous persons who would become absolutely entitled, with power to the trustee to give receipts, on a petition by the tenant for life under Imp. Act 19 & 20 Vict. c. 120, for a sale of the property, it was held under sec. 17 of the Act that the consent of all the beneficiaries was necessary: Re Ives, Bailey v. Holmes, 3 Ch. D. 690. The persons whose consent is required by section 17 are persons whose consents are capable of being obtained. The consent of unascertained persons who are interested is not requisite.: Beioley v. Carter, 4 Chy. 230; Re Strutt, 16 Eq. 629: Re Potts, 16 Eq. 631*n*.

Settlements.—The jurisdiction of the English Court of Chancery as to sanctioning marriage settlements by infants of their property, was on the 18th March, 1865, regulated by the Imp. Stat. 18 & 19 Vict. c. 43. The Act does not apply to males under twenty years nor females under seventeen years: see sec. 4. An application for the sanction of the Court to a settlement does not constitute the infant a ward of Court so as to necessitate the Court to inquire into the propriety of the marriage: Seton, 766.

This Act only enables the Court to remove the bar of infancy, but it does not enable an infant, even with the sanction of the Court, to do more than an adult could do: e. g., where an infant was a married woman and made a post-nuptial settlement with the sanction of the Court under the above mentioned Act, but the settlement was one which would not have bound her if she had been an adult; it was held, notwithstanding it had received the sanction of the Court, to be invalid: Buckmaster v. Buckmaster, 35 Ch. D. 21; 56 L. T. N. S. 795; 13 App. Cas. 61; Mills v. Fox, 37 Ch. D. 153. But the Act enables an infant with the sanction of the Court to make a valid post-nuptial settlement so far as an adult can make one: Re Wall, 50 L. T. N. S. 435.

In England applications for the sanction of the Court to a settlement by an infant are required to be supported by evidence to show, (1) The infant's age; (2) If there is any parent or guardian; (3) If none, what near relatives, and with whom, and under whose care the infant is; (4) Infant's parents' rank and position; (5) Infant's fortune and property; (6) The age, rank and position of the other party; (7) His property, fortune and income; (8) The fitness, and consent to act, of the trustees: Seton, 766.

Special cases.

Special Cases.—The jurisdiction of the English Court of Chancery in regard to special cases on the 18th March, 1865, was regulated by Imp. Stat. 13 & 14 Vict. c. 35. By this Act a special case may be stated without commencing an action. Provision is made by Rules 554-558 for stating a special case after action commenced.

By 13 & 14 Vict. c. 35 (supra), s. 1, persons interested in any question as to the construction of any Act of Parliament, deed, will, etc., or as to the title, etc., to any real or personal estate contracted to be sold, or as to any other matter falling within the jurisdiction of Equity, may concur in stating a special case for the opinion of the Court, and executors, administrators and trustees may concur therein. By s. 2 the committee of a lunatic's estate may concur with the sanction of the Lord Chancellor or of the Lords Justices; (but in Ontario the sanction of any one of the Judges of the High Court would seem to be sufficient: R. S. O. c. 54, s. 2.) By s. 3 a husband may concur for his wife, if she has no distinct interest; and if her interest is distinct, she may concur if her husband does so. By s. 7 the special case is to be entitled as a cause; lunatics, infants, etc., are to be described as such, and their guardians named. But in Ontario the service on persons under disability and the appointment of guardians ad litem for them, is regulated by s. s. 3 supra.

A married woman, if plaintiff, and her husband defendant, is to have a next friend (sed vide R. S. O. c. 132, s. 14; Rule 314). By s. 9, the special case is to state how any infant's guardian is constituted (sed vide s. s. 3 supra); and the concurrence of any married woman concurring in her own right. It would seem proper that the case should be signed by all parties, or their solicitors, or guardians ad litem. By s. 14, the Court, upon the hearing, may determine the questions raised, or any of them, and by decree declare its opinion without proceeding to administer any relief consequent thereon; or may decline to decide. By s. 15 the declaration is to indemnify trustees. By s. 16 the Court may suspend acting on the declaration on such conditions, if any, as it thinks fit. By s. 17 the case is to be a lis pendens, and may be registered as such. By s. 18 the documents referred to, and copies thereof, or extracts therefrom, identified by the signatures of the solicitors for the parties or their Toronto agents, may be read without further proof, and semble they ought to be put in at the hearing and marked by the Registrar: Watson v. Rodwell, 11 Ch. D. 150, 153; and any document admitted by the case to be in the possession of any party may after appearance by the defendants be ordered to be deposited and produced. By s. 32 the costs of all proceedings under the Act are in the discretion of the Court. By s. 33 all decrees and orders are to be subject to rehearing, appeal and review, and to be discharged and varied as if made on bill.

Fictitious questions not entertained.

Fictitious questions will not be entertained, so as to give the Court jurisdiction in matters not cognizable under the Act: Pryse v. Pryse, 15 Eq. 86; and see Key v. Key, 4 D. M. & G. 73. All persons beneficially interested should be parties: Entwistle v. Cannon, 4 W. R. 450; and trustees must be parties to a case for construing the trust deed: Vorley v. Richardson, 8 D. M. & G. 126. Where some of the parties beneficially interested are out of the jurisdiction, but others having identical interests are before the Court, the presence of the absentees may in the discretion of the Court be dispensed with: Re Brown, 29 Beav. 401.

The case must be framed so that the rights of the parties can be determined, or the Court will decline to answer the questions submitted: Bulkely v. Hope, 4 W. R. 280. The Court will not act on inferences drawn by the parties, but necessary facts should be proved by affidavit: Domville v. Lamb, 9 Ha. lv.

The case may be amended: see Rule 44; but where a material fact was omitted in the case, but was admitted by all parties at the hearing, prefacing the order with a recital to that effect was held to be sufficient: Lane v. Debenham, 11 Ha. 188; 17 Jur. 1005.

The provisions of sub-section 3 supra only apply to proceedings under section 32: Wolf v. Ogilvy, 12 P. R. 645.

The Court may try the validity of wills.

33. The High Court shall have jurisdiction to try the validity of last wills and testaments, whether the same respect real or personal estate, and whether probate of the will has been granted or not, and to pronounce such wills and testaments to be void for fraud and undue influence or otherwise, in the same manner and to the same extent as the Court has jurisdiction to try the validity of deeds and other instruments. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 41; 44 V. c. 5, s. 9.

Sec. 34. Setting aside wills, jurisdiction of High Court.

Originally the jurisdiction to try the validity of last wills and testaments affecting personal estate belonged exclusively to the Court of Probate; and where they affected real estate, it belonged to the Superior Courts of law: see Story's Eq. s. 1445. This section is a perpetuation of an Act (12 Vict. c. 64 passed in 1849) which conferred a concurrent jurisdiction in reference to these matters upon the Court of Chancery.

The Provincial Court of Probate was established in 1793 by 33 Geo. 3 c. 8; and in 1858 it was abolished, and the Surrogate Courts were constituted on their present basis by 22 Vict. c. 93.

The jurisdiction of the High Court, as regards wills affecting personalty, depends on this section; but as regards wills affecting realty the jurisdiction of the High Court would seem to depend not only on this section, but also on secs. 20 and 35, by which the jurisdiction of the former Superior Courts of law is vested in the High Court.

For cases on which wills have been contested on the ground of the mental incapacity of the testator: see Brown v. Bruce, 19 U. C. Q. B. 35; Menzies v. White, 9 Gr. 574; Emes v. Emes, 11 Gr. 325; Martin v. Martin, 15 Gr. 586; Ingoldsby v. Ingoldsby, 20 Gr. 131; Wilson v. Wilson, 22 Gr. 39; and for cases in which wills have been sought to be set aside as having been obtained by undue influence: see Waterhouse v. Lee, 10 Gr. 176; Donaldson v. Donaldson, 12 Gr. 431; Wilson v. Wilson, 22 Gr. 39; 24 Gr. 377; Re White, Kersten v. Tane, 22 Gr. 547; 24 Gr. 224; Thompson v. Torrance, 28 Gr. 253; 9 Ont. App. 1.

This section provides that the Court may pronounce wills void for fraud and undue influence or otherwise in the same manner and to the same extent as the Court has jurisdiction to try the validity of deeds and other instruments. The cases in which Courts of Equity are accustomed to set aside deeds and other instruments for fraud, where they are voidable and not merely void, are first where there is actual fraud in the party defendant in which the party plaintiff has not participated. Secondly, where there is a constructive fraud against public policy, and the party plaintiff has not participated therein. Thirdly, where there is a fraud against public policy and the party plaintiff has participated therein, but public policy would be defeated by allowing it to stand. And lastly, where there is a constructive fraud by both parties, but they are not in pari delicto: Story s. 695.

34. The High Court shall also have jurisdiction— Jurisdiction.

1. In matters testamentary as provided in sections 30 to 32 inclusive of The Surrogate Courts Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 42. In matters testamentary. Rev. Stat. c. 50.

2. On any appeal from the judgment or decision of the Commissioners under The Act to Prevent Trespasses to Public Lands, as provided in said Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 88; c. 27, s. 19. Appeals against judgment of Commissioners under Rev. Stat. c. 29.

3. In respect of lunatics and infants and their property and estates, as provided by The Act respecting Lunatics and The Act respecting Infants. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, ss. 58, 75. Lunatics and Infants. Rev. Stat. cc. 53, 137.

Secs. 35, 36.

Testamentary guardians. Rev. Stat. c. 137.

4. In respect of guardians and trustees, as provided by The Act respecting Infants. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 84.

Partition. Rev. Stat. c. 104.

5. In respect of partition and sale of real estate as provided in The Partition Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 101, ss. 5, 7.

Matters Testamentary.—The clauses of the Surrogate Courts Act referred to, provide for the transfer of contentious matters regarding the grant of probate or administration from the Surrogate Court to the High Court (a) where the parties agree, or (b) where a Judge of the High Court so orders.

The High Court has also an original jurisdiction to grant letters of administration, or letters of administration ad litem: Rule 311; but it has no original jurisdiction to grant probate of a will; and where a case is transferred to the High Court from the Surrogate Court, it is usually ultimately remitted to the Surrogate Court, to issue probate or administration as the case may require: Thompson v. Torrance, 28 Gr. 253; see Decree in that case: D. B. 37, fo. 192.

Infants.—The jurisdiction by this section conferred on the High Court over infants is cumulative on that already conferred under section 21, s-s. 2, and s. 23. As to the general jurisdiction of the Court over infants: see Story's Eq., c. 35.

Guardians and Trustees.—The same observation applies in regard to the jurisdiction over trustees: see ante s. 21, s-s. 2 and s. 23.

Partition.—The like observation applies in regard to the jurisdiction in Partition: see sect. 23, ante and Story's Eq., chap. 14, and see ante s. 28. The jurisdiction under the Partition Act may be exercised in any ordinary action of partition; and it would seem that it is not essential that the procedure prescribed by that Act should be strictly pursued, in order to enable the Court to exercise any special powers conferred by that Act: see Bennett v. Bennett, 8 Gr. 446; Cassey v. Cassey, 15 Gr. 399.

General jurisdiction.

35. The High Court shall have, generally, all the jurisdiction which, prior to the 22nd day of August, 1881, was vested in, or capable of being exercised by, the Court of Queen's Bench, Court of Chancery, Court of Common Pleas, and Courts of Assize, Oyer and Terminer, and Gaol Delivery (whether created by commission or otherwise), and the High Court shall be deemed to be and shall be a continuation of the said Courts respectively (subject to the provisions of this Act) under the said name of "The High Court of Justice for Ontario." 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (1).

Criminal Jurisdiction.—Some doubt has been expressed as to whether under The Judicature Act any criminal jurisdiction had been conferred on the Chancery Division: see 23 C. L. J. 181. The Chancery Division has on several occasions exercised criminal jurisdiction without objection: see Regina v. Webster, 16 Ont. 187; Regina v. Brierly, 14 Ont. 525; Regina v. Fee, 13 Ont. 590. See, however, Reg. v. Beemer, 15 Ont. 266, 272.

Any Division of the High Court is a Court for Crown Cases reserved: R. S. C. c. 174, s. 2.

36. The jurisdiction of the High Court shall include (subject to the exceptions hereinafter contained) the jurisdiction which, at the commencement of this Act, was vested in, or capable of being exercised by the Judges of the said Courts, respectively, sitting in Court or Chambers, or elsewhere, when acting as Judges in pursuance of any statute or law; and all powers given to any such Court, or to any such Judges, by any statute; and also all ministerial powers, duties, and authorities incident to any and every part of the jurisdiction. 44 V. c. 5, s. 9 (2). Secs. 37, 38.

See Eng. Jud. Act of 1873, s. 16.

In the corresponding English section 16 the same Courts are mentioned as above, and several others; and the jurisdiction is said to be "transferred to" the High Court—an expression which is not used in this Act.

Where a person fraudulently personating a testator had forged mortgages of the testator's estate and an action was brought to obtain a declaration that certain mortgages were void, and to have them delivered up, Kay, J., looking at this enactment said that he was not administering equity merely, and should therefore give the plaintiff his legal remedy as to the deeds, and direct them to be delivered up as well as declare them void: Cooper v. Vesey, 51 L. J., Chy. 149; see also Manners v. Mew, 29 Ch. D. 725.

Rights and privileges of Judges.

37. Every Judge of the High Court shall have, use and exercise all the rights, incidents and privileges of a Judge of a Court of Record, and all other rights, incidents and privileges as fully to all intents and purposes as the same were, prior to the 5th day of December, 1859, used, exercised or enjoyed by any of the Judges of any of Her Majesty's Superior Courts of Common Law at Westminster. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 6.

A Judge to sit in Chambers.

38. The Judges of the High Court shall, in rotation or otherwise as they may agree among themselves, sit in Chambers or elsewhere, and there transact any such business as may be transacted by a single Judge out of Court, whether such business be in the Division of the High Court to which such Judge is attached or in another Division, subject to the right of appeal as provided in this Act and the Rules from time to time in force. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 26.

As to the business which may be transacted in Chambers: see Rule 542; as to the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, Local Judges, and Local Masters, in Chambers, and the various matters excluded from their jurisdiction: see Rules 30, 41, 138.

It was held by Armour, J., that an appeal from the Master in Chambers might be brought before the Judge of any Division, and that the different Divisions merely exist for convenience in the distribution of work, but that there is no reason why a Judge of any Division should not hear a motion in Chambers in an action in any other Division: Laidlaw Manufacturing Co. v. Miller, 11 P. R. 335; but In re Christie, Christie v. Christie, 12 P. R. 15, Ferguson, J., held that under The Judicature Act, 1881, sec. 25, a cause must be set down to be heard in the Division to which it is assigned. It may be well to note that only part of s. 25 referred to by Ferguson, J., has been continued: see Rule 225; and the clause requiring all proceedings to be taken in the Division to which the cause is attached, does not appear to be now in force, although it must be confessed if any other practice be followed it is likely to produce serious confusion.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW

Secs. 39-41. It seems clear from section 38 that the Judge of any Division has jurisdiction to dispose of applications in Chambers in actions in any other Division; but where the application has to be set down it would seem to be improper to set it down in any other Division than that in which the action is pending.

Any one whilst acting as Judge of Assize in Toronto, may act as Judge in Chambers.

39. Any person sitting or acting as Judge at any Assizes or Sittings of the High Court for the trial of causes, matters, and issues, in the City of Toronto, may, while so sitting or acting as such Judge, or while the Assizes or Sittings last, act as a Judge in Chambers in all matters as if he were a Judge of the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 27; c. 41, s. 10.

This section applies to the acting Judge of Assize at the City of Toronto, a similar provision is made by the following section in regard to the acting Judge of Assize in any outer County.

The power to act in chambers hereby conferred, may be exercised not only by a Judge of the Supreme Court, but by any retired Judge of the Supreme Court, Judge of a County Court, or Queen's Counsel, appointed to hold the assizes under s. 94 post.

The jurisdiction in Chambers under this section would seem to extend to all actions, and not merely those entered for trial: see sec. 40, post.

Orders made by a Judge at the assizes in actions set down for trial thereat should be signed by the officer who acts as registrar at such sittings: Waghorn v. Hawkins, 12 P. R. 145. The same rule probably applies to orders made in Chambers by the Judge of Assize.

It is the duty of the officer signing the order to see that it is in proper form and correctly embodies the order actually made by the Judge, and that the Court fees thereon are duly paid.

Any one sitting as Judge of Assize may during sittings, act as Judge in Chambers.

40. Any person acting as a Judge at any Assizes or Sittings of the High Court for the trial of causes, matters, and issues, may, in and for the County in which he is acting, and while the sittings of the said Court last, act as a Judge in Chambers in all matters entered for trial before him, as if he were a Judge of the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 28; c. 41, s. 9.

See note to sec. 39. It will be noticed that this section is not so wide in its terms as sec. 39, and the jurisdiction in Chambers hereby conferred on the Judge of Assize is not general, but limited to the "matters entered for trial before him."

Jurisdiction to be exercised in name of High Court.

41. The several jurisdictions vested in the said High Court, shall not be exercised except [in the name of] the said High Court as provided by this Act, save as otherwise in this Act provided. 44 V. c. 5, s. 10.

In Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 22, was the word "by" instead of the words in brackets.

Orders made by a single Judge in Court, or in Chambers, are not drawn up as the order of the Judge making them, but of the High Court. All judgments and orders, whether made by a single Judge or by a Divisional Court, are to show the names of the judge or judges who pronounced the same: Rule

779. This is usually done by inserting the name or names of the Judge or Judges in the margin of the order under the title of the Court, e. g. "In the High Court of Justice, Chancery Division, Proudfoot J." Secs. 42, 43.

42. The jurisdiction (a) [of] the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal, respectively, shall be exercised (so far as regards procedure and practice) in the manner provided by this Act, or by Rules and Orders of Court now in force or to be made pursuant to this Act; and where no special provision is contained in this Act or in any such Rules or Orders with reference thereto, it shall be exercised as nearly as may be in the same manner as prior to the 22nd day of August, 1881. 44 V. c. 5, s. 12. Jurisdiction to be exercised according to rules of Court.

(a) Instead of the word "of," the English Act has the words "by this Act transferred to."

The concluding clause must be taken to be modified by Rule 3 post, which repeals the practice and procedure existing prior to 22nd Aug. 1881 (except in certain cases in which it is expressly continued in the Con. Rules) and provides that in the absence of any special provision the practice is to be regulated by analogy to the Con. Rules: see Notes to Rule 3 and sec. 110.

The Consolidated Rules were confirmed, and all inconsistent enactments in the Revised Statutes repealed by 51 V. c. 2. s. 4.

JURISDICTION OF COURT OF APPEAL.

43. The Court of Appeal shall be a Superior Court of Record and shall (a) [have appellate jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases; and] in civil cases shall have jurisdiction and power to hear and determine appeals from any judgment or order, save as hereinafter mentioned, of the High Court, or of any Judges thereof, subject to the provisions of this Act, and to such Rules and Orders of Court for regulating the terms and conditions on which appeals shall be allowed, as are now in force or to be made pursuant to this Act. 44 V. c. 5, s. 13. Jurisdiction of Court of Appeal.

(a) Here the original sec. (13) of Jud. Act, 1881, had the words "continue to have all the jurisdiction and power which the said Court has heretofore had, save as varied by or under this Act." The substituted words follow the language of the R. S. O. c. 38 s. 18, which defined the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeal.

The words in brackets are not in the English section. The section otherwise corresponds with the first part of the English J. A. sec. 19.

In civil and criminal cases, the jurisdiction of the Court of Appeal is appellate only: see Brown v. Collins, W. N. 1883, 155. It has original jurisdiction in Election cases (s. 45).

The pre-existing appellate jurisdiction in civil cases was if anything enlarged by the original of this section (J. A. 1881 c. 13) which conferred the jurisdiction to entertain an appeal from any "judgment or order"; see Atty.-Gen. v. Bradlaugh, 14 Q. B. D. 667, and notes to sec. 70. The right of appeal was then also made subject to new restrictions: see secs. 65 et. seq. and notes.

Secs. 44, 45. In the Revision of the Statutes the words "any judgment or order" have evidently been considered wide enough to include the cases particularly mentioned in R. S. O. 1877 c. 38 s. 18, viz.: judgments in cases arising in arbitration matters, motions for mandamus and to quash by-laws.

In giving an opinion on a special case, the jurisdiction exercised by a Court is judicial, not consultative, so that its decision is a "judgment or order": Overseers of Walsall v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 4 App. Cas. 30.

In Harmon v. Park, 29 W. R. 750; 17 C. L. J. 389, it was held that an appeal would lie to the Court of Appeal from the C. P. Div. on a question as to whether a petition against a municipal election was properly instituted as being an order of the High Court of Justice though the Act, under which the petition was presented, provided that a decision upon the hearing of the petition should not be appealable. See also Corporation of Peterboro' v. Wilthorpe, 12 Q. B. D. 1. See further the notes to sec. 70.

The same. 44. The Court of Appeal shall also have jurisdiction, as provided elsewhere in these Revised Statutes, and generally shall have all the jurisdiction and power which the said Court has heretofore had (save as varied by or under this Act.)

Jurisdiction in election cases. Rev. Stat. cc. 8-10. 45. The Court of Appeal shall also have jurisdiction in Election cases, as provided by The Voters' Lists Act, The Ontario Election Act, and The Controverted Elections Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 20; 45 V. c. 7, s. 7.

Secs. 46, 47.

May quash proceedings: when.

46. The Court of Appeal shall have power to quash proceedings in cases brought before it, in which appeal does not lie, or where such proceedings are taken against good faith. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 21.

To make whatever order may be required.

47. The Court shall have power to dismiss an appeal, or give any judgment and make any decree or order which ought to have been made, and to direct the issue of any process, or the taking of any proceedings in the Court below, or to award restitution and payment of costs, or to make such further or other order as the case may require. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 23.

The Court may make such order as is justified by the law as then existing, though the effect be to vary a decision of the Court below, which was in accordance with the then existing law: Quilter v. Mapleson, 47 L. T. N. S. 561.

Review of questions of fact.

The rule generally followed by the Courts is not to review the findings of the Judge of first instance, when his decision depends upon the balance of testimony: Hale v. Kennedy, 8 Ont. App. 157; Cook v. Patterson, 10 Ont. App. 645.

The Appellate Court, however, is not deterred from reversing such a judgment merely by the consideration that the Judge of first instance had the advantage of seeing the demeanour of the witnesses and their manner of giving their evidence, unless the decision of the case rests upon the credibility of the witnesses, and the Judge in determining the credit to be given to them proceeded upon their demeanour: see Day v. Brown, 18 Gr. 681; Morrison v. Robinson, 19 Gr. 480; Armstrong v. Gage, 23 Gr. 1; Ryan v. Ryan, 5 S. C. R. 406; The Picton, 4 S. C. R. 648; Little v. Brunker, 28 Gr. 191; The Glannibanta, 1 P. D. 283; Bigsby v. Dickinson, 4 Ch. D. 24; Symington v. Symington, L. R. 2 Sc. App. 424; Gray v. Turnbull, ib. 53; Redgrave v. Hurd, 20 Ch. D. 22; Trumpour v. Saylor, 1 Ont. App. 104; Taylor v. Taylor, ib. 264; Re Randolph, ib. 331; The Milanese, 43 L. T. N. S. 107.

Where the Appellate Court has the same materials before it as the Court whose decision it is reviewing, the above considerations do not apply: Redgrave v. Hurd, 20 Ch. D. 23; and the Court will exercise its judgment on the evidence just as it would on a question of law. It will reverse the judgment if satisfied that it is wrong: Berdan v. Greenwood, 20 Ch. D. 769 n; Jones v. Hough, 5 Ex. D. 122; Prentice v. Consolidated Bank, 13 Ont. App. 69; otherwise it will affirm it: Symington v. Symington, sup.; Hale v. Kennedy, 8 Ont. App. 157. See also Card v. Cooley, 4 C. L. T. 248; Berthier Election Case, 9 S. C. R. 102; Grasett v. Carter, 10 S. C. R. 105.

Where the case does not so turn upon the credibility of the witnesses but upon the proper inference to be drawn from all the evidence in the case, it is the duty of the Court to review the conclusion arrived at by the Court below upon the questions of fact: Russell v. Lefrancois, 8 S. C. R. 335; Cameron v. Bickford, 11 Ont. App. 52. Thus, where, without differing from the Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses, the Appellate Court came to a different conclusion upon the evidence, documentary and written, the judgment was reversed: Cameron v. Bickford, 11 Ont. App. 52.

Read v. Anderson, 13 Q. B. D. 781, where Brett, M.R., said that the Court of Appeal was not bound by the findings of fact by a Judge who tried the case without a jury is not inconsistent with the above cases.

In appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, where there have been concurrent findings of fact by the Courts below, the question in appeal in the P. C. is not what conclusion the P. C. would have arrived at

Secs. 48-51. if the matter had come for the first time before them, but whether it has been established that the Courts below were clearly wrong: Allen v. Quebec Warehouse Co., 12 App. Cas. 111.

Powers of Court of Appeal.

48. The powers of the Court of Appeal may be exercised, notwithstanding that the appeal is brought against part only of the judgment of the Court below; and may be exercised in favor of all or any of the respondents or parties, although such respondents or parties may not have appealed from, or complained of the judgment. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 25; 45 V. c. 6, s. 7.

Powers of a single Judge in Court of Appeal.

49. In any cause or matter pending before the Court of Appeal, any direction incidental thereto, not involving the decision of the appeal, may be given by a single Judge of the Court of Appeal; and a single Judge of the Court of Appeal may at any time during vacation make any interim order to prevent prejudice to the claims of any parties pending an appeal, as he may think fit; but every such order made by a single Judge may be discharged or varied by the Court of Appeal or a Divisional Court thereof. 44 V. c. 5, s. 41.

Identical with Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 52.

On an appeal from the High Court, Court of Appeal to have all powers of HighCourt.

50. For all the purposes of and incidental to the hearing and determination of any such appeal, and the amendment, execution, and enforcement of any judgment or order made on such appeal, and for the purpose of every other authority given to the Court of Appeal by this Act, the said Court of Appeal shall have all the power, authority and jurisdiction by this Act vested in the High Court. 44 V. c. 5, s. 14.

This corresponds substantially with the second part of the English J. A., 1873, section 19.

This section only confers additional powers on the Court of Appeal without interfering with the practice under the Rules; so that execution for costs, etc., awarded by the Court of Appeal is to be issued out of the Court appealed from Freed v. Orr, 2 C. L. T. 90; see Lowson v. Canada Farmers' Ins. Co., 8 Ont. App. 613, and Rule 830.

Jurisdiction subject to rules, etc.

51. The jurisdiction and power of the Court of Appeal, in respect of the said matters and all others, shall be and are subject to the provisions of this Act, and to such Rules and Orders of Court for regulating the terms and conditions on which such appeals shall be allowed, as are now in force or as may be made pursuant to this Act. 44 V. c. 5, s. 15.

Same in effect as Eng. J. A., 1873, s. 19, first part.

RULES OF LAW.

52. In every civil cause or matter commenced in the High Court of Justice, law and equity shall be administered by the High Court and the Court of Appeal respectively according to the rules following: Sec. 52. Law and equity to be concurrently administered.

1. If any plaintiff or petitioner claims to be entitled to any equitable estate or right, or to relief upon any equitable ground against any deed, instrument, or contract, or against any right, title, or claim whatsoever asserted by any defendant or respondent in such cause or matter, or to any relief founded upon a legal right which heretofore could only have been given by a Court of Equity, the said Courts respectively, and every Judge thereof, shall give to such plaintiff or petitioner such and the same relief as ought to have been given by the Court of Chancery in a suit or proceeding for the same or the like purpose properly instituted before the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (2).

This and the next section deal with the old anomaly of different Courts, recognizing different rights and duties, applying different remedies to the same case, and in some cases even enforcing rules of law in conflict with one another. The removal of the conflict of law is provided for by sec. 53. The rest of the matter is dealt with in the present section, the provisions of which have been summarised thus:—

The plaintiff may assert an equitable claim in any Division of the High Court (sub-s. 1); and may obtain an equitable remedy in any Division (ibid); the defendant may raise any equitable answer or defence to any claim; that is to say, anything which would formerly have been good by way of answer if the suit had been brought in Chancery (sub-s. 6), or would have afforded ground for an injunction if the action had been brought at law (sub-s. 9); and he may assert, by way of counter claim against the plaintiff, any claim, legal or equitable, which he might have raised by a cross suit at law, or in equity (sub-s. 7); the defendant may also obtain relief relating to, or connected with, the original subject of the action, against other persons, whether already parties or not (ibid). All Courts are to recognise equitable rights incidently appearing (sub-s. 8); no cause is to be restrained by injunction; what would have been ground for injunction is to be raised by way of defence, or upon an application to stay proceedings (sub-s. 9). Subject to these provisions, common law rights and duties are to be recognised (sub-s. 11). Every Court is to apply all appropriate remedies, and dispose of all matters in controversy (sub-s. 12). (Wilson Jud. Act, 7th ed., p. 15).

By the operation of the Act each Division of the High Court is to administer justice according to so much of the principles of the two old systems as may be necessary to give complete and effectual relief to suitors: Gibbs v. Guild, 9 Q. B. D., 66 per Lord Coleridge citing Pugh v. Heath, 7 App. Cas. 237; therefore concealed fraud, and the absence of means of discovery, will, if pleaded, prevent the application of the Statute of Limitations, as formerly in pure Equity proceedings: Gibbs v. Guild, 8 Q. B. D., 296, 9 Q. B. D., 59; Barber v. Houston, 14 L. R. Ir. 273; irrespective of the question whether such matters formerly constituted at law a good answer to a plea of the Statute.

Sec. 52 (1)-(4).

In Adamson v. Adamson, 7 Ont. App. 592, the opinion was expressed by Burton, J. A., that the owner of an equitable estate cannot notwithstanding the Jud. Act, proceed to recover possession of land against a trespasser in possession, but was bound to sue in the name of the person having the legal estate. This opinion did not form part of the judgment of the Court in the case, and was founded upon the view that before the Administration of Justice Act, 1873, ejectment would not lie in such a case, and that the latter Act only enabled the Court of Chancery to entertain suits for ejectment in the same way as the Courts of Common Law. The point, which did not there distinctly arise, as the proceedings were before the Jud. Act, has since been considered in Heenan v. Heenan, 3 C. L. T. 163, and Thorne v. Williams, 13 Ont. 577; see also Jones v. McGrath, 16 Ont. 617, where the opinion was expressed that since the Jud. Act, such an action may be maintained by the equitable owner in his own name. But see Saylor v. Cooper, 2 Ont. 398; Fairclough v. Marshall, 4 Ex. D. 37; and Goodrich v. Everglyn Coal Co., W. N. 1889, 152.

For definitions of "plaintiff," "petitioner," "defendant," see s. 2.

Jurisdiction as to validity of Provincial Statute.

2. The High Court shall have jurisdiction to entertain an action at the instance of either the Attorney-General for the Dominion, or the Attorney-General of this Province for a declaration as to the validity of any statute, or any provision in any statute of this Legislature, though no further relief should be prayed or sought; and the action shall be deemed sufficiently constituted if the two officers aforesaid are parties thereto. A judgment in the action shall be appealable like other judgments of the said Court. (See sec. 55.) 49 V. c. 16, s. 38.

Relief against penalties, etc.

3. (Subject to appeal as in other cases,) the High Court shall have power to relieve against all penalties, forfeitures and agreements for liquidated damages, and in granting such relief to impose such terms as to costs, expenses, damages, compensation and all other matters as the Court thinks fit. 49 V. c. 16, s. 38.

See also secs. 25, 52 (8) to which this section is supplementary. Similar power was at the same time (see 49 V. c. 16, s 38) conferred upon the County and Division Courts: see R. S. O. c. 47 s. 21, and c. 51 s. 73. It has not been determined whether power is given to relieve against a forfeiture which a Court of Equity would not formerly relieve against; e. g. for breach of a covenant not to assign or sublet without leave. A forfeiture for such a breach was not formerly relieved against in Equity: Hill v. Barclay, 18 Ves. 63, and the relief does not seem to be contemplated by R. S. O. c. 143 (see sec. 11 sub-s. 6, passed in 1886 in the same Session in which the present section was enacted.

Appointment under power.

4. No appointment, which after the 25th day of March, 1886, is made in exercise of a power to appoint any property real or personal among several objects, shall be adjudged to be invalid on the ground that any object of the power has been altogether excluded, and an appointment shall be valid and effectual notwithstanding that one or more of the objects shall not thereby or in default of appointment take a share or shares of the property which is subject to the power. Sec. 52, (5), (6).

But nothing in this sub-section shall prejudice or affect any provision in any deed, will, or other instrument creating a power, which shall declare the amount or the share or shares from which no object of the power shall be excluded, or shall declare some one or more object or objects of the power who shall not be excluded. 49 V. c. 16, s. 38.

As to the law before the Act, see Bulteel v. Plummer, L. R. 6 Chy. 160. The Act applies only to an appointment made after 25th March, 1886, not to one made before, though only taking effect after that date: see Moynan v. Moynan, 1 L. R. Ir. 382.

5. No action or proceeding shall be open to objection on the ground that a merely declaratory judgment or order is sought thereby, and the Court may make binding declarations of right, whether any consequential relief is or could be claimed or not. 48 V. c. 13, s. 5. Declaratory judgments and orders.

This section is an amended reproduction of Chy. O. 538.

That order was held only to apply to cases where the plaintiff was entitled to relief consequent upon the declaration he asked, if he chose to claim it, but it was held not to apply to cases where the plaintiff was not entitled to claim any relief consequent upon the declaration: Rooke v. Lord Kingsdown, 2 K. & J. 753; Clarke v. Cook, 23 Gr. 110; Cogswell v. Sugden, 24 Gr. 474; Brookes v. Conley, 8 Ont. 549. Thus, a decree was pronounced declaring the true construction of a will, without directing administration, in a case where the plaintiff was entitled to the latter relief if he desired it: Murphy v. Murphy, 20 Gr. 575; and see Canada Central Ry. Co. v. The Queen, Ib. 303. This section was passed to enable the Court to pronounce a declaratory decree whether consequent relief could be claimed or not. But notwithstanding the power thus conferred the jurisdiction will be exercised with great caution: Austen v. Collins, 54 L. T. N. S. 903. Declaratory judgment not granted in favour of party who would not be entitled to relief.

A declaratory decree was refused under the former practice where it was sought for the purpose of protecting the plaintiff, against a contingent claim by the defendant: Jackson v. Turnley, 1 Drew 617; and see Cogswell v. Sugden, supra; and also where it was sought to affect future rights in events which had not happened: Langdale v. Briggs, 8 D. M. & G. 391; Dowling v. Dowling, L. R. 1 Chy. 612; or persons entitled in reversion: Garlic v. Lawson, 10 Ha. App. xv; or not in esse, Bright v. Tyndall, 4 Ch. D. 189; or to declare a purely legal question as against infants, even by consent; Webb v. Byng, 8 D. M. & G. 633; De Windt v. De Windt, 1 L. R. H. L. 87; or to declare a merely legal right: Trustees of Birkenhead Docks v. Laird, 4 D. M. & G. 732; Bristow v. Whitmore, 4 K. & J. 743; Metropolitan Board of Works v. Sant, L. R. 7 Eq. 197; Jenner v. Jenner, L. R. 1 Eq. 361. Cases in which declaratory decrees have been refused.

But in some cases the Court made a decree declaring future rights. Thus the question of the right of renewal, on which a lessee's claim to compensation for land taken by a railway depended, was declared: Bogg v. Midland Ry. Co., L. R. 4 Eq. 310; and, to save expense, it has construed executory marriage articles: Byam v. Byam, 19 Beav. 58. Cases in which declaration of right made.

6. If any defendant claims to be entitled to any equitable estate or right, or to relief upon any equitable ground Equitable claims.

Sec. 52, (7). against any deed, instrument, or contract, or against any right, title or claim asserted by any plaintiff or petitioner in such cause or matter, or alleges any ground of equitable defence to any claim of the plaintiff or petitioner in such cause or matter, the said Courts respectively, and every Judge thereof, shall give to every equitable estate, right, or ground of relief so claimed, and to every equitable defence so alleged, such and the same effect, by way of defence against the claim of such plaintiff or petitioner, as the Court of Chancery ought to have given if the same or the like matters had been relied on by way of defence in any suit or proceeding instituted in that Court for the same or the like purpose before the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (3).

See this section applied in Mostyn v. W. Mostyn, 1 C. P. D. 145; Hughes v. Metropolitan, etc., ib. 120; Eyre v. Hughes, 2 Ch. D. 148; Marshall v. Marshall, 5 P. D. 19; Emmerson v. Ind., 12 App. Cas. 300. See also sub.-sec. 8.

7. The said Courts respectively, and every Judge thereof shall also have power to grant to any defendant in respect of any equitable estate or right, or other matter of equity, and also in respect of any legal estate, right or title claimed or asserted by him, all such relief against any plaintiff or petitioner as such defendant shall have properly claimed by his pleading, and as the said Courts respectively, or any Judge thereof, might have granted in any suit instituted for that purpose by the same defendant against the same plaintiff or petitioner; and also all such relief relating to or connected with the original subject of the cause or matter, and in like manner claimed against any other person, whether already a party to the same cause or matter or not, who shall have been duly served with notice in writing of such claim pursuant to any rule of Court or any order of the Court, as might properly have been granted against such person if he had been made a defendant to a cause duly instituted by the same defendant for the like purpose; and every person served with any such notice shall thenceforth be deemed a party to such cause or matter, with the same rights in respect of his defence against such claim, as if he had been duly sued in the ordinary way by such defendant. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (4).

This sub-section is identical with the Eng. J. A. 1873 s. 24 (3).

The Rules respecting set-off and counter-claims (Rule 373, etc.,) and third parties (Rules 328-332) were made in furtherance of the powers conferred by this sub-section. See notes to those Rules. Sec. 52, (8).

As to how far Rules made have been made to regulate the exercise of the powers conferred by this section of granting relief between co-defendants, see Treleavan v. Bray, 45 L. J., Chy. 113; and notes to Rule 328.

In Mudge v. Adams, 50 L. J. Pro. 49; 17 C. L. J. 369, an action propounding the will of a married woman made after she had obtained a protection order, and become possessed of separate estate, the defendant set up that the protection order had been fraudulently obtained, and claimed by way of cross relief to have it set aside, the will pronounced against, and administration granted to the defendant; and it was held to be within this section as asserting by counter-claim what might be asserted in a suit against the same plaintiff.

A defendant is not bound to make his cross claims in the same action, but may assert them by cross action. Thus where an action was brought against shippers and consignees for damages for detention at the port of lading, and for freight, and the defendants brought a cross action for a larger sum for damages for loss of cargo by the shipowners' negligence and the writs were issued on the same day and statement of claim delivered first in the former action, a Master stayed proceedings in the second action with liberty to the plaintiffs in it to file a counter claim in the first action; but it was held on appeal that though there was jurisdiction to make such an order, it should only be exercised where the points in issue are the same, and that in the case in question the right to bring a cross action should not be interfered with: Adamson v. Tuff, 44 L. T. N. S. 420. See also the notes to sec. 52 (9) and Rule 652.

As to the effect of the concluding words of this section, see Fowler v. Knoop in note to Rule 328.

8. The said Courts respectively, and every Judge thereof shall recognize and take notice of all equitable estates, titles, and rights, and all equitable duties and liabilities appearing incidentally in the course of any cause or matter, in the same manner in which the Court of Chancery would have recognized and taken notice of the same in any suit or proceeding duly instituted therein before the passing of this Act. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (5).

Identical with the Eng. J. A. 1873 section 24 (4).

In Williams v. Snowden, W. N. 1880, 124, a plaintiff in ejectment was ordered specifically to perform an agreement to lease the premises to defendant, which agreement though not raised by defence, appeared incidentally in the cause. See Mostyn v. W. Mostyn, etc., 1 C. P. D. 145, where it incidentally appeared that a party was entitled to have a deed rectified. See also cases in note to sub-sec. 6.

The doctrine of Equity whereby part performance furnishes a ground for enforcing a contract not enforceable at Law by reason of s. 4 of the Statute of of Frauds, is confined to suits as to the sale of interests in land, and has not been extended by the Jud. Act. The Jud. Act confers no new rights, but alters procedure only: Britain v. Rossiter, 11 Q. B. D. 123. See also Gibbs v. v. Guild, 9 Q. B. D. 67, and notes to sec. 53, sub-sec. 8.

Under this sec. relief was given against a forfeiture in an action to re-enter for breach of covenant for payment of taxes which the defendant paid before statement of claim delivered: Buckley v. Beigle, 8 Ont. 85.

Sec. 52 (3) also now enables the Court to relieve against penalties and forfeitures.

Sec. 52, (9). Restraining causes.

9. No cause or proceeding at any time pending in the High Court of Justice, or before the Court of Appeal, shall be restrained by prohibition or injunction; but every matter of equity on which an injunction against the prosecution of any such cause or proceeding might have been obtained, prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, either unconditionally or on any terms or conditions, may be relied on by way of defence thereto:

Staying proceedings where formerly an injunction obtained.

Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall disable either of the said Courts from directing a stay of proceedings in any cause or matter pending before it, if it shall think fit; and any person, whether a party or not to any such cause or matter, who would have been entitled, prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, to apply to any Court to restrain the prosecution thereof, or who may be entitled to enforce, by attachment or otherwise, any judgment, decree, rule, or order, contrary to which all or any part of the proceedings in such cause or matter may have been taken, shall be at liberty to apply to the said Courts respectively, by motion in a summary way, for a stay of proceedings in such cause or matter either generally, or so far as may be necessary for the purposes of justice; and the Court shall thereupon make such order as shall be just. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (6).

The effect of this sub-section is that, in ordinary cases, whatever would formerly have been ground for an injunction restraining an action must now be raised in the action, either by way of defence, or upon an application to stay proceedings: Garbutt v. Fawcus, 1 Ch. D. 155.

Staying proceedings, general rule.

An application to stay proceedings in an action must be made in the Division in which the action is pending. No other Judge or Division has jurisdiction to stay proceedings: Garbutt v. Fawcus, 1 Ch. D. 155; Re Morriston Patent Fuel Company, W. N. 1877, N. S. 20; Re South of France Pottery Works Syndicate, 37 L. T. N. S. 260; Re People's Garden Company, 1 Ch. D. 44; Walker v. Banagher Distillery Company, 1 Q. B. D. 129; Rose v. Garden Lodge, etc., Company, 3 Q. B. D. 235; Wright v. Redgrave, 11 Ch. D. 24. Two decisions to the contrary, Kingchurch v. People's Garden Company, 1 C. P. D. 45, and Needham v. Rivers Protection Company, 1 Ch. D. 253, are overruled. See also Searle v. Choate, 25 Ch. D. 723.

Thus actions for claims provable (as to which see Crowle v. Russell, 4 C. P. D. 186), in pending administration proceedings must be restrained by motion in the actions and not in the Division in which the administration proceedings are: see Cobbold v. Pryke, 4 Ex. D. 315; Powell v. Jewsbury, 9 Ch. D. 39; Bailey v. Monteith, 3 C. L. T. 599.

In Wright v. Redgrave, 11 Ch. D. 24, goods had been taken under a fi. fa., and the trustees of a settlement claimed them as separate estate of defendant's wife. The Sheriff thereupon took out an interpleader summons in the C. P. Div., upon which an order was made that, upon the trustee paying into Court £115 within a limited time, the Sheriff should withdraw, but that in default of such payment he should sell, and pay the proceeds into Court, and that the parties should proceed to the trial of an issue as to the title to the goods. The money was not paid into Court within the time and the Sheriff advertised the goods for sale. The wife thereupon commenced an action in the Ch. D. to have the trusts of the settlement carried into execution, a new trustee appointed, and in the meantime the appointment of a receiver. An injunction to restrain the Sheriff was held, on appeal, to be an order inconsistent with the above sub-section and was discharged.

Sec. 52, (9). Staying proceedings.

In Besant v. Wood, 12 Ch. D. 630, it was said that though a pending motion cannot be restrained a person may, in a proper case, be restrained from instituting proceedings. See also Cercle Restaurant Co. v. Lavery, 18 Ch. D. 555, and Hart v. Hart, 18 Ch. D. 670.

See also Hedley v. Bates, 13 Ch. D. 498; Re Artistic Colour Printing Co., 14 Ch. D. 502; Crowle v. Russell, 4 C. P. D. 186.

Where a partnership, had by order of the Court been dissolved, the plaintiff and defendants signed an agreement of compromise; the plaintiff subsequently repudiated the agreement, and proposed to proceed with his action, alleging that his signature had been obtained by fraud, it was held that the Court had jurisdiction on summons to stay further proceedings in the action without a fresh action being commenced to enforce the agreement: Eden v. Naish, 7 Ch. D. 781; Re Gaudet 12 Ch. D. 882. An action to enforce the agreement might be brought: Hart v. Hart, 18 Ch. D. 670. See also notes to sec. 52 (12).

Stay, to enforce a compromise of action.

Actions or proceedings which are absolutely groundless are frivolous and vexatious. The institution of them is an abuse of the process of the Court, and they may be stayed summarily upon motion: Edmunds v. Attorney-General, 26 W. R. 550; 38 L. T. N. S. 213; W. N. 1878, 64. See also Tucker v. Collinson, 34 W. R. 355; 54 L. T. N. S. 128, 263; or dismissed: Metropolitan Bank v. Pooley, 10 App. Cas. 210; Ker v. Williams, 79 L. T. Jour. 229; W. N. 1886, 76; Willis v. Earl Beauchamp, 11 P. D. 59; Blair v. Cowder, 36 W. R. 64; Grepe v. Loam, 37 Ch. D. 168; Lawrance v. Lord Norreys, 39 Ch. D. 213; Warwick v. East, W. N. 1889, 8; e. g. actions against a public officer for an act plainly in accordance with his duty: Castro v. Murray, L. R. 10 Ex. 213; against a Judge for any act done in that capacity; Cobbett v. Field, W. N. 1877, 8; Hind v. Brett, W. N. 1883, 37; where the point has already been decided against the plaintiff in another action: Dawkins v. Saxe Weimar, etc., 1 Q. B. D. 499; Edmunds v. Attorney-General, supra; Mortlock v. Mortlock, 20 L. T. N. S. 773; where the plaintiff has no locus standi: Robson v. Dodds, L. R. 8 Eq. 302; Vale v. Oppert, 5 Ch. D. 969; where the claim though stating a sufficient case is shewn by admission of the plaintiff to be without foundation: Jameson v. Laing, 7 P. R. 404. Where a right to sue, however slight, appears on the face of the proceedings, and is not displaced by any admission, the plaintiff will not be prevented from having his action disposed of in the regular way: Bloxam v. Metropolitan, etc., L. R. 3 Chy. 337; Seaton v. Grant, L. R. 2 Chy. 459; but he may be directed to facilitate an early disposition of the action: Jameson v. Laing, supra.

Staying vexatious proceedings.

An action in which relief is claimed which had been already claimed in another action will be stayed, only in so far as it claims relief included in the former action: Morton v. Quick, 26 W. R. 441.

A stay was refused where an action had been settled by the plaintiffs' solicitor, the settlement having been provisional and not adopted by the plaintiff: McDonald v. Field, 12 P. R. 213.

There was no rule of practice at Common Law by which a plaintiff ordered to pay costs in the course of an action, but not paying them, was liable to have his action stayed till they were paid: Morton v. Palmer, 9 Q. B. D. 89; but the Court had power in its inherent jurisdiction to direct a stay if that appeared to be equitable. The onus of shewing the propriety of a stay was on the party asking for it. In Equity the onus was on the other party, and he was required to shew that a stay would be inequitable. The Common Law rule is adopted in Ont. as the most convenient: Stewart v Sullivan, 11 P. R. 529, followed in Wright v. Wright, 12 P. R. 42. See also, in addition to the cases there cited, Re Wickham, Marony v. Taylor, 35 Ch. D. 272.

Staying for non-payment of costs.

Sec. 52,(10). An action may be stayed till security ordered to be given for damages has been given: Richards v. Howell, W. N., 1883, 159, 168.

Cross actions. One of two cross actions between the same parties, arising out of the same matter may be stayed, and a consolidation in fact thus effected; and where such an application is made the action against the party on whom the burden of proof lies ought in general to be stayed, and the action brought by him ought to be allowed to proceed, the other party being at liberty to raise by defence, set off or counter-claim all questions intended to be raised by him in the action which is stayed: Thomson v. Eastern Ry. Co., 9 Q. B. D. 320. See further the notes to sec. 52 (7), and Rule 652.

Practice. An application to stay must in general be on notice. "In a summary way" does not mean ex parte except in cases of emergency: see Blewitt v. Dowling, W. N. 1875, 202; Kevers v. Michell, W. N. 1876, 53, and notes to s. 53, sub-s. 8.

Stay of proceedings if action for same cause is pending out of Ontario.

10. If any action is brought in the High Court for any cause of action for which any suit or action has been brought and is pending between the same parties or their representatives in any place or country out of Ontario, the Court or any Judge thereof may make an order to stay all proceedings in the High Court until satisfactory proof is offered to the Court or Judge, that the suit or action so brought in such other place or country out of Ontario is determined or discontinued. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 98; c. 50, s. 72.

No corresponding clause in the Eng. Act.

English rule. The rule in England is, that where one of two actions for the same cause is pending abroad, the Court, has jurisdiction to stay, but the party applying must make out a special case for relief; whereas where all the actions are in England, or semble in the Queen's Courts anywhere, the concurrent proceedings are prima facie vexatious: McHenry v. Lewis, 21 Ch. D. 202; 22 Ch. D. 397: The Christiansborg, 10 P. D. 141. The Court will not consider the double litigation vexatious where there are substantial reasons to induce the plaintiff to sue in both countries; as when he can get judgment in each action, but execution is more easily obtained in one than in the other: Peruvian Guano Co. v. Bockwoldt, 23 Ch. D. 225; Hyman v. Helm, 24 Ch. D. 531; Direct U. S. Cable Co. v. Dom. Tel. Co., 8 Ont. App. 416.

Whether a Court having ample authority to decide the matter brought before it should await the expected adjudication of another tribunal having only similar authority is merely a question for the exercise of judicial discretion: Phosphate Sewage Company v. Molleson, 1 App. Cas. 780. See Hounston v. M. of Sligo, W. N. 1884, 29, reversed p. 151.

There is a discretion to stay proceedings in the High Court for damages for a collision, in respect of which proceedings are being taken in rem in a Vice-Admiralty Court: The Peshawur, 48 L. T. N. S. 796; 8 P. D. 32.

Rule in Ontario. Under the above clause 10, proceedings were stayed in this Province, where the matter could more conveniently be disposed of in the foreign Court, by reason of the suit being there in a more advanced stage, and the parties being personally subject to the jurisdiction of the foreign Court, and the latter was the most convenient, in view of the evidence to be procured: Howell v. Jewett, 7 P. R. 69. A stay was also ordered pending an appeal in a foreign Court, terms as to diligence in prosecuting the appeal being imposed: Huntingdon v. Attrill, 12 P. R. 36.

As to staying an action in Ont. where the plaintiff's claim is being prosecuted in bankruptcy proceedings in England, see Maritime Bank v. Stewart, 13 (11), (12). P. R. 86. Sec. 22,

11. Subject to the aforesaid provisions for giving effect to equitable rights and other matters of equity in manner aforesaid, and the other express provisions of this Act, the said Courts respectively, and every Judge thereof, shall recognize and give effect to all legal claims and demands, and all estates, rights, duties, obligations, and liabilities existing by the Common Law or created by any statute, in the same manner as the same would have been recognized and given effect to, prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, by any of the Courts then existing and whose jurisdiction is now [vested in] the High Court. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (7). Giving effect to legal claims.

Same as Eng. J. A. 1873 s. 24 (6) except that the latter has the words "transferred to" instead of "vested in;" and after the words "Common law" has the words "or by any custom."

12. The High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal respectively, in the exercise of the jurisdiction vested in them by this Act in every cause or matter pending before them respectively, shall have power to grant, and shall grant, either absolutely or on such reasonable terms and conditions as to them shall seem just, all such remedies whatsoever as any of the parties thereto may appear to be entitled to in respect of any and every legal or equitable claim properly brought forward by them respectively in such cause or matter; so that, as far as possible, all matters so in controversy between the said parties respectively may be completely and finally determined, and all multiplicity of legal proceedings concerning any of such matters avoided. 44 V. c. 5, s. 16 (3). Multiplicity of proceedings to be avoided. All matters in controversy to be determined in one proceeding.

Same as the Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 24 (7).

Sir W. T. Charley, M.P., in his edition of the Judicature Act said; "If the closing words of this section be verified by experience, this Act will prove a second Magna Charta to the suitor."

A cause or matter is pending within the meaning of this section so long as final judgment remains unsatisfied: Salt v. Cooper, 16 Ch. D. 544; Smith v. Cowell, 6 Q. B. D. 75. See also Re Clagett, Fordham v. Clagett, 20 Ch. D. 637, where it was said that a "pending matter" in any Court of Justice is one in which some proceeding may still be taken. "Pending matter."

The meaning of this and the preceding sub-section is, that whenever a subject of controversy arises in an action which can conveniently be determined between the parties to the action, the Court should, if possible, determine it, so as to prevent further and needless litigation: Re Tharp, 3 P. D. 81;

Sec. 53.

McDougall v. Hall, 13 Ont. 166. The right of the parties is limited by the opinion of the Court as to the practical convenience of trying incongruous claims in the same action. See notes to Rules 373 and 374.

Enforcing agreements of compromise in the same action.

Under the last provision the Court has power to enforce a compromise entered into pending an action and stay the action on a summary application in that action: Eden v. Naish, 7 Ch. D. 781; Scully v. Lord Dundonald, 8 Ch. D. 658; Re Gaudet Frères Steamship, etc., Co., 12 Ch. D. 882; Smythe v. Smythe, 18 Q. B. D. 544, followed in Farran v. Hunter (before Ferguson, J., 25th Sept., 1888). The former Chy. practice required a fresh suit to be brought for specific performance of the agreement for compromise, unless it related merely to the prosecution of the suit: Pryor v. Gribble, L. R. 10 Chy. 534, or unless where the compromise was entered into before answer, and was set up by the answer and specific performance prayed by way of cross-relief: Small v. Union Perm. B. S., 6 P. R. 206.

A separate action to enforce a compromise may still be brought: Hart v. Hart, 18 Ch. D. 670; Knowles v. Roberts, 58 L. T. N. S. 259, and perhaps must be brought where the question whether the compromise is invalid is raised: Gilbert v. Endean, 9 Ch. D. 259; but see Eden v. Naish, etc., supra.

A compromise may be enforced by a stay of the action being ordered under sec. 52 (9). See notes to that section.

See also Hedley v. Bates, 13 Ch. D. at p. 501; Dowdeswell v. Dowdeswell, 9 Ch. D. 294; Baker v. Blaker, 55 L. T. N. S. 723.

The Court may, nevertheless, decline to decide questions relating to contingent interests which may never come into possession: Kevan v. Crawford, 6 Ch. D. 29.

Rules of law upon certain points.

53. The law to be administered in Ontario, as to the matters next hereinafter mentioned, shall be as follows:

See Eng. J. A., 1873, s. 25; J. A., 1875, s. 10.

The object of this section is to render uniform the rules of law administered in the several Divisions of the Court on the points as to which such rules were formerly in conflict. This had been done to a considerable extent in Ontario by the Administration of Justice Act, 1873, 36 Vict. c. 8 (R. S. O. c. 49, ss. 4, 5, 21, 23; R. S. O. c. 40, ss. 86, 87; c. 50, ss. 131-133, etc).

The method which has been adopted in the present section is to deal in the first eleven sub-sections with specific cases in which conflicting rules formerly existed, and to provide what rule is to prevail for the future.

The first sub-section in the English Act, and one substituted for it under section 10 of the Jud. Act 1876, provide for the administration of the estate of a deceased person who is insolvent, and make applicable thereto the same rules as the Bankrupt Law provides for estates administered thereunder. "The British North America Act" gives exclusive jurisdiction to the Dominion Parliament in matters of "Bankruptcy and Insolvency" (s. 91, No. 21); but the subject is not without legislative provision in Ontario, for by 29 Vict. c. 28, s. 28 (now R. S. O. c. 110, s. 32), it was enacted, that "on the administration of the estate of any deceased person, in case of a deficiency of assets, debts due to the Crown, and to the executor or administrator of the deceased person, and debts to others, including therein, respectively, debts by judgment, decree or order, and other debts of record, debts by specialty, simple contract debts, and such claims for damages as by statute are payable in like order of administration as simple contract debts, shall be paid pari passu and without any preference or priority of debts of one rank or nature over those of another; but nothing herein contained shall prejudice any lien existing during the lifetime of the debtor on any of his real or personal estate."

Statutes of Limitation not to

1. No claim of a cestui que trust against his trustee for any property held on an express trust, or in respect of any breach of such trust, shall be held to be barred by any Statute of Limitations. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (2). Sec. 58, (2, 3). apply to express trusts.

Same as the English sub-section.

See Petre v. Petre, 1 Drew, 393, and Nugent v. Nugent, 15 L. R. Ir. 321, for the difference in Equity between express and implied trusts. In the case of an express trust it has always been the doctrine of Courts of Equity that no time, as between the trustee and cestui que trust, operates as a bar to the equitable right of the latter; and this sub-section is only a statutory declaration of that doctrine: Harston v. Tenison, 20 Ch. D. 109; see also Thompson v. Eastwood, 2 App. Cas., 215. As to what nevertheless amounts to laches and acquiescence which will be a bar to relief, see Ib. and Lewin on Trusts 6th Ed. 714, and Fisher Dig. 1880, p. 2200. It is not necessary that the express trust be evidenced by writing to bring the case within this provision: Cook v. Grant, 32 C. P. 511, 521.

R. S. O. c. 111, s. 30, is as follows:—

"30. Where any land or rent is vested in a trustee upon any express trust, the right of the cestui que trust, or any person claiming through him to bring an action against the trustee or any person claiming through him, to recover such land or rent shall be deemed to have first accrued, according to the meaning of this Act, at and not before the time at which such land or rent has been conveyed to a purchaser for a valuable consideration, and then shall be deemed to have accrued only as against such purchaser, and any person claiming through him."

It has been said by Kay, J., Banner v. Berridge, 18 Ch. D. 262, that that enactment is in effect extended to personalty by the present sub-section, which is also repeated in c. 111, as sec. 30 (2).

2. An estate for life without impeachment of waste shall not confer or be deemed to have conferred upon the tenant for life any legal right to commit waste of the description known as equitable waste, unless an intention to confer such right shall expressly appear by the instrument creating such estate. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (3). Equitable waste.

Same as Eng. J. A. 1873 s. 25 (3).

For the difference between legal and equitable waste see the notes to Garth v. Cotton, 1 W. & T. Lead Cas., 751 (5th Ed.); Seagram v. Knight, L. R. 2 Chy. 628. A tenant for life without impeachment of waste is not permitted to make an excessive use of his legal power as such, by cutting down ornamental trees, defacing the mansion-house, etc.

See also Seton on Decrees (4th Ed.) 190; and s. 21, sub-s. 3 ante and notes p. 16.

3. There shall not be any merger by operation of law only of any estate, the beneficial interest in which would not prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, have been deemed, merged or extinguished in equity. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (4). Merger.

Same as Eng. J. A. 1873 s. 25 (4).

Merger is where a greater estate and a less coincide and meet in one and the same person in the same right without any intermediate estate; in which case the less is immediately annihilated, or "merged" in the greater; as, if the fee comes to a tenant for years or life, the particular estates are merged in the fee; but, in Equity, if the merger which would take place at Law would occasion prejudice to a party having a previous equitable interest in the estate, such interest is not deemed to be merged: see Tyrwhitt v. Tyrwhitt, 32 B. 249; Finlayson v. Mills, 11 Gr. 218; Maclennan v. Gray, 16 Ont. 326. By R. S. O. c. 102 ss. 8-9, a mortgagee may take a release of the equity of redemption without merging his debt as against any other mortgagee or person having a charge on the property. The cases on the construction of this enactment will be found in Robinson & Joseph's Digest, 2312, et seq. See also Ib. 2246 et seq.

Where C. an administrator, granted an underlease for a term of years of land held by him as administrator, and shortly afterward the underlessee assigned the land to C. for the residue of the term, it was held that there was in Equity no merger of the term: Chambers v. Kingham, 10 Ch. D. 743; see also Hyde v. Warden, 3 Ex. D. 72.

Actions for possession of land by mortgagors.

4. A mortgagor entitled for the time being to the possession or receipt of the rents and profits of any land as to which no notice of his intention to take possession or to enter into the receipt of the rents and profits thereof shall have been given by the mortgagee, may sue for such possession, or sue or distrain for the recovery of such rents or profits, or to prevent or recover damages in respect of any trespass or other wrong relative thereto, in his own name only, unless the cause of action arises upon a lease or other contract made by him jointly with any other person (a) and in that case he may sue or distrain jointly with such other person. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (5).

In cases under this sub-section the mortgagor may sometimes have to make the mortgagee a party; but "unless there is a probability that the relief for which the mortgagor sues will injuriously affect the interest of the mortgagee, the mortgagee ought not to be brought before the Court on a mere suggestion of a possibility that he may be prejudiced": Fairclough v. Marshall, 4 Ex. D. 37 and 49.

A mortgage having been assigned, the assignee served notice on the tenants to pay him rent. A judgment creditor of the mortgagor obtained an order on the tenants to pay. The rents due at the date of the assignment were not thereby assigned to the transferee, but were assigned to him by the mortgagee after the garnishee order. It was held that under this sub-section the rents attached were debts due to the mortgagor: Paterson v. O'Reilly, 10 L. R. Ir. 304.

Assignment of debts and choses in action.

5. In case of an assignment of a debt or other chose in action, (a) if the debtor, trustee, or other person liable in respect of the debt or chose in action shall have had notice that such assignment is disputed by the assignor or any one claiming under him, or of any other opposing or conflicting claims to such debt or chose in action, he shall be entitled, if he think fit, to call upon the several persons making claim thereto to interplead concerning the same, or he may, if he think fit, pay the same into the High Court under and in conformity with the provisions of law for the relief of trustees. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (6).

(a) What follows corresponds with the latter part of sub-section 6 of the English J. A. 1873 s. 25 (6). Sec. 33.

A debtor, against whom an action has been brought for a debt of which notice of assignment has been given, may interplead in respect of part of the debt and dispute the remainder: Reading v. School Board for London, 16 Q. B. D. 686. An application may be in a pending action or by a separate proceeding under this section: Ib. and McElheran v. London Masonic, etc., 11 P. R. 181. On a separate application under this clause an action commenced against the debtor cannot be stayed: Reading v. School Board (sup), otherwise if a summary application is made in the action: McElheran v. London Masonic (sup).

The first part of Eng. J. A. 1873 s. 25 (6) makes choses in action assignable, and differs a little from the Ontario enactments on the same subject, which continue to be the law in this Province. The English enactment is as follows: Law in England as to assignment of debts.

"Any absolute assignment, by writing under the hand of the assignor (not purporting to be by way of charge only), of any debt or other legal chose in action, of which express notice in writing shall have been given to the debtor, trustee, or other person from whom the assignor would have been entitled to receive or claim such debt or chose in action, shall be, and be deemed to have been, effectual in law (subject to all equities which would have been entitled to priority over the right of the assignee if this Act had not passed), to pass and transfer the legal right to such debt or chose in action from the date of such notice, and all legal and other remedies for the same, and the power to give a good discharge for the same, without the concurrence of the assignor; provided always that if," etc., as above, except that the word "act" is used instead of the word "law."

The following are decisions under this provision:—

The enactment does not make anything an assignment which was not theretofore an assignment either at Law or in Equity: Schroeder v. The Central Bank, 24 W. R., 710; Re Haycocks Policy, 1 Ch. D. 611; In re Sutton's Trusts, 12 Ch. D. 175, nor does this Act affect the rule that the assignee of a chose in action takes it subject to all equities: West of England Banking Co. v. Batchelor, W. N., 1882, 11: see R. S. O. c. 116 s. 11 infra. This rule, however, does not apply in the case of a chose in action assignable at common law. Taylor v. Blakelock, 33 L. T. N. S. 8, 32 Ch. D. 560.

A cheque is a mere order to pay and a revocable request, and does not purport to be an absolute assignment: Schroeder v. City Bank, supra. After a cheque has been marked good by the bank, however, the drawer is discharged and the bank becomes the principal debtor: Boyd v. Nasmith, 17 Ont. 40.

The assignment of money accruing due but not yet due may be an absolute assignment: Brice v. Bannister, 3 Q. B. D. 569; British Waggon Co. v. Lea, 5 Q. B. D. 149, 154; Walker v. Bradford, 12 Q. B. D. 511, 516. A letter from a landlord to a tenant directing him to pay rent to another person till further order, was held to be so: Knill v. Prowse, 33 W. R. 163.

A deed by which debts are assigned to a trustee to receive them and thereout pay himself a sum due from the assignor, and pay the surplus to the assignor, is an absolute assignment (not purporting to be by way of charge only): Burlinson v. Hall, 12 Q. B. D. 347; so is a mortgage of debts due by the mortgagor in the ordinary form with proviso for redemption and reconveyance: Tancred v. Delagoa Bay Ry., 23 Q. B. D. 239, in which Nat. Provincial Bank of England v. Harle, 6 Q. B. D. 626, was disapproved of and not followed.

In Lee v. Magrath, 10 L. R. Ir. 45, 313, the payee of a promissory note not negotiable and not then payable indorsed it as follows: "I indorse the within promissory note for £100 to my sister L.," and delivered it to L. There was no consideration for the indorsement and delivery, but it was found as a fact that the intention was to vest in L. the beneficial interest. The payee died before the note was due, and bequeathed to one of the makers all moneys he should die possessed of, and appointed the legatee executor. Express notice in writing of the indorsement was given to the maker after the payee's death and before action. It was held that as the appointment of the maker of the note, executor of the payee, extinguished the debt prior to service of notice of the indorsement, there had been no legal transfer of the debt to L. within this sub-section so as to enable her to bring an action thereon.

Where the statement of claim alleged that the plaintiff sued as assignee by deed of a debt due from the defendant to the assignor on a building contract, and the defendant pleaded by way of set-off and counter-claim that he was entitled to damages for breaches of contract by the assignor to complete and deliver the buildings at the specified time, whereby the defendant lost the use of them, it was held, on demurrer, that the defendant was not entitled to recover any damages against the plaintiff; but was entitled, by way of set-off or deduction from the plaintiff's claim, to the damages which he had sustained by the non-performance of the contract by the assignor: Young v. Kitchin, 3 Ex. D. 127.

A banking company, having received notice in writing of conflicting claims to moneys placed with them on deposit, paid such moneys into Court under the Trustee Relief Acts after first deducting therefrom their costs of payment in. Upon petition by one of the claimants for payment out, it was held that the proviso in this sub-section applied only to debts of which there had been an absolute assignment in writing, and that the banking company, not being trustees within the Trustee Relief Acts, were not entitled to pay the deposit moneys into Court thereunder; but it was also held that the petitioner must be taken to have submitted to the jurisdiction under the Trustee Relief Acts by petitioning the Court; and that the bank was entitled to taxed costs of paying in the money, and of the petition: In re Sutton's Trusts, 12 Ch. D. 175; see In re Haycock's Policy, 1 Ch. D. 611.

Law in Ontario under R. S. O. c. 122.

The Ontario Law continues to be regulated by The Mercantile Amendment Act (R. S. O. c. 122, ss. 6 to 12,) which provides as follows:

"6. In the six next succeeding sections of this Act,

Interpretation of the word "assignee."

"'Assignee' shall include any person now being or hereafter becoming entitled by any first or subsequent assignment, or any derivative or other title, to a chose in action, and possessing at the time of action brought the beneficial interest therein, and the right to receive and to give an effectual discharge for the moneys, or the charge, lien, incumbrance, or other obligation thereby secured. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 6.

The assignee must take the beneficial interest. He cannot sue in his own name where the assignment has been made only to enable him to bring an action: Wood v. McAlpine, 1 Ont. App. 234. In Ward v. Hughes, 8 Ont. 138, it was held that where an assignment was absolute in form, though the assignor intended to retain a beneficial interest, an action upon it must be brought in the name of the assignee.

Chose in action made assignable.

"7. Every debt and chose in action arising out of contract shall be assignable at law by any form of writing, but subject to such conditions or restrictions with respect to the right of transfer as are contained in the original contract; and the assignee thereof shall (a) sue thereon in his own name in such action, and for such relief as the original holder or assignor of such chose in action would be entitled to sue for in any Court of Law in this Province. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 7.

Assignee to sue in his own name.

The imperative construction is apparently to be given to the word "shall," in the case of assignments within the operation of the Act: see Dawson v. Graham, 41 U. C. Q. B. 532, and Ward v. Hughes, 8 Ont. 138.

Debts payable at a future time may be assigned: Brice v. Bannister, 3 Q. B. D. 569, and other cases supra.

Assignment of property to self and others.

"8. Any property, real or personal, may be conveyed or assigned by a person to himself jointly with another person by the like means by which it might be conveyed or assigned by him to another person, and may in like manner be conveyed or assigned by a husband to his wife, and by a wife to her husband alone or jointly with another person. R. S. O. 1877, c. 95, s. 10; 49 V. c. 20, s. 6.

See Imp. Act, 22-23 V. c. 35, s. 21.

"9. (1) The bonds or debentures of corporations made payable to bearer, or to any person named therein or bearer, may be transferred by delivery, and if payable to any person or order shall (after general indorsation thereof by such person) be transferable by delivery from the time of such indorsation. Sec. 53. Bonds of corporations.

"(2) Any such transfer shall vest the property of such bonds or debentures in the holder thereof to enable him to maintain an action thereon in his own name. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 8.

"10. Subject to the provisions of The Judicature Act, the plaintiff in any action or suit where the assignment is required by this Act to be in writing may claim as assignee of the original party or first assignor, setting forth briefly the various assignments under which the said chose in action has become vested in him; but in all other respects the pleadings and proceedings in such action shall be as if the action was instituted in the name of the original party or first assignor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 9. Pleadings and proceedings.

"11. In case of any assignment of a debt or chose in action arising out of contract, and not assignable by delivery, such transfer shall be subject to any defence, or set-off, in respect of the whole or any part of such claim as existed at the time of, or before notice of the assignment to the debtor or other person sought to be made liable, in the same manner and to the same extent as such defence would be effectual, in case there had been no assignment thereof; and such defence or set-off shall apply as between the debtor and any assignee of such debt or chose in action. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 10. Original right of set-off and defence continued.

See The Exchange Bank v. Stinson, 32 C. P. 158. Assignee entitled free from contra

"12. In case of any assignment in writing as aforesaid and notice thereof given to the debtor or other person liable in respect of a chose in action, arising out of contract, the assignee shall have, hold and enjoy the same, free from any claims, defences, or equities which might arise after such notice as against his assignor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 11. claims to arise after notice for the persons liable.

"13. The next preceding seven sections of this Act shall not be construed to apply to bills of exchange or promissory notes. R. S. O. 1877, c. 116, s. 12. Secs. 6-12 not to apply to bills and notes.

6. Stipulations in contracts, as to time or otherwise, which would not before the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, have been deemed to be or to have become of the essence of such contracts in a Court of Equity, shall receive in all Courts the same construction and effect as they would, prior to the passing of said Act, have received in Equity. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (7). Stipulations not of the essence of contracts.

Same as Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 25 (7).

This sub-section has no application in an action commenced before the Act came into operation: Noble v. Edwardes, 5 Ch. D. 378.

Time is not the essence of a contract in Equity except in cases of express stipulation: Oakden v. Pike, 34 L. J. Chy. 620, or by necessary implication: Parker v. Thorold, 16 Beav. 59; see also Patrick v. Milner, 2 C. P. D. 342. The stipulation cannot be made by giving a notice, where not originally part of the contract, unless there has been such delay as to entitle the party giving the notice to be relieved from his contract: Green v. Sevin, 13 Ch. D. 589. See Crossfield v. Gould, 9 Ont. App. 218.

As to the equitable construction of stipulations in contracts as to time, see further Tilley v. Thomas, L. R. 3 Chy. 61.

As to the rule at Common Law and in Equity regarding the rescission of a contract obtained by a material false representation, see Redgrave v. Hurd, 20 Ch. D. 1; Peck v. Derry, 37 L. T. Jour. 184.

Sec. 53. Satisfaction of obligations by performance in part.

7. Part performance of an obligation, either before or after a breach thereof, when expressly accepted by the creditor in satisfaction, or rendered in pursuance of an agreement for that purpose, though without any new consideration, shall be held to extinguish the obligation. 48 V. c. 13, s. 6.

This clause changes the law as settled by the decision of the House of Lords in Foakes v. Beer, 9 App. Cas. 605. Since the old case of Cumber v. Wane, 1 Str. 426, it had been held that a debtor being under a legal obligation to pay the whole of his creditor's demand, an agreement upon payment of part to discharge the whole was nudum pactum, unless there was some new consideration. Many subsequent cases exemplified circumstances under which Cumber v. Wane might be distinguished, such as where some dispute existed as to the exact amount due, or the money was to be paid in advance, or there was the acceptance of some new consideration however slight, or a negotiable instrument was given for the smaller sum: 1 Smith L. C. 9th Ed. Bidder v. Bridges, 37 Ch. D. 406. In Foakes v. Beer, the House of Lords was asked to overrule Cumber v. Wane, but held that legislation was requisite for that purpose, the doctrine of that case having been part of the law of England for 280 years.

In Day v. McLea, 22 Q. B. D. 610, the plaintiffs made a claim for damages for breach of contract, the defendant sent a cheque for a less sum, saying that it was in full of all demands; plaintiffs kept the cheque stating that they did so on account, and brought an action for the balance of the claim. It was held that keeping the cheque was not as a matter of law conclusive that there was an accord and satisfaction, and that it was a question of fact on what terms the cheque was kept.

This clause was applied in Bank of Commerce v. Jenkins, 16 Ont. 215, where it was held that an agreement of composition by which notes for 40c. on the dollar were to be given was irrevocable, when entered into by a creditor, though other creditors had not given their assent.

Injunctions and receivers.

8. A mandamus or an injunction may be granted or a receiver appointed by an interlocutory order of the Court, in all cases in which it shall appear to the Court to be just or convenient that such order should be made; and any such order may be made either unconditionally, or upon such terms and conditions as the Court shall think just; and if an injunction is asked, either before, or at, or after the hearing of any cause or matter, to prevent any threatened or apprehended waste or trespass, such injunction may be granted, if the Court shall think fit, whether the person against whom such injunction is sought is or is not in possession under any claim of title or otherwise, or (if out of possession) does or does not claim a right to do the act sought to be restrained under any colour of title; and whether the estates claimed by both or by either of the parties are legal or equitable. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (8).

Identical with the English J. A. 1873, s. 25 (8).

Where an injunction or receiver is a substantial object of the action, the writ should be indorsed with a claim for that relief: Colbourne v. Colbourne, 1 Ch. D. 690, but may be had though not so claimed: Norton v. Gover, W. N. 1877, 206.

An "interlocutory order" means not merely an order made between writ and final judgment, but an order other than final judgment whether before or after final judgment: Smith v. Cowell, 6 Q. B. D. 75. See also Salt v. Cooper, 16 Ch. D. 544, and Agnew v. McDowell, 14 L. R. Ir. 445, where, after a verdict an injunction was granted against a continuance of the trespasses complained of in the action, no injunction having been granted at the trial. Sec. 53, (8).

As to the practice on such application see notes to Rule 1134.

Mandamus.—The jurisdiction as to mandamus before the Ont. Jud. Act, 1881, related to writs of two kinds, (1) the old prerogative writ of mandamus and (2) a writ which was grantable under various statutory provisions. Mandamus.

The prerogative writ was one which did not issue as of strict right like the writs which the subject had the right to call for under the clause of Magna Charta by which the Crown is bound not to refuse or delay justice or right, but issued at the discretion of the Crown, and the power to issue it was not delegated to the ordinary Judges between party and party, but the discretion of the Crown was exercised through that one of the Courts in which the Sovereign is supposed to be personally present: see 3 Bl. Com. 110, 132; 4 Mod. 340; Reg. v. Cowle, Burr. 855; Tapping 4; Shortt 223. For this reason it is still in England only granted on application to the Q. B. D. being considered one of the flowers of the old Court of Queen's Bench, now belonging to the Q. B. D.: Glossop v. Heston Local Board, 12 Ch. D. 115-116. The discretion which the Court possessed was not an arbitrary but a judicial discretion: see Reg. v. Wigan, 1 App. Cas. 622; but was only exercised where there was no other effectual remedy: Rex. v. University of Cambridge, 1 W. Bl. 552; Re Barlow, 30 L. J. Q. B. 271; Rex. v. Halls, 3 A. & E. 497. Prerogative writ.

In Ont. the Court of Q. B. had no special jurisdiction in the matter; and all the Divisions of the High Court have the same jurisdiction that any of the Courts formerly existing had: see sec. 20 of the Act, Re Stratford & Huron Railway and County of Perth, 38 U. C. Q. B. 156, per Moss, J.A., and Board of Education, Napanee, v. Napanee, 29 Gr. 395; Re Paris Skating Rink Co., 6 Ch. D. 731.

Of the writs of mandamus of the second kind there are examples under particular statutes, but of special importance, are two, viz.: (1) the mandamus authorized under the Imp. Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 125, s. 69, adopted here as C. S. U. C., c. 23, s. 1, now embodied in Rule 1112, and (2) the extension of that writ by the above sec. 53 (8) of the Jud. Act. Other writs of mandamus.

The plaintiff in any action in the High Court of Justice except replevin or ejectment may indorse upon the writ and copy to be served a notice that the plaintiff intends to claim a mandamus; and the plaintiff may thereupon claim in the statement of claim, either together with any other demand which may be enforced in such action or separately, a mandamus commanding the defendant to fulfil any duty in the fulfillment of which the plaintiff is personally interested. R. S. O., 1877, c. 52, s. 4. Under Rule, 1112.

The decisions under the Act from which this Rule was taken (as to which see notes to Rule 1112 and the elaborate notes of Chief Justice Harrison in his edition of the C. L. P. Act, pp. 462 et seq.) somewhat limited its application, possibly by reason of some confusion of the new writ with the old prerogative writ, (though a distinction between them is made in the Act: see R. S. O. 1877 c. 52 s. 10, where the right to issue the old writ is preserved) and it would seem that the intention of the above sec. 53 (8) of the Jud. Act was to enlarge the scope of the writ which was obtainable in an action.

This enactment goes further than the previous statutes and than Rule 1112, and enacts that a mandamus may be granted "by an interlocutory order of the Court in all cases in which it shall appear to the Court to be just or convenient that such order should be made." Under the Jud. Act.

The object of this clause was probably two-fold (1) to enlarge the discretion of the Court in granting writs of mandamus, and (2) to enable the writ to be obtained on interlocutory application, and not merely as part of the judgment

Sec. 53, (5). in an action. The latter matter possibly did not require legislation in this Province, as the Act 35 Vict. c. 14 s. 1 (now Rule 1124) enabled parties to obtain a mandamus on motion in Chambers.

The mandamus referred to in this section is not the old prerogative writ, "but only a mandamus which may be granted to direct the performance of some act, of something to be done, which is the result of an action where an action will lie," per Brett, L.J. in Glossop v. Heston, etc., 12 Ch. D. 122.

Although the Court or a Judge has power to grant a mandamus on an interlocutory application, it will not be done unless the plaintiff clearly shows that he will suffer some injury by waiting for the result of the action: In re Paris Skating Rink Co., 6 Ch. D. 731; Widnes Alkali Co. v. Sheffield and Midland Railway's Co's Committee, 37 L. T. N. S. 131.

Decisions as to the prerogative writ.

The perogative writ of mandamus is not interfered with by any enactment. It is preserved for the extraordinary cases where without it a party would be left without effectual remedy. See cases supra and Bush v. Beavan, 1 H. & C. 500; Tp. of Moulton and Haldimand, 12 Ont. App. 503; Re Massey M'g Co. 11 Ont. 444; 13 Ont. App. 446; Reg. v. Lambourne Ry., 22 Q. B. D. 463.

It is not the appropriate remedy for the enforcement of rights arising out of contract: Re London H. and B. Ry. and Tp. Wawanosh, 36 U. C. Q. B. 93; Re Hamilton and N. W. Ry. and Halton, 39 U. C. Q. B. 93. If a mandamus be grantable in such a case it is the mandamus which may be claimed in an action under Rule 1112, or the above sec. 53 (8).

Formerly the existence of another remedy in Equity was not sufficient reason for refusing the writ, the Court dealing with the matter being a Court of Law only considered whether there was another specific remedy at Law: see R. v. Stafford, 3 T. R. 652: Re Hamilton and N. W. Ry. v. Halton, 39 U. C. Q. B. 93. The question was much discussed in the Court of Appeal in Re Stratford and Huron Ry. Co. and Perth, 38 U. C. Q. B., 112, whether after the Admin. of Justice Act 1873 (which made all the Courts auxiliary to one another) a party who disclosed a case entitling him to relief in Equity should succeed, though he had chosen to proceed in one of the Courts of Law by way of motion for a mandamus. The Court was divided, and therefore this view did not prevail.

Since the Ont. Jud. Act, by which there is but one Court administering both Law and Equity, the existence of any other remedy, legal or equitable, which the Court can apply will probably be sufficient reason for not interfering by way of the prerogative writ of mandamus.

A petition of right has been considered to be other appropriate remedy: Reg. v. Commissioners of Inland Revenue, 32 W. R. 543.

Where a peremptory mandamus is granted the decision is subject to review: Reg. v. Churchwardens of All Saints, 1 App. Cas. 611: Reg. v. Bangor, 18 Q. B. D. 349, 360. A mandamus will not be granted against a public body when the performance of the duty sought to be enforced is impossible by reason of want of funds: Re Bristol and Somerset Ry., 3 Q. B. D. 10. See Atty.-Gen. v. Dorking, 20 Ch. D. 595.

Practice.

As to the practice on motions for mandamus, see notes to Rules 1124 and 1134.

When a mandamus is granted, as to the return thereto, and practice thereon, see Rules 1120-1123 and notes.

Motions under this section in an action are made in Court, but in the case of a mandamus provision is made for a summary application in Chambers: see Re Brookfield, etc., 12 P. R. 485, and Rules 1117, 1124 and 1134.

Injunctions.

Injunctions—Scope of the Act—The meaning of the words "just and convenient" and whether they have enlarged the powers of the Court, has been considerably discussed.

Scope of enactment as to injunctions.

An injunction may be granted where the Court thinks that it is just and convenient: Thorley's Cattle Food Company v. Massam, 6 Ch. D. 582; Hinrichs v. Berndes, W. N. 1878, 11; Saxby v. Easterbrook, 3 C. P. D. 339; Re Cambrian Mining Co., 29 W. R. 881, and the words of the section rather enlarge than diminish the arm of the Court in respect of injunction: per Fry, J., in Thomas v. Williams, 43 L. T. N. S. 94; 49 L. J. Chy. 605. But it is with regard to settled legal reasons or principles that the Court will decide what is just and convenient: Beddow v. Beddow, 9 Ch. D. 89; Shaw v. E. of Jersey, 4 C. P. D. 359; Gaskin v. Balls, 13 Ch. D. 324; Fletcher v. Rogers, 27 W. R. 97; Aslatt v. Corporation of Southampton, 16 Ch. D. 143; and this sub-section does not in the least alter the principles upon which the Court should act: Day v. Brownrigg, 10 Ch. D. 294, and does not empower the Court to grant an injunction in a case where before the Act the party applying would have had no remedy either at Law or in Equity: N. London Ry. Co. v. Great Northern Ry. Co. 31 W. R. 490; 48 L. T. N. S. 695; 52 L. J. Q. B. 380; W. N. 1883, 33; Banner v. G. W. Ry. 24 Ch. D. 1. See also Robinson v. Pickering, 16 Ch. D. 660. Sec. 53, (8).

In London & Blackwell Ry. Co. v. Cross, 55 L. J. Chy. 313, it was held that the enlarged powers as to injunctions given by this section did not enable the Court to restrain a person from proceeding for compensation under the Lands Clauses Act, though the claim be futile or vexatious and made in the name of a third party without his authority. The Court acts in such case on the ground that its process is being abused.

There is no right to restrain the removal of exigible goods where there is no subsisting judgment or order under which execution might be issued: see Newton v. Newton, 55 L. J. Pro. 13; nor the alienation of her separate property by a married woman pending an action against her to recover a debt: Nat. Prov. Bank v. Thomas, 24 W. R. 1013.

No Court will issue an injunction where if the thing sought to be restrained is allowed to go on, no legal injury is done to any one: per Brett, L.J.: N. London Ry. Co. v. G. N. Ry. Co., 48 L. T. N. S. 696.

In Street v. Union Bank of Spain and England, 30 Ch. D. 156, an injunction restraining the use of the telegraphic name "Street London" was refused, it being held that defendants had done no injury, and that the matter was simply one of inconvenience, which the Court had no jurisdiction to restrain, though mistakes had occurred and plaintiff's telegrams had been received and opened by defendants.

But the Court has jurisdiction to grant an injunction to give effect to a legal right, and the only limit to such jurisdiction then is, that it shall be just and convenient to make the order: Corporation of Cork v. Rooney, 7 L. R. Ir. 191. To use the words of Jessel, M.R., in Aslatt v. Corporation of Southampton (supra) at p. 148: "Of course the words 'just and convenient' do not mean that the Court is to grant an injunction simply because the Court thinks it convenient. It means that the Court should grant an injunction for the protection of rights, or for the prevention of injury according to legal principles. The moment it is found that there is a legal principle, that a man is about to suffer serious injury and that there is no pretence for inflicting that injury upon him, the Court ought to interfere."

The granting of an injunction to restrain the doing of a particular thing is an act dependent on the discretion of the Court and in exercising its discretion the Court will consider amongst other things whether the Act complained of will produce injury to the applicant, whether the injury can be atoned for by damages, and whether the damages must be sought in successive suits or may be obtained once for all: Doherty v. Allman, 3 App. Cas. 709.

As to the term of imprisonment of persons in contempt for breach of an order of the Court: see Re Davies, 21 Q. B. D. 236.

The right to an injunction to restrain trespassers formerly depended on whether the person sought to be restrained was in possession or not, and if in possession whether he was a mere trespasser or acted under colour of right: see Kerr on Injunctions 289, Loundes v. Bettle, 33 L. J. Ch. 451; 10 Jur. N. S. 226; Stansford v. Hurlstone, L. R. 9 Chy. 116. But the Canadian Legislature long since dealt with this difficulty by enacting (20 Vict. c. 56, s. 4; Con. Stat. U. C. c. 12, s. 27; R. S. O. c. 40 s. 39) that "the Court may grant an injunction to stay waste in a proper case notwithstanding that the party in possession claims by an adverse legal title." The enactment in the above clause 53 (8) is to the same effect. Restraining trespassers.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Sec. 53, (8). In Anon W. N. 1876, 38, an ex parte application for an injunction restraining a man from trespassing with a horse and cart was refused, the Judge remarking that "injunctions are not ordinarily granted for mere trespass unless serious injury is threatened to the property." On a fresh application being made in this case, after notice to the defendant, no order was made on the defendant consenting that damages should be assessed up to the date of the trial: Makin v. Barrow, ib. 165.

Interlocutory injunctions. Interlocutory Injunctions.—The office of an interlocutory injunction is simply to retain matters in statu quo till the trial; Erie and Niagara Ry. Co. v. G. W. R. Co., 21 Gr. 171; and the Court will not determine legal rights on such an interlocutory application: G. T. Ry. Co. v. Credit Valley R. Co., 26 Gr. 572. See also Lybbe v. Harte, W. N. 1883, 127; and Attenborough v. London, etc., Telephone Co., W. N. 1884, 2, where the Court declined to consider the questions involved till the hearing.

The Court will not by an interlocutory order interfere on behalf of one party in a way which might injure the other in case he should succeed: Hill v. Kirkwood, 28 W. R. 358; 42 L. T. N. S. 105; Evans v. Puleston, W. N., 1880, 127.

A plaintiff was held not entitled to have matters kept in statu quo by an injunction, not merely until the trial, but until the case could be heard by the Court of Appeal, where the decisions in Courts of first instance were against the plaintiff, and therefore unless time was given to take the case to the Court of Appeal he would be without substantial relief: Wyld v. McMaster, 4 Ont. 717.

The Court may interfere by mandatory injunction on an interlocutory application, but the right must be very clear indeed: Toronto Brewing and Malting Co. v. Blake, 2 Ont. 175; Bonner v. G. W. Ry Co., 24 Ch. D. 10. A mandatory injunction to pull down buildings will not be granted upon an interlocutory application: Johnston v. Royal Courts of Justice, W. N. 1883, 5.

Any injunction which can be granted by interlocutory order, can a fortiori be granted at the trial: Beddow v. Beddow, 9 Ch. D. 93.

As to the mode of disposing of the costs where a party obtains the relief he seeks on an interlocutory motion, see Sonnenschein v. Barnard, 57 L. T. N. S. 712.

The plaintiff must shew upon his own material a prima facie right to the injunction, otherwise it will not be granted, however much the balance of convenience may be in favor of granting it: Société Anonyme, etc., v. Tilghman, etc., 25 Ch. D. 1.

Balance of convenience. The Court on an interlocutory application for an injunction should consider the balance of convenience, and if on the one hand irreparable injury may be caused by withholding the injunction, while on the other hand any injury occasioned by the injunction may be compensated for by damages, the injunction should be granted: Corporation of Cork v. Rooney, 7 L. R. Ir. 191; see also Atty-Gen. v. Dorking, 20 Ch. D. 595; Bonner v. G. W. Ry. Co., 24 Ch. D. 10; and Mason v. Grand Junction Ry. Co., 26 Gr. note p. 289; Grafton v. Watson, 51 L. T. N. S. 141; 27 Ch. D. 43; Walker v. Clarke, 56 L. T. N. S. 111; 35 W. R. 245; Hamilton, etc., Road Co. v. Raspberry, 13 Ont. 466.

In patent cases. The principles on which the Court ought to act in determining whether to grant an interlocutory injunction to restrain an alleged infringement of a patent, or only to require the defendant to keep an account, were discussed in Plimpton v. Spiller, 4 Ch. D. 286.

Mandatory injunctions. Mandatory Injunctions.—These may be granted as formerly: see Strelley v. Pearson, 28 W. R. 752; Mullins v. Howell, 11 Ch. D. 763; Smith v. Smith, L. R. 20 Eq. 504; Gaskin v. Balls, 13 Ch. D. 324; Hermann Loog v. Bean, 26 Ch. D. 306; but an injunction will not be granted where the proper remedy is a prerogative writ of mandamus: Glossop v. Heston Loc. Board, 12 Ch. D. 120; Attorney-Gen. v. Dorking, 20 Ch. D. 595.

For a statement of the function of a mandatory injunction, see Glossop v. Heston, 12 Ch. D. 120.

Miscellaneous Decisions.—The following are further decisions since the Jud. Act, illustrating the principles on which the Court acts in regard to injunctions: Sec. 53, (8). Miscellaneous cases.

The Court has no jurisdiction to prevent a foreign sovereign from removing his property in this country, though it be an article made in infringement of a patent; and a foreign sovereign who submits to be made a defendant in an action for the purpose of empowering the Court to make an order does not thereby part with any of his rights: Vavasseur v. Krupp, 9 Ch. D. 351. Foreign sovereign.

In the absence of any sufficient equity to justify it the Court will not restrain by injunction a plaintiff from proceeding in a foreign Court. Mere hardship or inconvenience will not be sufficient reason: Fletcher v. Rodgers, 27 W. R. 97, but where a foreigner has appeared in an English Court the Court has a discretion to restrain him from litigating the same subject matter in his own country: Dawkins v. Simonetti, 29 W. R. 228. Proceedings in foreign Courts.

In Ex parte McPhail, 12 Ch. D. 632, Jessel, M.R., refused leave to serve a writ out of the jurisdiction on the ground that the plaintiff could have as effectual a remedy by application to the local Court. As to providing for an injunction where the writ is to be served out of the jurisdiction, see Young v. Brassey, 1 Ch. D. 277.

Property which is the subject of an action may be preserved under Rule 1135, by means of an injunction: Strelley v. Pearson, 43 L. T. N. S. 155. Preservation of property.

In Velati & Co. v. Braham & Co., 46 L. J., C. P. 415, which was an action against a jeweller for the return of goods deposited with him, the defendant was ordered to deliver up the goods to an officer of the Court to abide the event of the action.

In London and County Banking Co. v. Lewis, 21 Ch. D. 490, an equitable mortgagee who had commenced an action for foreclosure obtained an injunction restraining the defendant from parting with the legal estate.

In Anon, W. N., 1876, 21, a defendant was restrained from parting with a bill of exchange. See also Anon, ibid 37.

Injunctions have been granted restraining the committee of a club from acting improperly in expelling a member: Fisher v. Keane, 11 Ch. D. 353; Labouchere v. Earl of Wharncliffe, 13 Ch. D. 346; see also Dawkins v. Antrobus, 17 Ch. D. 615; Foster v. Harrison, W. N. 1881, 171; restraining the publication of libels: Thorley Cattle Food Co. v. Massam, 14 Ch. D. 763; Saxby v. Easterbrook, 3 C. P. D. 339; Hayward v. Hayward, 34 Ch. D. 198; or slanderous oral statements injuriously affecting property or trade: Hermann Loog v. Bean, sup.; or tending to injure a friendly society or a joint stock company: Hill v. Hart Davies, 31 W. R. 22; 47 L. T. N. S. 82. Though the jurisdiction in the case of such libels is clear, even on an interlocutory application, the Court only acts in a strong case and in general not unless satisfied that the statements complained of are untrue: Quartz Hill Gold Mining Co. v. Beall, 20 Ch. D. 501, and are clearly libellous; nor where there would be great difficulty in framing an order so as not to prejudice the trial: Liverpool, etc., Stores Assocn. v. Egerton, 57 L. T. N. S. 770; 58 L. T. N. S. 204; 37 Ch. D. 170. See also Hinrichs v. Berndes, W. N. 1878, 11; and Liverpool, etc. v. Smith, 37 Ch. D. 170, where an injunction was refused. Restraining action of clubs. Libels.

The Court has jurisdiction to restrain the commission of acts which if committed would be a contempt of Court, e. g., the threatened publication of a statement of claim with comments, as calculated to prevent a fair trial: Kitcat v. Sharp, 31 W. R. 227; 48 L. T. N. S. 64; publication of advertisements warning the public that an invention claimed by the plaintiff is an infringement of defendant's patent rights: see Barney v. United Telephone Co., 28 Ch. D. 394. Threatened contempt.

To maintain an action quia timet to restrain an apprehended injury the plaintiff must prove imminent danger of a substantial kind, or that the apprehended injury, if it does come, will be irreparable: Fletcher v. Bealey, 28 Ch. D. 688. Apprehended injury.

An injunction may be granted restraining an act, though a statute imposes a penalty for its commission: Hamilton, etc., Road Co. v. Raspberry, 13 Ont. 466.

Sec. 53, (8). An injunction is granted against a person not a party, only when he is agent of a party, or in cases where he is doing something which amounts to contempt of the Court or its process: Re Gay & Gay v. Hancock, 80 L. T. Jour. 392.

Arbitrator. The Court will restrain an arbitrator from acting in any case in which he is, in the opinion of the Court, unfit or incompetent to act: Malmesbury v. Budd, 2 Ch. D. 89; Beddow v. Beddow, 9 Ch. D. 89. In Nicholas v. Bracachis, 1 P. D. 72, (see also The Horlock, 36 L. T. N. S. 226), the Court restrained all persons from dealing with shares in a ship forming part of the estate of a deceased p[illegible]. See also Boyle v. Bettws Llantwit Colliery Co., 2 Ch. D. 726.

Trade marks. An injunction will be granted to restrain the exportation of goods under a trade mark likely to deceive a foreign though not a home purchaser: Orr Ewing v. Johnston, 13 Ch. D. 434.

Landlord and tenant. Where an injunction was applied for to restrain a landlord from exercising his [illegible] of distress, until the determination of an action brought by the tenant against the landlord, to try his right to the rent, the injunction was granted for a fortnight, and continued only if the rent should in the meantime be paid into Court: Shaw v. Earl of Jersey, 4 C. P. D. 120, 359.

An injunction will not be granted at the suit of a landlord or reversioner to restrain a trespass or nuisance not of a permanent character, or not actually injuring the reversion: Cooper v. Crabtree, 47 L. T. N. S. 5; 51 L. J. Chy. 189.

In Blewitt v. Dowling W. N. 1875, 202, an action of ejectment against a landlord, the plaintiff was restrained from issuing writs against the tenants. In Drakes Patent Concrete v. Dower, Ib. 230, an order was granted restraining the defendant from pulling down partially erected houses. In Fenner v. Bedford, Ib. 238, an order was made on an ex parte application restraining the continuance of trespasses and destruction of property, and liberty was given to serve the order on any persons found on the premises as well as the defendant. In Tozer v. Walford, Ib. 250, a defendant who had covenanted not to do any act dangerous to his co-tenants, was restrained from working an engine, in consequence of the working of which the plaintiff's insurance company had refused to continue his insurance, whereby he had become liable under a covenant with his superior landlord.

An injunction restraining a landowner from taking proceedings before Justices of the Peace on an irregular notice under a Drainage Act, was granted as shorter and cheaper than a prohibition: Hedley v. Bates, 13 Ch. D. 498; but this was because the Court was seised of the case aliunde. Where it is a mere case of prohibition and the Court is not called upon to decide the question on other grounds, between the same parties, there is no reason for changing the proceeding from prohibition to injunction: Stannard v. Vestry of St. Giles, 20 Ch. D. 196, 197.

It was held that an action for an injunction may be commenced against a Local Board without the month's notice required by the Public Health Act, in all cases where before the Judicature Act, a bill would have been sustained in Chancery for an injunction; and although damages are claimed by way of subsidiary relief: Flower v. Low Leyton Local Board, 5 Ch. D. 347; and when the action is bona fide brought for an injunction, damages may be awarded in lieu of the injunction, though no notice of action has been given: Chapman v. Auckland, 23 Q. B. D. 294.

Where if the defendant succeeded in the House of Lords her success would be useless unless the fund was protected in the meantime, it was held that the injunction ought to be continued pending the appeal: Polini v. Gray; Sturla v. Freccia, 12 Ch. D. 438.

Delay. Delay is, in general, no bar to an injunction in aid of a legal right, unless the legal remedy is barred by the lapse of time: Fullwood v. Fullwood, 47, L. J. Chy. 459; but where buildings (which transgressed the provisions of restrictive covenants) had been allowed to remain for five years without complaint, an injunction was refused: Gaskin v. Balls, 13 Ch. D. 324.

Hearing in camera. In Mellor v. Thompson, 31 Ch. D. 55, an injunction motion was heard in camera on the ground that a public hearing would defeat the object of the action.

As to awarding damages with, or in lieu of, an injunction, see sec. 53 (9). Sec. 53, (8).

Undertaking as to Damages.—An interlocutory injunction ought to be conditional upon an undertaking as to damages: Graham v. Campbell, 7 Ch. D. 491; Corp. of Cork v. Rooney, 7 L. R. Ir. 191; Re Johnston ex p. Abrams, 50 L. T. N. S. 184. Damages.

An order having been made restraining the defendant from proceeding with certain buildings, he appealed, offering an undertaking to abide by any order the Court might make at the hearing as to pulling down or altering any buildings erected by him; the Court of Appeal, being of opinion that the right to an interlocutory injunction was not established, discharged the order, taking from the defendant an undertaking in the terms of his offer, but held that, without any undertaking, the Court would have jurisdiction at the trial to order the pulling down of any buildings erected after the commencement of the action, or after notice had been given to the defendant that the plaintiff objected to the building: Smith v. Day, 13 Ch. D. 651. Undertaking as to damages.

The undertaking of a married woman as to damages is sufficient: Re Prynne, 53 L. T. N. S. 465.

As to enforcing an undertaking as to damages, see note to Rule 1134.

Notice, and enforcement, of Injunctions.—A notice granting an injunction may be given by telegram. A sheriff's officer who receives such a notice should inquire by telegraph to see if it be bona fide: Ex parte Langley, 13 Ch. D. 110, in which case it was held that a London solicitor obtaining an order restraining a sale in the country ought to telegraph to his agent at the place and ask him to give notice to the persons affected. See also Re Bryant, 4 Ch. D. 98. A defendant is bound to obey an injunction of which he is made aware before being served with it: Stewart v. Richardson, 17 Gr. 150; and a wilful breach of the injunction may be punished by committal, even though there had been ample time to serve the order, and it had not been served: United Telephone Co. v. Dale, 25 Ch. D. 778. See The Seraglio, 10 P. D. 120. Notice of injunction.

Receivers.—This sub-section seems to have enlarged the right to a receiver. In Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies, 9 Ch. D., at p. 293, Cotton, L.J., said, "Under that (the present) sub-section the Court may and does grant receivers where it never could have done so before. Thus, for instance, it has the power to grant a receiver under that section where a plaintiff has himself the power of obtaining possession at law." See also Tillet v. Nixon, 49 L. T. N. S. 598; 25 Ch. D. 238; The Ampthill, 5 P. D. 224, and Gawthorpe v. Gawthorpe, W. N., 1878, 91, where Jessel, M.R., considered that there was no limit to the power of the Court to grant a receiver on motion, except that it was only to be exercised where it appeared just and convenient. (In Habershon v. Gill, W. N., 1875, 231, Quain, J., had indicated an opinion that the words "just and convenient" were to be interpreted by the old practice.) Scope of the enactment as to receivers.

The former Common Law Courts had no power to appoint Receivers.

In Chancery a Receiver would not be appointed at the instance of a mortgagee having the legal estate, or other person able to obtain protection at law: Berney v. Sewell, 1 J. & W. 647; Buxton v. Monkhouse, G. Coop, 41; Kelsey v. Kelsey, L. R. 17 Eq. 495. But see now Tillett v. Nixon, 25 Ch. D. 238, and Mason v. Westoby, 32 Ch. D. 206, and note supra, as to the power of the Court now in all cases where it is "just and convenient."

Thus in Pease v. Fletcher, 1 Ch. D. 273, where the plaintiff was mortgagee of property, as to some of which his title was legal and as to some equitable, Bacon, V.C., on an interlocutory application, appointed a receiver for the whole. In Truman v. Redgrave, 18 Ch. D. 547, a receiver was granted on application of a legal mortgagee who was prevented by the mortgagor from taking possession, and an injunction restraining the mortgagor from interfering with the management of the business and possession of the premises. (See the form of order in that case.) So the Court has power now to appoint a receiver where the title to the property is uncertain and disputed: Berry v. Keen, 51 L. J. Chy. 912. Such cases as Talbot v. Hope Scott, 4 K. & J. 139, and Dunn v. Ferrior, L. R. 3 Chy. 719, are not now law (ib).

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Sec. 53, (8). An interim receiver of rents has been, however, refused to the plaintiff in an action of ejectment: Powell v. Powell, 73 L. T. Jour. 140, but granted in an action by a landlord against his tenant for recovery of land, under a proviso for re-entry: Gwatkin v. Bird, 52 L. J. Q. B. 263, and granted in Real and Personal Advance Co. v. McCarthy, 27 W. R. 706; 40 L. T. N. S. 878, an action of ejectment by a sub-mortgagee, where the property was wasting and insufficient, and the plaintiff's action had been stayed till another action by defendant against the plaintiff and others should be ready for trial.

In an action for partition, where one of the co-owners is in occupation, though not in exclusive occupation of the property, the Court has jurisdiction under this sub-section to appoint a receiver until the hearing: Porter v. Lopes, 7 Ch. D. 358. So in an action to enforce specific performance of a parol agreement to execute a bill of sale of personal chattels upon an ex parte motion before appearance of defendant, there being evidence of immediate danger of the chattels in question being disposed of: Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302. Where in an administration action the defendant, the sole surviving executor and trustee of the testator, had been personally condemned in costs in an action to test the validity of the will, and an execution had been issued against him, and there had been a return of nulla bona on the application of the present plaintiffs, who were executors of the deceased executor of the testator, who was also a creditor of the testator and a residuary legatee, a receiver of the proceeds of the sale of part of the testator's real estate, and of the rent of the other part, and of the outstanding personal estate was granted: Gawthorpe v. Gawthorpe, W. N., 1878, 91.

An interpleader issue being ordered to try the right to goods seized in execution a receiver and manager of the property may be appointed under this section instead of a sale by the Sheriff; e. g., where the property was a cab business, a going concern: Howell v. Dawson, 13 Q. B. D. 67.

A simple contract creditor of a joint stock Co. cannot obtain an interim order appointing a receiver of the assets of the Co. on the ground that the Co. is insolvent, or has made an assignment of its assets: McCall v. Canada Farmers' Mort. Ins. Co., 18 C. L. J. 117 following, Mills v. Northern Ry. of Buenos Ayres Co., 5 Chy. 621.

As to the rights of debenture holders of a company, see Hubbuck v. Helms, 56 L. T. N. S. 232.

In a creditor's action for administration against an executrix, a decree had been made and a summons taken out for a receiver; but pending the summons the sole defendant died. The Court, on the application of the plaintiff, appointed an interim receiver, whose powers were to extend for ten days after the appointment of an administrator de bonis non, the plaintiff undertaking to use all possible speed in obtaining the appointment of such administrator, and to accept short notice of motion to discharge the receiver: In re Parker, Cash v. Parker, 12 Ch. D. 293.

Receivers by way of equitable execution. Receivers have till recently been often appointed as a means of enforcing judgments and reaching property not capable of being seized under an execution, e. g. at the instance of the plaintiff who had recovered judgment, and sued out an elegit against the debtor whose only interest in land was an equity of redemption in fee, for the protection of the property until a decree could be obtained, under which the equity of redemption could be reached: see Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies, 9 Ch. D. 275, also Re Watkins, 13 Ch. D. 252; and in Re Pope, 34 W. R. 693, without first suing out an elegit.

In Ontario the Sheriff can sell an equity of redemption.

Similarly a receiver has been appointed to reach the life interest of a married woman in stock: Bryant v. Bull, 10 Ch. D. 153; a legacy to a debtor expectant upon the death of a tenant for life: Macnicoll v. Parnell, 35 W. R. 773; a judgment debtor's interest in subsisting life insurance policies and in a charge upon land: Beamish v. Stephenson, 18 L. R. Ir. 319; moneys secured by mortgage held by the debtor who was resident out of the Province: Parent v. Lortie, 7 C. L. T. 195; and in other cases where proceedings for equitable execution are not applicable: see Westhead v. Riley, 25 Ch. D. 413; Book v. Ruth, 20 C. L. J. 193.

On such application the plaintiff was sometimes appointed the receiver. Thus a judgment creditor of a husband and wife, was upon his own application appointed receiver of the income of the wife's reversionary interest under a will: Fuggle v. Bland, 11 Q. B. D. 711. See also Book v. Ruth, sup.; Hewett v. Murray, 52 L. T. N. S. 380; McGarry v. White, 16 L. R. Ir. 322. Sec. 53, (8).

In Kincaid v. Kincaid, 12 P. R. 462, this was called "one of the now usual and ordinary methods of execution," and it was held to be no answer to the motion that the judgment creditor could probably make the amount of his judgment by sale of other property under common law process, but in Manchester, etc. v. Parkinson, 22 Q. B. D. 173, it was held that in the absence of any legal impediment to obtaining execution of the judgment in the ordinary course of law by fi. fa., or attachment of debts, and of any special circumstances showing it to be just or convenient, an appointment of a receiver should not be made. Street, J., in Trust & Loan Co. v. Gorsline, 12 P. R. 654, refused an order in a case where a garnishing order would afford a remedy. In view of the enlarged powers of attachment under Rule 935, a garnishing order will in general suffice, and it has now been decided in the Chancery Division, that a receiver can only be appointed at all, since the Creditors' Relief Act, to receive and distribute in accordance with the principle of that Act: Silvester Mfg. Co. v. McEachon, 9 C. L. T. 138, and he should probably be an officer of the Court. Kirk v. Burgess, 15 Ont. 608.

Except in cases of emergency the application should be on notice. Still, in cases of emergency a receiver will be appointed ex parte not only before appearance: Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302; but before service of writ: re H.'s estate, 1 Ch. D. 276; Colbourne v. Colbourne, 1 Ch. D. 690; Hyde v. Warden, 1 Ex. D. 309: Evans v. Lloyd, W. N. 1889, 171. Practice.

In an action for the specific performance of an agreement to accept a lease of a farm in which judgment had been given for the defendant, the plaintiff having appealed, the Court of Appeal (no previous application having been made to the Divisional Court or a Judge) appointed the plaintiff receiver and manager of the farm without security, on his undertaking to abide by any order which the Court might make in the matter: Hyde v. Warden, 1 Ex. D. 309.

The plaintiff may be appointed receiver in cases of emergency: Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302; and under special circumstances; Hyde v. Warden, 1 Ex. D. 309; but not the plaintiff's solicitor: In re Lloyd Allan v. Lloyd, 12 Ch. D. 447; one of the members of a dissolved partnership in certain cases may be appointed receiver: Sargant v. Read, 1 Ch. D. 600. The manager of a mining company was appointed receiver in an action by debenture holders against the company for foreclosure: Peek v. Trinsmaran Iron Company, 2 Ch. D. 115.

An unpaid vendor of property of a company in voluntary liquidation, and unable from insolvency to carry on its works, was appointed without security or salary: Boyle v. Bettws Llantwit Colliery Company, 2 Ch. D. 726.

The receiver must, as a rule, give security, but, in case of emergency, an interim receiver will be appointed without security: Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302. Persons who are deeply interested in the proper management of a concern will not always be required to give security: Boyle v. Bettws, etc., Co., 2 Ch. D. 726.

Where security is required, the receiver has no title until his security is perfected: Edwards v. Edwards, 2 Ch. D. 291; but he is liable to account for all moneys coming to his hands in that capacity at any time, and his sureties are responsible for any moneys: Smart v. Flood, 49 L. T. N. S. 467.

A defendant may apply for an injunction and a receiver: Sargant v. Read, 1 Ch. D. 600, in which case both plaintiff and defendant applied, and the plaintiff was appointed personally, on the ground that he was the most suitable person, as the business required almost professional skill. Formerly the defendant could not apply before decree: Robinson v. Hadley, 11 Beav. 614.

The appointment of a receiver is in the discretion of the Court, and the Court of Appeal will not, as a rule, interfere with that discretion: Nothard v. Proctor, 1 Ch. D. 4.

Sec. 53, (9, 10).

A person who is not a party to an action is not entitled to apply by motion for payment of money to him by a receiver appointed in the action, even though his claim is made in respect of a debt properly payable out of the funds in the receiver's hands: Brocklebank v. East London Railway Company, 12 Ch. D. 839; see Neate v. Pink, 15 Sim. 450; 3 Mac. & G. 476.

Court may award damages, etc.

9. In all cases in which the Court has jurisdiction to entertain an application for an injunction against a breach of any covenant, contract or agreement or against the commission or continuance of any wrongful act, or for the specific performance of any covenant, contract, or agreement, the Court, if it thinks fit, may award damages to the party injured either in addition to or in substitution for such injunction or specific performance, and such damages may be ascertained in such manner as the Court may direct, or the Court may grant such other relief as it may deem just. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 10.

Taken from Lord Cairn's Act 21 & 22 Vict. c. 27, s. 2 (6). This section does not enable the Court to grant damages in a case where before the Act damages were not recoverable, e. g., in the case of an oral agreement not capable of specific performance in Equity, and in respect of which the defendant, in an action at law for damages, might have successfully pleaded the Statute of Frauds: Re Northumberland Avenue Hotel Co., Sully's Case, 54 L. T. N. S. 76, 33 Ch. D. 16. See also Lavery v. Pursell, 37 W. R. 163.

Where a plaintiff has established his right to a perpetual injunction, the Court has no power to oblige him to accept damages in lieu of an injunction: Krehl v. Burrell, 11 Ch. D. 146, and Greenwood v. Hornsey, 33 Ch. D. 471, in which Holland v. Worley, 26 Ch. D. 378, was distinguished. See also Allen v. Ayres, W. N. 1884, 242.

When the wrongful act has ceased before trial the Court may under this Act in lieu of an injunction, which would be useless, assess at the trial the damages from the commencement of the wrongful act, including damages accrued since the writ: Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542, 557.

Where the wrongful act has been discontinued before suit without the plaintiff's knowledge it was held that the Court had no jurisdiction under the above enactment to make a decree for damages: Brockington v. Palmer, 18 Gr. 488.

See also White v. Boby, 37 L. T. N. S. 652; Kino v. Rudkin, 6 Ch. D. 160; National Provincial Plate Glass Ins. Co. v. Prudential Ass. Co., 6 Ch. D. 761; Krehl v. Burrell 7 Ch. D. 551; Fritz v. Hobson, 14 Ch. D. 542; Rock Portland Cement Co. v. Wilson, 52 L. J. Chy. 217; Sayers v. Collyer, 28 Ch. D. 103, and Serrao v. Noel, 15 Q. B. D. 549.

Purchaser not affected by irregularities in orders of Court.

10. An order of the Court under any statutory or other jurisdiction shall not, as against a purchaser, whether with or without notice be invalidated on the ground of want of jurisdiction, or of want of any concurrence, consent, notice, or service. 49 V. c. 20, s. 20.

See Calvert v. Godfrey, 6 Beav. 97; and Blean v. Blean, 10 Ont. 693.

11. In questions relating to the custody and education of infants, the Rules of Equity shall prevail. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (9). Sec. 53, (11). Infants.

Sar. as English J. A. 1873 s. 25 (10).

The Common Law rule upon these subjects is thus stated in Re Andrews, L. R. 8 Q. B., at p. 158:—"It appears to have been the invariable practice of the Common Law Courts, on an application for a habeas corpus to bring up the body of the child detained from the father (and the case would be the same as to a testamentary guardian, or guardian appointed by the Court; Wellesley v. Beaufort, 2 R. & M. 639) to enforce the father's right to the custody, even against the mother, unless the child be of an age to judge for himself, or there be an apprehension of cruelty from the father, or contamination in consequence of his immorality or gross profligacy. If the infant be of an age to elect for himself, the Court will merely interfere so far as to get it free from illegal restraint, without handing it over to anybody. This was the course adopted in Rex v. Delaval, 3 Burr. 1435, in the case of a girl eighteen years of age, who was delivered from a custody considered illegal, and left at liberty to go where she pleased. But, in the absence of any right of choice, the Court goes further, and transfers the infant to the proper legal custody. The right to such an election, it has now been clearly decided, depends upon age alone, and not on mental capacity: see Reg. v. Clarke, 7 E. & B. 186; and it may be taken as settled that no such choice can be made, at all events by a female infant, under the age of sixteen." Common Law rule.

The English Court of Chancery had an original jurisdiction, springing from the right of the Crown as parens patriæ over the persons and property of infants, to interfere with the Common Law rights of the father, in the interest of the infant on the ground of the father's cruelty, immorality, etc., (as to the father's rights in such case see further notes below, and Swift v. Swift 6 N. R. 137; 34 L. J. Chy. 209, 394); or of his agreement, express or implied, to waive his rights (see Simpson on Infants, 136 et seq). But this jurisdiction was not exercised except where the Court had the means of applying property for the use and maintenance of the infant (Ib.) Equity rule.

Under the Judicature Act, all the Divisions of the High Court have now jurisdiction with regard to the care and custody of infants; and, in the exercise of that jurisdiction, the rules of Equity are to prevail. Under Judicature Act.

In Re Smart, 12 P. R. 312, it was held that a more comprehensive adjudication could be had upon a petition than by habeas corpus proceedings, and in the interest of the infants and all concerned a petition was directed to be filed. This was affirmed on appeal by the Divisional Court with the variation that the habeas corpus proceedings should run concurrently with the petition, 12 P. R. 435; and afterwards by the Court of Appeal, but only on the ground that there was a waiver of objection by filing a petition. But for this the opinion of the Court was that the form of remedy chosen being competent and regular the applicant could not be compelled to adopt another mode of procedure: 12 P. R. 635. The Supreme Court quashed an appeal by the mother from the decision that the two proceedings should be tried together: see 9 C. L. T. 260.

A father has a legal right to control and direct the education and bringing up of his children until they attain the age of 21, even though they are wards of Court, and the Court will not interfere with him in the exercise of his paternal authority except (1) where by his gross moral turpitude he forfeits his rights, or (2) where he has by his conduct abdicated his paternal authority, or (3) where he seeks to remove his children being wards of Court out of the jurisdiction without the consent of the Court; Re Agar Ellis, 24 Ch. D. 317. Prima facie rights of the father.

Before the jurisdiction of the Court to deprive a father of the guardianship of his children can be called into action, the Court must be satisfied that he has so conducted himself or placed himself in such a position as to render it not merely better for the children, but essential to their safety or welfare in some very serious and important respect, that the father's ordinary rights should be interfered with: see *Re W———*5. N. R. 363.

YORK UNIVERSITY Law Library

Sec. 33,(11). The affidavits of the mother and others, in answer to a rule for a habeas corpus by a father to remove his child (a boy of nine years) from the custody of the child's maternal grandfather, disclosing facts which shewed the applicant to be a person of intemperate and vicious life, and in the habit of using gross and disgusting language, as well as personal violence to his wife,—the Court declined to interfere, the present custody of the child being unobjectionable: In re Goldsworthy, 2 Q. B. D. 75. So the Court, in the interest of the children, declined to interfere where it was contended that there had been a gross breach of marital duty on the husband's part, he not desiring or intending that his wife should live with him, or if she insisted on doing so he declined to meet or speak to her except at meals, and when the interests of the children required: Re Elderton, 25 Ch. D. 220.

See also Re Ferguson, 8 P. R. 556, where the father being imbecile the Court refused to take a child out of the custody of its grandmother and her brother-in-law.

The father, a medical officer in the army and who was under a covenant to allow his wife access to his children, was held entitled to take his children with him wherever his duties called him: Hunt v. Hunt, 28 Ch. D. 606.

A wife who left her husband's home without reasonable cause, taking with her their only child, was ordered forthwith to deliver the child into the custody of the father with liberty to either party to apply in Chambers as to access: Constable v. Constable, 34 W. R. 649.

It is no answer to a habeas corpus for the production of a child that the child has been delivered by the defendant to some third person who has conveyed the child out of the jurisdiction before the writ issued,—if the delivery of such child were made to such third person after the child had been demanded by the parent from the defendant: Reg. v. Barnardo, 23 Q. B. D. 305.

Modification by R. S. O. 1877, c. 130. In modification of the father's rights, 18 Vict. c. 126, s. 1 (R. S. O. 1877, c. 130) was passed, by which it was provided that the Courts of Law or Equity, or any Judge of such Courts, on the application of the mother might make order allowing her access to the infant "at such times and subject to such regulations as such Court or Judge thinks convenient and just; and if such infant is within the age of twelve years may make order for the delivery of such infant to the" mother to remain in her care and custody "until such infant attains the age of twelve years, subject to such regulations as such Court or Judge may direct; and such Court or Judge may also make order for the maintenance of such infant by payment by the father thereof, or by payment out of any estate to which such infant may be entitled of such sum or sums of money from time to time as according to the pecuniary circumstances of such father or the value of such estate, such Court or Judge thinks just and reasonable."

The Imp. Act 36 & 37 Vict. c. 12, was not very different. See that Act and Re Ethel Brown, 13 Q. B. D. 614.

In Re Smart, 11 P. R. 482, it was held to be a good return to a habeas corpus obtained on the father's motion to say that the infants were under 12 years, that being the age mentioned in the statute and that there was no need for a petition on the part of the mother, as she already had the custody of the children.

By R. S. O. 1887, c. 137. In 1887 was passed the Act now R. S. O. c. 137 s. 1, by which R. S. O. 1877, c. 130 s. 1, was superseded, and it was enacted as follows:

Court may make order as to custody and right of access to infants. 1.—(1) The High Court or Surrogate Court, or any Judge of either Court, may, upon application of the mother of an infant (who may so apply without next friend) make such order as the Court or Judge sees fit regarding the custody of the infant, and the right of access thereto of either parent, having regard to the welfare of the infant, and to the conduct of the parents, and to the wishes as well of the mother as of the father, and may afterwards alter, vary or discharge the order on the application of either parent, or, after the death of either parent, or any guardian under the Act, and in every case may make such order respecting the costs of the mother and the liability of the father for the same or otherwise as to costs as the Court or Judge may think just.

(2) The Court or Judge may also make order for the maintenance of the infant by payment by the father thereof, or by payment out of any estate to which the infant is entitled, of such sum or sums of money from time to time as according to the pecuniary circumstances of the father or the value of the estate the Court or Judge thinks just and reasonable. 50 V. c. 21, s. 1. Sec. 33,(11.) Order as to maintenance.

Sec. 2 provides (as did also R. S. O. 1877, c. 130 s. 4) as follows :—

2. "No order directing that the mother shall have the custody of or access to an infant shall be made by virtue of this Act, in favour of a mother against whom adultery has been established by judgment in an action for criminal conversation at the suit of her husband against any person." R. S. O. 1877 c. 130 s. 4.

The first section of this Act is taken from the Imp. Act 45 & 50 V. c. 27, s. 5.

It will be noticed that this Act, unlike the previous Act, mentions no age within which the mother may be given the custody of her children. In case application is made under the Act the matter is left entirely open for the Judge to deal with the infants as may seem best for them: see Re Witten, 57 L. T. N. S. 336, W. N. 1887, 167; Skinner v. Skinner, 36 W. R. 912.

The Act does not affect the right of a father to decide as to the religious education of his children: sec. 22, and see Re Scanlan, 36 W. R. 842.

Where a father had secreted two of his children, aged 8 and 11, from their mother to prevent their being brought up in the Roman Catholic religion, he was on petition of the mother under R. S. O. 1887, c. 130, directed to disclose the whereabouts of the younger child, and access by the mother was provided for. No order was made as to the other child, who was nearly 12: Re Keith, 7 P. R. 138.

The best interests of the children were considered on petitions under the former Act and will be under the present Act. In Re Murdoch, 9 P. R. 132, the Court refused under the circumstances to remove a child from its mother's custody, but allowed the father to have access. In Re Scott, 8 P. R. 58, a child was allowed to remain with a stranger, having been originally placed there by the mother, the father being dead, and the mother having married again and being in poor circumstances. See also Re Dickson, 12 P. R. 659.

Under enactments in England allowing an application by a mother it was held that a married woman may petition in her own name without naming a next friend: Re Groom, 7 Hare, 83; and this is expressly provided by R. Guardians.

R. S. O. c. 137 s. 13, repealing R. S. O. 1877, c. 132 ss. 9 and 10, is as follows :— On death of father, mother to be guardian alone, or jointly with others.

13.—(1) On the death of the father of an infant, the mother, if surviving, shall be the guardian of the infant, either alone, when no guardian has been appointed by the father, or jointly with any guardian appointed by the father.

Sec. 53,(12). (2) Where no guardian has been appointed by the father, or if the guardian or guardians appointed by the father is, or are, dead, or refuses or refuse to act, the High Court or Surrogate Court, or any Judge of either Court, may from time to time appoint a guardian or guardians to act jointly with the mother, as such Court or Judge shall see fit. 50 V. c. 21, s. 2.

Mother may appoint guardian in certain cases. 14.—(1) The mother of an infant may, by deed or will, appoint any person or persons to be guardian or guardians of the infant after the death of herself and the father of the infant (if the infant be then unmarried), and where the guardians are appointed by both parents they shall act jointly.

(2) The mother of an infant may, by deed or will, provisionally nominate some fit person or persons to act as guardian or guardians of the infant after her death jointly with the father of the infant, and the Court or a Judge, after her death, if it be shown to the satisfaction of the Court or a Judge that the father is for any reason unfitted to be the sole guardian of his children, may confirm the appointment of such guardian or guardians, who shall thereupon be empowered to act as aforesaid, or make such other order in respect of the guardianship as the Court or Judge shall think right. 50 V. c. 21, s. 3.

This Act is in the same terms as Imp. Act 49 & 50 Viot., c. 27.

Religious education of infants. As to the father's right to control the religious education of his children, recognized by the above Act, (sec. 22,) see Re Agar Ellis, 10 Ch. D. 49, where the father was held not to have forfeited his right by promising his wife on their marriage that their children should be brought up of her religion: see also Re Besant, 11 Ch. D. 508.

In Condon v. Vollum, 57 L. T. N. S. 154, a child was allowed to be brought up of its mother's religion, where it was maintained by her and the father was indifferent and made opposition only for the sake of vexing the mother. It was also held that the father's living in adultery was not a relevant fact to the question of his right to control the religious education of his child.

A Protestant on his marriage with a Roman Catholic agreed that their children should be brought up as Roman Catholics, but a son should when old enough be permitted to change his religion. A boy was born, baptised and brought up a Roman Catholic. The father died intestate only expressing a wish that his son should go to an English Protestant School. It was held that having regard to the indication of intention on the father's part and the present and future benefit of the son, his mother ought to be appointed his guardian and he be brought up as a Roman Catholic: Re Clarke, W. N. 1882, 135; 31 W. R. 37: 47 L. T. N. S. 84.

Where infants interested in real estate in England, whose father was dead, were living with their mother out of the jurisdiction, and she was one of their testamentary guardians, an order was made at the instance of their two other guardians declaring in what faith they should be educated: Re Montagu, 28 Ch. D. 82.

Cases of conflict not mentioned. 12. Generally in all matters not hereinbefore particularly mentioned, in which there is any conflict or variance between the Rules of Equity and the Rules of the Common Law with reference to the same matter, the Rules of Equity shall prevail. 44 V. c. 5, s. 17 (10).

Same as Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 25 (11).

This sub-section relates to matters of substantive law, not mere practice: Friendly v. Carter, 9 P. R. 41. As to matters of practice, see secs. 42 and 110 and Rule 3.

Examples. The following decisions illustrate this sub-section:—

The old learning on the subject of "conversion" at law is not imported into the Judicature Act: Stimson v. Block, 11 Ont. 96, 103.

Where the terms of a bill of sale are such as to bind after acquired goods in Equity, the title of the claimant must now prevail as against the execution creditor, under, this sub-section: per Lush, J., W. N. 1875, 203; per Archibald, J., W. N. 1876, 64. Sec. 54.

The rule of Equity now prevails that letters of administration, when obtained, relate back to the death, and it is sufficient if a plaintiff suing as administrator qualifies before trial: Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433.

Where assets have come into possession of the executor and are afterwards lost to the estate, the rule in all Courts now is, that the executor cannot be charged without some wilful default: Job v. Job, 6 Ch. D. 562; and see Barber v. Mackrell, 12 Ch. D. 534.

Since the Judicature Act a tenant in possession under an agreement for a lease has no longer two estates, one a legal tenancy from year to year and the other an equitable tenancy under the agreement. There is only one Court and the rule of Equity prevails, viz: that the tenant is in the same position as if he were lessee under a lease granted in terms of the agreement. The landlord cannot distrain by virtue of his legal title if he cannot distrain under the agreement: Walsh v. Lonsdale, 21 Ch. D. 9; and see Lowther v. Heaver, 41 Ch. D. 248. So in actions to re-enter for breach of covenant in a lease the Court will dispose of questions in their equitable rather than their legal aspect in cases where under the former practice the Court of Chancery would have relieved against a forfeiture: Buckley v. Beigle, 8 Ont. 85.

Where the solicitor of a lessee fraudulently procured from him a memorandum of deposit of the lease as security for a loan by the solicitor, and upon the security of the lease and memorandum procured a loan from an innocent lender, it was held in an action by lessee against the latter, for the delivery up of the lease, that this section did not apply to enable the defendant to say that he was a purchaser for value without notice, and retain the lease: James v. Giles, W. N. 1880, 170.

It has been held in England that where an executor or administrator, after the commencement of a creditor's action for administration and before judgment, has voluntarily paid any creditor in full, the rule in Equity and not at law must prevail under this sub-section, and he will be held to have made a good payment, and will be allowed it in his accounts, even though he may have had notice of the action before payment: Re Radcliffe, European Soc. v. Radcliffe, 7 Ch. D. 733; but quære whether in Ont. this was the rule in Equity: see R. S. O. c. 110, s. 32.

The rule of Equity, in the administration of partnership assets was applied in administering a fund in the Sheriff's hands, and joint estate was applied to joint debts and separate estate to separate debts, to the exclusion of any legal lien acquired by an execution creditor. Equitable rules are, however, only applied where they would have formerly been applied by a Court of Equity; e. g., the plea of purchase without notice had no effect in a case under the concurrent jurisdiction of Equity where a plaintiff was pursuing a legal title for legal relief: Manners v. Mew, 29 Ch. D. 725, 734.

See also Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335; Re Hodgson Beckett v. Ramsdale, 55 L. J. Chy. 241, and Trower on the prevalence of Equity.

54. The several rules of law enacted and declared by this Act shall be in force and receive effect in all Courts whatsoever in Ontario, so far as the matters to which such rules relate shall be respectively cognizable by such Courts. 44 V. c. 5, s. 80. Rules of law to apply to all Courts.

Taken from Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 91.

The provision of Rule 1170, that in an action tried by jury the costs shall follow the event unless the Judge otherwise orders, was considered to be a rule of Law

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Secs. 55,56. and not one of practice, and therefore under the corresponding English section was held to be applicable to the Passage Court of Liverpool: King v. Hawkesworth, 4 Q. B. D. 371. Quaere, whether notwithstanding this decision it was not the intention of this section to apply in all Courts, the Rules of Law only which are enacted by sec. 53; see Building and Loan, etc., v. Heimrod, 19 C. L. J. 256, and Pryor v. City Offices, 10 Q. B. D. 504. The transfer of this section in the Revision of the Statutes from the end of the Act to its present position immediately following sec. 53 seems to give some support to the latter view.

See also Speers v. Daggers, 1 Cab. & E. 503.

Notice to be given to Minister of Justice and Attorney-General of Ontario before any Act is declared invalid.

55.—(1) When, in any action or other civil proceeding, the constitutional validity of any Act of the Parliament of Canada or of the Legislature of Ontario comes into question the same shall not be adjudged to be invalid until after notice thereof has been served on the Minister of Justice and the Attorney-General of Ontario, or at their offices respectively.

(2) The notice in such case shall be entitled in the cause; shall state what the Act or section of an Act is which is in question, and the day on which the case or the said question is to be argued; and shall give such other particulars as are necessary to shew the constitutional point proposed to be argued.

(3) The notice shall be served six days before the day of the argument unless a Judge authorizes a shorter notice.

(4) Upon every such question the said Minister of Justice and the said Attorney-General shall be entitled as of right to be heard, either in person or by counsel, notwithstanding that the Crown is not a party to the action or proceeding. 46 V. c. 6, s. 6.

SITTINGS AND DISTRIBUTION OF BUSINESS.

Abolition of terms.

56. The division of the legal year into Terms shall be abolished so far as relates to the administration of justice,(a) and there shall not (b) be Terms applicable to any sitting or business of the High Court, (c) or of any commissioners to whom any jurisdiction may be assigned under this Act, or of any Commissioners of Assize; (d) but in all cases in which, under the law existing prior to the 22nd day of August, 1881, the Terms into which the legal year was divided were used as a measure for determining the time at or within which any act was required to be done, the same may continue to be referred to for the same or the like purpose, unless and until provision is otherwise made by any lawful authority. 44 V. c. 5, s. 18. Secs. 57,58.

With the exceptions mentioned below this clause corresponds with Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 26, first part.

(a) Terms survive as measures of time for the purpose of marking time; e.g., formerly in the time for making a motion to set aside an award: College of Christ's Hospital v. Martin, 3 Q. B. D. 28; Giles v. Morrow, 4 Ont. 649; Kean v. Edwards, 12 P. R. 625; but see now 52 Vict. c. 13, ss. 4-6.

The service of notice of motion within the time limited would seem to be sufficient, though the motion is made returnable after the time: see Sweetman v. Gosfield, 13 P. R. 293; Smith v. Parkside Mining Co., 6 Q. B. D. 67, following Huddersfield v. Jacomb, L. R. 17 Eq. 476; 10 Chy. 92.

By Rule 216, sittings are appointed which are to be held by the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions at the same time and during the same periods as Michaelmas, Hilary and Easter (not Trinity) Terms; nevertheless, Trinity Term still exists as a measure of time: see Kean v. Edwards, supra.

(b) The English section has the words "no longer," instead of the word "not."

(c) The English section has here the words "or the Court of Appeal;" the Court of Appeal in Ontario had no "Terms."

(d) The words "commissioners of assize" are not in the English Act.

As to commissions of Assize, etc., see note to sec. 160 of this Act.

(e) The English Act has the additional word "other" here.

57.—(1) Subject to Rules of Court, the High Court of Justice, and the Court of Appeal, and the Judges thereof respectively, or any such commissioners as aforesaid shall have power to sit and act, at any time and at any place, for the transaction of any part of the business of such Courts respectively, or of such Judges or commissioners, or for the discharge of any duty which by any Statute or otherwise, is required to be discharged (a). R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 15; 44 V. c. 5, s. 19. Sittings of Courts.

(2) Subject to the preceding provision the Divisional sittings of the High Court shall be held at the City of Toronto. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 5; c. 40, s. 19. Where to be held.

For "Statute" the Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 26, has "Act of Parliament," and at (a) both in the Eng. J. A. and the Ont. J. A. 1881, are the words, "during or after Term."

58. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may from time to time, upon any report or recommendation of the Council of Judges of the Supreme Court hereinafter mentioned, make, revoke or modify, orders regulating the vacations to be observed by the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal, and in the offices of the said Courts respectively; Vacations.

and any Order in Council made pursuant to this section shall, so long as it continues in force, be of the same effect as if it were contained in this Act; and Rules of Court may be made for carrying the same into effect in the same manner as if such Order in Council were part of this Act. 44 V. c. 5, s. 20.

Commissions of Assize and other Commissions.

59. Commissions of assize or any other commissions, either general or special, may be issued, by the proper authority(a) assigning to the persons to be therein named,(b) the duty of trying and determining within any place or district specially fixed for that purpose by such commission, any causes or matters, or any questions or issues of fact or of law, or partly of fact and partly of law, in any cause or matter, depending in the said High Court; or the exercise of any civil or criminal jurisdiction capable of being exercised by the said High Court; and any commission so issued shall be of the same validity as if it were enacted in the body of this Act; and any commissioner or commissioners shall, when engaged in the exercise of any jurisdiction so assigned to him or them, be deemed to constitute a Court of the said High Court. 44 V. c. 5, s. 22.

(a) The English J. A. 1873, s. 37, gives this authority expressly to Her Majesty. In Canada it has been questioned whether the authority belongs under the B. N. A. Act to the Governor-General or the Lieutenant-Governor; the present section provides for the issuing "by the proper authority." A commission in its ordinary form both constitutes the Court and names the Judges, while under the B. N. A. Act the creation of Courts belongs to the Province, and the appointment of Superior Court Judges belongs to the Dominion: see Regina v. Amer, 42 U. C. Q. B. 391.

(b) The English section limits the appointment to "any Judge or Judges of the High Court or other persons usually named in commissions of assize." The Dominion Government is understood to claim that a Provincial Legislature has no authority to limit the class of persons from which Judges are to be selected.

Rules of Court to provide for distribution of business.

60. All causes and matters in the High Court shall be distributed among the several Divisions and Judges of the said High Court, in such manner as may from time to time be determined by any Rules of Court, or orders of transfer, to be made under the authority of this Act. 44 V. c. 5, s. 23.

See Eng. J. A. Act, ss. 33 and 42.

The last part of the original s. 23 of the Ont. J. A. 1881, providing for the marking of documents in a cause or matter with the name of the Division to which the cause or matter is assigned is now embodied in Rule 225.

All the proceedings in any action or matter should be taken in the Division of the High Court to which the action or matter is for the time being attached.

The setting down of a motion in an action in the Chancery Division to be heard in another Division was held to be a nullity in Re Christie, Christie v. Christie, 12 P. R. 15. See note to sec. 38, p. 31. Sec. 61, (2, 3).

61.—(1) Every action and proceeding in the High Court and all business arising out of the same, except as hereinafter provided, shall, so far as is practicable and convenient, be heard, determined, and disposed of, before a single Judge (a). Business to be disposed of by one Judge as far as practicable.

(2) A Judge sitting elsewhere than in a Divisional Court, is to decide all questions coming properly before him, and is not to reserve any case, or any point in a case, for the consideration of a Divisional Court (b).

(3) In all such cases any Judge sitting in Court shall be deemed to constitute a Court (c). 44 V. c. 5, s. 28.

See Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 46; J. A. 1875, s. 22, and J. A. 1876, s. 17.

(a) This is the same in effect as the enactment in the Eng. J. A. 1876, s. 17; and is an extension of the authority previously to Ont. J. A. 1881, possessed in Ontario by a Judge of the Common Law Courts under the Administration of Justice Act, 1874 (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 281).

Trial at Bar is not abolished. See Rule 657 and notes.

(b) A Judge in England had the power of reserving a case, or any point in a case, to be argued before a Divisional Court, until the J. A. 1876, s. 17, the effect of which Act and the Rules made under it, was to take away this power. In Chancery there had never been the Common Law practice of a Judge reserving a case, or some point in it, for argument before himself and his brother Judges or any of them. The section in the present Act is in accordance with the probable intention of R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 281.

In Benschor v. Coley, 52 L. J. Q. B. 398; 48 L. T. N. S. 533, it was held that notwithstanding the first clause of this section a Judge at Nisi Prius may leave any party to move a Divisional Court for judgment, and that the words "so far as is practicable and convenient" above, should be interpreted to authorize that course. This decision would not seem to be applicable in Ontario as the Imp. Act contains no clause similar to sub-sec. (2) above.

Where "a special case on the pleadings" had been referred to a Divisional Court in forgetfulness of the above sections, the application was turned into a motion and heard under Rules 748, 755 and 757: Till v. Till, 15 Ont. 133.

A hearing in camera may be allowed in a proper case: see Mellor v. Thompson, 31 Ch. D. 55, an application to restrain a solicitor from disclosing communications made to him confidentially as such solicitor; and see 82 L. T. Jour. 207, and observations of Lord Fitzgerald in Macdougall v. Knight, 14 App. Cas. 206-7.

(c) The English J. A. 1873, s. 39, last part, is the same. See Cooper v. Central Ont. Ry. Co., 4 Ont. 280.

The ordinary purpose for which it is necessary or allowable to apply to the Divisional Court is to reverse or vary a judgment at the trial, or for a new trial. See Rules 789 and 219 post.

There is no appeal to a Divisional Court from a single Judge (except under Rule 798, from a judgment at the trial, or by consent under Rule 219.) Re Galleno, Grant v. McAlpine, 46 U. C. Q. B. 379; McTiernan v. Fraser, 9 P. R. 246. The appeal, if any, is to the Court of Appeal: see s. 37. A hearing on Further Directions is not to be regarded as a continuation of the trial so as to enable an appeal to be brought to the Divisional Court under Rule 798: see Wansley v. Smallwood, 10 P. R. 233.

Rule 219 regulates the business of Divisional Courts.

As to the comparative authority of decisions of a single Judge sitting as the High Court and those of a Divisional Court: see Tancred v. Delagoa Bay, etc. Co., 23 Q. B. D. 242.

Divisional Courts of the High Court.

62.—(1) All business which may from time to time be so ordered by Rules of Court shall be transacted and disposed of by Divisional Courts of the High Court, which shall for that purpose exercise all or any part of the jurisdiction of the said High Court.

(2) Any number of such Divisional Courts may sit at the same time.

(3) A Divisional Court of the High Court shall be constituted by two or three, and no more, of the Judges thereof; and, except when through pressure of business or any other cause it may not conveniently be found practicable, shall be composed of three such Judges (a).

(4) Every Judge of the High Court shall be qualified and empowered to sit in any of such Divisional Courts.

(5) But where the Divisional Court is constituted of two Judges only, such Court shall not hear or adjudicate upon any application against the judgment of either of such Judges (b).

(6) The President of every such Divisional Court of the High Court shall be the senior Judge of those present, according to the order of their precedence under this Act or otherwise. 44 V. c. 5, s. 29.

Sub-section (5) has no corresponding provision in the English Acts. In other respects the section corresponds in effect with Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 40. Section 17 of the Eng. J. A. 1876 provided that two Judges and no more should sit unless there were special reasons for having a larger number. This restriction to two has not been followed in the Ontario Act.

The three Divisions of the High Court do not necessarily correspond with the Divisional Courts referred to in this section and elsewhere in the Act and Rules. See next two sections. The Divisional Courts are a district organization under the Jud. Act and invested with special functions: Reg. v. Beemer, 15 Ont. 266. For the business assigned to Divisional Courts see Rule 219.

(a) Where two Judges sit and differ, the old practice of the Court of Queen's Bench, that the junior Judge shall withdraw his judgment, is resorted to in the Queen's Bench Division in England: Atty.-Gen. v. Noyes, 44 L. T. 801, 809; but in Ontario where the motion before the Court is in the nature of an appeal, the judgment or order appealed from is in such a case affirmed.

(b) Where a motion against the judgment of the C. J. was made before a full Court of three Judges, but when judgment was delivered one of the puisne Judges was absent, being engaged in another Court, on a motion for leave to appeal, the judgment of the C. J. and the remaining puisne Judge was held to be invalid, and therefore there was no judgment which could be appealed against: Cochran v. Boucher, 19 C. L. J. 349; 3 C. L. T. 544; 8 Ont. App. 555. For the subsequent proceedings taken in consequence of this decision, see 3 C. L. T. 547, and 19 C. L. J. 402. Secs. 63-65.

63. Divisional Courts shall, as far as may be found practicable and convenient, include one or more Judge or Judges attached to the particular Division of the said Court to which the cause or matter out of which such business arises has been assigned. 44 V. c. 5, s. 30. Constitution of Divisional Courts.

To the same effect as Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 41.

64.—(1) Subject to any Rules of Court, it shall be the duty of every Judge of the High Court who shall not for the time being be occupied in the transaction of any business specially assigned to him, or in the business of any other Divisional Court, to take part, if required, in the sittings of such Divisional Courts as may from time to time be deemed necessary for the transaction of the business of any of the Divisions of the High Court. Judges to take part in business of any Division.

(2) All such arrangements as may be necessary or proper for that purpose, or for constituting or holding any Divisional Courts of the said High Court for any other purpose authorized by this Act, and also for the proper transaction of that part of the business of the said Divisions respectively which ought to be transacted by one or more Judges not sitting in a Divisional Court, shall be made from time to time under the direction and superintendence of the Judges of the said High Court;

(3) And in case of difference among them, in such manner as a majority of the said Judges shall determine. 44 V. c. 5, s. 31.

This section corresponds with the Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 41, except that the latter is confined to the Queen's Bench, Common Pleas and Exchequer Divisions, omitting the Chancery Division; and except also that in case of difference among the Judges, the English section requires the concurrence of the Lord Chief Justice of England in the decision of the majority in order to give it effect.

APPEALS.

65. No order made by the High Court or any Judge thereof, by the consent of parties, or as to costs only which Orders not subject to appeal.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Sec. 65. by law are left to the discretion of the Court, shall be subject to any appeal, except by leave of the Court or Judge making such order. 44 V. c. 5. s. 32.

Identical with Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 49.

The rule laid down in this section had always been the rule in the Court of Chancery: see Daniel's Practice, 5th ed., pp. 837, 1329, 1332, and cases there cited.

An interpleader matter tried summarily by consent by a Judge in Chambers under R. S. O., 1877, c. 54, s. 5, was formerly within this section: Edd v. Winsor, W. N. 1878, 88; Turner v. Bridgett, 9 Q. B. D. 55; Lyon v. Morris, 19 Q. B. D. 139; but now Rule 1171, which has superseded the above sec. 5, provides for an appeal.

A judgment in which part of the terms have been inserted at the suggestion of a party in struggling for the best possible terms, in a decision adverse to him, cannot be regarded as a consent judgment: Sweeney v. Sweeney, 16 Ont. 92.

Appeals as to costs.

By Rule 1170 the right which certain classes of persons, such as trustees, mortgagees, etc., had in Equity to costs (as being given them by contract) out of a particular estate or fund, is preserved. Such costs are not in the discretion of the Court, and are therefore a proper subject of appeal if no other restriction on the right of appeal applies e.g., secs. 66-68. (See notes to Rule 1170.)

Where a settlement is set aside in an action by the settlor, the trustee has no claim to his costs as a matter of right, there being no contract in existence, and therefore where costs were given against him, it was held that, under this section, no appeal lay: Dutton v. Thompson, 23 Ch. D. 278.

Where a Judge decided that a defendant had committed a breach of an injunction, and no committal being pressed for on the other side, simply ordered the defendant to pay the costs, it was held that the order was not one as to costs only in the discretion of the Court, within the meaning of this section, and that an appeal lay: Witt v. Corcoran, 2 Ch. D. 69; followed in Stevens v. Metropolitan Ry., 29 Ch. D. 60. On the other hand, where a Judge, being asked to commit for contempt made an order, within his power but of a different kind, viz.: to deliver a deed within a certain time and disposed of the costs: Krehl v. Burrell, W. N. 1883, 177, and in another instance refused to commit, and made the costs, costs in the cause: Ashworth v. Outram, 5 Ch. D. 943, it was held that no appeal lay. See also Jarmain v. Chatterton, 20 Ch. D. 493.

The effect of this section is that a mortgagee may appeal from an order depriving him of costs out of the estate for misconduct (because if there was no misconduct the costs are not in the discretion of the Court under Rule 1170) but a mortgagor cannot appeal from an order negativing misconduct and allowing a mortgagee costs out of the estate (because misconduct if proved would bring the costs within the discretion of the Judge, and even though he does not exercise it there would be no appeal): Charles v. Jones, 33 Ch. D. 80.

Cases where appeals as to costs not permitted.

The following are instances of costs in the discretion of the Court and therefore within this section:—

Costs of an interpleader issue disposed of in Chambers: Hartman v. Foster, 8 Q. B. D. 82; costs ordered in Chambers to be paid by a solicitor personally by reason of misconduct or negligence but not otherwise: Re Bradford, 15 Q. B. D. 635, overruling 11 Q. B. D. 373; costs given over to a defendant against a third party: Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; costs refused to a third party: Tomlinson v. Northern Ry., 11 P. R. 526; costs given or refused to a plaintiff on confessing a defence under Rule 440: Perkins v. Beresford, 47 L. T. N. S. 515; and costs of inspection of property under Rule 1135: Mitchell v. Darley, 10 Q. B. D. 457; costs refused to a mortgagee who has unreasonably instituted or carried on, or resisted, proceedings: Smallpiece v. Lee, 20 Sol. J. 61, and costs on dismissal of an action for want of prosecution: Snelling v. Pulling, 29 Ch. D. 85.

Costs ordered to be paid personally by a solicitor are not in the discretion of the Court, in the absence of misconduct or negligence: Re Bradford, 15 Q. B. D. 635, overruling 11 Q. B. D. 373. Sec. 66.

In a suit to settle the priorities between incumbrancers, B., one of the defendants, was ordered to pay the costs of the plaintiff and his co-defendant. B. appealed, and the decision being affirmed on the merits the Court refused to vary the order as to costs, as that would be practically allowing an appeal for costs: Harpham v. Shacklock, 19 Ch. D. 215; Harris v. Aaron, 4 Ch. D. 749.

Leave to appeal on a question of costs should be asked for when the judgment in question is given: May v. Thompson, W. N. 1882, 53.

Cases where appeals as to costs permitted.

The following are instances in which appeals involving questions of principle on the subject of costs have been permitted:

Where the question was the right of a claimant in interpleader proceedings to recover from the execution creditor the charges of the Sheriff as costs: Goodman v. Blake, 19 Q. B. D. 77; where costs were directed to be first paid out of a fund, and then various incumbrancers in order of priority, and the fund, after payment of costs, was not sufficient to pay the first incumbrancer, who appealed: Johnstone v. Cox, 19 Ch. D. 17; where an order imposed, as a condition of a new trial, the payment within a certain time of the costs of the first trial: Metropolitan Asylum District v. Hill, 5 App. Cas. 582; where at the trial of an action for the infringement of a copyright of a novel, it appeared that the defendant before trial discontinued the use of the title of the novel objected to, and therefore the only order made was that defendant pay the costs of the action: Dicks v. Yates, 18 Ch. D. 76.

On appeals, where allowed on questions of costs in the discretion of the Court, the Appellate Court ought to have the same regard to the discretion of the Judge as in other cases in which his discretion is subject to review, and it ought not to interfere unless there has been a manifest disregard of principle or misapprehension of facts: per Baggallay, J.L., in Re Gilbert, Gilbert v. Huddlestone, 28 Ch. D. 549.

An appeal lies from the decision of a Judge as to the taxation of costs on the higher or lower scale, but the Court will not interfere unless he has proceeded upon a wrong principle, or made a manifest slip: Re Terrell, 22 Ch. D. 473. See also as to charges the allowance of which is in the discretion of the taxing officer: McGannon v. Clark, 9 P. R. 555.

Where upon an interlocutory application the Judge has based his decision upon the merits of the whole case, the Court of Appeal will decide the question of costs both below and in appeal: Wilkinson v. Hull, 30 W. R. 617; 46 L. T. N. S. 455.

Appeals from discretionary orders.

An appeal lies from discretionary orders, but the Court does not in general interfere, though it may disapprove, unless in a strong case or the discretion was exercised on a wrong principle: see Golding v. Wharton, 1 Q. B. D. 374; Watson v. Rodwell, 3 Ch. D. 380; Huggons v. Tweed, 10 Ch. D. 359, cases respecting the striking out of pleadings; Byrd v. Mann, 7 Ch. D. 286, 287; Laird v. Briggs, 16 Ch. D. 663; respecting allowance of amendments: Swindell v. Birmingtom Syndicate, 3 Ch. D. 127; Ormerod v. Todmorden, 8 Q. B. D. 664, respecting the mode of trial; Papayanni v. Coutpas, W. N. 1880, 109; Wallingford v. Mutual Soc., 5 App. Cas. 685, 709, as to allowing a defendant to defend on a motion under Rule 739. See also Jarmain v. Chatterton, 20 Ch. D. 493.

Limitation of appeal where amount does not exceed $200.

66. In any action respecting property or civil rights whether for damages or for specific relief, no appeal shall lie from the judgment or order of any Divisional Court or Judge of the High Court to the Court of Appeal without the special leave of the Judge or Divisional Court whose judgment or order is in question, or of the Court of Appeal unless the title to real estate or some interest therein or the validity of a patent is affected; or unless the matter in controversy on the appeal exceeds the sum or value of $200, exclusive of costs; or unless the matter in question relates to the taking of an annual or other rent, customary or other duty or fee, or a like demand of a general or public nature affecting future rights. 44 V. c. 5, s. 33; 48 V. c. 13, s. 7.

These restrictions on appeals are not in the English Acts.

The test as to determining the matter in controversy on an appeal was defined in Macfarlane v. Leclaire, 15 Moo. P. C. C. 181. The judgment is to be looked at as it affects the interest of the party who is prejudiced by it. This test has been recognized as the correct one by the Jud. Committee of the Privy Council which has accordingly determined that on ar appeal by a defendant, the proper measure of value for determining the question of the right to appeal is the amount recovered in the action, not the amount claimed by the plaintiff in his pleadings: Allan v. Pratt, 59 L. T. N. S. 674.

In Joyce v. Hart, 1 S. C. R. 321 (which seems to decide the contrary, and where Macfarlane v. Leclaire was referred to), the plaintiff claimed $2,000 and only recovered $100. The defendant was held entitled to appeal, but the case was under 38 V. c. 11, s. 17, which prohibits appeals where less than $2,000 is in dispute, and it was considered that the amount claimed, as the amount in dispute in the case, should be looked at, not the amount of the judgment.

See also O'Donohue v. Whitty, 9 P. R. 361, where bills of costs amounting to $250.10 were, on taxation, reduced to $187.10, and the client desired to appeal; the Court held, following Macfarlane v. Leclaire, that the matter in controversy was whether the appellant was liable to pay as much as $187.10. The Divisional Court in that case subsequently granted leave to appeal, as the case involved the construction of clause 14 of the form appended to R. S. O. c. 107, a question of general interest and affecting solicitors at large and other parties besides the parties to the litigation: S. C. 19 C. L. J. 9.

Where leave to appeal is necessary it should be applied for, if not when the judgment was given, at any rate within the three months mentioned in sec. 71: see McCrae v. White, 9 P. R. 288; May v. Thompson, W. N., 1882, 58

Limitation of appeal where amount does not exceed $500.

67. In any action respecting property or civil rights, whether for damages or for specific relief, in case there has been no difference of opinion among the Judges of the Divisional Court as to any order of such Court, or where on a motion to set aside or discharge a rule, order, or decision of a Judge, the order of the Divisional Court did not substantially vary the rule, order, or decision moved against, no appeal shall lie from the order of the Divisional Court of the High Court to the Court of Appeal without such leave as aforesaid, unless the title to real estate or some interest therein or the validity of a patent is affected; or unless the matter in controversy on the appeal exceeds the sum or value of $500, exclusive of costs; or unless the matter in question relates to the taking of an annual or other rent, customary or other duty or fee, or a like demand of a general or public nature affecting future rights. 44 V. c. 5, s. 34; 48 V. c. 13, s. 7. Sec. 68.

These restrictions on appeals are not in the English Act.

As to the proper measure of value to determine the right to appeal, see notes to sec. 66.

Where the amount involved in an interpleader issue was under $500, but it was alleged that the decision of the Divisional Court, desired to be appealed from, affected the right to other property amounting to $2,000, it was held that the decision in this matter was not conclusive as to the right to the other property and therefore there was no sufficient ground for granting leave to appeal: Beaty v. Bryce, 19 C. L. J. 9.

See also Baddin v. Sutherland, 20 C. L. J. 146; 4 C. L. T. 205; and Hamilton Prov. Loan Co. v. Dumble, 20 C. L. J. 147; 4 C. L. T. 205.

In Armstrong v. Farr, (before Proudfoot, J., 3 June 1884) it was held that no leave to appeal was necessary in an action to enforce a vendor's lien for $160 as "the title to real estate" was affected thereby.

68. There shall be no appeal to a Divisional Court from any interlocutory order, whether made in Court or Chambers, in case prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, there would have been no relief from a like order by an application to a Superior Court; and there shall be no appeal to the Court of Appeal from any interlocutory order in case prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, there would have been no relief from a like order by an appeal to the Court of Appeal (a). Any doubt which may arise as to what orders, or judgments, are interlocutory, shall be determined by the Court of Appeal. 44 V. c. 5, s. 35. Appeals from interlocutory orders.

(a) What follows is taken from the English section referred to. The former part of the section is not in the English Act. For the cases in which, before the Ont. Jud. Act, there was an appeal to the Court of Appeal, see R. S. O. 1887, c. 38, s. 18, and Whiting v. Hovey, 12 Ont. App. 119.

An order over-ruling a demurrer is not an interlocutory order: Trowell v. Shenton, 8 Ch. D. 318.

The decision of the Court upon a special case stated by an arbitrator who is thereupon to make his award is an interlocutory order: Collins v. Vestry of Paddington, 5 Q. B. D. 368. See also Sherbrooke v. Tuffnell, 9 Q. B. D. 621, where it was held that the decision upon the special case must be treated as a final order, unless the decision of the Court could not, in any event, necessitate the entering of final judgment.

The following have been held to be interlocutory orders:—An order that a case be tried by jury: Swindell v. Birmingham, 3 Ch. D. 127; a rule absolute for a new trial: Highton v. Treherne, 48 L. J. Ex. 167; an order discharging a rule for a new trial: Wilks v. Judge, W. N., 1880, 98; a refusal to remit an award to an arbitrator: Re Delagoa Bay Ry., etc., 37 W. R. 578; an order on the trial of an interpleader issue: McAndrew v. Barker, 7 Ch. D. 701; an order for final judgment under Rule 739: Standard Discount Co. v. La Grange, 3 C. P. D. 67; an order setting aside a demurrer as frivolous: Kandick v. Morrison, 2 S. C. R. 14; an order providing for defendant's costs, the action not being further proceeded with: Re Lewis, Lewis v. Williams, 31 Ch. D. 623; the judgment of a Div. Court affirming the judgment of a County Court in an interpleader issue: Hughes v. Little, 18 Q. B. D. 32, reversing 17 Q. B. D. 204. The following has been held to be final:—A judgment in a foreclosure suit: Smith v. Davies, 55 L. J. Chy. 496, 54 L. T. N. S. 478.

Secs. 69,70. Semble, an order by a Judge in Court, directing the execution by defendants (mortgagees) of a reconveyance or discharge directed by a previous judgment, is not in its nature interlocutory. But if interlocutory it would be appealable under this sec. : Bull v. N. British, etc., Co., 12 P. R. 284.

See generally as to the distinction between final and interlocutory orders: White v. Witt, 5 Ch. D. 589, 591; Pheysey v. Pheysey, 12 Ch. D. 305, 307: Whiting v. Hovey, 12 Ont. App. 119; Hateley v. Merchants Despatch Co., ib. 640.

Discharging orders made by a single Judge.

69. Save as aforesaid, every rule, order, or decision made by a Judge of the said High Court in chambers (a), may be set aside or discharged upon notice by any Divisional Court; and no further appeal shall lie to the Court of Appeal from the Divisional Court unless by special leave of the said Court or of the Court of Appeal. 44 V. c. 5, s. 36; 49 V. c. 16, s. 39; 50 V. c. 8, Sched.

This section varies from section 50 of English J. A. 1873, which is as follows: "Every order made by a Judge of the said High Court in Chambers, except orders made in the exercise of such discretion as aforesaid, may be set aside or discharged upon notice, by any Divisional Court or by the Judge sitting in Court, according to the course and practice of the Division of the High Court to which the particular cause or matter in which such order is made, may be assigned; and no appeal shall lie from any such order to set aside or discharge which no such motion has been made, unless by special leave of the Judge by whom such order was made, or of the Court of Appeal."

(a) The Ont. Jud. Act, 1881, had here the words "except orders made in the exercise of such discretion as by law belonged to him," (as to which see Conmee v. C. P. R., 12 Ont. App. 748). These words were struck out by 49 V. c. 16, s. 39. An appeal thus lies from a discretionary order, but the amendment has not affected the rule that in such cases a very strong case must be made out to induce the Court to reverse the order: Powell v. Peck, 12 P. R. 34. See also note to sec. 65.

Leave to appeal where necessary should in general be asked for when the judgment complained of is given: May v. Thompson, W. N. 1882, 53.

All parties should be represented on an application for special leave: Downes v. Somerville, 56 L. T. N. S. 424.

Appeal from decision of a Divisional Court, or a Judge in Court.

70. Save as aforesaid and subject to the other provisions of this Act, any [judgment,] rule, order or decision [of a Divisional Court, or] of a Judge in Court, may be appealed against to the Court of Appeal. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 18; 44 V. c. 5, ss. 18, 37.

See Eng. J. A. 1873, ss. 18, 19, 50.

The words in brackets were inserted on the Revision of the Statutes in 1887.

In England an appeal lies from any judgment or order of the High Court or a Judge thereof, save that an order made by a Judge in Chambers must first be moved against before a Divisional Court unless by special leave: see Dawson v. Fox, 14 Q. B. D. 377; Robinson v. Tucker, ib. 372; ex. p. Dawes Re Moon, 34 W. R. 752; Re Hall v. Railway Commissioners, 54 L. T. N. S. 713; Lister v. Wood, 37 W. R. 738; Kay v. Briggs, 60 L. T. N. S. 775. The 69th section of the present Act regulates appeals from a Judge's order made in Chambers.

Quære whether an appeal may be had from an order obtained by default in appearing to oppose it: see Re Morris, ex. p. Streeter, 19 Ch. D. 216; Walker v.

Budden, 5 Q. B. D. 267; Allum v. Dickenson, 30 W. R. 930. An appeal was permitted from a refusal to amend: Laird v. Briggs, 16 Ch. D. 663. Sec. 71.

As to appealing from a refusal to commit for contempt: see Jarman v. Chatterton, 20 Ch. D. 493; Ashworth v. Outram, 5 Ch. D. 943; Debenham v. Wardroper, 48 L. T. N. S. 235; Krehl v. Burrell, W. N. 1883, 177.

A party in contempt may appeal from the order putting him in contempt: McGregor v. McDonald, 7 C. L. T. 20.

Quære whether an appeal lies to the Court of Appeal from the decision upon the trial of an interpleader issue: see Whiting v. Hovey, 12 Ont. App. 119, where the Court was divided in opinion.

One of two or more plaintiffs, (Beckett v. Attwood, 18 Ch. D. 54), or counter-claiming defendants (Hester v. Hester, 71 L. T. Jour. 153), where the claim or counter-claim respectively is dismissed, may appeal, where the others refuse to join, they being made respondents.

As to whether a party not appealing can obtain relief on an appeal by another party: see Black v. Black, 9 Gr. 413; 2 E. & A. 419; Sampson v. McArthur, 8 Gr. 84; Topping v. Joseph, 1 E. & A. 305, 322; Kent v. Freehold, etc., L. R. 3 Chy. 493; Vaughan v. Halliday, L. R. 9 Chy. 561; Gilbert v. Jarvis, 16 Gr. 275, 279; Saffron Waldron Benefit Co. v. Rayner, 14 Ch. D. 406, 419; Dilke v. Douglas, 5 Ont. App. 63; Peterkin v. McFarlane, 6 Ont. App. 254; Re Gabouric, 12 P. R. 252; Esdaile v. Payne, 59 L. T. N. S. 804; 40 Ch. D. 520.

Leave to appeal may be given to a person interested, but not a party: Re Markham, 16 Ch. D. 1; but only where his interest is such that he might have been made a party by service: Crawcour v. Salter, 30 W. R. 329; see also Langtry v. Dumoulin, 11 Ont. App. 544; Wood v. Madras, 23 Ch. D. 248; Watson v. Cave, 17 Ch. D. 19: Re Claggett, 30 W. R. 374; ex. p. Tupper, 12 Ch. D. 308; Re Youngs, Doggett v. Revett, 33 W. R. 880; 53 L. T. N. S. 682.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 18 (3), which provided that there should be no appeal in cases where a new trial is granted or refused upon matter of discretion only, is now repealed by R. S. O. 1887, an appeal in such case will be governed by the general rule as to appeals from discretionary orders. See note to sec. 65. The above mentioned sub-sec. 18 (3) was held to apply only where an appeal was brought from a judgment, in which a discretion had been exercised: Moore v. Connecticut Mutual, 6 App. Cas. 644.

71. No appeal to the Court of Appeal shall be allowed unless notice thereof is given in writing to the opposite party and to the Registrar of the Division in which the proceedings are filed, within one month after the judgment complained of, or within such further time as the High Court, or a Judge thereof, may allow; nor unless within three months after the judgment complained of or within such further time as the Court or Judge aforesaid may allow, the appellant gives proper security to the extent of $400 to the satisfaction of the said Court or a Judge, that he will effectually prosecute his appeal, and pay such costs and damages as may be awarded in case the judgment appealed from is in whole or in part affirmed. 44 V. c. 5, s. 38. No appeal unless proper notice and security given.

This section places an additional limitation upon the right to appeal without interfering with the limit of a year imposed by ss. 73-75: see Workman v. Robb, 9 P. R. 160, where this enactment was held to be not retrospective.

Notice of appeal.

Notice of Appeal.—Formerly notice was required to be given to the Registrar of the Court of Appeal. This is not now necessary. The notice to the Registrar of the Court appealed from must be filed.

When a judgment is affirmed by a Divisional Court quære whether the time for appealing runs from the date of the original judgment. As an appeal lies from either the Judge of first instance, or from a Divisional Court (see sec. 70), it would seem just and reasonable that, where an intermediate appeal to a Divisional Court is allowed, the time for appealing should run from its decision: see, however, McFarlane v. Dickson, 2 Ch. Ch. 38; Bervier v. Morrington, 6 Jur. N. S. 1123; Tyler v. Webb, 3 Ch. Ch. 33; Duff v. Barrett, ib. 318.

In a case where leave to appeal is necessary under secs. 65, 66 or 67, and the appellant is prompt in applying for leave, the month for delivering notice of appeal will be computed from the date the leave is granted: McRae v. White, 9 P. R. 288.

Vacation

Vacation was in Wilby v. Standard, 10 P. R. 34, assumed to be not excepted in the computation of the time for giving notice of appeal under this section. The then Order (57) of the Court of Appeal on the subject only provided that vacation should not be reckoned in the computation of time appointed by the Orders of the Court of Appeal. Nothing was provided in regard to time limited by a statute. The present Rule 484 seems also only to provide for cases where time is limited by the Rules.

Form.

The form of the notice which is prescribed by Rule 803 will be found in the App. as Form No. 41.

Service.

The retainer of a solicitor continues after judgment, so as to make service of notice of appeal on him good service on the client, until the client takes proper steps to inform his opponent that he has withdrawn his authority: Lady de la Pole v. Dick, 29 Ch. D. 351.

Notice must be formal notice.

The notice of appeal must be a formal notice; the mere communication, verbal or otherwise, by an unsuccessful party to his opponent of his intention to appeal is not sufficient notice of appeal: In re Blythe v. Young, 13 Ch. D. 416; Re New Callao Co., 22 Ch. D. 484; see Kettlewell v. Watson, W. N. 1883, 102.

Co-defendants, when they need not be served.

Where some of several defendants appeal, notice of appeal need not be served on their co-defendants, even though relief over is claimed against them by the respondent: Freed v. Orr, 6 Ont. App. 690. It is sufficient for the respondent claiming relief, to serve the non-appealing defendants with the reasons against the appeal, a copy of the appeal book, and notice of the hearing of the appeal: Ib.; and see Rule 828.

The language of this section is very similar to that of Con. Stat. U. C. c. 13, s. 25, under which it was held that the mere statement of an unexplained oversight on the part of a solicitor was an insufficient ground for extending the time for giving notice of appeal, though it might be otherwise if an important question of law were involved, as to which there was a conflict between the Courts: Gordon v. G. W. R., 6 P. R. 300.

Notice, when allowed to be served after time has elapsed.

Where the notice was served on the last day after office hours, the notice was allowed, but the Court doubted whether the section requiring notice applied in that particular case: Rose v. Hickey, 7 P. R. 390; and where notice had been served in due time on the respondent, but, through the negligence of a clerk of the appellant's solicitor, notice had not been served on the Registrar of the Court appealed from, notice was allowed to be served on payment of costs: Re Laws, Laws v. Laws, 9 P. R. 72; and see Re Crosby, Munns v. Burn, 34 Ch. D. 664; but where nothing was done within the time, and no sufficient special circumstances were shewn, leave was refused: Miller v. Brown, 9 P. R. 542. In England a delay of three days beyond the prescribed time in delivering notice to the officer has been held fatal to the right of appeal: Ex parte Lamb, 45 L. T. N. S. 639, and see Ex parte Lyon, ib. 768; Re Blyth & Young, 13 Ch. D. 416; and Wright v. Leys, 10 P. R. 354.

See also the cases infra relating to applications for leave to appeal. Sec. 71.

The service of notice as required by the Statute is not a condition precedent to the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the appeal, and may be waived by the respondent: see Park Gate Iron Co. v. Coates, L. R. 5, C. P. 634. Neither is the service of the notice an initiation of the appeal, and therefore when a notice was served, but was not followed up by giving security, a motion to dismiss the appeal was refused: Smith v. Smith, 11 P. R. 6. Notice of appeal not necessary to give Court jurisdiction.

Leave to Appeal.—In giving leave or extending time, there is a difference between applications before and after judgment. In the former case, leave is readily granted unless the opposite party is injured in some respect for which payment of costs cannot compensate him; but in the latter case after the action has been once tried and judgment given, the party in whose favour the judgment is, has a vested right in it of which he is not to be deprived except under special circumstances: see Collins v. Vestry of Paddington, 5 Q. B. D. 368; Miller v. Brown, 9 P. R. 542; Shupe v Shupe, 4 C. L. T. 129; Craig v. Phillips, 7 Ch. D. 249; McAndrew v. Barker, 7 Ch. D. 701: see Re Ambrose Lake Tin and Copper Co., Taylor's case, 8 Ch. D. 643: Re Sceptre Licensed Victuallers Fire Insurance Co., ex parte How, W. N., 1879, 6. Leave to appeal.

No precise rules can be laid down as to what constitute special circumstances sufficient to call for the exercise of the discretion of the Court: see Carter v. Stubbs, 6 Q. B. D. 116; Re Manchester Economic B. S., 24 Ch. D. 488; Wilby v. Standard, etc., 10 P. R. 34.

Generally speaking, an extension will be granted where justice requires it: Re Gabourie, Casey v. Gabourie, 12 P. R. 252; but two particular lines of cases have been noticed in which leave may be given, 1st, where there is unavoidable accident whereby a party is unable to bring on his appeal; and 2nd, where some equity is raised on behalf of the appellant from the conduct of the other side: Langtry v. Dumoulin, 4 C. L. T. 351; Re Mansel, Rhodes v. Jenkins, 7 Ch. D. 711; Re Blyth & Young, 13 Ch. D. 416. Mistake on the appellant's part may be a ground, and it is not essential to shew misconduct by the respondent, (though there are expressions in the cases to the contrary: see Re Mansel, Rhodes v. Jenkins; McAndrew v. Barker, 7 Ch. D. 701; Curtis v. Sheffield, 21 Ch. D. 5; Rumohr v. Marx, 19 C. L. J. 10; Berdem v. Barringham, 7 Ch. D. 24; but there must be an equity shewn in the applicant's favour either from conduct of the other party or from something else recognized as a ground of equity: Re New Callao, etc., 22 Ch. D. 484; Re Manchester Economic B. S., 24 Ch. D. 488: Peckett v. Short, 32 W. R. 123; Wilby v. Standard, etc., 10 P. R. 34; Lewis v. Talbot Road Co., 10 P. R. 15; Sieveright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200; Langdon v. Robertson, 12 P. R. 139; Re Gabourie, 12 P. R. 252: and the onus of shewing such equity is on the applicant: Shupe v. Shupe, 4 C. L. T. 129.

Leave was granted where the applicants had been without their default in ignorance of the order appealed from, and applied as soon as they heard of it: Re Padstow, Total Loss, etc., Ass., W. N. 1882, 1; 51 L. J. Chy. 344; where the delay was attributable to the Court: McCrae v. White, 9 Pr. R. 288, supra, p. 80; under peculiar special circumstances: Re Lake Superior Native Copper Co., 11 P. R. 36; where some of the parties affected by the judgment lived at a great distance, and out of the jurisdiction: Re Jacques, 30 W. R. 394; but not where due diligence in communicating with them was not shewn: Miller v. Brown, 9 P. R. 542; and where the order appealed from, viz.: for the winding up of a company was founded upon a void resolution of which the appellant who obtained the order was not aware and therefore had not disclosed to the Court: Re Manchester Economic B. S., supra; where the case was important, and there were conflicting decisions below: Powell v. Peck, 12 P. R. 34; where leave was necessary and had not been applied for, but proceedings to appeal had been taken in proper time, and a fairly arguable point of law was presented: Longdon v. Robertson, 12 Pr. R. 139, approving of the rule expressed in Sieveright v. Leys, 9 P. R. 200; and see Re Gabourie, 12 P. R. 252, and Foley v. Canada P. L. & S. Co., 18 C. L. J. 444. Leave granted.

Leave was refused where the delay was owing to the applicant's ignorance of the practice: Wilby v. Standard, etc., 10 P. R. 34; or to the party having inex- Leave refused.

cusably proceeded under the old and repealed practice: Brown v. Dorse, 34 W. R. 776; Re Crosley, 34 Ch. D. 664; or to the inadvertence of his solicitor: Winnett v. Renwick, 6 P. R. 233; or the misconstruction of a rule: International Financial Society v. City of Moscow Gas Co., 7 Ch. D. 241. A contrary subsequent decision by a Court of Appeal does not form a special circumstance: Craig v. Phillips, 7 Ch. D. 249; Allan v. McTavish, 3 C. L. T. 196; see contra Re Normantown, 50 L. J. Chy. 223; and an offer of compromise made to the successful party, and pending when the time for appealing has elapsed raises no equity against the latter: Shupe v. Shupe, 4 C. L. T. 129.

In Curtis v. Sheffield, 21 Ch. D. 1 (see also 20 Ch. D. 398), leave to appeal from a decree 45 years old, which declared future rights, was asked by a person who applied promptly after the happening of the event which entitled him to a fund if the decree should be reversed. Leave was refused, the fact that future rights were declared being held to be no sufficient reason for giving leave in a case where all parties, who could in any event be interested, were before the Court when the declaration was made.

Execution may be superseded, or payment of money levied be withheld.

72. If at the time of the receipt by the Sheriff of a fiat to stay execution, or of a copy thereof, the money has been made or received by him but not paid over to the party who issued the execution, the party appealing may demand back from the Sheriff the amount made or received under the execution, or so much thereof as is in his hands not paid over, and in default of payment by the Sheriff upon such demand, the appellant may recover the same from him in an action for money had and received. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 29.

LIMITATION OF TIME FOR APPEALING.

Time within which appeals from judgments or decretal orders must be brought to a hearing.

73. Subject to the provisions of this Act all appeals from a judgment, decision, rule or decretal order of the High Court, shall be brought to hearing within one year after the giving of the judgment, decision, rule or order, or within such further time as the Court of Appeal may allow. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, ss. 45, 48; 44 V. c. 5, s. 39.

The year counts from the day on which the judgment or decision was delivered or was given, not from the time when it was drawn up or entered: see Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co. 12 P. R. 380.

Time within which appeals from interlocutory orders must be brought to a hearing.

74. If the appeal is from an interlocutory order, not being a decretal order, then the appellant shall bring the same to a hearing within six months from the pronouncing of the same, or within such further time as may be allowed for the purpose by the Court of Appeal, upon special grounds shewn to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge granting the same. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 47; 44 V. c. 5, s. 39. Sec. 75.

As to what are interlocutory orders see notes to sec. 68.

75. The time limited for appealing from a judgment or order which, under any General Orders of the Court of Chancery still remaining in force, does not become absolute upon the same being pronounced, shall be computed from the time when the same does become absolute. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 47; 44 V. c. 5, s. 39. Time to be reckoned from the judgment or order becoming absolute.

This section has probably now no application. The General Orders referred to are probably Chy. O. 113-117 which have not been included in the Consolidated Rules and are therefore abrogated by Rule 3.

TRIAL AND PROCEDURE

In England the ordinary mode of trial in Chancery was always by a single Judge. That was the practice for many years in the Ontario Court also. The Chancery Act (R. S. O., 1877, c. 40, s. 99) shows the method of trial by jury in Chancery, where that course might be resorted to.

Sections 77 to 80 now govern the practice as to when a trial is to be with, or without, a jury.

In England the trial of an action with, or without a jury, depends upon Rules (Order 36 rr. 3-7 of the Rules of 1883) which have not been adopted in Ontario. An absolute right is given to either party in purely Common Law actions to require, by notice, the issues to be tried by a jury; whereas in cases which formerly would have been brought in Chancery only, and so could before the Act have been tried without a jury, there is, under Order 36 r. 4, a discretion vested in the Court to dispense with a jury against the will of the parties: see Sugg v. Silber, 1 Q. B. D. 362; Clark v. Skipper, 21 Ch. D. 134; Re Martin, Hunt v. Chambers, 20 Ch. D. 368; Clarke v. Cookson, 2 Ch. D. 746; Bordier v. Burrell, 5 Ch. D. 512; Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 9 P. R. 468; Cardinall v. Cardinall, 25 Ch. D. 772; The Old Mill Co. v. Dukinfield Local Board, 50 L.T. N. S. 414; Gardner v. Jay 29 Ch. D. 50; The Temple Bar, 34 W. R. 68; Timson v. Wilson, 38 Ch. D. 72; Fanshawe v. London, etc., Dairy, 36 W. R. 418; Lynch v. McDonald, ib. 419; Snow & Winstanley, Prac. 329. When the discretion of the Court is exercised in favour of a jury trial, the cause may be transferred to another Division, to which it will thenceforward belong: Jones v. Baxter, 5 Ex. D. 275; and this is generally adopted as the more convenient course: Re Martin, supra; but an issue may be sent for trial at an Assize and the action still remain in the Chancery Division: Jenkins v. Morris, 14 Ch. D. 674. Practice in England.

In Ontario the practice as to having, or dispensing with, a jury is different. All actions which, under the practice existing at the time of passing of the A. J. Act, 1873, could have been brought in the Court of Chancery only, must be tried by a Judge without a jury (unless a jury can be had on special application): see sec. 77, and a notice of jury given in such a case is irregular and will be struck out on motion: see Gowanlock v. Mann, 9 P. R. 270, an action for rectification of a lease; Thurlow v. Beck, 9 P. R. 268, an action to set aside a conveyance: see also Usil v. Whelpton, 45 L. T. N. S. 39; 29 W. R. 799. Practice in Ontario.

In all other actions, viz., those which might have been brought in the Queen's Bench or Common Pleas, the provisions of sec. 78 will apply, i.e., (except in the certain kinds of actions mentioned in s. 76) either party, upon giving notice, has a prima facie right to a trial by jury, subject to the discretion vested in a Judge in Chambers, or the Judge at the trial, to direct otherwise: see note to sec. 80 infra.

Secs. 76, 77. Writs of summons are now issued out of the various Divisions in rotation without regard to the character of the action: Rule 226; and may be entered for trial at any sittings without regard to the Division to which the action is attached, except that actions to be tried by jury must be entered for a sittings at which a jury is summoned, viz., the Assizes: Rule 668. Prior to the passing of Rule 668 the practice was different: see Vermilyea v. Guthrie, 9 P. R. 267 and Mac. Jud. Act. 2nd ed. 60.

Certain actions for torts to be tried by a jury.

76. In actions of libel, slander, criminal conversation, seduction, malicious arrest, malicious prosecution and false imprisonment, all questions which might heretofore have been tried by a jury, shall be tried by a jury, unless the parties in person or by their solicitors or counsel, waive such trial. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 252.

In these cases the Court has no power to dispense with the jury: see Adair v. Wade, 9 Ont. 15.

Cases formerly within exclusive jurisdiction of Court of Chancery.

77. Subject to Rules of Court, all causes, matters and issues, over the subject of which prior to The Administration of Justice Act of 1873, the Court of Chancery had exclusive jurisdiction, shall be tried without a jury, unless otherwise ordered. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 99. See 44 V. c. 5, s. 45.

What actions prima facie to be tried without a jury.

A change in the practice is made by this section. The words "prior to the Administration of Justice Act of 1873" have, in the Revision of the Statutes, been substituted for the words "at the time of the passing of this (the J. A. 1881) Act" in sec. 45, of 44 V. c. 5. The effect of this alteration is to add to the cases which must now be tried without a jury those actions which by the A. J. Act, 1873, were made cognizable by a Court of Law as well as by the Court of Chancery, e. g., actions for purely money demands though the right to recover was an equitable one (see R. S. O. 1877 c. 49 s. 4) and actions where an injunction, or similar equitable relief is required, though otherwise cognizable by a Court of Law: see Toronto & Navigation Co. v. Silcox, 12 P. R. 622, and R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 8.

In determining whether an action is one over the subject of which the Court of Chancery had exclusive jurisdiction, the test is not whether the plaintiff's end might have been substantially obtained by some proceeding cognizable in a Court of Law, but whether or not the specific relief asked for in the statement of claim is of a kind which on the 29th March, 1873, could only have been obtained in the Court of Chancery: see Pawson v. Merchants' Bank, 11 P. R. 72; Masse v. Masse, 11 P. R. 81, reversing S. C. 10 P. R. 574; Herring v. Brooks, 11 P. R. 15. If the cause of action is an equitable one the circumstance that the issues or questions of fact to be tried are matters which juries are accustomed to consider, in actions differently framed, will not entitle a party to trial by jury: Farran v. Hunter, 12 P. R. 324.

Examples.

The following have been held to be cases which could have been only brought in Chancery: an action for the rectification of a lease: Gowanlock v. Mann, 9 P. R. 270; to set aside a conveyance: Thurlow v. Beck, 9 P. R. 268; to declare void the delivery of certain notes: Pawson v. Merchants' Bank, sup.; to establish a will: Re Lewis, Jackson v. Scott, 11 P. R. 107.

An action by rate payers against members of a municipal council for misconduct causing loss to the municipality is an action against trustees, and formerly within the exclusive jurisdiction of Chancery: Morrow v. Connor, 11 P. R. 423.

An action for specific performance of a covenant to repair or for damages was held to be a Common Law action, as specific performance of such a covenant could not be decreed in Chancery: Bingham v. Warner, 10 P. R. 621; but generally where a party seeks equitable relief to which he is not entitled the opposite party should, unless in a very clear case, demur, instead of attacking the pleadings indirectly by asking to have a jury: Ib. Secs. 78, 79.

Even in cases formerly within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery a trial by jury may be had. Prima facie the trial is to be without a jury. It may, however be "otherwise ordered" on special application. The power to order a jury existed under the Chancery Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 99). Applications under that section could only be made to the Court; the Master in Chambers had no jurisdiction: Thurlow v. Beck, 9 P. R. 268. It is presumed that under the present section the application may be made in the same way as an application under section 80, that is, to the Court or a Judge thereof, and should not be made to the Master in Chambers or a local Judge, as the discretion to be exercised on the motion is similar to that vested in the Judge at the trial under section 80: see, however, Bennett v. Tregent, 25 C. P. 443. Jury obtained on special motion.

A jury was refused in Re Lewis, Jackson v. Scott, 11 P. R. 107, a suit to establish a will.

78.—(1) Subject to Rules of Court, all causes, matters and issues other than aforesaid, and the assessment or inquiry of damages therein may, and (subject to the provisions of section 80) in the absence of such notice as is in sub-section 2 of this section mentioned shall be heard, tried and assessed by a Judge without a jury. Other issues to be tried and damage assessed by Judge alone.

(2) If any of the parties desires the issues of fact to be tried or damages to be assessed or inquired of by a jury, he shall, at least eight days before the sittings at which the action is to be tried, or within such other time as may be ordered by the Court or a Judge, file and serve on the opposite party a notice in writing to the effect following, that is to say: Unless jury notice given or Court or Judge otherwise directs.

"The Plaintiff (or one or more of them or the Defendant, or one or more of them, as the case may be) requires that the issues in this cause be tried (or the damages assessed) by a jury," and a copy of the notice shall be attached to the record or certified copy of the pleadings prepared for the Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 253; 44 V. c. 5, s. 45.

The provision that a jury notice is to be served at least 8 days before the sittings is new. Previously to the Rev. Stat. the jury notice had to be filed with the last pleading: see Powell v. London Ass. Co., 10 P. R. 520; Humphreys v. Hunter, 20 C. P. 456, 466; Leeson v. Lemon, 17 C. L. J. 430, 1 C. L. T. 698.

79.—(1) Where any one of the parties has given such notice requiring a jury, the issues of fact therein shall (subject to the provisions of section 80) be tried and determined or the damages assessed by the unanimous verdict of twelve jurors duly sworn for the trial of such issues or for the assessment of such damages. Effect of notice requiring a jury.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIB

Sec. 80. Parties may waive notice.

(2) The parties present at the trial may consent that the said notice shall be waived, and the case tried and damages assessed by the Judge, and may indorse a memorandum of such consent upon the record, and thereupon the Judge may try the issues or assess the damages without a jury. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 254.

The memorandum if omitted to be made at the time may be made afterwards nunc pro tunc from the Judge's notes: Wycott v. Campbell, 31 U. C. Q. B. 584.

Judge may direct trial by jury, or without a jury.

80. Notwithstanding anything in the next preceding two sections contained, the Judge presiding at the trial may in his discretion direct that the action or issues shall be tried or the damages assessed by a jury; and upon application to the Court in which the action is pending, or to a Judge thereof, by an order made before the trial, or by the direction of the Judge presiding at the trial, the issues may be tried and damages assessed without a jury. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 255.

It has been said that as a rule the question whether a jury notice ought to be struck out can be better disposed of by the Judge at the trial, when the real questions to be tried have been ascertained, than by a Judge in Chambers on the pleadings and affidavits (per Osler, J.A., in Conmee v. C. P. R., 12 Ont. App. 769), and the Judge at the trial is considered to have absolute control over the manner in which the case shall be tried, and his discretion will not be interfered with by a Divisional Court: Brown v. Wood, 12 P. R. 198.

In Conmee v. C. P. R. (sup.) though the Court of Appeal held that the plaintiff was entitled to a jury, at the trial a jury was dispensed with and the case referred to arbitrators. It has, therefore, sometimes been considered inexpedient to deal with the matter on motion before trial in view of the power of the Judge at the trial: see Temperance Colonization Co. v. Evans, 12 P. R. 48, 380; McMahon v. Lavery, ib. 62. Cases, however, have arisen in which the Court has acted on motion. In Bennett v. Tregent, 25 C. P. 443, Mr. Dalton, Q. C., Clerk of the C. & P. sitting in Chambers, directed the trial to be without a jury in an action for a breach of warranty, and his power to do so was affirmed by the Court. In Pickup v. Kincaid, 11 P. R. 445, an action to recover fees for medical attendance, where nothing was in dispute but the amount, it was held to be a proper case to strike out a jury notice with a view to having an account directed at once.

It has been held that this section places the matter in the discretion of the Judge in much the same way as under the English Order 36, rr. 3-7, that is, the Judge must be satisfied that sufficient reasons exist to deprive the party claiming a jury of his prima facie right. The onus of establishing this is on the other side, if an application is made before trial, and if the case can be equally well tried by either mode, then, if either party desires it, the case should go to a jury: Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 9 P. R. 470; see also Clark v. Skipper, 21 Ch. D. 134; Moses v. Simpson, 20 C. L. J. 230.

Semble, mere complexity of facts would not, alone, be sufficient reason for dispensing with a jury, in a Common Law action: Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 9 P. R. 468.

Under ordinary circumstances an action for infringement of a patent should not be tried by a jury: Vermilyea v. Guthrie, 9 P. R. 267.

Causes of action may in a proper case be severed, that some proper for a trial by jury may be so tried; see Temperance Colonization Co. v. Evans, and McMahon v. Lavery (sup.); but such separate trial by jury should not be ordered where there is but one cause of action: Farran v. Hunter, 12 P. R. 324. Sec. 80.

Rules 677 and 678 provide the mode of trial where equitable issues or both legal and equitable issues are raised. See notes to those Rules.

Where a trial is commenced with a jury the Judge cannot during its progress dispense with and discharge the jury and try the case by himself: Denmark v. McConaghy, 29 C. P. 563; Adair v. Wade, 9 Ont. 15.

Where a case had been tried and the jury disagreed, a motion was made to dispense with a jury, as a jury would be likely to disagree again, but it was held that the case having been considered proper for a trial by jury, it should be so tried, subject to the directions of the Judge at the trial: Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 3 C. L. T. 499; see 19 C. L. J. 158; but in Adamson v. Adamson, 12 P. R. 469, a second trial was directed to be without a jury, the case being one where there was no prima facie right to a jury.

In McGunighal v. G. T R., 6 P. R. 209, where, after the jury disagreed, and a second trial had been had, but the verdict had been set aside as against evidence, an order was made for trial by a Judge.

PLEADINGS IN ACTIONS ON FOREIGN JUDGMENTS.

Foreign judgments are those given by Courts whose jurisdiction does not extend to Ontario: Macfarlane v. Derbishire, 8 U. C. Q. B. 12; a foreign judgment if not impeached or denied is prima facie evidence against the defendant: Manning v. Thompson, 17 C. P. 606. It constitutes a simple contract debt, so that the period of limitation in such case (6 years), for bringing an action upon it, applies: North v. Fisher, 6 Ont. 206.

The principle upon which a foreign judgment is enforced is that the judgment of a Court of competent jurisdiction over the defendant imposes an obligation upon the defendant to pay which the domestic Court is bound to enforce: Fowler v. Vail, 4 Ont. App. 270; Castrique v. Imrie, L. R. 4 E. & I. App. 414; Godard v. Gray, L. R. 6 Q. B. 139; Re Trufort, Trafford v. Blane, 57 L. T. N. S. 674.

A judgment for a penalty under a statute of a foreign State does not create a debt enforceable in this Province: Huntingdon v. Attrill, 17 Ont. 245.

A foreign judgment is prima facie evidence only that the foreign Court had jurisdiction over the subject matter or the person of the defendant, and that the judgment was regularly obtained. It may be shown by way of defence that the judgment was not binding in the foreign country, for want of jurisdiction. The Court has jurisdiction over the person of the defendant when he is the subject of the country even though not resident nor domiciled in it, and he is therefore bound by a judgment, though obtained in his absence, where recovered under the process of the country to which he owes allegiance as a subject, or temporary allegiance by being, when the suit was commenced, resident in the country, so as to have the benefit and protection of its laws. The absence of these circumstances will constitute a defence: see Fowler v. Vail; Godard v. Gray (sup.) Schibsby v. Westenholz, L. R. 6 Q. B. 155; Maubourquet v. Wyse, 1 Ir. C. L. 471; McLean v. Shields, 9 Ont. 699; Beaty v. Cromwell, 9 P. R. 547; 2 Smith L. C. 8th ed. 840.

If the foreign Court had jurisdiction as above (or if defendant submitted to its jurisdiction by appearing: Voinet v. Barrett, 34 W. R. 161; 1 Cab & E. 554), the judgment is conclusive so as to prevent him from pleading any defence which might have been pleaded in the foreign country: Fowler v. Vail, and other cases supra; Paisley v. Broddy, 11 P. R. 202.

Fraud in obtaining a foreign judgment is a defence: Aboulaff v. Oppenheimer, 10 Q. B. D. 295; or that it is contrary to natural justice as in Buchanan v. Rucker, 1 Camp. 63; 9 East. 192; or the fact that it was obtained against defendant without notice (he being an alien), notwithstanding the judgment is valid in the foreign country: Rousillon v. Rousillon, 14 Ch. D. 351.

Suit upon judgment in Quebec, where the service was personal.

81. In any suit brought in Ontario on a judgment or decree obtained in the Province of Quebec in a suit in which the service of process on the defendant or party sued has been personal, no defence that might have been set up to the original suit shall be pleaded to that brought on the judgment or decree. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 145.

Suit upon judgment in Quebec, where service was not personal.

82. In any suit brought in Ontario on a judgment or decree obtained in the Province of Quebec in a suit in which personal service was not obtained and in which no defence was made, any defence that might have been set up to the original suit may be made to the suit on the judgment or decree. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 146.

Quære whether the personal service referred in these sections means personal service in the Province of Quebec: Court v. Scott, 32 U. C. C. P. 148. In that case the action was upon a prom. note made in Toronto payable in Montreal so that the contract was performable, and the breach occurred, in Quebec, bringing the defendant within 22 V. c. 5, s. 58., which, by the law of Quebec, gave the Quebec Court jurisdiction upon a personal service in Ontario.

As to the mode of proof of a Quebec judgment: see Tilton v. McKay, 24 U. C. C. P. 94.

VERDICT.

Court may direct jury to give a special verdict, except in actions for libel.

83. Upon a trial by a jury, where the Court or the presiding Judge otherwise directs, it shall not be lawful for the jury to give a general verdict, and it shall be the duty of the jury to give a special verdict if the Court or presiding Judge so directs; and unless the Court or the presiding Judge otherwise directs, the jury may give either a general or a special verdict; but this section shall not apply to actions of libel. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 268.

A "general verdict" is one whereby the jury find the issue in favour of one party or the other, generally i. e. plaintiff, or defendant, as the case may be; and where there are several issues, if some be found in favour of one side and some in favour of the other, this would still be a "general verdict:" Co. Lit. 226; Davies v. Loundes, 1 Sc. N. R. 328; Chitty's Arch. Pr. (14th ed.) 655. A "special verdict," on the other hand, is one whereby the jury simply find the facts, leaving it to the Court on applying the law to the facts so found, to determine for which of the parties a judgment should be given: Co. Lit. 227 b, 228. Chitty's Arch. Pr. (14th ed.) 655.

Formerly a jury might in all cases give a general verdict: Mayor of Devizes v. Clark, 3 A. & E. 506; but this and the following section have restricted this right.

In certain cases the jury may be directed to answer questions, and on the general or a special verdict, may direct the jury to answer any questions of fact stated to them by the Judge for the purpose; and in such case the jury shall answer such questions, and shall not give any verdict; and on the finding of the jury upon the questions which they answer, the Judge shall direct judgment to be entered. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 264. Secs. 85-87. answers the Judge; shall enter verdict.

See Canada Central v. McLaren, 8 Ont. App. 564; St. Denis v. Baxter, 13 Ont. 41; Gower v. Lusse, 16 Ont. 88.

It is imperative upon the jury to answer the questions submitted to them and they may not give a general verdict instead, unless the Judge in his discretion receives it: Furlong v. Carroll, 7 Ont. App. 145.

INTEREST.

85. Interest shall be payable in all cases in which it is now payable by law, or in which it has been usual for a jury to allow it. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 266. Interest may be allowed where it has been usual.

Interest is in practice more frequently allowed by our juries than English authority would seem to warrant: Spence v. Hector, 24 U. C. Q. B. 277; see also Mennie v. Leitch, 8 Ont. 397; Snarr v. Badenach, 10 Ont. 131; Re Kirkpatrick, 10 P. R. 4; Michie v. Reynolds, 24 U. C. Q. B. 303; Montgomery v. Boucher, 14 U. C. C. P. 45.

As to the allowance of interest on a claim in the Master's office: see Re Ross, 20 Gr. 385.

86.—(1) On the trial of any issue, or any assessment of damages, upon any debt or sum certain, payable by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, interest may be allowed to the plaintiff from the time when the debt or sum became payable. When allowed on debts certain and overdue.

See Towsley v. Wythes, 16 U. C. Q. B. 139.

(2) If payable otherwise than by virtue of a written instrument at a certain time, interest may be allowed from the time when a demand of payment is made in writing, informing the debtor that interest will be claimed from the date of the demand. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 267.

Interest may be allowed on a solicitor's bill if a demand in writing is made for it: Re McClive, 9 P. R. 213.

87. In actions for conversion of goods or for trespass de bonis asportatis, the jury may give interest in the nature of damages over and above the value of the goods at the time of the conversion or seizure, and in actions on policies of insurance may give interest over and above the money recoverable thereon. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 268. When by way of damages in certain actions.

Secs. 88,89. Interest on judgments.

88. Unless it is otherwise ordered by the Court, a verdict or judgment shall bear interest from the time of the rendering of the verdict, or of giving the judgment, as the case may be, notwithstanding that the entry of judgment upon the verdict, or upon the giving of the judgment, shall have been suspended by any proceedings in the action, whether in the Court in which the action is pending or in appeal. R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 43; c. 50, s. 269; 47 V. c. 10, s. 4.

Interest does not run from the date of the verdict, where the judgment is expressly directed to be entered at a future day: McLaren v. Canada Central Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 328; and where a verdict is entered, subject to an award, the amount of the award does not bear interest from the date of the verdict: Hope v. Beatty, 7 P. R. 39; and see Woodruff v. Canada Guarantee Co., 8 P. R. 532.

SITTINGS.

Sittings for trial of causes.

89.—(1) Subject to Rules of Court, as often in every year as the due despatch of business and the public convenience may require, there shall be sittings of the High Court at every county town for the trial of causes, matters and issues, whether legal or equitable, in all Divisions of the High Court, which are to be heard and determined by a Judge without a jury, and also for the trial of causes, matters and issues in all Divisions of the High Court which are to be tried with a jury, and for the trial of criminal matters and proceedings; and in case such first mentioned sittings are appointed at any county town for the same time and before the same Judge as jury cases, separate lists shall be made of the jury and non-jury cases, and the jury cases shall first be disposed of, unless the Judge sees fit to direct otherwise. 44 V. c. 5, s. 46; 48 V. c. 13, s. 14.

(2) The Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature, or a majority of them, shall appoint the days upon which such sittings shall be held. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s 24; c. 41, s. 2.

See also Rule 213.

Under this section the High Court holds Circuit Sittings similar to the former Sittings of Courts of Assize and Nisi Prius.

Commissions for holding Courts of Assize and Nisi Prius may still be issued. See R. S. O. 1887, c. 45.

Semble, that the Lieut.-Governor as well as the Governor-General has power to issue such commissions: Reg. v. Amer, 42 U. C. Q. B. 391.

See also Reg. v. Bunting, 7 Ont. 118.

Judges to appoint days for holding Courts of Assize.

90.—(1) Sittings of the High Court for the trial of causes, matters and issues shall be held at the county town of every county and union of counties in each year between the Hilary and Easter sittings of the High Court, and between the 1st day of September and the Michaelmas sittings. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 1.

(2) One such sittings shall ordinarily be held in each year at Sault Ste. Marie and at Port Arthur, respectively, on such days as may from time to time be appointed therefor by the Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature, or a majority of them, but if the said Judges, on inquiry, ascertain on any occasion that any such sittings is not required for the administration of justice, it shall not be necessary to appoint a day for the holding thereof. 47 V. c. 14, s. 13.

(3) In addition to the said sittings so to be held at the county town of the County of York, there shall in every year be held at such county town a third such sittings between the said Michaelmas and Hilary sittings, and a fourth such sittings between the said Easter sittings and the 1st day of July. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 1.

(4) In addition to the sittings so to be held at the county towns of the Counties of Wentworth and Middlesex, there shall be held at each of such county towns a third such sittings for the trial of civil causes, matters and issues and criminal matters and proceedings, or of civil causes, matters and issues only, in each and every year between said Michaelmas and Hilary sittings. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 1; 48 V. c. 13, s. 14.

(5) In addition to the regular sittings to be held under sub-section 1 of this section, a third such sittings may be appointed if the Judges of the Supreme Court, or a majority of them, shall see fit for the trial of civil causes, matters and issues and criminal matters and proceedings, or of civil causes, matters and issues only, to be held at the county town of any county in the Province between said Michaelmas and Hilary sittings of the High Court. 48 V. c. 13, s. 14.

as often and at such times as they see fit, for the trial of causes which are to be tried by a Judge without a jury. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 5.

Separate sittings for civil and criminal matters.

92. The sittings of the High Court for the trial of civil causes, matters and issues in any county may, in the discretion of the Judges appointing the days therefor, or of the Judge who has been appointed to preside or is presiding thereat, be held separate and apart from the sittings for the trial of criminal matters and proceedings, either on the same day or on a different day. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 3.

Place in County Town where Court to be hold

93. Such sittings may, at the discretion of the Court or of the Judge who is to hold the same, be held in the court house of the county town in which the same are appointed to be held, or in such other place in the county town as the Judge selects; and the Judge shall in all respects have the same authority as a Judge formerly had when sitting at Nisi Prius in regard to the use of the court house, gaol and other buildings or apartments set apart in the County for the administration of justice. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 26.

Who may preside.

94.—(1) Such sittings shall be presided over by one of the Judges of the Supreme Court; or in their absence by a retired Judge of the Supreme Court or by a Judge of any County Court in Ontario, or by one of Her Majesty's Counsel learned in the law appointed for Upper Canada, or for the Province of Ontario, upon such Judge or Counsel being requested by a Judge of the Supreme Court to attend for that purpose. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 6.

(2) Such Judge or Counsel while holding the sitting shall possess, exercise and enjoy all the powers and authorities of a Judge of the High Court, and in civil proceedings may reserve the giving of his decision on questions raised at the trial; and such decision shall have the like force and effect as the decision of a Judge of the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 27; c. 41, s. 8.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 11.

Sec. 96, (2, 3). Sheriff if the Judge of Assize does not arrive on the day appointed for opening Court.

By 52 V. c. 10, s. 3, the words in brackets have been struck out and the following inserted instead :—"Sittings of the High Court for the trial of civil cases, matters and issues, and for the trial of other matter and proceedings within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature."

The adjournment of Courts of Assize and Nisi Prius is provided for in R. S. O. 1887, c. 45, s. 6.

TRIAL OF SUPERIOR COURT CASES IN COUNTY COURTS, AND COUNTY COURT CASES BEFORE HIGH COURT.

96.—(1) All issues of fact and assessments of damages in the High Court relating to debt, covenant and contract, where the amount is liquidated or ascertained by the signature of the defendant, may be tried and assessed in the County Court of the county where the trial is to take place, if the plaintiff desires it, unless a Judge of the High Court otherwise orders, and upon such terms as he deems meet.

Certain cases in High Court may be tried in the County Court of the County in which the venue is laid.

The amount must be ascertained by the signature of defendant or liquidated in the same way : McPherson v. McPherson, 5 P. R. 240. A note made in the U. S. and payable in American currency is not so liquidated or ascertained : Cushman v. Reid, 20 C. P. 147 ; 5 P. R. 121. By sub. sec. 3 infra the Court has a discretion to send an action for any debt for trial in a County Court, though the debt be not liquidated or ascertained by the signature of the defendant.

(2) In such case the action shall be entered for trial, notice of trial shall be given, and the trial take place in the same way as in ordinary cases in such County Court.

Certain cases in the High Court may be sent to be tried at the County Court of the County in which the action is brought.

(3) In any action in the High Court, in which the amount of the demand is ascertained by the signature of the defendant, and in any action for any debt in which a Judge of the said High Court is satisfied that the case may safely be tried in a County Court, any Judge of the High Court may order that such case shall be tried in the County Court of the county where such action was commenced, and such action shall be tried there accordingly, and the record shall be made up as in other cases; and the order directing the case to be tried in the County Court shall be left with the Clerk of the County Court on entering the action for trial, annexed to the certified copy of the pleading for the Judge; and the trial shall take place in the same way as in ordinary cases in such County Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 31.

Secs. 97-99. Proceedings in such case.

In the cases mentioned in clause 1 the plaintiff is prima facie entitled to a trial in the County Court of the county in which the place named as the place of trial is, but if he takes steps for this purpose the defendant may move to have the trial in the High Court.

In the cases mentioned in clause 3 the plaintiff must first obtain an order for trial in a County Court, and the County Court must be that of the county in which the action is commenced, i. e., the county in which the writ was issued.

By order County Court cases may be tried at High Court Sittings.

97.—(1) By the order of a Judge of the High Court, made upon such terms as the Judge may consider just, the issues of fact and assessment of damages in any action pending in a County Court may be tried and assessed at the sittings of the High Court at any county town.

This does not enable issues of fact to be tried in the High Court, leaving issues of law on the same record to be determined in the Co. Court: Pattypiece v. Mayville, 21 C. P. 316.

(2) In such cases the action shall be entered and the case tried as in ordinary cases. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 32.

The jurisdiction of the Co. Court is not enlarged by the trial of the case in the H. C. Where, therefore, the title to land came in question so that a Co. Court had no jurisdiction, a verdict was entered for defendant: Wetherall v. Garlow, 30 U. C. Q. B. 1.

Powers of County Court as to awards when Judge refers to arbitration, etc.

98. Where any such cause is referred by the presiding Judge at such sittings, the County Court in which the action is brought, and the Judge thereof, shall have the same power to enforce any award, report or certificate made on the reference, and to make rules and orders upon appeals therefrom and motions relating thereto, as if the order referring the case had been made by the County Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 40.

Books for Judge's notes of trial, etc.

99. The Clerks of the several County Courts shall provide books in which the Judges presiding at the sittings of the High Court, where cases brought in any County Court are tried or assessed under this Act, may enter their notes of such trials and assessments; and such books, immediately after the trials or assessments, shall be returned to the said Clerks and shall remain in their offices. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 41. Secs. 100, 101.

100. The jury fees and the fees and charges payable and pertaining to officers of the County Courts, upon all actions or proceedings brought in the County Courts, and tried or assessed in the High Court, shall be chargeable and paid as if the same were being tried or assessed in the County Courts; and no other fees shall be chargeable thereon, and the Clerk of a County Court shall be entitled to receive and take such part thereof as pertains to him, to his own use. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 44. Fee to officers.

OFFICIAL REFEREES AND ASSESSORS.

Equitable jurisdiction being given to all the Divisions of the High Court, the following sections are intended to give to all the Divisions, certain powers of reference similar to those formerly possessed by the Court of Chancery, and necessary in certain classes of cases in that Court.

Section 101 gives the power of referring, not the action, but any questions arising therein, to the proper officer, or to an official referee, or to any other person (if the parties so agree), for inquiry and report; and the report is treated by the Court as formerly a report of a Master was in Chancery.

The Common Law Courts had, previous to the Ont. J. A. 1881, power only under R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 26, to refer matters in a cause for report. Sec. 101 gives a new tribunal, that is to say, instead of referring certain questions to a Master for report, the Court may refer questions to an Official Referee—an officer newly appointed with limited duties and also defined powers. See Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 142, 153.

Sec. 102 gives powers which neither the Court of Chancery nor the Common Law Courts possessed before. It gives authority to refer (without, as well as with, consent) to the proper officer any question or issue of fact, or any question of account, requiring a prolonged examination of documents or accounts, or a scientific or local investigation, which cannot conveniently be made before a jury, or conducted by the Court itself directly, not merely for report but for trial: Longman v. East, sup. 153.

A full explanation of these sections will be found in Longman v. East, sup., quoted very fully, with approval, in Cumming v. Low, 2 Ont. 499.

The former power of the Court of Chancery to refer to a Master: Longman v. East and Cumming v. Low, sup.; Slack v. Midland, 16 Ch. D. 81; 29 W. R., 302, and the former practice as to arbitration were left unaffected by the Ont. J. A. 1881: Cruikshank v. Floating Swimming Baths Co., 1 C. P. D. 260; Longman v. East, sup.; Lloyd v. Lewis, 2 Ex. D., 7; Cumming v. Low, 2 Ont. 499; and each Division of the High Court was given the jurisdiction formerly possessed by any of the Courts consolidated in the High Court; secs. 3 and 35.

Rule 550 now provides, however, that the Court will not refer to arbitration, so that all references of matters not disposed of by the Judge at the trial are referred either to a Master (see Rules 43-138) or an Official Referee.

See notes to Rule 550.

101.—(1) Subject to any Rules of Court and to such right as may exist to have particular cases submitted to References and assessors.

Sec. 101, (2, 3.)

the verdict of a jury (a) any question arising in any cause or matter before the High Court of Justice or before the Court of Appeal, may be referred by the Court or by any Divisional Court or Judge before whom such cause or matter may be pending, for inquiry and report to a Judge of a County Court, or to an official referee, or to any other person agreed on by the parties; and the report of such referee may be adopted wholly or partially by the Court, and may (if so adopted) be enforced as a judgment by the Court.

(2) The High Court, or any Divisional Court or Judge as aforesaid, or the Court of Appeal, may also, in any such cause or matter as aforesaid in which it may think it expedient so to do, call in the aid of one or more assessors specially qualified, and try and hear such cause or matter wholly or partially with the assistance of such assessors.

(3) The remuneration, if any, to be paid to such referees or assessors shall be determined by the Court. 44. V. c. 5, s. 47.

See Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 56.

By section 56 of the English Act the reference is to any official or special Referee, instead of being, as in the Ontario Act, to a Judge of the County Court or to an Official Referee, or to any other person agreed on by the parties. With respect to matters embraced in sub-sec. 2, the words "or any Divisional Court or Judge aforesaid," are not in the English Act.

As to who are Official Referees see section 124. See also Rule 551, which provides further for references to take accounts or make inquiries at any stage of proceedings.

(a) For such cases see secs. 76 and 78, and notes.

The Master in Chambers and local Judges have no jurisdiction to make an order under this section: Union Loan Co. v. Boomer, 10 P. R. 630; Bank of Commerce v. Jennings, 7 C. L. T. 170.

The jurisdiction of the Referee under this section is limited to "inquiry and report." Under the concluding clause of sub-sec. 1, it was formerly held that the Court may accept the report wholly or partially, or, if dissatisfied with the principle upon which the Referee has proceeded, may remit it to him for amendment: Dunkirk Colliery Co. v. Lever, 9 Ch. D. 20. It was there held also that though the Court might under this section adopt the report, wholly or partially, it could not alter or vary the report, any more than it could alter or vary the verdict of a jury as to the amount of the damages, and the L.JJ. differed as to whether the Court might disregard the report if wrong in principle and itself consider the evidence upon which it was founded. Subsequently the Rule corresponding to Ont. Rule 40 was passed, under which the Court may itself decide the question referred to a Referee, on the evidence taken before him or with additional evidence: see also Re Brook, 29 W. R. 821. It is submitted that now, under Rule 848, if the report becomes absolute the Court will adopt it, unless it is duly appealed against, and that the concluding clause of sub-sec. 1 must be regarded as repealed (see 51 V. c. 2 s. 4) or as having reference to what may be done where an appeal has been taken from the Referee. See also note to Rule 40.

Sec. 101.

What may be referred.

Under this section all that can be referred is a question or questions in the action, and must be a question or questions which must necessarily be decided in the action, not such as it may prove unnecessary to decide: Weed v. Ward, 40 Ch. D. 555. The whole action, facts and law, cannot be referred: Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 142: Braginton v. Yates, W. N. 1880, 150; Luney v. Essery, 10 P. R. 285; Re Queen City Refining Co., 10 P. R. 415; nor the whole of the issues in an action: Clarry v. B. N. Ass. Co., 12 P. R. 357. The Referee is not to dispose of the action, but to determine facts and report them; to find the materials upon which the Court is to act: Longman v. East, sup.; Cummings v. Low, 2 Ont. 501. A question of liability, upon which the right to an account depends, should be tried in the usual way: Ward v. Hall, W. N. 1880, 69 per Cotton, L.J.; Clow v. Harper, 3 Ex. D. 198; more especially if it be a proper question for a jury: Young v. Prittie, Globe, 19 April, 1882. Where a question is directly raised by the pleadings, and is distinctly presented to the Court for its decision, and evidence has been taken upon it, it should not be referred but should be disposed of by the Court: International Bridge Co. v. Canada Southern Ry. Co., 7 Ont. App. 266; Smith v. Armitage, 24 Ch. D. 727.

This section contemplates an inquiry by examination of witnesses and not by the Referee's personal observation only: Baroness Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 19 Q. B. D. 155.

Form of Order.

A form of order of reference under this section is given in the App. No. 139. It should express on its face that it is an order under this section for reference and report: Cumming v. Low, 2 Ont. 505. A difficulty has been felt about reserving further consideration, but if that cannot be done directly, the same object can, where necessary, be effected by making an interlocutory order of reference, and adjourning the further trial of the action till after the report shall be made: see Re Brook, W. N. 1880, 187; on fur. con. 29 W. R. 821; 45 L. T. 172, 17 C. L. J. 391; or though the judgment for the taking of accounts may be a final decree, a motion for judgment in the nature of a judgment on further directions may be made: Walker v. Bunkell, 22 Ch. D. 722.

Report.

The Referee under this section must make a report to the Court: Cruikshanks v. Floating Swimming Bath Co., 1 C. P. D. 260. The report must contain the materials on which the Court is to act: Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 149, with such facts and particulars as may be necessary in each case, to shew on what the report is based, e. g., where damages have been assessed, and the the principle upon which the assessment has been made: Mayor of Birmingham v. Allen, W. N. 1877, 190; where accounts have been taken, not merely the result of them, but also which items have been allowed, and which disallowed, should be made to appear by the report: Burrard v. Calisher, W. N. 1882, 11; 30 W. R. 321; 45 L. T. 793; 51 L. J. Chy. 223; 18 C. L. J. 180; 2 Ont. 165; Luney v. Essery, 10 P. R. 285. The evidence should not be stated: Longman v. East, sup.; see also Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559; nor the reasons for any findings: Dunkirk Colliery v. Lever, 9 Ch. D. 20, though the Referee may doubtless be specially directed to do so where necessary: see McCargar v. McKinnon, 15 Gr. 361.

It is presumed that a Referee may, like a Master, report specially any circumstances which he deems necessary for the information of the Court, and that he should do so as to any matter affecting costs: see Hayes v. Hayes, 29 Gr. 90 and Rule 35.

When the conduct of an arbitrator would invalidate his report the like conduct on the part of a referee would be fatal to his report: see Conmee v. Canadian Pacific Ry. Co., 16 Ont. 639.

Rules 34-40 provide for the mode of procedure by Referees. Rule 39 provides for the submission by the Referee, in his report, of questions for the decision of the Court.

As to the filing of the Referee's report, see Rule 84.

Procedure to enforce.

A report under this section formerly required to be adopted by the Court: see Guardians of Mansfield v. Wright, per Jessel, M.R., 9 Q. B. D., p. 686; Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D. 738; but now, under Rule 848, it becomes absolute at the expiration of 14 days from the filing unless duly appealed from.

Sec. 102. Judgment cannot be signed upon it, however, without a motion for judgment, which is similar to the former motion for decree on further directions. It is submitted also that notwithstanding the concluding clause of section 1 and Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D. 738, the Court is bound to adopt the report unless duly appealed from under Rules 848 and 849; (see note supra) and that the former decisions that the report may be taken to the Court for judgment at once without waiting for any lapse of time, and also without any motion to confirm it, and that any party dissatisfied with the report may move to set it aside or vary it at any time before or upon the return of any motion for judgment based upon it, no longer state the practice: see Deacon v. Dolby, W. N. 1882, 8; 30 W. R. 317; 18 C. L. J. 180; Dunkirk Colliery v. Lever, 9 Ch. D. 23; Burrard v. Calisher, W. N. 1882, 29; 30 W. R. 540; 46 L. T. 341; 18 C. L. J. 261; Re Brook, Sykes v. Brook, 29 W. R. 891; 45 L. T. 172; 17 C. L. J. 391; Walker v. Bunkell, 22 Ch. D. 722; Luney v. Essery, 10 P. R. 285. In Hamilton v. Tweed, 9 Pr. R. 448, the analogy of a Master's report was followed without objection in accordance with what is now, but was not then, the practice. Two clear days' notice of a motion for judgment was formerly, and is still, sufficient: Re Brook, sup. and Rule 479, but now 7 clear days' notice of an appeal is required by Rule 849. In England a motion raising objections to the report is generally begun by summons, but adjourned as a matter of course into Court to be heard with the further consideration of the case: see the cases supra and Re Evans, Owen v. Evans, W. N. 1882, 37. In Ontario the motion will be made before a single Judge in Court: see Cumming v. Low, 2 Ont. 505; Douglas v. Hutchinson, 6 Ont. 581.

No longer state the practice.

Procedure to vary report.

It has been held that an application to review the finding of a Referee must be supported by evidence, on affidavit or otherwise, of the proceedings before him. Counsel who appeared before him cannot move on his own statement: Stubbs v. Boyle, 2 Q. B. D. 124.

Power to direct trials before referees.

102.—(1) In any cause or matter before the said High Court, (1) in which all parties interested who are under no disability consent thereto, and (2) without such consent in any such cause or matter requiring any prolonged examination of documents or accounts, or any scientific or local investigation which cannot, in the opinion of the Court or a Judge, conveniently be made before a jury, or conducted by the Court or Judge directly, the Court or a Judge may at any time, on such terms as may be thought proper, order any question or issue of fact, or any question of account arising in the cause or matter, to be tried either before a Judge of a County Court, or before an official referee, or (if the parties so agree) before a special referee.

(2) All such trials before referees shall be conducted in such manner as may be prescribed by Rules of Court, and subject thereto in such manner as the Court or Judge ordering the same shall direct. 44 V. c. 5, s. 48.

See Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 57.

Instead of the expression "the Court or Judge directly," the English section 57 has the words "the Court through its other ordinary officers" as by a recent change in the practice of the Court of Chancery in England references had ceased to be made to a Master, and were conducted by a Chief Clerk under the direction of the Judge. That change had not been followed in this Province.

The English Act does not provide for a reference to or trial before a County Court Judge. Sec. 102.

As to the scope of this section see prefatory note to sec. 101.

The Master in Chambers and Local Judges have no jurisdiction to order a reference under this section: White v. Beemer, 10 P. R. 531; Union Loan v. Boomer, 10 P. R. 630; Bank of Commerce v. Jennings, 7 C. L. T. 170.

A reference to a special Referee under the last clause of sub-section 1 is only ordered on consent: see London & Lancashire F. Ins. Co. v. British American Ass. Co., 52 L. T. N. S. 385; 54 L. J. Q. B. 302, where the extra costs of a trial before an official Referee instead of a special Referee to whose appointment defendants refused to consent, were reserved.

Under this section, the Court, or a Judge at Nisi Prius, or a circuit sitting of the High Court: Hoch v. Boor, W. N. 1880, 93; 43 L. T. 425; 49 L. J. Q. B. 665; may send, where the parties have consented, not the whole action: Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 142; Braginton v. Yates, W. N. 1880, 150; Clarry v. B. N. Ass. Co., 12 P. R. 357; but any question or issue of fact to an official Referee for trial. Where an order is made without consent, the Court can only send such questions as are brought within the terms of the section, that is any issue requiring prolonged examination of documents or accounts, etc., which in the judicial opinion of the Judge cannot conveniently be made before a jury or conducted by the Court or Judge directly: Longman v. East, Hoch v. Boor, sup. But if a case is once brought within the section by reason of a prolonged examination of documents, etc., being involved, the Court may refer not only the questions of account, but all issues of fact in the cause: Ward v. Pilley, 5 Q. B. D. 427, 431; Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D. 738; Knight v. Coales, 19 Q. B. D. 296; though the question in dispute does not consist entirely of matters of account: Martin v. Fife, 31 W. R. 840; 49 L. T. N. S. 107; Goodwin v. Budden, 42 L. T. N. S. 536; as where issues of fact were so mixed up with matters of account, that they could not practically be dissevered: Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 150; Ward v. Hall, W. N. 1880, 69. It is probable, however, that where there is a substantial question of liability upon which the taking of accounts depends, to be determined, it will first be determined in the ordinary way: Clow v. Harper, 3 Ex. D. 198; Ward v. Hall, W. N. 1880, 69; Weed v. Ward, 40 Ch. D. 555. What may be referred.

"Prolonged" means prolonged if had before a jury, not if had before a skilled accountant: Ward v. Pilley, 5 Q. B. D. 428; and the documents are such as it would be necessary to inquire into, in order to leave the question properly to the jury, not such as require examination to determine a question of legal right: Ormerod v. Todmorden, 8 Q. B. D. 664, 677. Reading a lot of letters is not a prolonged examination of documents: Green's Trustee v. Barrett, W. N. 1875, 204.

The expression, "question of account," will receive a large construction: Re Leigh, 3 Ch. D. 292; and any question of account which might have been compulsorily referred under the C. L. P. Act (see R. S. O. 1887, c. 50, ss. 189 and 195), may be compulsorily referred under this section: Ward v. Pilley, 5 Q. B. D. 427.

In a case involving a critical knowledge of pictures, the Court of Appeal refused to send the case for trial before a special Referee against defendant's will, as the fo[illegible]e and character of the defendant were involved, and he was entitled to have the matters of fraud charged tried in a public Court: Leigh v. Brooks, 5 Ch. D. 592. But even where there are questions of fraud there is no inherent right to a trial by jury, and in such a case if the issues involve a prolonged examination of documents or accounts they may be compulsorily referred: Hoch v. Boor, W. N. 1880, 93; 43 L. T. N. S. 425; Sacker v. Ragozine & Co., 44 L. T. N. S. 308.

A question of damages consisting of various items in an action for injuries caused to a vessel by defendant's negligence: Liverpool, etc. Co. v. London Navigation, W. N. 1875, 203; issues of fact in a patent case requiring "scientific investigation": Saxby v. Gloucester Waggon Co., W. N. 1880, 28; and damages

Sec. 103. in an action for specific performance: Stafford v. Coxon, W. N. 1877, '38; were ordered to be assessed by a Referee.

An order made under this section by a Judge in his discretion is appealable: Ormerod v. Todmorden, etc., 8 Q. B. D. 664; Hoch v. Boor, W. N. 1880, 93; 43 L. T. 425. But as a rule the Court of Appeal is disinclined to interfere with the exercise of a discretion: Saxby v. Gloucester Waggon Co., W. N. 1880, 28.

Order. A form of order is given in the App. No. 140. It should, as intimated in Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 163, point out that it is an order under this section for issues to be tried, and should state whether all the issues are to be tried, or, if only certain issues, it should state by some sufficient description what those issues are: Cumming v. Low, 2 Ont. 505.

In Cardinall v. Cardinall, 25 Ch. D. 777, Pearson, J., said "it was not intended that Official Referees should decide the issue in an action; it was only intended that they should ascertain the facts so as to enable the Courts to decide the issue." This language seems applicable rather to a reference under section 101. The Referee under section 102 tries and decides, as a jury would, any issue referred to him, and his report is under section 103 equivalent to a verdict of a jury.

Rules 34, 37 regulate the procedure on a trial before a Referee.

As to the powers of Referees, see Rule 552.

Rule 39 provides for the submission of questions to the Court by the Referee before the conclusion of the trial before him, or by his report.

Report. The report of a Referee under this section should state his conclusions upon the issues referred, and he is not bound to give reasons for his findings: Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D. 736; see also Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 155; Fawcett v. Winters, 12 P. R. 232. Under Rule 39 the Court has power to obtain any explanation or reasons as to the principles upon which the Referee has rested his conclusions (Ib).

For an example of scientific or local investigation by a Referee, see Broder v. Saillard, 2 Ch. D. 692.

The report of a Referee under this section is by sec. 103 equivalent to the verdict of a jury. It would seem, however, to be subject to Rule 848 and notice of any motion against it must be given within 14 days from its filing.

Judgment. An Official Referee has, however, no power to order judgment to be entered: Longman v. East, 3 C. P. D. 142. The report must be brought before the Court on motion for judgment, when the Court will give judgment as formerly in Chancery upon the report of a Master: Longman v. East, sup.; Deacon v. Dolby, W. N. 1883, 25; Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D. 736; Monro v. Rendall, W. N. 1878, 41; Walker v. Bunkell, 22 Ch. D. 722. The motion is made to a single Judge sitting in Court: see Cumming v. Low, sup.

Such matters as that the report is imperfect or in excess of jurisdiction may be urged in opposing a motion for judgment: Cooke v. Newcastle, 10 Q. B. D. 336.

As to moving against the report see sec. 103.

Where a referee held that there was a want of reasonable and probable cause for the defendant's proceeding criminally against the plaintiff, and it was objected that this was a finding of law and not of fact, it was held to be equivalent to a verdict for plaintiff rendered by a jury under instructions from the Judge as to what would be reasonable and probable cause: Fawcett v. Winters, 12 P. R. 232.

Power of referees and effect of their findings.

103. In all cases of a reference to or trial by referees under this Act, the referees shall be deemed to be officers of the Court, and shall have such authority for the purpose of the reference or trial as shall be prescribed by Rules of Court, or (subject to such Rules) by the Court or Judge ordering such reference or trial; and the report of any referee upon any question of fact on any such trial shall, unless set aside by the Court, be equivalent to the verdict of a jury. 44 V. c. 5, s. 49. Sec. 104.

Same as the Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 58.

The last clause of this section refers to reports made on a reference for trial under section 102.

The Referee reports his conclusion to the Court, and it has the same binding effect as the verdict of a jury. The judgment is, however, to be given by the Court: Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D., p. 738. The concluding words of the section merely deal with the binding effect of the Referee's findings, and do not make it necessary (notwithstanding Sullivan v. Rivington, 28 W. R. 372) to move against the report by the same mode of procedure, or within the same time, as in the case of a verdict of a jury. The proper course is to move upon notice under Rule 848 within 14 days from the date of the filing of the report, upon any ground upon which the verdict of a jury may be set aside: Dyke v. Cannell, 11 Q. B. D. 180; Miller v. Pilling, 9 Q. B. D. 739; Cumming v. Low, 2 Ont. 503; Guardians of Mansfield v. Wright, 9 Q. B. D. 686.

The former decisions as to the time of moving against a report: see Dyke v. Cannell, 11 Q. B. D. 183; Bedborough v. Army and Navy Hotel, 28 Sol. Jour. 325; 50 L. T. N. S. 173; 53 L. J., Chy. 658; Luney v. Essery, 10 P. R. 285, are overruled by Rule 848.

The motion to set aside a report must, in England, be made to the Divisional Court: Cooke v. Newcastle, etc., 10 Q. B. D. 332; but in Ontario the motion will be before a single Judge in Court: Hill v. N. Pacific Junc. Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 103; see Rule 219, and sec. 61, as in the case of a motion for judgment on the report: Cumming v. Low, sup. 505; Guardians of Mansfield Union v. Wright, 9 Q. B. D. 683; Deacon v. Dolby, W. N. 1883, 25.

104. With respect to all such proceedings before referees and to their reports, the Court or Judge shall have, in addition to any other powers, the like powers as by The Act respecting Arbitrations and References are given to the High Court with respect to references to arbitration and proceedings before arbitrators and their awards and appeals therefrom respectively. 44 V. c. 5, s. 50. Powers of Court with respect to proceedings before referees. Rev. Stat. c. 53.

It is not clear to what extent this section is now capable of application. Rule 550 provides that the Court will not refer to arbitration. The statute 51 V. c. 2, s. 4, confirmed the Rules and repealed any inconsistent enactments in the Rev. Statutes. Rule 550 would therefore seem to have effected a repeal of the power to refer to arbitrators conferred by R. S. O. 1887, c. 53. (See sec. 7 of that Act) Certain sections of c. 53, giving powers to the Court or Judge in respect to references to arbitration, and proceedings before arbitrators, and their awards, may possibly be applied under the above sec. 104. For example, the power to enforce reports after 6 days (sec. 34), the power to remit the matter (secs. 4 and 37), the issuing of subpœnas (sec. 46), and commissions (sec. 49). It is difficult, however, to see how some at least of these powers are not capable of being exercised under the Rules without the assistance of the sections just mentioned, all references being now merely proceedings in an action.

In case all the powers conferred in respect to appeals from arbitrators by R. S. O. c. 53, ss. 4 and 7 (2), are not as effectually given by the Rules, it may also be possible to invoke those secs. in order to amend or remit for reconsideration the report of a Referee.

The amendments to R. S. O. c. 53, made by 52 V. c. 13, apply only in cases of arbitrations by agreement and submission, not in an action.

Sec. 105. RULES OF COURT.

The result of sections 105 to 108 in the present Act is, that since the Act went into operation the power of making rules is as follows:

(1) Rules may be made by the Supreme Court for governing its several Divisions (sec. 105).

(2) Subject to any such Rules of the Supreme Court, the Judges of the Court of Appeal may make Rules for that Court, and the Judges of the High Court may make Rules for the High Court (secs. 106 and 107). The English Acts do not give any such power to the Judges of the High Court. The Act of 1876, sec. 15, gives power to the President of the Court of Appeal, with the concurrence of the ordinary Judges of the Court of Appeal, or any three of them, to make Rules as to the Court of Appeal.

(3) The Lieutenant-Governor may authorize the three Chief Justices and the Chancellor to make Rules; and Rules so made are to have the same effect as if made by all the Judges of the Supreme Court: sec. 108.

Judges of Supreme Court may make Rules.

105.—(1) The Supreme Court may at any time, with the concurrence of a majority of the Judges thereof present at any meeting held for that purpose, alter and annul any Rules of Court for the time being in force, and may make any further or additional Rules of Court for carrying this Act into effect, and in particular for all or any of the following matters that is to say:—

(a) For regulating the sittings of the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal, and of any Divisional or other Courts thereof respectively, and of the Judges of the said High Court sitting in Chambers;

(b) For regulating the pleading, practice, and procedure in the High Court of Justice and Court of Appeal;

See Eng. J. A. 1875, s. 17.

The Court of Appeal and the High Court have each additional Rule-making powers. See ss. 106 and 107.

(c) For the hearing of appeals from County Courts, or a Judge of a County Court, from Provisional Judicial District Courts or a Judge of such Court, from Surrogate Courts, Stipendiary Magistrates, or Division Courts, by any two or more of the Judges of the Supreme Court, instead of the same being heard by the Court of Appeal, or a Judge thereof, (as the case may be); and for regulating the selection of the Judges of the Supreme Court, who shall hear such appeals, and for regulating all matters relating to the practice on such appeals; 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (1 a-c. 3). Sec. 105.

There is no clause similar to this in the Eng. Jud. Acts.

(d) For empowering the Master in Chambers, or any referee sitting for him, or the Judges of the County Courts, other than the Judge of the County of York, or the Local Masters in respect of actions brought in their counties to do any such thing, and to transact any such business, and to exercise any such authority and jurisdiction in respect of the same as by virtue of any statute or custom, or by the rules of practice of the High Court, are now or may be hereafter done, transacted or exercised by a Judge of the High Court sitting at Chambers, and as shall be specified in any such rule, except in respect of matters relating to— To empower Master in Chambers, etc., to make orders.

1. The liberty of the subject;
2. Appeals and applications in the nature of appeals;
3. Proceedings under The Act respecting Lunatics; Rev. Stat. c. 54.
4. Applications for advice under the Trustee Acts; Rev. Stat. c. 110.
5. Matters affecting the custody of children; and
6. Proceedings under section 32 of this Act. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, ss. 29 and 32; c. 40, s. 28; 48 V. c. 13, ss. 13, 21.

See Rules 30-33 and notes.

(e) Generally, for regulating any matters relating to the practice and procedure of the said Courts respectively, or to the duties of the officers thereof, or of the said Supreme Court, or to the costs of proceedings therein (a); and every other matter deemed expedient for the better attaining the ends of justice, advancing the remedies of suitors, and carrying into effect the provisions of this Act and of all other Acts now or hereafter in force respecting the said Courts. 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (1 d).

(f) Subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, to make rules from time to time regulating all fees payable in stamps. 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (2).

See the Tariff, post.

Rule 6 requires that new Rules shall be published in the Ont. Gazette for 7 days before coming into force, unless the publication is expressly dispensed with.

(2) Where any provisions in respect of the practice or procedure of any Courts, the jurisdiction of which is vested by this Act in the High Court, are contained in any Statute, Rules of Court may be made for modifying such provisions to any extent that may be deemed necessary for adapting the same to the High Court, unless, in the case of any Act hereafter passed, this power shall be expressly excluded. 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (6).

To the same effect is Eng. J. A. 1875, s. 24.

The operation of this section is probably now very limited, as nearly all the statutory enactments regulating practice and procedure in any of the Courts existing prior to Ont. J. A. 1881, whose jurisdiction is now vested in the High Court were, at the time of the Revision of the Statutes in 1887, intended to be embodied in the Consolidated Rules.

(3) Any provisions relating to the payment, transfer, or deposit into, or in, or out of any Court of any money or property, or to the dealing therewith, shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be provisions relating to practice and procedure. 44 V. c. 5, 54 (7).

Taken from Eng. J. A. 1875, s. 24.

(4) All Rules of Court made in pursuance of this section shall from and after they come into operation, regulate all matters to which they extend, until annulled or altered in pursuance of this section. 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (4).

Taken from Eng. J. A. 1878, s. 17.

Judges of Court of Appeal may make rules.

106. Subject to any Rules of Court which may be made under the provisions of the preceding section the Judges of the Court of Appeal or a majority of them, may from time to time make such General Rules and Orders, for fixing the costs to be allowed in respect of proceedings in the said Court, and for regulating the different proceedings in appeal, and generally for the effectual execution of this Act and the intention and object thereof in regard to the practice in appeals as to them may seem expedient; and may also from time to time alter and amend any of the existing Rules, or any Rules made under the authority of this Act, and make other Rules instead thereof; and until such Rules are made, the present Rules and the existing practice and mode of proceeding in the Court shall continue in force. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 38, s. 56; 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (5).

Judges of High Court may make rules.

107. The Judges of the High Court or any four of them of whom two of the Presidents of the Divisions of the High Court shall be two, shall as regards matters in the High Court have power to make General Rules from time to time for the regulation of the practice of the High Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 45; 44 V. c. 5, s. 54 (5).

Lieut.-Governor in Council may authorize certain Judges to make Rules.

108. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may from time to time authorize the following persons, viz., the Chief Justice of Ontario, the Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench, the Chancellor, the Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and any one or more of the other Justices of the Supreme Court, to make Rules of Court under this Act; every such appointment to continue for such time as shall be specified by Order in Council, and the Judges so appointed, or any three of them, may make such Rules, and the same shall have the same effect as if made by all the Judges of the Supreme Court, under section 105. 44 V. c. 5, s. 55.

Council of Judges to consider procedure and administration of Justice.

109. A Council of the Judges of the said Supreme Court, of which due notice shall be given to all the said Judges, shall assemble once at least in every year, on such day or days as shall be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor, for the purpose of considering the operation of this Act and of the Rules of Court for the time being in force, and also the working of the several offices and the arrangements relative to the duties of the officers of the said Courts respectively, and of inquiring and examining into any defects which may appear to exist in the system of procedure or the administration of the law in the High Court of Justice or the Court of Appeal, or any other Court, or by any other

Sec. 110. authority; and they shall report annually to the Lieutenant-Governor what (if any) amendments or alterations it would in their judgment be expedient to make in this Act, or otherwise relating to the administration of justice, and what other provision (if any) which cannot be carried into effect without legislative authority it would be expedient to make for the better administration of justice; an Extraordinary Council of the said Judges may also at any time be convened by the Lieutenant-Governor. 44 V. c. 5, s. 56.

This section corresponds with the Imp. enactment J. A. 1873, s. 75, except that, instead of the Lieutenant-Governor fixing the day for the annual assembling of the Council, that office is to be performed by the Lord Chancellor with the concurrence of the Lord Chief Justice of England; that, instead of the report being to the Lieutenant-Governor, the report is made to one of Her Majesty's principal Secretaries of State; and that, instead of an extraordinary Council being convened by the Lieutenant-Governor or the Chief Justice of Ontario, such Council is to be convened in England by the Lord Chancellor.

In the edition of the Judicature Acts by Sir W. T. Charley, M.P., p. 129, it is said of this section that, "it is calculated to produce the most beneficial effects, by breaking down the barrier of prejudice which still subsists, it is to be feared, between the sages of Equity and of the Common Law. Viewed in the light of this section the Supreme Court is a deliberative assembly." In another text-book it is said that "the Judges are constituted a standing commission on law and justice," (Lely & Foulkes, p. 57).

Provision for saving of existing procedure where not inconsistent with this Act or Rules of Court.

110. Save as by this Act or by any Rules of Court may be otherwise provided, all forms and methods (as nearly as may be) of procedure which, prior to the 22nd day of August, 1881, were in force in any of the Courts whose jurisdiction then became vested in the said High Court, under and by virtue of any law, general order, or rule whatsoever, and which are not inconsistent with this Act or with any Rules of Court—may continue to be used and practised in the said High Court of Justice, in such and the like cases, and for such and the like purposes, as those to which they would have been applicable prior to the said date in the respective Courts of which the jurisdiction became so vested. 44 V. c. 5, s. 52.

This section is taken substantially from Imp. Act of 1875, s. 21, which uses the word "transferred" instead of "vested." That section was substituted for section 73 in Imp. Act of 1873, and it refers to the Court of Appeal as well as the High Court.

See also secs. 42, 53 (12) and 110.

This section must be taken to have been greatly modified by Rule 3, which provides that as to all matters not provided for in the Rules, the practice is to be regulated by analogy thereto instead of as above mentioned by the practice prior to the Jud. Act 1881. There were, however, prior to the passing of Rule 3, a number of decisions establishing the practice to be observed under the Jud. Act in certain matters in respect of which the Rules under the Jud. Act were silent, or the practice of the pre-existing Courts was conflicting. These will still regulate the practice under the present Rules and are referred to below. Sec. 111.

See also notes to Rule 3.

As to how far the pre-existing procedure was to be considered to be in force, the following two canons or rules were laid down by Brett, L.J., in Jackson v. Litchfield, 8 Q. B. D. 477 :—The effect of the Judicature Act is that (1) in all cases which are not provided for by the Act the proceedings are to be as they were before the Act, and (2) in all cases within the Judicature Act, where no special steps in proceedings are provided, the proceedings are to be as nearly like as they can be to analagous proceedings before the Act : see also National Funds Ass. Co., 4 Ch. D. 307 ; Secar v. Lawson, 29 W. R. 109 ; Boddy v. Wall, 7 Ch. D. 165 ; Fowler v. Barstow, 26 Sol. Jour. 96 ; Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423. This is true as to rules of pleading as well as in matters of practice : Evans v. Buck, 4 Ch. D. 434. Two canons as to pre-existing procedure.

In cases within the first canon if the appropriate proceedings, and in cases within the second canon, if the special steps, were formerly similar in Chancery and at Common Law there is no difficulty ; but in cases where no rule of practice was laid down by the new Rules, and there was a variance in the old practice of the Chancery and Common Law Courts, it has been decided, under the corresponding section in England, that that practice is to prevail which is considered by the Court most convenient : Newbiggin-by-the-Sea Gas Company v. Armstrong, 13 Ch. D. 310 ; Nurse v. Durnford, ib., 768 ; LaGrange v. McAndrew, 4 Q. B. D. 210 : Thomas v. Palin, 21 Ch. D. 367 ; Bell v. Wilkinson, W. N. 1878, 3 ; Friendly v. Carter, 9 Pr. R. 41 ; Re Fitzgerald, 10 P. R. 279 ; Stewart v. Sullivan, 11 P. R. 529 ; apparently overruling on this point some cases which applied sec. 53 (12) to matters of practice as well as of substantial law ; see Grant v. Holland, 3 C. P. D. 180, and notes to sec. 53 (12) ; see also Davis v. Wickson, 9 Pr. R. 219 ; Bank of B. N. A. v. Eddy, 9 Pr. R. 396 ; Wilson v. Cowan, 19 C. L. J. 140 ; 3 C. L. T. 216. First canon. Variances of old practice.

Though the appropriate and convenient proceedings are to be found in the practice of one only of the former systems of procedure, they may be applied in all the Divisions of the High Court : Dobson v. Marshall, 9 P. R. 1 ; London & Canadian, etc. v. Merritt, 32 C. P. 379 ; Clarbrough v. Toothill, W. N. 1881, 110 ; 50 L. J., Ch. 743 ; 18 C. L. J. 101 ; and see Davis v. Wickson, 9 Pr. R. 219.

Some proceedings under one of the former systems, and not referred to in the Jud. Act, have been held to be not now in force as being not convenient ; e. g., a Term's notice is not now necessary where neither party has taken a step for a year : Beaver v. Boardman, 9 Pr. R. 239, and a side bar rule for costs of the day cannot be had where plaintiff gives notice of trial but does not enter the case : Hopkins v. Smith, 9 Pr. R. 285. Old practice abrogated.

The following are instances, under the second canon, of cases where, in the absence of provisions for special steps or practice under the Jud. Act, the proceedings prescribed by the Act may be supplemented from the former practice where appropriate and convenient :—The Chancery practice governing the time for applying for interim alimony : Peck v. Peck, 9 Pr. R. 299 ; relating to motions to dismiss for want of prosecution : Bucke v. Murray, 9 P. R. 195 ; the appointment of guardians ad litem to infant defendants out of the jurisdiction : Rew v. Anthony, 9 Pr. R. 545 ; substitutional service of process or documents other than writs of summons : Dobson v. Marshall, 9 Pr. R. 1 ; and the practice on appeal from a Master's report : Walmsley v. Mundy, 13 Q. B. D. 807. See also Clarborough v. Toothill, Sup. ; Cooke v. Oceanic Steam Co., W. N. 1875, 220 ; Laming v. Gee, W. N. 1878, 240 ; Regina v. O'Rourke, 32 C. P. 388. Second canon. Supplementary procedure from old practice.

(2) In case the business is found to require other or additional official referees, and the Presidents of the said Divisions so certify, the Lieutenant-Governor from time to time may appoint other and additional official referees accordingly.

It has hitherto only been found necessary to appoint one additional Referee.

(3) In the case of officers who are paid by salary, the fees on any reference or trial shall be paid in stamps; other referees shall be paid by fees. 44 V. c. 5, s. 63.

This section does not correspond with the provisions of the English Act as to official referees. The English Act appears to have contemplated an immediate appointment of a new set of officers as "official referees, which has not been thought necessary for the present here, the authority of official referees being given to the County Court Judges, Masters in Chancery, Local Masters and other officers specially named in section 124 of the present Act, and the appointment of others being deferred until the Presidents of the Division certify that others are necessary.

Local Masters, Deputy Registrars, and Deputy Clerks of the Crown.

125.—(1) There shall be a Local Master in every County or union of Counties other than the County of York, and every Local Master hereafter appointed shall reside in the County for which he is appointed.

See sub-section (13), authorizing the High Court, with the concurrence of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, to relieve present officers from the operation of this provision. No part of the 125th section is taken from the English Acts.

Deputy Clerks of the Crown.

Deputy Registrars.

(4) Where a County Court Judge is the Local Master, the County Court Clerk shall be Deputy Registrar. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (3).

Commutation of fees of Local Masters.

(7) The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may commute the fees of a Local Master, or of a Local Master and Deputy Registrar, including his fees as an official referee, for a fixed annual sum, such sum not to exceed the average income derived from fees for the preceding five years. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (6).

Commutation of fees of Deputy Clerks of the Crown.

(8) The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may commute the fees payable to a Deputy Clerk of the Crown on references and examinations and other matters for a fixed annual sum, such sum not to exceed the average income derived from such fees during the preceding five years. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (7).

Amount of commutation may be changed.

(9) Any annual sum fixed as provided in the preceding two sub-sections shall continue until varied by Order in Council, but any order for payment of any such annual sum as aforesaid may be rescinded, and the amount may by Order in Council be increased or diminished, provided that in no case shall any Order in Council name a sum exceeding the average income or fees aforesaid (as the case may be) during the preceding five years. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (8). Sec. 125, (10-13.)

(10) The Local Masters, Local Registrars, and Deputy Clerks of the Crown, Deputy Registrars and other officers mentioned in this Act shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor, and every such officer heretofore appointed shall hold office during the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor. 44 V. c. 5, ss. 58 (3), 64 (9); 47 V. c. 10, s. 7. Appointments of officers.

(11) Where a Local Master, or Deputy-Registrar, or Deputy Clerk of the Crown, or other officer, is paid by a salary, he shall not, save as hereinbefore expressly provided, take for his own benefit, directly or indirectly, any fee or emolument, save the salary to which he may be entitled; but the like sums and fees heretofore payable on proceedings in his office shall continue to be payable; and all such fees shall form part of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of this Province, and shall be payable in stamps, subject to the provisions of The Act respecting Law Stamps. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (10). Fees of salaried officers to form part of the Consolidated Revenue. Rev. Stat. c. 22.

(12) No Local Master whose gross income from his office of Local Master or of Deputy Registrar and Local Master, is $2,000 or upwards shall, during the continuance of his appointment, directly or indirectly, practise in the profession of the law as Counsel, or Solicitor, or as a Notary Public, or Conveyancer, or do any manner of conveyancing, or prepare any papers or documents to be used in any Court of this Province, under the penalty of forfeiture of office, and the further penalty of $400, to be recovered by any person who sues for the same by action in the High Court, and one-half of such pecuniary penalty shall belong to the party suing, and the other half to Her Majesty for the use of the Province; but nothing in this section shall prevent the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, or the High Court, from requiring a Local Master whose income does not amount to $2,000, to abstain from practising under the like penalties. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64. (11). Local Masters not to practise in certain cases.

office of Local Master and Deputy Registrar, or any other officer from the operation of the preceding sub-sections 1 and 12, or either of them. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (12).

Returns of fees.

(14) Every officer paid by fees, whether commuted or not, shall on or before the 15th day of January in every year, transmit to the Inspector of Legal Offices appointed under section 141 of this Act a just, true and faithful account, verified upon oath, of the amount of fees paid or payable to him in cash or in stamps in respect of his office during the preceding year, and also such particulars with reference to the business of his office as the Inspector of Legal Offices may require. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (14); 47 V. c. 10, s. 16; as amended by 52 V. c. 10, s. 4.

(15) The Lieutenant-Governor or the member of the Government having charge of the matter may require the return to state any particulars, or to be made in any form that may be thought proper, and such return shall be made accordingly. 44 V. c. 5, s. 64 (15).

Seals of Deputy Registrars and Deputy Clerks of the Crown.

126. In the office of every Deputy Registrar and Deputy Clerk of the Crown such seal shall be used as the Lieutenant-Governor shall from time to time direct, which seal shall be impressed on every writ and other document issued out of or filed in such office; and all such writs and documents, and all exemplifications and copies thereof, purporting to be sealed with the seal of any such Deputy Registrar or Deputy Clerk of the Crown, shall in all parts of this Province be received in evidence without further proof thereof. 44 V. c. 5, s. 51.

See Eng. J. A. 1873, c. 61.

The English section referred to provides for the seals of the District Registries, enacts that such seals shall be used in every such registry as the Lord Chancellor may direct, and contains the same provisions as above with reference to the use of it and to its effect in evidence.

Owing to doubts as to whether the effect of this section was to make an additional fee of 50 cents, payable under R. S. O. c. 39, s. 53 (now sec. 155), upon all filings, Rule 1225 was passed to make such fee not payable except where the former practice required a seal to be impressed.

Marshal and Clerk of Assize for County of York.

127. The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may from time to time appoint a suitable person to be the Marshal and Clerk of Assize for the County of York, who shall hold office during pleasure. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 16 (1).

Secs. 128-131. Remuneration of Deputy Clerks of the Crown when they act as marshals.

128. Every Marshal and Clerk of Assize, being a Deputy Clerk of the Crown or Local Registrar, or authorized to act as such shall be entitled to be paid out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund the sum of $4 for each day's attendance as such Marshal or Clerk of Assize. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 18.

129. No charge whatever shall be made by any of the said Marshals or Clerks of Assize upon any criminal trial or proceeding in any Court at which they act as Marshals and Clerks of Assize respectively. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 19.

Where Deputy Clerk's office to be kept.

130.—(1) Each Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Pleas shall, if proper accommodation is afforded him, keep his office in the Court House of his County, and until he can obtain such accommodation he shall keep his office in some convenient place in the County Town. R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 47.

(2) Provided, however, that the Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Pleas at Sandwich, may keep an office in some convenient place in the Town of Windsor, in the County of Essex, subject to such arrangements as the County Council of the County of Essex may assent to, and subject also to the approval thereof by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council. 49 V. c. 12, s. 1.

Official Guardian ad litem.

131.—(1) There shall be an Official Guardian ad litem of infants, who shall be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor, and shall be a Barrister-at-Law and Solicitor of this Province, of not less than seven years' standing, and shall hold office during pleasure.

Salary of Guardian.

(5) There shall be paid to the said Guardian in respect of all business done a fixed salary of such sum per annum as, in view of the amount of business done or to be done by the Guardian, and the sum at the credit of the account, the said Judges think reasonable and the Lieutenant-Governor in Council approve; which salary shall be over and above all necessary disbursements; and the salary and disbursements shall be paid monthly or otherwise as shall be determined by Rule of Court, out of the fund at the credit of the said account of the Official Guardian ad litem, and not otherwise.

and the name or names of the actions and matters in which the same were respectively received by him, together with the date of receipt. Secs. 132-133.

(9) When a new Official Guardian ad litem is appointed, he shall ipso facto become, and be by virtue of such appointment, Guardian ad litem to all infants, in the place and stead of his predecessor, with the same duties and powers; and the latter (his executors and administrators, as the case may be) shall forthwith deliver over to the new Official Guardian all letters, papers, documents and books in his possession or power as Official or other Guardian ad litem of infants; and the new Guardian shall forthwith communicate his appointment to whom it may concern. Transfer on appointment of new Guardian.

(10) The Lieutenant-Governor in Council, or the High Court, may order that the Official Guardian is not to practise as a Barrister or Solicitor, and in such case he shall not, during the continuance of his appointment and of such order, directly or indirectly practise the profession of the law as Counsel or Solicitor, or as a Notary Public, or Conveyancer, or do any manner of conveyancing, or prepare any papers or documents to be used in any Court of this Province, except in the discharge of his duties as Official Guardian, or of any other duties which may be assigned to him by the said High Court or any Division or Judge thereof as the case may be; and the said Official Guardian in case of his offending in the matter aforesaid shall be subject to a penalty of forfeiture of office, and the further penalty of $400 to be recovered by any person who sues for the same by action in the High Court; and one-half of such pecuniary penalty shall belong to the party suing, and the other half to Her Majesty for the use of the Province. 44 V. c. 5, s. 66; 48 V. c. 18, s. 18. Certain losses may be charged Suitors' Fee Fund.

The "Suitors' Fee Fund Account," which is an account formerly kept by the Court of Chancery, was first created by 20 Vict. c. 56, s. 20 (Con. Stat. U.C. c. 12, s. 73; R. S. O. 1877 c. 40, s. 104). It was constituted by a small fee of ten cents on every bill, answer, and demurrer; and it was provided, that the account should "be kept and managed as may from time to time be directed by the Court; and the sums at the credit of such account shall be applied by the Court as may be necessary for the protection of infants and other persons not sui juris, on whose behalf proceedings may be had in the Court, or may by the Court be ordered to be had in other Courts." This section of the Revised Statute was repealed by 41 Vict. c. 8, s. 5, "so far as it directed payment of any fee to the account." There was then, and is still, a considerable sum at the credit of the account; and this sum, with the additions that may be made to it under sections 131 (6), 139, will continue to be applicable to the same purposes and the others mentioned in this section.

TRANSFERRING CAUSES FROM COUNTY OR DIVISION COURTS TO HIGH COURT.

Transfer to High Court from County and Division Courts.

158. In cases before any County or Division Court where the defence or counter-claim of the defendant involves matter beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, the High Court or any Division or Judge thereof, may on the application of any party to the proceeding, order that the whole proceeding be transferred from such Court to the High Court, or to any Division thereof; and in such case the Record in such proceeding shall be transmitted by the Clerk or other proper officer, of the County or Division Court to the said High Court; and the same shall thenceforth be continued and prosecuted in the said High Court as if it had been originally commenced therein. 44 V. c. 5, s. 78. (See cap. 47, s. 22, and cap. 51, s. 74.)

Adopted from Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 90.

In the Ont. J. A. 1881 this section was preceded by a clause which is now in the Revised Statutes transferred to the County and Division Court Acts as c. 47, ss. 21 and 22, and c. 51, ss. 73 and 74.

Powers of County and Division Courts.

Sec. 21 of the County Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 47) and sec. 73 of the Division Courts Act (R. S. O. c. 53) provide that "[every County and Division Court] shall as regards all causes of action within its jurisdiction for the time being, have power to grant and shall grant in any proceeding before such Court such relief, redress, or remedy, or combination of remedies, either absolute or conditional [including the power to relieve against penalties, forfeitures and agreements for liquidated damages] and shall in every such proceeding give such and the like effect to every ground of defence or counter claim, equitable or legal (subject to the provision next hereinafter contained), in as full and ample a manner as might and ought to be done in the like case by the High Court."

The Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 39, has, instead of the words first in brackets, the following:—"Every Inferior Court which now has, or which may after the passing of this Act, have jurisdiction in Equity or at Law, and in Equity and in Admiralty respectively." The words secondly in brackets were introduced into the Ont. section by 49 V. c. 16, s. 38. The two sections are the same otherwise. In England the County Courts had equitable jurisdiction under 28 & 29 Vict., c. 99, and other Acts.

Where a transfer is made under s. 158 the proceedings must thenceforward be regulated by the practice of the High Court: Davies v. Williams, 13 Ch. D. 550.

The relief or remedy, power to grant which is by this sec. given, only refers to the relief and remedies to be administered in the action and as the result of the action: Speers v. Daggers, 1 Ch. & E. 503.

Under the corresponding section of the English Act, it was held that a County Court in actions within its jurisdiction has power to grant an injunction against a nuisance, and to enforce obedience by committal: Martin v.

Bannister, 4 Q. B. D. 212, 491, and though the order is only interlocutory: Richards v. Cullerne, 7 Q. B. D. 623; 18 C. L. J. 364. Sec. 158.

In Pryor v. City Offices Co., 10 Q. B. D. 504, the extent to which those decisions seemed to go was restricted, and it was held that the above words "in any proceeding" do not mean "in a motion in any action" but rather "in any action," and that the Inferior Court is given the same authority as the High Court, to grant the relief, as the result of the action, but that relief must be given, if at all, by the existing machinery of the Inferior Court; and all the powers given by the Rules of the Jud. Act to Judges of the High Court in order to arrive at the granting of such relief, are not conferred upon the Judges of the Inferior Courts.

In County Courts the machinery of the High Court is by Rule 1257, to apply and extend to actions in the County Courts. See further that Rule. Amongst other provisions Rule 739 (as to moving for final judgment of appearance) and Rule 373 (as to counter-claims) have frequently been made use of. County Courts.

As regards the Division Courts there is some conflict of authority, but it may perhaps be fairly said that the weight of authority is in favour of the view that this section only enables Division Courts to exercise the complete legal and equitable jurisdiction conferred upon the High Court (see also sec. 54 and R.S.O. c. 47, s. 53) and does not purport to deal with details of practice, or apply to the Division Courts the Rules of Procedure contained in the Jud. Act. See Building & Loan Co. v. Heimrod, 19 C. L. J. 254; 3 C. L. T. 361, and Bank of Ottawa v. McLaughlin, 8 Ont. App. 543, where Rule 797, as to the effect of a nonsuit, and Fletcher v. Noble, 9 P. R. 258, where the right to security for costs were held not to fall within the purview of the present section. See also Pryor v. City Offices Co., supra. On the other hand in Conners v. Birmingham, 20 C. L. J. 10, Rule 80 (now 739) was, by virtue of the present section, applied. In Awberry v. McLean, 19 C. L. J. 335, the right to counter-claim, which seems implied by the terms of the above sec. 158, was held to exist. Division Courts under this section.

The provisions of the Judicature Act relating to garnishee process do not apply in Division Courts, the proceedings in such cases being specially provided for by the Division Court Act: Re Clark v. McDonald, 4 Ont. 310.

The practice under Rule 795 as to moving to set aside a verdict or judgment obtained by default of appearance by a party at the trial is not applicable in Div. Courts, being inconsistent with sec. 145 of the Div. Courts Act: Re Foley v. Moran, 11 P. R. 316. Division Courts under R. S. O. c. 51.

There has also been some difference of opinion as to how far the practice of the High Court may or should be introduced into Division Courts under sec. 304 of the Division Courts Act, (R. S. O. c. 51.)

That section is as follows:—

"304. In any case not expressly provided for by this Act, or by existing rules, or by rules made under this Act, the County Judges may, in their discretion, adopt and apply the general principles of practice in the High Court, to actions and proceedings in the Division Courts; provided that nothing herein contained shall be held to authorize the taxation or allowance of costs to any officer of the Court other than those to be found in the tariff of fees as authorized and allowed by the board of County Judges under the provisions of this or any other Act.

Under this section the right to security for costs has been held to be a principle of practice which may be applied by the Division Court Judges: Fletcher v. Noble, 9 P. R. 255, with all its consequences: ib. 3 C. L. T. 360.

The power of adding defendants (see Rule 324) is not a principle of practice within the section: Barber v. Bingham, 20 C. L. J. 65; nor is service out of the jurisdiction a principle of practice, but a branch of a system of practice or a means of relief which the procedure in Division Courts does not admit of being applied: Re Guy v. G. T. Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 372.

Quære whether the third party Rules (328 et seq.) are applicable: Re Merchants Bank v. VanAllen, 10 P. R. 348.

Sec. 159.

The power to apply the High Court practice of examining parties before trials has been affirmed: MacNee v. Ont. Bank, as reported, 19 C. L. J. 252; 3 C. L. T. 360; and denied: Re Willing v. Elliott, 37 U. C. Q. B. 320; Fletcher v. Noble, 9 P. R. 258.

MacNee v. Ont. Bank, (supra), as reported, is also in favour of the power to apply the Rules of the Jud. Act generally. See also Murray v. Gillett, 18 C. L. J. 78. The decision in Building & Loan Co. v. Heimrod is the other way, and in that case the discretion, if it existed, to apply to Rule 797, was not exercised.

In Burk v. Brittain, 19 C. L. J. 74, the former Rule 80 (now 739) was acted upon as introducing a principle of practice, which the County Judge of Northumberland and Durham felt bound, in the exercise of a judicial discretion, to apply; and this decision was approved by the Junior Judge of the County of Ontario, in Smith v. Lawlor, 19 C. L. J. 258; see also Connors v. Birmingham, 20 C. L. J. 11. In a similar case the County Judge of Victoria thought it would be unwise to apply the same Rule 80: Cowan v. McQuade, 19 C. L. J. 108; and this view was shared by the then Junior Judge of the County of York: Building & Loan, etc. v. Heimrod, supra; see further comments on this subject, 3 C. L. T. 374 and 19 C. L. J. 238, where the view entertained by the majority of the County Judges at their annual conference in July, 1883, is said to have been in accordance with Cowan v. McQuade, and Building & Loan, etc. v. Heimrod; see also Bell v. G. T. Ry. Co., 20 C. L. J. 346.

The provisions of the former Rule 80 (now 739) have now been made applicable to Division Courts by the Legislature, and will be found in R. S. O. 1887, c. 51, s. 111.

Counter-claims in County or Division Courts.

Sec. 22 of the County Courts Act and sec. 74 of the Division Courts Act enact that "where in any proceeding before a [County or Division] Court any defence or counter-claim of the defendant involves matter beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, such defence or counter-claim shall not affect the competence or the duty of the Court to dispose of the whole matter in controversy so far as relates to the demand of the plaintiff and the defence thereto, but no relief exceeding that which the Court has jurisdiction to administer shall be given to the defendant upon any such counter-claims."

This was adopted from Eng. J. A. 1873, s. 90.

It has been held under that section that an Inferior Court has jurisdiction to entertain a claim set up by way of counter-claim, although it is in respect of matters which arose beyond its local jurisdiction, but the power to grant relief in respect of such counter-claim is limited to the same amount as the plaintiff has claimed in the action: Davis v. The Flagstaff Mining Co., 3 C. P. D. 228. The relief which a defendant can obtain against a third party brought in under Rule 328 is similarly limited to protection against the plaintiff's demand: Neald v. Corkindale, 4 Ont. 317.

A defendant who has obtained a verdict or judgment for an amount beyond the jurisdiction of the County Court is not estopped from bringing an action in the High Court on the same cause of action to recover what the County Court would not give him. The defendant in the High Court is estopped by the judgment in the County Court from denying the cause of action of the plaintiff in the High Court. The only question in the High Court is the amount of damages: Webster v. Armstrong, 54 L. J. Q. B. 236; 1 Cab. & E. 471.

160. This Act shall not affect, the issue of any Commissions of Assize, Nisi Prius, Oyer and Terminer, Gaol Delivery, or other commission for the discharge of civil or criminal business on circuit or otherwise; or the authority of a Judge or a retired Judge of any of the Superior Courts, or a Judge of a County Court, or one of Her Majesty's Counsel learned in the law, to preside without any commission at any Court of Assize, Oyer and Terminer, and General Gaol Delivery, or at a Court held under this Act in the exercise of the jurisdiction now belonging to the Courts of Assize, Oyer and Terminer, and General Gaol Delivery, or the authority of any such Judge or retired Judge of a Superior or County Court, or Counsel learned in the law, to hold any sitting for the hearing of causes; and any such Judge or Counsel shall after the commencement of this Act have the same authority to preside as aforesaid, or to hold any sitting of the High Court for the hearing of causes in the High Court respectively, which such Judge or Counsel now has to preside at Courts of Assize, Oyer and Terminer, and General Gaol Delivery, or to hold a sitting of the Court of Chancery for the hearing of causes; and any such Judge or Counsel when presiding as aforesaid with or without a commission, or when holding any sitting as aforesaid, shall be deemed to constitute a Court. 44 V. c. 5, s. 85. Savings as to circuits, etc.

All books in which writs, judgments, etc., are entered to be open to inspection.

161. Every person shall hereafter have access to and be entitled to inspect the several books of the High Court and of the County Courts, containing records or entries of the writs issued, judgments entered, and chattel mortgages and bills of sale filed; and no person desiring such access or inspection shall be required, as a condition to his right thereto, to furnish the names of the parties or the style of the causes or matters in respect of which such access or inspection is sought; and the Registrars and Deputy-Registrars of the High Court and all clerks of the County Courts of the Province respectively, shall, upon demand or request, produce for inspection any writ of summons or copy thereof, and any judgment roll, or chattel mortgage, or bill of sale so issued, entered or filed in their respective offices, or of which records or entries are, by law, required to be kept in such several books of the High Court and County Courts respectively. 50 V. c. 18, s. 1.

Fees.

162. The fees payable in respect of such inspection of books shall be twenty-five cents as for a general search, and ten cents for each writ of summons, judgment roll, chattel mortgage or bill of sale so inspected, and ten cents per folio shall also be payable for all extracts, whether made by the person who makes the search or by the officer. 50 V. c. 18, s. 2.

See Eng. J. A. 1875, ss. 19, 21; Rules S. C. 1875, O. 62.

The High Court is a continuation of the existing Courts, and the High Court, Q. B. Div., has under a new name the same jurisdiction in Dominion Controverted Election matters as the former Court of Q. B. had under the Dom. Controverted Elections Act of 1874: Mitchell v. Cameron, West Huron Election, 8 S. C. R. 126, reversing S. C. 1 Ont. 433. See also Re N. York case, 32 C. P. 458, and Russell case, 1 Ont. 439, and note to sec. 3 (4).

THE

OF THE

SUPREME COURT OF JUDICATURE FOR ONTARIO.

CHAPTER I.

INTERPRETATION.

Criminal matters not affected.

1. Nothing in these Rules shall be construed as intended to affect the practice or procedure in criminal proceedings, or proceedings on the Crown or Revenue side of the Queen's Bench or Common Pleas Divisions. J. A. Rule 484.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 62; R. S. O. c. 39, s. 4.

The English Rule contains like exceptions and others not needed in this Province.

"Judge" meaning of.

2. A "Judge" in these Rules means a Judge of the Supreme Court, or a Judge having the authority for the time being of a Judge of the High Court unless there is something in the context indicating a different meaning. J. A. Rule 491.

The interpretation clause in the Act, viz. sec. 2, applies to the Rules. See Rule 4.

For the reason for employing the expression "Court or a Judge" throughout the English Rules, see Freason v. Loe, 26 W. R. 138.

This definition of "Judge" was considered to give jurisdiction to the Master in Chambers or County Judge under Rule 422 of the original Act, (subject to the express limitation of their authority), to entertain applications which under these Rules are to be made to "the Court or a Judge" but not those which were required to be made to a "Judge of the High Court." This interpretation is confirmed by the language of the present Rules 30 and 41.

2a) The words County Court where they appear in the Consolidated Rules of 1888 include

YORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

Rules 3-6.

Former practice superseded.

3. All Rules and Orders heretofore passed by any of the Superior Courts of Law or Equity in Ontario or Upper Canada and not included in these Rules are rescinded, save and except those mentioned in the schedule, and these Rules shall take effect on and after the 1st day of March, 1888. All practice inconsistent therewith is superseded. As to all matters not provided for in these Rules, the practice is, as far as may be, to be regulated by analogy thereto.

By special Rule the date of coming into effect of the Rules was extended till 1st Sept., 1888, when the Consolidation came into force, except Rules 210, 211, 537.

See Wolff v. Ogilvy, 13 P. R. 645.

(a) Rules 210, 211 and 537, are not to come into force until on and after the 1st September, 1888, and in the meantime the existing practice as to the weekly sittings of the Court shall be continued.

The coming into force of the Rules mentioned was, however, postponed until further order, and no Rule bringing them into operation has yet been passed. Other Rules, e. g., Rules 17 and 23 (17) may depend upon those here expressly mentioned, and may be not yet in force.

Interpretation.

4. The interpretation clauses of the Judicature Act shall apply to these Rules unless there is anything in the subject or context repugnant thereto.

The interpretation clauses referred to are contained in sec. 2 of the Act.

Division of Rules.

5. The division of these Rules into chapters, titles and headings is for convenience only, and is not to affect their construction.

Promulgation of Rules.

6. Every Rule hereafter made shall be construed as intended to come into force on the seventh day after the day of its publication in the Ontario Gazette, unless such prior publication is expressly dispensed with in or by the Rule.

YORK UNIVERSITY

Rules 9-13.

No business to be transacted except upon attendance of party, or his solicitor, or the clerk or agent of solicitor.

9. No business shall be transacted in any of the offices of the Courts, either in procuring or suing out of process, or in entering judgments or taking any proceeding whatever in a cause, unless upon the personal attendance of the party on whose behalf such business is required to be transacted, or of the counsel or solicitor of such party, or the clerk or agent of the solicitor, or the clerk of the agent. Rules T. T. 1856, 145.

Putting paper under door of office, or handing same to officer in street, irregular.

Putting an appearance under the door of the office of a Deputy Clerk of the Crown during office hours, or handing it to him in the street, was held not to be a due entry of the appearance: Grey v. Stacey, 10 U. C. L. J. 245; and see Fralick v. Huffman, 1 C. L. Ch. 80; Campbell v. Madden, Dra. 2.

But the Court refused to set aside a fi. fa. issued at the officer's house before office hours: Rolker v. Fuller, 10 U. C. Q. B. 477; and see Hall v. Hunter, 5 O. S. 705.

Defendant's solicitor, when entitled to precedence.

Where a defendant's solicitor is present at the opening of the office to enter an appearance, or file a statement of defence, and the plaintiff's solicitor is present to sign judgment for default, the defendant's solicitor is entitled to precedence: see Fralick v. Huffman, 1 C. L. Ch. 80.

Offices of Court not to be opened when appointed to be closed.

The offices of the Court should not be opened for business, on days on which they are appointed by statute, or Rule of Court, to be closed, and proceedings taken therein on such days are irregular: Trust and Loan Co. v. Dickson, 2 C. L. J. 166; Mumford v. Hitchcock, 9 Jur. N. S. 1200.

Officers to be auxiliary to one another.

10. All officers shall be auxiliary to one another for promoting the correct, convenient, and speedy administration of business. J. A. Rule 415.

Not in the English Rules.

2. Clerk of the Process.

Clerk of process to issue writs for commencement of actions.

11. The Clerk of the Process shall, on receiving a certified copy of the writ to be filed by him, issue any writ of summons required for the commencement of an action. Rule T. T. 1856, 150.

The copy is to be certified by the plaintiff's solicitor.

Sealing writs.

12. The Clerk of the Process shall have a seal for sealing writs, to be approved by the Judges of the Supreme Court of Judicature, and he shall seal therewith and sign all writs and process issued by him. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 39, s. 43.

Issue of writs.

13. All other writs required to be issued by the Clerk of the Process to the parties or their solicitors, shall be issued according to the established practice. Rule T. T. 1856, 152. Rules 14-18.

14. The Clerk of the Process shall attend in his office at all times when the Registrars are required to attend in their respective offices, and shall permit all necessary searches respecting writs so issued by him. Rules T. T. 1856, 153. Attendance at office.

The office hours are now regulated by Rules 7 & 8 ante.

15. The Clerk of the Process shall, on the opening of the respective offices each morning, or as soon thereafter as may be, deliver to the Registrars of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions and to the Clerk of Records and Writs for the Chancery Division, the copies of writs of summons issued in such Divisions respectively on the preceding day, that the same may be filed with the papers in the respective actions to which such writs belong. Rules of 19 Feb. 1859. See J. A. Rule 547. Copies of writs to be sent to Registrars.

16. The Clerk of the Process shall deliver to each of the Registrars of the respective Divisions on the first day of January, the first day of April, the first day of July, and the first day of October, if not a Sunday or legal holiday, and if so then on the first day thereafter not being a Sunday or legal holiday, in each and every year, quarterly returns of all writs issued by him during the preceding quarter to the respective Divisions, naming each description of writ, and the dates on which the same were issued, to each of the Registrars requiring the same. Rule of 19 Feb., 1859. Quarterly returns of writs.

3. Registrars, Local Registrars, etc.

17. The Registrars or Assistant-Registrars or such other officers as the Judges of the Supreme Court shall approve of, shall attend the Weekly Sittings of the High Court in rotation. New. Attending court.

See note to Rule 3.

18. Local and Deputy Registrars are to perform the duties of their offices in the same manner, and under the same regulations, as the like duties are performed by the Clerk of Records and Writs; and all Orders, Rules, and Rules and regulations relating to Clerk of R. & W., to apply to regulations in force respecting the Clerk of Records and Writs, and respecting the regulation of his office, are to be in force and applicable to the Local and Deputy Registrars in relation to such duties as they are hereby required to perform; and the like sums and fees payable to the Clerk of Records and Writs, are to be payable to the Local and Deputy Registrars, in relation to similar matters. Chy. O. 34.

Rule 18. Local and Dep. Registrars.

For Rules relating to the duties of the Clerk of Records and Writs: see Rules 23-25.

This Rule appears to be defective in not including Deputy Clerks of the Crown in its provisions, inasmuch as they have to discharge similar duties in actions in the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions to those herein provided for by Local and Deputy Registrars: see post Rule 20. Perhaps in view of Rule 20 the present Rule is unnecessary.

Whether Local Masters may practise—quære.

Local Masters, and Deputy Registrars, under the former practice in Chancery, were not at liberty to practise themselves in Chancery, nor were they even at liberty to practise in partnership with solicitors practising in Chancery, although they might not actually share in the emoluments arising from such business: McLean v. Cross, 3 Chy. Ch. 432. After the merging of the three Superior Courts into one, it was doubtful whether a Master could practise at all, even though he confined his practice to the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions of the High Court; as under the new system he is just as much an officer of those Divisions as he is of the Chancery Division; but see Rule 138 post, from which it may be inferred, that it is not the intention of The Judicature Act to deprive them of the right of practising; and see also sect. 125, s-s. 12 ante.

Fees.

The fees now payable to Deputy Registrars, Deputy Clerks of the Crown, and Local Registrars, are regulated by the tariff post.

Officers paid by fees are entitled to receive all fees payable under the tariff, in cash, but those fees payable under any statute not expressly requiring them to be paid in stamps.

Deputy Clerks of the Crown and Deputy Registrars.

19. Where the offices of Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Deputy Registrar in any county are not held by the same person, the Deputy Clerk of the Crown shall in actions in the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions have the powers and duties of a Deputy Registrar (not Local Master), in addition to the powers and duties heretofore belonging to a Deputy Clerk of the Crown; and the Deputy Registrar shall in actions in the Chancery Division have the powers and duties of a Deputy Clerk of the Crown, in addition to the powers and duties heretofore belonging to a Deputy Registrar. In counties where there is a Local Registrar, every reference in these Rules to the said two offices, or either of them, shall be deemed to apply to the Local Registrar. Rules 417, 545. See J. A. s. 125 (5).

This Rule in effect continues all the powers of the Deputy Clerks of the Crown and Deputy Registrars at the time when the Ont. J. A. 1881 was passed, and gives to each of these officers the powers of the other as well as his own.

20. Subject to the foregoing Rules, where an action is commenced in the office of a Deputy Registrar or Deputy Clerk of the Crown or Local Registrar, those officers respectively shall have all such powers and authorities in relation to the action as the Clerk of Records and Writs has in the case of an action where appearance is to be entered in his office, all such orders in the action as require to be entered (except orders made by the Local Judge or the Local Master of the county under the authority and jurisdiction vested in them under these Rules) shall be entered in the office of such Deputy Registrar or Deputy Clerk or Local Registrar. Rules 418, 509; Chy. O. 35. Rules 20-22. Entry of orders.

See Eng. R. 1875, o. 35 r. 2.

The English Rule makes provision with reference to the entry of judgments in the District Registries established by the Judicature Act of 1873. The authority to make orders where actions proceed in the District Registry is given to the District Registrar, not to the County Court Judge or any other officer.

21. Every Deputy Clerk of the Crown, Deputy Registrar, and Local Registrar, shall once in every three months transmit to the Registrar of each Division at Toronto, a list, in the form No. 216 in the Appendix, of all judgments which have been entered by him in such Division during such period; and from the said lists the Registrars of the several Divisions shall prepare and from time to time keep up, a general index or list of judgments, which shall be open to inspection by all persons interested, upon payment of the usual fee. See J. A. Rule 517. List of judgments entered in outer offices to be forwarded to head office of Division in Toronto.

4. Judgment Clerks.

22. Two of the officers of the High Court shall, in addition to their other duties, be Judgment Clerks of the High Court, for the purpose of settling the form and terms of special judgments and orders. See J. A. Rule 416. Judgment clerks.

Not in the English Rules.

Judgments are now drawn up by the Registrar, Deputy, or Local Registrar, or Deputy Clerk, at the office where the writ and pleadings are filed. In cases such as were formerly dealt with by the Court of Chancery, where minutes require to be settled, the parties attend in country cases before the Local officer; but if they cannot agree before him as to the proper form of the judgment, a direction was formerly required to be obtained, on motion to a Judge, to refer the minutes for settlement to one of the Judgment Clerks: Breckenridge v. Ontario Loan & Deposit Co., 10 C. L. J. 140; 3 C. L. T. 212; but now the minutes may be varied by application to a Judge or a Judgment Clerk on notice to the other parties interested: see Rule 761. Settling minutes.

Entry of judgment in the Local office does not prevent an application to a Judge to vary the minutes. The Court will, for a time at least, encourage the Rule 23. settling of judgments by the Judgment Clerks, in order to preserve uniformity in the language of judgments: Holden v. Smith, 20 C. L. J. 370; 4 C. L. T. 541; 10 P. R. 369; see also 4 C. L. T. 568. See further as to duties of Judgment Clerks, Rules 759-63.

A judgment, though by consent, is a solemn judgment of the Court, and cannot be altered by consent of the parties without the sanction of the Court: The Bellcairn, 34 W. R. 55.

Clerk of Records and Writs.

Clerk of Records and Writs, duties of.

23. The Clerk of Records and Writs is to perform in the Chancery Division, the same duties as heretofore in relation to the several matters hereinafter mentioned, that is to say:

1. Receiving, filing, and custody of, pleadings, petitions, reports, depositions, affidavits, bonds, and other papers and proceedings, and making entries thereof in the proper books.

2. Amending pleadings.

3. Entering consents, and notes of default in pleading and giving certificates thereof.

4. Certifying proceedings.

5. Examining and authenticating office copies of pleadings and other proceedings.

6. Preparing and issuing writs, other than those required to be issued by the Clerk of the Process, commissions and orders of course.

7. Preparing and signing certificates for registration, and issuing the same.

8. Attending on the opening of commissions.

10. The care and custody of all documents ordered to be deposited for safe keeping, or produced under any order of Court.

11. The care and custody of the books kept under the Act for Quieting Titles, and making the necessary entries therein.

12. Preparing and signing certificates of the filing of petitions, under said Act, and issuing the same.

13. Transmitting such petitions to the proper Referee.

14. Entering and issuing certificates of title and conveyances, granted under the said Act. Chy. O. 23.

15. Attending with records and exhibits on the Judges of the Court or elsewhere. Rule 24.

16. Setting down actions for trial and motions for the Divisional Court.

17. Setting down all motions, appeals, demurrers and special cases in all Divisions of the High Court for the weekly sittings, and all appeals in Chambers.

Orders of course, referred to in clause 6, are those orders which, according to the practice of the Court of Chancery, could be obtained on præcipe without an actual motion therefor; or which, at Common Law, were called "side bar rules," and which were issued on the filing of a motion paper signed by Counsel: see Rule 25. The most common orders of this kind were: Orders of course.

1. Orders for security for costs, where the writ or other proceeding by which an action is commenced discloses on its face, that the plaintiff or person asking relief, (see J. A. s. 2) is resident out of the jurisdiction: Rule 1242.

2. Orders to produce, under Rule 508.

3. Orders for appointment of guardians of infants when necessary: see Chy. Ord. 610, but the power to issue orders of this kind seems now to be abrogated, owing to the omission of Chy. O. 610 from the present consolidated Rules.

4. Orders to continue proceedings where the death or marriage of parties, or the transmission of interest pendente lite, renders it necessary for other persons to be made parties to the action: Rule 622.

5. Orders for sheriffs to return writs, or to bring in the body.

6. Orders for leave to plaintiff, or defendant, to change his solicitor, or solicitor and agent,—or to prosecute, or defend, in person, instead of by a solicitor,—or to enable one of several plaintiffs to appoint a solicitor for the purpose of making an application separate from his co-plaintiff,—or to enable a solicitor of a plaintiff, or defendant, to change his agent.

7. Orders for delivery and taxation of solicitors' bills of costs, on the application of a client: or for the taxation alone of such bills on the application of the client within a month from the delivery thereof, or on the application of the solicitor at any time after such month: see Rule 1228. Formerly orders of course for delivery and taxation were issuable by the Clerk of Records and Writs under original Rule 444, in the Chancery Division, and orders of course for taxation alone, were issued by the Registrar of that Division; but now all orders of course in the Chancery Division at Toronto are to be issued by the Clerk of Records and Writs.

For other orders issuable as of course, see Daniel's Pr., 5th ed., 2002—2012.

All orders of course are to be drawn up on præcipe: see Rule 25 post.

Certificates of officers as to proceedings in their offices are conclusive; and affidavits cannot be read to contradict them: Beavan v. Burgess, 10 Jur. 63; Foley v. Griffith, 2 Moll 318.

24. The Clerk of Records and Writs shall make out and transmit to the proper Registrar a list of all actions and matters set down for trial or argument as soon as the time for setting the same down has elapsed. See Chy. O. 26.

The list of causes here referred to is posted up at Osgoode Hall, outside the Court Room, and the cases are taken by the Court in the order in which they appear upon the list, unless otherwise ordered by the Court.

causes and issues and of criminal matters or proceedings, and at any Courts of Assize and Nisi Prius, Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery holden for the County of York, and shall be subject to all the provisions of this Act, in reference to records, exhibits and other documents; and he shall also perform such other duties as he may from time to time be directed, by Rules of the Judges of the Supreme Court, or High Court under section 105 of the Judicature Act to perform; and subject to such duties and Rules, he shall be a Clerk in the office of the Registrar of the Queen's Bench Division. Rule 28. Duties.

(b) The person so appointed shall take and receive the same fees only as other Marshals and Clerks of Assize; and such fees shall be by him accounted for, paid over and applied in the manner provided by law; and he shall not take for his own use or benefit, directly or indirectly, any fee or emolument save the salary to which he may be entitled by law. Fees.

(c) When the Circuit Sittings of the High Court at the County Town of the County of York for the trial of civil and criminal proceedings are held separately, or when any Court of Assize and Nisi Prius by commission in the County of York is held separate and apart from any Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery held by commission in the said County, and at the same time, the Registrars of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions of the High Court shall alternately, personally or by Deputy, act as Clerks of the Sittings for criminal proceedings or of such Courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery, only as long as such separate Sittings or such Courts are being held at the same time, and shall, while so acting, have all the powers and exercise all the functions that are by law had and exercised by Marshals and Clerks of Assize. R. S. O. 1877, c. 41, s. 16. Clerk of Courts for criminal trials when held in County of York at same time as Courts for civil trials.

(d) The Marshal and Clerk of Assize for the County of York, shall forthwith, after the close of each Assize, or earlier if required, return to the Clerk of Records and Writs, and the Registrars of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions, all records in their respective Divisions, together with all exhibits and other documents appertaining thereto. Rule of 16th May, 1876. To return records and exhibits to Registrars of different divisions.

(O.) cap. 11, 37 Vict. J. A. Rules 420, 548; Chy. O. 560; C. L. Rules of 9th Feb., 1870.

This Rule contains a consolidation of the Chy. Orders and C. L. Rules, defining the jurisdiction of the Referee in Chambers and the Clerk of the Crown and Pleas in Chambers before the Ont. Jud. Act, 1881, together with the extension of such jurisdiction rendered necessary by new provisions under the Jud. Act. The Master in Chambers became under that Act possessed of the powers in Chambers which both the former officers had, but subject to the restrictions placed upon the powers of either of them: see original Rule 420 and Keefe v. Ward, 18 C. L. J. 166. Scope of Rule.

Rule 30.

Under the Jud. Act, jurisdiction of quite a new kind was conferred by various Rules upon a Judge in Chambers. The former Referee by Chy. Order 560, and the Clerk of the C. & P. by Rules of Feb., 1870, (see 29 U. C. Q. B. 623) were limited to the powers at the date of those Orders and Rules respectively possessed by a Judge in Chambers: see Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Collver v. Swayzie, 8 P. R. 42. To settle doubts as to the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, more especially under original Rule 80 (now 739) J. A. Rule 548, consolidated above, was passed.

This Rule appears to be intended to confer on the Master in Chambers all the jurisdiction of a Judge in Chambers at the time of these Rules coming into force, i. e., 1st Sept., 1883, except as to the matters above excepted. The word "now" in the latter part of this Rule can hardly refer to any other period of time, as no date is affixed to the Rules; but it is to be noted that the wording of the Rule has been changed in an important particular by the substitution of the word "of" for "or" in the seventh line: so far as this change is concerned, however, it may be observed that the Rule follows the statute under which it is authorized to be made: see sec. 105, s-s. 1 (d). The Master in Chambers has, therefore, now power to entertain applications to set aside fraudulent conveyances, &c. by judgment debtors, under Rules 1007-1011, which the Referee in Chancery Chambers did not formerly possess: see Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; and Wark v. Moulton, 7 P. R. 144; but it was exercised by the Clerk of the Crown and Pleas in Chambers: see Watts v. Hobson, 7 P. R. 334. He may also have power to make orders dispensing with a wife joining in a conveyance by her husband, under R. S. O. c. 133 ss. 9, 10, a jurisdiction he did not formerly possess: Re Nolan, 6 P. R. 115. Upon a strict construction of the language of Rule 989 by that of the present Rule it might be said that he has also power to grant judgments for partition on summary applications in Chambers, which was formerly excluded from his jurisdiction: Re Arnott, Chatterton v. Chatterton, 8 P. R. 39; unless it can be said that the necessity for directing a reference to another officer, excludes such motions from his jurisdiction. But in Hendricks v. Hendricks, 13 P. R. 79, it was held that the mere consolidation of the Rules could not work a construction which was not in accordance with the policy upon which Rule 1187 (originally promulgated along with Rule 989) was framed. Local officers generally would not appear to have jurisdiction under Rule 989, but only Local Masters. It would therefore seem to be still contrary to Rule 989, that the words "Judge in Chambers" therein should by the aid of Rule 30 be made to extend to the Master in Chambers and by force of Rule 41 to Local Judges also.

Setting aside fraudulent conveyances.

Dispensing with wife executing deed.

Applications for partition.

References to Masters.

The right of the former Referee in Chambers to direct a reference to a Master was denied: Brown v. Dollard, 6 P. R. 113; (this case was affirmed on rehearing, however, on another ground, viz: that the relief should have been sought under Chy. Ord. 398 et seq.); see also Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; and since the Judicature Act the right of the Master in Chambers to direct such a reference under the Dominion Winding-up Act has also been denied: Re Queen City Refining Co., 10 P. R. 415; Re Joseph Hall Manufacturing Co., 10 P. R. 485.

Quo warranto.

The jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers in quo warranto proceedings under the Municipal Act affirmed in Reg. ex. rel. Felitz v. Howland, 11 P. R. 264, and denied in Reg. ex. rel. Wilson v. Duncan, ib. 379, has been settled by this Rule. He has also power to direct a reference to a County Judge to take evidence in such a matter under sec. 212 of R. S. O. c. 184, Reg. v. McClay, 13 P. R. 96. See also notes to Rule 41.

The jurisdiction to entertain a motion to change the venue in a County Court action was doubted: Brigham v. McKenzie, 10 P. R. 406; but is now settled by Rule 1260.

Where a statute passed after 1871 merely enlarged the power of a Judge in Chambers, in a case in which the Referee in Chambers had previously exercised jurisdiction, it was held that the Referee could exercise the additional powers conferred by the statute upon a Judge in Chambers: Collver v. Swayzie, 8 P. R. 42.

Rule 30.

There is jurisdiction under the Mechanics Lien Act to hear a motion to annul registration of a mechanic's lien, where the amount in question is under $200: Re Cornish, 6 Ont. 250; Re Moorehouse v. Leak, 13 Ont. 290.

Local Judges and Masters.

By Rules 41 and 138 the jurisdiction conferred on the Master in Chambers is extended to Local Judges and Local Masters who do not practise: except in proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto under the Municipal Act, for payment of money out of Court, or dispensing with payment into Court, appeals from the taxing officers at Toronto pending taxations, or making orders for the sale of infants' estates.

Matters excluded from jurisdiction.

Applications to the summary jurisdiction of the Court against solicitors, were held to be excluded from the jurisdiction of the Referee: Re L. & M., 6 P. R. 21; but see Re Carroll 2 Chy. Ch. 323; Re Walker, ib. 324; Re Toms, ib. 381; Re Attorney, 7 P. R. 174; also applications by parties claiming adversely to a receiver, or sequestrator: see Brown v. Dollard, 6 P. R. 113, also an application by a person claiming adversely to the heirs or next of kin in an administration suit to be made a party in the Master's office and for leave to establish his claim there: Re Tobin, Tobin v. Tobin, 7 P. R. 67; and an application for payment into Court by an executor or administrator of money admitted by him to be in his hands: Re Curry, 8 P. R. 340; but see now Rule 756.

The Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction on conflicting evidence to strike out pleas, raising questions of liability preliminary to an account and order an account to be taken: Ryan v. Fish, 20 C. L. J. 114; nor to set aside a judgment of a creditor against an absconding debtor to enable another creditor to defend: Wills v. Carroll, 10 P. R. 142.

Where no jurisdiction, adjournment before a judge refused.

Where an application was made to the Referee, which he had no power to entertain, he refused to adjourn it before a Judge: Lapp v. Lapp, 3 Chy. Ch. 234, or to hear it even by consent: Thompson v. Freeman, 4 Chy. Ch. 1. Such cases have, however, sometimes been adjourned before a Judge.

Leave to Appeal.

Leave to appeal—The restriction of clause 12 did not extend to applications for leave to appeal from a Master's report: Russel v. Brucken, 3 Chy. Ch. 488, but only to applications for leave to appeal to the Court of Appeal: Langtry v. Dumoulin, before Dalton, M.C. 25 June, 1884; and see Re Gabourie, 12 P. R. 252.

Liberty of the subject.

Liberty of the Subject.—Formerly the Referee in Chambers could entertain motions to commit for disobedience of an order to produce, but the Clerk of the C. & P. Q. B. had no jurisdiction in matters relating to the liberty of the subject. The latter restriction is continued under this Rule, and is held to prevent the Master in Chambers from entertaining motions to compel obedience to an order for production by committal: Keefe v. Ward, 18 C. L. J. 106. He has also no jurisdiction to order the discharge of a defendant held in custody under a ca. sa.: Cochrane v. Lamon, 11 P. R. 351.

Appeals, etc.

Appeals.—An application impeaching the propriety of a filing, is not an appeal or in the nature of an appeal from the officer who filed the document, so as to exclude the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers: Waterous v. Farran, 6 P. R. 31.

Referring causes.

The referring of Causes.—The original expression "The referring of causes under the C. L. P. Act" was held not to be restricted to causes begun by writ of summons: Bank of Hamilton v. Baine, 12 P. R. 418. The expression now substituted seems to be without any restriction.

References to Referees under secs. 101 and 102 of the Act cannot be made by the Master in Chambers: see notes to those sections.

Staying proceedings.

Staying proceedings after Verdict or Judgment.—The words "or judgment" have been added in the Consolidation of the Rules, probably meaning judgment at the trial, as the result of the trial is now not usually a verdict merely but a judgment in the action, as formerly in Chancery and at Common Law where the trial was by a Judge without a jury.

Rules 31-34.

Probably the alteration will not affect the power of the Master in Chambers to stay proceedings upon a reference or execution under a judgment pending an appeal, and which under the English Rules has been held exercisable by a Master; Oppert v. Beaumont, 35 W. R. 266; 56 L. J. Q. B. 216; see also Rules 2 and 805, and Butler v. Standard Ins. Co., 8 P. R. 41; Powell v. Peel, ib. 85.

Official Referees may sit in Chambers for M. in C.

31. Any official Referee, upon request of the Master in Chambers, or of a Judge of the High Court, may sit with or for such Master; and while sitting for him shall have all the authority and power of such Master, but shall not be entitled to any fees. J. A. Rule 421.

See Rule 88 (b) making similar provision where an official Referee sits for the Master in Ordinary.

M. C. may refer to Judge.

32. The Master in Chambers, or Referee sitting for him, may refer any matter pending before him to a Judge of the High Court for decision, and the Judge may dispose of the same in whole or in part, or refer back the whole or a part. See J. A. Rule 426.

See note to Rule 42.

M. C. to sign orders.

33. The Master in Chambers, or other officer holding chambers, shall sign all orders made by him, and shall cause such as require entry to be entered in a book to be kept for that purpose. See Chy. O. 565.

As to Orders required to be entered: see Rules 546, 774.

7. Referees.

Trial before referee.

34. Where any cause or matter, or any question in any cause or matter, is referred to a Referee, he may, subject to the order of the Court or a Judge, hold the trial or reference at, or adjourn it to, any place which he may deem most convenient, and have any inspection or view, either by himself or with his assessors if any, which he may deem expedient for the better disposal of the controversy before him. He shall, unless otherwise directed by the Court or a Judge, proceed with the trial de die in diem in a similar manner as in actions tried by a jury. J. A. Rule 276.

The provision as to a referee sitting de die in diem is directory only; and non-compliance with it is not a ground for setting aside his finding: Robinson v. Robinson, 35 L. T. N. S. 337; 24 W. R. 675.

Rules 35-40. Procedure before Referee.

35. Where matters of the nature of those commonly referred to the Master are referred to a Referee, the practice and procedure, including the procuring of the attendance of witnesses, shall be the same as nearly as may be as the practice and procedure in the Master's office. New.

This Rule would seem to govern the practice on references under sec. 101 of the Act.

Procedure before Referee.

36. When matters in the nature of the trial of an issue are referred to a Referee, the practice and procedure, including the procuring of the attendance of witnesses, shall be as nearly as may be, the same as the practice and procedure at a trial, but not so as to make the tribunal of the Referee a public Court of Justice. See J. A. Rule 277.

See Eng. Rule 1875, O. 36, r. 31 (1883, R. 473).

This Rule would seem to apply where the reference is to an official or specia Referee under sec. 102 of the Act; see Rooney v. Whiteley, W. N. 1883, 225.

Authority of Referee.

37. Subject to any order to be made by the Court or Judge the Referee shall have the same authority in the conduct of any reference or trial as a Judge of the High Court when presiding at any trial. J. A. Rule 278.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 32 (1883, R. 474).

The Referee, whether the reference is for report (sec. 101), or trial (sec. 102), has power, subject to the control of the Court, to fix a peremptory appointment for the hearing, and, on default of either party, to proceed in his absence: Wenlock v. River Dee Co., 32 W. R. 220, 49 L. T. N. S. 617.

Not to commit to prison.

38. Nothing in these Rules contained shall authorize a Referee to commit any person to prison or to enforce an order by attachment or otherwise. J. A. Rule 279.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 33 (1883, R. 475).

Referee may submit questions to the Court.

39. The Referee may, before the conclusion of any trial before him, or by his report under the reference made to him, submit any question arising therein for the decision of the Court, or state any facts specially with power to the Court to draw inferences therefrom, and in any such case the order to be made on the submission or statement shall be entered as the Court may direct. J. A. Rule 280.

Identical with the first part of Eng. R. 1875, O. 36, r. 34, as amended by Eng. R., March, 1879, r. 5 (1883, R. 476). See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 211.

Court may remit case, or decide or matter, or any part thereof, for re-trial or further consideration, to the same or any other Referee; or the Court may decide the question referred to a Referee on the evidence taken before him, either with or without additional evidence, as the Court may direct. J. A. Rule 281.

Corresponds with the effect of the English Rule referred to under Rule 39.

The powers given by these Rules are more extensive than those conferred by the C. L. P. Act, sec. 211, which simply enabled an arbitrator to state his award as to the whole or any part thereof, in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court; and the Court could only deal with the case as stated. Under this Rule the Court may require of the Referee explanations or reasons, or send the matter back for re-trial or reconsideration, and to another Referee if it thinks fit; or may itself decide the question on the same evidence, or with additional evidence.

The latter part of this Rule does not seem to be quite in keeping with the presumable intent of Rules 848 et seq. that the report of the Referee shall be absolute if not appealed against.

See notes to secs. 101 and 102 of the Act, pp. 64-69.

Report of Referee may be filed ...

8. Local Judges.

Jurisdiction in Chambers of Local Judges.

41. The Judge of every County Court other than the County Court of York, shall in all actions brought in their County have concurrent jurisdiction with and the same power and authority as the Master in Chambers in all proceedings now determined in Chambers at Toronto, except that the authority of such Judge shall not extend to ~~proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto under The Municipal Act, or to~~ the payment of money out of Court, or dispensing with payment of money into Court, in any action or matter, or to appeals from the Taxing Officers in Toronto pending taxation, or to making an order for the sale of infants' estates. 48 V. c. 13, s. 21. J. A. Rule 584.

Local Judges have also recently had a limited jurisdiction conferred upon them in respect to granting injunctions, as to which see sec. 157 (2) of the Act.

A County Judge has now under 52 Vict., c. 36, s. 46 (O), original jurisdiction to determine the right of a municipality to a reeve, deputy reeve, etc., or the validity of an election.

Power to refer to Judge of High Court.

42. Every Local Judge may refer any matter pending before him in Chambers to a Judge of the High Court for decision, and the Judge may dispose of the same in whole or in part, or refer back the whole or a part. See J. A. Rule 426.

The English Order 35, Rule 6 (1875), makes this provision with reference to matters which come before the District Registrar, and Order 54, R. 3 (1875), contains a like provision with reference to the Master. Rule of Hilary Term, 1870, contains a like provision with reference to matters before the Clerk of the Crown: see 29 U. C. Q. B. p. 623. Rule 42.

A case may be brought before a Judge under this Rule upon a certificate of the officer that in his opinion the case is a proper one to be heard by a Judge; otherwise applications within the jurisdiction of any officer must be disposed of by him: Hughes v. Rees, 9 P. R. 86.

10. Master's Office.

The Master in Ordinary, and Local Masters, are all officers of the Supreme Court, J. A. s. 112, ss. 2, and as such, actions may be referred to them, from any Division of the High Court. They are also by Order in Council of May 22nd, 1889, made Masters of the High Court and Court of Appeal. Masters are officers of Supreme Court.

The Local Masters who do not practise as barristers or solicitors, and who have not taken out certificates to practise, in addition to their duties as Masters, have also jurisdiction in certain cases in Chamber applications, in actions brought in the County in which they hold office: Rule 138. Powers of Local Masters in Chambers.

Formerly a Master in Chancery was debarred from practising as a solicitor in Chancery, or in partnership with any other person practising as a solicitor in Chancery, even though he received no part of the emoluments: McLean v. Cross, 3 Chy. Ch. 432. They might however practise as attorneys in the other Courts. Now, however, that the Masters have jurisdiction in all the Divisions of the High Court, it seems doubtful if they can practise at all as solicitors. There is however no express provision either in The Judicature Act, or Rules debarring Masters from practising; and see Rule 138, from which it may be inferred that it was not the intention of The Judicature Act to deprive them of the right of practising: and see J. A. s. 125, (12). As to whether Masters may practise as solicitors; quære.

Under the former practice in Chancery the plaintiff was prima facie entitled to have a reference, when necessary, directed to the Master at the place where his bill was filed: Macara v. Gwynne, 3 Gr. 310; Watson v. Henderson, 2 Chy. Ch. 370; and the defendant might for good cause apply to change the reference: McNab v. McInnis, 4 Chy. Ch. 53; but now in administration actions, it has been held that the reference should be prima facie to the Master in the County where the deceased resided: Thompson v. Fairbairn, 10 P. R. 523. Place of reference.

Subject to this exception the old rule it is presumed will still be followed, and a plaintiff will have the right prima facie to have the reference, if any, directed to the Master in the county where the writ issued. Formerly when it was sought to change the reference on the score of expense, the difference of expense must have been considerable; and if on the ground of convenience, a clearly preponderating convenience for the proposed change must have been established; and the fact that a defendant was a man in extensive business, or a trustee, was not a sufficient ground for changing the reference: McNab v. McInnis, supra; Jackson v. Harriman, 9 C. L. J. 29. Prima facie*, plaintiff entitled to have reference where writ issued.

Since The Judicature Act it has been held that the policy of that Act is to decentralise business, and to send local matters to the Local Masters, and the fact that a partnership business had been carried on in the county to which it was proposed to change the reference to take the partnership accounts, and that a delay of two months would be incurred by retaining the reference at the place directed by the judgment, was held sufficient ground to warrant the change: Aitken v. Wilson, 9 P. R. 75. Reference may be changed; on what grounds.

When the Master has been professionally concerned for any of the litigants, in reference to the same or any other matter, that is a sufficient ground for changing the reference: Bigelow v. Bigelow, 6 P. R. 124; Boyd v. Simpson, before Spragge, C., 19th June, 1878. (See Reg. Lib.) When Master has been professionally concerned.

Rules 43-45.

But when the reference was directed to a Master, who had, prior to the appointment, been counsel for one of the litigants, neither party objecting, and the Master certifying that he acted in the reference at the pressing request of both parties, the Court held that the party against whom the Master reported could not raise that objection on appeal from the report, having taken the chance of the Master's finding in his favour: Cotter v. Cotter, 21 Gr. 159.

Where necessary to add Master as a party.

Where in the course of a suit it becomes necessary to add as a party the Master to whom the cause is referred, the reference will be changed on an ex parte application by the plaintiff: Weldon v. Templeton, 1 Chy. Ch. 360.

Application to be made on notice.

Usually however the party having the conduct of the reference is entitled to notice of any appplication to change it, and an order made in his absence is irregular and will be set aside: McConnell v. McConnell, 3 Chy. Ch. 122.

The following Rules 43-137, which regulate the practice in the Master's offices, apply to actions in all the Divisions, which are referred to a Master, or to a Referee.

(i) General Rules.

Interpretation.

43. In the following rules from 44 to 137 inclusive, the word "Master" shall include Local Master and Official or other Referee, as well as the Master in ordinary of the Supreme Court.

The powers conferred by the Rules on Masters may be also exercised by a Judge sitting in Chambers: Rule 549.

Court may dispose of matters without reference.

44. In all cases where a reference might be directed, the Court may dispose of all matters itself without a reference, and may direct the proceedings to be taken in Court, or in Chambers, as it finds expedient. Chy. O. 540.

This Rule is usually acted upon only in simple cases, to save the expense of a reference to a Master. The most usual instance of its application being, where the account necessary to be taken involves a mere computation. In such a case the Judge usually directs the Registrar to ascertain the amount, and it is then inserted in the judgment, or order, as the finding of the Court.

Occasionally, however, the accounts in an administration suit have been taken under this Rule.

Order to be carried into M. O. within 14 days.

45. Every order of reference is to be brought into the proper office for prosecution within 14 days after the order is drawn up, or after the same should have been drawn up, by the party having the carriage of the same; otherwise any other party to the cause, or any party having an interest in the reference, may assume the carriage of the order. Chy. O. 211.

The "proper office for prosecution" is that of the Master, or Referee, to whom the reference is directed. Usually the original, or a copy, of the judgment or order of reference, is required to be left with the Master.

Time for issuing order of

Formerly an order, or judgment, directing a reference, was required to be bespoken, and the necessary papers left for preparing the same within 7 days after the order, or judgment, was pronounced or finally disposed of by the Court: see Chy. Ord. 10,—and Chy. Ord. 7, as to meaning of word "order,"— and otherwise it was not to be drawn up without leave being obtained in Chambers: see Chy. Ord. 11; Steers v. Cayley, 1 Ch. Ch. 165. In practice, the solicitor having the carriage of the order, or judgment, usually prepared the minutes and within the time limited by Chy. Ord. 10, procured them to be settled by the Registrar, or obtained an appointment from him to settle them: see Chy. Ord. 596. Under these Rules, however, no time appears to be prescribed within which an order, or judgment, directing a reference, is to be drawn up and entered. Rule 46. reference and carrying into M. O.

According to the former practice, it would appear that the party having the conduct of an order, or a judgment, directing a reference, was entitled to at least 21 days from the time the order, or judgment, was pronounced, or finally disposed of, by the Court, within which to issue the order, or judgment, and carry it into the Master's office; but whether he is entitled to the same time, or any longer, or shorter period, under the present practice is not clear.

The rule which regulates the question, as to who shall have the carriage of an order, or judgment directing a reference to a Master, is a technical one, and in the majority of cases, the solicitors alone are interested. The solicitor of the party having the conduct of the judgment is entitled to prosecute all those proceedings which relate to the general inquiries, and the other parties only prosecute those which relate exclusively to themselves, or such as it would be inconsistent for the party having the carriage of the order, or judgment to do. Thus, if the plaintiff have the conduct, his solicitor bespeaks and procures to be inserted all advertisements, whether for creditors, or for next of kin, or for the sale of property, he prepares the abstract, and answers the requisitions; and if the purchaser requires a reference title, he attends upon it. He furnishes, where directed, for the purpose of answering the general inquiries and taking the general account, copies, abstracts, or extracts of, or from accounts, deeds or other documents, and pedigrees, etc., relating to proceedings of a general character, and not belonging to particular parties to prosecute. Smith's Pr., 7th ed., 729. See also notes to Rule 321. Conduct of reference, who entitled to. Duty of solicitor having conduct.

Where the party having the carriage of a judgment, or order, directing a reference, is guilty of delay in carrying it into the Master's office within the meaning of this Rule, any other party to the action, or any party having an interest in the reference, may assume the carriage of the judgment, or order, which, where necessary, would include the right to draw up the minutes and procure them to be settled, and to have the order or judgment passed and entered. No order seems necessary to entitle him to do this: but see Re Shaw, 14 Gr. 524, where a special application was made. Where the judgment, or order, has been drawn up and entered, but has not been carried into the Master's office within the prescribed time, an office-copy of the judgment, or order, may be obtained and carried into the Master's office by any other party interested. Persons who are not parties to the action, but who are interested in the reference, e. g., creditors, next of kin, heirs, etc., are entitled under this Rule to assume the carriage of the order, or judgment, where the prescribed time has elapsed: see Re Shaw, 14 Gr. 524. May be changed for delay. Party interested may assume carriage, when.

Where a judgment or order has been carried into the Master's office, in the event of delay arising on the part of the party having the carriage of it, the Master may transfer the conduct of the reference to any other person interested: see post Rule 50.

46. When in proceedings before the Master, it appears to him that some persons not already parties ought to be made parties, and ought to attend, or be enabled to attend the proceedings before him, he may direct an office-copy of the judgment or order to be served upon such parties; and upon due service thereof, such parties are to be treated and Master may add parties in his office.

Rule 46. named as parties to the action, and are to be bound by the judgment or order in the same manner as if they had been originally made parties. Ch. O. 244.

Master may dispense with service of judgment.

The Master has power to dispense with the service of the judgment on parties required to be served therewith under Rule 322; but he would seem to have no power to dispense with service on parties who ought to be added as parties under the provisions of this Rule.

Persons served with a copy of a judgment under Rule 322, are not thereby made parties to the action: see notes to that Rule; but persons required to be served under Rule 46, are made parties to the action.

Adding parties.

When persons are required to be added as parties, the Master usually issues an order adding them parties, and directing them to be served with the judgment, or order, of reference, indorsed as required by Rule 47.

Persons acquiring interest pendente lite need not be added.

Persons who acquire equitable interests in the subject matter of litigation pendente lite need not be added as parties, but are nevertheless bound, and concluded, by the proceedings: thus, a person recovering a judgment, and execution, against a mortgagor: Wallbridge v. Martin, 2 Chy. Ch. 275; or obtaining a mortgage, or other incumbrance from him: Robson v. Argue, 25 Gr. 407; pending an action for foreclosure, or sale, by a prior mortgagee, need not be made a party. But where a person acquires the legal estate pendente lite it may sometimes be necessary to make him a party for the purpose of obtaining a conveyance: sed vide 1 Ric. 2 c. 9; this statute has been repealed in England but not in Ontario. A purchaser pendente lite may be added as a defendant in the Master's office under this Rule: Lindsay v. Bank of Montreal, 13 Gr. 66; but see Abell v. Parr, 9 P. R. 564. But where after registration of a certificate of lis pendens a statement of claim was amended by claiming further and other relief than that originally sought; it was held that persons acquiring interests before such amendment, though after the registration of the lis were not bound by notice of such further relief: Price v. Price, 35 Ch. D. 297: but see C. L. T. Sept., 1887, and Bennett on Lis pendens, c. 1. The doctrine of lis pendens does not affect third persons acquiring title pendente lite under tax sales: ib. c. 5, s. 80; nor bona fide assignees of negotiable paper: Ib. ss. 86, 87; nor persons acquiring title under Acts authorizing expropriation: Ib. s. 89.

Persons with paramount title not to be added in M. O. Absentee when action commenced, may be added in M. O. on his return.

Persons having a paramount title to the plaintiff, cannot be made parties in the Master's office, if they object: Montgomery v. Shortis, 3 Chy. Ch. 69. Thus, in a suit by an execution creditor, to set aside a fraudulent conveyance of the equity of redemption by the execution debtor, an order adding a prior mortgagee for the purpose of redeeming him, was discharged. When that is required he should be made an original party to the action: Crawford v. Meldrum, 19 Gr. 165. But when a decree had been made to take partnership accounts, in the absence of one of the partners alleged to be insolvent and out of the jurisdiction, it was held that he was properly made a party in the Master's office on his returning to the jurisdiction pending the reference: Paterson v. Holland, 7 Gr. 563; and as to parties interested in the equity of redemption: see Rule 306.

Action, commencement of, as against parties added.

The action is only deemed to be commenced as against parties added in the Master's office from the date of the order adding them: Juson v. Gardiner, 11 Gr. 23; and see Dumble v. Larush, 27 Gr. 187; Sterling v. Campbell, 1 Chy. Ch. 147. Where it is made to appear to the Master that all liability on the part of a party added, is barred by the Statute of Limitations, he may discharge the order adding him as a party: Kline v. Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 161.

No relief can be had against parties added.

No direct relief can be had against parties added in the Master's office, and they cannot be required to account: Hooper v. Harrison, 28 Gr. 22; Rolph v. Upper Canada Building Society, 11 Gr. 275, 278; Walker Seligmann, 12 Eq. 152. And it would seem they cannot themselves get any relief against co-defendants beyond what is claimed by the plaintiff: see Whitney v. Smith, 4 Chy. 513; they are simply bound by the proceedings.

Rules 47-49.

A party filling two capacities, if made a party to a suit distinctly in one capacity only, may not be bound to his rights in the other capacity; e. g., a person added as a defendant in his character of a judgment creditor, was held not to be bound in his character as a mortgagee: Crooks v. Watkins, 8 Gr. 340.

Party filling two capacities, how far bound.

47. The office-copy of a judgment or order directed to be served under Rule 46 is to be indorsed with a notice to the effect set forth in Form No. 33 in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances require. Chy. O. 245.

Judgment, how served on parties in M. O.

48. A party served with an office-copy of a judgment or order under Rule 46, may apply to the Court, at any time within 14 days from the date of such service, to discharge the judgment or order, or to add to, vary, or set aside the same. Chy. O. 245.

Parties added in M. O. may move against judgment.

Formerly the application was required to be brought on to be heard within the fourteen days: see Holmested's Rules and Orders, 245. But the application might, in the discretion of the Court, be entertained after that time: Stewart v. Hunter, 2 Chy. Ch. 265.

Application to be heard.

The long vacation is excluded from the fourteen days: Rule 484 s. 4; but it would seem that the Christmas vacation is not excluded.

Where a party is added who claims by title paramount to the plaintiff, he should move to discharge the order: Montgomery v. Shortis, 3 Chy. Ch. 69; Crawford v. Meldrum, 19 Gr. 165; McVean v. Tiffin, 13 Ont. App. 1. But an incumbrancer claiming priority to the plaintiff, but whom the Master finds to be subsequent, may also appeal from the report on the question of priority: McDonald v. Rodger, 9 Gr. 75.

Party added claiming priority to plaintiff.

The Master may himself discharge the order adding a party who subsequently appears to be an unnecessary party: Kline v. Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 161.

Master may discharge order when.

49. Where, at any time during the prosecution of a reference, it appears to the Master, with respect to the whole or any portion of the proceedings, that the interests of the parties can be classified, he may require the parties constituting each or any class, to be represented by the same solicitor; and where the parties, constituting such class, cannot agree upon the solicitor to represent them, the Master may nominate such solicitor for the purpose of the proceedings before him. Chy. O. 218, first part.

Master may classify, and appoint solicitors to represent different classes.

When the Master appoints a solicitor to act for a class, all the individuals composing that class are bound by the acts of the solicitor so appointed, and cannot repudiate them, unless they appoint a separate solicitor: Re McConnell, 3 Chy. Ch. 423.

Solicitor appointed by Master to represent a class, binds all of the class.

A solicitor so appointed is entitled to act for the class, not only in the Master's office, but also in proceedings arising out of, or connected with, the proceedings in the Master's office: Ib. But where a solicitor was ex parte appointed to represent creditors it was held that he could not recover his costs against creditors who had not proved their claims and who had had no notice of his appointment: Monteith v. Merchants Bank, 12 P. R. 288; 23 C. L. J. 415.

Rule 50.

After the appointment of a solicitor to act for a class, the separate costs of any member of that class subsequently incurred will not ordinarily be allowed against the estate under administration: Re Ætna Insurance Company, 17 Gr. 160.

Solicitor not to be appointed to represent a class already represented.

The Master should not appoint a separate solicitor for parties who are sufficiently represented by the plaintiff; and where prima facie the plaintiff represents the class (see Rule 320 post), if the Master appoint a separate solicitor, he should state the reason for so doing in his report: Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386.

As to the liability for costs of any member of a class refusing to be represented by the solicitor nominated by the Master, and insisting on being represented by a different solicitor: see post Rule 1188.

Master may change conduct of reference.

50. Where a party prosecuting a reference, does not proceed with due diligence, the Master is to be at liberty, upon the application of any other party interested, either as a party to the suit, or as one who has come in and established his claim under the judgment or order, to commit to him the prosecution of the reference; and from thenceforth neither the party making default nor his solicitor is to be at liberty to attend the Master as the prosecutor of the judgment or order. Chy. O. 212.

The Master in his discretion may entertain an application to change the conduct of the reference ex parte: Stephenson v. Nicolls, 14 Gr. 144; but ordinarily the application should be made on notice: 1 Sm. Pr. 2nd ed., 312, and see Sims v. Ridge, 3 Mer. 458; Edwards v. Acland, 5 Mad. 31.

Master's order subject to appeal.

An appeal lies from the order of the Master changing the reference: Stephenson v. Nicholls, 14 Gr. at pp. 147, 149, and in Wyatt v. Sadler, 5 Sim. 450; the Court on a substantive motion changed the reference, after the Master had refused an application for that purpose. But the application must in the first instance be made to the Master: Miller v. McNaughten, 1 Chy. Ch. 206.

Creditor may apply.

Where there has been great delay in prosecuting a judgment in a creditor's suit, a creditor may apply to have the conduct of the cause, though it has become defective by the death of a defendant: Cook v. Bolton, 5 Russ. 282; and see Re Shaw, 14 Gr. 524; Patterson v. Scott, 4 Gr. 145.

Party conducting reference entitled to inspect papers.

A party to whom the conduct of the reference is committed is entitled to inspect and take copies of briefs and documents in the possession of the party, or his solicitor, from whom the carriage of the reference has been taken: Bennett v. Baxter, 10 Sim. 417; and see Heslop v. Metcalf, 8 Sim. 622.

Plaintiff may apply to amend order of reference, though conduct taken him.

An order taking the conduct of the reference from the plaintiff, does not preclude him from applying to amend a clerical error in the judgment, or order, under Rule 780: Whitehead v. North, Cr. & Ph. 78. Rule 50 only enables the Master to transfer the conduct of proceedings in his office.

Where there is undue delay in prosecuting a reference the Master may close the reference as provided by Rule 51.

Where there is undue delay in prosecuting a reference, Master may close it.

51. Where there is undue delay in prosecuting a reference in the office of a Master, he may issue his warrant to the solicitors or parties interested, which may be transmitted by post, calling upon them to show cause why the reference should not be duly proceeded with. In default of sufficient cause being shewn to excuse the delay, or upon default being made in attending upon the return of the warrant, the Master is to certify to the Court the circumstances of the case; and thereupon the reference in his office is to be deemed closed, and is not to be resumed until further order. Ch. O. 584. Rules 52-54.

In England a somewhat similar practice prevails; there the Chief Clerks from time to time go through all matters pending before them, and in those cases which have been left unattended to by the solicitors having the conduct of the cause or matter, they address a formal notification to such solicitors, pointing out the excessive delay, the present position of the matter, and informing them unless the matter is attended to, it will be handed over to the official solicitor of the Chancery Division: see 66 L. T. Jour. 133. English practice where delay occurs in prosecution of suits.

This Rule, however, only provides for closing the reference. After it has been closed under this Rule, an application must be made to the Court before it can be resumed. The object of the Rule is to protect the Court and its officers from any responsibility for undue delays in the prosecution of references, and its provisions should, therefore, be strictly observed by the Masters.

When a reference is closed in pursuance of this Rule, it provides that the Master is to certify to the Court the circumstances of the case; under the former Chy. Ord. 584, from which this Rule is taken, it was the practice for the Master to forward to the Registrar the certificate of the circumstances of the case,—such certificates should now be forwarded to the Registrar of the Division in which t' e action is pending.

52. Unless the Master in his discretion thinks fit to postpone the same, every reference is to be called on and proceeded with at the day and time fixed; and so de die in diem, without interruption, and without a fresh warrant, unless he is of opinion that an adjournment other than de die in diem would be proper, and conducive to the ends of justice; and when an adjournment is ordered, the Master is to note in his book the time and reason thereof. Chy. O. 213, 214. References to be proceeded with on day fixed and de die in diem.

The Master cannot proceed with a reference in vacation, except by consent of all parties: Anderson v. Thorpe, 12 Gr. 542. A report made in vacation, without the consent of all parties, is null and void, as against a party having no notice of the proceedings on which it is founded, and it is not necessary to appeal from it: Fuller v. McLean, 8. P. R. 549. Master cannot proceed in vacation.

"It is the bounden duty of the Masters to observe these Orders to the letter, wherever it is not absolutely impracticable to follow them literally," per Spragge, C.; Falls v. Powell, 20 Gr., at p. 468.

53. In no case is any matter to be discontinued or adjourned for the mere purpose of proceeding with any other matter, unless that course becomes necessary. Chy. O. 215. References not to be adjourned to take up other cases.

54. Upon the bringing in of a judgment or order, the solicitor bringing in the same is to take out a warrant Warrant to consider to be taken

Rule 54. (unless the Master dispenses therewith) appointing a time, which is to be settled by the Master, for the purpose of taking into consideration the matters referred by the judgment or order, and is to serve the same upon the parties, or their solicitors, unless the Master dispenses therewith. Chy. O. 216.

unless dispensed with by Master.

This Rule is adapted from the English Chy. Ord. 51, of 3rd April, 1828. See Kennedy's Ord., p. 17.

Where judgment erroneous, Master may refuse to proceed on it.

Where a judgment is manifestly erroneous, the Master may properly refuse to proceed upon it until it has been corrected: Swainson v. Bartley, 18 C. L. J. 15; and see Commercial Bank v. Graham, 4 Gr. 419; Mitchell v. Strathy, 28 Gr. 80; Adamson v. Adamson, Ib., at p. 224; but the mistake must be very obvious to warrant the Master in refusing to proceed.

Warrant to consider.

A warrant to consider a judgment, or order, only requires one day's service; see Sutherland v. Rogers, 2 Chy. Ch. at p. 192; other warrants require two clear days' service; Ib.; except warrants to settle report which require four days' service: see post Rule 77 note.

The warrant must be underwritten so as to explain clearly what proceedings are to be taken under it: Denison v. Denison, 3 Chy. Ch. 349.

Defendant entitled to notice.

The fact that a decree under the former Chancery practice had been pronounced pro confesso against a defendant, did not ipso facto disentitle the defendant to notice of proceedings in the Master's office: see Robinson v. Whitcomb, 20 Gr. 415. In mortgage suits, incumbrancers made parties before the hearing were expressly required to be served with notice, notwithstanding the bill may have been taken pro confesso against them: see Rule 128.

How far defendant who has not appeared is entitled to notice in M. O.

Chy. Ord. 111 now obsolete, dispensed with service of an order to take a bill pro confesso, and provided that "all further proceedings in the case may be ex parte as to such defendant, unless the Court orders otherwise." Notwithstanding that Order, it was held improper, as a general rule, for a Master to proceed ex parte with a reference, against a defendant as to whom the bill was taken pro confesso, and that the Master was bound to exercise his discretion as to requiring, or dispensing with, service on such defendants: Robinson v. Whitcomb, 20 Gr. 415; and see Buchanan v. Tiffany, 1 Gr. 98; Walsh v. Bourke, Ib. 105; Hawkins v. Jarvis, Ib. 257; 1 E. & A. 246; McCormick v. Mc Cormick, 6 P. R. 208; but see Perrin v. Davis, 3 Gr. 161. And where the reference was directed by an administration order obtained without a bill being filed, it was held that notice of the proceedings on the reference must be given to the defendant, and that the proceedings taken ex parte under such circumstances were irregular, and the Court refused to act on a report so made: Jackson v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 47.

Under the present practice there is no provision for taking the action pro confesso as under the former Chancery practice; and although judgments may be awarded against a defendant for default of appearance, or for default of defence, there is no provision enabling the future proceedings to be carried on against him, ex parte. In such cases, therefore, it would seem that the defendant is entitled to notice of proceedings upon a reference.

In order to get over the difficulty which arose under the Rules of 1881 which allowed a defendant to file his defence at any time before judgment, Rule 393 enables a plaintiff to file a note closing the pleadings as soon as the ordinary time for pleading has expired.

The Rules make no provision for service on a defendant who has not appeared. It would seem, therefore, that personal service is necessary, unless expressly dispensed with, or some other mode of service be authorized by order to be obtained for that purpose.

Rules 55, 56.

Warrant to consider proceedings on return.

55. Upon the return of the warrant to consider, or upon the bringing in of the reference where the warrant is dispensed with, the Master is to fix a time at which to proceed to the hearing and determining of the reference, and is to regulate in all other respects the manner of proceeding with the reference, and is to give any special directions, he thinks fit as to:—

(1) The parties who are to attend on the several accounts and inquiries;

(2) The time at which, or within which, each proceeding is to be taken;

(3) The mode in which any accounts referred to him are to be taken or vouched;

(4) The evidence to be adduced in support thereof;

(5) The manner in which each of the accounts and inquiries is to be prosecuted;

And such directions as may be afterwards varied or added to, as may be found necessary. Chy. O. 217.

Master may regulate who to appear on creditors' claims against estate.

In any cause, or matter, for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, no party, other than the personal representative, shall, unless by the leave of the Master, be entitled to appear on the claim of any person not a party to the cause, against the estate of the deceased, in respect of any debt or liability. The Master may direct any other party to the cause to appear, either in addition to, or in the place of, the personal representative, upon such terms as to costs and otherwise as he shall see fit: see Rule 334.

As to mode of taking and verifying accounts generally: see Rules 64-69, 73; and as to taking accounts of creditors' claims against the estate of a deceased person: see Rules 975-986.

Subject to appeal.

The ruling of the Master is not conclusive, and the Court may give a party leave to attend proceedings whom the Master has excluded: Davis v. Comber-mere, 9 Jur. 76. But it would seem that any objection to the Master's ruling should be brought up by way of appeal, and not as a substantive motion.

No statement in pleading or evidence at trial necessary to enable Master to exercise his powers.

56. To enable the Master to exercise all or any of the powers conferred upon him by, or to take the accounts and make the inquiries referred to in, the following Rules, it shall not be necessary that any of the matters therein mentioned, shall have been stated in the pleadings, or that evidence thereof shall have been given before the judgment or order of reference, or that the judgment or order shall contain any specific direction in respect thereof. Chy. O. 219.

Rule 57.

Jurisdiction of Master enlarged by Rules 56,57.

Chy. Ord. 219, 220, from which this and the following Rule are taken, very materially altered the practice previously in force, and extend the jurisdiction, and discretion, of the Masters in taking accounts, very far beyond that exercised by the Chief Clerks, or even by a Judge in Chambers, under the English practice: Sculthorpe v. Burn, 12 Gr. 427.

Former rule required case to be made in pleadings, etc.

The former rule, as laid down by Lord Eldon, was that the plaintiff must aver in his bill, and prove, at least one act of wilful neglect, or default, in order to obtain a decree directing an inquiry as to wilful neglect, or default: Seton 477; Sleight v. Lawson, 3 K. & J. 292. In the same way, according to the English practice, a foundation is required to be laid in the pleadings for, and the judgment must specially direct, the taking of an account with rests: Seton 474; or the setting of an occupation rent: Trulock v. Robey, 15 Sim. 265.

This Rule distinctly abrogates those rules of practice, and enables the Master to take an account with rests, and to charge the accounting party for rents, and profits, which might have been received, but for wilful neglect and default, and to set an occupation rent, in any case referred to him; although there be nothing in the pleadings: McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. at pp. 178 and 187; and though no evidence may have been given as to any such matters at the trial.

It was formerly held that under a common administration order obtained on motion without bill, by any person but the personal representative himself, there could be no inquiry as to wilful neglect, or default: Harrison v. McGlashan, 7 Gr. 532. But where the order was obtained by the personal representative himself, such an inquiry might be made: Ledgerwood v. Ledgerwood, 7 Gr. 584.

Inquiry as to neglect and default, etc., can now be made without special direction.

The case of Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354, though not referring to Harrison v. McGlashan, is said in effect to have over-ruled it; and the practice was stated by Boyd, C., to be now settled that under Chy. Ord. 219, 220, (Rules 56, 57) the inquiry as to wilful neglect and default, may be made in all cases under the common administration order: Re Allan, Pocock v. Allan, 9 P. R. 277.

If the Master refuse to exercise the power to take the accounts in the manner mentioned in Rule 57, his ruling would be appealable; but it would seem to be more proper to bring the question up on further directions: see Sievewright v. Leys, 1 Ont. 375.

Where the judgment gives further relief than claimed by the pleadings, it has been held that the judgment is not to be construed by reference to the pleadings if it is unambiguous: Smith v. Goldie, 11 P. R. 24.

Powers of Master to take accounts.

57. Under a judgment or order of reference, the Master shall have power:

With rests.

(1) To take the accounts with rests or otherwise;

To inquire as to wilful neglect and default.

(2) To take account of rents and profits received or which, but for wilful neglect or default, might have been received;

To set occupation rent.

(3) To set occupation rent;

To allow for improvements.

(4) To take into account necessary repairs, and lasting improvements, and costs and other expenses properly incurred otherwise, or claimed to be so;

(5) To make all just allowances.

(6) To report special circumstances;

(7) And generally, in taking the accounts, to inquire, adjudge, and report as to all matters relating thereto, as fully as if the same had been specially referred. Chy. O. 220.

Rule 57.
To make just allowances.
To report special circumstances.
And to inquire as to all matters relating to accounts.

Taking the account with rests:—

Taking an account with "rests" means, either that the accounting party is charged with compound interest on the amount found due from him; or that the surplus income remaining after satisfying the interest due to him, is applied at certain periods in reduction of the principal. The amalgamation of principal and interest, or the application of income to pay off the principal, may take place yearly, half-yearly; or at other times more or less frequently, and these periods are termed "rests." In Robinson v. Cumming, 2 Atk. 410, Lord Hardwicke said rests were only ordered in accounts of realty, and not of personalty, but this is no longer the rule. When the Master declines to take an account with rests, if it is intended to appeal from his decision, he should be required to report the facts, so as to enable the Court to judge of the propriety of his decision: Sievewright v. Leys, 1 Ont. 375; but it has been said the preferable method is to bring the question up on further directions: Ib.

Taking account with rests, what it is.

Rests, as Against Executors, and Trustees.—In taking accounts against an executor, or trustee, he is to be charged "with what he ought to have made, with what he actually did make, or with what he must be presumed to have made": per Esten, V.C., Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 312. The principle on which the Court proceeds in charging an executor, or trustee, with interest, is that of restoring to the cestui que trust his own, and of fairly compensating him for loss directly attributable to the neglect, or breach of duty, by the trustee; and on the other hand, that of withdrawing from the trustee any advantage he has appropriated by abusing his position: per Moss, C.J.; Inglis v. Beatty, 2 Ont. App., at p. 490. It is not that of punishment to the executor, or trustee: Attorney-General v. Alford, 4 D. M. & G. 843; Burdick v. Garrick, 5 Chy. 233; Vyse v. Foster, 8 Chy. 309; 7 H. L. 318. Compound interest may in some cases be a convenient mode of making this compensation, but in other cases it may be oppressive, and sound more as punishment than compensation, and therefore in such cases it ought not to charged: see Fielder v. O'Hara, 14 Gr. 223.

Rests—when allowed as against executors, and trustees.

In England the amount of interest with which an executor, or trustee is charged, depends on the circumstances: (1) When he is guilty of mere neglect, and gets no personal benefit, he is charged with simple interest at 4 per cent.: Forbes v. Ross, 2 Cox 116; Rocke v. Harte, 11 Ves. 58; Robinson v. Robinson, 1 D. M. & G. 247; Tebbs v. Carpenter, 1 Mad. 290; Mousley v. Carr, 4 Beav. 49; Attorney-General v. Alford, 4 D. M. & G. 843; or with the interest he should have received with half-yearly rests: Gilroy v. Stephen, 46 L. T. N. S. 761. (2) Where he is guilty of a positive breach of trust, or has employed trust money for his own benefit, he is charged with 5 per cent.; or, at the option of the beneficiary, with the profit actually made: Jones v. Foxall, 15 Beav. 388. The neglect to comply with a specific direction for investment, has been held to be such a positive breach of trust; Crackelt v. Bethune, 1 J. & W. 586; Berwick v. Murray, 7 D. M. & G. 519; Mosley v. Ward, 11 Ves. 581; and when the trust directed accumulation, the accounts have been taken with rests: Raphael v. Boehm, 11 Ves. 92; Knott v. Cottee, 16 Beav. 77; Jones v. Foxall, 15 Beav. 388; and where a breach of trust, and the employment of the trust fund for his own benefit, in trade, or speculation, concur, whether there be any direction for accumulation or investment or not, the trustee is charged with 5 per cent., sometimes with: Burdick v. Garrick, L. R. 5 Chy. 233; and sometimes without rests, or, in the option of the beneficiary, with the profits actually realised from the fund: Flocton v Bunning, 8 L. R. Chy. 323; Saltmarsh v. Barrett, 31 Beav. 349; Docker v. Somes, 2 My. & K. 655; Heathcote v. Hulme, 1 J. & W. 122; Sutton v. Sharpe, 1 Russ. 146; Robinson v. Robinson, 1 D. M. & G. 247. In Walker v. Woodward, 1 Russ. 107, annual rests were ordered, but this was said to have been obtained by surprise: see Attorney-General v. Solly, 2 Sim. 518. In Jones v. Foxall, 15 Beav. 388; Williams v. Powell, 15 Beav. 461; Heighington v. Grant, 1 Ph. 600: rests were ordered. In Docker v. Somes, 2 My. & K. 655; Palmer v. Mitchell, 2 My. & K. 672; Macdonald v. Richardson, 1 Giff. 81; accounts of profits arising from employment of trust funds in trade were ordered; and see Crawshay v. Collins, 15 Ves. 218; 1 J & W. 267; 2 Russ. 325; Witlett v. Blanford, 1 Ha. 253; Wedderburn v. Wedderburn, 22 Beav. 84. The paying in money to the general account of a firm of solicitors, of which the trustee was a partner, was held not to be a using of the money in his own business, so as to render him liable for compound interest: Burdick v. Garrick, 5 L. R. Chy. 233. When an infant is interested, an inquiry will be directed whether it is for his advantage to take interest, or profits: Burden v Burden, cited in Heathcote v. Hulme, 1 J. & W. 134-5. No special direction seems necessary to authorize the Master making that enquiry in Ontario.

Rule in Ontario as to rate of interest.

In this Province prior to the repeal of the usury laws, the rule was to charge interest at the rate of 6 per cent., and where accordjng to the English cases a higher rate of interest than 4 per cent. would be charged, to take the account with half-yearly rests: see Landman v. Crooks, 4 Gr. 353; Small Eccles, 12 Gr. at p. 40. Since the abolition of the usury laws, an accounting party chargeable according to the English cases with more than 4 per cent., may now be charged, either with a higher rate of interest than 6 per cent., according to the value of money, as was done in Wightman v. Helliwell, 13 Gr. 330 (where an executor was charged with 8 per cent. simple interest); or it would seem he may be charged with compound interest at 6 per cent.: Wiard v. Gable, 8 Gr. 458; Erskine v. Campbell, 1 Gr. 570; or even at a higher rate if the money have been used in trade: Wightman v. Helliwell, 13 Gr. at p. 343; Small v. Eccles, 12 Gr. 40, or, at the option of the cestui que trust, with the actual profits realised.

Interest on sums neglected to be paid over.

But where the trustee, or executor, has neglected to pay over sums in his hands to the parties entitled, he is chargeable with interest on such sums, no matter what the amount, from the time the payment ought to have been made: McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. at p. 190.

In re Honsberger v. Kratz, 10 Ont. 521; 21 C. L. J. 400, Boyd, C., laid down the rule on which executors and trustees should be charged with interest as follows:—(1) An executor or trustee who negligently retains funds in his hands which he should have paid over, or made productive for the estate, is to be charged with simple interest thereon at 6 per cent. (2) An executor or trustee who in violation of his trust has used the money for his own purposes (though not in trade or speculation), is to be charged at such rate as is the then current value of money. (3) An executor or trustee who makes a gain out of the trust by embarking the money in speculation or trading adventures, is to be charged either with the profits or compound interest.

Where retained under bona fide belief of ownership.

Where the executor, or trustee, retains trust money in his hands, under a bonâ fide, though mistaken, belief that it is his own, he may be exonerated altogether from payment of interest: Bruere v. Pemberton, 12 Ves. 386; Davenport v. Stafford, 14 Beav. 319; or he may be ordered to pay simple interest: Inglis v. Beatty, 2 Ont. App. 453; and where there has been great delay on the part of the cestui que trust in making claim to the trust fund: Browne v. Cross, 14 Beav. 105, provided such delay can be said to amount to acquiescence: The Life Assurance Co. v. Siddal, 3 D. G. F. & J. 72; Blain v. Terryberry, 12 Gr. 221; the trustee or executor may be relieved from paying interest thereon: but see Boys' Home v. Lewis, 4 Ont. 18.

Neglect of c. q. t. to demand payment.

Neglect of trustee to invest.

An executor who paid over money under what proved to be a mistaken construction of his testator's will, was held nevertheless bound to pay interest thereon to the parties properly entitled; but not to a person who had acquiesced in the misapplication of the fund: In re Hulkes, Powell v. Hulkes, 33 Ch. D. 552; 55 L. T. N. S. 209; and see In Re Deane, Bridger v. Deane, 42 Ch. D. 9.

A trust to invest in "public securities," is violated by investing in municipal debentures: Ewart v Gordon, 13 Gr. 40; see, however R. S. O. c. 110, ss. 29, 30; 52 V. c. 18 (O); and a direction to carry on a business will not justify an executor in embarking more capital in it: Smith v. Smith, 13 Gr. 81. Rule 57.

In cases of simple neglect to invest, the Master is not justified in charging interest against the trustee until the balance amounts to a sum sufficient for an ordinary investment. $400 was considered a reasonable sum for this purpose: McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. 178; and see Re Jones, Jones v. Searle, 49 L. T. N. S. 91. No interest on sums charged to executor, he has not actually received.

When trustees, or executors, lend money to themselves at a lower rate than could have been obtained by investing it according to the trust, they will be chargeable with the higher rate, but not with rests: Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 311, at p. 315; and see Forbes v. Ross, 2 Cox 116. Executors lending money to themselve

But when a trustee is authorized to invest in either of two specified modes, and by mistake invests in neither, the measure of his liability is the loss arising from his not having invested in the less beneficial of the authorized modes. Thus when a trustee was authorized to invest in Government securities, or mortgages, and he invested in Bank stocks, which proved a loss; he was charged with what would have been obtained had the investment been made in Government securities, although a larger rate of interest could have been obtained on mortgages: Paterson v. Lailey, 18 Gr. 13; and see Cameron v. Bethune, R. 15 Gr. 486; and see Re Gabourie, Casey v. Gabourie, 13 Ont. 635. Or not investing as directed.

Nor is an executor, or trustee, liable to neglect in not calling in investments made by the testator, in order to invest at a higher rate of interest, although authorized so to do: Smith v. Roe, 11 Gr. 311. Where a trust company was appointed executor of an estate and took over certain securities of the estate, and without giving any security or covenant, paid interest at a lesser rate than that received from the securities, to the beneficiaries, on the ground that they had "guaranteed" the payment of interest on the fund, it was held that the transaction could not be supported and that the company was accountable for the interest actually received: Hiddingh v. De Villiers, 12 App. Cas. 107, 624, 57 L. T. N. S. 886.

An administratrix, who allowed the moneys of the estate in her hands to be used by her husband, was charged with simple interest at six per cent.; it not being shown that the money had been used in trade, or that any larger sum had been realised: Fielder v. O'Hara, 14 Gr. 223.

When an executor, or trustee, has properly deposited the trust fund for safe keeping, or not unreasonably kept it in his hands unemployed, he may be relieved from payment of interest, except such as he has actually received; but if he have not kept it apart from his own moneys, or have used it, he will be liable for interest on it; Beaton v. Boomer, 2 Chy. Ch. 89.

An executor, or trustee, charged with principal sums which have never come to his hands, but which have been lost by his neglect, is not always chargeable with interest thereon as well: Vanston v. Thompson, 10 Gr. 542; Re Shaw, 15 Gr. 626; Re Crowter, Crowter v. Hinsmann, 10 Ont. 159; unless his neglect or default amounts to acquiescence in the spoliation of the estate: Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559; Cudney v. Cudney, 21 Gr. 153; Archer v. Severn, 13 Ont. 316. Interest when it runs.

The commencement of a suit does not stop interest running: McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. 178; McMillan v. McMillan, 21 Gr. 369; but see Blogg v. Johnston, L. R. 2 Chy. 225.

As against executors, interest should not ordinarily be charged, until after the lapse of a year from the testator's death.

When a trustee or executor has made advances to the trust estate, he may be allowed simple interest on the balances of principal due to him from year to year, but not compound interest: Finch v. Prescott, L. R. 17 Eq. 554.

Principal and agent.

PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.—An agent who had used moneys of his principal, with his consent, was only charged simple interest: McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. 178; and where the state of accounts could not be ascertained until they had been taken by the Court, interest on the balance was charged only from the date of the Master's certificate: Turner v. Burkinshaw, L. R. 2 Chy. 488; and see Blogg v. Johnston, Ib. 225.

Where the principal was found indebted to the agent, interest on the balance was allowed from the filing of the declaration in the action by the agent to recover the amount: Ridley v Sexton, 19 Gr. 146.

Legatees.

LEGATEES.—Interest on legacies runs from the end of a year from the death of the testator, in the absence of any express direction in the will to the contrary: see Smith v. Seaton, 17 Gr. 397; even though the income of the whole estate be bequeathed to another for life: Toomey v. Tracey, 4 Ont. 708; and see Re Olive, Olive v. Westerman, 50 L. T. N. S. 355; but this rule does not apply to sums appointed by will, under a power. As to such sums, interest runs from the death of the testator: Deedes v. Graham, 20 Gr. 258. But no interest can be usually recovered on arrears of annuities, bequeathed by will: Goldsmith v. Goldsmith, 17 Gr. 213; Crone v. Crone, 27 Gr. 425; and see Snarr v. Badenach, 10 Ont. 131; 21 C. L. J. 401.

When a legacy is vested in trustees upon an express trust, more than six years arrears of interest are recoverable: Loring v. Loring, 12 Gr. 374.

A legatee receiving more than his share may be ordered to refund, with interest: Davidson v. Boomer, 17 Gr. 509; as to creditors overpaid their proportion of the assets: see Chamberlen v. Clarke, 1 Ont. 135; 9 Ont. App. 273.

Policies of insurance.

POLICIES OF INSURANCE.—Interest does not begin to run, until the party claiming is in position to give a full discharge: Toronto Savings Bank v. Canada Life, 14 Gr. 509.

Partnership accounts.

PARTNERSHIP ACCOUNTS.—In the absence of any agreement to the contrary, advances of capital made by a partner do not bear interest: Hill v. King, 9 Jur. N. S. 527; 3 D. J. & S. 418; Cooke v. Benbow, 3 D. G. J. & S. 1; Stevens v. Cook, 5 Jur. N. S. 1415; but see Millar v. Craig, 6 Beav. 433. This applies not only to the original capital put in, but also to subsequent advances made by a partner on capital account: Jardine v. Hope, 19 Gr. 76.

No interest allowed on capital.

Neither is interest chargeable on capital agreed to be advanced by a partner, but not advanced by him: Wilson v. McCarthy, 13 C. L. J. 303; Rishton v. Grissell, L. R. 5 Eq. 326.

As to temporary loans—quaere.

As to advances in the way of temporary loans there seems to be no settled rule. In Cooke v. Benbow, supra, Turner, L.J., thought interest should not be allowed: and see De Hertel v. Supple, 14 Gr. 421. But in Ex parte Chippendale, 4 D. M. & G. 36, Knight Bruce, L. J., was of the contrary opinion; and see Re German Mining Co., 17 Jur. 745, 747; Pim v. Harris, 10 L. R. Ir. Eq. 442.

Interest allowed on sums in the hands of a partner, or not accounted for.

Interest is chargeable on sums in the hands of a partner, and not accounted for: Hutcheson v. Smith, 5 Ir. Eq. 117; or improperly applied: Evans v. Coventry, 8 D. M. & G. 835. But a partner in possession of partnership property is not obliged to account on the footing of wilful default: Rowe v. Wood, 2 J. & W. 556: Davidson v. Thirkell, 3 Gr. 330, at pp. 347-8.

No interest on capital withdrawn, or profits.

Interest is not chargeable on withdrawal of capital, unless fraudulent or improper: Cooke v. Benbow, supra; Meymott v. Meymott, 31 Beav. 445; nor on undrawn profits: Dinham v. Bradford, L. R. 5 Chy. 519.

Interest payable on capital where stopped by dissolution.

When capital carries interest during the continuance of a partnership, it does not do so after a dissolution: Watney v. Wells, L. R. 2 Chy. 250; Rhodes v. Rhodes, John 653; although the business is carried on for the purposes of a sale: Watney v. Wells, supra; unless where the capital is treated as a debt: Wood v. Scoles, L. R. 1 Chy. 369; Barfield v. Loughborough, L. R. 8 Chy. 1; or in the case of a sleeping partner: Parsons v. Hayward, 4 D. F. & J. 474.

After the Master's report, simple interest at six per cent. runs on the amount found due: Bonville v. Bonville, 35 Beav. 129; Brewer v. Yorke, 46 L. T. N. S. 289. Rule 57. Interest from date of report.

Losses resulting from investments of partnership moneys, are to be borne by the partners, in the same proportions they are entitled to share in the profits of the partnership business: Storm v. Cumberland, 18 Gr. 245. Losses how borne.

MORTGAGEES IN POSSESSION.—When a mortgagee in possession, has in that character received rents and profits, or is chargeable with an occupation rent, in excess of the interest due, the Master may strike a balance periodically, and apply the surplus to the reduction of the principal; this is called taking the account with rests: Thorneycroft v. Crockett, 2 H. L. C. 239; Wilson v. Cluer, 3 Beav. 136; Schofield v. Ingham, 1 C. P. Co. 477; Thompson v. Hudson, L. R. 10 Eq. 407; and see Fisher on Mortgages, 957, et seq. And where a mortgagee, after having been paid in full, has continued in possession, he may be charged with compound interest on his receipts: Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Russ. 530; Lloyd v. Jones, 12 Sim. 490; Ashworth v. Lord, 36 Ch. D. 545; 58 L. T. N. S. 18. Mortgagee in possession, when rests chargeable against.

In Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110, VanKoughnet, C., stated it to be the settled practice of the Court, "that when a mortgagee enters, his money being in arrear, he is not liable to account for the rents received by, or chargeable against him, with rests, until he is paid off in full." And see Wilson v. Cluer, 3 Beav. 136; Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Russ. 530; Paul v. Johnson, 12 Gr. at p. 482; Davis v. May, 19 Ves. 384; Finch v. Brown, 3 Beav. 70; Latter v. Dashwood, 6 Sim. 462. But if he enter when nothing is in arrear, it seems the account may be taken with rests from the beginning of the possession: Nelson v. Booth, 3 D. & J. 119.

But the mere fact of nothing being due when possession is taken is not conclusive as to the right to have the account taken with rests; every attendant circumstance must be regarded: Horlock v. Smith, 1 Coll. 287. Thus a mortgagee who took possession of leaseholds to prevent a forfeiture is not liable so to account, though nothing was in arrear when he entered: Patch v. Wild, 30 Beav. 99; and see Gordon v. Eakins, 16 Gr. 363. Mortgagee when liable to account with rests.

If a mortgagee holds bills, or notes, for arrears when he enters, he is nevertheless not liable to account with rests, if they are dishonoured: Dobson v. Land, 4 D. & S. 575.

Rests may be made when a mortgagee in possession sets up an unfounded claim to the equity of redemption, or resists the mortgagor's right to redeem; or when overpaid, has denied that his mortgage was satisfied: Incorporated Society v. Richards, 2 Dr. & W. 258; Crippen v. Ogilvie, 15 Gr. 569; Montgomery v. Calland, 14 Sim. 79.

When the mortgagee is in occupation and is charged with an occupation rent more than sufficient to pay the interest, the account may be taken with rests, if the mortgage debt was not in arrear when he entered, subject to the qualifications above mentioned, from the time he entered, or, if then in arrear, then from the time he was paid in full: Wilson v. Metcalfe, 1 Russ. 530; Binnington v. Harwood, T. & R. 477; Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110; where the account is taken with rests, it would seem that the proper time for making the rests, is at the time of each payment of rent, whenever the payment exceeds the interest then in arrear.

The mere fact that a mortgagee resides with the owner of the equity of redemption on the mortgaged property, does not render him liable to account as a mortgagee in actual occupation: Paul v. Johnson, 12 Gr. 474.

A person entering as a bona fide purchaser from a mortgagee is not liable to account as a mortgagee in possession, in the event of his purchase being held invalid: Parkinson v. Hanbury, L. R. 2 H. L. 1; Carroll v. Robertson, 15 Gr. 173. But a mortgagee who entered claiming to have purchased the equity of redemption, but who was held to be still redeemable, was ordered to account with rests: Aitchison v. Coombs, 6 Gr. 643; this point is not noticed in the report, but see the decree, D. B. 4, fo. 576; but see Parkinson v. Handbury, supra.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 57.

No special direction now necessary.

Prior to Chy. Ord. 220, (Rule 57) the account could not be taken against a mortgagee with rests, without an express direction in the decree to that effect: Webber v. Hunt, 1 Mad. 13. Under Rules 56, 57, no express direction in the judgment is necessary; but the Master of course cannot properly take the account with rests in cases where it would not, under the former practice, have been ordered by the Court.

Statute of Limitations.

STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS.—A mortgagee in occupation is liable to account for more than six years' occupation rent prior to the commencement of the action, the Statute of Limitations is no bar: Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110; S. C. 7 U. C. L. J. 42; 8 U. C. L. J. 93.

Statute of Limitations how far a bar to recovery of interest.

As against the person of the debtor, arrears of interest, or rent, payable under a covenant, accruing, or acknowledged in writing, or by part payment, to be due, at any time within twenty years of the commencement of the action, have been held recoverable, even though such interest, or rent, be charged upon, or payable out of land: R. S. O. c. 60, ss. 1, 9; Allan v. McTavish, 2 Ont. App. R. 278; but see contra, Sutton v. Sutton, 22 Chy. D. 511; 48 L. T. N. S. 95; Fearnside v. Flint, Ib, 154; 22 Chy. D. 579, where it was held that the remedy on a collateral bond was barred, after the lapse of the time for bringing an action in respect of the land mortgaged by the principal security; but as against land, no arrears of rent, or interest, in respect of any sum of money charged upon, or payable out of any land, or rent, or in respect of any legacy charged upon land, can be recovered but within six years after the same shall have respectively become due, or next after any acknowledgment of the same, in writing has been given to the person entitled thereto or his agent signed by the person by whom the same was payable, or his agent: R. S. O. c. 111, s. 17; but a bond given by third parties as sureties for a mortgage debt was held not to be barred under R. S. O. c. 111, s. 17: see Re Powers, Lindsell v. Phillips, 30 Ch. D. 291; 53 L. T. N. S. 647. But where any prior mortgagee, or other incumbrancer, has been in possession of any land, or in the receipt of the profits thereof, within one year next before an action is brought by any person entitled to a subsequent mortgage, or other incumbrance, on the same land, the person entitled to the subsequent mortgage, or incumbrance, may recover in such action the arrears of interest which have become due during the whole time that such prior mortgagee, or incumbrancer, was in possession, or receipt, as aforesaid, although such time may have exceeded the time of six years: see R. S. O. c. 111, s. 18.

In Macdonald v. McDonald, 11 Ont. 187, Proudfoot, J., refused to follow Sutton v. Sutton, supra, on the ground that he was bound by the contrary decision of the Court of Appeal in Allan v. McTavish, supra; and in McDonald v. Elliott, 12 Ont. 98; 22 C. L. J. 229; but see Trimble v. Hill, 5 App. Cas. 342, and 14 Ont. App. R. 256.

When the Statute of Limitations is intended to be relied on as a bar to the whole claim, it should be specially pleaded: Rule 402; but it would seem that it may be set up in the Master's office as a bar to part of the claim, without having been pleaded: Wright v. Morgan, 1 Ont. App. R. 613; Cattanach v. Urquhart, 6 P. R. 28; when no claim for interest is made by the pleadings and there is no covenant, six years' arrears only are recoverable: Wiley v. Ledyard, 10 P. R. 182; 20 C. L. J. 142.

The Statute of Limitations may be pleaded as a bar to the taking of partnership accounts: Noyes v. Crawley, 10 Ch. D. 31; and see Storm v. Cumberland, 18 Gr. 245; Carroll v. Eccles, 17 Gr. 529; this latter decision, however, would seem to be qualified by Wright v. Morgan, supra, but see Rule 402.

Wilful neglect and default; English rule regarding.

Wilful Neglect and Default.—Under the present English practice, the accounts cannot be taken on the footing of wilful default without a special direction in the judgment, or order, of reference; and where wilful default is not pleaded, no order can be made on the footing of wilful default, either at the trial, or any subsequent time; but where wilful default has been alleged and a case made for it in the pleadings, an account may be directed on the footing of wilful default, either at the hearing or trial of the action, or at any subsequent stage: Re Symons, Luke v. Tonkin, 47 L. T. N. S. 684; Barber v. Mackrell, 12 Ch. D. 534; 41 L. T. N. S. 23, 201; where affidavits raising a case of fraud, were treated as pleadings; and see Job v. Job, 6 Ch. D. 562; Mayer v. Murray, 8 Ch. D. 424: Re Bowen, Bennett v. Bowen, 47 L. T. N. S. 114; 20 Ch. D. 538. Rule 57.

In Ontario no statement in the pleadings is necessary, in order to authorize the Master to take accounts in any proper case, on the footing of wilful default: see Rule 56. Mortgagees in possession, were always liable, as of course, to account on the footing of wilful neglect and default, and the effect of Rules 56, 57, is to place trustees, executors, and others, liable for wilful default, upon the same footing in this respect as mortgagees in possession. Section 2 of Rule 57, applies in terms only to accounts of realty, but it has been held that under Sec. 7, the Master may inquire as to wilful neglect and default, in all cases referred to him without any special direction so to do: Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354. Wherever wilful neglect and default is charged against an accounting party, the Master is to determine whether or not he is liable to account on that footing, and if so, the amount that is due; he should not report the facts as "special circumstances": Walmsley v. Bull, 3 Chy. Ch. 344; and in his report he should distinguish between sums actually received, and those charged by reason of wilful default, in order to enable the Court to deal with the question of costs: Moodie v. Leslie, 12 Gr. 537. When a person becomes beneficially entitled to a trust fund, which, prior to his interest vesting in possession, he has actively assented to being applied otherwise than according to the terms of the trust, neither he nor his representatives have any right to sue for the breach of trust: Evans v. Benyon, 37 Ch. D. 329; 58 L. T. N. S. 700. Ontario rule.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES.—Formerly it was necessary to aver in the pleadings, and prove at the hearing, at least one act of wilful default, to entitle the plaintiff to a decree to inquire as to wilful neglect and default: Sleight v. Lawson, 3 K. & J. 292; this is no longer necessary, and the Master may now make the inquiry, though no case of wilful neglect or default be averred at the pleadings, or proved at the trial: Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354, and see Rule 56. Formerly it was thought that the inquiry could not be made under the common administration order obtained in Chambers: Harrison v. McMahan, 7 Gr. 531; except when obtained by the personal representative himself: Ledgerwood v. Ledgerwood, Ib., 584; but the practice is now settled that the inquiry may be made in every case per Boyd, C., Re Allan, Pocock v. Allan, 9 P. R. 277; Sullivan v. Harty, 9 P. R. 500. Executors and trustees, when liable for wilful neglect and default.

An executor improperly delaying to sell lands which, by the will are saleable for the payment of debts, in order to benefit himself, is liable to account for rents and profits: Emes v. Emes, 11 Gr. 325; and executors without authority intermeddling with, and assuming the management of, the realty, are liable to account as if duly empowered to act as trustees: Chisholm v. Barnard, 10 Gr. 479; but in such a case they are not entitled to any compensation for so doing: Dagg v. Dagg, 25 Gr. 542: see now R. S. O. c. 108, s. 4.

But it is the duty of the Court in all cases where executors, or trustees, are concerned, to administer equity in such a manner, that honest and respectable men shall not be deterred from accepting the office, and if there is a doubt, where men have acted honestly and bonâ fide in discharge of their duty, although they have made mistakes, the doubt should be determined in favour of the executor, or trustee: Re Owens, Jones v. Owens, 47 L. T. N. S. 61; In re Speight, Speight v. Gaunt, 22 Ch. D. 727; 48 L. T. N. S. 279; 9 App. Ca. 1; 50 L. T. N. S. 330. In Re Crowter, Crowter v. Hinman, 10 Ont. 159, an executrix was held not to be liable for moneys misappropriated by her co-executor. Executors and trustees entitled to benefit of doubt.

When a testator expressed the fullest confidence in one of the trustees named in his will and directed the other trustees to be guided by his views as to sale, disposal, and reinvestment, of his American securities, and declared that his trustees should not be responsible for any loss occasioned thereby. It was held that the co-trustees were not answerable to legatees for loss occasioned by unauthorized investments of their moneys, made by the trustee: Burritt v. Burritt, 29 Gr. 321. But as regards creditors it seems they might not be discharged: Doyle v. Blake, 2 Sch. & L. 239.

Rule 57. A trustee is liable for not taking proper steps to get the trust fund into his hands: Re Brogden Billing v. Brogden, 38 Ch. D. 546; 59 L. T. N. S. 650; but see Tudball v. Medlicott, 59 L. T. N. S. 370.

While the Court will not require from executors, and trustees, any greater care than a prudent man ordinarily bestows on the management of his own property, yet it will require them to give full explanations of all their dealings, and of the causes why outstanding assets were not collected, or property of the estate has disappeared; and a trustee, or executor, who cannot account for the one or the other, will be chargeable with them: Chisholm v. Barnard, 10 Gr. 481; a trustee is not liable for losses arising through the default of agents to whom he may have properly confided the management of the trust: Speight v. Gaunt, supra; and see Re Brier, Brier v. Evison, 26 Ch. D. 238; but he is for the loss occasioned by employing improper agents: Fry v. Tapson, 28 Ch. D. 268; 51 L. T. N. S. 326; or for negligently allowing the money of the estate to remain in the hands of proper agents: McCarter v. McCarter, 7 Ont. 243; Cann v. Cann, 51 L. T. N. S. 770; Re Mitchell, Mitchell v. Mitchell, 52 L. T. N. S. 178; Dewar v. Brooke, 52 L. T. N. S. 489; but not for moneys misappropriated by a co-executor: Re Crowter, Crowter v. Hinman, 10 Ont. 159; unless he has knowingly allowed them to remain in his co-executor's hands uninvested without making any effort to secure the fund from loss.

Executors have a fair discretion in taking or delaying legal proceedings against a debtor, and a delay in suing, even though causing a loss of the debt, is not necessarily such negligence as subjects them to any liability: Re Owens, Jones v. Owens, 47 L. T. N. S. 61. In the absence of special circumstances, an executor is only liable for his own individual receipts, and not for those of his co-executor, but he is liable for the receipts of any agent jointly employed by himself and his co-executor: Harrison v. Patterson, 11 Gr. 105.

Losses on investments. There is no fixed rule as to the relative proportion which loans made by trustees ought to bear to the value of the property. As a general rule more than two-thirds the value should not be advanced; but a trustee who, in the honest exercise of his discretion, lends a little more than two-thirds, is not liable in the event of the security proving insufficient: Re Godfrey, Godfrey v. Faulkner, 23 Chy. D. 483; 48 L. T. N. S. 853; and see Re Pearson, Oxley v. Scarth, 51 L. T. N. S. 692. When trust funds are lost through improper investments, the trustees are all equally liable, and as a general rule one trustee who has merely passively assented to the breach of trust has no right to be indemnified by his co-trustee who has acted honestly in making an improper investment: Bahin v. Hughes, 31 Ch. D. 390; 54 L. T. N. S. 188; Bacon v. Camphausen, 58 L. T. N. S. 851; but see Re Partington, Partington v. Allen, 57 L. T. N. S. 654.

To accept a valuation made on behalf of the borrower is improper: Walcott v. Lyons, 54 L. T. N. S. 786; as also neglecting so obtain a formal valuation: Re Olive, Olive v. Westman, 34 Ch. D. 70; 55 L. T. N. S. 83; and see Re Partington, Partington v. Allen, supra, where trustees were held liable for neglecting to give proper instructions to the valuators; and see Learoyd v. Whiteley, 12 App. Ca. 727; 58 L. T. N. S. 93.

Mortgagees in possession, liable for wilful neglect and default. MORTGAGEES.—A mortgagee in possession is bound to account, as of course, for what he has, or but for his wilful default might, or ought to have, received: Chaplin v. Young, 33 Beav. 330; Parkinson v. Hanbury, L. R. 2 H. L. 1; Hughes v. Williams, 12 Ves. 493; Kensington v. Bouverie, 7 D. M. & G. 134; Quarrel v. Beckford, 1 Mad. 274. But he is not liable for more than he has actually received, unless it is clearly proved that he knew a greater rent might and could have been obtained, and that he refused or neglected to obtain it: Merriam v. Cronk, 21 Gr. 60; Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110, 114; Metcalfe v. Campion, 1 Moll. 238; Hughes v. Williams, 12 Ves. 493; Brandon v. Brandon, 10 W. R. 287; Cocks v. Gray, 1 Giff. 77.

Rents not received. A mortgagee not in possession, is not chargeable with rent which a tenant of the mortgagor had promised to pay him, but did not: Waddell v. McColl, 14 Gr. 211.

A mortgagee in possession who lets the mortgaged premises subject to a proviso that the lessee shall buy goods from him, is bound to account for the rent that could have been obtained for the premises without such a restriction as to trade, but he is not bound to account for the profits so made: White v. City of London Brewery Company, 39 Ch. D. 559; 60 L. T. N. S. 19. Rule 67. Agreement between mortgagee and mortgagor, subsequent incumbrancers not bound by.

Where a mortgagee takes possession at a rent agreed on between him and the mortgagor, he is only liable to account to the mortgagor on the footing of the agreement, but such agreement is not binding on any subsequent incumbrancer, and as to him the Master may charge the mortgagee with a fair occupation rent, though it exceed the amount agreed to by the mortgagor: Court v. Holland, 29 Gr. 19, and see Gilmour v. Roe, 21 Gr. 284; Gregg v. Arrott, Ll. & Goo. temp. Sugd. 246.

A mortgagee who concurs in a sale by a mortgagor and permits the surplus of the purchase to be paid to the mortgagor to the prejudice of subsequent incumbrancers, is liable therefor to the latter: West London Commercial Bank v. Reliance Permanent Building Society, 29 Ch. D. 954; 53 L. T. N. S. 442.

A puisne mortgagee who has cut timber on mortgaged property is liable to account to the prior mortgagee for the proceeds, where the mortgaged land proves an insufficient security: McLeod v. Avey, 16 Ont. 365.

VENDOR AND PURCHASER.—After the time fixed for completion of the contract, the vendor is liable for rents and profits, but usually only for those actually received: Howell v. Howell, 2 My. & Cr. 486, unless he allow the rent to fall in arrear, when he will be held accountable for the arrears: Acland v. Gaisford, 2 Mad. 28; Wilson v. Clapham, 1 J. & W. 36; formerly a special case must have been made at the hearing to entitle a purchaser to have the account taken on the footing of wilful default: Sherwin v. Shakespear, 5 D. M. & G. 517, 532; Phillips v. Sylvester, L. R. 8 Chy. 173. But this is no longer necessary in Ontario: see ante p. 165. Where no time was named in the contract for delivery of possession, the purchaser was held entitled to the rents from the date of the contract: Brady v. Keenan, 6 P. R. 262; and see Dudley v. Berczy, 2 Ch. Ch. 364, as to liability of vendor in possession. Vendor after time fixed for completing is liable to purchaser for rents and profits.

No more than six years' arrears of interest on purchase money can be recovered from a purchaser as a charge on the land, whether he has been in possession or not: Airey v. Mitchell, 21 Gr. 512; Gunn v. Trust & L. Co., before Boyd, C., 19th Jan., 1882; but in some cases where more than six years' arrears was recoverable against the estate of a deceased person, the excess beyond six years was allowed to avoid circuity of action: Carroll v. Robertson, 15 Gr. 173; Taylor v. Hargrave, 19 Gr. 271; Howeren v. Bradburn, 22 Gr. 96; Weaver v. Vandusen, 27 Gr. 481. Interest on purchase money.

PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.—A bailiff at common law was liable to account for what he might have made of the lands, but for his wilful default: Seton 779; Wheeler v. Horne, Willes 208; Co. Lit. 172 a; and an agent acting under a power of attorney is liable so to account, though the power be defective: Bradburne v. Shanly, 7 Gr. 569. But a solicitor who paid off a mortgage for a client, and entered into the receipt of rents, was not held to be liable on the footing of wilful default, his possession being that of his client: Ward v. Carttar, L. R. 1 Eq. 29. Bailiff liable for neglect and default.

Persons not Liable to Account for Wilful Default:—

PARTNERS in possession of partnership property are not liable to account on the footing of wilful default: Davidson v. Thirkell, 3 Gr. 330, at p. 348: Rowe v. Wood, 2 J. & W. 556: but one partner may have a demand against another for compensation for negligence or fraud: Bury v. Allen, 1 Coll, 589: Doupe v. Stewart, 13 Gr. 637. Persons not liable to account for wilful neglect and default.

TENANTS IN COMMON who have received more than their share, though liable to account for the excess: Lorimer v. Lorimer, 5 Mad. 363: Turner v. Morgan, 8 Ves. 145; are not answerable for wilful default: Wheeler v. Horne, Willes, 208. Tenants in common.

Rule 57.

Tenants for life. TENANT FOR LIFE.—A tenant for life may cut down timber in the proper course of husbandry, in order to bring the proper proportion of land into cultivation and perhaps destroy such timber, but he cannot cut down timber even for that purpose and sell it for his own benefit: Drake v. Wigle, 22 C. P. 341; Saunders v. Breakie, 5 Ont. 603.

Purchasers for value. PURCHASER FOR VALUE evicted by person having a better title, and of which he is fixed with constructive notice, is not liable to account on the footing of wilful default: Howell v. Howell, 2 My. &. Cr. 478.

Persons in possession by fraud. PERSONS WHO HAVE OBTAINED POSSESSION BY FRAUD, are not liable to account on the footing of wilful default: Murray v. Palmer, 2 Sch. & L. 474; Trevelyan v. Charter, 9 Beav. 140; 4 L. J. N. S. 209; 11 Cl. & F. 74.

Occupation rent, when chargeable. Occupation Rent.—A person liable to account for rents and profits may generally, if he have been himself in actual occupation of the property in question be charged with a fair rent for the time he has so occupied,—which account of rent is liable to be taken with rests, wherever rests would be charged if rents and profits had been received.

As against Vendors. VENDORS.—A vendor who continues in occupation after the time fixed for completion may be charged with an occupation rent: Leggott v. Metropolitan R. W. Co., L. R. 5 Chy. 716; Dyer v. Hargrave, 10 Ves. 505; but not in cases where the purchaser could, and ought to have taken possession: Dakin v. Cope, 2 Russ. 170; nor where—the purchaser making default in payment—the vendor continues to carry on his business: Leggott v. Metropolitan R. W. Co., supra.

Purchasers. PURCHASERS.—Where a conveyance is set aside, an occupation rent may be charged against a purchaser who has been in occupation: Bloomer v. Spittle, L. R. 13 Eq. 427, Neesom v. Clarkson, 2 Ha. 163, but see Parkinson v. Hanbury, L. R. 2 H. L. 1.

Mortgagee, liability of, for occupation rent. MORTGAGEE.—A mortgagee may be charged with an occupation rent, if it be proved that he has actually occupied the mortgaged premises: Trulock v. Robey, 15 Sim. 265. Any agreement as to the amount of the rent made between mortgagor and mortgagee, though binding between them, is not binding on others interested in the equity of redemption who are not parties to it: Court v. Holland, 29 Gr. 19; Gregg v. Arrott, Ll. & G. temp. Sugd. 246. And where rent is paid in advance to a prior mortgagee, and applied, with the consent of the mortgagor, in discharge of other liabilities than the mortgage debt, a subsequent assignee of the equity of redemption is entitled to have all rents accruing subsequent to the assignment applied in reduction of the prior mortgage, notwithstanding the payment and application in advance: Gilmour v. Roe, 21 Gr. 284. A mortgagee who continues in occupation after payment in full, is chargeable with interest on the occupation rent, with rests: Wilson v. Metcalf, 1 Russ. 537; Quarrel v. Beckford, 1 Mad. 269; Lloyd v. Jones, 12 Sim. 491; Ashworth v. Lord, 36 Ch. D. 545; 58 L. T. N. S. 18; and, if after exercising a power of sale, he retains a balance in his hands, he is bound to make it productive, and is chargeable with interest thereon if he do not: Charles v. Jones, 35 Ch. D 544; 56 L. T. N. S. 848.

May set off arrears of interest. A mortgagee in occupation is entitled to set off, against the occupation rent, with which he is charged, the arrears of interest, so far as they were recoverable against the land at the time the rent accrued; i. e., for six years prior to its accruing: Walton v. Bernard, 2 Gr. 358; Harrison v. Jones, 10 Gr. 99. A prior mortgagee is not bound to account to a subsequent mortgagee on the footing of a mortgagee in possession, merely because there is an attornment clause in the prior mortgage, if he have not actually taken possession: Western District Bank, Limited, v. Turner, 47 L. T. N. S. 433; Stanley v. Grundy, 22 Ch. D. 478; 48 L. T. N. S. 106.

Tenants in common, how far liable for occupation rent. TENANTS IN COMMON.—A tenant in common who has been in exclusive occupation, cannot be charged with an occupation rent, if he have not ousted his co-tenant: Rice v. George, 20 Gr. 221: Re Kirkpatrick, Stevenson v. Kirkpatrick, 10 P. R. 4; except where his co-tenant is an infant: Courcier v. Courcier, 26 Gr. 307. But he cannot recover for substantial repairs and improvements; Rice v. George supra; nor even for incumbrances paid off by him, unless he also submit to account for an occupation rent: Teasdale v. Sanderson, 33 Beav. 534; Rivet v. Desourdi, 12 C. L. J. 203. But a tenant in common who has been in exclusive occupation, and has ousted his co-tenant, is liable to account for an occupation rent: Pascoe v. Swan, 27 Beav. 508. Rule 57.

HEIRS.—Prior to the Devolution of Estates Act, 1886, (R. S. O. c. 108), an heir-at-heir-at-law was liable to account to a dowress for an occupation rent: Bamford v. Bamford, 5 Ha. 203. Heir-at-law.

DEVISEE.—Under the law as it stood previous to the Devolution of Estates Act, 1886, (R. S. O. c. 108, ss. 3-10), devisees in possession of land devised, charged with a legacy, were not bound to account for back rents, when the land proved insufficient to satisfy the legacy: Garfitt v. Allen, 37 Ch. D. 48.

TRUSTEES, express, or constructive, in occupation, of the trust property, are liable to account to their cestui que trust for an occupation rent: Mill v. Hill, 3 H. L. C. 828; Lamont v. Lamont, 7 Gr. 258. Trustees.

MISTAKE OF TITLE.—No occupation rent should be charged against a person who has been in occupation under a mistake of title, in respect of the increased value thereof arising from improvements made by him and which are not allowed to him: McGregor v. McGregor, 5 Ont. 617; Munsie v. Lindsay, 10 P. R. 173. Where occupation rent is charged in respect of property which has been improved by the occupant, according to the value as increased by the improvements, interest should be allowed on the outlay for the improvements: Munsie v. Lindsay, 11 Ont. 520.

Improvements:

PERSONS IN POSSESSION OF LANDS UNDER VOID DEEDS, making lasting improvements, by which the value of the estate has been enhanced, may, within certain limits, be allowed for such improvements: Jortin v. South Eastern Railway Co., 2 Sm. & G. at p. 73; Quarrel v. Beckford, 14 Ves. at p. 179; and whether in as actual or constructive trustees: Williamson v. Seeber, 3 Y. & C. Ex. 717; Cawdor v. Lewis, 1 Y. & C. Ex. 427; Bridge v. Brown, 2 Y. & C. C. C. 191; Bevis v. Boulton, 7 Gr. 39; or as solicitors: Robinson v. Ridley, 6 Mad. 2; or agents: Trevelyan v. White, 1 Beav. 588; or as mortgagees believing themselves absolutely entitled: Neesom v. Clarkson, 2 Ha. 176; S. C. 4 Ha. 97; or as bona fide purchaser under the void deed: Ashton v. Innis, 26 Gr. 42; Churcher v. Bates, 42 U. C. Q. B. 466; Pegley v. Woods, 14 Gr. 47; Gummerson v. Banting, 18 Gr. 516; and the claim for such improvements may be actively enforced, and allowed, whether the party claiming them be plaintiff or defendant: Ib; but see Re Brazill, Barry v. Brazill, 11 Gr. at p. 256; and even though the party claiming adversely be an infant: Bevis v. Boulton, supra; and see Biehn v. Biehn, 18 Gr. 497; Wood v. Wood, 16 Gr. 471. Persons in possession under void deeds, how far entitled to.

But when possession had been taken in pursuance of an immoral agreement which was void, it was held that there could be no lien for improvements: Moon v. Clarke, 30 C. P. 417.

TENANTS IN COMMON are entitled to contribution from their co-tenants for the cost of repairs made to prevent the property going to ruin: Co. Lit. 200 b. Fitzherbert N. B. 127; but not for ordinary repairs: Leigh v. Dickeson, 12 Q. B. D. 194; 50 L. T. N. S. 124. Tenants in common.

TENANTS FOR LIFE are not entitled to charge for repairs as against the inheritance, however substantial or lasting: Lewin, 7th ed. 503: Re Smith, 4 Ont. 518; sed vide, Conway v. Fenton, 40 Ch. D. 512. Tenants for life.

TENANTS AT WILL.—Improvements made by a tenant at will cannot be allowed: Foster v. Emmerson, 5 Gr. 135; but improvements made on wild land by a son, to whom his father had promised to give it by way of advancement, which he failed to do, were allowed as against the co-heirs of the father: Biehn v. Biehn, supra; Hovey v. Ferguson, see 18 Gr. 498; but see Foster v. Emmerson, supra. Tenants at will, improvements by.

WRONGDOERS.—A mere wrongdoer, entering without colour of right, is not usually allowed for improvements made by him: Townsley v. Neil, 10 Gr. 72; Wrongdoers not Rule 57. allowed for improvements.

Scott v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 376; nor persons entering with actual notice of a paramount title: Wyoming v. Bell, 24 Gr. 564; Smith v. Gibson, 25 C. P. 248; Kilborn v. Workman, 9 Gr. 255; Grasset v. Carter, before Boyd, C., 2nd Sept., 1884.

Exceptions to rule.

But it would seem mere legal fraud will not deprive a party of the right to improvements: McLaren v. Fraser, 27 Gr. at p. 569; and see Nevills v. Nevills, 6 Gr. 121, 139; and the owner standing by and not objecting, may preclude himself from getting back his estate, except on the terms of paying for improvments: Davis v. Snyder, 1 Gr. 134.

Mistake of title, improvements made under, how far recoverable.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE UNDER MISTAKE OF TITLE.—Improvements made under a bonâ fide mistake of title may now be allowed under R. S. O., c. 100, s. 30: Fawcett v. Burwell, 27 Gr. 445; McGregor v. McGregor, Ib. 470; McCarthy v. Arbuckle, 29 C. P. 529; Carrick v. Smith, 34 U. C. Q. B. 389; Skae v. Chapman, 21 Gr. 549; Munsie v. Lindsay, 10 P. R. 173; 19 C. L. J. 186; Plumb v. Steinhoff, 2 Ont. 614. But improvements made with actual knowledge of the paramount title will not be allowed under that Act: Wyoming v Bell, 24 Gr. 564; Smith v. Gibson, 25 C. P. 248; and see Kilborn v. Workman, 9 Gr. 225. Improvements made after action commenced cannot be allowed: O'Grady v. McCaffery, 2 Ont. 309; Bright v. Campbell, 53 L. T. N. S. 428.

By mortgagee

Improvements made under mistake of title by a person in as mortgagee, but believing himself absolute owner, are allowed more liberally than improvements made by a mortgagee knowing he is a mortgagee: Carroll v. Robertson, 15 Gr. 173.

Improvements made by a purchaser from a mortgagor under the erroneous belief that the mortgage had been discharged, cannot be claimed as against the mortgagee: Beaty v. Shaw, 14 Ont. App. 600.

A husband is not entitled to be paid by his wife, for improvements made by him on her lands while in his occupation: Till v. Till, 15 Ont. 133.

Trustees are entitled to be allowed for improvements on trust estate.

TRUSTEES.—Substantial and lasting improvements, and repairs, made by a trustee on the trust property, are usually allowed to him: Bevis v. Boulton, 7 Gr. 39; Mill v. Hill, 3 H. L. C. 828; Smith Bonnisteel, 13 Gr. at p. 35; Ex parte Hughes, 6 Ves. 624; Ex parte James, 8 Ves. 352; Campbell v. Walker, 5 Ves. 682; Davey v. Durant, 1 D. G. & J. 535; King v. Anderson, 8 Ir. R. Eq. 625, 636. Repairs are allowed even in the case of actual fraud: Baugh v. Price, 1 G. Wils, 320; and in one case improvements also: Oliver v. Court Price 172; but see contra: Kenney v. Browne, 3 Ridg. 518; Stratton v. Sims, 1 Ir. R. Eq. 361.

Receivers.

RECEIVERS have been allowed for improvements made without the previous sanction of the Court: Tempest v. Ord, 2 Mer. 55.

Committee

COMMITTEE OF LUNATIC.—Also allowed for improvements made without previous sanction: Re Shaw, 15 Gr. 618; Re Churchill, 3 Jur. 719.

Personal representative.

PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE.—An unauthorized expenditure by an executrix in improving the realty, was allowed, so far as the value of the estate had been enhanced, and those interested had benefited by it: Morley v. Matthews, 14 Gr. 551. But where an administratrix had occupied and improved the realty, in a suit by her for administration, such improvements were disallowed as against infant heirs; but she was not charged with any increase of rental in consequence of such improvements: Re Brazill, Barry v. Brazill, 11 Gr. 253.

Purchaser.

PURCHASER.—Failing to complete purchase is not entitled to be allowed for improvements: Re Yaggie, 1 Chy. Ch. 52.

Mortgagee.

MORTGAGEE.—The ordinary rule is, that a mortgagee will not be allowed for improvements further than is proper to keep the premises in necessary repair. But if buildings are incomplete or ruinous, he may complete or pull them down, and rebuild, and the rebuilding or repairing, may be done in an improved manner, and more substantially than before, so that the work be done providently, and that no new or expensive buildings be erected for purposes different from those for which the former buildings were used; for the property when restored ought to be of the same nature as when the mortgagee received it, Fisher Mortg. 1532. And while the mortgagee in possession is not allowed to charge for lasting improvements which are not requisite for the purpose of keeping the property in necessary repair, he is not, on the other hand, chargeable with the increased rents and profits which are directly traceable to such improvements made by him: see Jones on Mortgages, s. 1127. Rule 57.

Mortgagees in possession are entitled to be allowed for necessary repairs, as just allowances. But in England no allowance for substantial repairs or, permanent improvements, can be made without an express direction: Seton 1080. In Ontario, under Rules 56, 57, no special direction in the judgment is necessary to enable the Master, in a proper case, to allow substantial improvements. Mortgagees entitled to be allowed for necessary repairs.

A mortgagee in possession cannot charge the mortgaged property with improvements that are not necessary for its preservation: Harrison v. Jones, 10 Gr. 99; unless with the consent of the parties entitled to the equity of redemption: Kirby v. Kirby, 5 Gr. 587. And improvements made even with the mortgagor's sanction must not be such as to improve him out of his property: Sandon v. Hooper, 6 Beav. 246; Fisher Mortg. 948. But a mortgagee is not bound to give the mortgagor notice before making any reasonable permanent improvement: Shepherd v. Jones, 47 L. T. N. S. 604; 21 Ch. D. 469. But only such as are necessary for preservation of property.

When a mortgagee is charged with rents, or improved rents, arising from his improvements, he should either be allowed for such improvements: Constable v. Guest, 6 Gr. 510, or he should not be charged with the rent, or improved rent, arising therefrom: McGregor v. McGregor, 5 Ont. 617; 19 C. L. J. 78; Munsie v Lindsay, 10 P. R. 173; Bright v. Campbell, 53 L. T. N. S. 428. When rents arising from improvements charged, improvements also allowed.

The Master is not necessarily bound to allow the actual cost of improvements, but should limit the allowance to the benefit which the property has derived therefrom: Paul v. Johnson, 12 Gr. at p. 479.

A person who had bonâ fide purchased under a power of sale in a mortgage, notwithstanding the sale being held invalid, was allowed improvements made by him as far as they enhanced the value of the property, and was not restricted to such improvements as a mortgagee in possession would have been entitled to make, knowing himself to be a mortgagee: Carroll v. Robertson, 15 Gr. 173; and see McLaren v. Fraser, 17 Gr. 567: Davey v. Durant, 1 D. G. & J. 534. But when a purchaser from a mortgagee, who had obtained a decree of foreclosure, which was defective owing to there being outstanding claims, which were not foreclosed, entered, and made improvements, having notice of the outstanding title, such improvements were disallowed as against the unforeclosed parties; Russell v. Romanes, 3 Ont. App. 635; and see Romanes v. Herns, 22 Gr. 469. Improvements by purchaser when sale invalid, allowed. Secus if he have knowledge of defect.

But where the mortgagor released his equity of redemption, and two months afterwards the mortgagee agreed to reconvey, upon being repaid principal and interest, and all costs of improvements made by him. On a bill to redeem, the mortgagee was held entitled to recover for all permanent improvements, although the estate might not have been increased in value to an amount equal to the sum expended: Brotherton v. Hetherington, 23 Gr. 187. Mortgagee submitting to redemption entitled to all improvements.

WHAT IMPROVEMENTS ALLOWED.—The clearing of land for farming purposes is a permanent improvement, under The Dower Act, R. S. O. c. 56, s. 12, s-s. 2; Robinet v Pickering, 44 U. C. Q. B. 337. What improvements allowed.

After suit commenced, the only improvements which can ordinarily be allowed, are such as are made to save the premises from deterioration: Hawn v. Cushion, 20 Gr. 518; and see O'Grady v. McCaffrey, 2 Ont. 309.

Trustees with power to invest in the purchase of real estate, may be allowed for erecting a new building where an increased income can be obtained thereby: Re Henderson, 23 Gr. 45.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 57. A rector cannot make a lease with a covenant, to pay for improvements, which will be binding on his successor: Kirkpatrick v Lyster, 13 Gr. 323; 16 Gr. 17; unless there be some statutory provision empowering him so to do.

Covenant to pay for improvements in rectorial lease invalid.

Costs, and other Expenses:—

Costs and expenses recoverable by mortgagees.

MORTGAGEES.—A mortgagee is entitled to charge against the estate, the costs of defending the title to the mortgaged estate, for the benefit of all parties interested in the equity of redemption; and also the costs of proceedings taken to perfect his security, e. g., the costs of an equitable mortgagee of investigating the title for the purpose of preparing a legal mortgage, and the costs of preparing such legal mortgage are recoverable: National Provl. Bank v. Games, 53 L. T. N. S. 955; 54 L. T. N. S. 696; 31 Ch. D. 582; also, costs of a suit to redeem, brought by a subsequent incumbrancer, and dismissed: McKinnon v. Anderson, 17 Gr. 636; 18 Gr. 684; but not the costs of defending his own title to the mortgage, unless those interested in the equity of redemption had concurred in, or assisted, the litigation: Parker v. Watkins, John 133; nor yet the costs of an unsuccessful litigation undertaken by him without the concurrence of the mortgagor: Wells v. The Trust and Loan Co., 9 Ont. 170.

In Re Griffith, 50 L. T. N. S. 434, it was said by Cotton, L.J., that in a foreclosure action "the mortgagor must pay all the costs of the mortgagee, including those payable by the latter to his solicitor."

Costs of sales.

The mortgagee may also be allowed the expenses of sales, and of receiving the purchase money: Fisher Mortg. 952; and also the costs of an abortive sale, where it has fallen through without the default of the mortgagee: Farrer v. Lacy, 31 Ch. D. 42; 50 L. T. N. S. 121. But he is not entitled to a commission on a sale in addition to the costs, even though he has stipulated for it: Eyre v. Hughes, 2 Ch. D. 148; Broad v. Selfe, 9 Jur. N. S. 885.

Costs of taking possession, etc.

A mortgagee is also entitled to the expenses of taking and holding possession of a ship, advertising it for sale, and insurances: Wilkes v. Saunion, 7 Ch. D. 188.

Cannot charge for personal services, but may for agent's services, collecting rents.

He is not entitled to charge for personal trouble in collecting rents: Bomthon v. Hockmore, 1 Vern. 316; Langstaffe v. Fenwick, 10 Ves. 405; Godfrey v. Watson, 3 Atk. 518; Leith v. Irvine, 1 M. & K. 277; not even if he have stipulated for it with the mortgagor: French v. Baron, 2 Atk. 120; Barrett v. Hartley, L. R. 2 Eq. 789; Chambers v. Goldwin, 9 Ves. 271. But the mortgagee is entitled to an allowance for an agent, or bailiff, collecting rents when the property is of such a character that a prudent owner whose time was of value would appoint an agent: Union Bank v. Ingram, 16 Chy. D. 53.

It has been held that a solicitor mortgagee, who is a trustee, is not entitled to profit costs of suits brought by him in respect of the mortgaged property: Sclator v. Colton, 29 L. T. O. S. 309; 3 Jur. N. S. 630; but see contra Re Donaldson, 27 Chy. D. 544; 51 L. T. N. S. 622.

Insurance, when recoverable.

INSURANCE.—Sums paid for insurance by a mortgagee cannot, in the absence of a special contract, be charged against the mortgaged estate: Bellamy v. Brickenden, 2 J. & H. 137; Brook v. Stone, 13 W. R. 401; Dobson v. Land, 8 Ha. 216; Russell v. Robertson, 1 Chy. Ch. 72; 6 U. C. L. J. 143; but see Scholefield v. Lockwood, 11 W. R. 555. But in the case of a trustee, such payments may be allowed, without any express stipulation to that effect in the instrument creating the trust: Heron v. Moffatt, 22 Gr. 370.

Where a subsequent account is directed to be taken, sums properly paid for insurance since the last account, may be allowed under the head of just allowances, without any express direction: Belaune v Calcutt, 3 Gr. 648.

Prior incumbrances.

PRIOR INCUMBRANCES.—A mortgagee paying off prior incumbrances, is entitled to recover the amount paid, and interest on the principal; at the rate in his own mortgage, and on the interest and costs, at six per cent.: McMaster v. Hector, 8 C. L. J. 284; and see Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85. But a tenant in common in sole possession paying off incumbrances, is not entitled to be allowed therefor, unless he submit to account for an occupation rent: Rivet v. Desourdi, 12 C. L. J. 203.

Rule 57. Trustees entitled as against c. q. t. to expenses of bailiffs, etc.

TRUSTEES are entitled to recover as against the beneficiaries the expense of bailiffs, surveyors, and accountants, when necessarily employed, and also the necessary legal expenses of carrying the trust into effect: Wilkinson v. Wilkinson, 2 S. & S. 237; McNamara v. Jones, 2 Dick. 587; Henderson v. McIver, 3 Mad. 275.

Trustees are also entitled to be allowed the costs paid to the representatives of a deceased trustee properly incurred by the latter in reference to the trust; also the costs incurred by them on being appointed to the trust of examining into the state of the trust property, the validity of the power under which they were appointed, and the costs paid of the donee of the power in making the appointment: Harvey v. Oliver, 57 L. T. N. S. 239.

So also a trustee is entitled to have his costs out of the trust estate even though by reason of subsequent events the trust becomes invalid: In Re Holden, 20 Q. B. D. 43.

But solicitor trustee not entitled to charge for professional services, unless expressly authorized by trust so to do.

But a trustee acting as solicitor for himself, or for himself and others as trustees, in any action in which he, or they, are plaintiffs, is in general, only entitled to costs and expenses out of pocket, properly incurred: Moore v. Frowd, 3 My. & Cr. 45, 50; Robinson v. Pett, 2 W. & T. Lead. Ca. Eq. 214; Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 33 Chy. D. 160; 34 Ch. D. 675; 55 L. T. N. S. 167; unless there be a special power to charge for professional services: Re Sherwood, 3 Beav. 338; Moore v. Frowd, supra; Re Wyche, 11 Beav. 209; but even then, no charge can be allowed for doing professionally, any thing that he would have been bound to do himself, if not a solicitor: Harbin v Darby, 28 Beav. 325; Re Chapple, Newton v. Chapman, 27 Ch. D. 584; 51 L. T. N. S. 748; and what he cannot charge for professionally himself, he cannot recover for, if done by a partner though not a trustee: Christophers v. White, 10 Beav. 523; Collins v. Carey, 2 Beav. 128; unless the business was done by the partner for his own benefit, and the trustee does not share therein: Clack v. Carlow, 7 Jur. N. S. 441; 9 W. R. 568; and where a solicitor trustee, who is one of several trustees, and acts for them as defendants, he may recover profit costs against the trust estate: Cradock v. Piper, 1 Mc. & G. 664; 17 Sim. 41; In Re Barber, Burgess v. Vinicome, 34 Ch. D. 77; 55 L. T. N. S. 882; provided the costs have not been increased by his so acting: Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 33 Ch. D. 160; 34 Ch. D. 675; 55 L. T. N. S. 167; but see Lewin 249; Manson v. Baillie, 2 Macq. 80. The profit costs of professional services which cannot be recovered against the c. q. t. or out of the trust estate may be recoverable by the trustee against a third party: Colonial Trusts Co. v. Cameron, 24 Gr. 548; Meighen v. Buell, 25 Gr. 604; Re Donaldson, 27 Ch. D. 544; 51 L. T. N. S. 622; but see Re Corsellis, Lawton v. Elwes, 33 Ch. D. 160; 34 Ch. D. 675; 55 L. T. N. S. 167; and 82 Law Times Jour., 280; 23 C. L. J. 146.

Or where he is defendant.

Profit costs recoverable against third parties.

Retaining fee and costs paid by trustees, how far recoverable.

A retaining fee paid by trustees to their solicitor in an administration suit, may be allowed under certain circumstances: see Chisholm v. Barnard, 10 Gr. 479; and see Hayes v. Hayes, 29 Gr. 90; but they are not entitled to any allowance for gratuitous services of an agent: Chisholm v. Barnard, 10 Gr. 479.

Costs paid by an executor, administrator, or trustee, to his solicitor, in respect of business of the trust estate, may be allowed, but the Master should examine the bill, and without strictly taxing it, should moderate it, by deducting such charges, if any, as are improper: McCargar v. McKinnon, 17 Gr. 525; Hayes v. Hayes, 26 Gr. 90; and when the costs have been paid out of the trust estate, and bonâ fide received by the solicitor without notice of any breach of trust on his client's part, he cannot be made to refund the costs so received to the estate, even though it should turn out that the trustee has disentitled himself to get the costs out of the estate: Re Blundell, Blundell v. Blundell, 58 L. T. N. S. 933.

A personal representative is not liable to pay costs incurred by a beneficiary in reference to the estate and for its protection, before the grant of probate, or letters of administration: Re Watson, 19 Q. B. D. 234; 57 L. T. N. S. 215.

Trustees expenses are a lien

Trustees' expenses are a lien upon the trust estate, and have priority to the costs of suit: Morison v. Morison, 7 D. M. & G. 214; 2 S. & G. 564; Gaunt v. Taylor, 2 Ha. 413; Hughes v. Rees, 10 P. R. 301; unless the payments are not strictly authorized and the estate is insufficient : Robinson v. Killey, 30 Beav. 520 ; or they have misconducted themselves : Rose v. Sharrod, 11 W. R. 350.

Just allowances.

Just Allowances.—Several of the matters which may be allowed under the head of "just allowances" have already been discussed in the preceding notes to this Rule.

Compensation to executors and trustees.

ALLOWANCES TO EXECUTORS, AND TRUSTEES.—Compensation for care, pains, and trouble, may be allowed by the Master to trustees under any deed, settlement, or will ; or to any other trustee, however the trust is created ; and to executors, and administrators ; and to any guardian appointed by any Court ; or to any testamentary guardian : R. S. O. c. 110, ss. 38-40 : Re Commissioners of Cobourg, 22 Gr. 377 ; Re Toronto Harbor Commissioners, 28 Gr. 195. The Act is retrospective : Thompson v. Freeman, 15 Gr. 384 ; McMillan v. McMillan, 21 Gr. 369. The Surrogate Judge has also power to allow compensation to trustees under wills, and to executors, and administrators : R. S. O. c. 110, s. 41. But when an action is pending in the High Court in regard to the administration of an estate, it is improper for the Surrogate Judge to interfere by ordering the allowance of compensation to the executors, or trustees : McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. 279 ; Cameron v. Bethune, 15 Gr. 486. And the Master is bound to exercise his own discretion as to the compensation to be allowed, regardless of any order of a Surrogate Judge made under such circumstances : Biggar v. Dickson, 15 Gr. 233.

No fixed rule as to amount of compensation.

No fixed rule can be laid down as to the amount of compensation proper to be allowed, as it must necessarily depend on the circumstances of each case : see Robinson v. Pett, 2 W. & T. L. C. Eq. 214. Usually the amount is fixed by a percentage on the amount of money passing through the hands of the trustee, or executor. In some cases five per cent. has been allowed : Bald v. Thompson, 17 Gr. 154 ; McLennan v. Heward, 9 Gr. 178 ; Chisholm v. Barnard, 10 Gr. 479 ; Re Batt, Wright v. White, 9 P. R. 447 ; Re Fleming, 11 P. R. 272, 426 ; Archer v. Severn, 13 Ont. 316. But this may in some cases be more, and in some, less, than an adequate compensation. In Torrance v. Chewett, 12 Gr. 407, four per cent. was allowed ; and in McMillan v. McMillan, 21 Gr. 381, two and a-half per cent. was allowed. The Master may, instead of a percentage, allow a lump sum, but only upon proper evidence as to the services rendered : Stinson v. Stinson, 8 P. R. 560 ; Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 306.

Usually a precentage on receipts, and payments.

But a lump sum may be allowed

A sliding scale suggested.

In fixing compensation, it has been suggested that it would be proper to adopt a sliding scale, similar in principle to that on which the poundage of Sheriffs is fixed ; see observations of Spragge, V.C. : Thompson v. Freeman, 15 Gr. at p. 387. In that case, the estate amounted to nearly $300,000, and five per cent. on the amounts disbursed, which included investments, and reinvestments, made in the course of fifteen years, was considered excessive ; and on appeal, the allowance was reduced to five per cent. on investments of sums of $600, and three per cent. on investments over that amount.

Allowance of percentage on investments, and reinvestments, disapproved.

But in a later case it was considered vicious in principle, to allow any commission on investments, or reinvestments, on the ground that it offered an inducement to trustees to be constantly, and unnecessarily, calling in and changing, the investments : Re Berkeley's Trusts, 8 P. R. 193. No commission should be allowed for merely receiving the trust estate until it has also been duly accounted for : Ib.

Where trust property consisting of land was exchanged, with the consent of the cestui que trust, for stock in a land company, from which nothing had been realized by way of income, and both land and stock were said to be valueless, a percentage on the nominal value of the stock was held an improper way of fixing the trustees' compensation ; and a lump sum to cover their care and trouble was allowed instead : Re Prittie, 13 P. R. 19.

Legacies given to executors as compensation.

A legacy given to a person appointed executor is prima facie intended as a compensation, and if the legatee renounce, he is not entitled to the legacy : Williams on Executors (8th Ed.), 1287 ; Re Appleton, Barber v. Tebbitt, 52 L. T. N. S. 906 ; and the fact that legacies are left to other executors of unequal amount is not sufficient to destroy the presumption : Ib.

Rule 57.

When a legacy is given to executors or trustees as a compensation for their trouble, they are not precluded from claiming a further sum under the statute, if the legacy is inadequate: Denison v. Denison, 17 Gr. 306; Hiddingh v. De Villiers, 12 App. Cas. 107, 624; but see R. S. O. c. 110, s. 42: Williams v. Roy, 9 Ont. 534; 21 C. L. J. 236; Kennedy v. Pingle, 27 Gr. 305. Such a legacy precludes any presumption that the executor is entitled beneficially to the undisposed of residue: Loveless v. Clarke, 24 Gr. 14. Such a legacy in the event of a deficiency of assets, does not abate with other legacies, even though it exceed what the executor would be entitled to under the statute: Anderson v. Dougall, 15 Gr. 405; and such legacies bear interest at the expiration of a year from the testator's death: Anderson v. Dougall, per Strong, V.C., on appeal from report, 8th & 14th Dec. 1870. Where the executor is also a residuary legatee, he is entitled to commission on the receipt, but not on the payment of the share of the residue to which he is beneficially entitled: Boys' Home v. Lewis, 19 C. L. J. 139; Re Fleming, 11 P. R. 272, 426.

Do not abate.

Bear interest.

Where on appeal from the Master the Court increased the allowance for compensation, the Court of Appeal refused to interfere: McDonald v. Davidson, 6 Ont. App. 320.

When the amount of a trustee's compensation is fixed by the trust deed, the Master cannot reduce the amount: Heron v. Moffatt, 7 P. R. 438.

When trust fixes compensation Master cannot allow less.

Executors are entitled to some compensation for moneys received by them pendente lite but not so much as in other cases: Re Honsberger, 10 Ont. 521; Thompson v. Fairbairn, 11 P. R. 333.

An allowance to trustees, or executors, for compensation is prior to the claims of creditors: Harrison v. Patterson, 11 Gr. 105, at p. 113; or of cestui que trust: The Life Association of Scotland v. Walker, 24 Gr. 293; and a trustee may retain it from time to time, out of moneys received, and is not bound to wait until the expiration of his trust: Heron v. Moffatt, supra.

Executors compensation is prior to claims of creditors.

Misconduct in the management of the estate may, but does not necessarily, disentitle an executor, or trustee, to compensation for what he has properly done; see Kennedy v. Pingle, 27 Gr. 305; Sievewright v. Leys, 1 Ont. 375; Gould v. Burrit, 11 Gr. 523; City Bank v. Maulson, 3 Chy. Ch., 334. But commission cannot be allowed on moneys which were not actually received, but charged against the executor, or trustee, on the ground of wilful default: Bald v. Thompson, 17 Gr. 154; and an allowance cannot be made to an executor, for unauthorized receipts of rents, and profits, of the real estate: Dagg v. Dagg, 25 Gr. 542.

Misconduct, how far it disentitles executor to compensation.

When one executor incurs greater responsibility than another a larger proportion of the compensation will be allotted to him: Re Fleming, 11 P. R. 272.

A trustee who properly employs an agent to collect rents is entitled to an allowance for his own care and responsibility in addition to the sum paid to the agent (in this case the trustee was allowed two and one half per cent.): Re Prittie, 13 P. R. 19.

Where a testator's estate was worth $200,000 an expenditure of $3,000 for a burial plot and monument was allowed: Archer v. Severn, 13 Ont. 316.

Trustees who have invested the trust fund, at the instance of one of their number, in a defective security, are nevertheless entitled to credit for the value of such security: Larkin v. Armstrong, 9 Gr. 390.

Trustees entitled to credit pro tanto for defective securities; And for sums paid for maintenance.

An allowance may be made to executors, for sums paid for the maintenance and education of infant cestuis que trustent out of the capital of the fund to which they are entitled, where the income thereof is insufficient: Stewart v. Fletcher, 16 Gr. 235.

Claims not referred to Master, cannot be allowed.—But the authority to make "just allowances" does not authorize the Master to allow claims which are not referred to him by the judgment to take an account of, however reasonable they may appear to be. The Master may, however, report such a claim as "a special circumstance," and on the hearing on further directions

Claims not referred cannot be allowed.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 57. or otherwise, an application may be made to the Court for its allowance: Fielder v. O'Hara, 2 Chy. Ch. 255; Kellar v. Taché, 1 Chy. Ch. 788; Stewart v. Fletcher, supra.

Special Circumstances:—

Special circumstances, Master may report.

Notwithstanding this Rule the Master may refuse to report as special circumstances, facts which would be immaterial on a hearing on further directions, or which would lead to evidence in relation to matters not necessary to the inquiry directed by the decree: Braun v. Aumond, 19 Gr. 172. But he may, at the request of any party, report specially as to any matters which he may deem proper for the information of the Court: Rosebatch v. Parry, 27 Gr. at p. 199; and he ought to report any matter bearing on the question of costs: Simpson v. Horne, 28 Gr. at p. 7; Hayes v. Hayes, 29 Gr. 90. And the Master may, at the request of a party, report specially as to matters not particularly referred to him, but which form the subject of charges of fraud in the pleadings: Ib.

In a mortgage suit the Master may report specially, as to the existence of a claim of the wife of a mortgagor to dower in the surplus: Rowe v. Wert, 13 C. L. J. 326; 7 P. R. 252.

The Master should not report circumstances, showing an accounting party to have been guilty of wilful neglect, and default, as a "special circumstance," but he should himself determine whether or not the party is so liable, and if so, find the amount due on that footing: Walmsley v. Bull, 2 Chy. Ch. 344.

Claims which are not referred to the Master to take an account of, cannot be allowed by the Master, but may be reported as "special circumstances": see Fielder v. O'Hara, etc., supra.

When money has been received by a trustee during his minority the Master should report the amount so received, notwithstanding the infancy: Re Garnes, Garnes v. Applin, 31 Ch. D. 147; 54 L. T. N. S. 141.

General Powers of Master:—

General powers of Master, to inquire as to all matters relating to accounts.

Rule 57 provides that, generally, in taking the accounts, the Master is to inquire, adjudge, and report as to all matters relating thereto, as fully as if the same had been specially referred to him.

The general powers here given, enable the Master to inquire as to, and to take the accounts on the footing of, wilful default in accounts of personalty, as well as of realty, and he is not limited to the matters of inquiry specially enumerated in this Rule: Carpenter v. Wood, 10 Gr. 354. But the Master cannot inquire into the validity of the instrument upon which the plaintiff's judgment was obtained: Bickford v. Grand Junction Ry. Co., 1 S. C. R. 696, see p. 725 et seq.; not even at the instance of parties added in his office: McDougall v. Lindsay Paper Mills Co., 10 P. R. 247; 20 C. L. J. 133; and see Re Munsie, 20 C. L. J. 112; Wiley v. Ledyard, 10 P. R. 182; 20 C. L. J. 142; nor, when the judgment awards larger relief than was claimed by the pleadings, can the Master restrict the inquiry as to damages or otherwise, to the relief claimed by the pleadings: Smith v. Goldie, 11 P. R. 24; neither can he extend the inquiry under a general reference "to take accounts" to matters beyond the scope of the pleadings: Rowland v. Burwell, 12 P. R. 607. But the mere fact that a plaintiff claiming to be a creditor has obtained a judgment directing the taking of accounts, reserving further directions, was held not to preclude the defendants from taking the objection that the plaintiff is not in fact a creditor, and consequently has no locus standi, and insisting on the hearing on further directions that his action should, on that ground, be dismissed: Bank of Toronto v. Beaver Mutual, 28 Gr. 87.

But it will be seen that it is only matters relating to the accounts which are referred to him to take, as to which he has these general powers he cannot allow claims altogether outside of the accounts he is directed to take, and not necessarily connected therewith. Such claims, though they cannot be allowed by the Master, may, however, be reported by him as "special circumstances," and the Court, in its discretion, may on further directions, or on special application for that purpose, allow them: Fielder v. O'Hara, 2 Chy. Ch. 255; and see Wiley v. Ledyard, supra. Rules 58, 59.

Under these general powers, in an administration suit where a creditor made a claim by virtue of a partnership with the testator, it was held that the partnership accounts might be taken in order to establish the claim: Kline v Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 137; and the Master may inquire as to a stated account set up in the defence, though no evidence was given of it at the hearing: Edinboro' Life Association v. Allen, 23 Gr. 230; Holgate v. Shutt, 28 Ch. D. 111; but semble, not as to usury, as affecting the amount recoverable on a security: see Penn v. Lockwood, 1 Gr. 547. Stated accounts.

58. Under a judgment or order of reference, witnesses may be examined before any Examiner of the Court. Chy. 221, part. Master may order witnesses to be examined before Examiner.

The Master may direct witnesses to be examined before any other Master, or Examiner, of the Court, without the consent of the parties: Re Casey, Biddell v. Casey, 1 Chy. Ch. 198.

The Master may also grant a certificate for a commission to issue on præcipe to take evidence out of the jurisdiction: see Rule 590.

The Master cannot grant a certificate for a commission ex parte, McLennan v. Helps, 3 Chy. Ch. 193; except where the reference is ex parte. A commission to take evidence is not granted as of course: Coch v. Allcock, 21 Q. B. D. 178; Mills v. Mills, 12 P. R. 473; Light v. Anticosti, 58 L. T. N. S. 25; Thomas v. Storey, 11 P. R. 417; Price v. Bailey, 6 P. R. 256; Berdan v. Greenwood, 46 L. T. N. S. 524, note a; Vivian v. Mitchell, 13 C. L. J. 198; Re Boyse, Crofton v. Crofton, 20 Ch. D. 760; 46 L. T. N. S. 522. As to proceedings under a commission; see Rules 594-604. Foreign commission not issued of course.

Where an application is made to the Master for a commission to cross-examine a plaintiff resident abroad, on an affidavit filed by him in support of his account, the Master cannot properly refuse it, so long as the plaintiff relies on the affidavit in support of his claim: Townend v. Hunter, 3 C. L. T. 310.

The Master's certificate for a commission should, mutatis mutandis, follow, as nearly as may be, the form of order given in the Rules: see Form No. 138; and see Rule 593.

59. The Master may cause parties to be examined, and to produce books, papers and writings, as he thinks fit, and may determine what books, papers and writings are to be produced, and when and how long they are to be left in his office; or in case he does not deem it necessary that such books and papers or writings should be left or deposited in his office, he may give directions for the inspection thereof, by the parties requiring the same, at such time and in such manner as he deems expedient. Chy. O. 222. Master may cause parties to be examined, and may order production of documents.

Witnesses.—Any party to an action is now eligible as a witness in his own behalf: see R. S. O. c. 61, ss. 2-11. Witnesses in M. O.

In action by, or against, heirs, or personal representatives, or assigns, of a deceased person: Ib. s. 10; or by or against a lunatic, or an inmate of a lunatic asylum: Ib. s. 11. The evidence of any opposite, or interested party, must be corroborated. As to the nature of the corroboration required, see Sugden v. Corroboration when necessary.

Rule 60. Lord St. Leonards, 1 P. D. 154, 179; McDonald v. McKinnon, 26 Gr. 12; Stoddart v. Stoddart, 39 U. C. Q. B. 203; McKay v. McKay, 31 C. P. 1; Adamson v. Adamson, 28 Gr. 228; Brown v. Capron, 24 Gr. 91; Re Robbins, 23 Gr. 162; Halleron v. Moon, 28 Gr. 319; Re Ross, 29 Gr. 385; 18 C. L. J. 11; Re Laws Laws v. Laws, 28 Gr. 382; Parker v. Parker, 32 C. P. 113; Birdsell v. Johnson, 24 Gr. 202; Findley v. Pedan, 26 C. P. 483; Rose v. Hickey, 3 Ont. App. 309; Re Murray, 29 Gr. 443; 9 Ont. App. 369; Burn v. Burn, 20 C. L. J. 148.

Cross-examination of witnesses.

A witness may be cross-examined in the Master's office on the whole case. The Master cannot properly confine the cross-examination to the evidence given in chief. But in some cases, it may be proper to exercise his discretion, as to the party to pay the fees of the examination: Crandell v. Moon, 6 U. C. L. J. 143.

Not to be recalled.

The Master should not allow a witness who has been examined, to be recalled in order to supplement his testimony, except in such cases as the Court itself would allow him to be re-examined: see Patterson v. Scott, 1 Gr. 582. As to subpœnaing witnesses in the Master's office: see Rule 578.

Depositions in other actions.

DEPOSITIONS IN ANOTHER ACTION, OR BOOKS OF ACCOUNT, HOW FAR EVIDENCE.—As to how far evidence taken in another action, and books of account of third parties are receivable in evidence in the Master's office: see Court v. Holland, 8 P. R. 219.

Production of documents.

Production of Books and Papers.—When books are in constant use, and the party required to produce them offers to allow them to be inspected in his counting house, the Master should not require them to be left in his office, in the absence of any special ground for so doing: Re Ross, 8 P. R. 86; 5 Ont. App. 82; but the usual affidavit on production must be filed, though the deposit of the books in the Master's office be dispensed with: Ib.; Darling v. Darling, 19 C. L. J. 329.

Remedy for default in production.

DEFAULT.—Where default has been made in the production of documents, or the attendance of a witness to be examined, an application may be made to commit for contempt. The application should be made to a Judge, and not to the Master in Chambers, or to any County Court Judge, or Local Master: Keefe v. Ward, 18 C. L. J. 166; 2 C. L. T. 260. For form of certificate of default: see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., Nos. 669, 966; Sutherland v. Rogers, 2 Chy. Ch. 191.

Master may advertise for creditors, heirs, or next of kin, etc.

60. The Master may cause advertisements for creditors and if he thinks it necessary, but not otherwise, for heirs or next of kin, or other unascertained persons, and the representatives of such as are dead, to be published as the circumstances of the case require; and in such advertisements he is to appoint a time within which such persons are to come in and prove their claims, and within which time, unless they so come in, they are to be excluded from the benefit of the judgment or order. Chy. O. 223.

Time to be limited for coming in.

Advts. for creditors where dispensed with.

The Master may dispense with an advertisement for creditors in an administration action, where the personal representative had, before action, duly advertised under R. S. O. c. 110, s. 36: Cuthbert v. Wharmby, W. N. 1869, 12; but he should state in his report that he has done so, and the reason for so doing. But mere lapse of time, even of twenty years, from the death of the deceased person, whose estate is being administered, is not sufficient to warrant the Master in dispensing with an advertisement for creditors, and the Court has referred causes back to the Master to advertise for creditors, where the Master has omitted to do so, merely in consequence of the lapse of time.

Forms of advertisements.

See further as to advertisement for creditors of a deceased person, Rule 976, and for form of advertisements for creditors in an administration action, see Form 36; and for heirs or next of kin, see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 893; a month at least should be allowed for creditors to file claims, three weeks was considered too short a time: see Wood v. Weightman, L. R. 13 Eq. 434. Rule 61. Time for sending in claims.

Where the action has been constituted as provided by Rule 320, heirs, and other persons interested, whose presence as original parties is dispensed with by that Rule, are nevertheless to be served with a copy of the judgment, as provided by Rule 322, unless the Master dispenses with service. Where any of such persons cannot be found to be served with the judgment, the Master may require an advertisement to be published as a condition of dispensing with service on them. Persons interested to be served with copy of judgment.

61. The Master is to proceed on the claims brought in before him pursuant to such advertisement, without further notice, and may examine witnesses in relation thereto at the time appointed in the advertisement, or thereafter as he sees fit; and he is to allow or disallow, or adjourn the claims as to him seems just. Chy. O. 224. Master to proceed on claims brought in.

In actions for the administration of a deceased person's estate, the mode of proving claims of creditors is regulated by Rule 976 et seq. Mode of proving claims of creditors.

In other actions the creditor, or claimant, is required to file his claim with an affidavit verifying it. If the claim be disputed, the claimant may be required, at the instance of an opposing party, to establish his claim by oral evidence. When the claim is evidenced by some written document, the production of the document and proof of its due execution, if disputed, and the claimant's affidavit of the amount due, is usually a sufficient prima facie case, and the onus then rests with the party opposing the claim to adduce evidence: see Court v. Holland, 8 P. R. 213; and see Rule 130 and notes. A claimant may be cross-examined on his affidavit: Cast v. Poyser, 3 Sm. & G. 369; 3 Jur. N. S. 38; 26 L. J. Ch. 353; and see Rule 577.

Parties residing out of the jurisdiction coming into the Master's office to prove claims, may be ordered to give security for costs: Re Rees, Urquhart v. Toronto General Trusts Co., 21 C. L. J. 59; and in the event of their failing to substantiate their claims, may be ordered to pay costs occasioned thereby: see Rule 1178.

In actions for the administration of a deceased person's estate, no party other than the personal representative, unless by leave of the Master, can appear on the claim of any person, not a party to the cause, against the estate of the deceased in respect of a debt or liability. But the Master may direct any other party to the cause to appear, in addition to, or in place of, the personal representative, upon such terms as to costs as he shall think fit; see Rule 334: and see Rules 49, 55, 1188. Parties entitled to attend on proof of claims.

In a creditor's action, the plaintiff must prove his claim in the Master's office, even though he may have proved it at the trial, and any creditor may dispute the claim of any other creditor: Field v. Titmuss, 1 Sim. N. S. 218; Owens v. Dickinson, Cr. & Ph. 48, subject to Rule 334; and the Master has power to adjudicate upon all questions arising between creditors inter se: Merchants Bank v. Monteith, 10 P. R. 458. The mere fact that a plaintiff claiming to be a creditor has obtained a judgment directing the taking of accounts and making of inquiries, does not preclude the defendants upon such reference from taking the objection that the plaintiff is not a creditor, and has consequently no locus standi, and insisting on the hearing on further directions that his action should on that ground be dismissed: Bank of Toronto v. Beaver Mutual, 28 Gr. 87. In creditors' actions, plaintiff must prove claim, and any creditor may dispute any other creditor's claim.

Creditors who have omitted to file their claims within the time limited, may be allowed to come in and prove their claims, before report, by leave of the Master; and after report, on application in Chambers, so long as the fund Creditors coming in, after time remains in Court: Lashley v. Hogg, 11 Ves. 602; Angell v. Haddon, 1 Mad. 529; Re Metcalfe, W. N. 1879, 166; Cotton v. Vansittart, 9 C. L. J. 312; Andrews v. Maulson, 1 Chy. Ch. 316. But a creditor coming in after a dividend has been paid, is only entitled to prove against the residue of the fund for a similar proportion of his debt, he is not permitted to disturb any prior dividend: Gillespie v. Alexander, 3 Russ. 130; Greig v. Somerville, 1 R. & M. 338; Todd v. Studholme, 3 K. & J. 324.

Creditor objecting to form of decree might rehear.

A creditor proving a claim, and objecting to the form of the decree, could, under the former practice, only obtain relief by rehearing the cause: Mulholland v. Hamilton, 12 Gr. 413; Willis v. Willis, 20 Gr. 396. And a petition of a creditor to vary a decree was refused with costs: Mulholland v. Hamilton, supra.

Creditor, appeal by.

A creditor whose claim is disallowed, may appeal at once on a certificate of disallowance, without waiting for a general report: Re Clagett, Fordham v. Clagett, 20 Ch. D. 637; 46 L. T. N. S. 70.

Interest on claims, when allowed.

Interest cannot be allowed on merchants' accounts unless a demand of interest under the Statute R. S. O., c. 40, s. 86, is proved: Inglis v. Wellington Hotel Co., 29 C. P. 387. But in Michie v. Reynolds, 24 U. C. Q. B. 303, 310, Draper, C.J., said: "It has been the practice for a very long time to leave to the discretion of the jury to give interest where the payment of a just debt has been withheld, and we can find no good reason to depart from that practice." And in Spence v. Hector, Ib. 277, 281, the same learned Judge remarked that "interest is in practice much more frequently allowed by our juries than English authorities would seem to warrant;" and see R. S. O., c. 40, s. 85. As regards the rule followed by Courts of Equity in the allowance of interest, Bacon, V.C., said, in Spatali v. Constantinidi, 20 W. R. 823, "I take the law of this Court to be perfectly clear and distinct, and to have prevailed for centuries, that upon the wrongful withholding of a debt, the party who wrongfully withholds it is liable to pay interest upon that debt. A jury might always have given it, I do not say it did, but it might always have given it at law. But without reference to what a jury might do, this Court has given it in numberless instances": see Rodger v. Comptoir d' Escompte de Paris, L. R. 3 P. C. 465.

Interest on claims, at what rate allowed.

After judgment has been recovered for a sum of money, payable "with interest until paid," it is doubtful whether the rate reserved by the contract can be recovered after judgment: see Hutton v. Federal Bank, 9 P. R. 568. In Rykert v. St. John, 4 Ont. App. 213; 10 S. C. R. 278, it was held that the contract became merged in the judgment, and only the interest payable under the judgment could be recovered. But in Popple v. Sylvester, 22 Ch. D. 98; 47 L. T. N. S. 329, it was held that the difference between the rate payable by the contract, and the rate recovered on the judgment, for the period between the recovering of judgment and payment, might be recovered in a subsequent action; and see 19 C. L. J. 21; but see Ex p. Fewings, 25 Ch. D. 338; 50 L. T. N. S. 109. In England the Crown has a prerogative right to be paid in priority to other creditors: In re West London Commercial Bank, 38 Ch. D. 364; Attorney-General v. Leonard, 38 Ch. D. 622; Rex v. Ward, 2 Ex. 301 n.; but see Clarkson v. Attorney-General, 15 Ont. 632; 16 Ont. App. 202; and see R. S. O., c. 110, s. 32, which in effect repeals 9 Hen. VIII. c. 18.

Master's power as to settlement of conveyances.

62. Under every order whereby the delivery of deeds or execution of conveyances is directed, the Master is to give directions as to delivery of such deeds, and to settle conveyances where the parties differ, and to give directions as to the parties to the conveyances, and as to the execution thereof. Chy. O. 226.

Additional powers of Master as

In every judgment, or order, directing a sale, the Master to whom the action is referred may, without any special directions, settle all necessary conveyances in case the parties differ, or in case there be any parties interested in the sale who are under any disability except coverture; see Rule 107; and see further as to sales, Rules 91-115. Under this Rule the Master has power to deal with questions arising on the conveyance as to the payment off of incumbrances; and when a party applied to the Court instead of to the Master, no costs were given: Stammers v. O'Donohoe, 29 Gr. 64. Rules 61, 62. to settlement of conveyances.

63. Where any account is to be taken, the accounting party is, unless the Master otherwise directs, to bring in the same in the form of debtor and creditor, verified by affidavit. The items on each side of the account are to be numbered consecutively, and the account is to be referred to by the affidavit as an exhibit, and not to be annexed thereto. Chy. O. 227. Form of account; to be brought in by accounting party.

When a personal representative of a deceased person is required to account in respect of the dealings of the deceased, he is bound to make up the accounts of such dealings, from the books in his possession: Strathy v. Crooks, 6 Gr. 162. Personal rep. bound to make up accounts.

A party may be estopped by acquiescence from moving to set aside accounts brought in, in an improper form: Weale v. Rice, C. P. Coo. 438. Objection to accounts.

The deponent may be cross-examined on an affidavit verifying accounts. A party who is to be cross-examined on an affidavit verifying accounts, is entitled to detailed notice of the points in respect to which he is to be examined: Re Lord, Lord v. Lord, L. R. 2 Eq. 605. A notice that all the items but one are objected to, is insufficient: McArthur v. Dudgeon, L. R. 15 Eq. 102; and see Rule 70 post. Such cross-examination may take place before the account is vouched: Meacham v. Cooper, L. R. 16 Eq. 102. Cross-examination.

64. The Master, if he thinks fit, may direct that in taking accounts, the books of account, in which the accounts required to be taken have been kept, or any of them, be taken as prima facie evidence of the truth of the matters therein contained, with liberty to the parties interested to take such objection thereto as they may be advised. Chy. O. 228. Master may direct books of account to be taken as prima facie evidence.

The Chy. Ord. 228, from which this Rule was taken, was adapted from Imp. Stat, 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86. s. 54. Every sum of $8 and under, is allowed without a voucher, upon the oath of the accounting party: see Everard v. Warren, 2 Ch. Ca. 249; but this oath must be positive, and not on belief only: Robinson v. Cumming, 2 Atk. 410; and it would seem that the aggregate of such items should not exceed $400 in amount: Bennett's M. O. 86. Greater latitude in proving other items is also allowed when the account is of long standing: Ib. Sums of $8 and under allowed without voucher.

Receipts, or other vouchers, must be produced, but when they are lost, or accidentally destroyed, secondary evidence will be let in: Ib.; and it is to such cases, or when, for any other reason, it is impossible to vouch the account in any other way, that this Rule is intended to apply: Lodge v. Prichard, 3 D. M. & G. 906; and see Ewart v. Williams, 7 D. M. & G. 67. Vouchers to be produced.

In partnership cases, however, the books of account of the firm are admissible by virtue of the general law, without any special direction: Gething v. Keighley, 9 Ch. D. 547, 551. Books of trustees of a will were allowed to be taken as prima facie evidence for a period of 21 years, as against a cestui que trust who had access to them, but had not actually inspected them: Banks v. Cartwright, 15 W. R. 417; and see Sleight v. Lawson, 3 K. & J. 292; Ogden v. Battams, 1 Jur. N. S. 791; Hardwick v. Wright, 15 W. R. 953. Books of accounts, when admissible.

Rules 65-69.

No state of facts, etc., to be brought in.

65. No state of fact, charges, or discharges are to be brought into the Master's office; and where original deeds or documents can be brought in, no copies are to be made without special direction. Chy. O. 229.

Copies, abstracts, etc., to be supplied as Master directs.

66. Where directed, copies, abstracts of, or extracts from accounts, deeds, or other documents and pedigrees, and concise statements, are to be supplied; and where so directed, copies are to be delivered as the Master may direct. Chy. O. 230.

The party having the conduct of the reference, is usually required to furnish copies, abstracts, etc., which relate to the general inquiries, and the other parties only such as relates exclusively to themselves; see ante note to Rule 45.

Parties bound by Master's direction without warrant.

67. A party directed by the Master to bring in an account, or do any other act, is to be held bound to do the same in pursuance of the direction of the Master, without any warrant or written direction being served for that purpose. Chy. O. 231.

This Rule of course implies that the party directed to do the act, or his solicitor, has actual notice of the direction, otherwise a warrant must be taken out and served.

Warrant to appoint a day to ascertain what is admitted and what contested.

68. Before proceeding to the hearing and determining of a reference, the Master may appoint a day in the meantime, if he thinks fit, for the purpose of entering into the accounts and inquiries, with a view to ascertaining what is admitted and what is contested between the parties. Chy. O. 232.

Admissions before the Master should be entered in his book (see Rule 71), and subscribed by the parties or their solicitors: Foster v. Allison, 11 P. R. 233; 21 C. L. J. 418. Admissions made by a solicitor without the authority of his client have been allowed to be withdrawn on the terms of the items admitted being taken to be prima facie correct, and the onus being cast on the party withdrawing the admission, showing that they are wrong: McBean v. McBean, 11 P. R. 429; 22 C. L. J. 348.

When day not previously appointed, warrant may issue to ascertain what admitted.

69. Where the Master has omitted to appoint a day for the purposes mentioned in Rule 68, he may grant to the party bringing in accounts a warrant to proceed on the same, for the purposes aforesaid; such warrant to be underwritten, as follows: "On leaving the accounts of, etc., and take notice that you are required to admit the same, or such parts thereof as you can properly admit." Chy. O. 233.

As to the costs occasioned by any party improperly refusing to admit facts see Rule 1189: McIntyre v. Canada Co., 18 Gr. 370.

70. A party seeking to charge an accounting party beyond what he has in his account admitted to have received, is to give notice thereof to the accounting party, stating so far as he is able, the amount so sought to be charged, and the particulars thereof in a short and succinct manner. Chy. O. 237.

Rules 70-73.

Party seeking to charge accounting party must give notice of particulars.

An accounting party who is intended to be cross-examined on his affidavit verifying his accounts, is entitled to notice of the items on which he is to be cross-examined: Re Lord, Lord v. Lord, L. R. 2 Eq. 605; Wormsley v. Sturt, 22 Beav. 398; and it is not sufficient to inform him that all the items except one are objected to, but the notice must specify the points on which the cross-examination is to proceed: McArthur v. Dudgeon, L. R. 15 Eq. 102; and see Glover v. Ellison, 20 W. R. 408; and unless he be duly notified he may refuse to be sworn: McArthur v. Dudgeon, supra; see Eng. Chy. Ord. 30, of 16th Oct., 1852.

Accounting party entitled to notice of items, he is to be cross-examined on.

71. The Master is to keep in his office a book, to be called the "Master's Book," in which, upon the bringing in of a judgment or order of reference, are to be entered, the style of the cause, the name of the solicitor prosecuting the reference, the date of the judgment or order being brought in, and the proceedings then taken; and the Master is also to enter therein, from time to time, the proceedings taken before him, and the directions which he gives in relation to the prosecution of the reference, or otherwise. Chy. O. 238.

Master's Book, how to be kept.

In this Book referred to in this Rule any admissions which are made during the proceedings before the Master, should be entered and signed by the parties or their solicitors making the same: see Rule 68 note.

72. Upon the application of any person, the Master is to certify, as shortly as he conveniently can, the several proceedings had in his office in any cause or matter, and the dates thereof. Chy. O. 239.

Master to certify proceedings in his office.

After a Master has made his report, he should not certify as to any matters before him in the course of the inquiry upon which he has made his report, unless required by the Court so to do: Rosebatch v. Parry, 27 Gr. 193.

For forms of certificates, see Leggo's Forms 2nd ed., Nos. 669, 966. As to appealing from a certificate: see Rule 848.

73. In giving directions, and in regulating the manner of proceeding before him, the Master is to devise and adopt the simplest, most speedy, and least expensive method of prosecuting the reference, and every part thereof; and with that view, to dispense with any proceedings ordinarily taken, but which he conceives to be unnecessary and to shorten the periods for taking any proceedings; or to substitute a different course of proceedings for that ordinarily taken. Chy. O. 240.

Master to devise simplest and speediest method of prosecuting references.

Rules 74-77.

The Master is not authorized under this Rule to employ the services of experts: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555. But he may appoint experts to examine into matters referred to him so as to enable them to give evidence before him, on which to act; and the costs of persons so appointed are taxable between party and party: McKay v. Keefer, 12 P. R. 256.

The Master should allow amendments of accounts, when such amendments would be allowed before judgment: Court v. Holland, 4 Ont. 688.

Appointments for several days may be included in one warrant.

74. Where the Master directs parties not in attendance before him to be notified to attend at some future day, or for different purposes at different future days it shall not be necessary to issue separate warrants, but the parties shall be notified by one appointment, signed, by the Master, of the proceedings to be taken, and of the times by him appointed for the taking of the same. Chy. O. 241.

The words "warrant" and "appointment," though apparently used in this and the two following Rules as distinct things, appear nevertheless to be in effect convertible terms: see Bennett's M. O., p. 6 et seq., and see form of warrant: Bennett's M. O. App. i.

Parties notified by Master not to be served with warrant.

75. Where parties are notified by appointment from the Master, of proceedings to be taken before him, no warrants are to be issued as to such parties, in relation to the same proceedings. Chy. O. 242.

Parties notified, liable for default, as if served with warrant.

76. Parties making default upon such appointments, are to be subject to the same consequences as if warrants had been served upon them. Chy. O. 243.

Master to notify parties when hearing concluded, and to note it in his book. Thereafter no evidence to be given except by leave.

77. As soon as the hearing of any matter pending before the Master is completed, he shall so inform the parties to the reference then in attendance, and make a note to that effect in his book; and after such entry no further evidence is to be received, or proceedings had, without the special permission of the Master; and the Master may proceed to prepare his report or certificate without further warrant, except the warrant to settle which is to be served on the parties as the Master directs. Chy. O. 247.

Master's report and certificate.

There is no difference between a report and a certificate of a Master, "though we apply the term 'report' to the more lengthened productions of a Master, and the term 'certificate' to his shorter statements. It is, I think, clear that all his reports are certificates, and all his certificates are reports," per Shadwell, V.C., Chennel v. Martin, 4 Sim. 344.

Parties served with judgment, when entitled to notice.

Parties served with the judgment under Rule 322, who do not give notice to the plaintiff that they desire to attend the proceedings, need not be served with a warrant to settle the report: Green v. Measures, W. N. 1866, 122; Lee v. Sturrock, W. N. 1876, 226.

It would seem that a warrant to settle a report formerly required four days service: see Bennett's M. O. 20; Beames' Ord. in Chy. 259.

When the Master has closed the reference, an application to let in further evidence may be made to him at any time before the report is signed: Re Ritchie, Sewery v. Ritchie, 23 Gr. 66. After report, the application can only be made to the Court; O'Donohoe v. Hembroff, 9 C. L. J. 312: or a Judge: see note to Rule 848. But to warrant such application being granted, the applicant must in general make such a case as would entitle him to a new trial: Waddell v. Smyth, 3 Chy. Ch. 412; and see Patterson v. Scott, 1 Gr. 582; Saunders v. Saunders, 45 L. T. N. S. 628; Carradice v. Currie, 19 Gr. 108; Mason v. Seney, 12 Gr. 143; Hosking v. Terry, 8 Jur. N. S. 977. Rule 77. Application to open reference.

A Master is not functus officio until he has made his report on all the matters referred to him: Rae v. Geddes, 3 Chy. Ch. 404; but after he has made his report he should not certify as to any matters before him in the course of the inquiry upon which he has made his report, unless required by the Court so to do: Rosebatch v. Parry, 27 Gr. 193; the same rule applies to taxing officers: Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444. Master not functus officio till he has fully reported.

Masters' Reports, are either General, Special, or Separate.

A GENERAL REPORT, is that which comprises the conclusion which the Master has come to, upon all the matters referred to him by the judgment, or order under which he has proceeded. General report.

A SEPARATE REPORT is that which embraces one or more separate matters of the reference, and the conclusion the Master has come to thereon; and is limited thereto, apart from the other matters referred. A report on sale is a familiar illustration of a separate report. Separate report.

A SPECIAL REPORT, is a report of special circumstances found by the Master, as a guide to the Court for some further direction upon the facts so reported. Special report.

Special reports on matters which the Master has power himself to adjudicate upon, and dispose of, are not to be made, unless specially directed by the judgment, or order, of reference: see Bennett's M. O. 18, 19; Walmsley v. Bull, 2 Chy. Ch. 344.

A report should not be dated before the costs included therein have been revised, when revision is necessary: Waddell v. McColl, 14 Gr. 211.

A report, like a judgment, should state results only, and should not set forth the evidence, arguments, or reasons on which the conclusions are arrived at: Sovereign v. Sovereign, 15 Gr. 559. Report, what it should state.

When the Master is specially directed to state his reasons, they should be stated briefly; McCargár v. McKinnon, 15 Gr. 361. All unnecessary prolixity in reports is to be avoided: S. C., 17 Gr. 525.

The report should not go beyond the order, or judgment, of reference, or the Court will not respect it; see Beames' Orders 23; and see Clouster v. McLean, 10 Gr. 576. And matters should not be reported specially, or as special circumstances, which the Master has himself power to adjudicate upon: e.g., whether or not an accounting party is chargeable on the footing of wilful default, etc.: Walmsley v. Bull, 2 Chy. Ch., 344; whether or not a particular debt is, or is not, an asset of an estate being administered: Clouster v. McLean, 10 Gr. at p. 578. Should not go beyond order of reference. Nor report specially unnecessarily.

But the Master should state in his report such matters as may be necessary for the information of the Court, on further directions, or to enable it to dispose of the question of costs: e.g., the priorities of creditors: Lavin v. O'Neill, 13 Gr. 179; and of the legatees: Clouster v. McLean, 10 Gr. 576, should be stated; and when a separate solicitor is appointed to represent a class, which is prima facie sufficiently represented by the plaintiff, or some other party to the action, the reason for the appointment should be stated: Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386: and where an advertisement for creditors has been dispensed with, the fact and the reason for it should be stated in the report: see Rule 60 note. When the Master dispensed with service of judgment on parties required to be served therewith by Rule 322, he was formerly required to state But should report matters necessary to dispose of costs.

his reasons therefor, in his report: see Chy. Ord. 587, Holmested's Rules and Orders 349, but that provision is not embodied in these Rules.

Sums charged against an accounting party, on the footing of wilful default, should be distinguished in the report from sums actually received: Moodie v. Leslie, 12 Gr. 537.

Final report, when to be made.

The Master should not make a final report in an action until he is in a position to deal with all the matters referred to him: e.g., it is improper to make a final report in an action to wind up a partnership, finding a balance due from one partner to another, until all the assets are realised: Smith v. Crooks, 3 Gr. 321. But when the Master is not able to make a final report, he may, when necessary, make a separate report as to certain of the matters referred to him, and which he is able to report on.

Where a Master dies or becomes incapacitated pending the reference, an order may be obtained referring the cause to another Master with power to adopt the proceedings already taken: Anon, 4 Jur. 858.

For forms of reports on sales: see Form 44; and of reports in administration actions, Form 42.

Points intended to be raised on appeal to be taken before Master.

78. Parties are to raise before the Master, in respect of any matters presented in his office, for his decision, all points which may afterwards be raised upon appeal. Chy. O. 248.

Chy. Ord. 248, from which this Rule is taken, went on to provide that in case an appeal was allowed on any ground not distinctly taken before the Master, the Court might order the appellant to pay the costs of the appeal; but this provision has not been embodied in these Rules. Under the Chy. Ord. 248, it would seem that the Court might, in its discretion, entertain appeals on grounds not distinctly taken before the Master, but in such cases might order the appellant, even if successful, to pay the costs of the appeal. But under this Rule it would appear that the Court has no longer power to entertain appeals on any grounds not taken before the Master.

In order to avoid any question as to whether or not any point intended to be raised on appeal, has been taken before the Master, it is safer to deliver the objection in writing, or to have it noted in the Master's Book; but this is not absolutely necessary: see Rule 82.

Or Court may refuse to entertain it.

Although the Court might formerly allow an appeal on a ground not taken before the Master, it might refuse so to do. Thus, the Court refused to allow the Statute of Limitations to be raised on appeal, it not having been raised before the Master: Brigham v. Smith, 18 Gr. 224; and see Clouster v. McLean, 10 Gr. 576.

See further as to appeals from reports: Rule 82 and notes.

Accounts, charges, affidavits, etc., not to be set out in report.

79. In the Master's report no part of any account, charge, affidavit, deposition, examination, or answer, brought in or used in the Master's office, is to be stated or recited, but instead thereof the same may be referred to by date or otherwise, so as to inform the Court as to the paper or document so brought in or used. Chy. O. 249.

As to form of reports, see note to Rule 77.

Schedule to be attached as

80. Reports affecting money in Court, or to be paid into Court, are to set forth in figures in a schedule a brief summary of the sums found by the report, and which may be paid or payable into or out of Court, and the funds or shares to which the sums of money are respectively chargeable. Chy. O. 250. Rules 81-82. to moneys in Court, or payable into Court.

81. As soon as the Master's report or certificate is prepared, it is to be delivered out to the party prosecuting the reference, or in case he declines to take the same, then, in the discretion of the Master, to any other party applying therefor; and a common attendance is to be allowed to the party taking the same. Chy. O. 251. Report to be issued to party prosecuting reference, or if he decline it, then to any other party.

82. No written objections or exceptions need be taken before the Master previously to an appeal. See Chy. O. 253. Without previous exceptions before Master.

Appeal, When Necessary.—Ordinarily, where the objection to the report is not manifest on its face, an appeal must be brought, unless the report be a nullity, as, e.g., where made without notice in vacation: Fuller v. McLean, 8 P. R. 549; or under an invalid order: Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Brown v. Dollard, 6 P. R. 113; where the report goes beyond the judgment, or order, of reference, the report as to such matters will "not be respected" by the Court: Beames' Ord. 23, and therefore no appeal as to such matters would seem necessary; an incumbrancer claiming priority to the plaintiff, who is made a party as a subsequent incumbrancer, may either move to set aside the order making him a party (which appears to be the preferable practice), or appeal from the report on the question of priority: McDonald v. Rodger, 9 Gr. 75, and see Montgomery v. Shortis, 3 Chy. Ch. 69. Appeal when necessary.

Mere clerical errors in a report may be corrected, even after confirmation, without appeal by order in Chambers: see Rule 848 note; and when the Master who has made the report has also jurisdiction in Chambers, it would appear to be competent for him to make the order; but he has no jurisdiction to make any material alteration or amendment of the report, not being a clerical error; that can only be properly done on appeal: see Skead v. Holland, 9 C. L. T. 50.

Time For Appealing.—An appeal from any report, ruling, or other determination, of any Master, must now be brought on for argument, before a Judge in Court, within one month from the date of such report, ruling, or other determination: Rule 849,—or within such further time as a Judge may think proper; the long vacation is excluded from the computation of the month: Rule 484, but not the Christmas vacation. An appeal from a ruling of a Master, must be brought within the same time as is allowed for appealing from a report: Mitchell v. Mitchell, 22 Gr. 23. Time for appealing.

In Markle v. Ross, 13 P. R. 135, it was held under the Consolidated Rules there could be no appeal from a ruling of a Master because the provision of Chy. Ord. 642, had not been included in the Consolidated Rules; and that an appeal, now only his from a report, by which was possibly meant a general report. It is however to be observed that unless a new meaning is to be given to the words "report" and "certificate" from that which they possessed under the former practice, there is nothing in the Consolidated Rules which prevents an appeal from a Master ruling, because, as we have already seen, a certificate of a Master is a report: see Rule 77 note; and a Master's certificate of his ruling is therefor a "separate report," and as such it would seem to be appealable in the same way as any other report.

Rule 82. Notice of appeal, and setting down for argument.

Notice of Appeal and Setting Down for Argument.—Seven clear days' notice of the appeal must be given to the opposite party: Rule 849; Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546; and such notice must be returnable within one calendar month from the date of the report: Rule 4, 849; R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8, ss. 15; and the appeal must be set down for argument on the day on which the notice is returnable: Rule 850.

Such appeals are to be heard on Tuesday: see Rule 211; but the operation of that Rule is at present suspended, and the present practice is to set down such appeals in the Chancery Division for a Thursday, and in the other Division for either Tuesday or Friday.

Where an appeal was set down for a dies non, but was placed by the Clerk in the paper for the next regular sitting of the Court, it was held not to be irregularly set down: McCaw v. Ponton, 11 P. R. 328. Appeals have hitherto usually been brought before a Judge of the Division in which the action was pending, but any Judge of the High Court has jurisdiction to entertain such appeals: Laidlaw v. Miller, 11 P. R. 335.

Report must be first filed.

Before notice of an appeal is given the report must be filed: Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546.

Notice of appeal should set out grounds.

The notice of appeal should set out seriatim the grounds upon which the appeal is brought, and should include all the grounds of objection intended to be urged: Rule 849; objections cannot be raised on an appeal from a further report, made in pursuance of an order to the Master to review his report, which might have been taken, but were not, on the appeal from the original report: Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206.

Who entitled to appeal.

Who Entitled to Appeal.—Any person having a substantial interest in the question involved in an appeal, is entitled to appeal; but persons having no interest in the subject of appeal, cannot appeal, even though the report be erroneous; Thompson v. Luke, 10 Gr. 281; McCargar v. McKinnon, 17 Gr. 525; neither will an appeal lie from a Master's ruling, or direction, by a party who has complied with it, even though it be to escape commitment for disobedience: Mitchell v. Mitchell, 22 Gr. at p. 24; neither will an appeal lie, where the amount involved is of trifling amount, e. g., where not more than $10 was in question, an appeal was dismissed: McQueen v. McQueen, 2 Chy. Ch. 344.

And from Master's ruling as to evidence; or principle on which accounts to be taken; or on disallowance of a claim.

An appeal may also be brought, before the Master has made his report, from his ruling as to the admissibility of evidence: McDonald v. Wright, 12 Gr. 552; or upon his finding as to the principle upon which an account should be taken: see Court v. Holland, 29 Gr. 19; or by a creditor from the Master's ruling, disallowing his claim: Wood v. Brett, 9 Gr. 452; and he need not wait for a general report, but may at once obtain a certificate of disallowance and appeal therefrom: Re Clagett, Fordham v. Clagett, 20 Ch. D. 637; 46 L. T. N. S. 70.

Appeals from taxing officers.

Appeals might formerly be brought from a Master's certificate of taxation: Grahame v. Anderson, 2 Chy. Ch. 303; Re Ponton, 15 Gr. 355; from a Master's ruling a to any point, raised on a taxation of costs: Stinson v. Martin, 2 Chy. Ch. 86; under the former Judicature Rules there was no appeal to a Judge direct from a local officer's taxation, but his taxation must have been first revised by one of the Taxing Officers in Toronto, from whom an appeal lay to a Judge: Crowe v. Steeper, 2 C. L. T. 88; McGannon v. Clarke, 19 C. L. J. 236; Gage v. Canada Publishing Co., 19 C. L. J. 175; 3 C. L. T. 267; Torrance v. Torrance, 9 P. R. 271; but see contra, Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 40. Under these Rules an appeal lies to a Judge in Chambers; see Rules 196, 851-3; and there may be also an appeal from the Taxing Officers in Toronto to the Master in Chambers, or Master in Ordinary: see Rule 854.

No appeal from an award.

Where a cause had been referred to a Master as an arbitrator, by a consent decree, which provided that "either party should be at liberty to appeal against the award in the same manner and to the same extent that a report may be appealed from," it was held nevertheless, that an appeal from the award could not be entertained: Burns v. Chamberlin, 25 Gr. 148: but see R. S. O. c. 53, ss. 4, 7. Where the order directing the reference was made without jurisdiction, the Court refused to entertain any appeal from a report made thereunder: Queen v. Smith, 7 P. R. 429; Brown v. Dollard, 6 P. R. 113. Rule 83.

When on an appeal from a Master's report a reference back to review the report is ordered, the appellant cannot appeal from the further report as to matters disposed of by the first report, and not objected to on the first appeal: Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206. Matters not objected to on first appeal.

Hearing of Appeal.—Appeals from the Master's ruling as to the regularity of proceedings in his office, in point of form, will not be readily allowed, even though the Court be of opinion that he might have properly taken an opposite view: Sculthorpe v. Burn, 12 Gr. 427. Hearing of appeal.

On matters of fact decided by the Master who has had the witnesses before him, the Judge will differ from the Master with great hesitation, and only when it is manifest that he has fallen into error: Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. at p. 115; and the Judge will not in general interfere with the decision of the Master as to the weight of evidence, and as to the relative credibility of witnesses whose evidence has been taken before him, viva voce: Day v. Brown, 18 Gr. 681; Waddell v. Smyth, 3 Chy. Ch. 412; but see McArthur v. Prittie, 29 Gr. 500. But if it can be shown, that there is not only a balance of direct testimony, but also corroborative circumstances pointing strongly against the Master's conclusion, the Judge on appeal may review the evidence, and reverse his finding on a question of fact: Chard v. Meyers, 19 Gr. 358; Armstrong v. Gaye, 25 Gr. 1; Morrison v. Robinson, 19 Gr. 480. When the Master determines the question without seeing the witnesses, the Judge will, in such a case, be less trammelled by the Master's finding, and will dispose of the question upon his own judgment as to the weight of evidence: Fawcett v. Burwell, 27 Gr. 445. Appeals on questions of fact; credibility; or weight of evidence.

Order on Appeal.—The order on appeal should always recite the grounds of the appeal: Downey v. Roaf, 6 P. R. 89. Grounds of appeal to be recited in order.

Where the report is varied it would seem that it is not the proper practice to make any actual alteration in the original: Fox v. Bearblock, 45 L. T. N. S. 469; 17 Ch. D. 429; 46 L. T. N. S. 145; nor where the alteration is simple, need it be referred back to the Master to alter: Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85, the order on the appeal specifying the alteration made, being sufficient: Ib. Variation of report.

Where the report is referred back, and it is not intended that further evidence should be received, the order must contain a direction to that effect: Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453; 3 C. L. J. 21.

Reference Back.—When a report is referred back, the Master is at liberty, as of course, to receive further evidence, unless the Judge otherwise orders, or the reference back is expressed to be for a purpose on which further evidence could not be material: Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453. Where the reference back is to ascertain a particular fact, the Master cannot open other matters in his report not objected to on appeal: Williams v. Haun, 10 Gr. 553. Nor on a reference back can the Master entertain a claim not previously made before him, unless specially ordered so to do: Romanes v. Herns, 22 Gr. 469. Reference back, further evidence on when receivable.

Costs.—See Rule 1170, and notes. Costs of Appeal.

83. Any party affected by a report may file the same, or a duplicate thereof, and the filing of a duplicate shall have the same effect as the filing of the report. Chy. O. 254. Any party may file report, or duplicate.

The report, or certificate, of a Master, or Taxing officers, must be filed before an appeal can be had therefrom: Hayes v. Hayes, 8 P. R. 546; Langtry v. Dumoulin, 10 P. R. 444; or before any process can issue thereon: Jellett v. Anderson, 8 P. R. 387. And where it appoints a time for the payment of money it should be filed before the day of payment: Milis v. Dixon, 2 Chy. Ch. 53; and be confirmed where necessary: Mountain v. Porter, 1 Chy. Ch. 207. Report must be filed before appeal, and before it can be enforced.

Rules 84-85.

As to delay in filing a duplicate report by a party intending to appeal: see Caisse v. Burnham, 6 P. R. 201.

A party cannot, by neglecting to file a report, extend the time for bringing on the appeal to be heard beyond a calendar month from its date: see Rule 849.

Reports where to be filed.

84. In cases of references to Local Masters the report shall be filed in the office of such Local Master, but may, at the request of any party to the proceedings, after having been so filed, be forwarded to the office of the Clerk of Records and Writs. In all other cases the report shall be filed in the proper office in Toronto of the Division to which the action or proceeding is assigned. See J. A. Rule 599.

Payment of money into bank, how to be directed in report.

85. Where the Master is directed to appoint money to be paid at some time and place, he is to appoint the same to be paid into some Bank at its head office, or at some branch or agency office of such Bank, to the joint credit of the party to whom the same is made payable, and of the Accountant; the party to whom the same is made payable to name the Bank into which he desires the same to be paid, and the Master to name the place for such payment. Chy. O. 255.

Reason for Rule.

This Rule does not relate to the payment of money into Court (as to that, see Rule 164, et seq.), but is intended to provide for the payment of money in cases where the payee is required to do some act, as a condition of his receiving the money; e.g., in specific performance actions where the vendor is required to execute a conveyance; or in mortgage actions, where the mortgagee, or incumbrancers, are required to release and discharge their incumbrances, etc.

How paid out.

Money paid into a bank under this Rule, is paid out on a joint cheque of the officer of the Court and of the party to whose credit it is paid in. The cheque will be signed by the officer either upon an order, obtained for that purpose, being produced, or without order, upon filing the written consent of the solicitor of the party paying the money in.

If the money be paid into the sole credit of the party entitled under Rule 86, he may draw it out at his pleasure.

Order for, when necessary.

Where the party paying money in, refuses to consent to its payment out to the party entitled, the latter may move in Chambers for an order to the officer to sign the cheque: Bernard v. Alley, 2 Chy. Ch. 91; Weeks v. Stourton, 11 Jur. N. S. 278. Although the refusal to consent appears to have been without reason, the applicant in Bernard v. Alley was refused his costs. The application must be made on notice: Totten v. McIntyre, 2 Chy. Ch. 462.

Report should be filed before day appointed for payment.

A report appointing the payment of money, should be filed before the day named for the payment: Mills v. Dixon, 2 Chy. Ch. 53; and confirmed, where the report is one requiring confirmation: Mountain v. Porter, 1 Chy. Ch. 207.

If the bank closes its office on or before the day named for payment, and default be made, an application must be made in Chambers to appoint a new day and to name another bank, and the order must be served: King v. Connor, 1 Chy. Ch. 274.

86. Where money is paid into a bank, in pursuance of such appointment, the party paying may pay the same either to the credit of the party to whom the same is made payable, or to the joint credit of the party and the Accountant; and if the same be paid to the sole credit of the party, such party shall be entitled to receive the same without the order of the Court. Chy. O. 256. Rules 86-89. Party may pay money in to the sole credit of the party entitled thereto or to the joint credit of such party and the Accountant.

87. In administration suits reports are, as far as possible, to be in the form No. 42 in the Appendix. Chy. O. 589. Reports in administration suits.

The Master should not, in an administration action, attach to his report a copy of the will of the testator whose estate is administered: McCargar v. McKinnon, 15 Gr. 361.

88. The Master in Ordinary shall have the same power, authority, and jurisdiction, as the Master in Chambers, in respect of all causes and matters referred to him, or which may arise in his office. J. A. Rule 541 (a). Master in Ordinary, jurisdiction of, in Chambers.

(a) Where he acts as Master in Chambers in a matter within his jurisdiction as Master in Ordinary, the fees payable in stamps shall be the same as if he were acting as Master in Ordinary. Fees.

(b) Any Official Referee, upon the request of the Master in Ordinary, or of a Judge of the High Court, may sit with or for the Master; and while sitting for him shall have all the authority and power of such Master, but shall not be entitled to any fees. J. A. Rule 541 (b). Official Referee may sit for Master and have like powers.

It will be observed that s.s. (b) of this Rule only applies where the Official Referee is sitting "for the Master," it does not apply to cases where a reference is made to an Official Referee direct: in the latter cases he has, however, certain powers of the Master in Ordinary under Rule 43 et seq. A report of an Official Referee, whether made upon a reference to him direct, or when sitting for the Master, is to be appealed from, or confirmed, in the same manner as a Master's report: Rules 43, 848, 50. Practice as to appealing from, or acting on, report of an Official Referee.

(ii) Sales.

89. Where a sale is ordered, the Master may cause the property, or a competent part thereof, to be sold either by public auction, private contract, or tender, or part by one mode and part by another, as he may think best for the interest of all parties. J. A. Rule 331. General provisions were a sale is ordered.

This and the following Rules 90-115, apply to sales by official Referees, as well as by Masters: see Rule 43.

Rules 90, 91.

Conduct of sale under trusts of will or settlement.

90. Where the trusts of any will or settlement are being administered, and a sale is ordered of any property vested in the trustees of such will or settlement upon trust for sale or with power of sale by the trustees, the conduct of the sale shall be given to the trustees, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise directs. J. A. Rule 408.

Identical with Eng. R., March 1879, r. 7. Formerly the plaintiff would have had the conduct: Re Marshall, W. N. 1879, 12.

Under this Rule the conduct of the sale was given to a defendant in an action by one trustee who was also tenant for life, against the three other trustees: Re Gardner, Gardner v. Beaumont, 48 L. J. Chy. 644.

Copy of order directing sale, is not to be brought into M. O. unless required by the Master.

91. Where a sale is to take place under a judgment or order of the Court, no copy of the judgment or order, or any part thereof, is to be brought into Chambers, or the Master's office, but the original judgment or order is to be used, unless the Judge or Master requires a copy. Chy. O. 374.

Conduct of sale. Who entitled to.

Conduct of the Sale.—The party having the carriage of the order, or judgment, directing a sale, is the party usually entitled to the conduct of the sale.

The mere extent of the interest of any party in the property, or the possession by him of title deeds, do not give any right to conduct the sale. Usually the plaintiff having the carriage of the judgment, or order, will also have the conduct of the sale: Dale v. Hamilton, 10 Ha. App. vii. But where it is for the benefit of all parties, the conduct of the sale may be given to a defendant: Hewitt v. Nanson, 7 W. R. 5; Dixon v. Pyner, 7 Ha. 331; or where all parties to the action wish to bid, it may be given to an independent solicitor: Ramsay v McDonald, 8 P. R. 283.

Trustees entitled to, in certain cases.

But "where the trusts of any will, or settlement, are being administered, and a sale is ordered of any property vested in the trustees of such will, or settlement, upon trust for sale, or with power of sale by such trustees, the conduct of such sale shall be given to such trustees, unless the Judge shall otherwise direct," Rule 90 supra.

Duty of solicitor having conduct of sale.

It is the duty of the solicitor of the party having the conduct of the sale, to prepare the advertisement, to procure its settlement by the Master, and to see to its publication, pursuant to the Master's direction, to make the necessary arrangements with the auctioneer, to attend the sale, to see that the contracts are duly signed by the purchasers, to prepare the necessary affidavits proving the sale, and procure the report on sale to be settled and filed, to deliver abstracts and answer requisitions, and objections, and to attend any reference as to the title; to attend the settlement of the conveyances, and procure their execution by all necessary parties to the action; and to enforce, if necessary, by motion the due performance by the purchasers of their contracts. He is usually styled "the vendors' solicitor," and as such he acts for the purpose of the sale, and as regards the purchaser, for all the parties to the action who are interested in the land directed to be sold: Dalby v. Pullen, 1 R. & M. 296; Street v. Hallett, 6 P. R. 312; but his own client must bear any loss occasioned by such solicitor's malfeasance, such as the misappropriation of the purchase money: Mulkins v. Clarke, 11 P. R. 350.

Duty of parties.

Every party to the action is bound to facilitate the sale: Knott v. Cottee, 27 Beav. 33. Interference by other parties, with the party having the conduct of the sale, may be restrained by injunction: Dean v. Wilson, 10 Ch. D. 136.

The party having the conduct of the sale, is not at liberty to bid, except leave be granted specially: see Rule 98. Rules 92-94.

Where a sale has proved abortive for want of bidders, the property may be advertised and put up again for sale without further order: Sherwood v. Campbell, 1 Chy. Ch. 299. Abortive sale.

92. An appointment or warrant in respect of the sale is to be obtained from the Judge or Master, and served upon all necessary parties. Chy. O. 375. Appointment to settle advertisement.

93. At the time appointed thereby, the party having the conduct of the sale, is to bring into Chambers, or the Master's office, a draft advertisement, but no particulars or conditions of the sale, or any draft or copy thereof. Chy. O. 376. Draft advertisement to be brought in, but no particulars or conditions.

It will be seen from the next Rule, that any particulars in which the proposed conditions of sale differ from the standing conditions, are to be set out in the advertisement. This Rule, therefore, renders it unnecessary to bring in any particulars and conditions of sale, apart from those necessarily required to be embodied in the advertisement.

94. The advertisement is to contain the following particulars:— Advertisements of sale to contain.

(1) The short style of cause; Style of cause.

(2) That the sale is in pursuance of a judgment or order of the Court; Recital of order.

(3) The time and place of sale; Time and place of sale.

(4) A short and true description of the property to be sold; Description of property.

(5) The manner in which the property is to be sold, whether in one lot or in several, and if in several, how many, and what lots; Manner of sale.

(6) What proportion of the purchase money is to be paid down by way of deposit, and at what time or times, and whether the residue of such purchase money is to be paid with, or without interest; Terms of payment of purchase money.

(7) Any particulars, in which the proposed conditions of sale differ from the standing conditions. Chy. O. 377. Any special conditions.

Advertisements of sale should be framed as concisely as possible, and all matter which conveys no necessary information to intending purchasers should be excluded. The introduction of "puffing" is to be avoided: Baxter v. Finlay, 1 Chy. Ch. 230; Buchan v. Wilkes, Ib. 231. The advertisement should set out the improvements: Heward v. Ridout, 1 Chy. Ch. 244; and the existence of a favorable lease, if any: McAlpine v. Young, 2 Chy. Ch. 171. But any omissions of this kind, must, as a general rule, be objected Advertisements of sale, how to be framed.

to at the time of settling the advertisement, or before the sale has taken place: Creswick v. Thompson, 6 P. R. 52. But, where a material fact was omitted from the advertisement, e.g., that a lease was subject to a ground rent, the purchaser was discharged from his purchase: Jones v. Rummer, 14 Ch. D. 588; 43 L. T. N. S. 111; 49 L. J. Ch. 775; 20 Ch. D. 1.

Misrepresentation in, effect of.

Misdescription in the advertisement, where it amounts to a material misrepresentation, is also a ground for compensation to the purchaser: Stammers v. O'Donohoe, 28 Gr. 207; even after conveyance: Bull v. Harper, 6 P. R. 36; or may entitle the purchaser, at his option, to be relieved from his purchase: Mathias v. Yetts, 46 L. T. N. S. 497; Redgrave v. Hurd, 20 Ch. D. 1; 45 L. T. N. S. 485; 51 L. J. Ch. 113.

Special conditions of sale, not to be resorted to without cause.

Special Conditions.—Unnecessarily stringent conditions of sale ought not to be sanctioned by the Master; thus where the title, or the proof of it, was involved in no difficulty, a condition of sale that "The vendor is not to be bound to give any evidence of title, or any title deeds, or copies thereof, other than such as are in his possession, or prove any abstract," was condemned by the Court: McDonald v. Gordon, 2 Chy. Ch. 125; and see Dance v. Goldingham, L. R. 8 Chy. 902; Dunn v. Flood, 25 Ch. D. 629; 49 L. T. N. S. 670; 28 Ch. D. 586; 52 L. T. N. S. 699; Re Rayner, 53 L. T. N. S. 495. Trustees selling without a reserve bid were restrained: Downey v. Dennis, 14 Ont. 219.

In sales by the Court, if a good title can be made, the parties are not at liberty to relieve themselves by special conditions from the obligation to make such a title, and the Court will not provide by conditions for imaginary defects, per Mowat, V.C., McDonald v. Gordon, 2 Chy. Ch. 126: Piers v. Piers, Sau. & Sc., 414. "It is the uniform practice of a Court of Equity, not to set up for sale a title knowing it to be bad": Bennett v. Wheeler, 1 Ir. Eq. 16; Lahey v. Bell, 6 Ir. Eq. 122; Sugden, V. & P., 14th ed., 100, and see Hume v. Bentley, 5 D. G. & S. 527.

Condition requiring purchaser to assume as true, what is false, is bad.

A condition of sale is bad, as misleading, if it require the purchaser to assume as true, what the vendor knows to be false; or if it state that the state of the title is not accurately known, when in fact it is known to the vendor: see Nash v. Wooderson, 78 L. T. Jour. 59. And a purchaser purchasing at a sale by the Court under such conditions, is entitled to have a good title made, notwithstanding the conditions; but where the conditions on the face of them purport to give only a good holding title, that is all the purchaser, even though relieved from the conditions, can insist on: Re Banister, Broad v. Munton, 12 Ch. D. 131.

Effect of special conditions as to title.

And where a sale was had, under a condition that precluded the purchaser from objecting to the title prior to the document chosen as the root of the title, but the purchaser inquired into the prior title and refused to complete, on the ground that the prior title was bad, the Court, being of opinion that the objection was well founded, refused to enforce the sale against the purchaser, and discharged him from his purchase: Else v. Else, L. R. 13 Eq. 196; Williams v. Wood, 16 W. R. 1005: Bennett v. Wheeler, 1 Ir. Eq. 16; Hume v. Bentley, 5 D. G. & S. 527; and see Dunn v. Flood, supra.

Where a sale was had upon condition that in case the vendor should be unable or unwilling to remove or comply with any objection or requisition made by the purchaser, he might rescind the sale, and the purchaser delivered requisitions which the vendor answered, but the purchaser considered the answer insufficient, and the vendor then gave notice that he rescinded the contract, it was held that the purchaser could not by subsequently waiving his objections prevent the rescission taking effect: Dames v. Wood, 51 L. T. N. S. 109. Where a sale was had under a condition that no objection or requisition should be made by the purchaser by reason of the non-acknowledgment of a deed dated 18 Dec., 1841, by a married woman, who was a party to it, and it turned out that the deed in question was the conveyance to the vendor, and that the married woman had one-fifth interest in the estate, and that the vendor, though in possession, had not acquired a title under the Statute of Limitations, the Court refused to enforce the contract against the purchasers: Re Cuming to Goldbolt, 78 L. T. Jour. 31.

The standing conditions of sale are those referred to in Rule 96. Rule 95.

Where an advertisement is not settled in proper form, it may on motion in Chambers be referred back to the Master to be re-settled, and if necessary to appoint a new day for the sale: Heward v. Ridout, 1 Chy. Ch. 244; such an application being in the nature of an appeal from the Master, would seem to be beyond the jurisdiction of the Master in Chambers, and to be proper to be made to a Judge in Chambers. Advertisement may be ordered to be re-settled.

95. At the time named in the appointment or warrant, the Judge or Master is to settle the advertisement; to fix the time and place of sale; to name an auctioneer, where one is to be employed; and to make every other necessary arrangement preparatory to the sale, so that nothing may remain to be done but to insert the advertisement; and all the before mentioned matters must be done at one meeting, namely, upon the return of the appointment or warrant where it is practicable, and no adjournment of such meeting is to take place, and no new meeting is to be appointed for the aforesaid purposes, unless it is unavoidable. Chy. O. 378. Master on return of warrant, to settle advertisement to appoint auctioneer, and fix time, and place of sale, etc.

Formerly all sales directed by the Court of Chancery had to be by auction, unless the order, or decree, expressly authorized a sale in some other way. Even after an abortive attempt to sell by auction, a sale in any other way could not be had except by express order: Berry v. Gibbons, L. R. 15 Eq. 150. Now, where a sale is ordered, the Master may cause the property, or a competent part thereof to be sold either by public auction, private contract, or tender, or part by one mode, and part by another, as he may think best for the interest of all parties; and he may fix an upset price, or reserved bidding, but such price, or bidding, must be so fixed at the meeting held by him for the settling of the advertisement, and making the other arrangements preparatory to the sale, and must be notified in the conditions of sale: Rule 89. The Master is not justified in accepting a tender from the person having the conduct of the sale: Ramsay v. McDonald, 8 P. R. 283. Formerly, sale must be by auction, unless otherwise ordered. But now Master may direct sale by tender, etc.

When land is offered for sale by auction, unless in the particulars or conditions of sale it is stated that the land will be sold subject to a reserved price, or a right of the seller to bid, the sale is to be deemed, and taken, to be without reserve; and upon any sale without reserve, it is unlawful for the seller, or a puffer, to bid, or for the auctioneer knowingly to take any bidding from a seller, or puffer: see R. S. O. c. 100, ss. 22, 23; Herron v. Moffatt, 22 Gr. at pp. 375-6. Upon a sale without reserve it is not open to the vendor to refuse a bid, however small: O'Connor v. Woodward, 6 P. R. 223; McAlpine v. Young, 2 Chy. Ch. 171. The offer of property subject to a reserved bidding, does not involve also a right for the seller to bid, or to employ a puffer; thus, where a sale was advertised under a decree subject to a reserved bid, but no right on the part of the seller to bid was reserved, but a puffer was employed whose bids did not exceed the reserved bid, the sale was on the application of the purchaser set aside: Gilliat v. Gilliat, 18 W. R. 203; L. R. 9 Eq. 60, and if a limited right to bid be reserved, and the limit be exceeded, the sale is voidable: Parfitt v. Jepson, 46 L. J. C. P. 529. Sales by auction, highest bidder, right of. Limited right of vendor to bid cannot be exceeded.

The Master, or his clerk, may conduct the sale if no auctioneer is employed: see Rule 100. No license for the Master, or his clerk, to act as auctioneer under R. S. O. c. 184, s. 495, ss. 2, is necessary: Regina v. Chapman, 1 Ont. 582. Master, or his clerk, acting as auctioneer.

much is offered for sale he should urge the objection at the time of settling the advertisement, and it should be stated in the advertisement that so soon as sufficient has been realized by the sale to pay off the plaintiff's and other claims, the remaining lots, if any, will be withdrawn, if that course is intended to be pursued : Beaty v. Radenhurst, 3 Chy. Ch. 344.

Standing conditions of sale.

96. The standing conditions of sale are to be those set forth in Form No. 43 in the Appendix. Chy. O. 379.

Any conditions varying from, or in addition to, the special conditions must be stated at length in the advertisement : Rule 94.

Where the owner of the equity of redemption is dead, and his heirs are out of the jurisdiction, or unknown, a sale may be directed in an action against a subsequent mortgagee, and the Provincial Attorney-General as representing the deceased mortgagor, but the circumstances under which the sale is directed, must be stated in the particulars of sale : Smith v. Good, 14 Gr. 444.

As to special conditions see note to Rule 94.

Even without the standing condition for a re-sale in case of default by the purchaser, and payment by him of any deficiency, the law implies such a contract : Re Hornibrook, 12 P. R. 591.

Where, as the standing condition provides, the deposit is payable to the vendor's solicitor ; if he makes away with it, it cannot be recovered from the auctioneer : Brown v. Farebrother, 59 L. T. N. S. 822 ; but the client of the solicitor is responsible to the other parties interested, to make good the loss : Mulkins v. Clarke, 11 P. R. 350.

Master may fix upset price, or reserved bidding.

97. The Judge or Master may, without further order, fix an upset price, or reserved bidding, where it is thought expedient ; but this must be done at the meeting held for the purpose of settling the advertisement and making the other arrangements preparatory to the sale, and it must be notified in the conditions of sale. Chy. O. 380 ; J. A. Rule 331 part.

Reserved bid, how fixed.

In order to enable the Master to fix a reserved bid, an affidavit made by some competent surveyor must be filed. See Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 940.

According to the English practice affidavits for the purpose of enabling the Judge to fix reserved biddings are to state the value of the property by reference to an exhibit, so that the value may not be disclosed by the affidavit when filed. Judge's Regulations, Aug. 1857, xiii : Snow & Winstanley Ann. Pr. 575 ; and see English Rule, Ord. 51 r. 4, founded therein.

Where the Master omitted on the settling of the advertisement to fix a reserved bid, on motion in Chambers leave to fix reserved bid, and re-advertise was granted : Fraser v. Bens, 1 Chy. Ch. 71.

How communicated to auctioneer.

Where the sale takes place elsewhere than before the Master, a note of the amount of the reserved bid under a sealed cover is to be delivered to the auctioneer, or person selling the estate, with instructions not to open it until the biddings are closed, and not to make the amount of it known even then.

All parties may bid, except party having conduct

98. All parties may bid, without taking out an order for the purpose, except the party having the conduct of the sale, and except any trustees, agents, and other persons in a fiduciary situation; and where any parties are to be at liberty to bid, it must be notified in the conditions of sale. Chy. O. 381. Rule 99. of sale. trustees, etc.

Leave to bid will not usually be granted to the party having the conduct of the sale: Phillips v. Conger, 1 O. S. 231; Domville v. Berrington, 2 Y. & C. 723; Sidney v. Ranger, 12 Sim. 118, nor to his servants, or agents: see Martinson v. Clowes, 46 L. T. N. S. 882; 51 L. J. Ch. 594. Except upon the terms of transferring the conduct of the sale to an independent solicitor, if none of the other parties will take it: Ramsay v. McDonald, 8 P. R. 283. Leave to bid has also been refused to an executor, in an administration action: Geldard v. Randall, 9 Jur. 1085; to a receiver: Alven v. Bond, 1 Flan. & K. 196; to a guardian ad litem; see Seton 1396; Crawford v. Boyd, 6 P. R. 278. Leave will not, in general, be granted to trustees to bid, unless all the cestuis que trustent who are sui juris consent, and no other purchaser at an adequate price can be found: Tennant v. Trenchard, L. R. 4 Chy. 537, 547; Farmer v. Dean, 32 Beav. 327, and see Ricker v. Ricker, 27 Gr. 576; S. C. 7 Ont. App. 28; 18 C. L. J. 274; 2 C. L. T. 399, and a trustee who has obtained leave to bid, is not exonerated from his duty of protecting the interest of his cestui que trust: Ib.: but see Boswell v. Coaks, 48 L. T. N. S. 929: 51 L. T. N. S. 242; 55 L. T. N. S. 32; 23 Ch. D. 302; 27 Ch. D. 424; 11 App. Cas. 232. Although a vendor cannot himself become the purchaser unless he has obtained special leave to bid, yet it would seem that there is no objection to a Joint Stock Company in which he is a shareholder becoming the purchaser: see Farrar v. Farrars, 40 Ch. D. 395; 59 L. T. N. S. 619. But where a trustee for sale, or the vendor, has a secret understanding not amounting to a contract, that the purchaser will re-sell the property to him, the sale will be set aside though no actual fraudulent intent be proved: Re Postlewaite, Postlewaite v. Rickman, 59 L. T. N. S. 58; but this case was reversed on appeal owing to the great lapse of time: 60 L. T. N. S. 514. Leave to bid, not granted to party having conduct of sale. Nor to executor, receiver, guardian ad lit. nor trustee.

Leave for parties, not otherwise entitled, to bid, is sometimes contained in the order, or judgment, directing the sale, but an order for that purpose is usually obtained in Chambers on notice to the other parties interested. The Master formerly had no power to grant such leave: Re Laycock, McGillivray v. Johnson, 8 P. R. 548, but may now do so in the exercise of his jurisdiction in Chambers under Rule 88. Leave to bid, how obtained.

When a party not authorized to bid, has bid without leave and become the purchaser, the sale will not necessarily be set aside, but the property may, on the application of the other parties interested, be ordered to put up for sale again at the expense of the party so bidding, and if no more can be realized he may be held to his purchase: Wilson v. Greenwood, 10 Sim. 101; Sidney v. Ranger, 12 Sim. 118; Crawford v. Boyd, 6 P. R. 278; and see Martinson v. Clowes, 52 L. T. N. S. 706. Effect of party not authorized to bid becoming purchaser.

99. The advertisement is to be inserted by the party conducting the sale, at such times and in such manner as the Judge or Master appointed at the meeting before mentioned. Chy. O. 382. Party having conduct of sale to advertise it as directed.

When a sale is postponed, a note of such adjournment published at the foot of the original advertisement will suffice, without incurring the expense of an entirely fresh advertisement: Thompson v. Milliken, 15 Gr. 197. Postponement of sale.

Sales are not to be postponed except in extreme cases. Where pending the time appointed in a mortgage suit for redemption, the mortgagor made an assignment in insolvency, but the plaintiff proceeded with the suit without adding the assignee; a motion by the latter to stay the sale on the ground that he had no notice of settling the advertisement was refused: Hoskins v. Johnston, 6 P. R. 257.

Rules 100-102. Master, clerk, or auctioneer may conduct sale.

100. The Master or his Clerk is to conduct the sale where no auctioneer is employed. Chy. O. 383.

An auctioneer selling land is not required to be licensed under the R. S. O. c. 184, s. 495, ss. 2: Regina v. Chapman, 1 Ont. 582.

Biddings.

101. Biddings need not be in writing, but a written agreement is to be signed by the purchaser at the time of sale. Chy. O. 384.

Sale without reserve

Where the sale is to be without reserve, the vendor is not at liberty to refuse any bid, however small: O'Connor v. Woodward, 6 P. R. 223; McAlpine v. Young, 2 Chy. Ch. 85. 171.

Vendor, or puffer may not bid.

Neither, when the sale is without reserve, can the vendor, or a puffer, bid, unless the right to bid is expressly reserved in the conditions of sale. And where the right to bid is limited to one or more bids, the vendor may not exceed it. And where the sale is subject to a reserved bid, a puffer cannot also be employed; see Rule 95; but where a stranger, at the instance of the mortgagor, made a fictitious bid at a sale of the mortgaged property under a judgment of the Court, it was held that a purchaser could not avoid the sale on the ground that he had been thereby induced to bid more than he otherwise would: Union Bank v. Munster, 37 Ch. D. 51; 57 L. T. N. S. s. 877.

Where the sale is without reserve, but the vendor, after a bid has been made, withdraws the property from sale, the highest bidder may, nevertheless, apply to be declared the purchaser: McAlpine v. Young, supra. It would seem that such an application should be made in the first place to the Master to report on the sale, and if he refuse to report the highest bidder the purchaser, an appeal would lie from him to the Court in the ordinary way, see Rule 850. In McAlpine v. Young, the application appears to have been made in Chambers in the first instance.

Acceptance of an invalid bid.

Where the auctioneer has accepted the bid of a vendor, or puffer, who had no right to bid, and declared him the purchaser, it would seem that the highest bidder lawfully bidding, would be entitled to set aside the sale, and have himself declared the purchaser.

Contract.

The agreement to be signed by the purchaser should identify the property purchased, by reference to the particulars and conditions of sale, and should in other respects be a sufficient agreement to satisfy the requirements of the Statute of Frauds; but it is possible that a contract upon a sale by the Court might be enforced though these formalities had not been complied with: see Daniel's Pr. 6th ed. 1104.

Contract, how to be signed.

The purchaser should sign his name, and his address and quality should also be stated. If his signature is not plain, or initials are used, it is desirable that a note of his full name should be written at the foot. Where any person purchases as agent for another, it should be so expressed in the signature, otherwise he will be treated as the purchaser, unless an affidavit showing the fact to be otherwise, is produced on the settlement of the report on sale. See Daniel Pr. 6th ed. 1083.

Deposit at sale how to be paid.

102. The deposit is to be paid to the vendor, if present, or if not, to his solicitor, at the time of sale, and is forthwith to be paid by him into Court. Chy. O. 385.

Solicitor neglecting to pay in deposit, liability of.

If the solicitor for the vendor neglects to pay the deposit into Court, he may be compelled to do so by order, on application of the purchaser: Crooks v. Glenn, 1 Chy. Ch. 354. And where he neglected to pay in the deposit, and in consequence of his not having done so the judgment was not in the hands of the Accountant, so that the purchaser could not obtain a direction to pay in the balance of his purchase money, the solicitor was ordered to pay the interest which would have accrued on the whole purchase money, if the money had been duly paid into Court: Smith v. Dunn, 3 C. L. T. 217. Rules 103, 104.

Where the deposit was paid by the auctioneer to one of a firm of solicitors having the conduct of the sale, who misappropriated it, the other members of the firm were held liable for it: Biggs v. Bree, 45 L. T. N. S. 648; 46 L. T. N. S. 8; and see Thompson v. Robinson, 15 Ont. 662; 16 Ont. App. 175.

The client of the solicitor making default is responsible to the other parties to the action for his misfeasance: Mulkins v. Clarke, 11 P. R. 350; but an auctioneer who pays the deposit to the solicitor pursuant to the conditions of sale is discharged from liability: Brown v. Fairbrother, 59 L. T. N. S. 822. Where at a sale out of Court by a mortgagee he had accepted a cheque for the deposit which proved bad, and the sale fell through in consequence of the purchaser turning out to be worthless, it was held that the mortgagee was nevertheless entitled to add the costs of the auction sale to his debt: Farrer v. Lacey, 31 Ch. D. 42; 50 L. T. N. S. 121.

Where the sale is not completed through the default of the purchaser, he forfeits his deposit to the vendor: Rosenberg v. Cooke, 8 Q. B. D. 162; Whelan v. Couch, 26 Gr. 74; Tilt v. Knapp, 9 P. R. 314; Re Hornibrook, 12 P. R. 591; even though there be no stipulation to that effect: Ex parte Barrell, Re Parnell, L. R. 10 Chy. 512; Dunn v. Vere, 19 W. R. 151; and see Howe v. Smith, 50 L. T. N. S. 573; Catton v. Bennett, 26 Ch. D. 161; 51 L. T. N. S. 70. And this is so, even where the contract is invalid, and could not be legally enforced: Thomas v. Brown, 35 L. T. N. S. 247; but see Casson v. Roberts, 31 Beav. 613; or where there is a defect in the vendor's title, which the purchaser is precluded, by the conditions, from objecting to: Rosenberg v. Cooke, supra. If sale goes off for default of purchaser, deposit is forfeited.

A deposit which has been forfeited for default of the purchaser cannot be recovered back on the ground that upon a re-sale of the property a fatal defect in the title was discovered: Soper v. Arnold, 35 Ch. D. 384.

But where a sale has been improperly carried out and the purchaser has notice that such is the case, he may refuse to carry out the purchase and recover his deposit: Locking v. Halstead, 16 Ont. 32.

Though the vendor's solicitor is entitled to his costs of receiving the deposit on sale, and paying it into Court, out of the fund, he must look to the purchasers for his costs of receiving, and paying into Court any other instalments of the purchase-money, which it is their duty to pay into Court: Re Robertson, 24 Gr. 555. Costs of paying in purchase money.

In England the auctioneer, or solicitor, appointed to receive the deposits, is required to give security duly to account therefor: Danl. Pr. 6th ed., 1080. But this has not been customary in Ontario. Security for deposit.

103. After the sale is concluded, the auctioneer, where one is employed is to make the usual affidavit, and where no auctioneer is employed, the Master or his Clerk is to certify to the same effect. Chy. O. 386. Affidavit of auctioneer, or certificate of Master, of result of sale.

For form of affidavit of auctioneer see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed. No. 947.

104. The report on sale is to be in the form No. 44 in the Appendix, or as near thereto as circumstances permit. Chy. O. 387. Report on sale form of.

The solicitor having the conduct of the sale usually takes the necessary steps to procure the report on sale; but it would seem that a purchaser may himself take out the report on sale, and get it confirmed where he is the sole purchaser: Crooks v. Glenn, 1 Chy. Ch. 354; or semble, he may take a separate report as to his own purchase where he is not the sole purchaser. Report on sale, by whom to be procured.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 105. The confirmation of a sale may be opposed before the Master, and the sale disallowed, on grounds which would justify a motion to set it aside: Beaty v. Radenhurst, 3 Chy. Ch. 344; Rodgers v. Rodgers, 13 Gr. 143.

Opposing sale before Master.

Opposing sale in Chambers.

A motion to confirm a sale will not be entertained in Chambers, where an irregularity has occurred, unless the sale has been approved of by the Master: Thomas v. McCrae, 2 Chy. Ch. 456; and see Cayley v. Colbert, Ib. 455. Where the Master's directions have not been observed, the party having the conduct of the sale will have to shew, at his own expense, that no person interested has been injured by the non-observance of the direction, otherwise the Master will not confirm the sale: Royal Canadian Bank v. Dennis, 4 Chy. Ch. 68.

Where a party bidding, and becoming the purchaser, had no right to bid.

Where some person not having authority to bid, has improperly bid and been declared at the auction the purchaser, the Master should not declare the sale void, but should report the sale, stating the facts as to the improper bid; and it is then open to the other parties to move to have the property again put up for sale, at the expense of the party so bidding improperly, and holding him to his purchase if no higher price is realised: Crawford v. Boyd, 6 P. R. 278, note p. 280; or the purchaser may, on notice to all parties interested, move to confirm the sale to him. When the person so bidding has also had the conduct of the sale, the sale will not as a general rule be confirmed, if any party object.

Until confirmation of report on sale, property at risk of vendor.

Until confirmation of the report on sale, the property is at the risk of the vendor, and in the event of fire, the loss occasioned thereby must fall on him: Stephenson v. Bain, 8 P. R. 166, 258; S. C. 16 C. L. J. 15, 115; but as to sales out of Court: see Rayner v. Preston, 43 L. T. N. S. 18; S. C. in Appeal 44 L. T. N. S. 787; 18 Ch. D. 1; Gill v. Canada Fire and Marine Insurance Co., 1 Ont. 341; Castellain v. Preston, 8 Q. B. D. 614; 46 L. T. N. S. 569; 19 C. L. J. 143; 49 L. T. N. S. 29.

Sale may be objected to on motion.

105. A sale must be objected to by motion to the Court or a Judge to set aside the same; and notice of the motion must be served upon the purchaser, and on the other parties to the cause; but the biddings are only to be opened on special grounds, whether the application is made before or after the report stands confirmed. Chy. O. 388.

Motion to "open biddings," where made.

Grounds on which motion may be made.

The motion to set aside the sale, or open the biddings, must generally be made before the confirmation of the report, but see Ricker v. Ricker, 27 Gr. 576, and S. C. in appeal, 7 Ont. App. 282. Formerly, a mere offer to give an increased price was sufficient ground for opening the biddings, but this is no longer the case: Roberts v. Duric, 1 Chy. Ch. 211; now, special grounds affecting the validity of the sale, must be established: Creswick v. Thompson, 6 P. R. 52; and the fact that the purchaser is one of the parties to the suit makes no difference in the rule: Mitchell v. Mitchell, 6 P. R. 232; and it applies to sales by tender, or private contract: Re Bartlett, Newman v. Hook, 44 L. T. N. S. 17. Great delay, is an answer to such an application, unless misconduct is shown on the part of the purchaser: Crooks v. Crooks, 2 Chy. Ch. 29. The fact that property was suffered to be knocked down at an undervalue to a son of the testator, under the belief that he was bidding for himself, when in fact he had been employed by a third person to bid for him, was held sufficient to warrant a re-sale: Rodgers v. Rodgers, 13 Gr. 143; and see Re Follis, Kilbourn v. Coulter, 6 P. R. 160; and where a vendor has a secret understanding with the purchaser of the property that the purchaser is to re-sell it to the vendor, the sale will be set aside though no fraudulent intent be proved; see Re Postlethwaite, Postlethwaite v. Rickman, 59 L. T. N. S. 58; but this decision was subsequently reversed on appeal owing to the great lapse of time: S. C. 60 L. T. N. S. 514.

Purchaser as secret trustee.

But the fact that a defendant was prevented from bidding, by promises made by the purchaser to give him the benefit of the purchase, is no ground for opening the biddings, such fact, if established, would constitute the purchaser a trustee, and the trust must be established by action: Brock v. Saul, 2 Chy. Ch. 145. Rule 106.

Where a next friend of a plaintiff who had the conduct of the sale, had bid without authority, a re-sale was ordered, the next friend being held to his purchase in case a greater price could not be obtained, and he was ordered to pay the costs: Crawford v. Boyd, 6 P. R. 278; and see Ramsay v. McDonald, 8 P. R. 283. Purchase by next friend of party having conduct.

The existence of mere irregularities in the proceedings prior to the sale, does not affect the validity of the sale as against a bonâ fide purchaser: Dickey v. Heron, 1 Chy. Ch. 149: Gunn v. Doble, 15 Gr. 655; Shaw v. Crawford, 4 Ont. App. 371; McLean v. Grant, 20 Gr. 76; Collins v. Denison, 2 Chy. Ch. 465. Mere irregularity not sufficient ground to set aside sale.

Where a sale took place after an order had been made staying it, but of which the auctioneer, and the purchaser, had no notice, the Court refused, after confirmation of the report, to set aside the sale: Freehold Building Society v. Choate, 3 Chy. Ch. 444.

But where through a mis-statement in the advertisement, the property was knocked down at an undervalue, and less than the purchaser himself would have otherwise given, a re-sale was ordered: Jones v. Clarke, 1 Gr. 368. But it would seem that if the purchaser without any misrepresentation, or undue concealment, by the vendor, got a less benefit from his purchase than he expected, that would be no ground for relieving him from his contract: James v. Freeland, 5 Gr. 302; Commercial Bank v. McConnell, 7 Gr. 323. Misrepresentations in the advertisement as to facts visible to the eye, amounting to mere exaggeration, do not warrant a release of the purchaser from his contract: Crooks v. Davis, 6 Gr. 317, but see Stammers v. O'Donohue, 28 Gr. 207; 8 Ont. App. 161; 11 S. C. R. 358: Gale v. Hubert, 6 Gr. 312; and see post Rule 106, notes. Mistatements in advertisement may be.

Where land was stated in the advertisement to be in the occupation of a tenant at a yearly tenancy, but before the sale the tenant had written intimating his intention of giving up the land, but the letter being written before the proper time for giving such notice the vendor had answered, "you will of course send me a formal notice at the right time, and after the sale the tenant gave the formal notice; it was held that the nondisclosure of the previous correspondence did not entitle the purchaser to rescind: Davenport v. Charsley, 54 L. T. N. S. 372.

106. At any time after the confirmation of the sale the purchaser may pay his purchase money and interest, if any, or the balance thereof, into Court without further order, upon notice to the party having the conduct of the sale; and when he is entitled to be let into possession of the estate, he may, if possession is wrongfully withheld from him, proceed at his own expense to obtain an order against the party in possession for the delivery thereof to him, or may call upon the vendor to cause possession to be delivered to him. Chy. O. 389. After confirmation of report purchaser may pay his purchase money into Court. How obtain possession

Payment of Purchase Money.—Where the purchaser makes default in paying his purchase money into Court pursuant to the conditions of sale, the vendors may move to compel him to pay in the amount overdue, and in default of payment, for a re-sale of the property. Default in payment of purchase money, effect of.

The deposit paid at the sale, is to be paid into Court: see Rule 102; if not paid in by the vendor, the purchaser must move to compel payment, before he can obtain a vesting order. Deposit at sale to be paid into Court.

When the plaintiff's solicitor makes default in paying in the deposit, the other parties interested in the purchase money will not suffer thereby, but the Rule 106. plaintiff's share will be charged with the amount of the defalcation: Mulkins v. Clarke, 22 C. L. J. 267; 11 P. R. 350.

Payment of purchase money to solicitor when not a discharge.

Where, by the conditions of sale, the purchase money is payable into Court, payment to the solicitor of the party entitled to it, is not a good payment, and is therefore no ground for dispensing with payment of it into Court: Blackburn v. Sheriff, 1 Chy. Ch. 208; except upon the production of the written consent of all parties beneficially interested, duly verified. Where the vendor's solicitor receives purchase money, which the purchasers are bound to pay in Court, the expense of payment in, must be borne by the purchasers, the estate, or fund, is not chargeable with such costs; Re Robertson, 24 Gr. 555.

Payment of purchase money not compelled until title accepted.

But the purchaser will not be compelled to pay in his purchase money unless he has accepted the title: Crooks v. Street, 1 Chy. Ch. 95; Street v. Hallett, 6 P. R. 312; McDermid v. McDermid, 8 P. R. 28; 15 C. L. J. 136; Ellwood v. Pierce, 7 P. R. 427; or, has waived the right to investigate the title, by delay: Ontario Bank v. Sirr, 6 P. R. 216; or by taking possession: Patterson v. Robb, 6 P. R. 114; and see Crooks v. Glenn, 8 Gr. 239; O'Keefe v. Taylor, 2 Gr. 305.

But possession may be taken in accordance with the contract, under circumstances not amounting to a waiver, or acceptance, of title: see Micheltree v. Irvine, 13 Gr. 537; Darby v. Greenlees, 11 Gr. 351; Wardell v. Trenouth, 24 Gr. 465. Merely obtaining the keys of a building for the purpose of viewing the premises, is not a taking possession: Peoples Loan Co. v. Bacon, 27 Gr. 294.

Deposit forfeited when.

If the purchaser make default a re-sale may be ordered and the defaulting purchaser may be ordered to pay any deficiency: Re Hornibrook, 12 P. R. 591; Noble v. Edwards, 5 Ch. D. 378. In the event of a re-sale being ordered by reason of the default of the purchaser, in the absence of any condition to the contrary, under the standing conditions of sale, Form N. 43, his deposit and all other payments on account are forfeited and cannot be recovered by him, even though the property should realise a larger price on the re-sale: Tilt v. Knapp, 9 P. R. 314; 2 C. L. T. 597; Ex parte Barrell, L. R. 10 Chy. 512; Thomas v. Brown, 35 L. T. N. S. 237; Rosenberg v. Cook, 8 Q. B. D. 162; and see Whelan v. Couch, 26 Gr. 74; Collins v. Stinson, 10 Q. B. D. 142; 48 L. T. N. S. 828; but see Casson v. Roberts, 31 Beav. 613; and a purchaser who has forfeited his deposit by default, is not entitled to recover it, in the event of the title proving bad on a subsequent re-sale of the property: Soper v. Arnold, 35 Ch. D. 384; 56 L. T. N. S. 330; 37 Ch. D. 96; 57 L. T. N. S. 747.

Costs of re-sale, and deficiency, how borne

The costs of the re-sale, and also any deficiency on the subsequent sale, are also usually ordered to be borne by the defaulting purchaser: Re Hornibrook, 12 P. R. 591; but when the land sold at an advance, and the profit was more than sufficient to cover the costs of the re-sale, the defaulting purchaser was relieved from the payment of the latter costs: Tilt v. Knapp, supra; Ontario Bank v. Sirr, 6 P. R. 277.

Interest on purchase money, from what time payable.

Interest on Purchase Money—Rents and Profits.—The liability of the purchaser for interest, depends on the terms of the contract of sale. In the absence of any special stipulation in the contract, it would seem that the liability to pay interest commences on the day fixed by the contract for completion of the contract, from which time the purchaser also becomes entitled to possession, and to all rents, and profits, subsequently accruing: Esdaile v. Stephenson, 1 S. & S. 122; Peoples Loan Co. v. Bacon, 27 Gr. at p. 301; Vanzant v. Burke, 38 U. C. Q. B. 104; but see Harrison v. Joseph, 8 P. R. 293. But where the contract provided for payment of the purchase money by instalments, but was silent as to the time when possession should be given, the purchaser was held entitled to the rents, and profits, from the date of the contract: Brady v. Keenan, 6 P. R. 262. A purchaser is entitled to a proper proportion of all rents paid to the vendor in advance: Liscombe v. Gross, 6 P. R. 271.

Where the contract provides for payment of interest in the event of any delay in completion not attributable to the vendor, the purchaser cannot relieve himself from liability to pay interest by depositing the money in a bank on notice to the vendor: Riley to Streatfield, 34 Ch. D. 386; 56 L. T. N. S. 48.

Liability of purchaser qualified by delay of vendor in making title.

The liability of the purchaser to pay interest, may, in the absence of express stipulation as to the payment of interest: Re Thompson, Biggar v. Dickson, 2 Chy. Ch. 196, be qualified by delay on the part of the vendor, either in making title, or giving possession. In such a case interest will not begin to run until the purchaser could safely have taken possession, and a difficulty respecting the conveyance, may justify his not taking possession: Rae v. Geddes, 3 Chy. Ch. 404. Where there are several parcels included in the purchase, possession cannot be safely taken of any until the title is made to all: Laird v. Paton, 7 Ont. 137; 20 C. L. J. 385. Where the property is unproductive, the purchaser may, where the completion of the contract is delayed by the vendor, be exonerated from payment of interest; where it is productive, but the rents, and profits, are less than the interest, the vendor may be allowed to retain the rents, etc., and the purchaser may be relieved from paying interest; and where the rents exceed the interest, the purchaser may, notwithstanding the delay, be ordered to pay interest from the date fixed for completion, taking the rents and profits: Bank of Montreal v. Fox, 6 P. R. 217; The Peoples Loan Co. v. Bacon, 27 Gr. 294.

Growing crops, purchaser entitled to.

Growing crops on the land at the time of sale, pass to the purchaser, unless expressly excepted in the conditions of sale: McDowall v. Phippen, 1 Ont. 143; Manson v. Manson, 10 P. R. 155; 20 C. L. J. 33; and he is entitled to compensation if they be removed before he gets possession: Ib.

Rescission of contract.

Where the purchaser pays his purchase money, and is let into possession, but upon a reference it is found a good title cannot be made, and the contract is rescinded, the purchaser is bound to re-deliver possession on being repaid his purchase money, and if he insist on interest on the purchase money, he must submit to account for the rents, and profits: Simmers v. Erb, 21 Gr. 289; and see Turley v. Evans, 13 C. P. 214.

Interest on purchase money.

Where a purchaser is let into possession, pending an investigation of title, he is bound to pay interest, although the possession extend beyond six years: see Birch v. Joy, 3 H. L. C. 565, where the purchaser was in possession forty years before completion, and the agreement provided that interest should not run until the completion of the contract, see also Toft v. Stevenson, 5 D. M. & G. 735; but it would seem no more than six years arrears can be recovered as against the land: Airey v. Mitchell, 21 Gr. 510, overruling on this point, Great Western Ry. Co. v. Jones, 13 Gr. 355; but when the purchaser dies, and no intervening incumbrance exists, in order to prevent circuity of action, the full amount may be recovered even against the land: Airey v. Mitchell, supra; Howeren v. Bradburn, 22 Gr. 96.

Mortgage, parol evidence admitted to show terms of.

Where the contract provided for giving a mortgage to secure part of the purchase money, but omitted to state that the mortgage was to bear interest, parol evidence to show that that was the real understanding of the parties was admitted: Gould v. Hamilton, 5 Gr. 192.

Delivery of possession to purchaser, effect of.

Delivery of Possession.—Where the conditions of sale provide that possession may be taken by the purchaser without waiving his right to investigate the title, he may take possession without waiving his right: Bolton v. School Board, 7 Ch. D. 766; but in the absence of any such condition, if a purchaser at a sale under a judgment, enter into possession without the sanction of the Court, he may be held to have accepted the title; Danl. Pr. 6th ed. 1093, and at any rate may be ordered to pay his purchase money into Court, notwithstanding his objecting to the title: Patterson v. Robb, 6 P. R. 114; but where, after a purchaser had taken possession, the vendor's solicitor delivered an abstract of title and answered requisitions, it was held that the vendor had waived the right to treat the taking of possession as an acceptance of title: Aldwell v. Aldwell, 6 P. R. 183; and see Gordon v. Harnden, 18 Gr. 231. Where, under the conditions of sale, a purchaser is entitled to possession, the letting him into the receipt of the rents and profits, is not a sufficient delivery of possession: The Peoples Loan Co. v. Bacon, 27 Gr. 294.

Summary application for possession.

A summary application for delivery of possession under this Rule can only be made against parties to the action, or strangers who have obtained possession pendente lite: Bank of Montreal v. Wallace, 13 Gr. 184; Trust & Loan Co.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 106.

v. Start, 6 P. R. 90; where a stranger is in possession who has not obtained possession pendente lite an action must be brought.

Purchaser accepting conveyance, effect of.

Where the purchaser accepts a conveyance, or vesting order, knowing that a stranger to the suit is in adverse possession, he cannot afterwards claim compensation for delay in recovering possession; Bull v. Harper, 6 P. R. 36; Joliffe v. Baker, 48 L. T. N. S. 966; 11 Q. B. D. 255; unless possession be withheld contrary to the express stipulation of the contract: Barber v. Barber, 11 P. R. 137; 21 C. L. J. 418.

Purchaser to see to discharge of incumbrances.

Incumbrances.—A purchaser before accepting a conveyance, or vesting order, or consenting to the payment out of his purchase money, should see that all incumbrances are paid off, which the vendors are bound to discharge. After conveyance, or vesting order, his right to have incumbrances discharged out of his purchase money is gone, and he must rely on his covenant if any: Bull v. Harper, 6 P. R. 26; S. C., before Spragge, C., February 1, 1873; Re Buck, Peck v. Buck, 6 P. R. 98; Kincaid v. Kincaid, 6 P. R. 93; Joliffe v. Baker, 11 Q. B. D. 255; 48 L. T. N. S. 966; unless perhaps, where he was ignorant of such incumbrances when he accepted the conveyance: see Turner & Skelton, 13 Ch. D. 130; Henning v. McDougall, 8 P. R. 200; but see L. T. Jour. 387; Robson v. Robson, 10 P. R. 324; or unless no title at all has been conveyed, as where the land had been sold for taxes: Turrill v. Turrill, 7 P. R. 142; and see Jones v. Clifford, 3 Ch. D. 779. But a conveyance by the vendor to a third party, even though made at the purchaser's request, will not prevent the latter, after the conveyance, from claiming to have incumbrances discharged, to which the covenants in the deed may not extend, but which, under the contract of sale, the vendor was bound to pay off: McLennan v. Chegwin, 37 U. C. Q. B. 301.

A vendor cannot be required to procure the discharge of a mortgage in fee made by a person who had only a life estate: Re Ponton & Swanston, 16 Ont. 669.

Outgoings, how payable.

Ground rent and other outgoings, accruing whilst the purchaser is kept out of possession through the default of the vendor, are held to be payable by the latter: Peoples Loan Co. v. Bacon, 27 Gr. 294; and see Fisken v. Wride, 11 Gr. 248; sed quære, if this is so, where the purchaser, on the completion of the contract, receives the rents, and profits, for the period during which such outgoings accrued.

A purchaser is entitled to have instruments registered against the title creating an apparently adverse claim, removed by the vendor, even though they be registered by persons having no apparent title: Keefer v. McKay, 10 P. R. 345.

Where a vendor contracts to sell only such right or interest (if any) as he has, he is nevertheless bound to convey such right or interest free from any existing incumbrances created by himself: Goold v. Birmingham, Dudley & District Bank, 58 L. T. N. S. 560.

Taxes, by whom payable.

Taxes.—The vendor is bound to pay a proportionate part of all taxes accruing up to the time fixed for the completion of the contract, even though not actually imposed at the time: Bank of Montreal v. Fox, 6 P. R. 217; Peoples Loan Co. v. Bacon, 27 Gr. 294; unless the by-law imposing the taxes, expressly provides that they shall not form a charge on the land until a day after that when the title is made out: Harrison v. Joseph, 8 P. R. 293.

Where the purchaser pays taxes accrued before the time he is let into possession, he is entitled to be refunded out of his purchase money: Yourex v. Alcombrack, 13 C. L. J. 226.

Compensation, when allowed, to purchaser.

Compensation.—Although a vendor is allowed great latitude in the statements, or exaggerations, he may make, as to the general qualities, and capabilities, of land he is about to offer for sale, still he will not be permitted to make misstatements, and misrepresentations, as to matters of fact, which would naturally have the effect of inducing parties resident at a distance to bid for the property. Therefore, where an advertisement of sale described the property as being "a farm of eighty-four and a half acres, twenty acres cleared and fenced," on the faith of which the plaintiff purchased, when, in fact, there was not any clearing or fencing, compensation for the misrepresentation was allowed: Stammers v. O'Donohoe, 28 Gr. 207; 8 Ont. App. 161; 11 S. C. R. 358; and see Re Murray & Kerr, 13 Ont. 414; but see Osborne v. Farmers & M. B. Soc'y., 5 Gr. 326. Where a material misrepresentation has been made by the vendors, it is not necessary for the purchaser to prove, that the representation was known by the vendors to be false, or was made recklessly; and in the absence of evidence to the contrary the purchaser will be presumed to have bought on the faith of such representation: Redgrave v. Hurd, 45 L. T. N. S. 486; 20 Ch. D. 1; Jones v. Rimmer, 43 L. T. N. S. 111; see however, Joliffe v. Baker, 11 Q. B. D. 255; 48 L. T. N. S. 966; Smith v. Land & House Property Co., 49 L. T. N. S. 532; 51 L. T. N. S. 718; but where it is shewn that the purchaser bought with knowledge that the statement was untrue, compensation will be refused: Carmichael v. Ferris, 8 P. R. 289; and see Curran v. Little, 8 Gr. 250; but see Lett v. Randall, 49 L. T. N. S. 71. But the fact that the purchaser was in actual occupation of the property before the sale, does not disentitle him to compensation for a deficiency in the area represented to be sold by the particulars: Re Aspinalle & Powell, 60 L. T. N. S. 595.

Rule 106. In advertisements.

Evidence of misrepresentation.

The purchaser may be entitled to compensation for delay in making out the title: Dudley v. Berczy, 3 Chy. Ch. 81, or for delay in delivering possession: Thomas v. Buxton, L. R. 8 Eq. 120; Manson v. Manson, 10 P. R. 155; 20 C. L. J. 33; Royal Bristol Co. v. Bomash, 35 Ch. D. 390; or for destruction of the property by fire before the confirmation of sale; see Stephenson v. Bain, 8 P. R. 258; but see Rayner v. Preston, 14 Ch. D. 297; 43 L. T. N. S. 18; 18 Ch. D. 1; 44 L. T. N. S. 787; 50 L. J. Ch. 472. So, also, for deficiency of land; thus, where 300 acres "more or less," was advertised, and the land only contained 244 acres, compensation was awarded: Wardell v. Trenouth, 24 Gr. 465; Whittemore v. Whittemore, L. R. 8 Eq. 603; and see Canada Permanent L. & S. Co. v. Young, 18 Gr. 566; Re Fawcett & Holmes, 61 L. T. N. S. 105. But a vendor who sells a parcel of land at so much per acre, which turns out to contain a greater number of acres than represented in the advertisement, is not, after conveyance, entitled to payment for the excess: Cottingham v. Cottingham, 5 Ont. 704; 11 Ont. App. 624; and see Sea v. McLean, 23 C. L. J. 352; 14 S. C. R. 632.

Compensation for delay in making title.

Or delivering possession.

Or losses by fire.

Or deficiency of land.

The right of a purchaser to compensation for deficiency in quantity may be excluded by the conditions of sale: Re Terry & White, 32 Ch. D. 14; 54 L. T. N. S. 353. Where, however, the purchaser, by the conditions of sale, is deprived of the right to compensation for deficiency, and such deficiency is material, specific performance of the contract would not be decreed at the suit of the vendor except on the terms of his making compensation for the deficiency: Ib.

A purchaser may also be entitled to compensation for failure to make title to part of the property sold, although he may be precluded by the conditions of sale, from objecting to carry out the sale on that ground: English v. Murray, 49 L. T. N. S. 35.

A purchaser is also entitled to compensation for dilapidations committed by parties in possession, after sale, and before completion: Fisken v. Wride, 11 Gr. 245; Thomas v. Buxton, supra; but he is entitled to compensation for the removal of growing crops: Manson v. Manson, 10 P. R. 155; 20 C. L. J. 33; Royal Bristol Socy. v. Bornast, 35 Ch. D. 390.

Compensation for dilapidation.

Compensation may also be awarded for the suppression of material facts; thus, when the property offered for sale was a mill site, and mill, and the vendor had previously sold the right to take water for the purpose of floating logs, which fact was not communicated to the purchaser, it was held that this was a subject for compensation: Wardell v. Trenouth, 24 Gr. 465; or the contract may be rescinded: see Heywood v. Mallalieu, 49 L. T. N. S. 658. Notwithstanding a condition of sale that misdescription should not avoid the sale, it was held that describing the vendor's title as a lease, whereas it was an underlease, entitled the purchaser to rescind the contract; Re Beyfus & Masters, 39 Ch. D. 110; 59 L. T. N. S. 740.

For suppression of material facts.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 106.

After conveyance, right to compensation for defects in title, is gone.

After conveyance, or vesting order, the purchaser's right to compensation for defects in title to which his covenants, if any, do not extend, is usually gone: Allen v. Richardson, 13 Ch. D. 524; Manson v. Thacker, 7 Ch. D. 620; Egleson v. Howe, 3 Ont. App. 566; Re Bucke, Peck v. Bucke, 6 P. R. 98; Kincaid v. Kincaid, 6 P. R. 93; Follis v. Porter, 11 Gr. 442; McCall v. Faithorne, 10 Gr. 324; Joliffe v. Baker, 11 Q. B. D. 255; 48 L. T. N. S. 966; Besley v. Besley, 9 Ch. D. 103; Clayson v. Leech, 61 L. T. N. S. 69; but where there is an express condition for compensation: see Bos v. Helsham, 2 L. R. Ex. 72; Re Turner & Skelton, 13 Chy. D. 130; 41 L. T. N. S. 668; Palmer v. Johnson, 12 Q. B. D. 32; 13 Q. B. D. 351; 51 L. T. N. S. 211; where the conveyance has been made to a third party: and see McLennan v. Cheguin, 37 U. C. Q. B. 301.

Exception, where misstatements in advertisement.

But misstatements, or suppression, in the advertisement of a sale by the Court, of material facts, may form the ground for compensation even after conveyance, so long as the fund remains in Court: Cann v. Cann, 3 Sim. 447; Bull v. Harper, 6 P. R. 36; Turrill v. Turrill, 7 P. R. 142; and see Horner v. Williams, Jo. & Ca. 274; Re Perriam, Perriam v. Perriam, 49 L. T. N. S. 710, and see Palmer v. Johnson, 13 Q. B. D. 351; or the sale, may, after or before, conveyance, be set aside: Nash v. Wooderson, 52 L. T. N. S. 49; Brewer v. Brown, 78 L. T. Jour. 79, and so also stipulations in the advertisement for the delivery of possession, if not carried out, may be the subject of compensation even after a vesting order has been taken, so long as the purchase money remains in Court: Barber v. Barber, 11 P. R. 137; and where a purchaser has by mistake or inadvertence taken a vesting order before an incumbrance has been discharged which he is entitled to have discharged, so long as the purchase money remains under the control of the Court it may be ordered to be applied in discharge of the incumbrance: Fleming v. McDougall, 8 P. R. 200.

Specific performance when not enforced.

The Court will not enforce specific performance of a contract, with compensation for misdescription, where the sale was made by a vendor in a fiduciary capacity, and any cestui que trust would have a right to complain of the sale, if so enforced, as a breach of trust: Osborne v. Farmers & M. B. Socy., 5 Gr. 326; Mortlock v. Buller, 10 Ves. 292; Goodwin v. Fielding, 4 D. G. M. & G. 104; Sneizely v. Thorn, 1 Jur. N. S. 125; Dunn v. Flood, 28 Ch. D. 586; 49 L. T. N. S. 670; and it is immaterial whether the trustees are plaintiffs or defendants: Ib.; sed vide Sea v. McLean, 23 C. L. J. 352, 14 S. C. R. 632.

Misrepresentations, ground for rescission.

The misrepresentation of material facts may entitle the purchaser to have the contract rescinded: Gale v. Hubert, 6 Gr. 312; Redgrave v. Hurd, 20 Ch. D. 1.

Dower, purchaser entitled to release of.

The purchaser is entitled to a conveyance with bar of dower by vendor's wife; if she refuse to bar dower, the purchaser is entitled to an abatement, or to rescind the contract: Kendrew v. Shewan, 4 Gr. 578; VanNorman v. Beaupré, 5 Gr. 599; or to have a portion of the purchase money, sufficient to answer the dower, set apart until the wife's death, and the interest thereon paid to the vendor during his wife's life: see Skinner v. Ainsworth, 24 Gr. 148; and Loughead v. Stubbs, 27 Gr. 387. As to the mode of computing dower in an equity of redemption where the dower has not been assigned, but the widow has been in possession of the land: see Re Percy, Stewart v. Percy, 11 Ont. 374.

Reference as to title, when ordered.

Reference as to Title.—The inclination of the Court is in favor of giving the purchaser a reference as to title, if he desire it. And it is only when the evidence is clear that the purchaser intended to waive, and has actually waived his right of examining the title, that a reference will be denied: Micheltree v. Irwin, 13 Gr. at p. 543; and see Jackson v. Jessup, 6 Gr. 157.

On an application by the vendor to compel the purchaser to pay his purchase money into Court, a reference as to title may be ordered, if the purchaser have neither accepted, nor waived his right to examine, the title: Crooks v. Street, 1 Chy. Ch. 95; Street v. Hallett, 6 P. R. 312: McDermid v. McDermid, 8 P. R. 28; 15 C. L. J. 136; Ellwood v. Pierce, 7 P. R. 427.

Waiver of right to reference,

Waiver.—The right to a reference may be waived by long delay, in either demanding an abstract, or making any objection to the title: Ontario Bank v. Sirr, 6 P. R. 216; and see Rae v. Geddes, 18 Gr. 217; or by taking possession:

Denison v. Fuller, 10 Gr. 498; Commercial Bank v. McConnell, 7 Gr. 323; Patterson v. Robb, 6 P. R. 114; O'Connor v. Beatty, 2 Ont. App. 497; but see Wardell v. Trenouth, 24 Gr. 465; Darby v Greenlees, 11 Gr. 351; Micheltree v. Irwin, 13 Gr. 537; Crooks v Glenn, 8 Gr. 239; Morin v. Wilkinson, 2 Gr. 157; O'Keefe v. Taylor, Ib. 305; Jackson v. Jessup, 6 Gr. 156. But it after possession taken, the vendor proceed with the investigation of title, and answer requisitions, the taking of possession will be no waiver: Burroughs v. Oakley, 3 Sw. 159; Aldwell v. Aldwell, 6 P. R. 183; Gordon v. Harnden, 18 Gr. 231. Rules 107, 108. what constitutes.

The right of a purchaser to investigate the title may be also waived by his accepting a conveyance, or vesting order: Bull v. Harper, 6 P. R. 36. So also writing a letter apologising for non-payment of the purchase money, although making no reference to the title; or accepting a release of dower from a person interested in the estate; or the giving of a mortgage to secure the purchase money, are circumstances from which an acceptance of title may be inferred: McDonald v. Garrett, 8 Gr. 290; but see Jackson v. Jessup, 6 Gr. 157. But though the purchaser by taking possession and dealing with the property may waive his right to compel the vendor to make out a good title, he may yet be relieved from payment of his purchase money before completion, on showing that the vendor has no title at all: Denison v. Fuller, 10 Gr. 498. Circumstances from which a waiver may be inferred.

In applying the doctrine of waiver, a distinction is to be observed between the case of a contract, providing that a good title shall be shown, and that possession may be taken before completion; and the case of a purchaser taking possession before completion without any express stipulation in that behalf. There is also a broad distinction between a purchaser going into, or remaining in, possession, and making structural alterations, knowing of the existence of an incurable objection; and one entering with knowledge of objections which are curable. In the former case he may, although entitled to have the title otherwise made out, be held to have waived the particular incurable objection: Re Gloag & Miller, 23 Ch. D. 320; 48 L. T. N. S. 629. Possession taken with knowledge of incurable defects; effect of.

107. The Master is to settle all necessary conveyances for the purpose of carrying out the sale in case the parties differ, or in case there are any persons under any disability (other than coverture) interested in such sale. J. A. Rule 331. Settlement of conveyance.

See Rule 62.

No conveyance of the lands of infants is to be settled until evidence is produced to the officer settling the same of the purchase money having been paid into Court, or of the payment into Court having been dispensed with; and in cases where there is a mortgage for a part of the purchase money until evidence is given to the officer settling the conveyance that such mortgage has been registered and deposited with the Accountant: Rule 1004. The proper evidence of the payment of the purchase money into Court and of the deposit of the mortgage is the certificate of the Accountant or of his Chief Clerk. The order for dispensing with payment into Court can only be made by a Judge in Chambers, or the Master in Chambers, or Master in Ordinary; the Local Judges of the High Court and Local Masters have no power to make such orders: Rule 41.

108. After a sale under an order is confirmed, the vendor is, forthwith upon demand, to deliver an abstract of title to the purchaser; and if the purchaser does not serve objections within seven days, he is to be deemed to have accepted the abstract as sufficient. If objections are served, the vendor is to answer them within fourteen days; and if the Delivery of abstract. If no objection served, abstract to be deemed sufficient. Objections

Rule 108. purchaser is still dissatisfied, and if the parties cannot otherwise agree, either party may obtain from the Master a warrant to consider the abstract. Chy. O. 390.

This and the six following Rules apply to all cases where a reference as to title is made to a Master or Official Referee, as well as to sales by the Court: Rule 115. But where a sale is made out of Court, subject to certain conditions as to the delivery of objections to title within a specified time, and before action objections are delivered, the purchaser on an action for specific performance being subsequently brought, cannot in the Master's office deliver any further objections: Imperial Bank v. Metcalfe, 11 Ont. 467; except by leave of the Court; the Master has no power to grant such leave: Clarke v. Langley, 10 P. R. 208.

Abstract, delivery of.

In sales by the Court, the solicitor of the party conducting the sale, is considered the vendor's solicitor, and it is from him the abstract must be demanded, and it is his duty to prepare, and deliver it.

Demand of abstract.

The vendor is only required to deliver an abstract on demand. The demand should be in writing: see R. S. C. c. 164, s. 91.

Neglect of purchaser to demand, effect of.

The purchaser may, if he please, investigate the title, without making the demand. And where he made no demand of an abstract, and made no objection to the title, for twenty-three months, he was held to have waived his right to object to the title: Ontario Bank v. Sirr, 6 P. R. 276; and see Rae v. Geddes, 18 Gr. 217.

Where a purchaser neglects to demand an abstract of title, but brings a suit for specific performance in which the usual reference as to title is directed and an inquiry when the title was first shown, although the Master found the title was first shown in his office, yet as no demand of abstract had been made previous to the suit, the purchaser was ordered to to pay the costs of it: London & Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Graham, 12 P. R. 651.

Neglect of vendor to deliver abstract.

When the vendor neglects, on demand, to deliver an abstract, the purchaser may move to compel him to do so. Or it would seem if the delay is unreasonable, he may apply to be discharged: see Walton v. Armstrong, 11 Gr. 379. The purchaser is entitled to a solicitor's abstract, and not merely a registrar's abstract, unless there be an express condition of sale to the contrary.

Although the taking of possession by the purchaser, may amount to a waiver of title, yet if the vendor afterwards deliver an abstract, or proceeds with the investigation of the title, he cannot set up the waiver: Aldwell v. Aldwell, 6 P. R. 183; Gordon v. Harnden, 18 Gr. 231.

Abstract, nature of.

An abstract may be defined to be a brief statement of all material deeds, and facts, necessary to be proved, in order to establish a good title in a vendor.

Objection to abstract, how made.

After the receipt of the abstract, the purchaser may deliver objections to the abstract; e.g., that assuming the chain of title therein set out to be proved, it does not show a good, or any title, in the vendors; or that the effect of any instrument is not sufficiently abstracted. This class of objections is confined to the sufficiency of the abstract per se. The objections should be specific, and point out clearly the alleged defect.

Determination of.

As to the determination of questions thus raised, see Rule 109, infra: McManus v. Little, 3 Chy. Ch. 263. After the abstract has been made perfect, or accepted as sufficient, the next step is its verification, and any defects in the proofs form the subject of objections to, or requisitions on, the title, as provided by Rules 112-114.

Objection to title, delivery of.

The purchaser should not deliver objections, and requisitions, on title, until all objections to the abstract are disposed of, or he will be held to have waived all objections to the abstract: McManus v. Little, 3 Chy. Ch. 263.

109. The Master is to determine all questions upon the abstract and the sufficiency thereof; and, if desired by the purchaser, may require the vendor to make the same as perfect as he can; and if the vendor neglects or refuses to do so, he may permit the purchaser to supply defects therein, at the vendor's expense. Chy. O. 391.

Rules 109-111. Master to determine question as to sufficiency of abstract.

Where the objections to the abstract are not removed within fourteen days after service of the objections, it is not necessary to obtain any order of reference, in order to obtain the Master's decision; but the vendor, or purchaser, may carry the abstract and objections, into the Master's office, and obtain a warrant to consider the abstract.

Objections to abstract may be referred to Master.

If the Master hold the abstract to be insufficient, and the vendor neglect, or refuse, to supply the defects, the purchaser may be permitted to do so. This, of course, will not always be in the power of a purchaser; but where deeds are registered, the purchaser may frequently obtain the necessary information to perfect the abstract from the Registry office.

Vendor may supply defects in abstract.

A condition of sale that "the examination of title is to be at the expense of the purchaser, who is to call for only those deeds and papers in my possession and under my control," does not relieve the vendor from delivering an abstract of title, even though such an abstract be not among the papers in his possession or control: Re Banstead & Warwick, 12 Ont. 488.

The vendor is usually bound to verify the abstract, by the production of all documents abstracted, or by proper secondary evidence, where the non-production of the originals is sufficiently accounted for; and by producing affidavits of all facts necessary to be proved in order to make out title: see Rule 112.

Verification of abstract.

A good title is not shown until it is both exhibited by the abstract, and the vendor is able and willing to verify it: Granger v. Latham, 14 Gr. 209; Parr v. Lovegrove, 6 Jur. N. S. 600; but see Laird v. Paton, 7 Ont. 137; 20 C. L. J. 385; London & Canadian L. & A. Co. v. Graham, 12 P. R. 651.

Good title, when shown.

110. The Master is not to make a report on the abstract, but is to mark the objections as allowed or disallowed, as the case may be; and when he finds the abstract perfect, or as perfect as the vendor can make it, he is to certify to that effect at the foot or on the back; and such finding is to be final without filing, unless appealed from in the same manner as from a Master's report. Chy. O. 392.

Master is not to make a report, but is to mark objections allowed, or disallowed.

Where the Master made a report on the title, instead of marking the objections "allowed," or "disallowed," the Court refused to entertain an appeal from his report, but referred the matter back to the Master, to be dealt with as provided by this Rule: Cockenour v. Bullock, 12 Gr. 73.

As to the time for appealing from a Master's report, see Rules 848, 850.

111. After an abstract is confirmed, or is accepted by the purchaser as sufficient, no objection to the abstract is to be allowed. Chy. O. 393.

After abstract confirmed, no further objection allowed.

The abstract is accepted as sufficient, if the purchaser does not serve any objection within seven days after its delivery: Rule 108. It is confirmed, if the Master disallow the objections, and no appeal is had from his finding within the time limited by Rules 848, 850.

Rule 112. Verification of abstract.

112. After acceptance or confirmation of the abstract, the verification is to be proceeded with, and the vendor is with all diligence to afford the purchaser all the means of verification in his power, in the manner, and according to the practice usual with conveyancers; and after having done so, he may serve a notice on the purchaser to make the objections or requisitions, if any, within seven days, or that otherwise he will be deemed to have accepted the title. Chy. O. 394.

Notice to deliver objections and requisitions.

Verification of abstract.

Verification of Abstract.—The practice of conveyancers, is for the vendor's solicitor to give notice of a time and place, (usually his own office), where the abstract will be verified. Sometimes the deeds, and evidences of title, are sent to the purchaser's solicitor. So far as the title deeds are concerned, the abstract is verified by the production of the originals, or such of them as are in the vendor's possession, and by producing certified copies of the deeds, or registered memorials, where the originals are not in the vendor's possession. Sometimes, however, notarial copies are furnished, e.g., where a deed covering other lands is in the hands of some third party. In verifying the abstract the production of the title deeds is sufficient proof of their due execution, unless evidence is adduced casting doubt upon their authenticity: see Coventry 41. As to how far registered memorials are evidence, and as to how far recitals in deeds are evidence of the facts recited, see R. S. O. c. 112, ss. 1, 2; Sanders v. Reg. 1. Ont. 178; 18 C. L. J. 206; Allan v. McTavish, 28 Gr. 539; Reg. v. Guthrie, 41 U. C. Q. B. 148; Canada Permanent Loan & Savings Co. v. Ross, 7 P. R. 79; for cases before the Statute, see Wishart v. Cook, 15 Gr. 237; Gough v. McBride, 10 C. P. 166; Re Higgins, 19 Gr. 303; S. C. 4 Chy. Ch. 128; Russell v. Fraser, 15 C. P. 375.

Title deeds, how proved.

Where the vendor relies on a possessory title, the possession must be proved by affidavits and the purchaser is entitled to cross-examine the deponents: Re Boustead & Warwick, 12 Ont. 49; McIntosh v. Rogers, 12 P. R. 389.

Other facts, how proved.

Facts necessary to be proved in order to make out the title, e.g., death, intestacy, heirship, etc., are required to be proved by affidavit; but statutory declarations of such facts, taken on a former devolution of the title, are usually accepted as evidence, and need not be corroborated by affidavits made in the action. By R. S. O. c. 112, s. 1, recitals and descriptions of facts, matters, and parties contained in deeds, instruments Acts of Parliament, or statutory declarations twenty years old at the date of the contract, shall, unless and except so far as they are proved to be inaccurate, be taken to be sufficient proof of such facts, matters and descriptions; and see Re Ponton & Swanston, 16 Ont. 669; Re Marsh & Granville, 24 Ch. D. 11; 48 L. T. N. S. 947.

Deeds must be registered at vendor's expense.

Where the title is a registered title, all instruments in the chain of title must be registered, and any unregistered deeds in the chain of title, must be registered at the expense of the vendor: Kitchen v. Murray, 16 C. P. 69; Brady v Walls, 17 Gr. 699; Fahner v. Ran, 1 Chy. Ch. 246; Sweetnam v. Sweetnam, 6 P. R. 83; Laird v. Paton, 7 Ont. 137; 20 C. L. J. 385. Where a registered deed appears on the abstract it is not sufficient verification of the abstract to produce a deed apparently between the same parties as the registered deed, but bearing no certificate of registration, without in some way establishing the identity of the deed produced with that registered: McIntosh v. Rogers, 12 P. R. 389.

Copies, when to be furnished by vendor.

In the absence of any express condition of sale to the contrary, the vendor is bound to furnish, at his own expense, to the purchaser, copies of all instruments relating to the title which are not of record: Re Charles, 4 Chy. Ch. 19. He is also bound to furnish copies of all deeds registered by memorial, but it was held not of deeds registered in full: Ib.; but see Harrison v. Joseph, 8 P. R. 293; but in a later case it was held by Street, J., that the vendor is bound to produce and deliver to the purchaser certified copies of all deeds, of which he cannot produce the originals, whether registered in full or not: McIntosh v. Rogers, 12 P. R. 289; and see Bobier & Ontario Invt. Assoc. 16 Ont. 259. Rule 112.

Liability of vendor to furnish deeds qualified by conditions.

The ordinary liability of a purchaser to produce all necessary evidence to make out a good title, and to deliver on completion the original deeds, or copies of such as are not in his possession, may be qualified by special conditions of sale. Where special conditions are imposed, they have to be set out in full in the advertisement: see Rule 94. Special conditions of this kind should not be unnecessarily stringent, as they are calculated to damp the sale. Thus where the proof of title was involved in no difficulty a condition of sale that "the vendor is not to be bound to give any evidence of title, or any title deeds or copies thereof, other than such as are in his possession, or produce any abstract," was held to be very objectionable, and one that should not be sanctioned by the Master, even by consent: McDonald v. Gordon, 2 Chy. Ch. 125.

Vendor may be bound, notwithstanding such conditions, to prove title.

But it seems that even such a condition would not exempt a vendor from otherwise showing a good title: Canada Permanent Building Society v. Wallis, 8 Gr. 368; McIntosh v. Rogers, 12 P. R. 389; 14 Ont. 97; Secus, where the vendor purports to sell only such title as he has, but even then, if it can be shown by the purchaser that the vendor has no title at all, the contract will not be specifically enforced against the purchaser: Leslie v. Preston, 7 Gr. 434; Jones v. Clifford, 3 Ch. D. 779; Darlington v. Hamilton, Kay 550; but see Hume v. Pocock, L. R. 1 Chy. 379; Hume v. Bentley, 5 D. G. & S. 520; even where a vendor advertises to sell only such title as he has, he is bound to convey that title free from any subsisting incumbrance: Goold v. Birmingham, Dudley & District Bank, 58 L. T. N. S. 560. The Court will not knowingly pass off a bad title, by the aid of special, or misleading conditions: Else v. Else, L. R. 13 Eq. 196; Seton 1300, 1395.

Court will not pass off a bad title, knowingly.

Crown bonds.

The vendor is bound to procure the discharge of Crown Bonds affecting the land: Re Charles, 4 Chy. Ch. 19. Crown Bonds of the Province of Ontario, are no longer a charge on land of the obligor, unless registered against it: R. S. O. c. 94; Re Franklin, 8 P. R. 470; nor are Crown Bonds of the Dominion: 51 Vict. c. 36 (D). The vendor is also bound to remove certificates of lis pendens registered against the land: Bobier & Ontario Invt. Assoc., 16 Ont. 259.

Taxes, and incumbrances.

The vendor is not bound to give evidence, negativing the existence of arrears of taxes, or other incumbrances: Thompson v. Milliken, 9 Gr. 359. As to punishment for concealing incumbrances, or falsifying pedigree, etc., after written demand of abstract: see R. S. C. c. 164, s. 91. But he is bound to have removed from the register or otherwise nullified any registered instrument, appearing to create an adverse interest in the land, even though such instruments purport to be made by parties having no apparent title: Keefer v McKay, 10 P. R. 345.

Deeds by T. & L. Co. & Canada Co.

As to execution of deeds, by the Trust & Loan Co.: see 25 Vict., c. 72; Trust & Loan Co. v. Monk, 14 Gr. 385; by Canada Company; Woodhill v. Sullivan, 14 C. P. 255; Fell v. South, 24 U. C. Q. B. 196.

Covenants by Canada Co.

The Canada Company is not exempted from giving ordinary covenants for title: see Scarlett v. Canada Co., 1 Chy. Ch. 90.

Notice to deliver objections, service of.

As soon as the vendor's solicitor considers the verification of the abstract is complete, he should serve notice on the purchaser to deliver objections, and requisitions.

The Master has no jurisdiction to permit further objections to be delivered after the time limited by this Rule, but the Court on special application for that purpose may permit further objections to be delivered: Clarke v. Langley, 10 P. R. 208. And where under the conditions of sale, the time for putting in objections has expired before the reference to the Master takes place, no further objections can be delivered in the Master's office: Imperial Bank v. Metcalfe, 11 Ont. 467.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 113. Objections, and requisitions, to whom to be delivered.

113. Upon being served with such notice, the purchaser, if dissatisfied, is to serve his objections or requisitions within the time thereby limited; and the like course is to be followed upon such objections or requisitions as is prescribed by Rules 108, 109, and 110, in relation to the abstract. Chy. O. 395.

Requisitions on title.

Requisitions on, and Objections to, Title.—If the purchaser is dissatisfied with the proofs of title adduced by the vendor, he must deliver his objections, and requisitions, within seven days after receipt of notice so to do, or he will be deemed to have accepted the title.

Objections to title:

The existence of an easement undisclosed by the particulars was held a valid objection, although the property was offered "subject to any existing public and private rights of way, and other rights and easements of whatever nature": Heywood v. Mallalieu, 49 L. T. N. S. 658. The existence of registered deeds by parties apparently having no title is a valid objection: McKay v. Keefer, 10 P. R. 345; the fact that the sale was by trustees under unnecessarily depreciative conditions is also a valid objection: Re Rayner, 53 L. T. N.S. 495.

The existence of a public road across the land was held a valid objection to the title, although a resolution of the Municipal Council to close it, had been passed: Kronsbien v. Gage, 10 Gr. 572. So also is an outstanding claim to dower: Gamble v. Gummerson, 9 Gr. 193. So also is the lunacy of a previous owner of the land: Francis v. St. Germain, 6 Gr. 636. So also is the fact that the vendor, an attorney, claimed through a will prepared by himself: Grove v. Bastard, 2 Phil. 621. So also is the fact that the title came through a will, whereby the testator purported only to devise a moiety: Stapylton v. Scott, 16 Ves. 273; and where the validity of the vendor's title depended on the fact of his having purchased without notice: Freer v. Hesse, 4 D. M. & G. 495; but a supposed equity in a person who died upwards of fifty years ago, where the possession since that time had been in another, and the vendor had a good legal title, was held no objection: Dewitt v. Thomas, 10 Gr. 21; McIntosh v. Rogers, 12 P. R. 389; Imperial Bank v. Metcalfe, 11 Ont. 467; Re Shortt & Howard, before Boyd, C., 21 Mar. 1888.

Possession, inquiry should be made as to.

Inquiry should always be made as to the possession. If a stranger be in possession, the purchaser should insist on his being ejected by the vendor. Although it would seem that possession is no longer constructive notice of the title of the person in possession as against a party claiming under a registered title: Bell v. Walker, 20 Gr. 569; Gray v. Ball, 23 Gr. 390; Sherboneau v. Jeffs, 15 Gr. 574; not even though there be actual notice of the possession: Cooley v. Smith, 40 U. C. Q. B. 543; Roe v. Braden, 24 Gr. 589.

No longer constructive notice of title.

but where the person in possession is tenant under a lease for a term not exceeding seven years, his interest is protected though his lease be not registered: R. S. O. c. 114, s. 35; Latch v. Bright, 16 Gr. 653. As to effect of possession. see Attorney-General v. McNulty, 11 Gr. 281, 581; Gray v. Coucher, 15 Gr. 419.

Purchaser need not inquire as to regularity of proceedings. But must see that all necessary parties are bound, etc.

In investigating the title, the purchaser at a sale by the Court, is not bound to inquire into the regularity of the proceedings in the action; if the judgment appear to be regular on its face, he will be protected: Shaw v. Crawford, 4 Ont. App. 371; Gunn v. Doble, 15 Gr. 655; McLean v. Grant, 20 Gr. 76. He must, however, ascertain that all proper necessary parties are bound by the judgment: Lechmere v. Brasier, 2 J. & W. 287; Calvert Godfrey, 6 Beav. 97; Bennett v. Hamill, 2 Sch. & Lef. 577; and that the sale was in accordance with the judgment: Colclough v. Sterum, 3 Bli. 181; Talbott v. Minnett, 6 Ir. Eq. 83. An order of the Court is not invalidated as against a bonâ fide purchaser under it on the ground of want of jurisdiction, or of want of any concurrence, consent, notice, or service: R. S. O., c. 44, s. 10.

Requisitions, how adjudicated on.

Where the requisitions, and objections, or any of them, are not answered, either party may carry in the objections, or such of them as are not answered, before the Master, as provided by Rule 108, and get his decision thereon.

There are some objections which are not strictly objections to the title, but are considered "matters of conveyance." Thus, the existence of outstanding incumbrances, or satisfied mortgages—where the vendor is entitled to require the party appearing entitled thereto, to join in the conveyance to the purchaser, or to release or discharge his incumbrance—are not objections to the title. But where the vendor is unable to procure such conveyance, or release, such incumbrances then constitute an objection to the title: see Re Great Northern Ry. Co. v. Sanderson, 25 Ch. D. 788; 50 L. T. N. S. 87. Rule 114. Matters of conveyance, what are.

114. In case of the refusal or neglect of the vendor to verify any portion of the abstract to the best of his ability, or to furnish any necessary proof or documents in his power, the Master may authorize the purchaser to do so at the vendor's expense. Chy. O. 396. On refusal of vendor to verify abstract, Master may authorize purchaser to do so.

Costs of Reference as to Title.—In sales by the Court, the purchaser is entitled to his costs of the reference, where the title proves good, on grounds not appearing on the abstract: Fielder v. Higginson, 3 V. & B. 142; and will not be ordered to pay the vendor's costs though the title is proved according to the abstract: Flower v. Hartop, 8 Beav. 200; Holland v. King, 1 W. R. 80; Dart. V. & P. 1210; unless the objections are frivolous and vexatious: Thorpe v. Freer, 4 Mad. 466; Peers v. Sneyd, 17 Beav. 151; Seton, 1312, 1313; Platt v. Blizzard, 29 Gr. 46; Hurd v. Robertson, 7 Gr. 42; Laird v. Paton, 7 Ont. 137. A special application is necessary for an order for such costs: Flower v. Hartop, supra. Costs of reference as to title, how borne.

A purchaser will be ordered to pay the costs of an unsuccessful application to be relieved from his purchase: Osborne v. Osborne, 18 W. R. 421.

Where a good title cannot be made, the purchaser is entitled to a lien on the land sold, for the deposit and costs: Hurd v. Robertson, 7 Gr. 142. Purchaser's lien for costs.

Conveyance.—In all sales by the Court since The Judicature Act, the Master to whom the action is referred, may settle the conveyance in case the parties differ, or there be any parties not sui juris interested, other than married women, without any special reference: see Rule 89; and see Rules 62, 107. But when infants are interested, the Master is not to settle the conveyance, until the evidence is produced, of the purchase money having been paid into Court, or of its payment having been dispensed with; and where the purchaser is required to give a mortgage, not until evidence is given that the mortgage has been registered, and deposited, with the Accountant: Rule 1004. Conveyance, settlement of, by Master.

It is the purchaser's duty to prepare, and tender, the conveyance for execution: Stephens v. DeMedina, 4 Q. B. 422; Bolton v. Hugel, 35 U. C. Q. B. 407; Watt v. Parker, 2 Chy. Ch. 33; Mooney v. Prevost, 20 Gr. 418; Burns v. Boyd, 19 U. C. Q. B. 547; but see Parker v. Watt, 25 U. C. Q. B. 115; Harrison v. Livingston, T. T. 1 & 2 Vict.; Monck v. Stuart, 4 U. C. Q. B. 203; Prindle v. McCan, Ib. 228; Scott v. Reikie, 15 C. P. 200; McDonald v. Snitsinger, 5 U. C. Q. B. 312; Rogers v. Lake, 9 U. C. Q. B. 264; Smith v. Doan, 15 U. C. Q. B. 634; Thayer v. Street, 11 C. P. 243; Koster v. Holden, 16 C. P. 331; and in the event of the parties differing, or in case of infants, or lunatics, being interested, it must be settled by the Master, before engrossment, or of tender for execution. The purchaser cannot require a covenant by cestui que trust for title: Cottrell v. Cottrell, L. R. 2 Eq. 330; nor where the legal estate is conveyed can he require parties to the action, having merely equitable estates to join in the conveyance. Therefore, upon a sale of mortgaged premises, he cannot require the mortgagor to join in the deed: Ross v. Steele, 1 Chy. Ch. 94; nor the wife of the mortgagor: Moore v. Shinners, 1 Chy. Ch. 59; nor the wife of the mortgagee: Simpson v. Simpson, 1 Chy. Ch. 265. Where, in consequence of the infancy of some of the vendors, a settlement of the conveyance by the Master is rendered necessary, the purchaser's costs will be ordered to be paid out of his purchase money: Re McMorris, 3 Chy. Ch. 430. Purchaser's duty to prepare and tender conveyance. Settlement of, by Master when necessary. Covenants. Equitable interests. Costs.

Rules 115, 116.

Purchaser may take vesting order in lieu of conveyance.

The purchaser is entitled to a conveyance with ordinary covenants, but he may, if he choose, take a vesting order. Wherever the Court has authority to order the execution of a conveyance, it may make a vesting order: R. S. O. c. 44, s. 31. The vesting order is granted in Chambers on production of the report on sale duly confirmed, and proof that the purchase money has been duly paid, or secured, according to the report. Where the purchase money is to be paid into Court, its payment must be proved by the production of the certificate of the Accountant, or his chief clerk. The vendor's solicitor is entitled to notice of the application: Boulton v. Stegman, 1 Chy. Ch. 199; and where infants are interested, the guardian ad litem is usually notified also: Thorne v. Chute, 2 Chy. Ch. 221; but see Boulton v. Stegman, supra. Where the owner of the legal estate became the purchaser, a vesting order was refused: Bowen v. Fox, 1 Chy. Ch. 387; and see Jud. Act, s. 31, and notes ante p. 24.

Application for, how made.

A purchaser cannot be compelled to take a vesting order instead of a conveyance: Laplante v. Seamen, 8 Ont. App. 557.

Costs of vesting order.

Where, in consequence of the absence of one of the vendors from the jurisdiction, the execution of the conveyance prepared, and tendered by the purchaser, could not be procured, and a vesting order was then obtained, the purchaser was held entitled to the extra costs so occasioned: Re McMorris, 3 Chy. Ch. 430; and see Lawrason v. Buckley, 3 Chy. Ch. 270.

Tender of conveyance.

The purchaser sufficiently tenders the conveyance for execution under the standing conditions of sale, by delivering the same to the vendor's solicitor: Weiss v. Crafts, 6 P. R. 151.

Rules 108-114 apply to all references as to title.

115. The foregoing Rules 108 to 114 inclusive, are to apply to all cases of reference to the Master as to title, as well as to sales by the Court. Chy. O. 397.

(iii) Receivers, Committees, etc.

Warrant for appointment of receiver, to name receiver and sureties.

116. The party prosecuting the order for a receiver is to obtain an appointment or a warrant from the Master, and to serve the same on all the necessary parties, naming in the copy thereof served, the proposed receiver and his sureties. See Chy. O. 278.

Receivers, how appointed.

The appointment of receivers, which was formerly exclusively within the jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, may now be made by any Division of the High Court, in any case in which it shall appear to the Court to be just, or convenient: R. S. O. c. 44. s. 53. s.-s. 8; see ante p. 52.

Duty of Receiver.

A receiver is an indifferent person between the parties, appointed by the Court to collect and receive the rents, and profits, of land, or the produce of personal estate, or to take the care and custody of any other property which it does not seem proper to the Court that either of the litigants should do, either by reason of the controversy existing between them, or by reason of personal disability on the part of the party legally entitled, e.g., infancy, or lunacy.

Claim for, to be indorsed on writ.

Where the appointment of a receiver is a substantial part of the relief sought by a plaintiff, he should indorse a claim to that effect on his writ: Colebourne v. Colebourne, 1 Ch. D. 690.

Appointment operates as injunction.

The appointment of a receiver operates as an injunction, and neither of the litigants can receive the money, or property, committed to a receiver, without a contempt of Court, and it is not necessary in the order appointing a receiver to grant an injunction in terms: Kerr on Receivers, 8.

Rule 116. As to whether interim Receiver superseded by judgment quære.

It has been said that an interim receiver is superseded by the judgment subsequently given in the action, unless he be expressly continued by it: Kerr on receivers, 2nd ed. 186, Reeves v. Neville, 10 W. R. 335; Taylor's Ord. 3rd ed. 274; Gibson v. Montfort, 1 Ves. Sr. 485; but the authorities cited do not appear to bear out the proposition: see Seton, 412. The question would appear to depend on the terms of the order appointing the receiver: if appointed "until the trial," then it would seem clear, that unless continued by the judgment pronounced at the trial, he would be superseded by it; but if appointed generally without any limitation as to time, or "until the Court make order to the contrary," then it would seem that he would not necessarily be superseded by the judgment subsequently pronounced, even though not expressly continued by it.

When a receiver has been appointed by the judgment in the action generally, it is not necessary that the judgment on further directions should continue him: Re Underwood, 60 L. T. N. S. 384.

Receiver; when Appointed:—

Receiver, when appointed.

Infants' estate.

Infants.—A receiver will be appointed of an infant's estate in a proper case, as where the father is of bad character or insolvent, and there is danger of loss: Kiffin v. Kiffin, cited 1 P. W. 704; Ex parte Mountfort, 15 Ves. 449 n.; Re Cormicks, 2 Ir. Eq. 264, or there is no testamentary guardian, or one who declines to act: Hicks v. Hicks, 3 Atk. 273; Bridges v. Hales, Mos. 111; or the guardian is misconducting himself: Beaufort v. Berty, 1 P. W. 704, and see Dillon v. Lord Mountcashel, 4 Bro. P. C. 306.

Lunatics' estates.

Lunatics.—A receiver will be appointed over a lunatic's estate, where no person will act as committee, or where the committee is infirm, or the management of the estate onerous: Kerr on Receivers, 78.

As against executors and trustees.

Executors, and Trustees.—The Court will in a proper case appoint a receiver to act in place of an executor, or trustee, but it will not do so on slight grounds. Where fraud is charged a receiver will be appointed: Vernon v. Kinzie, 2 O. S. 40, and see Meacham v. Draper, 2 Gr. 316: or in case of misconduct or improper management, or where there is danger of loss of the trust property: Middleton v. Dodswell, 13 Ves. 266; H. v. H., 1 Ch. D. 276; Colebourne v. Colebourne. Ib. 690; or is wasting the assets: Keene v. Riley, 3 Mer. 436; or that being a sole executor, or trustee, he is insolvent: Harrold v. Wallis, 9 Gr. 443; Re Johnson, L. R. 1 Chy. 325; Gawthorpe v. Gawthorpe, W. N. 1878, 91; although mere poverty is no ground for the appointment: Anon, 12 Ves. 4; but if coupled with bad character it may be: Everett v. Prythergh, 12 Sim. 368; or if being a female, she has married a man in necessitous circumstances, the cestuis que trust being infants: Dillon v. Lord Mountcashel, 4 Bro. P. C. 306. A receiver may also be granted before probate, or administration, to prevent waste or spoilation, and to provide for the collection of assets pending litigation as to the right to administration: Atkinson v. Henshaw, 2 V. & B. 85; Ball v. Oliver, Ib. 96; Jones v. Godrich, 4 Jur. 98; Wood v. Hitchings, 2 Beav. 289; 4 Jur. 858; King v. King, 6 Ves. 172; Re Moore, Ker v. Moore, 13 P. D. 36; 58 L. T. N. S. 386; but see Knight v. Duplessis, 1 Ves. Sr. 324; but to warrant the appointment there must in general be shown to be litigation pending, or threatened, in the Surrogate Court: Jones v. Jones, 3 Mer. 174; Jones v. Frost, 3 Mad. 1; Jac. 466; Marr v. Littlewood, 2 My. & Cr. 458; Parkin v. Seddons, L. R. 16 Eq. 36; or that there is some difficulty in obtaining administration: Overington v. Ward, 34 Beav. 175. Pending litigation respecting the grant of probate or administration, the Surrogate has power to grant administration pendente lite: R. S. O. c. 50, s. 53.

Receiver, when granted on application of, or against, mortgagee of legal estate.

Mortgagee.—Formerly a receiver would not be granted at the instance of a mortgagee entitled to the legal estate: Berney v. Sewell, 1 J. & W. 648; except under special circumstances; see Kerr on Receivers, 29-30, 34; nor against a prior mortgagee in possession at the instance of a subsequent incumbrancer, so long as anything remained due on the prior mortgage. And the Court would only act on the prior mortgagee's own admission that he has been paid off, or his refusal to accept what was due to him: Berney v. Sewell, 1 J. & W. 649; Hiles v. Moore, 15 Beav. 180. But where the prior mortgagee in possession had himself acquired the equity of redemption, and it appeared he had received rents and profits more than sufficient to pay off his mortgage, a receiver might be granted: Steinhoff v. Brown, 11 Gr. 114. And now a receiver may be appointed at the instance of mortgagee of the legal estate, if it shall seem to the Court to be just or convenient so to do: Pease v. Fletcher, 1 Ch. D. 273; but see North London Railway Co. v. Great Northern Railway Co., 48 L. T. N. S. 695. Where the mortgagor is in possession and a receiver is appointed at the instance of the mortgagee, the usual direction for the tenants to attorn is not sufficient to compel the mortgagor to pay a rent to the receiver: but he will from the date of the demand of rent by the receiver be compelled to pay an occupation rent if he continue to retain possession: Yorkshire Banking Co. v. Mallon, 35 Ch. D. 125; 56 L. T. N. S. 399; see Jud. Act, s. 53 (8), and notes.

When on application of equitable mortgagee.

An equitable mortgagee may, after default, have a receiver as against a mortgagor in possession "without prejudice" to the rights of any prior mortgagee: Aikins v. Blain, 13 Gr. 646; Kerr on Receivers, 35. The Court will not try, on an interlocutory motion, the question whether a prior mortgagee in possession has been paid off, when he himself distinctly swears that there is something due; but his affidavit as to the amount due is required to be specific; if vague, or his accounts are so negligently kept that he cannot speak positively, a receiver may be appointed: Rowe v. Wood, 2 J. & W. 558; Hiles v. Moore, 15 Beav. 180; Codrington v. Parker, 16 Ves. 469.

Interim Receiver, when granted on application of creditors.

CREDITORS.—An injunction to restrain a debtor from alienating his property pendente lite, cannot in general be obtained by a simple contract creditor suing to recover his debt, where the debtor is in esse; nor under such circumstances could a receiver be granted: National Provincial Bank of England v. Thomas, 24 W. R. 1013; Owen v. Homan, 4 H. L. C. 1036; Robinson v. Pickering, 50 L. J. C. A. 527; Hepburn v. Patton, 26 Gr. 587; not even though the debtor be a public company: McCall v. Canada Farmers' Mutual Insurance Co., 18 C. L. J. 117; Mills v. Northern Railway of Buenos Ayres Co., L. R. 5 Chy. 621; nor though the creditor be an unpaid vendor, and the company admit their liability: Latimer v. Aylesbury & Bedford Railway Co., 9 Ch. D. 385.

But when the debtor is dead, a receiver may be obtained by a simple contract creditor against the personal representative, or devisee, wasting the assets of the deceased: see Keene v. Riley, 3 Mer. 436; and of the realty when it appears the personal estate is insufficient: Jones v. Pugh, 8 Ves. 71; Chalk v. Raine, 13 Jur. 981: Kerr on Receivers, 40. Since The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 108), the realty and personalty of a deceased person constitute a common fund for the payment of his debts, and it would seem no longer necessary to establish that the personalty is insufficient as a condition of obtaining a receiver of the realty.

After judgment, Receiver may be appointed.

And a creditor who has obtained judgment may apply for a receiver by way of equitable execution, as against property of the debtor, which could not be reached by a writ of execution: Anglo-Italian Bank v. Davies, 9 Chy. D. 275; Smith v. Hurst, 1 Coll. 705; 10 Ha. 48; Wells v. Kilpin, L. R. 18 Eq. 208; Tillet v. Pearson, 43 L. J. Chy. 93; Fuggle v. Bland, 11 Q. B. D. 711; Westhead v. Riley, 49 L. T. N. S. 776; Perks v. Mybred, 76 L. T. Jour. 336; Kincaid v. Reed, 21 C. L. J. 144; Kincaid v. Kincaid, 12 P. R. 462; Book v. Ruth, 20 C. L. J. 193. Formerly, in such cases it was necessary, before applying for a receiver, to sue out a writ of execution; but it would seem now that if the property cannot be reached by the writ, such a preliminary is not necessary: Ex parte Evans, 13 Chy. D. 259; and see ante p. 60.

Against Railway Company.

Although an interim receiver cannot, in general, be granted in favour of a creditor against a debtor company: McCall v. Canada Farmer's Mutual Insurance Co., 18 C. L. J. 117, it is sometimes the only relief that can be awarded, after judgment has been obtained. Thus, neither an execution creditor, nor a mortgagee, of a railway company, can enforce payment of his demand, by sale, or foreclosure, of the railway; he can only do so by procuring a receiver and manager of the undertaking to be appointed: Galt v. Erie &

Niagara Railway Co., 14 Gr. 499; Peto v. Welland Railway Co., 9 Gr. 455, affirmed on re-hearing, 16th Feb. 1864; Brantford v. Grand River Navigation Co., 8 Gr. 246; and see Breeze v. Midland Railway Co., 26 Gr. 225 (where the plaintiff claimed a mechanic's lien): Kerr on Receivers, 46-7, 50. But where a railway company had been ordered to be wound up, and an unpaid vendor brought a suit to enforce his lien for purchase money, it was held that he was entitled to an injunction restraining the company from using the land until payment of the purchase money: Allgood Merrybent & Darlington Ry. Co. 33 Ch. D. 571; and see Williams v. Aylesbury & Buckingham Ry. Co., 28 L. T. N. S. 547. Rule 116.

Where a receiver is appointed at the instance of a judgment creditor, it is without prejudice to the claims of prior mortgagees, if any; Legg v. Mathieson, 2 Giff. 71; Wildy v. Mid-Hants Railway Co., 16 W. R. 409; Potts v. Warwick & B. C. Co., Kay 145. Appointment not to prejudice prior mortgagees.

PARTNERS.—The Court in granting a receiver of partnership property, thereby takes the affairs of the partnership out of the hands of all the partners, and entrusts them to a receiver or manager of its own appointment; and while an injunction only restrains one or more of the partners from doing what may be complained of, the appointment of a receiver excludes all alike from taking part in the management of the concern: Hall v. Hall, 3 Mac. & G. 86. It, therefore, does not follow that the Court will grant a receiver pendente lite, in every case where it would grant an injunction. Receiver, when appointed in partnership cases.

When a dissolution is neither sought, nor is absolutely necessary, a receiver pendente lite will not in general be granted of a "going concern": Goodman v. Whitcomb, 1 J. & W. 589; Roberts v. Eberhardt, Kay 148; Hall v. Hall, supra; unless there is danger of the business being destroyed, or the assets misapplied in the meantime; or unless one partner is misconducting himself; e.g., by colluding with debtors of the firm: Estwick v. Conningsby, 1 Vern. 118; or carrying on a separate trade with the partnership property: Harding v. Glover, 18 Ves. 281; or is wrongfully excluding the plaintiff from the management: Wilson v. Greenwood, 1 Sw. 481; Goodman v. Whitcomb, 1 J. & W. 592; Rowe v. Wood, 2 J. & W. 558; Const v. Harris, T. & R. 525; Prentiss v. Brennan, 1 Gr. 371; Bilton v. Blakely, 6 Gr. 575; Steele v. Grossmith, 19 Gr. 141. Not appointed pendente lite of going concern.

Where a partnership is alleged on one side and denied on the other, usually a receiver is appointed until that question has been determined: Peacock v. Peacock, 16 Ves. 49; Chapman v. Beach, 1 J. & W. 504 n; Fairburn v. Pearson, 2 Mc. & G. 144. Exceptions to rule.

TENANTS IN COMMON.—A receiver has been appointed in a partition action pendente lite, although there has been no exclusion by any of the co-owners: Porter v. Lopes, 7 Ch. D. 358. Formerly a case of destructive waste, or gross exclusion, was necessary to be made to warrant the appointment of a receiver in such a case: Kerr on Receivers, 79; but see Gaskin v. Balls, 13 Ch. D. 313, per Thesiger, L.J.; and North London R. W. Co. v. Great Northern R. W. Co., 11 Q. B. D. 30; 48 L. T. N. S. 695, where it was held the jurisdiction to grant injunctions, has not been extended by The Judicature Act; see Phillips v. Jones, 76 L. T. Jour. 373. Receiver, when appointed as against cotenant in common.

VENDOR AND PURCHASER.—In actions for specific performance, a receiver pendente lite may, in a proper case, be appointed: Kennedy v. Lee, 3 Mer. 448; Hall v. Jenkinson, 2 V. & B. 125; McLeod v. Phelps, 2 Jur. 962; and see Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302; 5 Ch. D. 740, a case of chattels; or in actions to set aside conveyances as obtained by fraud: Stillwell v. Wilkins, Jac. 282; Huguenin v. Baseley, 13 Ves. 107; 2 White & Tud. Lg. Cases, 547. Or between vendor and purchaser.

LEGAL TITLE.—Formerly the Court would not, except under special circumstances, or in cases covered by R. S. O. (1877) c. 40, s. 39, appoint a receiver against a person in possession of lands claiming under a legal title; but since The Judicature Act, it has been held that the jurisdiction is extended, and that a receiver may be appointed even as against a person claiming a legal title, Receiver, when appointed against holder of legal title.

Rule 117. wherever the Court may think it "just or convenient": Real and Personal Advance Co. v. McCarthy, 27 W. R. 706; but see North London R. W. Co. v. Great Northern R. W. Co., 11 Q. B. D. 30; 48 L. T. N. S. 695; Phillips v. Jones, 76 L. T. Jour. 373.

Application for, to be made in Court.

Application for Appointment.—The application for the appointment of a receiver, must in the first instance be made in Court, upon motion for that purpose where the appointment is required to be made pendente lite, or else at the trial, or on motion for judgment in the action; but after a receiver has been appointed, applications to fill vacancies, subsequently occurring in the office may be made in Chambers: Grote v. Bing, 9 Ha. App. l, but the order for a receiver has been granted in Chambers, by consent: Blackborough v. Ravenhill, 16 Jur. 1085; and see 22 Sol. Jour. 914.

Under Rule 1134, a defendant may, before judgment, apply for an interim injunction and receiver. He may do so, notwithstanding the plaintiff has already served notice of motion for the like purpose. In such case, one order will be made on the two motions, but the conduct of it will, in general, be given to the plaintiff: Sargant v. Read, 1 Ch. D. 600.

If the receiver is named by the Court, "on his giving security," no other person can be named in the warrant, and if the person named in the order fail to give the security, a further order would be necessary to enable the Master to appoint some one else.

Receiver, an Officer of the Court.

A receiver when appointed is an officer of the Court, and stands in the position of trustee, to all who are interested in the estate or fund. In making the appointment the Master should endeavour to select a person acceptable to all parties, as well as otherwise fit and competent for the duties he will be called on to perform: Simpson v. Prescott & R. W. Co., 1 Chy. Ch. 99; and see Brant v. Willoughby, 17 Gr. 627.

Should be disinterested, unless Court appoint one of the parties.

A receiver should in general be wholly disinterested, unless the parties otherwise consent, or the Court is of opinion that the appointment of one of the parties would be beneficial to the estate: Sargant v. Read, 1 Ch. D. 600. When a party to the action is appointed it is only on his undertaking to act without salary: Ib.; Wilson v. Greenwood, 1 Sw. 471, 483; Blakeney v. Dufaur, 15 Beav. 40, 44; Kerr on Receivers, 95. Where a receiver is appointed of trust property, the cestui que trust is entitled to have the superintendence of the trustee, as a check upon the receiver; the trustee should not therefore be himself appointed, except under special circumstances: Kerr 95, 96; and where a receiver is appointed of the property of any person not sui juris the guardian or committee of such person, should not be appointed for that reason, nor yet any person connected with him, nor the solicitor in the action: Re Lloyd, 12 Ch. D. 447; nor a Master of the Court: Ex parte Fletcher, 6 Ves. 427.

Who should be appointed, of trust estate.

Parties not eligible.

A party to the action cannot propose himself as receiver unless leave to do so be embodied in the order: Davis v. Duke of Marlborough, 2 Sw. 118.

Security.

The giving of security for the due performance of his duty by the Receiver will not be dispensed with, where infants or other persons not sui juris are interested: Tylee v. Tylee, 17 Beav. 583; nor even where all the parties are sui juris and consent, if it is referred to the Master to appoint the Receiver: Manners v. Furze, 11 Beav. 30; but it may be, if the parties themselves nominate the Receiver: Ib.

On return of warrant, bond to be brought in.

117. At the time appointed, the party prosecuting the order is to bring into the Master's office the bond or recognizance proposed as security. See Chy. O. 279; J. A. Rule 510.

The recognizance, or bond, here referred to, is intended to be brought in as a draft, and should not be executed until it has been approved by the Master, see Rule 119, otherwise its re-execution may be necessary.

The bond, or recognizance, must now be made to the "Accountant of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, his successors and assigns": Rule 156; R. S. O. c. 44 s. 133, s.s. 2: see ante, p. . Rules 118-121.

Where a guarantee company has been approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, its bond may be accepted as security: R. S. O. c. 181, s. 3; and see Carpenter v. Solicitor to the Treasury, 46 L. T. N. S. 821; R. S. O. c. 15, s. 24. Bond, how to be given.

118. Any other party desirous of proposing another person as receiver, is to serve notice of his intention so to do upon the other parties, naming in the notice the person proposed by him as receiver, and his sureties, and is then in like manner to bring into the Master's office the bond or recognizance proposed by him as security. See Chy. O. 280. Party desiring to propose another person as receiver, to give notice.

119. At the time named in the appointment or warrant the Master is, in the presence of the parties, or those who attend, to consider the appointment of the receiver, and to determine respecting the same; and to settle and approve of the proposed security. See Chy. O. 281. Master to appoint receiver and settle, and approve security.

In order to enable the Master to settle the security to be given, affidavits must be filed proving the amount of property likely to come to the receiver's hands. The amount of the security required, will vary according to the circumstances; usually security will be required to be given by the receiver and at least two sureties in double the amount of the probable annual rents of reality, and double the probable amount of personal estate, likely to come to his hands. Evidence to be produced on settling security.

When a receiver has passed his final accounts, and paid his balances as directed by the Court, an application may be made to discharge the bond; all parties interested are entitled to notice of the application: Brown v. Perry, 1 Chy. Ch. 253. Discharge of bond.

120. The Master is to make no report approving of or appointing the receiver, but is to appoint such receiver by signing a written appointment to the following effect, viz.: "IN THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE, DIVISION, [style of cause]—I hereby appoint [receiver's name] receiver in this action, [signature of Master];" which appointment is to be signed without any warrant or attendance for that purpose. See Chy. O. 282. Master not to make report appointing a receiver; but to sign appointment.

Committees of lunatics, and guardian of the person and estate of infants, are to be appointed in the same manner as receivers: Rule 122.

121. After the execution and filing of the securities settled and approved by the Master, the appointment is to be filed by the party who has procured the person named by him as receiver to be appointed, and may be moved against within seven days by any party interested. See Chy. O. 283. Master's appointment of receiver to be filed.

Rules 122, 123. Receiver's appointment, when effectual.

A receiver appointed "upon his giving security," is not effectually constituted receiver as against third parties until he has given the security: Edwards v. Edwards, 1 Ch. D. 454; 2 Ch. D. 291; but if no security be required, he is legally clothed with the character of receiver from the date of his appointment: Taylor v. Eckersley, 2 Ch. D. 302; 5 Ch. D. 740.

Interference by third parties with the property in question, before the appointment is completed, is not a contempt of Court: Ib.; and see Fox v. Nipissing R. W. Co., 29 Gr. 11.

Interference with Receiver, a contempt of Court.

After the appointment of the receiver is complete, any interference with the property committed to his charge and in his possession, either by parties to the action, or third parties having notice of his appointment, is a contempt of Court, unless the leave of the Court have been first obtained: Angel v. Smith, 9 Ves. 335; Russell v. East Anglian R. W. Co., 3 Mc. & G. 104; Ames v. Birkenhead Docks, 20 Beav. 353; even though such interference be by persons claiming by title paramount to that of the parties to the action in which the receiver is appointed: Ib.; Evelyn v. Lewis, 3 Ha. 475; Hawkins v. Gathercole, 1 Drew 17; Randfield v. Randfield, 1 Dr. & Sm. 314; and the Court will not permit any one, without its sanction, to intercept, or prevent payment, or delivery to the receiver, of any money or property which he has been appointed to receive: Ames v. Birkenhead Docks, 20 Beav. 353; but where goods in the possession of a receiver were sold for taxes, and neither the bailiff, nor purchaser, had notice of the receiver's rights, the Court refused to hold the sale void: Gibson v. Lovell, 18 Gr. 197. As to payments which a receiver of a going concern may properly make: see Gooderham v. Toronto & Nipissing Ry. Co., 8 Ont. App. 685.

Receiver to obtain leave to sue, or defend, or distrain.

When it is necessary for the receiver to bring, or defend, an action, or take other legal proceedings, to recover, or maintain, his right to property committed to him, he should first obtain the sanction of the Court: Thomas v. Torrance, 1 Chy. Ch. 9. He cannot sue in his own name, but he must get the leave of the Court to bring the action in the name of the party in whom the legal cause of action is vested: McGuin v. Fretts, 13 Ont. 699; Stuart v. Grough, 14 Ont. 255. The receiver should not himself initiate proceedings, but he should apply to the party having the conduct of the cause to take any proceedings that may be necessary: Third National Bank v. Queen City Refining Co., 20 C. L. J. 151. After attornment by a tenant to the receiver, the receiver may distrain in his own name; before attornment leave must be obtained to distrain in the name of the person having the legal estate: Kerr 142, 143. The application for leave to sue, defend, or distrain, may be made in Chambers: Thomas v. Torrance, 1 Chy. Ch. 9; notice to the tenants is not necessary: Paxton v. Dryden, 6 P. R. 41.

Proceedings against, restrained.

Proceedings instituted against a receiver for acts done by him in the execution of his office, will be restrained: Simpson v. Hutchison, 7 Gr. 308; and see Searle v. Choat, 25 Chy. D. 723; 50 L. T. N. S. 470. After his discharge a receiver will not be restrained from soliciting customers, unless he was appointed on the terms that he would not do so after he ceased to be receiver: Re Irish, Irish v. Irish, 40 Ch. D. 49; 60 L. T. N. S. 224.

Accounts of.

ACCOUNTS OF RECEIVER.—See Rule 123.

Committees of lunatics to be appointed in same manner as receivers.

122. Committees of the persons and estates of lunatics, idiots, and persons of unsound mind, and guardians, excepting guardians ad litem, are to be appointed in the same manner as receivers as nearly as circumstances will permit. Chy. O. 537.

Master to appoint time for Receivers, and Com-

123. Where an order directs the appointment of a receiver, committee of the person and estate of a lunatic, idiot, or person of unsound mind, or a guardian other than a guardian ad litem, and does not regulate the matter herein provided for, the Master is to fix the time or times in each year when the person appointed is to pass his accounts and pay his balances into Court; and in default of compliance with such direction, the person appointed may, on the passing of his accounts, be disallowed any salary or compensation for his services, and may be charged with interest upon his balances. Chy. O. 588.

Rules 124, 125. mittees, to pass accounts where not fixed by Court.

(iv) Foreclosure, Sale and Redemption.

124. Upon a reference under a judgment for foreclosure or sale the Master is to inquire and state, whether any person or persons, and who other than the plaintiff, has or have any lien, charge, or incumbrance upon the land and premises embraced in the mortgage security of the plaintiff, in the writ or pleadings mentioned, subsequent thereto. Chy. O. 442.

Master to inquire as to incumbrances.

This Rule in its terms applied only to the case of mortgages of lands, but a similar procedure is followed upon a judgment for the sale, or foreclosure of chattels.

The inquiry is confined to subsequent incumbrancers; persons against whom relief is sought, whose claims, if any, are prima facie prior to the plaintiff's must be made parties to the writ: Glass v. Freckleton, 10 Gr. 470; Lally v. Longhurst, 12 P. R. 510; and see White v. Beasley, 2 Gr. 662. Where, however, the plaintiff has sought to attack in the Master's office, the priority of an incumbrancer who is prima facie entitled to priority over him, he has been allowed to vacate his judgment and to add the incumbrancer as an original defendant to the writ, and proceed de novo as against him: Lally v. Longhurst, supra. Where the mortgagor was the only defendant, and a decree, by consent, for immediate foreclosure was taken against him, a reference as to incumbrances was refused: Taylor v. Ward, 13 Gr. 590; but it seems doubtful whether the rule laid down in that case would be followed under the present practice. Where there are no incumbrances, the plaintiff should not take a judgment with a reference as to incumbrances: see Rule 776, and notes.

Master to inquire as to incumbrancers subsequent to plaintiff.

The incumbrancers are ascertained by the production of the certificates mentioned in the following Rule.

125. The plaintiff is to bring into the Master's Office certificates from the Registrar and Sheriff of the County wherein the lands lie, setting forth all the incumbrances which affect the property in the writ or pleadings mentioned, and such other evidence as he may be advised. Chy. O. 443.

Plaintiff to bring into M. O. Sheriff's and Registrar's certificates.

The certificates should be brought down to, at least, the day subsequent to the issue of the writ in the action.

It is not necessary to add as parties, those who acquire title pendente lite: Robson v. Argue, 25 Gr. 407; Walbridge v. Martin, 2 Chy. Ch. 275; Bellamy v. Sabine, 1 D. & J. 566, 578, 580, 584; 3 Jur. N. S. 943; Tyler v. Thomas, 25 Beav.

Parties acquiring title pendente lite

Rule 126. need not be added.

47; and see 1 Ric. 2, c. 9; an order adding parties who had acquired interests pendente lite was set aside: Abell v. Parr, 9 P. R. 564; but see Lindsay v. Bank of Montreal, 13 Gr. 86. As to the doctrine of lis pendens see C. L. T. September 87, Bennett on Lis Pendens, c. 1; Price v. Price, 35 Ch. D. 297. The doctrine of Lis Pendens does not affect third persons acquiring title under tax sales pendent lite, Bennett c. 5 s. 88, nor bonâ fide transfers of negotiable paper, Ib. ss. 86, 87; nor rights required under statutes authorizing expropriation, Ib. s. 89.

Sheriff's certificate, form of.

Sheriff's Certificate.—Where the mortgage is of freehold lands, the certificate of the Sheriff must relate to executions against lands, but where the property mortgaged is leasehold, or chattels, it should relate to executions against goods: Sparrow v. Champagne, 5 C. P. 394. The certificates are usually confined to executions against the mortgagor, or other owner of the equity of redemption. But when the practice of registration of judgments was in force, it was held to be necessary to make the judgment creditors of the mortgagee parties also: Sanderson v. Ince, 7 Gr. 383; but in a later case it was held that a creditor of the mortgagee who had obtained an order attaching the mortgage debt, but not an order to pay over, was not an incumbrancer, and ought not to be made a party: Crosbie v. Fenn, 26 Gr. 283. The Sheriff's certificate should be so worded as to include writs which have been withdrawn for renewal, this may be done by making the certificate cover any writs which have been in the Sheriff's hands within thirty days preceding its date: see form of such a certificate, Taylor on Titles, 2nd ed. 197.

Withdrawal of writ for renewal is not an abandonment.

The withdrawal of a writ for renewal is not an abandonment of its priority, but on being returned to the Sheriff renewed, it retains the same position it held prior to its withdrawal for renewal: Rowe v. Jarvis, 13 C. P. 495; Muir v. Munroe, 23 U. C. Q. B. 139. The day of the teste of a fi. fa. is inclusive, so that a writ issued on the 15th day of a month expires on the 14th day of the same month in the following year: Bank of Montreal v. Taylor, 15 C. P. 107. A writ withdrawn for renewal, and not returned for fifteen days thereafter, when a year from the teste had expired, was held, nevertheless, to be re-delivered in sufficient time: Meneilly v. McKenzie, 3 E. & A. 209; but a writ not returned to the Sheriff until six months after its renewal,—owing to mistake,—was held to have lost its priority: Re Hime & Ledley, 13 P. R. 1. A direction by the execution creditor to the Sheriff to stay proceedings, is tantamount to a withdrawal of the writ, and any subsequent execution then in the Sheriff's hands, or thereafter, and during the stay, coming to his hands, will take priority: Trust & Loan Co. v. Cuthbert, 13 Gr. 412.

But a direction to the sheriff to stay, is.

Registrar's certificate.

Registrar's Certificate.—The Registrar's certificate is usually confined to registrations on the particular parcel of land included in the plaintiff's mortgage. But it is well to bear in mind, that judgments for alimony registered against a defendant, bind all his lands situate within the county, or counties, in which the registration is made, without any local description: see R. S. O. c. 44, s. 30, ante p. 23.

C.C. Clerk's certificate, when necessary.

Where the mortgaged property consists of chattels, the certificate of the clerk of the proper County Court should be produced, as to subsequent mortgages.

It is to the interest of the plaintiff to take care that all persons, having any claim as subsequent incumbrancers, are made parties; as the omission to make them parties at the proper time, may lead to difficulty in carrying out any subsequent sale which may be had in the action; and possibly render another action necessary.

Master is to add parties.

126. The Master is to direct all such persons as appear to him to have any lien, charge or incumbrance upon the estate in question, to be made parties to the action, and to be served with a notice in the form No. 34 in the Appendix. Chy. O. 444.

Where it is doubtful whether persons, appearing to have claims, have any valid right, the question should not be determined against them in their absence, but they should be added as parties, and an opportunity given them to maintain their claims: Canada Landed Credit Co. v. McAllister, 21 Gr. 593. Persons whose claims, if any, would be prior to the plaintiff, should be made parties to the writ, and not added in the Master's office: Glass v. Freckleton, 10 Gr. 470; Lally v. Longhurst, 12 P. R. 510; and see Rule 124. Persons having mechanic's liens subsequent to the plaintiff, should be added under this Rule, and not made parties by the writ: Jackson v. Hammond, 8 P. R. 157. An execution creditor whose writ is placed in the Sheriff's hands subsequent to the registration of a mechanic's lien, but prior to the institution of an action to enforce it is a subsequent incumbrancer and may be made a party to the action in the Master's office notwithstanding the 90 days limited by R. S. O. c. 126, s. 23, have expired: Cole v. Hall, 12 P. R. 584, affirmed by C. A., 13 P. R. 100. A creditor of a mortgagee who has obtained an attaching order against the mortgage debt, but who has not obtained an order to pay over, is not an incumbrancer within the meaning of the Rule: Crosbie v. Fenn, 26 Gr. 283; neither is a simple contract creditor of the mortgagor, nor has he any right of redemption: Nichol v. Allenby, 17 Ont. 275; and where a tenant in common mortgages his share, his co-tenants have no equity to redeem that share: Ib.

Rule 127.
Rights of parties, whose claims appear doubtful, not to be decided in their absence.
Mechanics' liens,
Attaching creditor of mortgagee.

Where a subsequent mortgagee is dead his real representatives should not be made parties, it is only necessary to add his personal representatives: Whitla v. Halliday, 4 D. & W. 267; Taylor v. Stead, 1 Chy. Ch. 74; Grimshawe v. Parks, 6 U. C. L. J. 142; Lawrence v. Humphries, 11 Gr. 209; R. S. O. c. 110, s. 16; Dilk v. Douglas, 26 Gr. 99; Robinson v. Byers, 9 Gr. 572; and see now R. S. O. c. 108 ss. 3, 4. And where a mortgage is taken in the name of one partner to secure a partnership debt, it is not necessary to add the real, or personal, representative of a deceased partner: Stephens v. Simpson, 12 Gr. 493.

Deceased mortgagee, representatives to be added.

Subsequent incumbrancers should not be made defendants by writ, even in an action to enforce an annuity: Nelson v. Cochrane, 13 P. R. 76.

Where a person is entitled to rights in two different capacities, if he be made a party to an action distinctly as regards his right in one capacity, he may not be bound as to his rights in the other capacity; e.g., a person made a defendant as a judgment creditor, was held not to be bound in his character of mortgagee: Crooks v. Watkins, 8 Gr. 340.

Person filling two capacities should be added in both, or may not be bound.

Where an execution creditor is made a party in the Master's office as a subsequent incumbrancer, service of the notice (Form 34) upon his solicitor in the action in which the execution was recovered is sufficient: see Rule 465. Where it is brought to the notice of the Master that there are parties having subsequent unregistered claims against the lands, they should be made parties in his office: Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Forbes, 10 P. R. 442.

A mortgagor's tenant for years is entitled to redeem, if the mortgagee refuse to concur in the lease: Tarn v. Turner, 39 Ch. D. 456; 58 L. T. N. S. 558; and should be added as a party: and see Anderson v. Stevenson, 15 Ont. 563.

Persons added as parties under this Rule become parties from the date of the notice, (Form No. 34) not merely from the date of its service: Sterling v. Campbell, 1 Chy. Ch. 147.

127. Any party served with a notice under Rule 126 may apply to the Court at any time within 14 days from the date of the service, to discharge the order making him a party, or to add to, vary, or set aside the judgment. Chy. O. 445.

Parties added may move against order.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 128.

Where a party added by the Master, claims to be prior to the plaintiff, he should move to discharge the Master's order: McDougall v. Lindsay Paper Mills Co., 10 P. R. 247; 20 C. L. J. 133.

Motion to discharge order adding parties in M. O. how made.

In Montgomery v. Shortis, 3 Chy. Ch. 69, the motion to discharge an order adding a party, appears to have been entertained in Chambers; and in McDonald v. Rodgers, 9 Gr. 75, the question was raised on an appeal from the Master's report; and in Kline v. Kline, 3 Chy. Ch. 161, an application was made to the Master himself, to discharge his order adding a party under Rule 46, on grounds disclosed subsequent to the making of the order.

Motions to discharge the order adding the applicant as a party, must be brought on to be heard within fourteen days from the service of the notice, Form No. 34.

Motion to vary judgment must be made to the Court.

Where the party added, desires to move to vary, or set aside the judgment, the motion must be made to the Court—and in the Chancery Division it must be set down to be heard on a Wednesday, and the motion must be returnable within the fourteen days from service of the notice on the party moving: Miller v. Brown, before Proudfoot, V.C., 23rd November, 1880; Wright v. Wright, before Blake, V.C., 29th March, 1881; and see McIlroy v. Hawke, 3 Chy. Ch. 66; Harris v. Meyers, 16 Gr. 117; Jackson v. Gardiner, 2 Chy. Ch. 385. In the other Divisions, the motion should be made before the Judge in Court, on a Tuesday, or Friday.

Leave to move when necessary.

Where the fourteen days is suffered to elapse, before the motion is made returnable to discharge the order, or to vary, or set aside, the judgment, the party added must first obtain leave to move, before he can move to vary, or set aside, the judgment, or set aside the order adding him as party: Roe v. Stanton, 15 Gr. 137; McIlroy v. Hawke, 3 Chy. Ch. 66. This leave, in a proper case, may be obtained on motion in Chambers, but where the applicant failed to show a prima facie case, leave was refused: Box v. Bridyman, 6 P. R. 234.

Incumbrancers to be served with appointment.

128. The Master, before he proceeds to hear and determine, is to require an appointment to the effect set forth in form No. 35 in the Appendix, to be served upon incumbrancers made parties before the judgment. Chy. O. 446.

Defendant who has not appeared, when entitled to notice of proceedings in M. O.

Under the former practice in Chancery, it was held that notwithstanding a bill might have been taken pro confesso against a defendant, he was, nevertheless, entitled under certain circumstances, to notice of proceedings in the Master's office: Robinson v. Whitcomb, 20 Gr. 415; McCormick v. McCormick, 6 P. R. 208; Buchanan v. Tiffany, 1 Gr. 98; Walsh v. Bourke, Ib. 105; Hawkins v. Jarvis, Ib. 257; 1 E. & A. 246; Strachan v. Murney, 6 Gr. 284; but see Perrin v. Davis, 3 Gr. 161. In mortgage cases it was customary to notify not only subsequent incumbrancers who were parties to the bill as required by this Rule; but also the mortgagor, whenever the plaintiff proved any other claim in addition to that alleged in his bill, or where subsequent incumbrancers were added, even though the bill had been taken pro confesso: see McCormick v. McCormick, supra; but see Baby v. Woodbridge, 5 U. C. L. J. 67. But a defendant cannot, in the Master's office, rely on any defence which if sustained would have the effect of determining that the Court had made a nugatory order or judgment: McDougall v. Lindsay Paper Mills Co., 10 P. R. 247; Wiley v. Ledyard, Ib. 182.

Under the new practice there is no equivalent proceeding to an order or note pro confesso; nor any Rule expressly authorizing all subsequent proceedings to be taken ex parte against defendants who do not defend; formerly by Rule 131, it was provided that if no appearance be entered for a defendant "every pleading or document," required to be delivered to such party, may be delivered, by being posted up in the office from which the writ or summons issued; but that Rule has not been embodied in the Consolidated Rules.

Rules 129, 130.

129. Where any person who has been duly served with a notice under Rule 126 or with an appointment under Rule 128, neglects to attend at the time appointed; the Master is to treat such non-attendance as a disclaimer by the party so making default; and the claim of such party is to be thereby foreclosed, unless the Court orders otherwise, upon application duly made for that purpose. Chy. O. 447.

Parties not attending, who have been duly served to be foreclosed.

Notwithstanding a subsequent incumbrancer has been foreclosed under this Rule, he may in some cases obtain leave to prove his claim. Applications for leave to be let in, after the time has expired must be obtained from the Master, if no report has been made, and where the report has issued, then upon motion in Chambers. After a Master has made his (a) general report, he is then functus officio, and there would therefor be no jurisdiction for the Master in Ordinary to entertain such an application under Rule 88; but a Local Master having a general jurisdiction in Chambers under Rule 138 would appear to be entitled to entertain such an application. In Becher v. Webb, 7 P. R. 445, relief was given on the terms of postponing the applicant to a subsequent incumbrancer, who had duly proved his claim: and see Catell v. Simons, 8 Beav. 243; Hull v. Falconer, 11 Jur. N. S. 151; Cameron v. Wolfe Island R. W. Co., 6 P. R. 91; but in Ross v. Stevenson, 7 P. R. 126; Sterling v. Campbell, 1 Chy. Ch. 147, relief was granted, without postponing the applicant.

Application of incumbrancer to be let in to prove after foreclosure.

Terms on which motion granted.

Where an incumbrancer had proved his claim on one mortgage, he was afterwards let in after report, on payment of costs, to prove a claim on another mortgage with a view to consolidating them: Ross v. Stevenson, supra.

Where a person added as a subsequent incumbrancer, appears and disclaims he is not entitled to costs: Hatt v. Park, 6 Gr. 553; Lewin v. Jones, 51 L. T. N. S. 59.

Incumbrancer disclaiming, costs.

130. When all parties have been duly served, the Master is to take an account of what is due to the plaintiff, and to such other incumbrancer or incumbrancers (if any), for principal money and interest; and to tax to them their costs, and settle their priorities: and also to appoint a time and place, or times and places, for payment according to the practice of the Court. Chy. O. 448.

Master to take accounts of plaintiff and incumbrancers.

Proof of Service.—It is the duty of the Master, before proceeding to take the accounts, to require due proof to be adduced of service of the necessary proceedings on all parties not attending before him who are entitled to notice. All subsequent incumbrancers, are entitled to attend the taking of the account, and it would seem also necessary that the defendants named in the writ, should also be notified, even though they have not appeared: see note to Rule 128.

Proof of service of notice.

Taking Account.—The production of the mortgage, and affidavit of the incumbrancer proving his claim is prima facie sufficient proof of the claim: Court v. Holland, 8 P. R. 213; Elliott v. Hunter, 24 Gr. 430; Pollock v. Perry, 5 Gr 591; Hancock v. Maulson, 10 Gr. 483; Warren v. Taylor, 9 Gr. 59; he need not go into evidence to prove that the amount is unpaid: Markle v. Ross, 13 P. R. 135; where the bill was pro confesso, the mortgagee was bound to state the amount actually advanced: Sterling v. Riley, 9 Gr. 343; and in every case it is competent for the parties, if the mortgage has not been made for the purpose apparent on the face of it, to shew in the Master's office, the real purpose for which it was executed: Ib; Penn v. Lockwood, 1 Gr. 547;

Rule 130. Brownlee v. Cunningham, 13 Gr. 586; Morrison v. Robinson, 19 Gr. 480; or for which it is held as security: Inglis v. Gilchrist, 10 Gr. 301; McIntyre v. Thompson, 6 Ont. 710; 19 C. L. J. 393. But to reduce the amount below the amount apparently secured, the evidence must be clear: Fraser v. Locie, 10 Gr. 207.

But where a mortgagor had received only a part of the mortgage money but gave a receipt for the full amount, and the mortgagee thereupon, and before any payment had fallen due under the mortgage, assigned it to a third person who took it bonâ fide without notice that the full amount had not been advanced, it was held that the mortgagor could not as against the assignee dispute that the mortgage was security for the amount it purported to secure, and for which he had given the receipt: Bickerton v. Walker, 31 Ch. D. 151; 53 L. T. N. S. 731.

Collateral advantages stipulated for by a mortgagee over and above his principal and interest; e.g. a bonus, cannot be recovered: James v. Kerr, 40 Ch. D. 449; 60 L. T. N. S. 212.

A mortgagee in possession by an agent may be compelled to give a detailed account of the receipts by the agent; an account merely of the lump sums received from the agent is insufficient: Noyes v. Pollock, 30 Ch. D. 336; 53 L. T. N. S. 430.

Where the secretary of a building society had given the society a mortgage to secure a loan payable by instalments "and other moneys becoming due from the mortgagor to the society," it was held that the mortgagees could not hold the mortgage as security for moneys embezzled from them by the mortgagor after he had assigned the equity of redemption, as against the assignee: Banks v. Sunderland, Eq. Industrial Society, 55 L. T. N. S. 808.

A derivative mortgagee is bound to account to his mortgagor for all profits made by him: thus where a derivative mortgagee by representing himself to be the mortgagee obtained an assignment of the equity of redemption which he subsequently resold at a profit, he was held bound to account for the profit so made: Wilkins v. McLean, 10 Ont.; 13 Ont. App. 467; 14 S. C. R. 22.

Stated account may be relied on in M. O. when.

The plaintiff or defendant may rely in the Master's office, on a stated account set up in the pleadings, although no evidence was given of it on the trial: Edinburg Life Assurance Co. v. Allen, 23 Gr. 238; and see Inglis v. Gilchrist, 10 Gr. 301; Neil v. Neil, 15 Gr. 110; Holgate v. Shutt, 28 Chy. D. 111.

The Master in taking the account under the usual judgment in a mortgage action for sale or foreclosure cannot go into any question affecting the validity of the plaintiff's security: McDougall v. Lindsay Paper Mills Co., 10 P. R. 247; 20 C. L. J. 133, 253; Wiley v. Ledyard, 10 P. R. 182; Bickford v. Grand Junction Ry. Co., 1 S. C. R. 696, and see Re Munsie, 10 P. R. 98; 20 C. L. J. 112.

Where the claim is brought in, in the name of the Accountant of the Court his certificate of the amount appearing due by his books and that he has not been in possession is sufficient prima facie evidence of his claim: Holmested v. Vanderbogart, 19 C. L. J. 97; this was a decision of the Chancellor and Proudfoot, J., on the matter being submitted to them.

Mode of taking, when equity of redemption divided.

As to the proper method of taking the account, where the mortgagor has sold the equity of redemption in part of the mortgaged lands, and has agreed to indemnify the grantee against the mortgage: see Perkins v. Vanderlip, 11 Gr. 488.

Consolidation of mortgages.

Consolidation of Mortgages.—A mortgagee has a right in actions for redemption, or foreclosure, to consolidate his mortgage with any other mortgage held by him and made by the same mortgagor: Watts v. Symes, 1 D. M. & G. 240; Selby v. Pomfret, 1 J. & H. 336; 3 D. G. F. & J. 595; Johnston v. Reid, 29 Gr. 296. A subsequent incumbrancer added in the Master's office has the same right: Merritt v. Stephenson, 7 Gr. 22; Ross v. Stevenson, 7 P. R. 126. But the right to consolidate cannot be enforced against a subsequent registered purchaser, or incumbrancer, without actual notice: Brower v. Canada Permanent Building Society, 24 Gr. 509; Johnston v. Reid, 29 Gr. 296; Miller v. Brown, 3 Ont. 210. Nor can it be enforced, where prior to the creation of the second mortgage, the mortgagor had assigned, or mortgaged, his equity of redemption in the first mortgage, as against such assignee, or mortgagee: Jennings v. Jordan, 6 App. Cas. 698; 45 L. T. N. S. 593; Harter v. Colman, 19 Ch. D. 630; 46 L. T. N. S. 154; and see Baker v. Gray, 1 Ch. D. 491; nor where one of the mortgaged estates has ceased to exist, e.g., when it was a leasehold, or life estate: Re Raggett, ex parte Williams, 44 L. T. N. S. 4; 50 L. J. Chy. 187; nor can a mortgage of realty be consolidated with a mortgage of chattels, so as to throw the debt secured by the realty, on the chattels: Chesworth v. Hunt, 5 C. P. D. 266; 42 L. T. N. S. 774; 49 L. J. C. P. 507; nor can it be allowed in favor of the plaintiff in an action for foreclosure, where one of the mortgages is not in default: Cummins v. Fletcher, 42 L. T. N. S. 859; 49 L. J. Chy. 117, 563. Rule 130.

When an intending purchaser of the equity of redemption inquires of the mortgagee the amount due on a prior mortgage, and the mortgagee neglects to notify him of the claim to consolidate the security with another, the mortgagee is deprived of the right of consolidation as against such person: Dominion Savings & Investment Company v. Kittridge, 23 Gr. 631. So also the assignee of two mortgages cannot consolidate them if his assignor was precluded from so doing: Bird v. Wenn, 33 Ch. D. 215. Mortgagee may be estopped from consolidating.

Tacking.—Tacking a subsequent, to a prior incumbrance, so as to cut out an intervening registered incumbrance, can no longer be done so as to defeat the provisions of The Registry Act, (R. S. O. c. 114,) s. 83; and to this extent tacking is abolished, but there are still some instances in which claims not secured by the mortgage may be tacked thereto as a condition of redemption. Tacking,—what claims may be tacked to mortgage debt.

The mortgagee cannot tack to his mortgage debt a simple contract debt due from the mortgagor: Ferguson v. Frontenac, 21 Gr. 188; Canadian Bank of Commerce v. Forbes, 10 P. R. 442; but he may as against his representatives, in case of his death; and he may tack all prior charges, or incumbrances, paid off by him: Trust & Loan Co. v. Cuthbert, 14 Gr. 410; Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85; Wells v. The Trust & Loan Co., 9 Ont. 170; 20 C. L. J. 407; and he is entitled to claim as against subsequent incumbrancers, or the mortgagor, the full amount due thereon, no matter how advantageous the terms on which he may have acquired them: Watkins v. McKellar, 7 Gr. 586; Dobson v. Land, 8 Ha. 216.

The mortgagee is also entitled to tack to his mortgage debt, any costs occasioned by part of the mortgaged estate being expropriated under any statute: Rees v. The Metropolitan Board of Works, 14 Ch. D. 372; 42 L. T. N. S. 685; 49 L. J. Ch. 620; and also any costs incurred in protecting, or endeavoring to realise, his security: Wilkes v. Sanion, 7 Ch. D. 188; and see Rule 57, note p. 172; and the costs of an abortive sale: Farrer v. Lacey, 31 Ch. D. 42; 50 L. T. N. S. 121; but not the costs of unsuccessful proceedings undertaken without the concurrence of the mortgagor: Wells v. The Trust & Loan Co., supra. Costs.

Merger.—Where an incumbrancer obtains a release of the equity of redemption, a question whether his incumbrance is merged arises. This is a question of intention, and where it is obviously not for his benefit, the Court will not presume any such intention: Hart v. McQuesten, 22 Gr. 133; North of Scotland Mortgage Company v. German, 31 C. P. 349; Elliott v. Jayne, 11 Gr. 412; Weaver v. Vandusen, 27 Gr. 477; Macdonald v. Bullivant, 10 App. R. 582; and see Bell v. Sunderland Building Society, 24 Ch. D. 618; 49 L. T. N. S. 555. Merger, a question of intention.

Improvements.—Where a sale of the mortgaged property under execution is set aside the vendee is entitled to improvements: Shaw v. Tims, 19 Gr. 496; and also when a sale is made by the mortgagee proves invalid: McLaren v. Fraser, 17 Gr. 567; Carroll v. Robertson, 15 Gr. 173. The expense of erecting a carding mill was disallowed: Kerby v. Kerby, 5 Gr. 587. Expenses of planting and tending fruit, and ornamental trees, suitable for carrying out improvements commenced by the mortgagor were allowed, but not their value at the time of redemption: Paul v. Johnson, 12 Gr. 474. Where the mortgagee is charged with rents arising from improvements made by himself, he should be Improvements.—What allowed mortgagee in possession.

allowed the expenses of such improvements, to a corresponding amount: Constable v. Guest, 6 Gr. 510; and see further as to allowances to mortgagees in possession: notes to Rule 57 ante pp. 177-2.

Interest, arrears of, how far recoverable against mortgaged land.

Interest.—Interest on moneys secured by mortgages made after 1st July, 1880, is subject to the provisions of R. S. C. c. 127, ss. 3-8.

Although no arrears of interest which have accrued more than six years before the commencement of the action, can ordinarily be recovered against the land, during the lifetime of the mortgagor, yet where the action is brought against the representative of a deceased mortgagor who had covenanted for payment, the mortgagee may tack all the interest recoverable on the covenant: Carroll v. Robertson, 15 Gr. 173; but where there is no covenant, even in such a case, no more than six years' arrears can be recovered: Taylor v. Hargrave, 19 Gr. 271; and see Airey v. Mitchell, 21 Gr. 510; Howeren v. Bradburn, 22 Gr. 96; Weaver v. Vandusen, 27 Gr. at p. 481.

When a mortgagee sells under a power of sale he may retain out of the proceeds, the arrears of interest though they exceed six years: Edmunds v. Waugh, L. R. 1 Eq. 418; Ford v. Allen, 15 Gr. 565; In re Marshfield, Marshfield v. Hutchings, 34 Ch. D. 721; 56 L. T. N. S. 694.

Rate of interest recoverable.

RATE OF INTEREST.—Since the repeal of the usury laws, the Court will not refuse to enforce any contract, which parties, competent to contract, may make for the payment of interest, provided it is understood: Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85; R. S. C. c. 127, s. 1. But the rate of interest chargeable by corporations or companies or association of persons, not being a bank, is restricted in certain cases to six per cent. or eight per cent.: see R. S. C. c. 127, ss. 9-11.

Stipulation for increased rate on default may be enforced

Where a mortgage stipulated that up to a certain day the interest to be charged should be eight per cent., and if the principal were not then paid twelve per cent., it was held the mortgagee was entitled to recover the twelve per cent. on default: Waddell v. McColl, 14 Gr. 211.

Mortgage payable without interest.

Where a mortgage is made payable without interest, or no interest is reserved, interest may nevertheless be recovered at six per cent. from the time of default: McDonell v. West, 14 Gr. 492; Reid v. Wilson, 9 P. R. 165; 18 C. L. J. 58. Compound interest may now, subject to the provisions of R. S. C. c. 127, ss. 10, 11, be stipulated for, and recovered: Clarkson v. Henderson, 14 Chy. D. 348; 43 L. T. N. S. 29; Henderson v. Dickson, 9 Gr. 379; or an increased rate in case of default: Downey v. Parnell, 2 Ont. 82; 18 C. L. J. 241; but a mortgagee is prima facie only entitled to simple interest, and where an account charging compound interest was assented to by the mortgagor in ignorance of his rights it was re-opened: Daniell v. Sinclair, L. R. 6, H. L. 181; 44 L. T. N. S. 257; and a bargain for an exorbitant rate of interest will not be enforced if it is shown not to have been understood by the mortgagor: Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85.

Compound interest.

Exorbitant interest.

Interest on prior incumbrances paid off by mortgagee

Where the incumbrancer has redeemed a prior incumbrance, he is entitled to recover interest on the aggregate amount of principal, interest, and costs, so paid; on the principal, at the rate reserved in his own mortgage, and on the interest, and costs, at six per cent.: McMaster v. Hector, 8 C. L. J. 284; and he has a lien on the land therefor as against subsequent incumbrancers: Trust & Loan Company v. Cuthbert, 14 Gr. 410; Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85. But where a solicitor purchases securities at his client's request, simple interest on the amount paid, is all that is chargeable, and not the rate reserved by the securities purchased, unless otherwise agreed: Macleod v. Jones, 50 L. T. N. S. 358.

Rate of interest payable after time for payment.

The rate of interest reserved by the mortgage, is not necessarily payable after default, unless the mortgage expressly so provides: Cook v. Foster, L. R. 7 H. L. 27; Dalby v. Humphrey, 37 U. C. Q. B. 514; Jackson v. Harris, 78 L. T. Jour. 130; and a covenant to pay interest on instalments in default does not necessarily mean that interest is to be paid on interest in default: Goldstrom v. Tatterman, 17 Q. B. D. 30; 18 Q. B. D. 1; 55 L. T. N. S. 866. But such rate was allowed after default, by way of damages, where it was not expressly shown by evidence to be excessive: Simonton v. Graham, 8 P. R.

495; but in another case, where no evidence was given by the mortgagees as to the rate of interest after default, only six per cent. was allowed: Archbold v. Building & Loan Assoc., 15 Ont. 237; but see S. C. 16 Ont. App. 1. A covenant to pay interest at a higher rate than six per cent. "until mortgage money paid" does not entitle the covenantor to such higher rate after the time fixed for payment has expired: Powell v. Peck, 12 Ont. 492, 23 C. L. J. 93; 15 Ont. App. 138.—But in computing the amount to be paid for redemption in the case of a mortgage the payment of which had been accelerated by default in the payment of an instalment, the Court allowed the mortgage rate for the six months allowed for redemption though it exceeded six per cent.: Muttlebury v. Stephens, 6 C. L. T. 588. Rule 130.

Where an instrument provided for payment of interest at a given rate, until the principal money should be paid, it was held that the rate contracted for could not be recovered after judgment had been obtained on the instrument; but only legal interest at six per cent. on the amount of the judgment: St. John v. Rykert, 4 Ont. App. 213; Ex p. Fewings, 25 Ch. D. 338; 50 L. T. N. S. 109; but see contra, Popple v. Sylvester, 22 Ch. D. 98; 47 L. T. N. S. 329; and see 19 C. L. J. 21; Re Atkinson before Boyd, C., 4th May, 1883.

Where the interest is payable in advance, the mortgagee is nevertheless not entitled to have interest allowed for a period subsequent to that appointed for redemption: Trust & Loan Co. v. Kirk, 8. P. R. 203. Interest in advance.

Tender.—Where a tender is relied on, it should be set up by statement of defence. Where such a defence is pleaded, it is sometimes specially referred to the Master to inquire as to the tender, or whether the amount tendered was sufficient: Knapp v. Bower, 17 Gr. 695. Prima facie a tender stops interest; but if the mortgagee shews that the money was subsequently used by the mortgagor, and a profit made, subsequent interest is nevertheless chargeable; Ib.; and see Pearce v. Morris, L. R. 5 Chy. at p. 231. Tender Prima facie it stops interest.

Parol Agreements affecting mortgage.—A written agreement, for value, by mortgagor to pay additional interest, is enforceable against mortgagor, though not under seal: Brown v. Deacon, 12 Gr. 198; and see Alliance Bank v. Brown, 10 Jur. N. S. 1121. But a verbal agreement to that effect will not bind the lands, as against a subsequent purchaser of the equity of redemption: Totten v. Watson, 17 Gr. 233; or even as against a devisee, or heir-at-law, of the mortgagor: Re Houston, Houston v. Houston, 2 Ont. 84. Parol agreements affecting mortgage debt.

An agreement for extra interest between a derivative mortgagee and the mortgagor enures to the benefit of the original mortgagee: Grahame v. Anderson, 15 Gr. 189.

Where, after the mortgage debt was partly paid off, the mortgagor re-borrowed the money and returned the receipts given for his previous payments, it was held that he was estopped from disputing that the amount so re-advanced was still secured by the mortgage: Inglis v. Gilchrist, 10 Gr. 301. Estoppel.

Statute of Limitations.—Under a dispute note, the Statute may be set up as a bar to the recovery of more than six years' arrears of interest; but where it is relied on as a defence to the whole claim, a statement of defence must be filed: Wright v. Morgan, 1 Ont. App. 613; Cattanach v. Urquhart, 6 P. R. 28. Statute of Limitations.

Although ten years is now a bar to the recovery of money charged on land, as against the land, R. S. O. c. 111, s. 4; yet it was held that the right of action on the covenant was not barred until the lapse of twenty years under R. S. O. c. 60, ss. 1, 6: Allan v. McTavish, 2 Ont. App. 278; Macdonald v. McDonald, 11, Ont. 187; McDonald v. Elliott, 12, Ont. 98; but see contra, Sutton v. Sutton, 22 Chy. D. 511, 48 L. T. N. S. 95; Fearnside v. Flint, 22 Chy. D. 579; 48 L. T. N. S. 154. How far a bar to recovery of interest.

The Statute is no bar to an account for more than six years' rent, as against a mortgagee in possession: Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110; affirmed in appeal, 7 U. C. L. J. 42; 8 U. C. L. J. 93. No bar to account for rents.

Action for foreclosure effect of.

An action for foreclosure, or sale, is an action to recover land, and the commencement of an action for foreclosure, or sale, by a mortgagee out of possession stops the running of the statute : Harlock v. Ashberry, 19 Ch. D. 539; 46 L. T. N. S. 356 ; Pugh v. Heath, 7 App. Cas. 235 ; 46 L. T. N. S. 321 ; Fletcher v. Rodden, 1, Ont. 155 ; but see Barwick v. Barwick, 21 Gr. 39 ; and an action for redemption is also an action to recover land : per Strong, J., Faulds v. Harper, 11 S. C. R. 639 ; see also notes to Rule 341.

Tenant in common entitled to redeem whole estate.

Where some of several tenants in common, are barred by the Statute of Limitations, and others of them are not ; the latter are entitled to redeem the whole mortgaged estate, and not merely an aliquot part : Faulds v. Harper, 2 Ont. 405; 9 Ont. App. 537 ; 11 S. C. R. 639 ; see also Martin v. Miles, 5 Ont. 404.

Payments to take a case out of the Statute of Limitations must be made by the mortgagor or his duly authorized agent ; payments made on his behalf without his authority will not prevent the Statute reviving ; Newbould v. Smith, 29 Ch. D. 882 ; 53 L. T. N. S. 137 ; or else by some person to whom the right of redemption is expressly reserved by the mortgage even though he is no party to it : see Lewin v. Wilson, 11 App. Cas. 639.

Payments. Payments.—Payment to one of several executors, is a good payment on account of a mortgage held by two of them as executors : Ewart v. Dryden, 13 Gr. 50 ; but payment to one of several trustees, who held a mortgage, is not good as to the other trustees : Ewart v. Snyder, 13 Gr. 55.

When mortgagee liable for moneys not received.

Where a mortgagor requested his mortgagee to release a part of the mortgaged property on payment of £100, and he released it on payment of £50 only, he was held liable for the difference : Bull v. Jarvis, 10 Gr. 568. But when a mortgagee refused to accept £100 offered as the price of part of the mortgaged property, which was expropriated, and upon an arbitration only £30 was awarded, the mortgagee was held not to be liable for the difference : Gunn v. McDonald, 11 Gr. 140.

Appropriation of payments. Appropriation of Payments :—

Payments made on account are to be appropriated (1) as the debtor directs at the time of payment. (2) When there is no direction by the debtor, as the creditor directs. (3) When neither makes any direction, the law will apply it to the older debt, or as may be just : Wilson v. Rykert, 14 Ont. 188 ; and see Lowther v. Hunter, 41 Ch. D. 248.

A mortgagee in possession, and in receipt of rents, and profits, may sell under the power of sale, if the mortgage be in default, even though the rents are sufficient to keep down the interest ; as in the absence of any agreement there is no appropriation of payments until the taking of the account : Cockburn v. Edwards, 18 Ch. D. 449 ; 45 L. T. N. S. 500 ; 51 L. J. Ch. 46 ; and see Harlock v. Ashberry, 19 Ch. D. 539.

Appropriation of purchase money, on sale by mortgagee.

Where a mortgagee sells under a power of sale, he is bound to apply the proceeds, first, in payment of interest, and costs, and then either pay the balance to the mortgagor, or apply it in reduction of principal : Thompson v. Hudson, L. R. 10 Eq. 497. He may sell on time, but he must give credit for the amount secured by the mortgage of the purchaser as cash, and even if he gets the consent of the mortgagor to a sale on credit, he is not at liberty to convert the mortgage taken to secure that part of the purchase money for which credit is given into cash, and charge the mortgagor with the discount and expenses, without a distinct bargain to that effect : Beatty v. O'Connor, 5 Ont. 731 ; any surplus in his hands should be either paid over to the party entitled, or if there be no hand to receive it, it should be either paid into Court under the Trustee Relief Act, or set apart so as to be fruitful for the benefit of the party entitled. If the mortgagee neglect to do either of these things, he will be chargeable with interest on the money so long as it remains in his hands: Charles v. Jones, 35 Ch. D. 544; 56 L. T. N. S. 848. A mortgagee who concurs in a sale by his mortgagor is responsible for the due application of the purchase money: West London Commercial Bank v. Reliance Permanent Building Society, 29 Ch. D. 954; 53 L. T. N. S. 442. Rule 130.

Payments, how to be appropriated.

If money is not expressly appropriated by the party paying it, the party receiving it may appropriate it, even upon a claim which he cannot enforce by suit; but an appropriation cannot be made by the creditor after action brought, on bringing in his account: Fraser v. Lowie, 10 Gr. 207; Hagerman v. Smith, Tay. 123; Armour v. Carruthers, 4 U. C. L. J. 210; Fuller v. Parnall, 8 C. L. J. 86; and where a mortgagee held as security for a partnership debt the mortgage of one partner and the note of the other, it was held that he could not, as against an assignee of the equity of redemption, appropriate all payments on account of the note, but that he was bound to apply one half of the sums paid out of the partnership assets, on account of the mortgage: Moore v. Riddell, 11 Gr. 69.

Where two securities held for same debt.

Where no appropriation by payer, payments how to be applied.

In taking the account, payments on account, should (if not otherwise appropriated by the debtor or creditor at the time of payment) be applied first, in payment of overdue interest, and costs, and then of overdue principal, and where there are several items, the appropriation should be made in discharge of those earliest in date: McGregor v. Gaulin, 4 U. C. Q. B. 378; Cummings v. Usher, 1 P. R. 15; Ross v. Perrault, 13 Gr. 206; Clayton's Case, Devaynes v. Noble, 1 Mer. 530, 604; Wilson v. Rykert, 14 Ont. 188. But where an accounting party (a solicitor) had in his accounts appropriated payments to principal, instead of the overdue interest, he was held bound by the appropriation: Taylor v. Magrath, 10 Ont. 669. Where the creditor claims to have appropriated a payment, the onus lies on him of showing affirmatively that no appropriation was made by the debtor: Lowther v. Hunter, 41 Ch. D. 248.

Appropriation of payments, where mortgage given to secure a floating balance.

A mortgage given to secure a floating balance, however, is not discharged by payments made on account, so long as the dealings between the parties continue, and any balance remains due in respect thereof, even though the payments exceed in amount the debt due when the mortgage was given, or the amount of the debt mentioned in the mortgage: Cameron v. Kerr, 3 Ont. App. 30; Russell v. Davey, 7 Gr. 13; The City Discount Company v. McLean, L. R. 9 C. P. 692; Fenton v. Blackwood, L. R. 5 P. C. 167; but see Re Brown, 2 Gr. 111, 590; Buchanan v. Kerby, 5 Gr. 332.

Payments by guarantor, lien for.

Payment by Guarantor.—A mortgagee who has assigned the mortgage, and covenanted for its payment, is entitled to a lien as against the mortgagor for all payments so made: Fleming v. Palmer, 12 Gr. 226.

Insurance money, how applicable.

Insurance Money.—When the mortgage contains no provision for the application of insurance money, the mortgagee is not bound to apply it in reduction of his debt before the time appointed for payment, or on the interest to accrue thereon, until it is actually due. In such a case, where the mortgagee declines to apply the money on his debt, or interest, the mortgagor is entitled to have the moneys laid out in rebuilding, and restoring, the premises to the status quo; but if the mortgagee retain the money he must apply it on account: Austin v. Story, 10 Gr. 306. He, however, must apply the money in payment of instalments in arrear or as they subsequently fall due; he cannot without the mortgagor's consent apply it in payment of moneys not yet due: Corham v. Kingston, 17 Ont. 432.

42 Vict. c. 20, s. 1 (O).

Mortgagee may have money applied in rebuilding.

In mortgages executed after 11th March, 1879, after default, there is a statutory power to insure, and the mortgagee may recover premiums paid, with interest, at the rate reserved by the mortgage: R. S. O. c. 102, s. 18. Where the mortgagor insures, though there be no covenant, in the event of a loss the mortgagee may have the insurance money laid out in re-building: Imp. Stat. 14 Geo. 3, c. 78, s. 83; Stinson v. Pennock, 14 Gr. 604; followed (sed, dub.) Carr v. Fire Insurance Association, 14 Ont. 487; the Imperial Statute is now repealed as to this Province by 50 Vict. c. 26, s. 154, (O); but see now R. S. O. c. 102, s. 4.

Rule 130.

Mortgagee insuring, whether he can recover both, insurance and debt, quære.?

A mortgagee insuring out of his own funds, is not bound to give the mortgagor credit for the moneys received in the event of a loss: Russell v. Robertson, 1 Chy. Ch. 72. Nor is he entitled to charge him with the premiums, unless the insurance is effected under R. S. O. c. 102, supra: McIntosh v. Ontario Bank, 20 Gr. 24. But whether a mortgagee can recover both the insurance money, and also the mortgage debt seems doubtful: see Castellain v. Preston, 8 Q. B. D. 613; 46 L. T. N. S. 568; 19 C. L. J. 143; as to the right of a second mortgagee to recover on an insurance effected by him, when there is also an insurance on the same property effected by a prior mortgagee: see Westminster v. Glasgow, 12 App. Cas. 699; 59 L. T. N. S. 641.

Insurance by mortgagor.

Assignment of mortgage to Insurance Co., effect of.

Where the mortgagor had insured in pursuance of a covenant, loss, if any, being payable to the mortgagee, and the buildings were burnt by the mortgagor, and the insurance money paid to the mortgagee, who assigned the mortgage to the insurance company; it was held, that inasmuch as the mortgagor could not have recovered on the policy, the insurance company were not bound to give credit on the mortgage debt for the amount of the insurance money, as against a puisne incumbrancer: Westmacott v. Hanley, 22 Gr. 382; Livingstone v. The Western Assurance Company, 14 Gr. 461; S. C. 16 Gr. 9; and see Klein v. Union Fire Insurance Company, 3 Ont. 234; Bull v. North British & Commercial Insurance Company, 14 Ont. 322; Reddick v. The Saugeen Mutual Insurance Company, 14 Ont. 506; 15 Ont. App. 363; Sems, if the mortgagor had not been debarred from recovering: Howes v. Dominion Insurance Company, 2 Ont. 89; this case was reversed on appeal: see 19 C. L. J. 348, but not on the point for which the case is here cited: Austin v. Story, 10 Gr. 306; and see Provincial Insurance Company v. Reesor, 21 Gr. 296; Burton v. Gore District M. F. I. Co., 12 Gr. 156; affirmed in appeal, January 21, 1875; see R. & J. Dig. 1819, and per Proudfoot, V.C., 22 Gr. 384; Green v. Hewer, 21 C. P. 531.

A boiler and other machinery were held as between mortgagor and mortgagees to be included under the word "building," as they were treated by the parties as part of the freehold and passed as such, and the mortgagor was held entitled to the benefit of the insurance thereon as on part of the building: Carr v. The Fire Insurance Association, 14 Ont. 487.

Rent, chargeable against mortgagee.

Rents.—A mortgagee in possession may be charged with rents actually received, or which, but for wilful neglect and default, he might have received; or he may be charged with an occupation rent when he has been in actual occupation, using and enjoying the mortgaged property in the place of a tenant; in the latter case, he is charged with a fair rental, such as a tenant might be expected to give, unless it is shown that he actually made a larger profit: Truelock v. Robey, 15 Sim. 265; S. C. Phill. 395; Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110.

A mortgagee is accountable not merely for his actual receipts whilst in possession, but also for whatever is received by those to whom he transfers possession under an arrangement inoperative to transfer title, and in derogation of the rights of the mortgagor: National Bank of Australasia v. United Hand in Hand Band of Hope, 4 App. Ca. 391.

A mortgagee in possession, but not in actual occupation, will not be held liable for any greater rent than he actually received, unless it is clearly established in evidence, that he knew a greater rent might and could have been obtained, and that he refused, or neglected, to obtain the same: Merriam v. Cronk, 21 Gr. 60: Waddell v. McColl, 14 Gr. 211; Penn v. Lockwood, 1 Gr. 547.

Mortgagee in possession by arrangement with mortgagor, how far liable to subsequent incumbrancer.

A mortgagee receiving rents, or going into occupation by consent of the mortgagor, must account as a mortgagee in possession to a subsequent incumbrancer, or purchaser of the equity of redemption, although the mortgagor has directed the rents to be applied in payment of another debt due by him to the mortgagee: Gilmour v. Roe, 21 Gr. 284; Court v. Holland, 29 Gr. 19; and where a mortgagee, pursuant to a power, enters into possession and manages the mortgaged estate without default, at a loss, he is entitled to be recouped the loss as against a puisne incumbrancer, not only out of the rents, but also out of any surplus proceeds arising from the sale of the property: Bompas v. King, 33

Ch. D. 279; 55 L. T. N. S. 190. But when a mortgagee suffers the mortgagor to resume possession he ceases to be liable to account for rents: Rice v. George, 19 Gr. 174. Where the mortgage provided for payment of five per cent. interest, reducible, if punctually paid, to four-and-a-half per cent, a mortgagee, on going into possession, after default, is not bound to accept the lower rate: Union Bank v. Ingram, 16 Ch. D. 53 (overruling Stains v. Banks, 9 Jur. N. S. 1049); Bright v. Campbell, 41 Ch. D. 388. A mortgagee in possession is entitled to be allowed a commission reasonably paid for collecting the rents: Union Bank v. Ingram, supra; but see Eyre v. Hughes, 2 Ch. D. 148. Rule 130.

A mortgagee in possession, should not be charged with rests on rents received by him, until he has been paid in full, when his money was in arrear when he entered: Coldwell v. Hall, 9 Gr. 110; affirmed in appeal, 7 U. C. L. J. 42; 8 U. C. L. J. 93; but by setting up a title adverse to the mortgagor's right of redemption, he may lose the immunity of an ordinary mortgagee: National Bank of Australasia v. United Hand in Hand Band of Hope, 4 App. Cas. 391. Rests, where chargeable.

Notwithstanding the Statute of Limitations, a mortgagee in possession may be compelled to account to the mortgagor for more than six years' rent: Coldwell v. Hall, supra; although if the mortgagee have been overpaid, the statute would doubtless be a bar to the mortgagor recovering payment of more than six years' arrears. Mortgagee in possession, account by.

Where the mortgagee is in occupation, he should be charged with an occupation rent up to the day appointed for payment: Pipe v. Shafer, 1 Chy. Ch 251.

The mere existence of an attornment clause in a mortgage, does not make the mortgagee liable to account to a subsequent incumbrancer, as a mortgagee in possession: Stanley v. Grundy, 48 L. T. N. S. 106; but see Re Stockton Iron Company, 10 Ch. D. 335; 40 L. T. N. S. 19; Ex parte Jackson, 14 Ch. D. 725; 43 L. T. N. S. 272; Ex parte Punnett, 16 Ch. D. 226; 44 L. T. N. S. 226; Ex parte Harrison, 18 Ch. D. 127; 45 L. T. N. S. 290. Attornment clause, effect of.

Estoppel.—A mortgagee may be estopped as against a person inquiring of him the amount due on his mortgage, with a view to purchasing the equity of redemption, from claiming more than the amount then claimed: Dominion Savings & Investment Co. v. Kittridge, 23 Gr. 631. But if such representations are made to a person not known to be intending to purchase, or deal in respect of, the equity of redemption, they are not binding on the mortgagee, although actually acted upon: Moffatt v. Bank of Upper Canada, 5 Gr. 374. Estoppel arising from representation to persons dealing with equity of redemption.

The mortgagor may, by his conduct, be also estopped from setting up payments on account of the mortgage: Inglis v. Gilchrist, 10 Gr. 301.

Vendor's Lien.—Void Mortgage for Purchase-money.—Where a mortgage was given by an infant for purchase money, and the infant on coming of age adopted the purchase, but repudiated the mortgage; an assignee of the mortgage was held nevertheless entitled to a lien for the purchase money: Grace v. Whitehead, 7 Gr. 591. Vendor's lien enforcable, where mortgage taken for purchase money, invalid.

Where land is conveyed in consideration of maintenance, the vendor has a lien for the consideration: Paine v. Chapman, 6 Gr. 338; 7 Gr. 179.

Mortgage payable in Foreign Currency.—Where the mortgage debt is payable in lawful money of the United States, the mortgagee is entitled, at his option, to claim the amount in the current money of that country, or its equivalent in Canadian currency, at the time of default made in payment: Morrell v. Ward, 10 Gr. 251; Crawford v. Beard, 14 C. P. 87. Mortgage payable in foreign currency.

Priorities.—Formerly the priorities were determined in the case of executions, by the date of the delivery of the writs to the sheriff for execution and for this purpose a fraction of a day was regarded: Beekman v. Jarvis, 3 U. C. Q. B. 280; Converse v. Michie, 16 C. P. 167. But now under the Creditor's Relief Act, R. S. O. c. 65, all execution creditors whose writs are in the sheriff's hands to be executed are entitled to rank pari passu: Harvey v. McNeil, 12 P. R. 362; 24 C. L. J. 122. But an execution creditor directing the sheriff to stay execution, may now, as formerly, thereby lose his priority as against any subsequent execution then in, or thereafter coming into, the sheriff's hands, before the stay Priorities, as to executions. Stay of execution, effect of.

Rule 130. is removed: Ross v. Hamilton, E. T. 3 Vict.; Foster v. Smith, 13 U. C. Q. B. 243; Re Ross, 3 P. R. 394; Bank of Montreal v. Munro, 23 U. C. Q. B. 414; Kerr v. Kinsey, 15 C. P. 531; Trust & Loan Co. v. Cuthbert, 13 Gr. 412. But the sheriff, after being stayed, may make a second seizure during the currency of the writ: Gates v. Smith, 13 C. P. 572.

Priority of Mortgagees Mortgagees for value are usually entitled to priority, according to the date of registration of their mortgages; and the omission of the Registrar to index a registered instrument will not deprive it of its priority: Lawrie v. Rathburn, 38 U. C. Q. B. 255; Green v. Ponton, 8 Ont. 471.

Voluntary mortgagees. Voluntary mortgagees, and mortgagees with actual notice of a prior unregistered instrument, however, are not within protection of The Registry Act (R. S. O. c. 114, s. 76); and see Greaves v. Tofield, 43 L. T. N. S. 100; Kettlewell v. Watson, 46 L. T. N. S. 83; 51 L. J. Chy. 281; Clarke v. Palmer, 48 L. T. N. S. 857.

Execution creditors, purchasers at sheriff's sale. An execution creditor cannot get priority over a prior unregistered deed: Russell v. Russell, 28 Gr. 419; but it would seem that a purchaser at a sheriff's sale may: Van Wagner v. Findlay, 14 Gr. 53.

Absconding debtor, inquiry as to. When it is necessary, for the purpose of settling the priority of incumbrancers, to inquire whether a person who has been sued was, or was not, an absconding debtor within the meaning of the Act, the Master may do so, although the party sued may have taken no proceedings to set aside the attachment: Montreal Bank v. Baker, 9 Gr. 97, 298; but see Martin v. Boulanger, 8 App. Cas. 296; 49 L. T. N. S. 62. An attachment only binds lands from the date of the seizure under it, and an execution delivered to the sheriff before seizure made under the attachment is entitled to priority over it: Robinson v. Bergin, 10 P. R. 127.

Creditor, when postponed, by conduct to prejudice, of other creditors. Where a creditor who had obtained security by an assignment from his debtor of his chattels, and other assets, by way of mortgage, was notified by a subsequent execution creditor of his claim, and informed that he would be held answerable for his dealing with the assets assigned, but negligently allowed the debtor to use, and deal with them, so that they were lost: it was held that the first creditor was thereby postponed to the second, as regards other property liable for the payment of their debts: Huntingdon v. Van Brocklin, 8 Gr. 421.

Two deeds on same day, priority how settled. For the purpose of determining priorities between two deeds executed the same day, the Master may inquire which was in fact first executed, and may have regard to the internal evidence of the deeds themselves, for the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties upon the question of priority: Garside v. Silkstone, D. C. & I. Co., 21 Ch. D. 762; 47 L. T. N. S. 76.

Where a judgment has been pronounced on the construction of an instrument declaring A. is entitled to priority to B., such judgment is a bar to any subsequent action by B. for the rectification of the instrument so as to give him priority: the proper course in such a case is for B. to procure a stay in the first action until his suit for rectification can be determined: Caird v. Moss, 33 Ch. D. 22; 55 L. T. N. S. 453.

Disputes between incumbrancers, how determined. Disputes Between Incumbrancers.—Where there is a dispute between two persons, as to which of them is entitled to an incumbrance, the Master may determine the question himself, or, where to do so, would be likely unduly to delay the plaintiff and other parties not interested im the question, he may report the incumbrance, and its priority as regards other incumbrances, and the dispute between the claimants, so that the Court may give proper directions for determining the question: McDonald v. Wright, 12 Gr. 552.

Place of payment. Place of Payment.—The Master, in appointing the place, and manner of payment, must proceed under Rule 85.

Day of payment not to be a dies non Omission. Persons to Redeem, and Day for Redemption.—The Master is to appoint a day for redemption. He should be careful to see that the day appointed is not a Sunday, nor a bank holiday, otherwise a new day will have to be appointed, before a final order can be obtained: Holcumb v. Leach, 3 Gr. 449. The omission of the Master to appoint a day for redemption may be remedied by order in Chambers: King v. Connor, 10 Gr. 364. Rule 130. to appoint a day.

When the judgment is for sale, one day is appointed six calendar months from the making of the report, for the mortgagor to redeem the plaintiff, and all subsequent incumbrancers who have proved claims; in default of payment a final order for sale is made: see Rules 353, 133; but see Jones v. Harris, 55 L. T. N. S. 884, where only three months were allowed for redemption. Sale,—redemption, how directed.

Where the judgment is for foreclosure, the subsequent incumbrancers are ordinarily entitled to successive rights of redemption in the order in which they acquired their charges; six calendar months being given to the first in priority, and three calendar months to each of the others in succession: Seton 1085, Webster v. Patterson, W. N. 1884, 20. But the Court may specially direct that one day only be given to all the defendants to redeem the plaintiff, without prejudice to their priorities inter se: Bartlett v. Rees, L. R. 12 Eq. 395; The General Credit & D. Co. v. Glegg, 22 Ch. D. 549; 48 L. T. N. S. 182; Smith v. Olding, 25 Ch. D. 462; 50 L. T. N. S. 357: Lewis v. Aberdare & P. Co., 50 L. T. N. S. 451. In Mutual Life Assurance Co. v. Langley, 26 Ch. D. 686; 51 L. T. N. S. 284, Pearson, J., said that as a general rule where there are several defendants, but one day should be given: and see Platt v. Mendel, 27 Ch. D. 246; 51 L. T. N. S. 424; where the practice of giving successive days for redemption, where there are subsequent incumbrancers, was declared to be anomalous; and see Davis v. Manley, 78 L. T. Jour. 318; Doble v. Manley, 28 Ch. D. 664; Tufnell v. Nicholls, 56 L. T. N. S. 152. A puisne incumbrancer, and all persons claiming under him are entitled to but one day for redemption: Loveday v. Chapman, 32 L. T. N. S. 689; Beevor v. Luck, L. R. 4 Eq. 537, and so are judgment creditors, where there are no intermediate incumbrances: Bates v. Hillcoat, 1 Beav. 139; Stead v. Banks, 5 D. & S. 560; Ardagh v. Wilson, 1 Chy. Ch. 389; Seton, 1085; Taylor & Ewart, 228; but see Carroll v. Hopkins, 4 Gr. 431. Foreclosure,—redemption, how directed.

A party making default in redemption at the time appointed, may be foreclosed: Rule 353, and new accounts may, from time to time, be taken without further order: Rule 132. When all the subsequent incumbrancers have been foreclosed, three calendar months are given to the mortgagor to redeem, and on default, he may be foreclosed. An incumbrancer redeeming, may proceed to foreclose the subsequent incumbrancers and the mortgagor, as if he were the original plaintiff in the action. A subsequent incumbrancer redeeming out of his order of priority may add the amount paid to his own claim as against all incumbrancers subsequent to himself, but not as against any that are prior; as against the latter he may claim to be redeemed in respect of any claim he has paid which had priority over the latter's claim. But, inasmuch as a prior incumbrancer on redeeming a subsequent incumbrancer, in respect of a prior claim paid off by the latter, would be entitled, to add the amount so paid to his own debt, and to be redeemed by the latter, it will generally be found inexpedient to claim the right to be redeemed, and the incumbrancer next in priority to the plaintiff should be appointed to be redeemed as to his claim, without first requiring him to redeem a subsequent incumbrancer in respect of any prior claim paid by the latter. Where the mortgagor redeems after puisne incumbrancers have been foreclosed, he thereby opens the foreclosure as to them: see Box v. Bridgman, 6 P. R. 234; Otter v. Lord Vaux, 2 K. & J. 650; 6 D. G. M. & G. 638; Read v. Smith, 14 Gr. 250; 16 Gr. 52; Bell v. Sunderland Building Society, 24 Ch. D. 618; 49 L. T. N. S. 555: and see Ledbrook v. Passman, 59 L. T. N. S. 306. Subsequent incumbrancer redeeming out of his order.

Where portions of an estate under mortgage are conveyed away by the mortgagor, one day should be given to all the persons interested in the equity of redemption to redeem: Hill v. Forsyth, 7 Gr. 461; so also where there is any dispute between co-defendants as to their priorities, one day may be given to all to redeem without prejudice to their rights inter se: General Credit & D. Co. v. Glegg, 22 Ch. D. 549; 48 L. T. N. S. 182; Smith v. Olding, 25 Ch. D. 462; 50 L. T. N. S. 357; Lewis v. Aberdare & P. Co., 50 L. T. N. S. 451; but where there is a stipulation in the mortgage that in case of sales by the mortgagor, the mortgagee shall, on payment of a certain portion of the purchase money, release the part sold, each purchaser is entitled to redeem his own part Redemption, how directed where equity of redemption divided.

Rule 130. on payment of the stipulated portion of the money, and the Master should, in such a case, appoint one day for each of the several persons so entitled, to redeem his respective portion accordingly : Davis v. White, 16 Gr. 312.

Right of purchasers of different parts of mortgaged estate.

As to the rights of purchasers of different portions of the mortgaged estate inter se : see Barker v. Eccles, 17 Gr. 277 ; Jones v. Beck, 18 Gr. 671 ; Pearce v. Canavan, 28 Gr. 356, 7 Ont. App. 187 ; Buckler v. Bowman, 12 Gr. 457 ; Norris v. Meadows, 28 Gr. 334, affirmed on appeal, 18 C. L. J. 165 ; Clark v. Bogart, 27 Gr. 450 ; Fraser v. Nagle, 16 Ont. 241.

Where a mortgage comprised both real and personal estate, on the death of the mortgagor it was held that his personal representative was entitled to redeem both properties, but that the reconveyance to him should reserve the right, or equity of redemption, of any other person or persons : Hall v. Heward, 32 Ch. D. 430 ; 54 L. T. N. S. 810 ; but see now R. S. O. c. 108, ss. 3-10.

Where several persons are interested in the equity of redemption, each one is entitled to redeem the whole mortgaged property and not merely a proportionate part, but the reconveyance to one of several persons entitled to the equity of redemption should be made subject to the right of redemption of such other persons : Pearce v. Morris, L. R. 5 Chy. 227 ; 22 L. T. N. S. 190 ; Faulds v. Harper, 11 S. C. R. 639. But semble, one of several joint mortgagors may be permitted to redeem his proportionate part of the mortgaged estate on payment of a proportionate part of the mortgage debt : Readdy v. Pendergast, 56 L. T. N. S. 790.

Where the day appointed for redemption is uncertain a new day must be appointed : Scott v. McKeown, 1 Chy. Ch. 186.

Master's report, date of; should be confirmed.

Master's Report.—The Master's report should bear date the day it is signed, and not before : Waddell v McColl, 14 Gr. 211. It must be confirmed before the day appointed for redemption, or a final order will be refused : Mountain v. Porter, 1 Chy. Ch. 207 ; Mills v. Dixon, 2 Chy. Ch. 53. In the latter case a month's further time to redeem was allowed.

As to confirming report see Rules 82, 848, and notes. The omission to appoint a day for redemption may be remedied by application in Chambers : King v. Connor, 10 Gr. 364.

Correcting mistake in.

Where the Master had omitted to allow the plaintiff two items of interest, an order was made to correct the mistake, after a final order for sale, without appointing any new day for payment : Bessey v. Graham, 9 U. C. L. J. 82 ; and see Morley v. Matthews, 12 Gr. 453 ; but the Master cannot, of his own motion, in a subsequent report, correct a mistake in a prior report : Crooks v. Street, 1 Chy. Ch. 78 ; and see further Rule 82 note.

Extension of time for payment, when granted.

Extending time for Payment.—Application to extend the time for payment should be made in Chambers : Anon, 4 Gr. 61 ; where the defendant showed that he had sold for £300, and the mortgage debt was only £250, and that he expected to receive payment in full in two or three months, the time was extended : Ford v. Steeples, 1 O. S. 282. So also where the mortgage was for purchase money, and the vendor had neglected to pay off a prior mortgage, pursuant to his covenant, and it appeared that the existence of the first mortgage prevented the defendant from raising money to pay off the second, the time was extended : G. v. V., 2 Chy. Ch. 33. So also six months' further time was given, where the defendant was prevented from raising the money by reason of an improper advertisement published by the plaintiff's solicitors : Gilmour v. Myers, 2 Chy. Ch. 179. So also where it was shown that the value of the property would be enhanced in the meantime, by the construction of a railway : Cameron v. Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 375 ; and where a reasonable prospect of payment at the extended time was shown, the time was extended : Cahuac v. Durie, 2 Chy. Ch. 394 ; Street v. O'Reilly, 2 Chy. Ch. 270 ; but an affidavit of the solicitor, that he believed his clients had exerted themselves, and were endeavouring to raise the money, and that the property was worth much more than the debt, was held insufficient : Anon, 4 Gr. 61.

Where the application is made after the day fixed for redemption, the applicant is usually required to pay interest for the extended time, on the whole amount found due for principal, and interest: Street v. O'Reilly; Cahuac v. Durie; Cameron v. Cameron, supra; and the payment of the whole costs, or at all events the costs of the application, is also usually made a condition precedent: Ib.; and see Holford v. Yate, 1 K. & J. 677; Whitfield v. Roberts, 7 Jur. N. S. 1268; and where the mortgagee swore that he had been compelled, in consequence of the mortgagor's default, to contract a loan to meet his liabilities, at a higher rate of interest than that reserved by the mortgage; on extending the time, the mortgagor was required to pay such a sum as would cover the excess of interest payable by the mortgagee: Howard v. Macara, 1 Chy. Ch. 27. It is probable that where the application is made before a final order has been obtained, however, the application would be more readily granted, and on less stringent terms, than where it is made after the final order has issued: Patch v. Ward, L. R. 3 Chy. 212. Rules 131, 132. Application after day appointed has elapsed. Terms imposed.

See further as to applications to open foreclosure, and extend the time for payment: Rule 353, note.

131. The Master's report must state the names of all persons who have been made parties in his office, and who have been served with the notice or appointment hereinbefore provided, and the names of such as have made default, and must settle the priorities, &c., of such as have attended, and these latter are to be certified as the only incumbrancers upon the estate. Chy. O. 449. Master's report, contents of.

For forms of reports in mortgage cases: see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., Nos. 67, 968, 969, 972, 977.

132. All subsequent accounts are, from time to time, to be taken, subsequent costs taxed, and necessary proceedings had, for redemption by, or foreclosure of, the other party or parties entitled to redeem the mortgaged premises, as if specific directions for all these purposes had been contained in the judgment. Chy. O. 452. Subsequent accounts to be taken by Master.

If the mortgagor, or owner of the equity of redemption, or any incumbrancer, redeems any prior charge which was his own debt, or which, by contract, express or implied, he was bound to discharge, he cannot keep such charge alive as against a mesne incumbrancer, whose incumbrance he is also expressly, or impliedly, bound to discharge: Blake v. Beaty, 5 Gr. 359. Mortgagor paying off incumbrance, effect of.

In taking the subsequent account the master may allow a sum paid for insurance since the last account, under a provision in the mortgage: Bethune v. Calcutt, 3 Gr. 648. Insurance.

In England, it is the practice on taking the subsequent account, to allow interest on the gross amount of principal, interest and costs, found due by the last report: Elton v. Curteis, 19 Ch. D. 49; 45 L. T. N. S. 435; and see Jacob v. Earl of Suffolk, Mos. 27; but in Ontario, it has not been customary to allow interest upon interest in respect of an incumbrancer's own proper debt, unless the mortgage expressly provides therefor. But where a subsequent incumbrancer pays off a prior incumbrance, he is entitled to interest on the aggregate amount paid by him for principal, interest and costs; the interest on the principal being computed at the rate reserved in his own security, but on the interest and costs, at six per cent. only: McMaster v. Hector, 8 C. L. J. 284. Interest on subsequent account.

Rules 133-135.

Sale.—proceedings on.

133. If the judgment directs a sale instead of foreclosure on default in payment, then on default being made, and an order for sale obtained, the premises are to be sold, with the approbation of the Master, and he is to settle the conveyance to the purchaser in case the parties differ about the same; and the purchaser is to pay his purchase money into Court, to the credit of the action, subject to the further order of the Court. Chy. O. 452.

Master may sell by tender, private contract, &c. Settle all conveyances.

By Rules 89, 97, 109, where a sale is ordered, the Master may cause the property, or a competent part thereof, to be sold, either by public auction, private contract, or tender; or part by one mode, and part by another, as he may think best for the interest of all parties; and he may fix an upset price, or reserved bidding, but such price, or bidding, must be so fixed at the meeting held by him for the purpose of settling the advertisement, and making the other arrangements preparatory to the sale, and must be notified in the conditions of sale. The Master is to settle all necessary conveyances for the purpose of carrying out the sale, in case the parties differ; or in case there shall be any persons under any disability (other than coverture) interested in such sale.

Before a sale can take place, a final order must be obtained: see Rule 353 note.

Whole should not be sold where part sufficient.

It is the Master's duty not to sell the whole, when it is clear that a sale of part would suffice for the payment of the incumbrances. When the mortgagor thinks more land is offered for sale than is necessary, he should object at the settlement of the advertisement. It is too late to take the objection after the sale: Beaty v. Radenhurst, 3 Chy. Ch. 344.

Purchase money, application of.

134. The purchase money, when so paid, is to be applied in payment of what has been found due to the plaintiff and the other incumbrancer or incumbrancers (if any), according to their priorities, together with subsequent interest, and subsequent costs. Chy. O. 454.

Even after a sale, a dowress was allowed to come in and prove her claim: Hyde v. Barton, 8 P. R. 205.

Residue of purchase money, how disposed of.

This Rule makes no provision for the disposition of the residue, after payment of the claims of the plaintiff, and other incumbrances. A motion may be made by the mortgagor, before a Judge in Chambers, for payment of the residue. Since 11th March, 1879, a wife barring dower in a mortgage, does so only for the purpose of the mortgage, and is consequently dowable out of any surplus after satisfying the mortgage debt. It will therefore be necessary whenever this right exists, that the wife should be notified, and provision made for her protection, in any order directing payment out of the surplus: R. S. O. c. 133, s. 1; Martindale v. Clarkson, 6 Ont. App. 1.

The Creditors Relief Act, (R. S. O. c. 65,) applies to executions against lands which have been sold in a mortgage action; and the surplus after payment of specific incumbrancers is distributable, ratably among the execution creditors: Harvey v. McNeil, 12 P. R. 362; 24 C. L. J. 122.

Master to take account in redemption suits.

135. Upon a reference under a judgment for redemption, the Master is, without any special direction, to take an account of what is due to the defendant for principal money and interest, and his costs are to be taxed, and a time and place, or times and places, appointed for payment according to the present practice of the Court in that behalf. J. A. Rule 332. Rules 136, 137.

Six months is usually allowed for redemption by the plaintiff in a redemption action, as in the case of a defendant in a foreclosure action: see Rule 130, note. But it would seem that if the mortgagee were to insist on exercising his power of sale instanter, a mortgagor could not by commencing a redemption action, where the right to redeem is not in dispute, procure an extension of time for redemption, nor even stay the sale pending the action, except on the terms of bringing the money sworn to be due by the mortgagee for principal, interest and costs, into Court, to abide the taking of the account. But where the right of redemption is in dispute, a sale may be restrained until the trial or hearing of the cause without bringing the amount claimed into Court: Rhodes v. Buckland, 16 Beav. 212, 219; and the general rule requiring the payment of the money into Court may be modified, having regard to the special circumstances of the case: see Hickson v. Darlow, 23 Ch. D. 690; Macleod v. Jones, 24 Ch. D. 289.

In the event of a plaintiff in a redemption action failing to redeem at the time appointed he may be foreclosed. Rule 362.

136. Where the order is for redemption or foreclosure, or redemption or sale, such proceedings are in such case to be thereupon had, and with the same effect as in an action for foreclosure or sale, and in such case the last incumbrancer is to be treated as the owner of the equity of redemption. J. A. Rule 335. Procedure where order is for redemption, etc.

In an action for redemption the plaintiff is not entitled to a sale in default of redemption, and it is only when the mortgagee expressly consents, that a judgment in a redemption action can be so framed.

Usually the only alternative of redemption is foreclosure, or dismissal of the action, which is equivalent to a foreclosure. The plaintiff may be foreclosed: see Rule 362; and under this Rule the mortgagee may bring in any subsequent incumbrancers and foreclose them. But when the mortgagee brings in the subsequent incumbrancers it would seem that they would have the ordinary right of defendants in a foreclosure action and be entitled to claim a sale on the usual terms, because the action then ceases to be a redemption action, and becomes one for foreclosure: see Rule 350. A mortgagor, or any person liable to pay, is entitled to redeem any mortgage made after the 1st July, 1880, may do so after it has run five years, even though the time limited by the mortgage itself for redemption has not expired: R. S. C. c. 127, s. 7.

137. In an action for foreclosure or sale upon payment by the defendant, or in an action for redemption upon payment by the plaintiff, of the amount found due, the plaintiff or defendant shall, unless the judgment otherwise directs, assign and convey the mortgaged premises in question to the defendant, (or plaintiff, as the case may be,) making the payment, or to whom he may appoint, free and clear of all incumbrances done by him, and deliver up all deeds and writings in his custody or power relating thereto, upon Assignment of property and delivery of documents.

Rule 138. oath, and in case of a corporation the affidavit shall be made by the officer thereof having the custody of such deeds and writings. J. A. Rule 336.

Judgment creditor.

A judgment creditor is bound to assign his judgment to the party redeeming him: Bank of British North America v. Moore, 8 Gr. 461.

Who entitled to conveyance.

Where both the mortgagor, and a subsequent incumbrancer, pay the money due to the plaintiff into the bank, the subsequent incumbrancer has the right to a conveyance in preference to a mortgagor, and as between two incumbrancers, the one who is prior is entitled to the conveyance: see Teevan v. Smith, 20 Ch. D. 724.

Redemption by one of several interested in equity of redemption.

Where there are other persons interested in the equity of redemption, besides the person redeeming, the mortgagee should convey to the party redeeming, subject to the equities of such other persons: Pearce v. Morris, L. R. 5 Chy. 227; and see Boyd v. Petrie, L. R. 10 Eq. 482; L. R. 7 Chy. 392; and see further as to form of conveyance: Hartley v. Burton, L. R. 3 Chy. 365.

Where a mortgagor who has assigned his equity of redemption taking a covenant of indemnity from his assignee, is compelled to pay the mortgage debt, he is entitled to a reconveyance subject to the equities of persons other than himself in the property: Kinnaird v. Trollope, 39 Ch. D. 636; 59 L. T. N. S. 433: and he is entitled to a charge on the land for the amount so paid as against his assignee: Hamilton Provident, L. & I. Co. v. Smith, 17 Ont. 1. As to the terms of a conveyance to a tenant for life who redeems: see Alderson v. Elgey, 26 Ch. D. 567. Where a mortgage is paid off, the mortgagee is bound to reconvey the mortgaged property so that it will revest in the mortgagors; if he reconvey to one of several mortgagors, he will be liable at the suit of the other mortgagors for any loss they may sustain by his so doing: Magnus v. Queensland National Bank, 36 Ch. D. 25; 57 L. T. N. S. 136, affirmed by C. A.; 37 Ch. D. 466; 58 L. T. N. S. 248.

Reconveyance.

A mortgagor redeeming is entitled to a reconveyance, or vesting order, and is not obliged to accept a certificate of discharge of the mortgage: Ellis v. Ellis, 1 Chy. Ch. 257; McLennan v. McLean 27 Gr. 54.

Redemption money how paid out of bank

In order to get the money out of the bank, it is necessary to produce to the officer required to sign the cheque, the consent of the party paying it in, duly verified, or that of his solicitor, if any. If this consent cannot be procured, an order must be obtained in Chambers, on notice to such party, and the costs of such motion will not be ordered to be paid by the latter: Bernard v. Alley, 2 Chy. Ch. 91; Weeks v. Stourton, 11 Jur. N. S. 278. The party paying in the money, is entitled to receive his conveyance, and deeds, before the money is paid out.

Lost mortgage, indemnity required.

Where the mortgagee has lost the mortgage deed, he is bound at his own expense to furnish the mortgagor, or any incumbrancer redeeming him, with proof of the loss, and with an indemnity against any demand of third persons: McDonald v Hime, 15 Gr. 72.

11. Local Masters.

138. Every Local Master who does not practise as a Barrister or Solicitor and who has not taken out certificates to practice, shall, in addition to his other powers as Local Master, have in all actions brought in his County concurrent jurisdiction with and the same power and authority as the Master in Chambers in all proceedings now taken in Chambers at Toronto, except that the authority of such Local Masters shall not extend to proceedings in the nature of a quo warranto under The Municipal Act, or to payment of money out of Court, or dispensing with payment into Court, or to appeals from the taxing officers at Toronto pending taxation; or to making an order for sale of infants' estates. See 48 V. c. 13, s. 21; J. C. J., passed 25th August, 1881, all moneys and securities, etc., standing in the name of the Accountant of the Court of Chancery, or the Referee in Chambers, or any other officer named by the Court of Chancery, or in the name of the Clerk of the Crown and Pleas of the Court of Queen's Bench, or the Clerk of the Crown and Pleas of the Court of Common Pleas, on the 21st August, 1881, were transferred to, and vested in, the Accountant of the Supreme Court as such Accountant, and by 48 Vict. c. 13, s. 19, all moneys and securities in the hands of the Registrar of the Court of Appeal were also transferred to, and vested in, the Accountant.

179. Where money or stock, or securities in Court are directed by an order to be paid or transferred to an unmarried woman, and she marries before payment of the money or transfer of such stock or securities, the Accountant, if the same do not in the whole exceed $600 of principal money, or $50 in annual instalments, may draw for the money or make or execute a transfer of such stock or securities, in favour of such woman, upon an affidavit of herself and her husband that no settlement or agreement for a settlement has been made or entered into before, upon or since their marriage; or in case any settlement or agreement for a settlement has been entered into, then upon an affidavit by the woman and her husband, identifying the settlement or agreement for a settlement, and stating that no other settlement or agreement for a settlement has been made or entered into as aforesaid, and an affidavit of the solicitor of the woman and her husband, that such solicitor has carefully perused such settlement or agreement for a settlement, and that according to the best of his judgment, such money, stock or securities are not, nor is any part thereof, subject to the trusts of the settlement or agreement for a settlement, or in any manner comprised therein or affected thereby. J. A. Rule 571.

Settlement of fund, may be waived.

If the fund exceed $600 the money cannot be paid out, or stock transferred, without a special order, in which the Court will provide for the settlement of the fund before paying it out; and where the applicant is an infant, it has been held she has no power to waive her equity to a settlement: Shipway v. Ball, 16 Ch. D. 376; 44 L. T. N. S. 49. But where the husband and wife are of age, the Court will order the money to be paid out without a settlement if the parties appear by separate solicitors, and consent: Cline v. Cline, before Blake, V.C., 8th March, 1875; but see Tompkins v. Holmes, 14 Gr. 245, where a wife was directed to be examined before a Master, apart from her husband, as to her consent to abandon a fund in litigation.

Affidavit when dispensed with.

When the fund was under £10, an affidavit was dispensed with: Veal v. Veal, L. R. 4 Eq. 115: Guest v. Newmes, 78 L. T. Jour. 96; and where the husband was permanently resident out of the jurisdiction, the affidavit of the wife alone was accepted and acted on: Wilkinson v. Schneider, L. R. 9 Eq. 423; and in another case an affidavit by a solicitor disclosing facts, from which it appeared that it was unlikely that there was any settlement, was accepted as sufficient: Woodward v. Pratt, L. R. 16 Eq. 127.

Where an infant is found entitled to moneys in Court in an administration suit the Court takes charge of the fund, and will not suffer it to go into the hands of a trustee for the infant: Kingsmill v. Miller, 15 Gr. 171; Mitchell v. Richey, 13 Gr. 445. But where a married woman died entitled to a fund in Court which she bequeathed to her executor to be invested and the income applied for maintenance of her children, the fund was ordered to be paid out to the executor: Re McDougall, 11 P. R. 494.

J. A. Rule 573.

Money, etc., payable to representatives may be paid to survivor of them.

Where no letters of administration have been taken out to the estate of a person who has died entitled to money in Court, and the amount is so small as not to warrant the expense of procuring letters of administration, the Court may direct the money to be paid out on the undertaking of the solicitor for the applicant to see to its due administration: Ross v. Ross, 4 Chy. Ch. 27; Callender v. Tensdale, 3 W. R. 289; King v. Isaacson, 9 W. R. 369; Hinings v. Hinings, 2 H. & M. 32; Re Cabel, 3 W. R. 84; but see Re Cabel, 3 W. R. 280.

182. No principal sum of money, nor any stocks, funds, shares or securities shall, under Rules 180 and 181, be paid, transferred or delivered out of Court to the legal personal representative of any person under any probate, or letters of administration, purported to be granted at any time subsequent to the expiration of 6 years from the day of the date of the order, or judgment, directing such payment, transfer or delivery. J. A. Rule 574.

Principal money, etc., not to be paid to representatives after six years.

183. No interest or dividends shall under Rule 181 be paid out of Court to the legal personal representatives of any person under any probate, or letters of administration, purported to be granted at any time subsequent to the expiration of 6 years after the day of the date of the order Investment of funds in Court in Dominion Stock.

Appropriation made without order.

186. If all parties interested consent in writing, the consent is to be filed with the Accountant, and he is to make the appropriation without an order being drawn for the purpose, and is to enter the consent in the Stock Ledger under the heading of the cause or matter, with the material contents of all orders, judgments and reports necessary to show who are interested in such account and the shares in which they are respectively interested therein, which may not be entered in the General Ledger. 187. If there is no unappropriated stock applicable to the purpose, a direction signed and countersigned in the same manner as a cheque, is to be delivered to the bank for the purchase, to be made in the name of the Accountant, and when the purchase is made a cheque is to be drawn for the amount and the brokerage charges, signed and countersigned as aforesaid, and like entries are to be made in the Stock Ledger. J. A. Rule 580.

Rules 189-191.

Stock may be purchased from time to time under one order.

189. Where an order or judgment directing the investment from time to time of any interest or dividends accruing upon any stock, funds, shares or securities standing in the name of the Accountant in trust in or to the credit of any action, matter or account, or upon any stocks, funds, shares or securities which may be directed to be transferred into the name of the Accountant, or to be carried over from one account to another, or upon any stocks, funds, shares or securities which may be directed to be purchased with any cash in Court, or with any cash to be paid into Court, with his privity, is brought to the Accountant for the purpose of having such direction for investment carried into effect, the Accountant may from time to time until he receives notice of an order or judgment to the contrary without any further request invest the interest or dividends so directed to be invested, together with all accumulations of interest or dividends thereon, as soon as conveniently may be after they accrue due and have been received, in the purchase of the particular description of stocks, funds, shares or securities named in the order or judgment directing such investment, and place such stocks, funds, shares or securities when purchased to the credit of the action, matter or account respectively, as may be directed by such order or judgment. (iv) Stop Orders.

Liability of person obtaining Stop Order to pay costs and expenses occasioned thereby.

192. Where any stock, debentures, funds, securities, or moneys, are standing in Court to the credit of any action, or to the account of any class of persons, or are invested in the name of the Accountant, or other officer of the Court, and an order is made to prevent the transfer or payment of such stock, debentures, funds, securities, or moneys, or any part thereof, without notice to the assignee of any person entitled in expectancy or otherwise to any share or portion of such stock, debentures, funds, securities, or moneys, the person by whom any such order is obtained, or the share of such stock, debentures, funds, securities, or moneys affected by such order, shall be liable at the discretion of the Court, or a Judge, as the case may be, to pay any costs, charges and expenses which by reason of any such order having been obtained, shall be occasioned to any party to the action or matter, or any person interested in any such stock, debentures, funds, securities, or moneys. Chy. O. 286.

Jurisdiction to grant stop orders.

The power to grant stop orders was formerly part of the jurisdiction of the Court of Chancery, and which now, under The Judicature Act, is vested in all the Divisions of the High Court.

This Rule, therefore, applies to the moneys and investments in Court, in any action pending in any of the Divisions of the High Court, which are vested in the Accountant of the Supreme Court.

The object of the Rule is to prevent injustice being done by the granting of stop orders ex parte. The applicant for a stop order is always required to submit to be bound by the terms of this Rule as a condition of getting the stop order. See form of order Seton, 300. Rule 192.

The effect of a stop order is simply to prevent the payment out of money, or the transfer of securities in Court, to the person appearing on the books of the Accountant to be entitled thereto, without notice being first given to the person who obtains the stop order. Nothing is decided thereby as to the rights of the parties: Lucas v. Peacock, 9 Beav. 177. A stop order has no effect until delivered to the Accountant, but the payment out may be stayed for twenty-four hours, on lodging a caveat with that officer. Object of stop order.

Stop orders may be granted against a fund in Court, on the application of an execution creditor of the party entitled to the fund: Wilson v. McCarthy, 7 P. R. 132; Courtoy v. Vincent, 15 Beav. 486. A motion by a judgment creditor who had not obtained execution was refused: Brooke v. Brooke, before Ferguson, J., 28th May, 1884. A stop order may be obtained on a fund ordered to be paid into Court, though it has not been actually paid in: Shaw v. Hudson, 48 L. J. Chy. 689; but not when it is neither in Court, nor ordered to be paid in: Wellesley v. Mornington, 11 W. R. 17. An assignor should be served with notice of the application for a stop order by the assignee, even though a party to the cause, notwithstanding Rule 193; Parsons v. Groome, 4 Beav. 521; but the want of notice to the assignor cannot be set up by a subsequent assignee: Cottingham v. Cottingham, 11 Ont. 294; but payments made by the Accountant to the second assignee, before notice of the prior assignment, will not be disturbed: Ib. An execution creditor obtaining a stop order cannot thereby gain priority over a prior mortgagee: Re Bell, Carter v. Stadden, 54 L. T. N. S. 370. The application must be supported by evidence of the applicants' title: Wood v. Vincent, 4 Beav. 419; Quarman v. Williams, 5 Beav. 133. When granted.

Sometimes the stop order is followed by an application for payment to the party obtaining it, such a motion is of course made on notice to all parties interested in the fund: Re Gilchrist, Bohn v. Fife, 7 P. R. 430, including any other persons who have obtained stop orders against the fund: see Hulkes v. Day, 10 Sim. 41. Application to pay out.

Where the party obtaining the stop order does not move for an order for payment to him of the fund, the opposite party may move for payment out notwithstanding the stop order, or may move to discharge the stop order; such motions must, of course, be made on notice to the person who has obtained the stop order.

An order for payment out to a party entitled was made notwithstanding a stop order had been lodged by a mortgagee of a person who had a contingent interest in the fund, but whose interest never actually vested, and without notice to the mortgagee: Vernon v. Croft, 58 L. T. N. S. 919; 36 W. R. 778; This, however, seems like adjudicating upon a man's rights in his absence, and is a precedent that will no doubt be very cautiously followed.

Priorities.—As between specific chargees on a fund, a subsequent chargee having at the time of his advance notice of the prior charge, cannot obtain priority over it by first obtaining a stop order against the fund: Livesey v. Harding, 23 Beav. 141; Brearcliff v. Dorrington, 4 D. G. & S. 122; Swaine v. Swayne, 11 Beav. 463; Re Holmes, 29 Ch. D. 786; but if he had no notice of the prior charge when making his own advances, he may gain priority over it by first obtaining a stop order, even though he do so after notice of the prior charge: Ib., Greening v. Beckford, 5 Sim. 195; but as between parties having no specific charge against the fund; e.g., execution creditors, he who first obtained a stop order formerly gained priority: Thomas v. Cross, 2 Dr. & S. 423; but now the fund will be distributed among all creditors rateably according to the principle of The Creditors' Relief Act (R. S. O. c. 65): Dawson v. Moffatt, infra; but an execution creditor cannot by obtaining a stop order acquire priority over a prior charge, legal, or equitable: Re Bell, Carter v. Stadden, 54 L. T. N. S. 370. Effect of stop order on priorities.

Rules 193-196.

When a trust fund is being administered by the Court, the trustees cease to have any power over it, and a notice to them of an incumbrance will not give the party giving the notice priority over a prior incumbrancer who has not given notice; a stop order in such a case is the most effectual notice: Pinnock v. Bailey, 23 Ch. D. 497; 48 L. T. N. S. 811; Mutual Life Assurance Company v. Langley, 26 Ch. D. 686; 51 L. T. N. S. 284.

In Dawson v. Moffatt, 11 Ont. 484; 22 C. L. J. 31, it was held by analogy to the provisions of The Creditors' Relief Act, 1880, that where several creditors obtain stop orders against a fund in Court to which the common debtor is entitled, and which is insufficient to pay all in full, that it ought to be distributed among them and other creditors not having specific liens pro rata.

The priority acquired by a stop order extends only to the charge in respect of which it was obtained: Macleod v. Buchanan, 33 Beav. 234; 4 D. J. & S. 265.

Stop order cannot defeat lien of solicitor.

The stop order cannot defeat the rights of third parties to the fund: thus, the lien of a solicitor on the fund, cannot be defeated by obtaining a stop order against his client, even under an assignment: Haymes v. Cooper, 33 Beav. 431.

Costs of, Notice of.

Costs of obtaining a stop order are not given as of course: Grimbay v. Webster, 8 W. R. 755; Hoole v. Roberts, 12 Jur. 108; Waddilove v. Taylor, 6 Ha. 307.

Stop Order need not be served on parties not sought to be affected.

193. A person applying for such order, shall not be required to serve notice thereof upon the parties to the cause, or upon the persons interested in such parts of the stock, debentures, funds, securities, or moneys, as are not sought to be affected by the order. Chy. O. 287.

Service on assignor not dispensed with.

This Rule does not dispense with service on the assignor, although a party to the cause: Parsons v. Groome, 4 Beav. 521, nor on other parties who have obtained stop orders against the fund: Hulkes v. Day, 10 Sim. 41. The applicant may be ordered to pay the costs of parties unnecessarily notified: Glasbrook v. Gillatt, 6 Beav. 611.

13. Taxing Officers.

Taxing Officers.

194. There shall be two or more Taxing Officers of the Supreme Court at Toronto. See J. A. Rule 438.

Local taxing Officers.

195. Every Local Registrar, Local Master, Deputy Registrar and Deputy Clerk of the Crown, is a Local Taxing Officer.

Powers of local taxing Officers.

196. Every Local Taxing Officer, shall, subject to the provisions of Rules 1207 to 1211 inclusive, in actions begun or pending in his office, be entitled to tax all bills of costs, including counsel fees, subject only to appeal to a Judge of the High Court. This Rule shall not apply to cases in which infants are concerned, unless the Official Guardian is the guardian ad litem for the infants. 48 V. c. 13, s. 22.

Rules 197-201. Powers of Taxing Officers.

197. All Taxing Officers, shall, for the purpose of any taxation, have power to administer oaths and take evidence, direct production of books and documents, make certificates, and give general directions for the conduct of taxations before them. See J. A. Rule 438.

Substantially to the same effect as Eng. R. August 1875, R. 23 (1883 R. 27 (25)).

Taxing officers have power to call evidence on taxations before them: Williamson v. Town of Aylmer, 12 P. R. 129.

Where the taxing officer refused to proceed until the plaintiff was produced for examination as to a retainer, and he was out of the jurisdiction, the taxing officer was directed to examine other witnesses, and if unable to decide as to the retainer then, to report to a Judge in Chambers: Ib.

Where solicitor and client contradict one another in affidavits, the taxing officer should allow oral evidence to be taken under this Rule: Re Evans, 35 W. R. 546.

There is no power to direct shorthand notes of evidence before him without the consent of the parties: Re Hilleary v. Taylor, 36 Ch. D. 262; unless Rule 502 is applicable in such a case, which does not seem to have been contemplated.

14. Barristers and Solicitors.

Solicitors' Roll.

198. There shall be one Roll of Solicitors of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and all persons who shall be admitted as Solicitors shall sign the same upon taking the prescribed oaths. J. A. Rule 602.

Registrar of C. P. D. to have custody of roll.

199. The Registrar of the Common Pleas Division shall have the custody of such Roll and of all former Rolls of Attorneys and Solicitors, and he shall on the request of the Registrar of any other Division of the High Court, or of the Court of Appeal, transmit such Roll to such officer, who shall forthwith return the same to the Registrar of the Common Pleas Division when the purpose for which the same may be required shall have been accomplished. J. A. Rule 603.

Barristers' Rolls.

200. Mutatis mutandis, the Roll and Rolls for Barristers shall be in the same form and custody as the Solicitor's Roll and Rolls. J. A. Rule 604.

Striking solicitor off roll.

201. Where a case appears justifying or requiring by the practice hitherto an order against a Solicitor that he be struck off the Roll of Solicitors, unless he shall, before a time therein limited, show unto the Court good cause to the contrary, it shall be competent for the Court, in lieu Rule 201. thereof, to issue an order calling upon the Solicitor to answer the matters appearing on affidavit or otherwise. Chy. O. 52.

The Court of Appeal, as well as the High Court, has power to strike a solicitor off the rolls: R. S. O. c. 147, s. 2, (2): Re Whitehead, 28 Ch. D. 615.

In Burton v. Earl of Chesterfield, 9 Jur. 373, it was said that the motion could not be made, calling on an attorney to answer the affidavits and at the same time to show cause why he should not be struck off the rolls; and in that case the rule was confined to calling on him to answer the affidavits. In a later case, however, the rule nisi was granted in the double form: Re Blake, 3 E. & E. 34; and see Re Grueber, 63 L. T. Jour. 637.

Where the motion is confined to calling on the solicitor to answer affidavits simply, and the Court is of opinion that his answer is insufficient, the practice at law has been to enlarge the motion to a future day, intimating to the solicitor that he may be further heard on that day, why he should not be struck off: Re Wright, 12 C. B. N. S. 705: Re H., 31 L. T. N. S. 730.

In order to give the Court jurisdiction to entertain an application for a solicitor to answer matters contained in an affidavit, or to strike him off the rolls, it is not necessary that the misconduct of which he is accused should arise strictly between solicitor and client: Re Aitken, 4 B. & Ald. 47; Re Attorney, 39 U. C. Q. B. 171; Re Knight, 1 Bing. 91; Re Blake, 3 E. & E. 34; Re Hill, L. R. 3 Q. B. 543; Re Chandler, 22 Beav. 353; and see Re Cutts, 16 L. T. N. S. 715; Re Keays, 13 C. P. 282; Re Solicitor, 80 L. T. Jour. 103; Re Strong, 53 L. T. N. S. 694; 55 L. T. N. S. 3; 31 Ch. D. 273.

Where in the course of a cause, evidence of fraudulent conduct on the part of a solicitor is brought to light, the Court may sua sponte direct proceedings to be taken against the offending solicitor: Goodwin v. Gosnell, 2 Coll. 457, 462; Wheatley v. Bastow, Re Collins, 7 D. M. & G. 261, 588; Re Toms, 3 Chy. Ch. 204, 215; Re Currie, 25 Gr. 538; Re Solicitor, 27 Gr. 77; Thorndyke v. Hunt, 5 Jur. N. S. 879; and upon the application of any party interested: Cave v. Cave, 43 L. T. N. S. 158.

A solicitor may be struck off the rolls for fraudulent conduct as a trustee: Re Chandler, supra, where the application was made by the cestui que trust; and see Thorndyke v. Hunt, supra; Dolland v. Johnson, 2 Jur. N. S. 633; or for fraudulently abusing the confidence of a client: Re Martin, 6 Beav. 337; Re J. C. M. & J. M., 24 W. R. 111; or for obtaining a client's money to discharge alleged liabilities of the client which did not exist: Re H., 31 L. T. N. S. 730; Re Strong, 31 Ch. D. 273; 55 L. T. N. S. 3; or for getting a false affidavit sworn, and without authority instructing counsel to consent to payment of money out of Court: Wheatley v. Bastow, 7 D. M. & G. 261, 558; or for falsely representing an injunction to have been granted: Kimpton v. Eve, 2 V. & B. 352; or for making an interlineation in an affidavit after it had been sworn: Erskine v. Adeane, 18 Sol. Jour. 573; 10 C. L. J. 209; or for committing perjury, Seton 652; or for revealing the secrets of a client: Re Cutts, 16 L. T. N. S. 715; Cholmondeley v. Clinton, 19 Ves. 261; or for persuading his client to give him money to be used for bribing a jury before whom the client was to be tried for a criminal offence: Re Titus, 5 Ont. 87.

Where the application is made on the ground of fraud, the fraud must be clearly proved; the Court will not infer an equivocal action to have been fraudulent: Re Stewart, L. R. 2 P. C. 88; Re S——, 14 C. P. 323.

Under R. S. O., c. 147, s. 25, a solicitor may be struck off the rolls for default of payment of money received by him as a solicitor: Anon, 12 C. L. J. 204. But where considerable sums had got into the hands of a solicitor who made default in payment, but the client issued execution upon the order directing payment, it was held that he had treated the claim as a debt, and a subsequent motion to strike the solicitor off the rolls for non-payment was therefore refused: Re Fletcher, 28 Gr. 413. And where the client had sued the solicitor for the money and failed on the ground that his claim was barred by the Statute of Limitations; it was held that he could not afterwards resort to summary proceedings against the solicitor without any allegation of misconduct: Sittingbourne & S. Ry. Co. v. Lawson, 80 L. T. Jour. 448. The Court will not exercise its summary jurisdiction over a solicitor to compel repayment of a loan: Re Bryant, 50 L. T. N. S. 450; unless the loan has been fraudulently obtained by the solicitor from his client: see Re Strong supra. Rules 202, 203.

Repayment, pending a motion to strike off the rolls, of money fraudulently obtained, is no purgation of the offence: Re H., 31 L. T. N. S. 730; nor is it, where the money was properly obtained, but misappropriated: Re Solicitor, 62 L. T. Jour. 446. But when a solicitor has been struck off, it is a condition precedent to restoration that he shall have made full restitution, or made the best efforts in his power thereto, and satisfy the Court as to the propriety of his conduct in the meantime: Re Poole, L. R. 4 C. P. 350; Ex parte Pyke, 6 B. & S. 703. And the Law Society must be notified of any application to restore to the rolls, a solicitor who has been struck off for misconduct: Re Solicitor, 19 C. L. J. 234.

Where a solicitor is struck off the rolls for misappropriating the moneys of his client, the order directing him to be struck off may properly contain a reference to ascertain the amount for which he is liable and direct him to pay the amount so to be ascertained, and payment may be enforced against him even after he has been struck off: Re Strong, 31 Ch. D. 273; 55 L. T. N. S. 3.

In some cases the solicitor has been suspended from practice for a specified time, and not actually struck off: see Erskine v. Adeane, 18 Sol. Jour. 573; Re Hill, L. R. 3 Q. B. 543; Re Blake, 3 E. & E. 34; and see further as to proceedings against solicitors, Cordery's Law of Solicitors.

An order striking a solicitor off the rolls is not a criminal proceeding and is appealable: Re Hardwick, 49 L. T. N. S. 584.

202. A book to be called "The Solicitors' and Agents' Book" shall be kept by the Registrars of the Queen's Bench and Common Pleas Divisions of the High Court in Toronto and the Clerk of Records and Writs, at their respective offices, to be there inspected by any solicitor or his clerk without fee or reward; and every solicitor practising in said Court and residing within the city of Toronto or having an office and carrying on his business within the said city, shall enter in such book (in alphabetical order) his name and place of business or some other proper place within the city where he may be served with pleadings, notices, orders, and other proceedings; and as often as any such solicitor changes his place of business or the place where he may be so served as aforesaid, he shall make the like entry thereof in the said book. Rules T. T. 1856, 136. Chy. O. 24. Book to be kept by Registrar, in which addresses of solicitors practising in Toronto to be entered. Change of residence to be entered.

The entries required to be made under this Rule are compulsory: Essery v. G. T. Ry. Co., 9 C. L. T. 423; 25 C. L. J. 567.

For the consequences of not complying with this Rule, see Rule, 461.

203. Every other solicitor practising in the said Court shall enter in the said books (in like alphabetical order) his Book to be kept by Registrars in which names and addresses of Toronto agents to be entered.

name and place of business, and also in an opposite column the name of some solicitor having an office and carrying on business in the city of Toronto as his agent. Rules T. T. 1856, 137. Chy. O. 24.

The entry of a Toronto agent by solicitors practising out of Toronto is compulsory: Essery v. G. T. Ry. Co., supra. See also Rule 461.

Deputy Registrars. Solicitors and Agents' book.

204. Every Deputy or Local Registrar is to keep in his office a book to be called "The Solicitors' and Agents' Book," in which each solicitor residing elsewhere than in the County in which such Deputy or Local Registrar's office is, may specify the name of an agent, being a solicitor of this Court, and having an office in the city or town where the office of such Deputy or Local Registrar is situated, upon whom all writs, pleadings, notices, orders, warrants, and other documents, and written communications in relation to proceedings conducted in the office of the Local Master, Deputy Clerk, Deputy or Local Registrar of such County, may be served. Chy. O. 33.

The entry of the name of an agent in the books required to be kept under this Rule is optional: Essery v. G. T. Ry. Co., supra. If the entry is made services may be effected accordingly: see Rule 461; but service on an agent is not good service on the principal, unless the agent is booked as agent under this Rule: Robinson v. Robinson, 13 P. R. 51.

15. Shorthand Writers.

Money received by shorthand writer how applicable.

205. All moneys received by a shorthand writer for copies of evidence shall, when the shorthand writer is paid by salary, be accounted for by him to the Clerk of the proper Court, and shall be by the Clerk of such Court deposited in the Bank for the time being, where moneys of the Province are deposited, to the credit of an account to be called "The Shorthand Writers' Fund." C. L. Rules, 10th March, 1876, 5.

Shorthand writers not paid by salary, entitled to fees.

206. When the shorthand writer is not paid by salary, the said moneys shall belong to and be the property of the said shorthand writer. C. L. Rules, 10th March, 1876, 6.

By order in council of 10th March, 1887, Mr. Clark, one of the taxing officers, was appointed to receive the moneys payable for copies of evidence furnished by the regular shorthand writers, and he is required to pay them into Court to the credit of "The Shorthand Reporters' Account," and he is the person to whom applications for copies of the shorthand reporters' notes should be made.

16. EXPERTS. Rule 207.

207. The Court may obtain the assistance of accountants, merchants, engineers, actuaries, or other scientific persons, in such way as it thinks fit, the better to enable it to determine any matter in evidence in any cause or proceedings, and may act on the certificate of such person. Chy. O. 541.

Court may obtain services of experts.

It is only the Court that is authorized to obtain the assistance of experts. A Master to whom a cause is referred, has no authority to employ experts for the purpose of assisting him to come to a conclusion on matters referred to him: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, 24 Gr. 555; Mildmay v. Lord Methuen, 1 Drew. 216; 16 Jur. 965; but see contra, Re London & Birmingham Ry. Co., 6 W. R. 141; and see Rule 73 note.

Master cannot employ experts.

Where, however, the Master had, at the instance of the plaintiff, and with the consent of the creditors, in an administration suit, employed an expert, and the parties received the benefit of his services without objection, the Court on appeal by the creditors refused to disallow the costs incurred: Re Robertson, Robertson v. Robertson, supra.

Costs of expert may be allowed though improperly employed.

This Rule gives a wide discretion to the Court as to the manner in which experts shall be employed; but it does not apparently give the Court power to direct experts to be employed for the purpose of giving evidence as witnesses, but appears merely to enable the Court to procure the assistance of experts for the purpose of getting their opinions, on the evidence adduced by the parties, or upon a view of the locus in quo: see Enderwick v. Allden, 88 L. T. Jour. 12.

In Broder v. Saillard, 24 W. R. 456, the M. R. at the trial appointed an independent surveyor to make a report, and at the adjourned hearing his report was handed to the Judge; the Judge thought that two points should be stated more fully, and he directed the surveyor to make an addition to his report, observing that he preferred not to allow the surveyor to be sworn as a witness, as he was acting in a quasi-judicial capacity.

Cases in which expert appointed.

Where there is contradictory evidence on a scientific question the Court is at liberty to employ an independent expert to give advice upon which the Court may form its judgment: Badische Anilin, etc. v. Levinstein, 24 Ch. D. 156.

An expert has been employed to ascertain the effect of a dam on the water penned back: Hawkins v. Mahaffy, 29 Gr. 326; and the amount of encroachment of alluvium on a sea shore: Attorney-General v. Chambers, 4 DeG. & J. 55, 58; and as to the effect of using steamboats on a canal: Case v. Midland Ry. Co., 27 Beav. 247; and as to the circumstances under which the Court will send an expert, to report in the case of a suit to abate a nuisance: see Slavin v. North Brancepeth Coal Co., L. R. 9 Chy. 705; Enderwick v. Allden, supra.

Court cannot refuse to grant relief against nuisance until inquiry made by expert how it may be best abated.

Where a plaintiff proves himself entitled to an injunction against a nuisance, or other injury, the Court cannot, before pronouncing judgment, order an expert to be employed, for the purpose of ascertaining the best mode of removing the nuisance, etc., even though the injunction to which the plaintiff is entitled, be a difficult one for the plaintiff to obey: Attorney-General v. Colney Hatch Asylum, L. R. 4 Chy. 146; and a general inquiry as to what ought to be done to preserve the plaintiff's light and air, was refused: Stokes v. City Office Co., 13 W. R. 537. But after judgment, the opinion of an expert may be taken, as to the time which ought to be allowed, for carrying it into effect: Attorney-General v. Merthyr Tydfil, 5 W. R. 148.

In the Baltic Co. v. Simpson, 24 W. R. 390, it was held that the Court ought not under 15 & 16 Vict. c. 80, s. 42, or sec. 57 of the Jud. Act. (Ont. Act. sec. 102, p. 97, supra) to make an order before trial, appointing a scientific person to report on a question of fact.

Rule 207. Where a matter is referred by the Court to an expert or report, a forma order of reference to him should be drawn up; but where an expert acted, and made his report, without this having been done, the Court acted on the report notwithstanding the objection: Enderwick v. Allden, 88 L. T. Jour. 12.

Appointment ex parte. Where an expert is employed, it is not absolutely necessary that the appointment should be made in the presence of the parties: Re London & Birmingham Ry. Co., 6 W. R. 141.

Expert cannot call witnesses. An expert cannot call witnesses: Morris v. Llanelly Ry. Co., W. N. 1868, 46; and his report is not conclusive: Ford v. Tynte, 2 D. J. & S. 127; Adamson v. Gill, 16 W. R. 306.

Assessors. Under the Jud. Act, s. 101, (ante p. 96), the Court may call in the aid of one or more assessors specially qualified, and may try or hear a cause or matter wholly, or partially, with the assistance of such assessors. Where experts are called in to act as assessors their powers are merely advisory, and the Court is not bound to adopt, or follow, the advice which they may offer. Assessors sit with the Judge and hear the evidence upon which their advice is required. It has not been usual for them to take any oath of office.

Reference to experts under secs. 101, 102. Under s. 101 of the Act, (ante p. 96) any question arising in any cause or matter may be referred to a Judge of a County Court, official referee, or to any referee agreed on by the parties, for inquiry and report, and in this way the assistance of experts may be obtained. And under s. 102 (ante p. 98), a cause or matter may, in certain cases therein mentioned, be referred to a special referee (if the parties so agree) for trial.

No power it will be seen is given to the Court under sec. 101, or 102, to refer a cause to anybody but a Judge of a County Court, or an official referee, except by consent of the parties. Where, therefore, a reference is required under those sections to an expert, it would seem the parties must agree on the referee to be named. It is possible, however, that this Rule may be held so to amplify the power of the Court as to enable it to refer causes for the purposes mentioned in secs. 101, 102, to special referees of its own nomination, independently of the consent of the parties.

Where a reference is directed to an expert for inquiry or report under sec. 101, or for trial under sec. 102, that is, of course, an exception to the rule laid down in Morris v. Llanelly Ry. Co., supra, that he cannot call witnesses: see Rules 34-36, 552 (a).

When a question, or a cause or matter, is referred to a special referee under sec. 101, or 102, his report would appear to be appealable in the same way and within the same time as a Master's report: see Rules, 43, 84, and heading to Rules 848, 849, 850; but see Rule 5 as to effect of headings.

Expert evidence. Where an expert is required to give evidence, his evidence should be given viva voce, as the Court as a general rule discourages the taking of such evidence by commission: The Attorney-General v. Gooderham, 10 P. R. 259.

Where parties adduce quasi expert evidence, it is not open to the Court, upon a trial by jury, to withdraw the case from the jury, because in the opinion of the Court, the witnesses are incompetent to give expert evidence, but the evidence must be submitted quantum valeat; e.g., in an issue in which the mental capacity of a testator was in question, the evidence of witnesses who spoke to his mental capacity was held to be admissible even though the witnesses were not in the opinion of the Court experts: Regan v. Waters, 10 Ont. App. 85. As to the weight to be attached to the conclusions of scientific witnesses: see Goldsmid v. Tunbridge Wells, L. R. 1 Chy. 349.

Where the opinions of experts on foreign law are conflicting, the Court will examine for itself the texts books and judicial decisions of the foreign country, in order to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion: Rice v. Gunn, 4 Ont. 579; The Stettin, 14 P. D. 142. The Court will not receive the opinions of experts as to the proper construction of a statute; e.g., the evidence of surveyors as to the mode of making a survey under a statute is inadmissible: Stafford v. Bell, 6 Ont. App. 273.

The costs incurred in order to qualify experts to give evidence do not appear to be taxable between party and party: see McGannon v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 555.

(iii) Vacation Judges.

Vacation Judges.

214. One or more of the Judges of the High Court shall be selected at the commencement of each Long Vacation, for the hearing in Toronto during vacation of all such applications as may require to be immediately or promptly heard. Such Judge or Judges shall act as vacation Judge or Judges for one year from appointment. In the absence of arrangement between the Judges, the vacation Judge or Judges shall be the Judge or Judges last appointed (whether as Judge or Judges of the said High Court or of any Court whose jurisdiction is by the Act vested in the said High Court) who have not already served as vacation Judges of any such Court and if there shall not be any Judge or Judges for the time being of the said High Court who shall not have so served, then the vacation Judge or Judges shall be the Judge or Judges (if any) who has or have not so served and the senior Judge or Judges who has or have so served once only according to seniority of appointment whether in the said High Court or such other Court as aforesaid. J. A. Rule 481.

Same in effect as Eng. R., February, 1875, R. 9 ; (1883, R. 955), except that the latter provides for two Judges, instead of one or more. It provides also that the Lord Chancellor is not to be a vacation Judge.

No provision, it will be observed, is made for the attendance of vacation Judges of the Court of Appeal.

No business is heard by the vacation Judges, or any other Judges sitting for them under the next Rule, except such as requires "to be immediately or promptly heard" within the meaning of the above Rule. No Judges except the vacation Judges, or those sitting for them, can dispose of business in vacation: Per Lush and Lopes, JJ., 24th Sept., 1877. But query. Rules 215, 216.

An application for judgment under Rule 739, will be heard as urgent if the right to make it has accrued in vacation, not otherwise: Ibid. But query.

As to what is vacation business, see also Re Wigan Junction Railway Co., L. R. 10 Chy. 541.

215. The vacation Judges may sit either separately, or together as a Divisional Court, as occasion shall require, and may hear and dispose of all actions, matters, and other business to whatever Division the same may be assigned. No order made by a vacation Judge shall be reversed or varied except by a Divisional Court or the Court of Appeal, (a) or the Judge who made the order. Any other Judge of the High Court may sit in vacation for any vacation Judge. J. A. Rule 482. Jurisdiction of vacation Judges.

(a) The Eng. R. 1875, O. 61, r. 6 (1883, R. 956), has here the words "or a Judge thereof"; it is otherwise the same.

Motions requiring to be made within a period defined by reference to the old Trinity Term must be made to the vacation Judge: Giles v. Morrow, 4 Ont. 649.

(iv) Divisional Courts.

216. The sittings of the Divisional Courts shall be three in every year, viz., the Michaelmas sittings, the Hilary sittings, and the Easter sittings. Sittings of Divisional Courts of Q. B. and C. P. Divisions.

(a) The Michaelmas sittings shall begin on the third Monday in November, and end on Saturday of the second week thereafter; the Hilary sittings shall begin on the first Monday in February, and end on the Saturday of the following week; the Easter sittings shall begin on the third Monday in May, and end on the Saturday of the second week thereafter;

(b) In case it appears to the Judges of any Division of the said Court, or a majority of them, that the number of days so provided for holding any sittings is not required, or is insufficient, for the due despatch of the business to be transacted by the Court in such sittings, such Judges may from time, shorten the period for holding the sittings to such period, not less than two weeks, or increase the length of the same to any period, as the case may require;

(c) The preceding provisions of this Rule are not to apply to the Chancery Division except when the Judges thereof shall be of opinion that the business of the said Division is such as to render the said provisions necessary or convenient for the due despatch of business, and shall give notice to that effect.

Sittings of Divisional Court in Ch. Div.

217. The Divisional Court of the Chancery Division shall hold sittings commencing on the ~~first~~ Thursday in ~~September, the first Thursday in December~~, and third Thursday in February ~~in each year~~. J. A. Rule 524.

These sittings correspond with the former Re-hearing Terms: see Chy. Gen. O. 413.

218. Divisional Courts of the High Court are to sit at such further or other times as may be directed by the High Court or as, in the opinion of the Judges of the Division, may be necessary for the due despatch of business. J. A. Rule 524.

Proceedings to be taken before Divisional Courts.

219. The following proceedings and matters shall be heard and determined before the Divisional Courts; but nothing herein contained shall be construed so as to take away or limit the power of a single Judge to hear and determine any such proceedings or matters in any case in which he has heretofore had power to do so, (d) or so as to require any interlocutory proceeding therein, heretofore taken before a single Judge, to be taken before a Divisional Court (a):

Appeals from orders of a Judge in Chambers (b).

For restrictions upon the right to appeal in such cases, see secs. 68 and 69 of the Act, pp. 77-78.

There is no appeal to the Divisional Court from a Judge sitting in Court: see note to sec. 61, p. 71.

Proceedings directed by any Statute to be taken before the Court, and in which the decision of the Court is final.

Cases of Habeas Corpus, in which a Judge directs that a motion for the writ, or the writ be made returnable before a Divisional Court. Rule 220.

Other (c) cases where all parties agree that the same be heard before a Divisional Court.

Applications for new trials in the said Divisions where the action has been tried with a jury (e). J. A. Rule 471.

(a) The preceding part of this Rule is taken from the English Order, Dec., 1876, R. 8. See Rules of 1883, R. 884.

(b) The present English Rule is confined to appeals from Chambers in the Q. B. Division.

(c) Instead of the word "other" the English Rule has the word "special."

The English Rule also includes proceedings on the Crown side of the Queen's Bench Division; appeals from Revising Barristers, and proceedings relating to Election Petitions, Parliamentary and Municipal; appeals under section 6 of the County Courts Act, 1875; proceedings on the Revenue side of the Exchequer Division; and cases stated by the Railway Commissioners under 36 & 37 Vict. c. 48.

(d) For the cases here referred to, see R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 281-282.

(e) Also motions against judgments where the trial was without a jury: see Rules 789, 798.

A Divisional Court ought not to entertain applications to quash by-laws, but quære whether a Divisional Court has not jurisdiction: Landry v. Ottawa, 11 P. R. 442.

A Divisional Court has no jurisdiction in appeal from a Judge under The Railway Act, R. S. C. c. 109, s. 8 (28). The Judge under that clause acts not as a Judge in Chambers, but as a persona designata for the purposes of the Act: Re McMillan & the Guelph Junction Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 294.

The jurisdiction of the High Court in criminal matters is exercised by the Q. B. or C. P. Divisions sitting as such Divisions, not as Divisional Courts: see Reg. v. Beemer, 15 Ont. 266.

The jurisdiction of Divisional Courts is strictly limited by these provisions. It has therefore no power to hear an appeal from a Referee or Master: Clarke v. Jamieson, 9 C. L. T. 97; or from the Master in Chambers: Ball v. Cathcart, 16 Ont. 525.

220. Six cases, in the order of their priority on the general list of a Divisional Court, shall be set down by the Registrar in the peremptory list for argument, on each day of the Sittings of the Divisional Court, excepting upon the last day, and, except by consent and by leave of the Court, no argument shall be heard in any other case, until the cases in the peremptory list for the day are disposed of. C. L. Rules 17 Nov. 1875, 9, 10; 27 Nov. 1880. Peremptory list.

Rules 221-223.

Postponed cases.

221. Any case entered on the peremptory list for any day, and postponed by order, or default, shall be placed at the foot of the general list, unless, for sufficient cause, it is otherwise specially ordered by the Court. C. L. Rules 17 Nov. 1875, 11.

Party ready to proceed with case on peremptory list, may be heard, though other side not ready, or cause may be enlarged.

222. If either party to a case on the peremptory list, is prepared to be heard and the other party is not prepared, and it is not duly postponed as aforesaid, the Court may hear the party so prepared, whereupon the case shall stand for judgment; or the Court may extend the time on sufficient cause being shown by affidavit, to enable the other party to be heard, on payment of the costs of the day, if the Court shall so order. If neither party to a case on the peremptory list is ready, the Court may, if it sees fit, strike the case out of the list. C. L. Rules 17 Nov. 1875, 12.

Causes on peremptory list not disposed of, to be entered first for next day.

223. If all the cases on the peremptory list for any day, are not disposed of on that day, such cases shall be entered by the Registrar first on the peremptory list for the next day as part of the six cases for such next day. C. L. Rule 17 Nov. 1875, 13; 27 Nov. 1880.

(i) Writ of Summons.

All actions commenced by writ of summons.

224. All actions which prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, were commenced by [any form of] writ, and all suits which were commenced by bill or information shall be commenced by the issue of a writ of summons, (a) which shall be prepared by the plaintiff, (b) and shall contain the name of the Division from which it is issued, the names of the parties and the characters in which they sue and are sued, (c) and the office (d) in which and the time within which the defendant is to enter his appearance, and shall be indorsed with a short statement of the nature of the plaintiff's claim. (e) See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 14; c. 52, s. 4. J. A. Rules 1, 5, 13, 22, 23.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 224.

Actions generally.

The term "action" is defined by the Act, (s. 2) to be a civil proceeding commenced by writ or in such other manner as may be prescribed by Rules of Court. As to the effect of this definition: see Darcy v. Whittaker, 33 L. T. N. S. 778; 24 W. R. 244; Hamlyn v. Betteley, 6 Q. B. D. 63.

The words in brackets have been introduced to make it clear that there is now to be no special form of writ for particular kinds of actions such as proceedings by capias and against absconding debtors, dower, replevin, ejectment, etc. See also Rules 231, 249, 290, 1045, 1089, 1098.

The effect of the J. A. Rules is to abolish the non-finality which a judgment in ejectment formerly had. A former judgment on the same question will now sustain a defence of res judicata: Ball v. Cathcart, 16 Ont. 525; Cochrane v. Hamilton Prov. L. S., 15 Ont. 128.

Proceedings by capias.

In Robertson v. Coulton, 9 P. R. 16, Osler, J., expressed the opinion that actions formerly commenced by writ of capias must now be commenced by writ of summons. This view was not concurred in by Cameron, J., in Vetter v. Cowan, 46 U. C. Q. B. 435, 441, but the determination of the point was not necessary in either case; it was, however, made clear that a writ of capias might be issued as formerly, either before: Vetter v. Cowan, supra, or after: Robertson v. Coulton, supra, action brought, as a proceeding ancillary to an action, and not abolished by the Jud. Act: see 2 C. L. T. 69. All question on the subject is now set at rest by the present Rule and Rule 1045, which latter abolishes writs of ca. re. and substitutes an order which must be made "in an action" that is a proceeding commenced by writ of summons in the ordinary way.

Dower.

Before the Con. Rules it was not clear how far R. S. O., c. 56, The Dower Procedure Act was affected by the Jud. Act An action of dower is now however to be commenced by an ordinary writ of summons, and prosecuted in the same way as other actions: see Rule 290, and R. S. O. c. 56.

Absconding debtors

Replevin.

The modes of instituting proceedings against an absconding debtor under R. S. O. 1877 c. 68: Sutherland v. Leys, Mr. Dalton, 23rd Aug., 1881, and in replevin: Lawless v. Radford, 9 P. R. 33; Campan v. Lucas, 9 P. R. 142 were unaffected by the J. A. 1881; but when instituted were regulated in matters of ordinary procedure by the Rules: see Wallace v. Cowan, 9 P. R. 144. An ordinary writ of summons is now the way to commence such proceedings: see Rules 1089, 1098.

Informations.

An action may, by amendment of the writ and statement of claim be turned into an action by the Attorney-General at the suit of a relator corresponding to an information under the old practice, the sanction of the Attorney-General being obtained: Caldwell v. Pagham Harbour, etc., Co., 2 Ch. D. 221; see Rule 444. The title information is no longer to be used: Attorney-General v. Shrewsbury Bridge, 42 L. T. N. S. 79; W. N. 1880, 23. An action by the Attorney-General can only be instituted by his sanction: see Attorney-General v. Toronto Street Railway Co., 2 Chy. Ch. 165, and his fiat should be obtained and indorsed on the writ and a copy thereof. The copy should then be filed under Rule 234.

Indorsement of claim.

(b) Taken from original Rule 5. Corresponds substantially with Eng. R. 1875, O. 2, r. 1, (1883, R. 3). Comp. Eng. R. 1875, 5 Sch. A.; R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 3, 29 et seq.; Ib. c. 67, s. 8, et seq.; Ib. c. 137.

It is irregular to proceed by statement of claim upon a different cause of action from that mentioned in the writ: see United Telephone Co. v. Foster, 59 L. T. N. S. 852, and notes to Rule 368.

In case a mandamus, or an injunction, or a receiver is claimed, the plaintiff ought to indorse his writ accordingly, though, if the necessity for such relief arises incidentally in the course of the action, the Court has power to give the relief even if a claim for it was not indorsed on the writ: see Colebourne v. Colebourne, 1 Ch. D. 690; Norton v. Gover, W. N., 1877, 206. A defective indorsement may be amended. A general power of amending proceedings is given by Rule 444.

In an action for administration, the writ should show that such is the nature of the action, by being entitled "in the matter of the estate of"; Re Jones, 24 W. R. 317. Rules 225, 226.

No very precise indorsement of the nature of the claim is required; see Rule 243.

A writ against A. O. & R. indorsed to have set aside a deed from A. to O. and a deed from O. to A. was held sufficient on motion by R. to have service on him set aside as showing no cause of action against him: Gilmore v. Orford, 11 P. R. 437.

(c) Taken from original Rule 13, identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 3, r. 4, (1883, R. 14.)

In Worraker v. Pryer, 2 Ch. D. 109, it was held by Jessel, M.R., and in Re Boyle, 5 Ch. D. 540, by Bacon, V.C., and in Adcock v. Peters, W. N. 1876, 139; 2 Charl. N. C. (Court) 288, by Malins, V.C., that in an ordinary creditors' action for administration of the real and personal estate of a deceased debtor, the action must be by the plaintiff on behalf of himself and all the other creditors; and the writ must be indorsed accordingly. In the earlier case of Cooper v. Blissett, 1 Ch. D. 691, Hall, V.C., had taken a contrary view. In the later case of Eyre v. Cox, 24 W. R. 317, Jessel, M.R., said that when it appeared in the statement of claim that the plaintiff was suing on behalf of himself and other creditors, it was not necessary to amend the writ by the insertion of those words. Actions on behalf of a class.

Where a judgment is applied for by motion under the former Chancery Orders 467, 638, etc. (now Rules 965, 972), it has not been the practice to require the style of the cause to shew that the suit is on behalf of all the creditors, etc. See also Re Blount, 27 W. R. 865.

A statement of the representative capacity in which a plaintiff sues cannot be supplied from allegations in plaintiff's affidavits on a motion: Hynes v. Fisher, 4 Ont. 78. Or in representative character.

(d) Comp. Eng. R. 1875, O. 5, r. 2, 3, (1883, R. 25, 26.) Issue of writ.

(e) Taken from original Rule 23.

The Eng. R., 1875, O. 5, r. 5 (1883, R. 32,) gives directions also as to the description of paper to be used.

Where notice of action is necessary it may not be required where the principal relief sought is an injunction, and damages are only claimed as subsidiary thereto: see Flower v. Low Leyton, 5 Ch. D. 347.

225. Every matter or proceeding not commenced by writ of summons shall be assigned to one of the Divisions of the High Court, by marking the document by which the same is commenced with the name of the Division. See 44 V. c. 5 s. 25. Proceedings to be assigned to a Div. of the H. C.

Petitions, notices of motion for administration or appointment of a guardian, etc., are examples of matters not commenced by writ of summons.

226. Writs of summons shall be issued in rotation from the Queen's Bench, Chancery, and Common Pleas Divisions; and in the County of York shall be issued by the Clerk of the Process, and in other counties or union of counties for judicial purposes, by the Deputy Clerk of the Crown or Local Registrar, as the case may be. Writs to issue in rotation.

Rules 227-231.

(a) Writs issued by a Deputy Clerk or a Local Registrar need not be signed or sealed by the Clerk of the Process. See J. A. Rule 545; R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 5, 6.

County Courts.

227. The Clerks of the County Courts shall issue all similar writs in the County Courts respectively. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50 s. 6.

Office from which issued to be noted in the margin.

228. The Clerk of the Process and each Deputy Clerk of the Crown, Local Registrar and Clerk of each County Court, shall note in the margin of every writ issued by him, from what office and in what County the writ issued, and shall subscribe his name thereto. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 50. s. 9.

Sealing and issue of writ.

229. Every writ of summons shall be signed and sealed by the officer issuing the same, and shall thereupon be deemed to be issued. J. A. Rule 24.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 5, r. 6, (1883, R. 33.)

The issue of the writ is not so far a judicial act that the Court will not take cognizance of the fact that it was not issued till later in the day than the cause of action arose: Clarke v. Bradlaugh, 8 Q. B. D. 63.

Writ may issue in any county.

230. A plaintiff may issue his writ of summons in any County. J. A. Rule 20; R. S. O. 1877. c. 50, s. 10.

This Rule corresponds substantially with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 5, r. 1 (1883. R. 23); and with the former practice in this Province as respects transitory actions. District Registries were established in England by The Judicature Act of 1873, s. 60, to decentralize the business, as far as consistent with the due administration of justice.

The writ in an action of ejectment may under this Rule issue out of the proper office in any County without reference to the locality of the land, though the trial must, under Rule 653, be in the County where the land lies: Canada Permanent, etc. v. Foley, 9 P. R. 273.

An action for assignment of dower is an action for the recovery of land: McCulloch v. McCulloch, 4 C. L. T. 252.

Writ for service in Ontario.

231. [Where the service is to be made in Ontario] the writ of summons for the commencement of an action shall be in Form No. 1 in the Appendix hereto, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 7.

Corresponds with the English Rule, 1875, O. 2, s. 3 (1883, R. 5), except the words in brackets. The Rule applies to ejectment as well as other actions. Before the J. A., 1881, in Equity a suit for land, under The Administration of Justice Act or otherwise, did not differ from other suits, but in the Common Law Courts the case was otherwise, and a special form of writ of ejectment, prescribed by s. 220 of the C. L. P. Act of 1856 (R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 2) was in use. The C. L. P. Act, 1856, U. C., abolished a previous cumbrous method of proceeding by ejectment, and provided a simpler procedure in its place, but left the proceedings in ejectment different in many respects from those in ordinary actions; the writ was different: it gave sixteen days to appear, instead of, as in other actions, eight; and there were no pleadings. Since 1881 an action for the recovery of land will now, with a few exceptions (expressly mentioned in the Rules), proceed like any other action. The writ will be the same, the indorsement thereon, as in other actions, showing the nature of the claim; and there will be pleadings. The most material differences will be, that the right of a landlord to intervene and defend is preserved; Rules 293, 294; and that a defendant in possession need not in general plead his title; Rule 416. Rule 232.

A writ in the form for service within, the jurisdiction will not be set aside before service because defendant is resident without the jurisdiction, for the plaintiff may wait until he comes within the jurisdiction to serve him: The Helenslea, 51 L. J. Adm. 16; 30 W. R. 616; 47 L. T. N. S. 446; 18 C. L. J. 161; and see Snow v. Crie, 7 P. R. 162: Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 395, 397.

A writ for service on persons domiciled within, was served on them without the jurisdiction. Leave was given to issue nunc pro tunc a concurrent writ for service out of the jurisdiction, and to amend the copies served in accordance therewith: Metcalfe v. Davis, 6 P. R. 275.

Where a writ for service out of the jurisdiction is issued, and the defendant is abroad, the Judge may, if the circumstances warrant substitutional service, order a copy to be served within the jurisdiction, although it is not in the form for service within the jurisdiction: Ford v. Shephard, 34 W. R. 63; 53 L. T. N. S. 564. See notes to Rule 271.

In The W. A. Scholten, 36 W. R. 559, a writ was set aside for not containing the address of defendant as prescribed by the form of writ, but the decision seems to have proceeded upon the fact that the defendant was a foreign corporation, and if the address abroad had been inserted the writ could not under the English Rules have been issued without leave. In Ont., see Rule 274. See also Sedwick v. Yedras Mining Co., 35 W. R. 780.

232. [Where there is jurisdiction to proceed with an action on a service out of Ontario,] the writ of summons to be so served (a) shall be in Form No. 2, in the Appendix hereto, with such variations as circumstances may require, and shall bear the indorsement contained in said form purporting that such writ is for service out of Ontario. [Where a defendant is not a British subject, and is not in British Dominions, notice of the writ of summons is to be served in lieu of service of the writ, and] such notice shall be in Form No. 3 in the Appendix with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 8; R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 48. Writ and notice for service out of jurisdiction.

See Eng. R., 1875, O. 2, r. 5 (1883, R. 7).

The first clause in brackets is not in the English Rule, but does not vary the effect of the Rule. At (a) the English Rule has the words "or of which notice is to be given out of the jurisdiction." In other respects the Rule corresponds substantially with the English Rule.

The second clause in brackets is adopted from R. S. O. c. 50, s. 45, and is not in the English Rule. Under section 19 of the C. L. P. Act of 1852, in England service on a foreigner resident out of the jurisdiction was directed to be made in a similar way, and that enactment has been held to be in force in England since the Judicature Act: Westman v. Aktiebolaget, E. M. Snickarefabrik, 1 Ex. D. 237, Beddington v. Beddington, 1 P. D. 426; and to apply to the Chancery Division equally with the other Divisions: Re Howard, Padley v. Camphausen, 10 Ch. D. 550. As to the form of affidavit of service: see Bustros v. Bustros, 14 Ch. D. 849, and Form No. 45 in the Appendix.

Where a writ for service on a foreigner out of the jurisdiction was served on him while within the jurisdiction on a temporary visit, a judgment signed by default of appearance was held regular: Snow v. Cole, 7 P. R. 162.

When a foreigner is served out of the jurisdiction, with a writ, instead of a notice as prescribed by this Rule, the service is void: Hewitson v. Fabre, 21 Q. B. D. 6.

See also notes to Rule 271.

Date and teste of writ.

233. Every writ ~~of summons and every other writ~~ shall bear date on the day on which the same is issued, and shall be tested in the name of the President of the High Court of Justice, and shall require the defendant to appear thereto in ten days after service [including the day of service], if the service is to be made in Ontario. J. A. Rule 9. 1307 as provided by rule 375 as amended

Corresponds substantially with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 2, r. 8 (1883, R. 10). The writ is in England tested in the name of the Lord Chancellor; or, if the office of Lord Chancellor is vacant, in the name of the Lord Chief Justice of England. In Ontario by section 3, sub-section 10, of the Act, the President of the High Court is "that one of the Presidents of the Queen's Bench, Chancery and Common Pleas Divisions, who, for the time being, is first in order of seniority."

Every writ must have the full title of the action, including the names of all the defendants, but need only be directed to the particular defendant or defendants intended to be served with it. Where different times have to be mentioned for different defendants to appear, the proper course is to issue concurrent writs: Traill v. Porter, 1 L. R. Ir. 60.

A writ issued after the cause of action accrued, but on the same day is good. The issue of the writ is the act of the party and not of the Court, and the Court will in such case inquire as to the actual time, and not refer the act to the first moment of the day: Clark v. Bradlaugh, 7 Q. B. D. 151; 8 Q. B. D. 63; see Lord Dorchester v. Petrie, 3 Doug. 273; Rob & Joseph Dig. 3750.

The words in brackets were not in the original Rule, but the form of writ (No. 1) notified the defendant to appear within ten days after service "inclusive of the day of such service" and even under the original Rule the time was to be so computed: Cornish v. Manning, 18 C. L. J. 76, 143; 2 C. L. T. 105, and see Rules 275, 474.

See notes to Rule 444 as to irregu'arities in the teste of writs, and amendment thereof.

Copy to be filed.

234. The plaintiff or his solicitor shall, on presenting any writ of summons for sealing, leave with the officer a copy of such writ, and of all the indorsements thereon, signed by or for the solicitor leaving the same, or by the plaintiff himself if he sues in person. J. A. Rule 547, first part.

Process Book.

235. The officer issuing the writ shall make an entry of every writ of summons issued by him in a book to be called the Process Book, which is to be kept in the manner in which process books have heretofore been kept; and the action shall be distinguished by a number in the manner in which actions are now distinguished in such last mentioned books; and in case of any further proceeding in the action, an entry thereof shall be made in another book to be called the Procedure Book, which is to be kept in the manner in which Procedure Books have heretofore been kept. J. A. Rule 26. Rules 236, 237.

See Eng. R. 1875 O. 5, r. 8, (1883, R. 35) which requires the action to be distinguished by the date of the year, and a letter as well as a number. There are also some other minor variations.

236. The plaintiff in any action may, at the time of, or at any time during twelve months after the issuing of the original writ of summons, issue one or more concurrent writ or writs, each concurrent writ to bear teste of the same day as the original writ, and to be marked by the officer issuing the same with the word "concurrent" in the margin, and the date of issuing the concurrent writ: Provided always, that such concurrent writ or writs shall only be in force for the period during which the original writ in such action is in force. J. A. Rule 27. Concurrent writs.

Comp. Eng. R. 1875 O. 6, r. 1, (1883, R. 40.)

The twelve months are calendar months: Rule 472. The time named in the English Rule is the same.

The time by the C. L. P. Act R. S. O. 1887, c. 50, ss. 26-27, was six months. So also by the English C. L. P. Act, s. 9. With that exception the present Rule is substantially the same as section 26 of the Ontario C. L. P. Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 50.

The English Rule requires that the word "concurrent" and the date should be marked with a seal to be impressed upon the writ by the proper officer.

By the terms of this Rule the concurrent writ can only be issued within the twelve months for which the original writ is current: see also Smallpage v. Yonge, 17 Q. B. D. 644. And under similar language in the section of the C. L. P. Act above referred to, it was held that a concurrent writ could not be issued after the renewal of the original writ: Cole v. Sherard, 11 Ex 482; but now, however, under Rule 485, the Court or Judge may enlarge the time, and after the renewal, allow a concurrent writ to issue: Smallpage v. Yonge, supra, and Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, 46 L. J. Chy. 316; W. N. 1877, 38.

Where different times are to be mentioned for different defendants to appear, the proper course is to issue concurrent writs: Traill v. Porter, 1 L. R. Ir. 60; so that that course will be proper where, under Rule 276, defendants out of the jurisdiction have different times to appear, or where some defendants are within and others without the jurisdiction. See next Rule, and Beddington v. Beddington, 24 W. R. 348; 34 L. T. N. S. 366; 45 L. J. (P. D. & A.) 44.

237. A writ for service within the jurisdiction may be issued and marked as a concurrent writ with one for Concurrent writs for service service, or whereof notice in lieu of service is to be given, out of the jurisdiction; and a writ for service, or whereof notice in lieu of service is to be given, out of the jurisdiction, may be issued and marked as a concurrent writ with one for service within the jurisdiction. J. A. Rule 28.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 6, r. 2, (1883, R. 41,) and corresponds in substance with R. S. O. c. 50, s. 52: see Beddington v. Beddington, supra.

A concurrent writ may be issued after the original writ has been issued, and although there is only one defendant, and for service abroad although the original writ is for service within the jurisdiction: Smallpage v. Fonge, 17 Q. B. D. 644.

Where a defendant whose domicile was within the jurisdiction was served abroad with a writ in the form for service within the Province, on an application to set aside the service for irregularity, leave was granted to issue nunc pro tunc, a concurrent writ for service abroad, and the copies served, were directed to be amended to conform to the concurrent writ: Metcalf v. Davis, 6 P. R. 275.

As to substitutional service within the jurisdiction of writs against defendants who are abroad, see notes to Rule 271.

(ii) Renewal of Writ.

Currency of writ.

238. No original writ of summons shall be in force for more than twelve months from the day of the date thereof, including the day of such date; but if any defendant therein named shall not have been served therewith, the plaintiff may, before the expiration of the twelve months, apply to a Judge for leave to serve the writ after, and notwithstanding the lapse of, the said period.

(a) The Judge, if satisfied that reasonable efforts have been made to serve such defendant, or for other good reason, may order that the service shall be good if made within twelve months from the date of the order; and so from time to time during the currency of the further period allowed.

(b) The writ shall in such case be renewed by being marked with the date of the day, month and year of such renewal; such renewal to be so marked by the proper officer, upon delivery to him by the plaintiff or his solicitor of a memorandum in Form No. 92, in the Appendix.

(c) In such case the original writ shall be available to prevent the operation of any statute whereby the time for the commencement of the action is limited and for all other purposes, from the date of the original issue of the writ. J. A. Rule 31.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 8, r. 1 (1883, R. 45), which provides for the renewal being marked with a seal.

Rule 239.

This Rule introduced an important change. Theretofore the writ, if not served, might, as of right, during its currency, be renewed for six months from the date of renewal, and so on from time to time during the currency of the renewed writ; so as to keep the action alive without service, and thereby defeat the Statute of Limitations for an indefinite time; whereas under this Rule a writ can only be renewed by leave, and if reasonable efforts have been made to serve the defendant, or for other good reason. The application is made ex parte: see Dan. Pr. 326, 327; Forms 131 Chitty's Arch. 229.

It is only the original writ that can be renewed. Where, therefore, a writ which had once been renewed was lost, the Court refused to direct the officer to seal a verified copy: Davies v. Garland, 1 Q. b. D. 250. Semble a concurrent writ might have been issued.

The writ will expire at midnight preceding the anniversary of its issue: see Fitch v. Walker, 7 P. R. 8.

Where a writ was renewed for six months from 6th April, 1881, under the former practice and was served on 27th Dec., 1881, it was held that the writ being in force on 22nd Aug., 1881 (when the Jud. Act. came into force), it was continued in force under this Rule for a year, and service was therefore good: Mackelcan v. Becket, 9 P. R. 289.

The twelve months are calendar months (Rule 472) and run from the date of the writ: Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, 46 L. J. Chy. 316; W. N. 1877, 38; and vacation is included: see Rule 484, and Mullin v. Bonjor, 5 Ir. C. L. 475.

By Rule 485 a Court or Judge may enlarge the time for any proceeding, and although the prescribed time has elapsed. In Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, supra, Jessel, M.R., allowed a writ to be renewed after its period of currency had expired, the plaintiff not having been able to serve it. But where the Statute of Limitations had in the meantime run, the Queen's Bench Division held that it could not renew the writ: Doyle v. Kaufman, 3 Q. B. D. 7, affirmed in Appeal, 340.

Where a writ was taken out in the C. P. Div. so as to save the Statute of Limitations, but not served, and after the period of the Statute had run, but before the expiration of the writ, an administration action was commenced in the Chancery Div., it was held that the writ in the C. P. Div. did not keep the debt alive for the purpose of the administration suit: Manby v. Manby, 3 Ch. D. 101.

Where the writ has expired before service, the copy and service of the writ may be set aside, but not the original writ: Fitch v. Walker, 7 P. R. 8.

Where a defendant has been served with an unrenewed writ after the expiration of twelve months from the date of its issue, he probably cannot treat it as a nullity, but should apply to set aside the service for irregularity: see Rule 442, and Hemp v. Warren, 11 M. & W. 103; 2 Dowl., N. S. 758.

Evidence of renewal.

239. The production of a writ of summons purporting to have been renewed in manner aforesaid shall be sufficient prima facie evidence for all purposes of the writ having been so renewed, and of the commencement of the action as of the date of the issue of the writ in manner provided as aforesaid. J. A. Rule 32.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 8, r. 2 (1883, R. 46).

This corresponds in substance with the English C. L. P. Act 1852, s. 13, and with R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 28.

See Fisher v. Cox, 16 L. T. N. S. 397.

Rules 240, 241.

(iii) Indorsement of Address.

Address of plaintiff and of solicitor.

240. Where a plaintiff sues by a solicitor, the writ of summons or notice in lieu of service of a writ of summons, shall be indorsed with the solicitor's name or firm and place of business, where writs, notices, petitions, orders, warrants and other documents, proceedings, and written communications may be left for him.

(a) Where any such solicitor is only agent of another solicitor, there shall be added to his name or firm and place of business the name or firm and place of business of the principal solicitor. J. A. Rule 18.

Compare Eng. R. 1875, O. 4, r. 1 (1883, R. 19).

Where a petition was indorsed by agents only, it was held to be irregular and was set aside: Re Scholes, 34 W. R. 501; 54 L. T. N. S. 466: see also Wray v. Kemp, 26 Ch. D. 169.

The English Rule requires also the address of the plaintiff to be indorsed on the summons, and provides, if the solicitor's place of business is more than three miles from Temple Bar the writ is to be indorsed with another proper place to be called his address for service which shall not be more than three miles from Temple Bar. The Ontario Rule corresponds with the enactment in the R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 16., except that the latter names place of abode instead of place of business.

It has been held in Ontario that the plaintiff's address, as well as the solicitor's address, must be indorsed, as the form of writ No. 1 in the Appendix so provides and it is made imperative by Rule 231: Chess Carley Co. v. Rodger, 4 C. L. T. 500. A writ not so indorsed may be set aside as irregular: Ib.; Sherwood v. Goldman, 11 P. R. 433; see also McCready v. Henessy, 9 P. R. 489.

The address of the plaintiff indorsed must be that of his residence: Mee v. Denbigh, 27 Sol. Jour. 617.

Where the suit was on behalf of "the plaintiff and all others the underwriters of a steamship Cid at the time of loss in 1873" it was held that there was only one plaintiff, and that his address alone need be given; the other persons mentioned were not plaintiffs: Leathley, etc., v. McAndrew, W. N. 1875, 259; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 58.

As to obtaining security for costs where an illusory address is given, see notes to Rule 1245.

Address of plaintiff in person.

241. Where a plaintiff sues in person, there shall be indorsed upon the writ of summons, or notice in lieu of service of a writ of summons, his place of residence and occupation.

(a) If his place of residence is more than two miles from the office in which the appearance of defendant is to be entered there shall be indorsed also another proper place, to be called his address for service, which shall not be more than two miles from such office, where writs, notices, petitions, orders, warrants and other documents, proceedings, and written communications not requiring personal service may be left for him. Rule 242.

(b) If the writ or notice is not so indorsed, or if such address or place be more than two miles from the office aforesaid, then the opposite party shall be at liberty to proceed by posting up in such office all notices, petitions, orders, warrants and other documents, proceedings and written communications requiring service. J. A. Rule 19.

The English Rule of 1875, O. 4, r. 2 (1883, R. 20), names three miles from Temple Bar, instead of two from the issuing office. The words "not requiring personal service" are not contained, though they are of course implied, in the English Rule. The clause (b) is not in the English Rule, but corresponds with the practice of the Courts: Arch. practice, p. 176, 13th ed. The C. L. P. Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 17, required only that the plaintiff suing in person should mention the city, town, incorporated or other village or township in which he resided.

The present Rule corresponds nearly with the Reg. Gen. Trin. Term, 1856, No. 138 (taken from English Rule 166 of Hil. T., 1853), except that, instead of the information being indorsed on the writ that Rule required a memorandum to be left with the Clerk or Deputy Clerk of the Crown upon issuing the writ. The Chancery Practice was governed by Chy. Order 44, and required the plaintiff, if suing in person, to indorse on his bill his name and place of residence; and also, when his place of residence was more than three miles from the office, where the bill was filed, another proper place (to be called his address for service) not more than three miles from the said office, where writs, notices, warrants, and other documents, proceedings and written communications might be left for him.

No one but a solicitor or plaintiff in person may issue a writ. Where a person not a solicitor, but purporting to be next friend of a married woman issued a writ, the writ and all subsequent proceedings were set aside: Swann v. Swann, 43 L. T. N. S. 530; 25 Sol. Jour. 134.

As to sufficiency of address see Smith v. Dobbin, 3 Ex. D. 338. As to what retainer of a solicitor authorizes him to issue a writ: see Wray v. Kemp, 26 Ch. D. 169.

242. Indorsements similar to those mentioned in the two next preceding Rules shall also be made upon every writ sued out and upon every document by which proceedings are commenced in cases where proceedings are commenced otherwise than by writ of summons. See Chy. O. 40, 41; R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 30, 31. Indorsements on other proceedings.

The indorsement of the place of business was by the terms of Chy. O. 41, only necessary on the first writ sued out, or proceeding filed: Redman v. Brownscombe, 6 P. R. 83, and an objection to the want of the indorsement required to be supported by proof that it is the first proceeding filed, or sued out, which has been served on the party taking the objection: Ganson v. Finch, 3 Chy. Ch 296; but the name of the party or solicitor (and of the principal solicitor when the proceeding is taken by an agent) was formerly required to be indorsed on every proceeding issued or filed: Coates v. Edmonson, 2 Chy. Ch. 439. This practice it seems desirable to follow for its manifest convenience, although it is not clear that it is now compulsory to do so. The Rule 243. omission of the indorsement did not make the proceeding void, but entitled the opposite party to a stay of proceedings until it was supplied: Price v. Webb, 2 Ha. 511; a demand of a copy of a pleading was held to be a waiver of the objection that it was not indorsed as required: Bennett v. O'Meara, 2 Chy. Ch. 167.

(iv) Indorsement of Claim.

Indorsements under Rules 224, 246, are compulsory, as also are those under Rules 248, 249 in the cases therein provided for. Indorsements under Rules 245, 247 are optional.

Precise statement not essential.

243. In the indorsement required by Rule 224, it shall not be essential to set forth the precise ground of complaint, or the precise remedy or relief to which the plaintiff considers himself entitled. J. A. Rule 11.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 3, r. 2, (1883, R. 12). The object of the indorsement is to identify the claim to which the action relates; one advantage of this being to facilitate a settlement without the action going further. In some cases the indorsement will take the place of pleading: see Rules 370, 708, etc.

Eng. Order 3, r. 1, requires that an indorsement of claim shall be made on every writ of summons before it is issued. That Rule has not been adopted in Ontario, but Rule 234 provides that the plaintiff shall leave with the officer who issues the writ a copy of the writ with all the indorsements.

Though the plaintiff's precise ground of complaint, or the precise remedy or relief claimed, need not be set forth under this Rule, still a claim for an injunction or receiver should be indorsed where the obtaining of either is a substantial object of the action: see notes to Rule 224, and Colebourne v. Colebourne, there cited. As to amendment of the indorsement on the writ: see notes to Rule 444.

Where a plaintiff seeks to enforce a claim against the separate estate of a married woman the writ should be indorsed with a claim for that relief. Where the husband is sued as trustee of separate estate of his wife as well as in his personal capacity, the claim against him as such trustee should be made expressly in the indorsement: Dixon v. Dougan, 8 L. R. Ir. 211.

Lis pendens. Where the plaintiff desires to register a certificate of lis pendens, the indorsement on the writ of summons should contain a short description of the property, sufficient to identify it for the purpose of registration: see note to Form No. 9. Where the writ is issued by the Process Clerk, the Registrar of the Division in the Q. B. & C. P. D., and the Clerk of R. & W. in Chy. Div., and in other cases, the officer who issues the writ will issue the certificate of lis pendens, in the manner provided in R. S. O. c. 114, s. 47, 48. Where a lis pendens is required the plaintiff should be more precise than in ordinary cases and should by the indorsement define generally the grounds of his claim to an interest in the land: Sheppard v. Kennedy, 10 P. R. 242.

Where the title to land is not in question in the action, e.g., in an alimony suit: White v. White, 6 P. R. 208; Crandell v. Crandell, 20 C. L. J. 329; 4 C. L. T. 500; it is improper to issue a lis pendens; and if this appears from the indorsement on the writ, the registration may be vacated on motion before the Master in Chambers: Sheppard v. Kennedy, supra. If the suit ostensibly brings the title to land in question, but is an illusory suit brought in order to register a lis pendens, the action may be dismissed on an admission by the plaintiff, as to the real nature of the suit; but otherwise it must be disposed of in the regular way. If there is not such an admission but affidavits clearly shew the nature of the suit, the Master may refer the matter to a Judge and an order may be made by a Judge directing a speedy trial: see Jameson v. Laing, 7 P. R. 404; Sheppard v. Kennedy, supra.

Where, however, the motion is to vacate the registration of the lis pendens because the remedy against the land is not appropriate to the cause of action which is pending, then the Master in Chambers may finally dispose of the matter without referring it to a Judge: Sheppard v. Kennedy, supra. Thus, a plaintiff may not register a lis pendens merely to prevent a defendant from alienating land which would be liable to satisfy the judgment if the plaintiff should succeed in the action. An action for that purpose will not lie, and the registration of a certificate of lis pendens may be vacated on motion: Westloh v. Brown, Referee in Chambers, 5 June, 1878; see Newton v. Newton, and National Provincial Bank v. Thomas, supra, p. 55; also White v. White, supra; Hepburn v. Patton, 26 Gr. [illegible]; Robinson v. Pickering, 50 L. J. Chy. 527. Rules 244, 245.

Where a lis pendens is issued, a defendant is entitled to appear gratis and anticipate the service upon him of actually issued process, so as to compel the plaintiff to proceed promptly: McTaggart v. Toothe, 20 C. L. J. 175; Poulton v. Lee, 7 P. R. 415.

Where a lis pendens is properly issued and registered it cannot be vacated pending the action: Foster v. Moore, 11 P. R. 447, a case of fraudulent conveyance.

The registration of a certificate of an order dismissing the action is a sufficient discharge of a lis pendens: Tedford v. Tedford, 7 C. L. T. 140; Graham v. Chalmers, 2 Chy. Ch. 53.

As to the effect of a lis pendens, see Price v. Price, 35 Ch. D. 297.

244. The indorsement of claim may be to the effect of such of the forms in Part II. of the Appendix hereto as shall be applicable to the case, or if none be found applicable then of such other similarly concise form as the nature of the case may require. J. A. Rule 12. Form of indorsement.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 3, r. 3 (1883, R. 13).

245. In all actions where the plaintiff seeks only to recover a debt or liquidated demand in money payable by the defendant, with or without interest, arising (a) upon a contract, express or implied, (as, for instance, on a bill of exchange, promissory note, or cheque, or other simple contract debt); or (b) on a bond or contract under seal for payment of a liquidated amount of money; or (c) on a statute where the sum sought to be recovered is a fixed sum of money or in the nature of a debt other than a penalty; or (d) on a guaranty, whether under seal or not, where the claim against the principal is in respect of a debt or liquidated demand only; or (e) on a trust; or (f) in actions for the recovery of land, with or without a claim for rent or mesne profits, by a landlord against a tenant whose term has expired or has been duly determined by notice to quit, or against persons claiming under such tenant; the writ of summons may, at the option of the plaintiff, be specially indorsed with a statement of his claim, or of the remedy or relief to which he claims to be entitled. Such special Debt or liquidated demand.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 245. indorsement shall be to the effect of such of the Forms in sec. IV., of Part II. of the Appendix as shall be applicable to the case. Eng. R. 1883.

(2) Where a writ has been so indorsed the indorsement shall be considered as particulars of demand, and no further or other particulars need be delivered unless ordered by the Court or a Judge. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 19.

This Rule is adopted from Eng. R. (1883) O. 3, r. 6. It does not differ substantially from the original Ont. J. A., Rule 14 (taken from Eng. R., 1875, O. 3, r. 6), except that clause (f) is new. A special indorsement in an action to recover land so as to enable the plaintiff to move for judgment summarily, notwithstanding appearance was not previously allowed.

Special indorsement of money demand.

Special Indorsement—Money Demands.—Clauses (a) to (e) substantially correspond with s. 19 of the C. L. P. Act, R. S. O., 1877, c. 50, but differ in two points: First, the Rule includes the case of a liquidated sum payable on a trust, which the former section did not; Secondly, there are no words in the Rule, as there were in the section, limiting its operation to cases in which the defendant resides within the jurisdiction. It will be observed that the use of this indorsement is optional; but if used it will entitle the plaintiff to final judgment in case of default of appearance, and even notwithstanding appearance, unless the defendant can satisfy a Judge that he has a defence or ought to be allowed to defend: see Rule 739.

For forms of special indorsement see Appendix A. No. 7. Such forms must be substantially followed to entitle plaintiff to sign judgment under Rules 705 or 739, but a merely formal difference will not prejudice: per Archibald, J., Anon, W. N. 1876, 53.

Where a writ had been served before the commencement of the Act it was held that there could be no indorsement under this Rule, so as to enable the plaintiff to sign judgment under Rule 739: Anon, 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 45. There are, however, two decisions to the contrary; see W. N. 1875, 260; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 49; and W. N. 1876, 12; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 55, and notes to Rule 739.

As the object of the special indorsement is to give the defendant an opportunity of avoiding further proceedings by payment of the debt, as well as to entitle the plaintiff to a summary remedy, the indorsement must give sufficient particulars to enable the defendant to satisfy his mind as to whether he ought to pay, or resist: Walker v. Hicks, 3 Q. B. D. 8; and if it gives sufficiently specified particulars to bring to the mind of the defendant knowledge as to what the plaintiff's claim is, it is a good special indorsement: Bickers v. Speight, 22 Q. B. D. 7. In Anon, W. N. 1875, p. 220, Lush, J., said that it could not be intended that a list of items, extending perhaps over three or four years, should be indorsed on the writ. In an action for the price of goods sold, the dates and amounts of consignments were held necessary: Parpaite v. Dickinson, 38 L. T. N. S. 178; 26 W. R. 479.

A claim for arrears of alimony, and alimony pendente lite, is not a claim for "a debt or liquidated demand in money" within this Rule: Bailey v. Bailey, 13 Q. B. D. 855. Neither is a claim for quarterly payments of an annuity secured by a bond for £500: Tuther v. Caralampi, 21 Q. B. D. 414; nor a claim for a sum in dispute and requiring assessment or valuation, as a claim by lessor against lessee for amount of dilapidation to premises leased: Clarke v. Berger, 36 W. R. 809.

Insufficient indorsement.

The following indorsements have been held insufficient:

(1) "The plaintiff's claim is £399 9*s.* 7*d.*, the defendant's share or contribution to the payment of certain bills of exchange and promissory notes in which he and the plaintiffs were jointly liable, and which bills and notes have been taken up by the plaintiffs: Walker v. Hicks, 3 Q. B. D. 8.

(2) "The plaintiff's claim is £399 9*s.* 7*d.*, being seventy-five per cent. of the invoice price of goods supplied by the plaintiff to the defendant under an agreement" (giving its date and nature). Rule 245.

"The plaintiffs also claim to recover from the defendants the following bills of exchange, drawn by the plaintiffs and payable to the order of the defendants, being bills drawn for the price of goods supplied by the plaintiffs to the defendants as aforesaid." A list of bills was then set out in the indorsement giving their dates and amounts: Parpaite v. Dickinson, supra.

(3) The plaintiff's claim is for $420.37, balance of work, etc., less credits as agreed upon. The plaintiff claims interest on $420.37 until judgment: Fitzsimmons v. Wilson, 4 C. L. T. 91.

(4) An indorsement claiming an injunction restraining the sale of mortgaged chattels, damages and payment of £1,000 alleged to be in defendant's hands: Yeatman v. Snow, 28 W. R. 574; 42 L. T. N. S. 502; see also Fell v. Williams, 3 C. L. T. 358; Standard Bank v. Wills, 10 P. R. 159; McCallum v. McCallum, 11 P. R. 16; sed vide Huffman v. Doner, 12 P. R. 492; Hay v. Johnston, Ib. 596.

See also Lucas v. Ross, in note to Rule 739; Kilgariff v. McCrane in note to Rule 707, and Rob. & Jos. Dig. 2877.

The following have been held sufficient:

Indorsements held sufficient.

(1) "The plaintiff's claim is £36 5*s.* for balance of goods sold." Anon, W. N. 1875, 220 (see supra); 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 44. See, however, Parpaite v. Dickinson, supra, as to effect of absence of dates.

(3) "The plaintiff's claim is for £116 0*s.* 10*d.*, being the balance due to him from the defendant, for moneys paid at the said defendant's request, and on his behalf for the purchase of certain stocks and shares, between the 3rd June, 1879, and the 31st August, 1879, an account of which has been rendered and exceeds three folios": Ashton v. Hurwitz, W. N. 1879, 194. The ground of the decision was that such an indorsement would have been sufficient under C. L. P. Act: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 19, and the schedule where the form given states that an account previously delivered may be referred to by its date: see Bickers v. Speight, 22 Q. B. D. 7.

(4) "The plaintiff's claim is £130 due him from the defendant, under an assignment, under the hand of one M. J., and dated July 14, 1888; particulars whereof are as follows: I do hereby authorize and request you to pay to Mr. E. Bickers, of, etc., the sum of £130, being the amount due or to become due from you to me, as appears by an I. O. U. signed by you, and dated Feb. 4, 1885, and his receipt for the same shall be a good discharge": Bickers v. Speight, 22 Q. B. D. 7.

(5) "The plaintiffs claim $2,000 being the amount of the defendant's overdrawn account with the plaintiffs' bank on the 18th September, 1882": Imp. Bank v. Britton, 9 P. R. 274. A similar indorsement omitting the date of the overdraft was held insufficient: Ontario Bank v. Burk, 10 P. R. 648.

Special indorsement in actions to recover land.

Actions to recover land.—The power to specially indorse a writ in an action for the recovery of land is new, and applies only in certain cases between landlord and tenant. The Rule is only intended to include simple cases, where the landlord is himself a party to the contract under which the tenant holds, or where there has been a payment of rent by defendant to plaintiff, or defendant is otherwise estopped from denying plaintiff's title. It has, therefore, been held not to apply where the plaintiff is the assignee or devisee of the original lessor: Casey v. Hellyer, 17 Q. B. D. 97; and where the term has neither expired nor been determined by notice to quit, e.g., where the plaintiff claims to re-enter for a forfeiture: Burns v. Walford, W. N. 1884, 31; Mansergh v. Rimell, Ib. 34. See Friend v. Shaw, 30 W. R. 236.

Where the relationship of landlord and tenant is created between mortgagee and mortgagor by the mortgage deed, the Rule will apply if the tenancy expires or is determined by notice to quit: Daubuz v. Lavington, 13 Q. B. D. 347; Hall v. Comfort, 18 Q. B. D. 11, but not if it is provided that the mortgagee may enter as mortgagee: Hobson v. Monk, W. N. 1884, 17.

Particulars of claim.

Particulars.—In an anonymous case, before Quain, J., at Chambers, L. T. 4th December, 1875; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 35 and Ross v. Gibbs, W. N. 1875, 238; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 36, it was presumed that, under the Judicature Act, particulars of claim would be unnecessary, as the statement of claim or the indorsement on the writ should give full particulars. This view has not, however, prevailed: see Barker v. Wood, W. N. 1876, 56; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 15, where Archibald, J., made an order for particulars, saying, "I can see great convenience in allowing particulars before the statement of claim, as the defendant may withdraw." Where the plaintiff, as a claim, gave notice that the particulars were those indorsed on the writ, Lindley, J., made an order for additional particulars: Cotton v. Houseman, W. N. 1876, 22; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 36. The form of application in such case would seem to be, not for particulars, but for a further statement of claim: Schomberg v. Zoebelli, W. N. 1876, 106; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 36.

Where the plaintiff's claim was not a merely legal demand for an ascertained sum but an equitable claim which if successful would only lead to an account being taken, and particulars were not necessary to enable defendant to frame his defence, the plaintiff was not ordered to furnish them: Augustinus v. Nerinckx, 16 Ch. D. 16. But it is established in England that if it is not an account merely that the plaintiff asks but a definite sum is claimed, the plaintiff must state what his case is in detail, either in the pleadings or by way of particulars: Blackie v. Osmaston, 28 Ch. D. 119.

Where the defendant required particulars of a sum for which credit was given by the claim, in order to enable him to frame his set-off or counter-claim, he was held entitled to receive them: Godden v. Corsten, 5 C. P. D. 17; W. N. 1879, 190.

Particulars will not be ordered as a matter of course in money causes. When they can be indorsed or stated in the claim they ought to be so: per Lush, J., Anon., W. N. 1875, 202; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 35. If, therefore, sufficient particulars are not indorsed, the costs of an application to obtain them should be borne by the plaintiff.

Particulars should not be ordered to be furnished in an action of seduction: Turner v. Kyle, 2 C. L. T. 311.

See further as to particulars the notes to Rule 399.

As to particulars of counter-claims see notes to Rule 373.

Indorsement in cases of

246. Where the plaintiff's claim is for a debt or liquidated demand only, the indorsement, besides stating the nature of the claim, shall state the amount claimed for debt, or in respect of such demand, and for costs, respectively, and shall further state that upon payment thereof within eight days after service, or, in case of a writ not for service within the jurisdiction, within the time allowed for appearance, further proceedings will be stayed. Such statement may be in the form in the Appendix Part II., sec. II. The defendant may, notwithstanding such payment, have the costs taxed, and if more than one-sixth shall be disallowed, the plaintiff's solicitor shall pay the costs of taxation. J. A. Rule 15.

debt or liquidated demand.

This is the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 3, r. 7, (1883, R. 17), except that the latter names four days; and is to the same effect as section 18 of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50).

The indorsement must state clearly what is debt and what costs: Truslove v. Whitechurch, 8 Dowl., P. C. 837; and when interest is claimed the amount and the period from which claimed should be given: Bardell v. Miller, 7 C. B. 753.

The use of this indorsement, it will be observed, is obligatory. The effect of it is to entitle the defendant to settle the claim by payment within eight days; the plaintiff is not bound by it for any other purpose: Jacquot v. Boura, 5 M. & W. 155, 156.

Where the defendant paid the amount, but not within the four days, he was nevertheless held entitled to have the costs taxed under the last clause of this Rule, as the plaintiff, by accepting the amount indorsed, was considered to have waived payment within the four days: Hoole v. Earnshaw, 39 L. T. N. S. 409.

247. In all cases of ordinary account, as, for instance, in the case of a partnership, or executorship, or ordinary trust account, where the plaintiff desires to have an account taken in the first instance, the writ of summons shall be indorsed with a claim that such account be taken (a). This Rule does not apply to proceedings under Rules 965 to 988. J. A. Rule 16.

Indorsement of claim for account.

(a) This Rule up to this point is the same as Eng. R. 1875 O. 3, r. 8 (1883 R. 18). The proceedings under Rules 965 to 988 are those of summary applications for administration, etc., in which a notice of motion is given, instead of a writ being issued.

A claim against an executor for an account on the footing of wilful default is not an "ordinary account," and therefore does not fall within this Rule or Rule 745: Re Bowen, Bennett v. Bowen, 20 Ch. D. 538; but see Re Allan, 9 P. R. 277, and supra p. 164.

See also York v. Stowers, W. N. 1883, 174.

248. Where the claim is for the foreclosure of a mortgage or the sale of mortgaged property, and the plaintiff desires an order against a defendant for the immediate delivery of possession, or for immediate payment, the writ must, in addition to the ordinary notice, be indorsed with a further notice to the effect of such of the forms in the Appendix hereto, Part II., sec. VI., as are applicable to the case. J. A. Rule 17.

Indorsement in mortgage actions where immediate possession or payment desired.

The indorsement should also state concisely the lands in question : Canada Landed Credit Co. v. Callaghan, Boyd, C., 26 Oct. 1881.

This Rule being applicable in the case of a writ only, does not apply to a counter-claim on a mortgage, and orders for immediate payment and possession may be granted, though not asked for specifically by the counter-claim : Klein v. Union Fire Insurance Co., 3 Ont. 250.

The forms are those numbered 9, (d), (e), in the Schedule to the Act. This Rule and the forms referred to are not in the English Act.

Indorsement in action of dower.

249. In case the plaintiff in an action of dower claims damages for detention of her dower, the indorsement on the writ of summons shall contain a statement that the plaintiff claims damages for the detention of her dower, from some day to be stated in the notice. See R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, ss. 9, 10.

When the plaintiff's husband did not die seised of the land out of which dower is claimed, no damages for detention are recoverable : Losee v. Armstrong, 11 Gr. 517, even though a demand of dower may have been made by the plaintiff before action : Morgan v. Morgan, 15 Ont. 194. See further as to damages in actions for dower : Wallace v. Moore, 18 Gr. 560 ; Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, and notes to Rule 290.

2. Disclosure by Solicitors and Plaintiffs.

Whether writ issued by his authority.

250. Every solicitor whose name is [signed to or] indorsed on any writ of summons shall, on demand in writing made by or on behalf of any defendant who has been served therewith or has appeared thereto, declare forthwith in writing whether the writ has been issued by him or with his authority or privity.

(a) If he answers in the affirmative, then he shall also, in case the Court or a Judge so directs, disclose in writing within a time to be limited by the Court or Judge, the profession or occupation, and place of abode of the plaintiff, on pain of being guilty of a contempt of the Court from which the writ appears to have issued.

(b) If the solicitor declares that the writ was not issued by him or with his authority or privity, all proceedings upon the same shall be stayed, and no further proceedings shall be taken thereupon without leave of the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 29.

The words in the first line, "signed to or," are not in the English Rule. The clause (a) is not in the English Rule, and is taken from the Ontario C. L. P. Act, 1852, s. 7. The clause (b) is the same in the English Rule. Rule 251.

Where a solicitor without authority prosecutes or defends an action, the proceedings are not necessarily void in all cases; e.g., an action prosecuted without authority binds the plaintiff, and his remedy is against the solicitor, he may, however, on getting notice of the proceedings, move to stay them: see infra, and Chisholm v. Sheldon, 1 Gr. 294. But when a defendant has not been served with process, and an unauthorized appearance is entered for him, the proceedings will be set aside on his applying promptly after he has notice of them: Roissier v. Westbrooke, 24 C. P. 91; Massey v. Rapelyi, 5 C. P. 134; Wright v. Hull, 2 P. R. 26; by delay he may waive his rights: Kerr v. Malpus, 2 P. R. 135. In McLean v. Grant, 20 Gr. 75, the party was held to be bound by an unauthorised defence to a Chancery suit, though he does not appear to have been served with the bill. Where a defendant has been personally served with process, he is bound by an unauthorized appearance and defence, and the proceedings will not be set aside unless the plaintiff had notice: see Roissier v. Westbrooke, supra; Moran v. Schunerhom, 2 P. R. 261; or unless the solicitor be insolvent: Warley v. Prapst, 7 C. L. J. 294.

Where a solicitor has commenced an action in the name of a plaintiff without authority, the plaintiff may, on notice to the defendant and the solicitor, move that the action be dismissed, and that the solicitor pay the costs of the plaintiff as between solicitor and client, and the costs of the defendant as between party and party: Newbiggin-by-the-Sea Gas Co. v. Armstrong, 13 Ch. D. 310; Nurse v. Durnford, 13 Ch. D. 764; Wray v. Kemp, 26 Ch. D. 169.

Any rule of practice that an action brought without the authority of the plaintiff can be dismissed, on application of the plaintiff, only on payment of costs, is not now in force. He may now have the action stayed without payment of costs: McKay v. Macfarlane, 12 P. R. 149.

After judgment, an action for the benefit of creditors should not be dismissed: Ib.

251. Where a writ is sued out by partners in the name of their firm, the plaintiffs or their solicitor, shall, on demand in writing by or on behalf of any defendant, declare forthwith in writing the names and places of residence of all the persons constituting the firm. Names and addresses of members of firm suing as partners.

(a) If the plaintiffs or their solicitors fail to comply with such demand, all proceedings in the action may, upon an application for that purpose, be stayed upon such terms as the Court or a Judge may direct.

(b) Where the names of the partners are so declared, the action shall proceed in the same manner, and the same consequences in all respects shall follow, as if they had been named as the plaintiffs in the writ; but all proceedings shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm. J. A. Rule 30.

This Rule is the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 7, r. 2, (1883, R. 43).

By Rule 317, any party to an action, in which partners either sue or are sued in the name of their firm, may apply by summons for a statement of the names of the partners, to be furnished in such manner, and verified on oath or otherwise, as may be ordered.

3. Service of Writ of Summons.

(i) Mode of Service.

In Re Pepper, Pepper v. Pepper, 50 L. T. N. S. 580; 53 L. J. Chy. 1054; 32 W. R. 765, it was held that the Rules as to service apply to an originating summons as well as to writs of summons.

Undertaking to accept service.

252. No service of a writ of summons or other document by which an action or proceeding may be commenced shall be required where the defendant by his solicitor accepts service, and [undertakes to appear thereto]. J. A. Rule 33. Chy. O. 47.

The English Rule 1875, O. 9, r. 1; (1883, R. 48), has the words "enters an appearance" instead of the words in brackets.

A solicitor failing to appear according to his undertaking renders himself liable to an attachment: see Rule 283; but the plaintiff may also proceed against defendant as upon default of appearance. He takes the risk, however, of the solicitor not having had authority to accept service: Roissier v. Westbrooke, 24 C. P. 91; and it would therefore be proper to serve any subsequent proceedings upon the defendant personally.

Personal and substituted service.

253. Where service is required, the writ of summons may be served in any County in Ontario and the service thereof, whenever practicable, shall be personal; but if it be made to appear to the Court or Judge on affidavit that the plaintiff is from any cause unable to effect prompt personal service, the Court or Judge may make such order for substituted or other service, or for the substitution [for service of notice by advertisement or otherwise], as may seem just. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 20; c. 55, s. 11. J. A. Rule 34.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 9, r. 2 (1883, R. 49), Ib. O. 10.

Instead of the words in brackets the original Rule had (following the Eng. R. 1875), the words "of notice for service." The present language follows that of the Eng. R. of 1883.

Under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, and Chy. Prac.

The modes of service previously to Ont. J. A. 1881, had not been the same in Chancery and in a Common Law action: see Chy. Gen. Orders, 87, et. seq., and Rev. Stat. 1877, c. 40, ss. 92-94, and Rev. Stat. 1877, c. 50, ss. 20-24. Under section 20 of the C. L. P. Act (Rev. Stat. c. 50), service of the writ was required to be personal wherever practicable, and therefore leaving a copy with a female servant at the lodging of defendant has been held not to be good service: Price v. Thomas, 11 C. B. 543; though if the service were shewn to have come to the knowledge of defendant, leave to proceed might be granted. The above service, if of a bill in Chancery, would probably have been held sufficient under Chy. Gen. Order 87: see Elliot v. Beard, 2 Chy. Ch. 80. Where, however, the service had not been personal, notice of motion to take the bill pro confesso, was required to be served personally, or as the Court might direct: see Chy. Order 107 and 108.

See notes to Rule 269, as to service of corporations.

Rule 253.

Personal service.

Personal service may be by delivering the process into the defendant's hand; or by seeing him and bringing the process to his notice: Thomson v. Pheney, 1 Dowl. 441; and showing him the original if he desires it: Gogga v. Huntingtower, 12 M. & W. 503; Philipson v. Emmanuel, 56 L. T. N. S. 858; Hawthorn v. Harris, 23 W. R. 214; within a reasonable time after service: Thomas v. Pearce, 2 B. & C. 761; Petit v. Ambrose, 6 M. & S. 274; a quarter of an hour was considered reasonable time in Westley v. Jones, 5 Moo. 162; or if he refuses to receive the copy, after being told its nature and being tendered it, then by placing it on his person: Bell v. Vincent, 7 D. & R. 233; or by throwing it down in his presence: 1 Dowl. 443. The copy must, however, be left with the defendant and not merely shewn to him: Worley v. Glover, 2 Str. 877, even though he refuses to take it: Pigeon v. Bruce, 8 Taunt. 410; Erwin v. Powley, 2 U. C. R. 270.

In O'Sullivan v. Murphy, 78 L. T. Jour. 213, placing the writ on the ground within 20 or 30 yards and holding up the original, the defendant having run away to evade service, was held insufficient.

Where the person serving did not show the original although requested to do so, service was set aside: Philipson v. Emmanuel, supra.

Appearance precludes all question as to the sufficiency of service: Dart v. Citizens' Insurance Co., 11 P. R. 513: see Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 251, and notes to Rule 277.

If it is intended to object to the service, a motion to set it aside should be made before appearance: Boyle v. Sacker, sup.

Who may serve writs.

By the practice in the Common Law Courts, anyone might serve papers. But by R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 335, "No mileage shall be taxed or allowed for the service of any writ, paper or proceeding, without an affidavit being made and produced to the proper Taxing Officer, stating the sum actually disbursed and paid for such mileage, and the name of the party to whom such payment has been made; and, except in the cases provided for in the 23rd section of this Act, no fees shall be allowed for the mileage or service of writs of summons or other mesne process unless served and sworn in the affidavit of service to have been served, by the Sheriff, his Deputy or Bailiff, being a literate person (or by a Coroner when the Sheriff is a party to the suit), nor unless a return of the Sheriff or Coroner (as the case may be) is indorsed thereon." The practice was formerly similar in Chancery under Order 298, but that Order was rescinded by Order 616, and thereafter any reasonable sum paid for serving proceedings might be taxed, no matter by whom the service was effected. Under the present tariff (item 17) the costs of service of a writ by a person other than a sheriff are only taxable where the sheriff has made default: see Rule 254.

Service of the writ may be effected at any time of the day; Rule 480 does not apply: Murray v. Stephenson, 19 Q. B. D. 60; but not on Sunday: Mackreth v. Nicholson, 19 Ves. 367; Taylor v. Phillips, 3 East 155.

Substituted service.

Substituted Service was not in use in the Common Law Courts. The equivalent practice was that provided by R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 20, under which, if reasonable efforts had been made to effect service, and either the writ had come to the defendant's knowledge or he wilfully evaded service, an order might be obtained to proceed as if persona' service had been effected. In Chancery, substituted service was allowed wherever necessary: see Hope v. Hope, 19. Beav. 237; 4 D. M. & G. 328, and this jurisdiction was enlarged by Statute Rev. Stat. 1877, c. 40, s. 94 (now Rule 273).

Formerly.

As to substituted service where a defendant is out of the jurisdiction, see notes to Rule 271.

Present practice.

The present Rule gives a wide discretion to the Court. It allows substituted service to be ordered if, from any cause, the plaintiff is unable to effect prompt personal service, and applies to a case of persons sued in the name of a firm where no person having control or management of the business can be found: Skillito v. Child & Co., W. N. 1883, 208.

When substituted

Where defendant has an agent within the jurisdiction, substitutional service may be allowed on such agent, e.g., a managing clerk at his place of business:

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

service allowed.

Armitage v. Fitzwilliam, W. N. 1875, 238; general agents: Jones v. Cargill, 11 L. T. N. S. 566; special agents: Hobhouse v. Courtney, 12 Sim. 140; solicitors who had acted for defendant: Hornby v. Holmes, 4 Ha. 306; Watt v. Barnett, 3 Q. B. D. 183, 363; Tottenham v. Barry, 12 Ch. D. 798; but see The Pommerania, 4 P. D. 195, infra, p. 290.

As was said in Watt v. Barnett, 3 Q. B. D. 367, substituted service may be properly ordered upon any persons with whom the Court is satisfied that the party is in communication. The Court has a right to consider that the copy of writ served will be sent on, and the service will be good, though the service is not in fact communicated.

In cases decided under the former Chancery practice the agent was required to be such in relation to the subject matter of the suit: Allan v. Pyper, 5 U. C. L. J. 118; Cupples v. Yorston, 2 Chy. Ch. 31; Canniffe v. Taylor, 2 Gr. 617; Doremus v. Kennedy, 2 Gr. 657; but under the present practice orders have been made though the person served has no connection with the subject of the suit, if only he is likely to communicate the fact of service to the defendant: see Watt v. Barnett, supra.

Where defendant's wife, or other relative or person, is shown to be, or to be likely to be in communication with him and is within the jurisdiction, service may be allowed on such person: Dicker v. Clarke, 11 W. R. 635; Bank of Whitehaven v. Thompson, W. N. 1877, 45; Somerville v. Joyce, 1 Chy. Ch. 358; and even under the former Chancery practice such service has been allowed though the relative was not shewn to be at the time in communication with defendant: Cameron v. Baker, 2 Chy. Ch. 281. Such service may be accompanied by advertising where the person upon whom substituted service is made, may not be able to communicate with defendant: Bank of Whitehaven v. Thompson, Cameron v. Baker, supra; Coulbourn v. Carshaw, 32 W. R. 33, or by mailing to an address at which defendant is shewn to have recently been: Cupples v. Yorston, supra.

Where a bill had been filed for foreclosure, and the defendant the official assignee of the mortgagor absconded before service effected, service was allowed substitutionally upon one of the Inspectors of the estate: London Canadian Loan & Agency Co. v. Thompson, 8 P. R. 91.

Substituted service will not be ordered under this Rule unless it is shewn that prompt personal service cannot be effected. The fact of a defendant being out of the jurisdiction is not alone a reason for dispensing with personal service. He must be evading service, or his whereabouts unknown: Robertson v. Mero, 9 P. R. 510. Where his residence can be ascertained by examination of relatives, that course will doubtless be proper as formerly in Chancery: see McMurrich v. Hogan, 1 Chy. Ch. 307; McDonald v. McMillen, 2 Chy. Ch. 282.

When not allowed.

Substituted service will not be ordered under this Rule, of a writ which could not legally have been served personally—as a writ against a colonial government: Sloman v. Governor of New Zealand, 1 C. P. D. 563; see also Field v. Barnett, 56 L. J. Q. B. 89.

The principle upon which substituted service is granted is that the service is likely to come to the knowledge of the party: Hope v. Hope, supra; Furber v. King, 29 W. R. 535; where therefore the defendant was shewn to have absconded from his residence and place of business, leave to serve him substitutionally, by leaving copies of the writ at those places, was refused, and service was allowed by advertising: Wolverhampton & Staffordshire Banking Co. v. Bond, 43 L. T. N. S. 72; 29 W. R. 599; see also Coulbourn v. Carshaw, 32 W. R. 33.

Not confined to service of writs.

The provision for substituted service has been held in England to apply to an originating summons as well as to a writ: Re Pepper, 32 W. R. 765; 50 L. T. N. S. 580; 53 L. J. Chy. 1054; though it has also been held by Denman, J., in Chambers, to relate only to service of writs of summons or notices thereof, and therefore substituted service of a notice of application for a writ of attachment was refused: Anon., W. N. 1876, 105; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 26. It is presumed, however, that notices under Rule 329 may be so served, and that under the general jurisdiction, which the Courts of this Province have heretofore had they may order such service of all papers not required, to be personally served: see McTaggart v. Merrill, 7 P. R. 405, and Rule 467 as to notices of motion and appointments. Substituted service has been allowed of proceedings to set aside fraudulent conveyances under R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 10, now Rules 1007 et seq.; Dobson v. Marshall, 9 P. R. 1; and in England of a notice of motion: Cook v. Dey, W. N. 1876, 122; Hamilton v. Davies, W. N. 1880, 82; see Dan. Pr. 5th ed., 1442; an order for an interim injunction: Young v Brassey, 1 Ch. D. 277; a summons to shew cause, where defendant was evading service: Hunt v. Austin, ex p. Mason, 9 Q. B. D. 598; a notice of appeal: Ex p. Warburg, Re Whalley, 24 Ch. D. 364; 25 Ch. D. 336; and a notice of motion for an administration order under Chy. Gen. O. 638 (now Rule 972): Re Allan, 9 P. R. 77; see also Re Morant, W. N. 1879, 144. Rule 253.

An order to proceed without service, will not be made; substituted or equivalent service must be effected, if personal service, or acceptance of service cannot be obtained: W. N. 1875, p. 202; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 37.

In Cook v. Dey, 2 Ch. D. 218, it was held by V.-C. Hall, that the substitution of notice for service mentioned in the latter part of the original Rule was not intended to apply to ordinary cases of persons not able to be found, but who were within the jurisdiction. He, however, directed substituted service of the writ by advertising, and by leaving a copy at defendant's office and lodgings, which is plainly authorized by the Rule in its present shape. In Leddell v. McDougall, 22 Sol. Jour. 838, Manisty, J., held that the Court had power to make an order for substitution of notice for service within the jurisdiction. See also Rule 273. Substitution of notice for service.

In such cases the time for appearance runs from the time the order takes effect, that is, from the service of the writ at the place mentioned or issue of the advertisement, whichever is the later: Crane v. Jullion, 2 Ch. D. 220; see also Johnson v. Moffat, W. N. 1875, 248; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 39.

Where defendant gave his club as his address, and an order for substitutional service had been granted on an affidavit of a clerk that he had been to the defendant's residence but had been unable to effect personal service, and judgment by default was signed on the substituted service, the affidavit was considered misleading, and the order for substitutional service was set aside, though two years had elapsed since the signing of judgment: Johnson v. Menzies, 72 L. T. Jour. 348. When service set aside.

An order directing substitutional service upon solicitors of defendant in a former action was set aside, it being shown that the solicitors had ceased to act for defendant in such former action: The Pommerania, 4 P. D. 195.

A combination of different modes of effecting service where defendant's address is not known or he cannot be found may be ordered, depending upon the circumstances of the particular case.

Examples.—Where the defendant was suppposed to be within the jurisdiction but had absconded or was evading service, service was allowed by leaving copies of writ at his last lodgings and place of business and by advertising or mailing: Cook v. Dey, 2 Ch. D. 218; Capes v. Brewer, 24 W. R. 40; by serving tenants of lands in question in the action to whom the defendant had given notice to pay rents to him, and advertisement: Crane v. Jullion, 2 Ch. D. 220; Coulbourn v. Carshaw, 32 W. R. 33; by leaving copy of writ at defendant's only known place of residence, a club, and serving solicitors who refused to accept service but had acted in other matters for defendant: Rafael v. Ongley, 34 L. T. N. S. 124; see Anon, 1 Char. Ch. Ca. 38; by mailing to his address and advertising: Hamilton v. Davies, W. N. 1880, 82; by serving defendant's wife, leaving copies at his residence and advertising: Mullows v. Bannister, W. N. 1882, 183; 31 W. R. 238. Where defendant is out of the jurisdiction but his whereabouts unknown, service may be allowed by advertising alone if no agent within the jurisdiction or person likely to be in communication with defendant: Hartley v. Dilke, 35 L. T. N. S. 706; Gordon v. Hanna, 6 P. R. 266; Whitley v. Honeywell, 24 W. R. 851; or by advertising and mailing to various addresses at which defendant has been heard of: Stimson v. Stimson, 6 Gr. 379.

Practice.

Substituted service, when duly effected, is for all purposes equivalent to personal service: Watt v. Barnett, 3 Q. B. D. 363.

When necessary to effect substitutional service on several defendants at the suit of the same plaintiff, and the application is based on the same facts, a single affidavit may be used setting out the necessary facts and entitled in all the actions: Dorsey v. Shanahan, 8 L. R. Ir. 155.

Any objection to an order allowing any particular mode of service must be taken by motion to set aside the order and not by pleading the objection as a defence: Preston v. Lamont, 1 Ex. D. 363; and it should be made before the defendant has taken any other step in the action, otherwise he will be deemed to have waived his right to object: see Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 395.

Costs.

Costs of a motion for leave to effect substituted service are taxable in the cause: Eager v. Buckley, 8 L. R. Ir. 99.

Indorsement of receipt of process, etc.; non-service, re-delivery to plaintiff; costs of service.

254. Upon the delivery of a writ of summons at the office of a Sheriff, to be served by him, he, his Deputy or Clerk, shall indorse thereon the time when it was so delivered; and in case the writ is not fully and completely served within ten days after such delivery, the plaintiff, his solicitor or agent, shall be entitled to receive back the same; and the Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff or Clerk shall indorse thereon the time of the delivery; and the costs of the mileage and service of the writ by any literate person afterwards, shall, in case the person to be served was at any time during such ten days within the County, be allowed in the taxation of costs, as if the service had been by the Sheriff or his officer. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 23; c. 40, s. 95.

Failure by Sheriff to re-deliver.

255. If the Sheriff, being applied to, neglects or refuses to return the writ, after the expiration of the ten days, the plaintiff may issue a duplicate or concurrent writ on the præcipe already filed, and the costs of the first or other writ not returned may be charged against and recovered from the Sheriff by the plaintiff or his solicitor. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 24; c. 40, s. 96.

Indorsement of service.

256. The persons serving a writ of summons shall, within three days at most after the service, indorse on the writ the day of the month and week of the service thereof; otherwise the plaintiff shall not be at liberty, in case of non-appearance, to proceed by default [without the leave of a Judge, such leave to be obtained at the cost of the plaintiff, and such cost to be in no event charged against the defendant. Rules 257-258.

(a) Every affidavit of service of such writ shall mention the day on which such indorsement was made. J. A. Rule 44.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 9, r. 13, (1883, R. 62).

The words in brackets are not in the Eng. Rule. In Hastings v. Hurley, 16 Ch. D. 734, and in Sproat v. Peckett, W. N. 1883, 76; 48 L. T. N. S. 755, and in Shepherd v. Silcock, W. N. 1886, 84, the time for making the indorsement was extended under Rule 485.

An order to amend the indorsement of service was granted where a wrong date was indorsed by mistake: Hyne v. Murphy, 2 L. R. Ir. 35.

Holidays are not included in the three days: Rule 473.

This Rule has been held not to apply to cases of substituted service: Dymond v. Croft, 3 Ch. D. 512; Cruse v. Kuttingwell, W. N. 1875, 250; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 40; or where notice in lieu of service, (see Rule 272) is given: Fish v. Chatterton, W. N. 1882, 145; 31 W. R. 87; 47 L. T. N. S. 328; or where the writ is served by advertisement: Davis v. Lound, 78 L. T. Jour. 318; W. N. 1885, 54.

(a) Married Women, Infants, Lunatics.

257. A married woman shall be served in the same manner as a party to an action or matter not under any disability; and the like proceedings may be had on such service and with the like effect, as if the married woman were a feme sole. J. A. Rule 35. Married Woman.

This Rule corresponds with the Chancery Order, No. 613. The Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 50, provides that where the husband and wife are both defendants, they shall both be served unless the Court or a Judge shall otherwise order. The previous Rule of 1875, O. 9, r. 3, was different. If the husband and wife lived together, service on the husband was to be deemed good service on the wife, but the Court or a Judge might order that the wife should be served with, or without, service on the husband. The Married Women's Acts here have made a difference; see R. S. O. c. 132, and notes to Rule 314, and the above Rule 257 is in furtherance of their object.

258. Where the action is in respect of an estate in which an infant is interested, service on the official guardian shall be good service on the infant defendant. Service on official guardian.

(a) If in such case there are more than one infant defendant, for whom service is to be made on the Official Guardian, one copy only need be so served.

(b) From the time of such service the Official Guardian shall become and be the guardian ad litem of the infant, unless and until the Court otherwise orders; and it shall be his duty forthwith to attend actively to the interests of the infant in the action, and for that purpose to communicate with all proper parties, including the father or guardian (if any) of the infant, and also the person with whom or under whose care the infant resides, in case such person is not the infant's father or guardian; and the guardian is to make such other inquiries and to take such other proceedings as the interest of the infants may require. J. A. Rule 36, first part.

The practice under Eng. R. 1875, O. 9, r. 4, (1883, R. 51) is different.

This Rule, in the cases to which it applies, is in substantial accordance with the Chancery Orders 610, 611, as construed in the Court of Chancery, except that those Orders required an ex parte order to be taken out for the appointment of the guardian, which order the present Rule dispenses with.

The original Rule 36 had no application in the cases in which an infant defendant was to be personally served (see Rule 259) nor where the infant defendant was not resident in Ontario. It was also held that in an action against an infant for seduction it was not proper to serve the Official Guardian or appoint him guardian for the defendant. In the revision of the Rules it is made clear that the cases in which the Official Guardian is to act are to be those which formerly were dealt with in Chancery, viz., where an infant, whether within, or without, the Province, was interested in an estate in question in the suit. In all other cases Rule 261 applies, and a guardian is to be appointed as in Common Law actions before the J. A. 1881.

The words in the original Rule 36 limiting its scope to cases where the infants reside in Ontario having been omitted and Chy. Orders 610-612 having been abrogated (see Rule 3), such cases as Weatherhead v. Weatherhead, 9 P. R. 96; and Rew v. Anthony, Ib., 545, are not now to be followed.

The Rules as to service in case of infancy apply whether the infant be a sole or joint defendant, and whether sued personally, or in a representative capacity: Re Jackson, Massey v. Crookshanks, 12 P. R. 475.

Service on infant personally.

259. Where an action is brought against an infant defendant for the recovery of lands, goods, or chattels of which he is personally in possession, service shall be made on the infant personally, and one copy of the writ shall also be posted (prepaid) to, or delivered at the office of the Official Guardian. J. A. Rule 37.

This varies from Eng. R. 1875 and 1883, O. 9, r. 4. Personal service on an infant is made in the same manner as upon an adult: Dan. Chy. Prac. (5th ed.) 368, 376.

Where an infant is out of the jurisdiction the Court has the like power to order substitutional service or by publication or otherwise as in the case of an adult: Duffy v. O'Connor, 1 Chy. Ch. 393.

See also notes to the preceding Rule.

Torts.

260. When the action is against an infant in respect of a personal tort or for the mere recovery of money, the infant shall be served as in the case of an adult defendant. New.

See note to Rule 258.

261. When the infant is personally served and is not represented by the Official Guardian, there may be a guardian appointed for the infant as in actions at Common Law before the Judicature Act. New. Rules 261-263. Guardian other than official guardian.

See note to Rule 258.

The C. L. practice referred to is that by which a real guardian and not a fictitious one was appointed after the time for appearance has expired. If the infant does not appear by guardian an order may be obtained by the plaintiff on motion requiring the infant to appear by guardian or in default that the plaintiff may appoint one for him: Hyne v. Brown, 13 P. R. 17.

The consent of such guardian named by the plaintiff must be shewn and also that he has no interest adverse to the infant: Ib.

262. Any person interested may move before a Judge in Chambers, on such material as he may think proper, for an order appointing a guardian other than the Official Guardian; whereupon such order as may be considered most conducive to the interests of the infant shall be made. J. A. Rule 36, last part. Motion for guardian.

This Rule is in substantial accordance with Chancery Order 612.

In Horkins v. Harty, 6 P. R. 200, under the former practice in a redemption suit to which the widow and infant heirs of the mortgagee were parties defendant, a guardian named by the mother was appointed to the infants, it being considered that there was no conflict of interest between the defendants. The present practice is, however, different. In Hodgins v. Hodgins, (Mr. Dalton, March, 1882), the mother of infant defendants of tender years, who was also their guardian appointed by the Surrogate Court for the purpose of taking proceedings on their behalf for partition of the lands in question under The Partition Act, applied to have a guardian other than the Official Guardian appointed. There was no conflict of interest and the action involved a partition of lands inherited by the infants from their grandfather, but the Master in Chambers held that there was no sufficient reason for acting under the power conferred by this Rule, and that the policy adopted by the Rules of appointing the Official Guardian was not to be departed from without some reason, apart from the wishes of those who naturally have the care of the infants' interests.

On an application at the instance of an infant of 18 who was considered capable of exercising a sound discretion in managing his own affairs and applied with the approbation of his father, a guardian nominated by the infant was appointed under the above clause in the place of the Official Guardian: McKenzie v. Dwight, 2 C. L. T. 359.

263. Where a lunatic, or [where a person] of unsound mind not so found by inquisition [or judical declaration] is a defendant to the action, service on the committee of the lunatic, or on the person with whom the person of unsound mind resides, or under whose care he or she is, shall, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders, be deemed good service on such defendant. J. A. Rule 38. Lunatics.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 9, r. 5 (1883, R. 52), except the words in brackets. The R. S. O. c. 54, s. 8, authorizes the Court or a Judge to declare a person a lunatic without an inquisition.

Rules 264, 265.

Where a lunatic had no committee, service was, in England, directed to be on the keeper of an asylum where the lunatic was living: Thorn v. Smith, W. N. 1879, 81; 27 W. R. 617. It is the duty of the keeper of an asylum to allow the writ to be served: Denison v. Hardings, W. N. 1867, 17, unless the service might be injurious to the lunatic; Re Mein, 2 Chy. Ch. 429. Service on the manager of a lunatic defendant's business was held bad: Forestreet Co. v. Durant, 10 Q. B. D. 471.

By R. S. O. c. 245, s. 53, the Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities is ex officio, and by his name of office, the committee of every lunatic who has no other committee, and who is detained in a public asylum, and it presumed that in such case service may be made upon the Inspector.

Guardian ad litem.

264. No further proceedings are to be taken against such a defendant who has no committee, until a guardian ad litem is appointed. J. A. Rule 39.

See notes to Rules 335, 336 (a).

See note to Rule 317.

Partners.

265. Where partners are sued in the name of their firm, the writ shall be served either upon any one or more of the partners, or at the principal place within Ontario of the business of the partnership, upon any person having at the time of service the control or management of the partnership business there; and, subject to the Rules hereinafter contained, such service shall be deemed good service upon the firm. J. A. Rule 40.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 9, r. 6, (1883, R. 53).

Service on a person who is not a partner may be discharged with costs on the application of the firm: Nelson v. Pastorino, 49 L. T. N. S. 564.

It has been held that a private partnership does not exist apart from the individuals who compose it, and if they are resident abroad they cannot be served at a place of business of the firm within the jurisdiction, and that therefore this Rule must be read so as to refer only to partners of firms subject to the jurisdiction of the English Parliament by being British subjects, or resident within the jurisdiction, unless the subject matter of the action is such as to justify service out of the jurisdiction under Rule 271: Russell v. Cambefort, W. N. 1889, 139; 37 W. R. 701, over-ruling the contrary decision of O'Neil v. Clason, 46 L. J. Q. B. 191; see also Nutter & Co. v. Messageries Maritimes, 54 L. J. Q. B. 527. Where, however, one partner of a firm carrying on a business out of the jurisdiction happened to be within the jurisdiction, service upon him of a writ naming the ordinary time for appearance was held good service under this Rule: Pollexfen v. Sibson, 16 Q. B. D. 792: see Russell v. Cambefort, supra. As to what constitutes "having the control or management of the partnership business," see Baillie v. Goodwin, 33 Ch. D. 604.

Where a partnership, unregistered, existed between A. B. and C. under the style A. & Co. and A. absconded, and three days later C. made a secret assignment of his interest in the business to B., and two days thereafter, before the announcement was made public, C. was served with a writ in an action against the firm by its firm name, of which proceedings B. was aware, it was held that the service was good: Bank of Hamilton v. Blakeslee, 9 P. R. 130.

Though the partners in such action are to appear individually (Rule 288) the judgment is not against them individually, but must follow the writ and be against the firm: Jackson v. Litchfield, 8 Q. B. D. 474: Adam v. Townsend, 14 Q. B. D. 103; (see discussion of this case in 17 L. J. 324). Rules 266, 267.

266. Where one person carrying on business in the name of a firm apparently consisting of more than one person, is sued in the firm name, the writ may be served at the principal place within Ontario of the business so carried on, upon any person having at the time of service the control or management of the business there; and, subject to any Rules of Court, such service shall be deemed good service on the person so sued. J. A. Rule 41. Person doing business under name of firm.

Same as Eng. Rule of June, 1876, R. 4, (1883, R. 54.)

This Rule does not apply where the person so carrying on business has become a lunatic. Rule 263 in such case applies: Fore Street Warehouse Co. v. Durrant & Co., 10 Q. B. D. 471.

If a business is carried on by a single individual he may be sued in the firm name. Rule 266 provides for the service of the writ; Rule 288 provides for the defendant's appearance.

See also the notes to the previous Rule.

(c) Corporations.

267. A writ of summons issued against a corporation aggregate, and, in the absence of its appearance by solicitor, all papers and proceedings in the action before final judgment, may be served on the Mayor, Warden, Reeve, President, or other head officer, or on the Township, Town, City or County Clerk, or on the Cashier, Treasurer or Secretary, Clerk or Agent of such corporation, or of any branch or agency thereof in Ontario; and every person who, within Ontario, transacts or carries on any of the business of, or any business for, any corporation whose chief place of business is without the limits of Ontario, shall, for the purpose of being served with a writ of summons issued against such corporation, be deemed the agent thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 21. See Chy. O. 91, 92. Service on corporations, how effected.

The Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 55, first clause, contains analogous provisions, being a consolidation of the repealed Rule of 1875, O. 9, r. 7, and the provisions of sec. 16 of the C. L. P. Act of 1852.

A foreign corporation which carries on business within Ontario is capable of being treated for the purposes of service as a Provincial corporation resident within the Province: Haggin v. Comptoir, etc., 37 W. R. 703, approving of and following Newby v. Von Oppen, L. R. 7 Q. B. 293, see also Palmer v. Gould's Manufacturing Co., W. N. 1884, 63; per Lord St. Leonards in The Carron Iron Co. v. Maclaren, 5. H. L. C. at p. 459. Service under the Eng. Rule 1883, R. 55, was held good on a foreign corporation which had an agency office in London: Lhoneux & Co. v. Hong Kong & Shanghai Banking Co., 33 Ch. D. 446. But service on a mere booking clerk of a Scotch railway company at a station on Foreign corporations.

an English railway over which the Scotch company had running powers, was held insufficient in Mackereth v. Glasgow and South Western Railway Co., L. R. 8 Ex. 149.

Where, by a Statute, service of a writ might be effected by being left at, or sent by post to, the company's office, or given to the secretary or, if no secretary, to a director, and the company had no office, and the action was brought by the secretary, service on a director was held invalid: Lawrenson v. Dublin Metropolitan, etc., Railway, 37 L. T. N. S. 32.

Service within the Province on the President of a foreign corporation was held bad where it was not shewn that it transacted any business there: Wilson v. Detroit & Milwaukee Ry. Co., 3 P. R. 37. Where a foreign Insurance Co. had a head office for the Province in Toronto service, on the local agent of the Co. at Ottawa was held good, notwithstanding the provisions of the Dom. Act, 40 V. c. 42, s. 9: Wilson v. Ætna Life Insurance Co., 8 P. R. 131: see now R. S. C. c. 124, s. 13.

A colonial Government: Sloman v. Governor of New Zealand, 1 C. P. D. 563, and a foreign Government: Strousberg v. Costa Rica, 29 W. R. 125, have been held not to be corporations.

It has been decided under the English O. 63 of 1875, and s. 100 of the Act of 1873 [see s. 27 of the Ont. Act, and R. S. O. c. 1, s. 8 (13)], that a foreign corporation, though it does not carry on business within the jurisdiction, may be sued there, in cases where an individual foreigner might be sued: see Westman v. Aktiebolaget, etc., 1 Ex. D. 237, and Scott v. The Royal Wax Candle Co., 1 Q. B. D. 404: and Royal Mail Steam Packet Co. v. Braham, 2 App. Cas. 381.

Such a corporation might, under the old practice, have been sued in Ontario, and the mode of service in such a case was prescribed by Chy. O. 92, and R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 50 and 51. Since the Jud. Act a foreign defendant can only be sued where Rules 271 to 274 apply.

Services of papers on certain corporations.

268. A writ of summons issued against a railway, telegraph, or express corporation, and all subsequent papers and proceedings, in the event of an appearance not having been duly entered, may be served on the agent of such corporation, at any branch or agency thereof, or on any station master of any railway company, or on any telegraph operator, or express agent having charge of any telegraph or express office belonging to such corporation; and any such station master, operator or express agent shall, for the purpose of being served with a writ of summons issued against such corporation, or any paper or proceeding as aforesaid, in the event of non-appearance, be deemed the agent thereof. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 22.

269. Where, by any statute, provision is made for service of any writ of summons, bill, petition, or other process upon any corporation, or any society or fellowship, or any body or number of persons, whether corporate or otherwise, every writ of summons may be served in the manner so provided. J. A. Rule 42.

Same as Eng. Rule 1883, R. 55, last clause. Rule 270.

A mode of serving companies incorporated by special Act and by letters patent was formerly provided in the case of corporations created by Provincial authority by R. S. In case an action against a corporation is brought in Ontario on a judgment or decree obtained in the Province of Quebec, service of process on the officer or officers thereof named in the Act, incorporating such corporation, or in case there be no officer named in the said Act, then service of process according to the law of the Province of Quebec, shall be held to be personal service. (ii) Service out of Ontario.

Comp. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 48; Eng. R. 1875, O. 2, r. 4 Ib., O. 11, Eng. R., June, 1876, R. 5; Con. Rules of 1883, 64; Ont. Chy., Orders 90, 100, 102, 620; Ont. J. A. 1881, Rules 45, 47.

Previously to 2 Will. 4., c. 33, a writ from Chancery might be served out of the jurisdiction; but unless the party served chose to appear, the suit could not be proceeded with as against him. The following Statutes and Orders bearing on the subject were subsequently passed in England: 2 Will. 4., c. 33; 4 & 5 Will. 4, c. 82; 3 & 4 Vict. c. 94; 4 & 5 Vict. c. 52; G. O. May, 1845; 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 3; Consol Orders, Order 10, rr. 6, 7, etc. The practical effect was that in England the Court of Chancery at the time of the passing of the Judicature Act of 1873 could sanction service out of the jurisdiction in any suit. By the Provincial Statutes affecting the Court of Chancery, and the Orders made by that Court in this Province, the Court had a like jurisdiction: see Consol Chy. Orders, 90, 101, 102, 620; 12 Vict. c. 64, s. 9; 20 Vict. c. 56, s. 21; C. S. U. C. c. 12, s. 74, (R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, ss. 93, 94, now Rules 274, 273.) Jurisdiction before Jud. Act.

In the Common Law Courts, the power of serving a defendant out of the jurisdiction was governed in England by sections 18 and 19 of the C. L. P. Act, 1852, and in this Province by the C. L. P. Act, (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50,) ss. 49, 50 and 51. These sections cover two classes—(1) British subjects resident abroad, and (2) foreigners; and their operation was limited in several respects. The authority given by original J. A. Rules 44 and 45 was more extended than that given by the Common Law Procedure Act.

The present Rules embrace all the cases in which it seems intended that the jurisdiction of the English High Court should for the present be exercised; and they will probably include all which the Court in Ontario will ordinarily sanction. Jurisdiction under the Jud. Acts.

In England it has been held that the provisions of the new Rules are exhaustive, and even though under any former practice process might be served out of the jurisdiction it will not now be allowed unless the case falls within these Rules: Re Eager, 22 Ch. D. 86.

Rule 270.

In Ontario, however, the original J. A. Rule 47, contemplated the exercise of any other powers theretofore possessed by the Courts. That Rule has been omitted in the Consolidation of the Rules because all the Acts and Rules which conferred jurisdiction or regulated the practice in former Courts have now been consolidated in the R. S. O., or Con. Rules: see Act ss. 20, 21, 23, and Rules 273 and 274.

The original J. A. Rule 45, followed the corresponding Eng. Rules in force prior to 1883. In 1883 the Eng. Rule having been found defective a new Rule was passed. No particular inconvenience was experienced in Ontario under Rule 45, but in the present Consolidation, the English Rule of 1883 has been adopted instead of J. A. Rule 45, as being probably more comprehensive, and for the sake of uniformity. The clause 45 (e) which was not contained in the Eng. Rules of either 1875 or 1883 (being taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 50 and 51), has, however, been dropped in adopting the Eng. Rule: see Irwin v. Brown, 12 P. R. 639. It had been often usefully applied.

Under Eng. Jud. Act.

The effect of the Rules in Ontario is made slightly different from that of the English Rules. Under the latter no writ which, or notice of which, is intended to be served out of the jurisdiction, can be issued without the leave of the Court or a Judge (Rule 6). Leave to issue and serve the writ may be asked for on the same motion: Young v. Brassey, 24 W. R. 110: 1 Ch. D. 277; Traill v. Porter, 1 L. R. Ir. 60; or separately: Stigand v. Stigand, 19 Ch. D. 460; and in Chambers: Ib. The application is not one which can be entertained by a District Registrar, or a Master, (Eng. Rules 1883, 406 and 745), and has been regarded by one Judge (V.-C. Hall) as of such importance that he directed that in all cases in his Court he should be personally consulted: Tottenham v. Barry, 12 Ch. D. 798. See, however, Stigand v. Stigand, supra.

An affidavit is necessary in all cases showing the cause of action, where it arose, and affirming the truth of the facts constituting the cause of action: see Great Australian Mining Co. v. Martin, 5 Ch. D. 1; Société, etc. v. Dreyfus, 37 Ch. D. 215; and stating the amount or value of the property in question, the place where the defendant may be found, and whether or not the defendant is a British subject.

Practice in Ontario.

Under the Ontario Rules it is not necessary to obtain leave to issue or serve the writ (though that course may be pursued), but an order allowing the service, after it has been effected, will be made upon proof that the service was duly made, and that the case was a proper one for service out of the Province under the Rules: Rule 274.

It was not the practice of the former Court of Chancery to require service in such case to be allowed, but if no answer was filed the plaintiff had to move in Chambers to take the bill pro confesso. The affidavit usually necessary on such motion was merely to establish the fact of the service and that the person served was really the defendant. As to the mode of identification: see Armour v. Robertson, 1 Chy. Ch. 252; Stilson v. Kennedy, 1 Chy. Ch. 236; Erle v. Hunt, 2 Chy. Ch. 395.

Affidavit required.

Such an affidavit is still required under the new practice; and the affidavit should also show that prima facie the plaintiff has a good cause of action within the Rules, as is in England necessary on applying for leave to issue and serve the writ: see Great Australian Mining Co. v. Martin, 5 Ch. D. 1. Under the analogous practice formerly in a Common Law action of an application for leave to proceed in default of appearance (omitted from, and repealed, by the R. S. O. 1887, and held to be superseded by the original Rule 48, now 274, in London Guarantee Co. v. Shields, Mr. Dalton, 2nd Sept., 1881; Martin v. Lafferty, 9 P. R. 301); an affidavit was required, to satisfy the Court that the plaintiff had a good cause of action: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 49 and 51.

The affidavit need only establish a prima facie case, but it should be "candid": see Hardingham v. Rowan, 24 Sol. Jour. 309. An order, ex parte, allowing service out of the jurisdiction was discharged upon its being shown that the affidavit on which the order was obtained contained misstatements of fact, which had the effect of showing the plaintiffs to have good cause of action: Republic of Peru v. Dreyfus, 55 L. T. N. S. 802. The affidavit may be made by the solicitor or any one who has a knowledge of the facts. Identifying a copy of the statement of claim is not enough; the material allegations contained in it as to the contract, etc., must be sworn to: Great Australian, etc. v. Martin, sup.; Perkins v. Mississippi, etc., Co., 10 P. R. 198; Société, etc. v. Dreyfus, 37 Ch. D. 215. It is not necessary to use the words "there is a cause of action" if the facts sworn to shew it: Fowler v. Barstow, 30 W. R. 113, 20 Ch. D. 240. Rule 270.

An affidavit for leave to serve a writ where the plaintiff prefers that course should be entitled "In the matter of an intended action between, etc.": Young v. Brassey, 1 Ch. D. 278; Blake v. Lever, 6 L. R. Ir. 476; and must shew a prima facie cause of action within this Rule.

What documents or proceedings other than writs of summons may be served out of the jurisdiction was originally left in some uncertainty. It is held in England (under R. S. C. 1883, O. 11, r. 1) that service of an order or notice of an order out of the jurisdiction is a question of jurisdiction, not of practice, and the Court can only order such service under statutory authority or Rules having the force of a statute; and that there is no jurisdiction to order service of an originating summons out of the jurisdiction, it being held is the corresponding English Order is the only one dealing with service out of the jurisdiction, and that it applies in terms only to writs of summons: Re Busfield, Whaley v. Busfield, 32 Ch. D. 123. Leave was on this ground refused, in Re Brandon, 54 L. T. N. S. 128, a summons to tax; Re Anglo African S. Co., 32 Ch. D. 348, a notice of motion to wind up a Co.; and Re Jellard, 39 Ch. D. 424, a petition under the Trustee Acts for payment of money out of Court. Service of proceeding other than writs of summons out of the jurisdiction.

On the other hand the contrary was decided in Re Pepper, 32 W. R. 767; 50 L. T. N. S. 580; 53 L. J. Chy. 1054, in the case of an originating summons and it is clear that the Rules apply to service of a notice to a "third party" (under Rules 328 and 329) if out of the jurisdiction: Swansea, etc. v. Duncan, 1 Q. B. D. 644; Dubout v. Macpherson, 23 Q. B. D. 340. In Colls v. Robins, W. N. 1886, 111, a petition for payment out of Court was allowed to be served on parties out of the jurisdiction, and in Credit Gerundeuse v. Van Weede, 2 Q. B. D. 171, a claimant out of the jurisdiction was allowed to be served in interpleader proceedings: but in Re Brandon, 34 W. R. 352, it was held that this case should not be extended.

Notice of an appointment to settle a list of contributories, in the winding up of a company, served on contributories out of the jurisdiction, by posting to them under the Companies Act was held to be good notice to them: Re Nathan, Newman & Co., 56 L. T. N. S. 95; 35 Ch. D. 1.

Rule 271 has, in the revision of the Rules, been expressed so as to apply to all documents by which a matter or proceeding is commenced. In this respect it differs from the previous Rule and the corresponding English Rule of 1883, R. 64.

Leave to serve a counter-claim on a third person out of the jurisdiction was granted in Re Luckie, W. N. 1880, 12, but refused in Potters v. Miller, 31 W. R. 358.

The Court is not bound to allow service in cases within this Rule, but has a discretion on a consideration of the merits: Société Générale de Paris, v. Dreyfus, 37 Ch. D. 215.

If the case is not one in which service should be allowed, the proper course is, not to raise the question by statement of defence, but to move to set aside the service or to rescind the order allowing service if an order has been made: Preston v. Lamont, 1 Ex. D. 361; Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249. Motion to set aside service.

Where the order giving leave to serve out of the jurisdiction had been made, a motion against it on the ground of irregularity made after the lapse of a year was held to be too late: Reynolds v. Coleman, 36 Ch. D. 453.

Where defendant moves against the order or to set aside the service, affidavits are admissible to try the question whether a cause of action arose within the jurisdiction, or other circumstances exist which are necessary under Rule 271 to give the Court jurisdiction, though not to try the merits of the case:

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 270. Fowler v. Barstow, 20 Ch. D. 240; overruling on this point Great Australian Gold Mining Co. v. Martin, 5 Ch. D. 1; see also Thomas v. Hamilton, 17 Q. B. D. 592; Société, etc. v. Dreyfus, 37 Ch. D. 215.

Where a defendant was resident in Scotland or Ireland the omission of any statement that he was a British subject was held immaterial: Fowler v. Barstow, supra.

Where there has been a conflict of evidence as to whether the cause of action arose within or without the jurisdiction orders have been made similar to that in Diamond v. Sutton, L. R. 1 Ex. 130, i.e., the service to stand, plaintiff undertaking to be non-suited if no cause of action within the jurisdiction be shewn at the trial: see O'Donohoe v. Wiley, 43 U. C. Q. B. 350; Nottage v. Aitken, 71 L. T. Jour. 326, 25 Sol. Jour. 834; see also Fowler v. Barstow, 20 Ch. D. 240; Shearman v. Findlay, 32 W. R. 122; Thomas v. Hamilton, 17 Q. B. D. 592, reversing the judgment of the Court below reported in 55 L. T. N. S. 219; but see Perkins v. Mississippi, supra, where the practice was disapproved of.

It has been held that an appearance by defendant does not estop him from moving to set aside a writ and service as contrary to this Rule: see White v. MacGregor, Mews Dig. 1882, 342, sed quære.

Objection to an order for service was held to have been waived by appearing on a motion for injunction and arguing the merits: Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249; by taking out a summons for delivery of a statement of claim: Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 398; and by applying for security for costs: Lhoneux & Co. v. Hong Kong, etc., Corp., 33 Ch. D. 446; proceeding to examine witnesses after objection to the jurisdiction over-ruled: Guy v. G T. Ry. Co., 10 P. R. 372. See also notes to Rule 277.

Substituted service. Under the Irish Rules it is held that a writ intended to be served substitutionally upon a person within the jurisdiction may be issued without leave though the defendant be resident out of the jurisdiction: Lewis v. Herberts, 16 L. R. Ir. 340; but the contrary has been held in England: Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 395, where it was said that holding otherwise would enable the Rule to be evaded, which requires leave to be obtained. Where a writ has been properly issued against a defendant out of the jurisdiction, an order for substitutional service within the jurisdiction may be obtained: Ford v. Shephard, 53 L. T. N. S. 564.

Probably in Ont. an order for substituted service can only be obtained in case the subject matter of the action makes Rule 271 applicable; and the time for appearance, etc., will be the same as if the defendant had been served out of the jurisdiction.

There cannot be substituted service of an ordinary writ on a defendant who cannot be served by reason of his being out of the jurisdiction: Société Industriale, etc., v. Companhia Portugueza, etc., W. N. 1889, 32; Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 399; Hillyard v. Smyth, 36 W. R. 7; see Field v. Bennett, 56 L. J. Q. B. 89. Stewart v. Bank of England, W. N., 1876, 263.

Foreign Corporations. A foreign corporation is within the Rules and may be served abroad: Scott v. Royal Wax Candle Association, 1 Q. B. D. 404; Westman v. Aktiebolaget, etc., Snickarefabrik, 1 Ex. D. 237, but not a foreign sovereign or state: Strousberg v Costa Rica, 29 W. R. 125; see also Sedgwick v. Yedras Mining Co., 35 W. R. 780.

Notice in lieu of writ. Service of process upon a defendant not a British subject might involve unpleasant questions of jurisdiction. In such a case, therefore, notice of the writ, and not the writ, is served: Beddington v. Beddington, 1 P. D. 426; Westman v. Aktiebolaget, etc., 1 Ex. D. 237; the Court having jurisdiction to so order service: James v. Despott, 14 L. R. Ir. 71; and that practice applies to the Chancery Division as well as to the other Divisions: Re Howard. Padley v. Camphausen, 10 Ch. D. 550. Where the writ was served instead of notice thereof, it was held, under the similar practice before the Judicature Act, that this was an irregularity which could not be cured by amendment, and the service was accordingly set aside: Henderson v. Hall, 8 P. R. 353; in Heeitson v. Fabre, B. D. 6, such service was held to be a nullity.

271. Service out of the jurisdiction of a writ of summons or notice of a writ of summons [or other document by which a matter or proceeding is commenced] may be allowed by the Court or a Judge whenever—[Eng. R. 1883, 64, (a), (b), (c), (d), (e), (f), (g)]. Rule 271. Service out of jurisdiction.

The words in brackets are not in the English Rule.

(a) The whole subject-matter of the action is land situate within Ontario (with or without rents or profits); or Land in Ontario.

(b) Any act, deed, will, contract, obligation, or liability affecting land or hereditaments situate within Ontario, is sought to be construed, rectified, set aside, or enforced in the action; or—[Ont. R. 45 (a), altered].

A statement in the nature of slander of title, made out of the jurisdiction, concerning property within the jurisdiction has been held not to be an act or thing affecting such property within the meaning of this clause: Casey v. Arnott, 2 C. P. D. 24, where the Rule was held not to apply in a case in which the defendant in Ireland said that a ship in England was unseaworthy.

A slander not actionable in itself without special damage, spoken out of the jurisdiction, but resulting in special damage within the jurisdiction, was not within the original Rule: Bree v. Marescaux, 7 Q. B. D. 434, and does not seem to fall within any clause of the new Rule: see Kaye v. Sutherland, 20 Q. B. D. 147.

(c) Any relief is sought against any person domiciled or ordinarily resident within Ontario; or—

Unless an action for a personal wrong comes within this clause it would not seem to be covered by any of the clauses of this Rule.

It has been held in England that an Admiralty writ in personam cannot be issued for service abroad in respect of a wrong done on the high seas. The phrase in the English Act corresponding to "within Ontario" is "within the jurisdiction," which was construed to mean "within the territorial jurisdiction": Re Smith, 1 P. D. 300; The Vivar, 2 P. D. 29; which does not extend beyond low water mark: Harris v. Owners of the Franconia, 2 C. P. D. 173; see Reg. v. Keyn, 2 Ex. D. 63.

A company with a registered office in Scotland and branches in England, was held not to be domiciled or ordinarily resident in England: Jones v. Scottish Accident Insurance Co., 17 Q. B. D. 421; sed vide In re Burland, Burland v. Broxburn Oil Co., 41 Ch. D. 542.

(d) The action is for the administration of the personal estate of any deceased person, who at the time of his death was domiciled within the jurisdiction, or for the execution (as to property situate within the jurisdiction) of the trusts of any written instrument, of which the person to be served is a trustee, which ought to be executed according to the law of Ontario; or [New].

Rule 271. (e) The action is founded on any breach or alleged breach within Ontario of any contract wherever made, which, according to the terms thereof, ought to be performed within Ontario; or— [Ont. R. 45 (b).]

It is not necessary that a contract should expressly state that it is to be performed within the jurisdiction. It is sufficient if this appears from the general terms of the contract having regard to the surrounding circumstances: Reynolds v. Coleman, 36 Ch. D. 453.

It was held in Moritz v. Stephan, 36 W. R. 779; 58 L. T. N. S. 850, that an action to enforce a charge obtained by a judgment creditor under a statutory provision (1 & 2 V. c. 110, s. 14), in that behalf, does not fall within this clause, nor any other clause, of this Rule, and that therefore service of a writ in such an action out of the jurisdiction is not authorized.

No difficulty can now arise such as used to arise under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 49, as to the meaning of a "cause of action which arose in Ontario": see Gildersleeve v. McDougall, 31 C. P. 164, 166. The breach within Ontario is the test of the application of the Rule.

Service was allowed.—Where the plaintiff complained of an agreement made in England as infringing on his rights under an agreement made in India, because the action both "affected" a contract made within the jurisdiction, and was in respect of a breach within the jurisdiction, of a contract made abroad: Harris v. Fleming, 13 Ch. D. 208; where a contract made in England by a defendant resident in Ireland, to pay for a rink constructed in Dublin, was broken by non-payment to the plaintiff in England: Green v. Browning, 34 L. T. N. S. 760; where delivery of goods, for which payment was sought, was sworn by plaintiff to have taken place in London, by the London house of the plaintiff and not by his Paris house: Thomas v. Hamilton, 17 Q. B. D. 592; 55 L. T. N. S. 219.

Where goods were furnished by an English firm to defendants in Man and no place for payment was named it was presumed that it was to be in England and the breach therefore took place there: Robey v. Snæfell Mining Co., 20 Q. B. D. 152.

Service was not allowed.—Where the writ was indorsed with a claim to restrain a ship-owner from dealing with a ship in port at Cardiff contrary to a charter party entered into in Scotland between a plaintiff and defendant who both resided in Scotland: Ex parte McPhail, 12 Ch. D. 632; where the claim was by a cestui que trust resident in England for administration of trusts of Scotch property by Scotch trustees: Cresswell v. Parker, 11 Ch. D. 601; where mortgagees of a ship and her freight in an action against second mortgagees, discovered that some freight had previously to the suit been collected by brokers in Antwerp, who claimed to retain the money against a debt due to them by the second mortgagees. The plaintiffs obtained leave to serve the brokers, but the order was on motion set aside, the Court holding that the right to the freight was claimed by being entitled as mortgagees to take possession of the ship and its earnings, and not by seeking the enforcement of any contract: McStephens v. Carnegie, 28 W. R. 385; 42 L. T. N. S. 309.

Where by the contract, defendants, a steamship Company, were exempted from liability for damage for loss arising beyond their line of steamships, and there was a breach alleged within Ontario but beyond the said line of steamships, in not delivering the subject of the contract, it was held that as no damage would result from the breach, though the case was technically within this Rule, discretion, if any existed, should be exercised in refusing to allow the service: Perkins v. Mississippi, 10 P. R. 198.

Service was not allowed in an action for wrongful dismissal where the appointment was in Glasgow and the letter of dismissal was posted there. The defendant was a Scotch coal merchant, who verbally appointed the plaintiff commission agent in Ireland. The posting of the letter was held to be the act of dismissal: Hamilton v. Barr, 18 L. R. Ir. 297.

Under the English Rules of 1875 and 1883, if defendant is resident in Scotland or Ireland, the Court has to consider the comparative cost and convenience of proceeding to England, even where the case otherwise falls within the Rules: see Tottenham v. Barry, 12 Ch. D. 797; Wood v. McInnes, 4 C. P. D. 67; Marshall v. Marshall, 38 Ch. D. 330. Rule 271.

A foreigner resident in the Province, or a foreign corporation having a place of business in the Province may be served without any leave though the contract was made and breach thereof occurred out of the jurisdiction: see Palmer v. Gould's Manufacturing Co., W. N. 1884, 63; and notes to Rules 267, 269.

(f) Any injunction is sought as to anything to be done within Ontario, or any nuisance within Ontario is sought to be prevented or removed, whether damages are or are not also sought in respect thereof; or ——— [Ont. R. 45 (c), (d).]

In Tozier v. Hawkins, 15 Q. B. D. 680, it was held under the corresponding English Rule that the Court might allow service out of the jurisdiction of a writ claiming an injunction to restrain the defendant from sending libels to the plaintiff, resident within the jurisdiction, where the defendant does not state on affidavit that he never comes within the jurisdictions.

See also Lisbon v. Heddle, 52 L. T. N. S. 796; Speckhart v. Campbell, W. N. 1884, 24.

(g) Any person out of the jurisdiction is a necessary or proper party to an action properly brought against some other person duly served within the jurisdiction. New.

Taken from Eng. R. 1883, O. 11, r. 1 (9).

In an action against defendants in London, for breach of warranty of authority, their principals out of the jurisdiction having repudiated a contract abroad as made without authority, it was held that the foreign principals were proper parties and service on them was allowed abroad: Massey v. Heynes, 21 Q. B. D. 330.

See also The Steamship Shanemore, Limited v. Thompson, 52 L. T. N. S. 552; Lisbon, etc. v. Heddle, Ib., 796.

Where the land in question was out of the jurisdiction, but some of the parties within, liberty was granted to serve a defendant out of the jurisdiction: Jenney v. Mackintosh, 33 Ch. D. 595.

In Harvey v. Dougherty, 56 L. T. N. S. 322, an action for breach of trust was brought against the executors of a testator dying in England, two of whom were in Ireland and one in England. The action was to compel them to replace assets invested in Ireland. Service of the defendants resident in Ireland was allowed: see also Re Lane, 55 L. T. N. S. 149.

In Lightowler v. Lightowler, W. N. 1884, 8, an order was made where the party out of the jurisdiction was a partner of the defendant already served, and the action was for specific performance of an agreement to convey the partnership property.

On an application to allow service on a party served abroad under this clause, it should be shown that there is some other party within the jurisdiction who has been served and against whom substantial relief is claimed: Yorkshire Tannery Co. v. Eglinton, 54 L. J. Chy. 81, 36 W. R. 162.

Rules 272-274. Service of notice in lieu of writ.

272. Notice in lieu of a writ of summons shall be served in the same manner as writs of summons are served. J. A. Rule 49.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 11, r. 5 (1883, R. 70) and the notes at the beginning of this heading.

Service of the writ instead of the notice thereof was held not to be an irregularity, but a nullity, and the service was set aside: Hewitson v. Fabre, 21 Q. B. D. 6; also Henderson v. Hall, 8 P. R. 353. As to when a notice is to be served in lieu of a writ see supra p. 302.

Other modes of proceeding against absent defendant.

273. Where a party to any action or matter is absent from the Province or cannot be found therein to be served, the Court may authorize proceedings to be taken against him according to the practice of the Court in the case of a defendant whose residence is unknown, or in any other manner that may be provided or ordered, if the Court, under the circumstances of the case, deems such mode of proceeding conducive to the ends of justice. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 94.

The Act from which this Rule is taken was held to apply to cases where defendants are very numerous or where they reside out of the jurisdiction at a very great distance, or where the residence is not known at all, or where from any other cause it would be difficult or expensive to effect a service: Pearson v. Campbell, 2 Chy. Ch. 25. Advertising has been dispensed with where it would be useless, and service allowed by mailing to the address of defendant's brother resident in the Province, though not in any way an agent of defendant: Cooper v. Lane 1 Chy. Ch. 363; see also Dobson v. Marshall, 9 P. R. 1.

Service made without previous order may be allowed.

274. It shall not be necessary before serving a writ, or notice of a writ [or copy of any other document by which a matter or proceeding is commenced], to apply to the Court or a Judge to allow the service; but in case proof is given to the satisfaction of the Court or Judge that the service was duly made and that the case was a proper one for service out of the Province under the preceding Rules, the service shall be allowed. J. A. Rule 48. R. S. O. 1877, c. 40, s. 93.

The words in brackets are not in the original Rule: see note supra p. 301.

This Rule does not preclude an application for leave to serve the writ, though in ordinary cases a motion to allow a service already effected will be sufficient. See also note to Rule 276.

The practice under this Rule superseded the former practice, under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, ss. 49, 51, of applying for leave to proceed where service had been effected out of the jurisdiction: London, etc., Guarantee Co. v. Shields, Mr. Dalton, 1st Sept., 1881; Martin v. Lafferty, 9 P. R. 300.

Where an order for leave to serve the writ has been obtained it would appear to be unnecessary to apply after the service has been effected to have it allowed or to obtain any further liberty to sign judgment. A doubt on the point arose in England owing to the language of the form corresponding to Form No. 2.

The latter, however, does not contain the words creating the doubt in England: see Scott v. Royal Wax Candle Co., 1 Q. B. D. 404; Bacon v. Turner, 3 Ch. D. 275; but perhaps on signing judgment an affidavit of identification may be required. Rules 275, 276.

4. Appearance, etc.

(i) General Rules.

275. When a defendant is served within Ontario, and not in Algoma or Thunder Bay, he shall appear within ten days, including the day of service. Service in Ontario.

(a) If served within Algoma or Thunder Bay he is to have thirty days in an action for the recovery of land, and twenty days in other actions, after the service, ~~except~~ where he is served between the first day of November and the 30th day of June, or on either of said days, in which case he shall have an additional period of ten days. 47 V. c. 14, s. 7. Algoma or Thunder Bay.

276. Where a defendant is served out of Ontario he shall have the time following for entering his appearance and delivering his defence and both proceedings shall be taken within the time named. Time for entering appearance and delivering defence.

(a) If the defendant is served within any part of the Dominion of Canada (other than Ontario, Manitoba, Keewatin or the North-West Territories, or British Columbia), or within the United States of America, he is to have six weeks after the service.

(b) If served within any part of the United Kingdom (including the Isle of Man and the Channel Islands), or of Manitoba, Keewatin or the North-West Territories, British Columbia or Newfoundland, he is to have eight weeks after the service.

(c) If served elsewhere than within the limits above designated, he is to have twelve weeks after the service.

(d) The writ of summons in such case may be in the form No. 2 in the Appendix, and the statement of claim is to be served therewith. J. A. Rule 46.

This Rule varies a little from the former Chy. O. 620, on which it was founded.

On application in Chambers these periods are frequently shortened under Rule 485 according to the facilities of communication with the place where a defendant is shown to be residing. Two weeks is ordinarily limited by the 1311 = 276. when a defendant is to be served out of Ontario the writ of Summons may be in the form No 2 in the Appendix, and the statement of claim is to be served therewith, unless the writ is specially indorsed under Rules 245, 246 or 248.

Master in Chambers where the defendant resides in Montreal, and three weeks where defendant resides in some place in the United States not far from the border. Where this course is desirable, an application combining a motion for leave to issue and serve the writ, and to shorten the time for appearance and defence, will be a convenient procedure. See Form No. 121 for form of order.

The statement of claim referred to in clause (d) means the pleading so called and not any indorsement, however full, upon the writ of the nature of the claim: Summers v. Summers, Mr. Dalton, 6th Feb., 1882.

By Rule 483 no pleadings can be delivered during vacation, except by leave, so that where it is necessary to serve a writ in vacation on a defendant out of the jurisdiction, an application for leave to issue and serve the writ may be conveniently combined with a motion for leave to deliver a statement of claim.

How entered.

277. A defendant shall enter his appearance to a writ of summons by delivering a memorandum in writing, dated on the day of delivering the same, and containing the name of the defendant's solicitor, or stating that the defendant defends in person, to the proper officer in that office in the same County where the writ of summons was issued, in which, by the memorandum subscribed on the writ or by the notice of the writ, the appearance is required to be entered, except where by any Rule of Court it may be otherwise provided, or where the Court or a Judge otherwise directs. See J. A. Rules 51, 546.

Taken from Eng. R. April, 1880, R. 6 (first part). See Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 5, (1883, R. 77).

The form of the memorandum is given in App. No 93. See Rule 286.

An appearance entered by two solicitors for one defendant is not a nullity, but is irregular: see Williams v. Williams, 10 M. & W., 178; Walton v. Thompson, L. R. 6 Eq. 7. If sued in a wrong name defendant should appear by the right one, stating that he was sued by the wrong name: Lomax v. Kilpin, 4 D. & L. 295; Hobson v. Wadsworth, 8 Dowl. P. C. 601, otherwise the plaintiff may proceed against him by the wrong name: Clark v. Baker, 13 East, 273; Williams v. Bryant, 5 M. & W. 447.

An appearance usually operates as a waiver of an irregularity in the proceedings taken against the defendant: see Oulton v. Radcliff, L. R. 9 C. P. 189; Preston v. Lamont, 1 Ex. D. 362; Diamond v. Sutton, L. R. 1 Ex. 131; Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249. Dart v. Citizens Ins. Co., 11 P. R. 513. See, however, Benecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 421.

Two or more defendants, etc.

278. If two or more defendants in the same action appear by the same solicitor and at the same time, the names of all the defendants so appearing shall be inserted in one memorandum. J. A. Rule 59.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 13, (1883, R. 87) and as Rule of T. T. 1858, 2.

Where several defendants represent one interest (e.g. trustee and cestui que trust, mortgagee and mortgagor, partners, etc.,) they should appear by the same solicitor, and if they do not, will be allowed only one set of costs: Morgan & Davey, 87; see also Barrett v. Campbell, 7 P. R. 150; but where a trustee has really a separate interest as where he claims that a co-trustee is liable, he may receive a separate set of costs: Webb v. Webb, 16 Sim. 55.

Rules 279-281. Appearance, where entered.

279. All proceedings in actions to final judgment shall be carried on in the office in which the appearance is to be entered. J. A. Rule 546.

The Eng. Rule 1875, O. 22. r. 5; 1876, r. 5; 1883, R. 77, are different.

Issue to be filed.

280. When an issue is directed to be tried it shall be filed as soon as settled, and may be filed in the county in which it is directed to be tried, and thereafter the proceedings in the issue shall be carried on in the said county in the same manner as the proceedings in an action commenced in such county. But the Court or a Judge may order otherwise, and may change the place of trial in the same manner and subject to the same rules as in an action. New.

When appearance may be entered, and when notice is to be given.

281. A defendant may appear at any time before judgment. If he appears at any time after the time limited for appearance [he shall, on the same day, give notice thereof to the plaintiff's solicitor, or to the plaintiff himself if he sues in person, and] he shall not, unless the Court or a Judge otherwise orders, be entitled to any further time for delivering his defence, or for any other purpose, than if he had appeared according to the writ (a); and if the defendant appears after the time appointed by the writ, and omits to give such notice of his appearance, the plaintiff may proceed as in case of non-appearance. J. A. Rule 61.

(a) The Rule up to this point is identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 15, (1883, R. 92). The remainder of the Rule is taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 60, latter part. The words in brackets are not in Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 92.

For the time limited for appearance: see note to Rule 286.

A form of notice of appearance will be found in App. Form No. 13.

An appearance entered while the plaintiff is signing judgment is in time: Harris v. Andrews, 3 U. C. L. J. 31. See also note to Rule 9, p. 134.

If an appearance has been entered, but the plaintiff nevertheless proceeds as if none had been entered, the proceedings are not null, but merely irregular, and the irregularity may be waived: see Alsager v. Crisp, 9 Dowl. 353; Strange v. Freeman, 5 Dowl. 407; Maple v. Woodgate, 1 B. & C. 79; but, under this Rule, where notice of an appearance, entered after the proper time was not given, judgment signed disregarding the appearance was upheld: Smith v. Dobbin, 3 Ex. D. 338: see also Hunter v. Wilcockson, 9 P. R. 305.

In an action for recovery of land, an appearance by the original defendant, after the landlord had intervened and appeared, so as to join with the landlord in a statement of defence, was held regular: Goring v. Cameron, 10 P. R. 496.

Although an appearance may, under this Rule, be entered at any time before judgment, yet the defendant may be precluded from putting in a defence after the proper time, by the plaintiff noting the pleadings closed under Rule 393.

See Leader v. Hayes, 54 L. T. N. S. 204.

Rules 282-285. Address of Solicitor.

282. The solicitor of a defendant appearing by a solicitor shall state in the memorandum his place of business. J. A. Rule 52.

Identical with first part of Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 7, (1883, R. 80).

Solicitor's undertaking.

283. A solicitor not entering an appearance in pursuance of his written undertaking so to do on behalf of any defendant, shall be liable to an attachment. J. A. Rule 60.

This is the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 14, (1883, R. 88), and also as the Ontario Rule 3 of T. T., 1856. The plaintiff may also proceed as on default of appearance. Rule 252 provides that no service of writ shall be required where the defendant by his solicitor accepts service, and undertakes to appear.

If a solicitor enters an appearance without authority it may be discharged with costs, to be paid by him: Re Lloyd, 12 Ch. D. 449. See also cases in the note to Rule 250, p. 287.

Proceedings by attachment to compel an appearance to be entered, may perhaps be usefully adopted where it is desired to obtain from defendant a waiver of some irregularity: see Carrick v. Young, Jac. 524, or to prevent a relitigation of the matter in an action on the judgment in another country. The plaintiff should request the defendant's solicitor to enter the appearance before moving to attach: Jacobs v. Magnay, 7 Jur. 326.

See also as to the enforcement of an undertaking by a solicitor given out of Court: Woodfin v. Wray, 51 L. J. Chy. 427.

Address of defendant in person.

284. A defendant appearing in person shall state in the memorandum his address; and if he resides more than two miles from the office from which the writ of summons was issued, he shall state in such memorandum a place to be called his address for service, which shall not be more than two miles from such office. J. A. Rule 53.

Varies, as regards distance, from Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 8, (1883, R. 81).

Where a party who appears in person subsequently appoints a solicitor, the practice in Ireland is to enter the solicitor's name on the record by side bar rule for that purpose before any proceeding is taken by such solicitor: Johnston v. Coleman, 8 L.R. Ir. 148.

Where at an address for service given by a defendant in person, no one was found but a housekeeper who refused to receive documents, service of a summons under Rule 739 by putting it into the letter box was held not sufficient: Jiminey v. Owen, 28 Sol. Jour. 165.

Where no address or improper address given.

285. If the memorandum does not contain the address of the solicitor or the defendant (as the case may be) as required by the preceding Rules, the memorandum shall not be received; and if such address is illusory or fictitious, the appearance may be set aside by the Court or a Judge, on the application of the plaintiff; and the plaintiff may be permitted, by the Court or a Judge, to proceed by posting up the proceedings in the office where the appearance is required to be entered. J. A. Rule 54. Rules 286-288.

See Eng. Rule 1875, O. 12, r. 9 (1883, R. 82).

Where a defendant gives an address for service at which he is not to be found, and there is no person authorized to take in or forward documents, such address is illusory and the appearance will be set aside: A. v. B., W. N. 1883, 174; W. N. 1884, 241; Edell v. Cave (probably S. C.), 51 L. T. N. S. 621; 33 W. R. 208; E. v. C. 54 L. J. Chy. 308.

286. The Memorandum of Appearance may be in the Form No. 93, in the Appendix, with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require. Form of memorandum.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 10 (1883 R. 83), has the word "shall" instead of "may," in the first line.

The time for appearing is ten days after the service, in the case of service within the jurisdiction, and the day of service is inclusive: see Form No. 1, Rules 233, 275, and Cornish v. Manning, 18 C. L. J. 76, 143; 2 C. L. T. 105. In case of service out of the jurisdiction the time will be in accordance with Rule 276, or any special order in the action. In case of service by advertising the time dates from the last publication according to the order: Crane v. Jullion, 2 Ch. D. 220.

(a) In case a defendant does not require the plaintiff to deliver a statement of claim he shall so state in his memorandum of appearance, and in that case shall serve a copy of such appearance on the plaintiff. J. A. Rule 55.

See Eng. Rules 1880, r. 6 (1883, R. 225.)

287. Upon receipt of a Memorandum of Appearance, the officer shall forthwith enter the appearance in the Procedure Book. J. A. Rule 56. Rules T. T. 1856, 1. Entry of memorandum.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 11 (1883 R. 83) in which the Book is called the Cause Book.

(ii) Partners.

288. Where partners are sued in the name of their firm, they shall appear individually in their own names, but all subsequent proceedings shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm. J. A. Rule 57. Partners.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 12. r. 12 (1883 R. 85).

For the provisions for ascertaining who are the partners in a firm: see Rule 317; and see R. S. O. c. 130.

If one of several partners does not appear, judgment cannot be entered against him individually. Judgment if recovered must follow the writ and be against the firm: Jackson v. Litchfield, 8 Q. B. D. 474; Adams v. Townend, 14 Q. B. D. 103. Execution, however, may be issued under Rule 876 against individual partners.

Where an action was brought against a firm, and one of the partners individually, and the partner only appeared, but separate defences were afterwards delivered by the partner and the firm, it was held that the defence of the firm could not be struck out, for the present Rule does not give power to the firm to enter an appearance: Taylor v. Collier & Co., 30 W. R. 701; W. N. 1882, 83; 51 L. J. Chy. 853.

In Munster v. Railton, 10 Q. B. D. 475, 11 Q. B. D. 435 (affirmed in the House of Lords, 10 App. Cas. 680) an action was brought against a firm, "R. & Co."; R. appeared individually and the plaintiff then delivered a statement of claim against "R. sued as R. & Co." and obtained judgment. Afterwards discovering that C. was a member of the firm of "R. & Co." plaintiff was not allowed to amend his judgment to make it conform to the writ and be a judgment against the firm, as he had chosen to sue R. individually.

See also notes to Rules 265, 317 and 876.

Appearance by person sued under firm name.

289. Where any person carrying on business in the name of a firm apparently consisting of more than one person is sued in the name of the firm, he shall appear in his own name; but all subsequent proceedings, shall, nevertheless, continue in the name of the firm. J. A. Rule 58.

Same as Eng. R. June 1876, R. 6; (1883, R. 86.)

See notes to Rules 265, 288, 317 and 876.

(iii) Dower.

Defendant may file appearance and acknowledge tenancy.

R. S. O. c. 56.

Judgment of seisin and writ of assignment thereon.

290. Any defendant named in the writ, in an action for dower, may, within the time appointed, file an appearance and acknowledgment that he is tenant of the freehold of the land named in the writ, together with his consent that the plaintiff may have judgment for her dower therein and may take the proceedings authorized by The Act respecting Dower to have the same assigned to her, unless the parties otherwise agree, and he shall forthwith serve the plaintiff or her solicitor with a copy of such appearance and acknowledgment and consent, together with an affidavit of the day of the entering and filing the same in the proper office; and in every such case when the defendant so admits the right to recover, the plaintiff may enter judgment of seisin forthwith, and may obtain a writ of assignment of dower, but shall not be entitled to tax or recover the costs of suit or of entering such judgment against the defendant. R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, s. 20.

(a) In case the plaintiff claims arrears of dower or damages for detention of her dower, neither the entry of a judgment of seisin nor the taking of proceedings for the assignment of her dower thereunder shall prevent her from proceeding with the action for the recovery of such arrears or damages. New.

This sub-clause has been introduced to meet the decisions of Linfoot v. Duncombe, 21 C. P. 484, and Cameron v. Gilchrist, 7 P. R. 184, which decided that judgment of seisin is conclusive, and when signed the defendant cannot be proceeded against for damages: see also Harvey v. Pearsall, 31 C. P. 239. Those cases are therefore no longer to be followed. Rules 291-293.

It was held in Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335, that a dowress may recover damages as well for mesne profits as for detention against all persons, and in all cases where they were recoverable before Aug. 10th, 1850. By R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, sec. 45, the procedure before that date was made applicable to all cases not provided for by the Act. This sec. 45 in the Consolidation of 1887 has been omitted as "effete," because the procedure in an action for dower is under the Jud. Act to be the same as in other actions for recovery of land. No doubt the right to damages has not been affected by the change in the mode of procedure to obtain them: but see Giles v. Morrow, 1 Ont. 527. Costs are not given unless a demand for dower was made: Losee v. Armstrong, 11 Gr. 517.

A widow is not entitled to damages for detention of dower till after demand: Ryan v. Fish, 4 Ont. 335; nor to either arrears of dower or damages for detention unless her husband died seised: Losee v. Armstrong, 11 Gr. 517; Morgan v. Morgan, 15 Ont. 194, even though demand made Morgan v. Morgan, supra.

As to whether damages are to be computed against the tenant of the freehold from the death of the husband, or the date of demand, quære: see Ryan v. Fish, supra.

For form of writ of assignment of dower, see Form No. 201.

291. In case the defendant has filed and served an acknowledgment and consent under the preceding Rule, and the plaintiff does not within 3 months thereafter sue out and cause to be executed a writ of assignment of dower, the defendant may, by leave of the Court or a Judge, sue out such writ; and the writ shall be, as nearly as may be, in the same form as a writ sued out by the plaintiff, and the like proceedings shall be had thereon. R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, s. 21. Case wherein defendant may sue out execution, if plaintiff does not.

See Form No. 201.

292. In an action for dower the landlord or other person under whom a tenant in possession, who is not also tenant of the freehold, holds or entered into possession, may, if he has not been served with the writ, without leave, appear and defend, by filing with his appearance an affidavit that he is tenant of the freehold, and is advised and believes that there is good ground for disputing the plaintiff's claim to dower. R. S. O. 1877, c. 55, s. 14. Landlord be substituted as defendant.

(iv) Recovery of Land.

293. Any person not named as a defendant in a writ of summons for the recovery of land, may, without leave, appear and defend, by filing with his appearance an affidavit stating that he is in possession of the land Appearance without leave by person not named as a defendant.

Rules 294-296.

either by himself or his tenant (as the case may be), and stating further, in case the possession is by his tenant, that the defendant named in the writ is his tenant. The affidavit may be in the form of affidavit numbered 47, in the Appendix. J. A. Rule 62.

No corresponding English Rule.

The intention would appear to be that in simple cases in which leave would have been given under the former practice as of course, and an affidavit in the form given can be made by the defendant, no leave need be applied for. Under s. 10 of the Ejectment Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 51) it was often a question whether a person could be said to be in possession by himself or his tenant within the meaning of that section; for example a mortgagee out of possession in an action against his mortgagor: McDermott v. Keeling, 7 U. C. L. J. 150; see also Morris v. Smythe, 2 U. C. L. J. 212. In such cases it will be necessary to apply for leave under Rule 294.

Appearance by landlord in action for land.

294. [Where such affidavit is not filed,] any person not named as a defendant in a writ of summons for the recovery of land, may, by leave of the Court or Judge, appear and defend, on filing an affidavit shewing that he is in possession of the land, either by himself or his tenant. J. A. Rule 63.

Except the words in brackets, the Rule is the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 18 (1883, R. 95).

For cases under the former practice see Harrison's C. L. P. Act, 518. See also notes to the preceding Rule, and Leader v. Hayes, 54 L. T. N. S. 204.

The Court will not on the application consider nice questions as to the right of possession: see Croft v. Lumley, 4 E. & B. 614, and Thompson v. Tomkinson, 11 Ex. 442. In Longbourne v. Fisher, W. N. 1878, 28, an equitable tenant for life was given leave to defend an action of ejectment in the place of her trustees, using their names and indemnifying them.

Form of appearance by landlord.

295. Any person appearing to defend an action for the recovery of land as landlord, in respect of property whereof he is in possession [in person or] by his tenant, shall state in his appearance that he appears as landlord. J. A. Rule 64.

Same as R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 12. The English Rule 1875, O. 12, r. 16; (1883, R. 96), has the word "only" instead of the words in brackets.

Notice of appearance by person not named as a defendant in writ.

296. Where a person not named as defendant in a writ of summons for the recovery of land enters an appearance according to either of the foregoing Rules, the appearance shall be entitled in the action against the party or parties named in the writ as defendant or defendants; and the person so entering an appearance shall forthwith give notice thereof to the plaintiff's solicitor, or to the plaintiff if he sues in person, and shall in all subsequent proceedings be named as a party defendant to the action (a); and if such person appears and omits to give notice of his appearance, the plaintiff may proceed as in case of non-appearance. J. A. Rule 65. Rules 297-299.

(a) The preceding part of the Rule corresponds with Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 20 (1883, R. 97); what follows has been taken from R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 60.

A form of notice of appearance will be found in the App. No. 13.

297. Any person appearing to a writ of summons for the recovery of land shall be at liberty to limit his defence to a part only of the property mentioned in the writ, describing that part with reasonable certainty in his memorandum of appearance, or in a notice intituled in the cause and signed by him or his solicitor, such notice to be served within four days after appearance [upon the solicitor whose name is indorsed on the writ, if any; and if none, then filed in the proper office]; and an appearance where the defence is not so limited shall be deemed an appearance to defend for the whole. J. A. Rule 66. Limited appearance in action for land. Notice.

The Ejectment Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 13, did not provide for the alternative of the notice being in the memorandum of appearance; and Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 21 (1883, R. 98) does not contain the words in brackets, these being taken from R. S. O. c. 51, s. 13.

This Rule has been held to be applicable in an action of Dower: Cunningham v. Pearce, Mr. Dalton, 21st Sept., 1881; see also McCulloch v. McCulloch, 4 C. L. T. 252, and the notes to Rule 341. Better particulars may be obtained where there is a want of "reasonable certainty": Watson v. Brewer, 4 P. R. 202.

298. The notice to be served as mentioned in the last preceding Rule may be in the Form No. 14 in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 67. Form of notice.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 12, r. 22 (1883, R. 99).

(v) Limited defence.

299. Any person appearing to a writ of summons in other cases may limit his defence to the question of the amount to which the plaintiff is entitled, and in that case may in his appearance, or, by notice served within four days thereafter, state that he disputes only the amount claimed by the plaintiff; and he need not file any further defence for the purpose of disputing such amount; and the plaintiff is to proceed as if the defendant had filed a defence disputing the amount of the claim. The notice disputing Limitation of defence to question of amount only.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 300. the amount of the claim may be in the Form No. 15, in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require. J. A. Rule 68.

A similar notice was provided for by Chy. Gen. Order 436, in mortgage suits, and entitled the defendant to four days' notice of the taking of the plaintiff's account. The extension of the practice by the Jud. Act 1881, Rule 68, to suits was new.

In a foreclosure suit, an appearance was entered limiting defence to one item of the mortgage account and it was held that no statement of defence was necessary as this Rule supersedes the necessity for either statement of claim or defence, and points out to the plaintiff another way of proceeding; a judgment by default of defence was therefore set aside with costs: Peel v. White, 11 P. R. 177.

Under the former Chy. Prac., by reason of the notice indorsed on a bill, in the event of a dispute note only being filed in a mortgage action, the plaintiff was entitled to get judgment on præcipe; but original Rule 78, which continued that practice, is now embodied in Rule 718, under which it is not clear whether the plaintiff can obtain judgment in such a case on præcipe. This Rule provides that the plaintiff is to proceed "as if the defendants had filed a defence disputing the amount of the claim." It may be that a note disputing the claim does not, under Rule 403, admit the execution of the mortgage and the other facts entitling the plaintiff to judgment, and therefore Rule 718 does not apply to such a case—and that it is therefore necessary for the plaintiff to move for judgment on notice to the defendant: Dominion Bank v. Doddridge, 12 P. R. 655, in the same way as in any other kind of action, under Rule 748, or under Rules 739, 745 or 756 in the cases to which those Rules apply: see Crawford v. Gemmell, 7 C. L. T. 117; Williamson v. Ewing, 27 Gr. 596. In the case of a motion under Rule 748 the filing of a statement of claim would not seem to be necessary; but see Hunter v. Wilcockson, 9 P. R. 305; McLeod v. Sexsmith, 12 P. R. 696.

It has been decided that a defendant filing a disputing note in a mortgage suit may on the taking of the accounts shew that the Statute of Limitations applies so as to prevent the recovery of more than six years' arrears of interest: Wright v. Morgan, 1 Ont. App. 613, overruling the decision reported, 24 Gr. 457. But the Statute must be pleaded if the defendant wishes to set it up as a bar to the suit: Cattanach v. Urquhart, 6 P. R. 28, explained, 1 Ont. App. 616; see also notes to Rule 402.

It was held also under the former Chancery practice that a disputing note was not an answer, and therefore Gen. Order 134 (see Rule 508) allowing a defendant after answer to obtain on præcipe an order for production, did not apply: Richardson v. Beaupre, 2 Chy. Ch. 54.

5. PARTIES.

(i) Generally.

Who may be joined as plaintiffs.

300. All persons may be joined as plaintiffs in whom the right to any relief claimed is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative. And, without any amendment, judgment may be given for such one or more of the plaintiffs as may be found to be entitled to relief, for such relief as he or they may be entitled to. J. A. Rule 89, part.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 1 (1883, R. 123).

The changes introduced into England by The Judicature Act were very material changes. Most of them had in Ontario been already made part of the jurisdiction and practice of the Common Law Courts by The Administration of Justice Act, R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 5, which provided that— Rule 300.

"5. For the purpose of carrying into effect the objects of this Act, and for causing complete and final justice to be done in all matters in question in any action of law, the Court or a Judge thereof, according to the circumstances of the case, may, at the trial or at any other stage of an action or other proceeding, pronounce such judgment, or make such order or decree as the equitable rights of the parties respectively require, and may make such rule or order as to adding third persons as parties to any proceeding, striking out parties, or treating parties named plaintiffs as defendant, or parties named defendants as plaintiffs, and as to costs, and may direct such inquiries to be made and accounts to be taken as seem reasonable and just; and may as fully dispose of the rights and matters in question as a Court of Equity could." R.S.O. 1877 c. 49, s. 5.

The Judicature Act extends the jurisdiction of the Court still further in the same direction, so as to do complete justice in one suit.

Previous to The Administration of Justice Act in Ontario, and to The Judicature Acts in England, the contrast between Common Law and Chancery procedure was very great.

Subject to a few exceptions, the Common Law Courts were tied down to disposing of claims arising between exactly the same parties upon each side, and in the same right. They could give a judgment against the defendants generally, but they could not give relief of one sort against one defendant, and of another sort against another defendant; nor could they give relief of one kind to one plaintiff, and of another kind to another plaintiff, or of one kind to two plaintiffs jointly, and another to one of them separately. All the plaintiffs, if more than one, had to be jointly entitled, and all the defendants jointly liable, with respect to every matter upon which the Court was asked to adjudicate.

In Chancery, on the other hand, the course was to deal with the controversy or transaction forming the subject matter of the suit as a whole, and endeavor to do complete justice with respect to it; and for that object the Court formerly insisted on all the parties interested in the subject matter being brought before it. The extreme strictness of this rule had been usefully relaxed from time to time, but in the main it had not been departed from.

The result had been, that a Court of Law could not handle the matter as a whole, however desirable it might be to do so; but was obliged to confine itself to the specific claim of one person against another: while a Court of Equity could only deal with the matter as a whole, whether that were really necessary or not, and could not dispose of the mutual rights of particular persons singly, however convenient it might be to do so.

The Judicature Act and Rules, give a very wide latitude as to the matters which may be disposed of in an action, the mode in which a case may be dealt with, and the persons who may be made parties to it. Parties. Plaintiffs.

A plaintiff may in any suit enforce any claim, whether legal or equitable, the defendant may raise any defence which is good, either at law or in equity, and may also set up, not merely a pecuniary set-off, but, by way of counter-claim, anything that formerly he could have made the subject of a cross action or suit. And he may make such counter-claim, not only against the plaintiff, but against any third person, if only it be connected with the subject of the action.

The Court in its turn is bound to "grant, either absolutely or on such reasonable terms and conditions as to them shall seem just, all such remedies whatsoever as any of the parties thereto may appear to be entitled to in respect of any and every legal or equitable claim properly brought forward by them respectively in such cause or matter; so that, as far as possible, all matters so in controversy between the said parties respectively may be

Rule 300. completely and finally determined, and all multiplicity of legal proceedings concerning any of such matters avoided": Jud. Act, s. 52, (12.)

On the other hand, no action is to be defeated by reason of the misjoinder of parties, and the Court may in every action deal with the matters in controversy so far as regards the rights and interests of the parties actually before it.

Parties plaintiff, who may be joined.

The provisions under this head of "Parties" and those of Rule 340, et seq., relating to the joinder of various claims in the same action and in the same pleadings, were framed so as to give effect to these provisions. All persons claiming any relief, jointly, severally, or in the alternative, may be made plaintiffs. All persons against whom any relief is claimed, jointly, severally, or in the alternative, may be made defendants. And the defendants need not all be interested in all the relief claimed, or in all the causes of action. It is not necessary that either plaintiff or defendant should be concerned in all the matters in question in the same capacity; subject to a few qualifications, either may be concerned partly in a representative capacity, partly personally.

The defendant may also bring before the Court persons not already parties against whom he seeks any relief relating to or connected with the subject matter of the suit.

In short, all parties may be added that may be necessary to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the action.

The present Rule, it will be observed, authorizes the joinder as plaintiffs, not only of persons claiming jointly or in the alternative, but of persons claiming severally. Accordingly, where eight persons brought an action of libel, it was held that they might rightly join, though no joint injury was shewn, and though they would before the Act have had to bring eight actions: Booth v. Briscoe, 2 Q. B. D., 496; and see Viscount Gort v. Rowney, 17 Q. B. D. 625. In such case, of course there is no joint damages. Each has a separate cause of action and the assessment of damages or the award of any other relief should be separate. But in Booth v. Briscoe, the damages having been jointly assessed, it was held that the defendants could not complain.

Appleton v. Chapel Town Paper Co., 45 L. J. Chy. 276, does not appear to be quite consistent with this. There the owners of two separate bleach works joined as plaintiffs in a suit to restrain the pollution of a stream used by both of their works, and the case was tried by consent, as if two separate bills had been filed, but it seems to have been considered by the Judge that the plaintiffs could not sue together in one action for distinct nuisances.

One of several mortgagees may bring a foreclosure action, making his co-mortgagees defendants, if they will not join as plaintiffs: Luke v. South Kensington Hotel Co., 11 Ch. D. 121.

Where two or more plaintiffs sue for a joint claim, the defendant may set up a separate counter-claim against each plaintiff: Manchester, etc., Ry. v. Brooks, 2 Ex. D. 243.

Where two plaintiffs join in an action and one is successful and the other unsuccessful, the successful plaintiff was held to be chargeable with the costs of joining the unsuccessful plaintiff: D'Hormusjee & Co. and Isaacs & Co. v. Grey, 10 Q. B. D. 13; 52 L. J. Q. B. 192; but in Viscount Gort v Rowney supra, where costs had been ordered "to abide the event," it was held that the unsuccessful plaintiff only was liable for the costs occasioned by his being joined in the action.

Where some plaintiffs were successful but some were absent at the trial from illness and gave no evidence, the latter were ordered to pay defendants the costs occasioned by their being joined as plaintiffs, without prejudice to their bringing a fresh action: Arnison v. Smith, 41 Ch. D. 348.

One of several joint owners of a patent may sue for a recovery of profits due for the use of the patent without joining the other owners: Sheehan v. G. E. Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 59.

301. All persons may be joined as defendants against whom the right to any relief is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative. And, without any amendment, judgment may be given against such one or more of the defendants as may be found to be liable, according to their respective liabilities. J. A. Rule 91.

Rule 301. Who may be joined as defendants.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 3, (1883 R. 126).

This Rule, which is the converse of Rule 324, must be read with the latter: Edwards v. Lowther, 24 W. R. 434.

Parties, defendants.

What is said here as to defendants is analogous to Rule 300 as to plaintiffs; and the two Rules have received a similar construction. This Rule is not confined to cases in which the alternative relief asked by a statement of claim against one defendant is consistent with that asked against another: Honduras Ry. Co. v. Tucker, 2 Ex. D. 301; Child v. Stenning, 5 Ch. D. 695; and a plaintiff may rely upon different rights alternatively though they may be inconsistent: Philips v. Philips, 4 Q. B. D. 134. It would seem, however, that this construction of the Rule applies to a statement of claim only, and where by a counter-claim relief was sought against a party in one of two inconsistent alternatives a demurrer was allowed: Evans v. Buck, 4 Ch. D. 432.

If the defendant can show that there is inconvenience or additional expense in trying both the claims at the same time, or that the disposition of one will render the trial of the other unnecessary, he may apply under Rule 346 for the trial of one issue before the other is approached: Bagot v. Easton, 7 Ch. D. 1. In Honduras Ry. Co. v. Tucker, 2 Ex. D. 301, the plaintiffs sought to enforce a contract against the defendant on the ground that the person by whom it was made was the defendant's agent to make it. The Court of Appeal, affirming the Exchequer Division, ordered the alleged agent to be added as a defendant; the plaintiff claiming to recover against him, in the alternative of his not having had authority to contract. In Child v. Stenning, 5 Ch. D. 695, the action was for trespass to land, of which the plaintiff was lessee. The defence was a right of way granted by the lessor, and it was held that the plaintiff might amend his claim by adding the lessor as a defendant, claiming against him, in case the right of way was established, damages for breach of covenant for quiet enjoyment. See also Edwards v. Lowther, 45 L. J. C. P. 417; 24 W. R. 434, and Bagot v. Easton, 7 Ch. D. 1, where, however, the alternative claims were not considered inconsistent.

Where the plaintiff succeeds against one defendant, but not against another: the cost of the successful defendant must be born by the plaintiff, and not by the unsuccessful defendant, unless the Court orders otherwise: see Child v. Stenning, 7 Ch. D. 413; 11 Ch. D. 82, and Bingham v. Alexander, cited Charley's Judicature Act, 3rd ed. 455.

Rules 302 and 303 seem to be applications of the principle of the present Rule.

If a plaintiff brings separate actions against a number of persons whom he might have joined as defendants in one action he may have to pay the defendants' extra costs: Guéret v. Young, W. N. 1883, 216.

It is not proper to make individual corporators defendants for the sole purpose of making them pay costs: Atty-Gen. v. Vestry of Bermondsey, 23 Ch. D. 60. See also Matthias v. Yetts, 46 L. T. N. S., 497; Barnes v. Addy, L. R. 9 Chy. 244, 255, 256; Burstall v. Beyfus, 26 Ch. D. 35; Amos v. Herne Bay, 80 L. T. Jour. 356, for what was formerly known in Chy. as the Rule of the three A's, and for observations on the practice of making attorneys, agents and arbitrators parties to suits, alleging against the principal defendants fraud in which the co-defendants are not implicated.

As to adding a party for discovery only: see Symonds v. City Bank, 79 L. T. Jour. 175.

Rule 302.

In Head v. Bowman, 9 P. R. 12, the plaintiff sued in respect of the flooding of land by a milldam. The G. W. Ry. had turned the waters of the stream into another channel, which was not deep enough to carry off all the water, even though the defendant's dam were removed, so that complete relief could not be given, even though the plaintiff were successful against the defendant. The plaintiff was therefore allowed under this Rule, and Rule 324, to add the G. W. Ry. Co. as defendants.

In Heatley v. Newton, 51 L. J. Chy. 225, an action by a purchaser for rescission of a contract of sale and costs, auctioneers were made co-defendants with the vendors, the plaintiff alleging that they and the vendors had joined in a fraud whereby the plaintiff was induced to pay too high a price. It was held that the auctioneers were rightly joined and could not claim to be dismissed merely on payment of the deposit into Court, and costs to the date of the order.

If alternative cases are alleged the facts ought not to be mixed up, but should be stated so as to shew on what facts each alternative of the relief sought is founded : Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 489.

In an action to recover the value of goods (an engine and boiler), a person who had notified the plaintiff not to remove the goods, which had not been paid for, and the property in which had not passed, was made a defendant in the action : Polson v. DeGeer, 12 Ont. 275.

An action against four independent saw-mill owners, from whose mills sawdust and refuse matter were carried down the River Ottawa and lodged upon and in front of the plaintiff's land, was held to have been properly brought against all four owners as defendants : Ratté v. Booth, 10 P. R. 649.

Where a restrictive covenant in a lease is omitted in a sub-lease, both lessee and sub-lessee are properly made defendants in an action for breach of covenant : Tritton v. Bankart, 35 W. R. 474 ; 56 L. T. N. S. 306 ; 56 L. J. Chy. 629.

In an action by a creditor to recover a debt, persons to whom the debtor has made an alleged fraudulent conveyance of his property, which the plaintiff claimed to have set aside, were held to be properly joined as defendants : Heaton v. McKellar, 13 P. R. 81.

In an action by a simple contract creditor claiming merely to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent against creditors, the debtor and grantor is a necessary party as well as the grantee : Gibbons v. Darvill, 12 P. R. 478.

See Rules 308 and notes.

Where defendant not interested in all the relief prayed.

302. It shall not be necessary that every defendant to an action shall be interested as to all the relief thereby prayed for, or as to every cause of action included therein; but the Court or a Judge may make such order as may appear just, to prevent any defendant from being embarrassed or put to expense by being required to attend any proceedings in the action in which he may have no interest. J. A. Rule 92.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 4, (1883, R. 127).

See Cox v. Barker, 3 Ch. D. 359, where this Rule was considered and given a liberal construction. The judgment of V.-C. Bacon, which was affirmed on appeal, contains the following passages :—"I take it that it was the intention of the Legislature, when any question of any sort, or any set of questions, arose, to endeavour by one hearing and one decree to dispose of all matters in litigation between all the parties who were interested in the subject of the litigation. The Act of Parliament, at the same time that it has enabled any person stating a claim to bring before the Court all persons interested in that claim, and to include in the claim every question that can belong to it, or arise out of it, has, at the same time, carefully provided that no one shall be prejudiced by the fact of his being joined. The Rules are distinct on the subject." Rules 303, 304.

See cases cited in note to Rule 302 supra.

303. The plaintiff may, at his option, join as parties to the same action all or any of the persons severally, or jointly and severally, liable on any one contract, including parties to bills of exchange and promissory notes. J. A. Rule 93. All or any parties liable on one contract may be joined.

By R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 134, it was provided that all the parties to a bill or note might be joined in one action; but by sec. 135 the non-joinder of any joint drawer, maker, indorser, or acceptor might be pleaded in abatement.

By the present Rule it is optional with the plaintiff in actions on bills and notes, as well as in actions on any other contract, to proceed against any one or more of the parties jointly or severally liable: see Re Arcedeckne, Atkins v. Arcedeckne, 24 Ch. D. 709; Murray v Gillett, 18 C. L. J. 78; but one of such parties if sued alone is entitled to have his co-contractors joined: Pilley v. Robinson, 20 Q. B. D. 155.

Under Chy. Gen. Order 62, a plaintiff might select one or more of several persons liable. Under the corresponding English Con. Order (VII. R. 2), it was held in Smith v. Horsfall, 24 Beav. 331, that if the plaintiff chose to sue all or some of them, and the suit became defective or abated by reason of a transmission of the interest of one of them, he could not afterwards proceed against the other. This gloss on the Order was described as highly technical: Gray v. Lewis, L. R. 8 Chy. 1035, 1052, and will not be imported by analogy into the present Rule: Lloyd v. Dimmock, 7 Ch. D. 393. In the latter case two of five defendants became bankrupt, and it was held that the action might proceed against the other three without bringing the trustees of the bankrupts before the Court. For other restrictions upon the application of Chy. G. O. 62, see Lewin, 6th ed. 807. See also Wilson v. Rhodes, 8 Ch. D. 777.

304. Where any person is surety for the payment of a mortgage debt, such person may be made a party to an action for the sale of the mortgaged property. Chy. O. 427. Surety may be joined with mortgagor, and relief obtained against both.

Under this Rule an assignee of the mortgagor who had covenanted with the mortgagor to pay the mortgage debt, could not formerly have been ordered to pay the mortgagee, to whom he was under no legal liability: Turnbull v. Symmonds, 6 Gr. 615; Clarkson v. Scott, 25 Gr. 373; and see other cases noted: Rule 347. And where the original mortgagee had assigned the mortgage to the plaintiff, and covenanted for payment, it was held that he was not a surety within the meaning of this Rule, but that the contract amounted merely to a guaranty, to enforce which, a separate action must be brought: Clarke v. Beal, 8 Gr. 7. But it would seem that in such cases the appropriate relief as between the plaintiff and defendants, and between the defendants inter se, may now be granted in the same action. See also Campbell v. Robinson, 27 Gr. 634; Chamberlain v. Sovais, 28 Gr. 404. Liability of assignee of mortgagor. Of assignor of a mortgage on covenant for its payment.

Where the surety had given a mortgage on his own property, the principal debtor was formerly a necessary party to an action for foreclosure, or sale thereof: Seidler v. Sheppard, 12 Gr. 456. Principal when a necessary party.

A surety cannot be required to pay the amount of a judgment which it has been agreed shall stand as security for the deficiency on a mortgage, until the security has been realized and the deficiency ascertained: Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85. Liability of surety for deficiency.

Rule 305.

Where relief is sought subject to prior mortgage, prior mortgagee an unnecessary party.

305. Where the plaintiff prays a sale or foreclosure, subject to a prior mortgage, the prior mortgagee is not to be made a party either originally or in the Master's office, except under special circumstances to be alleged in the statement of claim. Chy. O. 440.

This Rule, it will be noticed, is confined to cases where the plaintiff claims relief subject to the prior mortgage; where he seeks to redeem or in any way bring in question the right of the prior mortgagee the latter must be made a defendant by writ.

Formerly Chy. O. 439 provided that where a bill was filed by a subsequent incumbrancer seeking relief against a prior mortgagee, such mortgagee must be made a party previous to the hearing of the cause; but that Order has been omitted from these Rules as being no longer necessary.

Subsequent incumbrancer, action for redemption by.

An action for redemption by a subsequent, against a prior mortgagee, will not lie, unless the prior mortgage, and that of the plaintiff, are both overdue: Parsons v. Bank of Montreal, 15 Gr. 411; Long v. Long, 16 Gr. 239. The owner of the equity of redemption is a necessary party to such an action. Ib.

A bill, by a subsequent incumbrancer, against a prior mortgagee, claiming the right of redemption, but not offering to redeem him, was not demurrable: Pearson v. Campbell, 2 Chy. Ch. 12; (but see Rogers v. Lewis, 11 Gr. 257;) and it would probably now be held that a statement of claim, omitting an offer to redeem, would not be demurrable under the present practice: see National Bank v. United Hand in Hand Co., 4 App. Cas., at p. 400.

Not entitled to a sale.

In default of payment.

A subsequent incumbrancer, bringing an action against a prior mortgagee, is not entitled to a sale: McDougall v. Campbell, 6 S. C. R. 502; unless the prior incumbrancer consent, or do not object, to a sale: Grange v. Barber, 2 Chy. Ch. 189; he is only entitled to judgment for redemption, and in default of redemption he is foreclosed: see Rule 362, or the action is dismissed, as against both mortgagee and mortgagor with costs: Hallet v. Furze, 54 L. T. N. S. 12, which is equivalent to a foreclosure of the plaintiff: Cornwall v. Henriod, 12 Gr. 338; Inman v. Wearing, 3 D. G. & Sm. 734; except in the case of an equitable mortgage by deposit: Marshall v. Shrewsbury, L. R. 10 Chy. 250.

In an action by a subsequent incumbrancer, to redeem, he may also impeach transactions by the prior mortgagee in reference to the mortgaged estate: McLaren v. Fraser, 15 Gr. 239.

Prior mortgagee, when he may be made a defendant.

Although a prior mortgagee can, ordinarily, only be made a party to an action by a subsequent incumbrancer, for the purpose of redeeming him, yet where the prior security is created by a deed absolute in form, a subsequent incumbrancer is at liberty to bring him before the Court for the purpose of showing his interest to be redeemable, without offering to redeem him: Moore v. Hobson, 14 Gr. 703; and see Rogers v. Lewis, 12 Gr. 257. To such an action the execution creditors of the alleged mortgagee are necessary parties: Glass v. Freckleton, 10 Gr. 470; and see Darling v Wilson, 16 Gr. 255, 257.

Subsequent incumbrancer obtaining sale has no priority for costs.

Where a prior incumbrancer is made a party to any action by a subsequent incumbrancer, and a judgment for sale is obtained by consent, or without objection on the part of the prior incumbrancer, the proceeds of the sale must be distributed in payment of the claims of the incumbrancers according to their priorities, and in such a case the plaintiff is not entitled to any priority in respect of his costs, even though the fund prove insufficient: Grange v. Barber, 2 Chy. Ch. 189.

Assignee equity of redemption, when entitled to attack prior mortgage for fraud.

Where the equity of redemption was valueless, and an assignment thereof was made merely for the purpose of enabling the assignee to impeach a prior mortgage on the ground of fraud for the benefit of the assignor, the assignment was held to savour of champerty, and no relief was granted to the assignee, even though he asked in the alternative for redemption: Muckall v. Banks, 10 Gr. 25; and see Little v. Hawkins, 19 Gr. 267; Wigle v. Setterington, Ib., 512; Bell v. Walker, 20 Gr. 558; Hilton v. Woods, L. R. 4 Eq. 432. But where the assignee takes beneficially, and the assignment is not made merely to enable him to sue in respect of the alleged fraud, it would seem that he may maintain the action: Sears v. Lawson, 15 Ch. D. 426: Dickinson v. Burrell, L. R. 1 Eq. 337. Rule 306.

A subsequent incumbrancer may, in the same action, obtain relief against the mortgagor, and incumbrancers subsequent to himself—consequent on his redeeming the prior mortgagee: Rogers v. Lewis, 12 Gr. 257; McLaren v. Fraser, 15 Gr. 239. Relief against other incumbrancers.

A prior mortgagee in possession, who is also the owner of the equity of redemption, is only bound to account to a subsequent incumbrancer for rents and profits, on the footing of a mortgagee in possession, until his mortgage is paid off, any subsequent receipts he is entitled to retain without account as owner: Steinhoff v. Brown, 11 Gr. 114. Prior mortgagee owning eq. of red., account for rents by.

306. Where it appears conducive to the ends of justice that parties interested in the equity of redemption should be allowed to be made parties in the Master's Office, by reason of the parties so interested being numerous or otherwise, the Court may direct that parties so interested be made parties in the Master's Office, upon such terms as to the Court or a Judge seems fit; such order to be made only where one or more parties interested in the equity of redemption are already before the Court. Chy. O. 488. Parties interested in equity of redemption may be allowed to be added in the Master's office.

The words "parties interested in the equity of redemption" in this Rule are intended to apply to persons interested in the ultimate equity of redemption, i.e., the mortgagor or any one standing in his place. As a general rule, all parties interested in the ultimate equity of redemption in mortgaged property, ought to be made original defendants in an action to enforce the mortgage, by sale, or foreclosure: Paterson v. Holland, 8 Gr. 238; Buckley v. Wilson, 8 Gr. 566; but not mesne incumbrancers, or execution creditors, who are always added in the Master's office: see Rule 126. Parties to whom Rule applies.

This Rule makes an exception to the general rule, and enables the Court to direct, that parties interested in the ultimate equity of redemption, may be made parties in the Master's office. This may be done, either upon a motion for judgment: Jones v. Bank of Upper Canada, 12 Gr. 429; Faulds v. Harper, 2 Ont. 405; or upon a subsequent application for the purpose in Chambers: see cases infra. Such a direction, however, cannot be inserted in a judgment obtained on præcipe.

Where the grounds upon which it is sought so to add parties interested in the equity of redemption in the Master's office, appear in the statment of claim it may possibly be still the proper course to move for judgment, in order to obtain the direction of the Court to add the parties; but where the necessity for the order does not appear until after judgment has been obtained on præcipe, then the motion may be made in Chambers. The parties already before the Court are entitled to notice, but not those intended to be added: Penner v. Canniff, 1 Chy. Ch. 351; Harrison v. Greer, 2 Chy. Ch. 440; Rumble v. Moore, 1 Chy. Ch. 59; but see Cummins v. Harrison, 1 Chy. Ch. 369, where the order was granted ex parte. But after a final order of foreclosure, or sale, the application is in general too late: see Orford v. Bayley, 1 Chy. Ch. 272; Street v. Dolan, 3 Chy. Ch. 227. And where the plaintiff had not acted with reasonable diligence in framing his suit, the order was refused: Portman v. Paul, 10 Gr. 458. When order to add parties interested in the equity of redemption, in the M. O. may be obtained.

When an order of this kind has been obtained in Chambers, any motion to set it aside must be made to the Court upon petition: Tice v. Myers, 3 C. L. J. 102. Setting aside orders.

Wherever the party added, claims paramount to the plaintiff, he may move to discharge the order adding him as a party: Montgomery v. Shortis, 3 Chy. Ch. 69; but see note to Rule 127.

Rules 307, 308.

Occasionally it happens that the plaintiff is unable to determine which of the defendants is entitled to the equity of redemption, or there may be a conflict between defendants on this point inter se. The Court will not however determine such questions ex parte, even against defendants who have not appeared, but will pronounce the usual judgment directing all the defendants to redeem, leaving them to settle their rights inter se by a separate proceeding: Robinson v. Dobson, 11 Gr. 357, and see Ramsey v. Thompson, 8 Gr. 372; or may direct the Master to inquire as to the point: Cayley v. Hodgson, 13 Gr. 433. But latterly any such reference if ordered has been directed as a separate reference from the general reference in the cause, and so as the plaintiff may not be put to expense, or delay, thereby: see decree in Johnson v. Nesbet, D. B. 27, fo. 150. Under the Rules it would seem that whenever any question arises between co-defendants, the defendant raising the question must deliver his statement of defence both to the plaintiff, and defendant as to whom the question is raised; and on the plaintiff moving for judgment, the defendant claiming relief against the co-defendant should be prepared to show that the action is also ripe for trial on the question raised between himself and co-defendant: Rule 328; and see Steel v. Dickson, 42 L. T. N. S. 765; Furness v. Booth, 4 Ch. D. 586.

Conflict between co-defendants as to equity of redemption, how determined.

Officers of corporations not to be made defendants merely for discovery.

307. Where an action is brought against a corporation aggregate, no officer of the corporation is to be made a defendant for discovery only. Chy. O. 63.

Discovery may now be obtained by the examination of persons who are or have been officers of a defendant corporation aggregate under Rule 487, and where production of documents is required from such defendants, the affidavit on production is to be made by one of the officers of the corporation: see Rule 511.

Officers may be parties when charged with wrongful acts.

This Rule applies to cases where the officers are made parties for "discovery only," but where the plaintiff charges the officers of a corporation with collusion and conspiracy, to deprive plaintiff of his rights, or damages are claimed against them for wrongful acts, such officers may be properly made defendants notwithstanding this Rule: Cuthbert v. The Commercial Travellers' Association, 24 Gr. 531; Cline v. The Mountainview Cheese Factory, 20 Gr. 227; Betts v. Neilson, L. R. 3 Chy. 429; 5 L. R. H. L. 1.

Several defendants in cases of doubt.

308. Where in any action the plaintiff is in doubt as to the person from whom he is entitled to redress, he may, in such manner as hereinafter mentioned, or as may be prescribed by any special order, join two or more defendants, to the intent that in such action the question as to which, if any, of the defendants is liable, and to what extent, may be determined as between all parties to the action. J. A. Rule 94.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 6, (1883, R. 129).

This Rule is applicable to actions which have been already commenced, as well as to those in which the plaintiff is in doubt at the commencement of action: per Cockburn, C.J., in Honduras, etc. v. Tucker, 2 Ex. D. 305. There the plaintiffs claimed against L. specific performance of a contract alleged to have been made by T., the authorized agent of L., they afterwards alleged that L. denied that T. was his authorized agent, and were therefore in doubt as to who was liable, and they obtained leave to add T. as defendant, claiming that if he was not the authorized agent of L. he was liable as principal.

This Rule was applied in Harvey v. G. T. Ry. Co., & G. W. Ry. Co., 9 P. R. 80, affirmed on appeal, 7 Ont. App. 715, where injury was done to goods carried by two Railway Companies, but the plaintiff was not able to ascertain which line of Railway the goods were on at the time of the injury. The plaintiff was held entitled to join both Companies as defendants. Rule 309.

In an action brought against an Irish Railway Company claiming damages for breach of contract in not carrying certain pigs from a station in Ireland to Liverpool, and for trover and conversion of the pigs. The Company having stated in answers to interrogatories, that some of the pigs were sold by the L. & N. W. Ry. Co., on whose line part of the journey had to be performed, but without communication with the defendants, leave was given to add the L. & N. W. Ry. Co. as defendants: Creaton v. Midland, G. W. Ry. Co., 10 L. R. Ir. 74.

As to the person by whom the costs of a successful defendant are to be borne see notes to Rules 301 and 1171.

309. Trustees, executors, and administrators may sue and be sued on behalf of, or as representing, the property or estate of which they are trustees or representatives, without joining any of the parties beneficially interested in the trust or estate, and shall be considered as representing such parties in the action; but the Court or a Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings, order any of such parties to be made parties to the action, either in addition to, or in lieu of, the previously existing parties thereto. J. A. Rule 95. Trustees, executors and administrators.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 7, (1883, R. 130).

Chy. O. 61 (Holmested's R. & O. 49) provided that in all suits concerning real or personal estate vested in trustees under will, settlement or otherwise, the trustees should sufficiently represent the beneficiaries subject to the power of the Court to add the beneficiaries or any of them at the hearing. This Rule is an extension of that Chancery Order.

See Meldrum v. Scorer, 56 L. T. N. S. 471.

The effect of Rule 309 is that in litigation with strangers, trustees and executors represent their cestuis que trustent: Re Cooper, Cooper v. Vesey, 20 Ch. D. 611; Bulley v. Bulley, 8 Ch. D. 489; Brooke v. McLean, 5 Ont. 209; thus in a suit for redemption a trustee of the equity of redemption has been held to sufficiently represent the trust estate: Mills v. Jennings, 13 Ch. D. 639; 6 App. Cas. 698, sub. nom. Jennings v. Jordan; see Day v. Radcliffe, 24 W. R. 844; so trustees of real estate, in a partition suit under The Partition Act: Stace v. Gage, 8 Ch. D. 451; Simpson v. Denny, 10 Ch. D. 28; Goodrich v. Marsh, W. N. 1878, 186.

Where the subject of a settlement was an equitable chose in action, and the legal estate was not in the trustees of the settlement, but in the trustees under a prior will who were charged with misapplication of the fund, the cestui que trust was held entitled to institute the suit: Pigot v. Stewart, W. N. 1875, 69.

A cestui que trust may probably also still be properly joined where the chief object of the suit is to affect the right of the cestui que trust: Liddell v. Deacon, 20 Gr. 72: Day v. Radcliffe, 24 W. R. 844; or the trustee has an adverse interest: Payne v. Parker, L. R. 1 Chy. 327; or there is a question of fraud: Read v. Prest, 1 K & J. 183.

A plaintiff may sue as administrator though not appointed before suit. It is sufficient if he be duly qualified to act before the trial: Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433.

Decisions on the practice under Chy. O. 61.—The following summary of decisions under the former Chy. O. may still be useful:—

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 309.

Since Chy. O. 61 Court may proceed in all cases without s. q. t.

Prior to Chy. O. 61, in suits adverse to the cestui que trust, the latter was a necessary party, and the Court had no jurisdiction to pronounce a decree in his absence: see Cleveland v. McDonald, 1 Gr. 415; Rogers v. Rogers, 2 Gr. 137. After that Order, however, the Court had jurisdiction in all cases in which the estate was vested in a trustee who was before the Court, to proceed in the absence of the cestui que trust, and even to decree a trust deed void in the absence of the beneficiaries: King v. Keating, 12 Gr. 29; Thompson v. Dodd, 26 Gr. 381. The question of the beneficiaries being parties, or not, is now entirely in the discretion of the Court, see Jennings v. Jordan, 6 App. Cas. 698; 45 L. T. N. S. 593; but this discretion has not always been uniformly exercised. In some cases it has been laid down that in the exercise of this discretion, wherever the suit is to set aside the trust, or is adverse to the rights of the beneficiaries, the Court should still require one or more of the beneficiaries to be made parties: Read v. Prest, 1 K. & J. 183; Baker v. Trainor, 15 Gr. 252; and see Thomas v. Torrance, 1 Chy. Ch. 46, and Clarke v. Cooke, 23 Gr. 110.

But trust estate must be vested in trustee.

In a suit by one of two creditors (both of whom claimed payment out of the trust estate in priority to other creditors), against the representatives of the deceased trustee, and one of several creditors who claimed that all creditors should be paid pari passu, it was held that all parties interested were sufficiently represented: Wigle v. McLean, 24 Gr. 237. In order that the Court might act under Chy. O. 61 it was necessary that the trust estate should be vested in the trustee, an executor with a mere implied power of sale over the realty was not a trustee within the meaning of the order: Bolton v. Stannard, 6 W. R. 570. Rule 309, however, is not so restricted in its terms, Chy. O. 61 provided that the trustee shall represent the cestui que trust to the same extent that executors in suits concerning personal estate, represent the persons beneficially interested, and it would seem that notwithstanding the general terms of Rule 309, that it is only where the trustee has the like absolute control over the trust estate which an executor has over personalty, that he can, in general, be said to sufficiently represent his cestui que trust: Cox v. Barnard, 5 Hare, 253. As to the extent to which the personal representative prior to The Devolution of Estates' Act represented those interested in the realty, see Eccles v. Lowry, 23 Gr. 167. Under The Devolution of Estates' Act (R. S. O. c. 108), ss. 3, 4, the personal representative may, if his letters of administration extend to the realty, as fully represent those interested in the realty as he does those interested in the personalty: see Malone v. Malone, 17 Ont. 101.

It is difficult to harmonize all the decisions which have been pronounced under the English Chancery Act 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 42, from which Chy. Ord. 61 was taken.

Cases where c. q. t. required to be added.

Cases where cestui que trust required to be added.—In a suit for foreclosure, where the equity of redemption was vested in trustees under a settlement, some of the beneficiaries were required to be added: Goldsmid v. Stonehewer, 9 Hare, App. xxxviii; Cropper v. Mellersh, 3 W. R. 202; (but see contra Wilkins v. Reeves, 3 W. R. 306; Jennings v. Jordan, 6 App. Cas. 698; 45 L. T. N. S. 593); but not where the trustees were also executors of the deceased mortgagor, and had the control of the whole estate out of which the mortgage debt could be paid: Hanman v. Riley, 9 Hare, App. xl.; Sale v. Kitson, 3 D. M. & G. 119; nor where the cestuis que trustent were infants, but in such case, the Master was directed to inquire whether a sale or foreclosure, would be more for the benefit of the infants, and the decree directed him, if he thought fit, to add the infants as parties in his office. Where the interest of the trustee who was called on to account, was in conflict with that of his cestui que trust the latter was added: Payne v. Parker, L. R. 1 Chy. 327. Where the trustee disputed the rights of certain of the cestuis que trustent to share in the trust funds, he was held not sufficiently to represent those whose rights he disputed: Liddell v. Deacon, 20 Gr. 72. So, also, where the trustee had disclaimed: Young v. Ward, 10 Hare, App. lviii. In a redemption suit some of the beneficiaries entitled to the mortgage money were required to be added: Stansfield v. Hobson, 16 Beav. 189, but see Mills v. Jennings, 13 Ch. D. 639; Jennings v. Jordan, 6 App. Cas. 698; 45 L. T. N. S. 593; contra.

In a suit for administration, by a plaintiff claiming as a beneficiary under a will, but whose title was doubtful, one of the cestuis que trustent was required to be added as a party before the hearing, in order to have an opportunity to argue the question of the plaintiff's title: Day v. Radcliffe, 24 W. R. 844. In a suit for sale of mortgaged property, where the legal estate was in the heirs, but the executrix had an implied power of sale, it was held that she did not sufficiently represent the cestuis que trustent, as the estate was not "vested" in her: Bolton v. Stannard, 6 W. R. 570, but secus where the executor had an express power of sale: Shaw v. Hardingham, 2 W. R. 657. In a suit to execute the trusts of a will, where the trustee had only a power of sale on the death of tenants for life who were still living, the parties interested in remainder were ordered to be added: Cox v. Barnard, 5 Hare, 253; where the plaintiff claimed under an assignment, the validity of which was denied by the trustee, who set up that the heir of the assignor was entitled to the trust estate, the heir was required to be added: Miller v. Ostrander, 12 Gr. 349. Rule 309.

Cases where cestui que trust was not required to be added.—In a redemption suit by a trustee: Jennings v. Jordan, 6 App. Cas. 698; 45 L. T. N. S. 593; Mills v. Jennings, 13 Ch. D. 639; 6 App. Cas. 698; but see Stansfield v. Hobson, 16 Beav. 189. Cases where c. q. t. not required to be added.

In a redemption suit against trustees, where the estate was vested in them by a deed absolute in form, though intended as a mortgage, one of the trustees being also beneficially interested: Kerr v. Murray, 6 Gr. 343, and see O'Connell v. Charles, 2 Gr. 489. Mortgage cases.

In a foreclosure suit by an executor of a deceased mortgagee: Lawrence v. Humphries, 11 Gr. 209: the heirs, or persons beneficially interested, required to convey, may be added in the Master's office (Ib.), but see now R. S. O. c. 108, ss. 4, 9; Dilk v. Douglas, 26 Gr. 99, as to power of personal representative to convey realty of a testator or intestate.

In a foreclosure suit by a trustee of a mortgage made for the benefit of creditors: Fraser v. Sutherland, 2 Gr. 442, or for the benefit of a firm where one of the partners was dead: Stephens v. Simpson, 12 Gr. 493; 15 Gr. 594.

In a foreclosure suit against a trustee: Shaw v. Liddell, 1 U. C. L. J. 57; Wilkins v. Reeves, 3 W. R. 305; Hannan v. Riley, 9 Hare, App. xl.; Sale v. Kitson, 3 D. M. & G. 119; but see Tudor v. Morris, 22 L. J. Chy. 1051; Cropper v. Mellersh, 1 Jur. N. S. 299; Dickson v. Draper, 11 Gr. 362. In the latter case an inquiry was directed whether a sale or foreclosure would be more beneficial for the infant cestuis que trustent, and they were directed to be made parties, if the Master should think fit to add them in his office.

In a suit against a trustee to enforce a trust for benefit of creditors: Bateman v. Margerison, 6 Hare, 496; Wood v. Brett, 9 Gr. 78; and see Pare v. Clegg, 29 Beav. 589. Suits against trustees.

In a suit against executors and trustees to enforce a contract made by the testator in his lifetime: Deliste v. McCaw, 22 Gr. 254.

In a suit by a trustee against representatives of a deceased trustee to recover moneys misappropriated by the latter: Re Cross-Harston v. Tenison, 45 L. T. N. S. 777.

In a suit by one cestui que trust against executors and trustees, to recover trust property wrongfully alienated by one of them, the other cestuis que trustent were held to be unnecessary parties: Ryckman v. Canada Life Assurance Co., 17 Gr. 550.

In an action for partition, where the shares of some parties were vested in trustees: Simpson v. Denny, 10 Ch. D. 28; Goodrich v. Marsh, W. N. 1878, 186, and in such a case it is not necessary to serve the cestuis que trustent with the judgment, or to prosecute any inquiry as to them before the Master: Ib. Action for partition.

In a suit for the construction of a will, and to determine whether or not there had been a forfeiture, the persons entitled under the gift over, being a class, some of whom were not ascertained, but one of whom was a party; Suit for construction of will.

the trustee was held sufficiently to represent those unascertained: White v. Chitty, 14 W. R. 366; and see now Rule 316.

Effect of representation of c. q. t. by trustee.

Effect of representation.—Where the action is brought by, or against, a trustee without adding the cestuis que trustent as parties, if the question in issue has been fairly tried, all parties represented by the trustee would, generally speaking, seem to be concluded by the judgment, but not otherwise: Eccles v. Lowry, 23 Gr. 167. Thus a decree made after replication filed, dismissing a bill brought by an official assignee, was, in the absence of fraud, conclusive against the creditors of the estate of which he was assignee: Morrison v. Robinson, 19 Gr. 480. and see Jardine v. Wood, 19 Gr. 617.

Where, however, a suit by trustees had failed for want of evidence, it was held that a subsequent suit might be maintained for the same purpose by the cestui que trust on the discovery of new evidence: Pierce v. Brady, 2 Jur. N. S. 772. See, however, Commissioners, etc., of London v. Gillatly, 24 W. R. 1059; Morrison v. Robinson, 19 Gr. 480.

If a deceased person has no personal representative, proceedings may go on, or the Court may appoint a representative.

310. Where, in any action or other proceeding, it is made to appear that a deceased person who was interested in the matters in question has no legal personal representative, the Court or a Judge may either proceed in the absence of any person representing the estate of the deceased person, or may appoint some person to represent such estate for all the purposes of the action or other proceeding, on such notice to such person or persons, if any, as the Court thinks fit, either specially or by public advertisement, and notwithstanding that the estate in question may have a substantial interest in the matters, or that there may be active duties to be performed by the person so appointed, or that he may represent interests adverse to the plaintiff, or that there may be embraced in the matter an administration of the estate whereof representation is sought; and the order so made and any orders consequent thereon, shall bind the estate of such deceased person in the same manner in every respect as if there had been a duly appointed legal personal representative of such person, and such legal personal representative had been a party to the action or proceeding, and had duly appeared and had submitted his rights and interests to the protection of the Court. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 9.

Chy. Gen. Ord. 56 (corresponding to Imp. Act 15 & 16 V. c. 86, s. 44) gave the Court a wide discretion to appoint a representative of the estate of a deceased person for the purposes of an action, or to dispense with a representative, wherever it considered that the estate in question was sufficiently represented: Joint Stock Discount Co. v. Brown, L. R. 8 Eq. 376, but the Order was only acted on where the interest of deceased was of little consequence, and it was held not to apply where the estate had a substantial interest: Sherwood v. Freeland, 6 Gr. 305; Toronto Savings Bank v. Canada Life Ass. Co., 13 Gr. 171; Re Tobin, 6 P. R. 40, or where the personal representative would have active duties to perform: Fowler v. Bayldon, 9 Ha. App. 78, or would represent interests adverse to the plaintiff: Headden v. Emmott, 22 L. T. Jour. 166: Dean of Ely v. Gayford, 16 Beav. 561, or where the object of the suit was to administer the estate: Silver v. Stein, 1 Dr. 294.

Rule 310.

It was also held that an appointment would not be made where an administrator ad litem appointed by the Probate Court would not suffice, and that an administrator ad litem does not sufficiently represent the estate where a general administration of the estate is necessary: Dowdeswell v. Dowdeswell, 9 Ch. D. 294; see also Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 181; 6th ed. 208, Morgan Chy. Orders 201, Webster v. British Empire Co., 15 Ch. D. 169; Curtius v. Caledonia, etc., Ins. Co., 19 Ch. D. 534.

Chy. Order 56 was therefore extended to meet the above decisions, by R. S. O. c. 49, s. 9, from which the above Rule is taken.

This Rule has still however a comparatively limited scope, as the representation which may be ordered under it is only of a deceased person "who was interested in the matters in question." A person, the administration of whose estate is the subject of the action, is not a deceased person "interested in the matters in question," within the meaning of the Rule. He must in his lifetime have been interested in the matters in question: Hughes v. Hughes, 6 Ont. App. 373; sed vide Webster v. The British Empire Ins. Co., 15 Ch. D. 169. The legal personal representative of deceased must in such case be a party to properly constitute the action: see Ib. and Rowsell v. Morris, L. R. 17 Eq. 20; Outram v. Wyckoff, 6 P. R. 150; Leonard v. Clydesdale, 6 P. R. 142; Toronto Savings Bank v. Canada Life Ass. Co., 13 Gr. 171; unless Rule 312 applies there being an executor de son tort.

The Rule enables the Court to take one of two courses, either (1) to proceed without a representative of the personal estate of a deceased person who may have been interested in the matters in question; or, (2) to appoint some person to represent such deceased person's personal estate for the purposes of the action.

Where the Court makes an order adopting either of these courses, the estate in question is bound and concluded by the proceedings as though it had been represented in the litigation by a duly appointed legal personal representative.

No authority to appoint any one to represent realty.

Whenever, therefore, it is necessary that the real estate of a deceased person should be represented in any action or proceeding, the Court had no power, before The Devolution of Estates Act, under this Rule to proceed in the absence of the real representative, or to appoint any person to represent such estate, so as to bind it by the proceedings. But in the case of the estates of persons dying after the 1st of July, 1886, the personal representative is also the representative of the realty: R. S. O. c. 108, s. 4; sed vide. R. S. O. c. 60, s. 58.

Further provisions are made by Rules 316, 324 to enable actions to be prosecuted in the absence of persons who according to the ordinary practice should be joined as parties.

Application under statute, how made.

The application under the Rule is usually made by ex parte motion in Chambers, but the order may be made at the trial of the action: Mendes v. Guedalla, 10 W. R. 485; Hewiston v. Todhunter, 22 L. J. Chy. 76; Re Peppitt, 4 Ch. D. 230; or on a motion for judgment: Gairdner v. Gairdner, 1 Ont. 184, and see Curtius v. Caledonian Fire and Life Ins. Co., 19 Ch. D. 534; or at a subsequent stage of the action where the party whose estate is to be represented, dies after the trial: McCarthy v. Arbuckle, 31 C. P. 48. Before the order is made notice is sometimes required to be given to the person, if any, who would be entitled to letters of administration: Curtius v. Caledonian Fire and Life Ins. Co., supra.

Discretion of Court.

The Court has a wide discretion either to appoint a representative, or to proceed without any representation if it considers the estate in question sufficiently protected: see Joint Discount Co. v. Brown, L. R. 8 Eq. 380; Turratt v. Lloyd, 2 Jur. N. S. 371; Hewitson v. Todhunter, 22 L. J. Chy. 76.

Cases when representative dispensed with.

Representation of the estate has been dispensed with, where the deceased person was in the same interest as the plaintiff: Cox v. Taylor, 22 L. J. Chy. 910; or where other persons of the same class were before the Court: Abrey v. Newman, 17 Jur. 153; and a representative of the estate of one of two executors who had died insolvent, and to which representation could not be obtained was also dispensed with: Moore v. Morris, L. R. 13 Eq. 139; Bund v. Randle, 2 W. R. 331; Rogers v. Jones, 1 Sm. & G. 17; and where the deceased person's interest was very small: Montgomery v. Douglas, 14 Gr. 268; and where his estate was insolvent and his next of kin refused to take out letters of administration and the estate appeared to have no substantial interest in the fund sought to be recovered by the plaintiff, representation was dispensed with: Curtiss v. Caledonian Fire and Life Ins. Co., 19 Ch. D. 534; Webster v. The British Empire Ins. Co., 15 Ch. D. 169; and even where the deceased party was sole plaintiff and tenant for life, and an arrear of income remained due to him, an administration suit instituted by him, was, on the application of the defendants, revived without any representative of the original plaintiff, whose executor had died without proving his will, but without prejudice to the right of the personal representative of the original plaintiff to intervene: Hayward v. Pile, L. R. 7 Chy. 634, but see Bank of Montreal v. Wallace, 1 Chy. Ch. 261.

Where a deceased person had by an instrument inter vivos made over his property to the defendant, who became bound to pay his grandchildren $400 each after the death of the settlor, the Court dispensed with a personal representative of the settlor, in a suit by one of the grandchildren to enforce payment of the $400: Mulholland v. Merriam, 19 Gr. 288, S. C. 20 Gr. 152.

Where an estate had been administered, and pending the suit for administration, the personal representative died, and all that remained to be done was for the Master to make his report, and it appeared that the estate was insolvent, an order was made appointing the solicitor of the deceased administratrix to represent the estate: Re Tobin, Cook v. Tobin, 6 P. R. 40; and see Sherwood v. Freeland, 6 Gr. 305; Toronto Savings Bank v. Canada Life Assn. Co., 13 Gr. 171.

Cases where Rule applies.

The Rule has been held to apply though the deceased person was never a party to the action: Webster v. The British Empire Ins. Co., supra, but see Hughes v. Hughes, 6 Ont. App. 373, and to an action for administration where the estate is small: Re Colton, Fisher v. Colton, 8 P. R. 542, and to actions for the construction of wills: Gairdner v. Gairdner, 1 Ont. 186; see also Mendes v. Guedalla, 10 W. R. 485, where an order was made at the trial; and McCarthy v. Arbuckle, 31 C. P. 48, where a defendant died after the trial. It also applies to proceedings on a special case: Swallow v. Binns, 17 Jur. 29; and to proceedings by petition: Re Ranking, L. R. 6 Eq. 601-5; Ex parte Cramer, 9 Hare App. xlvii.; and see Maynay v. Davidson, Ib. lxxxii., but is generally applicable only where from any cause there is difficulty in obtaining representation of the estate: Long v. Storie, Kay App. xii.; Davies v. Boulcott, 1 Dr. & Sm. 23; Bliss v. Putnam, 29 Beav. 20.

In an action to enforce a lien for an annuity charged upon real estate, it is not necessary to make the personal representative of a deceased person who was liable for its payment a party, unless an account of the personal estate of the deceased is asked: Paine v. Chapman, 7 Gr. 179, and see Burns v. Canada Co., 7 Gr. 587.

In an action to make several defendants liable for a breach of trust, where one died before decree having made a will appointing executors who had not proved the will; (the liability of the surviving defendants being the same as that of the deceased defendant,) the Court made an order allowing the suit to proceed in the absence of a personal representative, reserving leave to the executors to intervene, if so advised when they had proved the will: Hebermann Joint Stock Co. v. Fottrill, 13 L. R. Ir. 335.

See Wingrove v. Thompson, 11 Ch. D. 419, cited in note to Rule 622.

Consent of person appointed necessary.

A person cannot be appointed to represent an estate under this Rule without his consent: Prince of Wales Co. v. Palmer, 25 Beav. 605; Hill v. Bonner, 26 Beav. 372. The proper person to be appointed is the person who would be appointed administrator ad litem: Dean of Ely v. Gayford, 16 Beav. 561; where the deceased had left a will which was disputed, the person named as executor therein was appointed: Hele v. Lord Bexley, 15 Beav. 340.

Judgment against personal representative, how far binding on real representative.

Although a judgment in a suit to which the personal representative was a party was conclusive as regards the personal estate and those beneficially interested therein, whether as legatees or next of kin; it was formerly only prima facie evidence of a liability of the estate as against those interested in the realty, whether as devisees, or heirs-at-law, and the latter were at liberty to rebut it: Eccles v. Lowry, 23 Gr. 167; Lovell v. Gibson, 19 Gr. 286; Willis v. Willis, 19 Gr. 573; Harvey v. Wilde, L. R. 14 Eq. 428; Steel v. Lineberger, 58 Penn.

St. Rep. 308; Story v. Fry, 1 Y. & C. C. C. 603, and see Anderson v. Paine, 14 Gr. 110; and it is therefore only to this extent that an order under the Rule will bind those interested in the real estate, except in cases coming under The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 108,) s. 4, in which the personal representative also represents the realty. But even before The Devolution of Estates Act the lands of a deceased person could be sold under execution against his personal representative, without making the persons interested in the realty parties: R. S. O. (1877), c. 66, ss. 35, 36, 40; and the persons interested in the realty were prima facie bound by the sale: McEvoy v. Clune, 21 Gr. 515. But where the claim for which the judgment was recovered was one that was not properly enforceable against the realty, the execution might be stayed in an action by heirs-at-law: Anderson v. Paine, 14 Gr. 110; and if a sale took place it might be successfully impeached by the heir-at-law: Freed v. Orr, 6 Ont. App. 690. Where the judgment against the personal representative was successfully impeached on the ground of fraud and collusion, the beneficiaries were entitled to set up the Statute of Limitations against the claim of the creditor which the personal representative had omitted or neglected to plead: Jardine v. Wood, 19 Gr. 617. Rule 311.

The Master in Chambers has power to entertain applications under this Rule for the appointment of a person to represent the estate of a deceased party: Collver v. Swayzie, 8 P. R. 42.

This Rule does not authorize the High Court to grant letters probate of wills, or letters of administration. It merely enables the Court to proceed with an action so as to bind the personal estate of a deceased person even though no letters probate, or letters of administration, have been granted by the Surrogate Court. The representative authorized to be appointed by this Rule is not an administrator, but merely represents the estate for the purpose of the action in which the order is made, and he is not entitled to act as an administrator of the estate, except so far only as it is necessary for him to do so for the purposes of the action in which he is so appointed. It has not been usual to require any security to be given by a person appointed under this Rule to represent an estate; and he has no authority to receive any moneys belonging to the estate he is appointed to represent, except according to the express order of the Court in that behalf. The Court has, under the original Chy. O., refused to appoint a person to receive a sum of money payable out of Court to a deceased person: Rawlins v. McMahon, 1 Drew. 225; Williams v. Allen, 32 Beav. 650, and has refused to order payment to the representative, where one has been appointed in the suit: Byam v. Sutton, 19 Beav. 646. Rule does not supersede jurisdiction of Surrogate Courts.

An administrator ad litem, however, may be appointed by the Surrogate Court: R. S. O. c. 50, s. 56, and see s. 59, and a decree against him binds the general administrator: Davis v. Chanter, 2 Ph. 545; Croft v. Waterton, 13 Sim. 653; Ellice v. Goodson, 2 Col. 4; Williams v. Allen, 32 Beav. 650; Woodhouse v. Woodhouse, L. R. 8 Eq. 514; Collas v. Hesse, 12 W. R. 565; and by the following Rule the High Court has also power in certain cases to appoint an administrator, or administrator ad litem, Rule 311:

311. Where no probate of the will of a deceased person, or letters of administration to his estate, have been granted by a Surrogate Court, and representation of such estate is required in any action or proceeding in the High Court, the Court may appoint some person administrator or administrator ad litem (according as the case may require) to the estate; and the person so appointed shall give the security required from, and have the rights, authority, and responsibility of, an administrator or administrator pendente lite (as the case may be), appointed by the Surrogate Court, but the Court may dispense with such security. Appointment of Administrator to represent estate in proceedings in High Court.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 312.

(a) Where a general administrator is appointed under this Rule, the same fees shall be payable in stamps as would be payable to the Crown, or to the Judge of the Surrogate Court, under any Act then in force, upon the grant of administration of an estate of the same value made by the Surrogate Court.

(b) Where administration is granted by the High Court under this Rule, the Registrar shall forthwith transmit by mail to the Surrogate Clerk, a certified copy of the grant; and in case the grant is with will annexed, he shall, at the same time, also transmit to the said Clerk a certified copy of the will; and the Surrogate Clerk shall make similar entries in respect of the documents so transmitted as he makes in respect of particulars furnished to him under section 14 of The Revised Statute respecting the Surrogate Courts. 48 V. c. 13, s. 11.

This Rule seems to authorize the appointment of an administrator only in the case where no probate of the will of a deceased person, or letters of administration to his estate have been granted. It does not appear to authorize such an appointment where probate or administration has been granted, but the executor or administrator has died or has become incapable of acting.

It is not intended by this Rule that the business of the Surrogate Court should be transferred to the High Court: the intention is merely to provide for necessities arising in the progress of an action, where representation of an estate is required in an action and there has not been carelessness or negligence on the part of the party who may require the appointment made; the fact that a claim is likely to be barred by the Statute of Limitations is not a ground for applying under this Rule: Meir v. Wilson, 13 P. R. 33; Ford v. Landed Banking Co., 13 P. R. 210.

An application by a mortgagee seeking to foreclose his mortgage to appoint an administrator to the estate of the mortgagor was granted: MacLaren v. Rivett, 7 C. L. T. 202: Re Chambliss and Canada Life Ass. Co., 12 P. R. 649; Cameron v. Phillips, 13 P. R. 78. In re Chambliss & Canada Life Ass. Co. supra, the appointment was made before action commenced.

The Rule empowers the Court to appoint either an administrator ad litem or a general administrator. It was doubted by Boyd, C., whether an administrator ad litem would be a sufficient representative of the realty under The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 108): Whitson v. Smith, June 5, 1889.

The order appointing an administrator or administrator ad litem should as nearly as possible follow the form of a grant of administration made in a like case by the Surrogate Court, and should contain all the particulars necessary to be entered in the books of the Surrogate Clerk under the Surrogate Rule 48: for form of order see Cameron v. Philips, 13 P. R. 141; Howell's Surrogate Court Pr. pp. 841, 266.; Davis v. Chanter, 2 Ph. 549: as to effect of grant, see Faulkener v. Daniel, 3 Ha. 208: for form of order of foreclosure against an administration ad litem, see Peal v. Gott, W. N. 1885, 46.

Order for account against executor de son tort.

312. Where no order for general administration is asked or required, or where it is shewn that an executor de son tort has taken possession of the bulk of the personal assets belonging to the estate of a deceased person, such executor de son tort may on the application of any one interested in the estate of the deceased, and, without the appointment of any other personal representative of the estate, be required to account for any assets of the estate which have come to his hands; and where a proper case is made for the appointment by the High Court of a receiver of the estate of a deceased person who has no legally appointed personal representative, the estate may be administered under the direction of the Court without the appointment of any person other than the receiver to represent the estate. 48 V. c. 13, s. 12. Rule 313.

Prior to the statute from which this Rule is taken it was impossible to obtain a decree for the general administration of the estate of a deceased person, without having a duly appointed personal representative before the Court, either as plaintiff or defendant; because the personal representative was the only person who had a legal title to the personal estate: see Rule 310, note.

Where the Court acts under this Rule and grants an order for the general administration of a deceased person's estate, without requiring a duly appointed personal representative to be made a party, it will itself assume the duties of a personal representative, and will not suffer the assets to be paid over to next of kin, legatees, or devisees, without making due inquiry as to the debts of the deceased, and providing for their payment out of the assets.

313. An infant may sue as plaintiff by his next friend; (a) and may defend any action by his guardian appointed for that purpose, [or by the Official Guardian as the case may be.] J. A. Rule 96. Infants.

The original Rule had at (a) the words "in the manner practised in the Court of Chancery," following Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 8, (1883, R. 138). The words in brackets are not in the Eng. Rules, which, as respects infants, correspond otherwise with the above.

See also Rules 258, 259, 262.

By the practice of the Court of Chancery, every suit or application: Cox v. Wright, 9 Jur. N. S. 981, on behalf of an infant must be by next friend, who properly will be the father if he is not adverse in interest: Woolf v. Pemberton, 6 Ch. D. 19, but who need not be a relation: Cross v. Cross, 8 Beav. 455, nor a solvent person: Re McConnell, 3 Chy. Ch. 423, and therefore need not give security for costs: Fellows v. Barrett, 1 Keen 119, but may not be a married woman, notwithstanding the M. W. Act. 1884, s. 1 sub-s. 2: Thynne v. St. Maur, 34 Ch. D. 465; nor a defendant: Anon, 11 Jur. 258; Payne v. Little, 13 Beav. 114; Re Burges, W. N. 1883, 177, unless merely a formal defendant: Taylor v. Taylor, 16. L. J. N. C. 66. In Valder v. Hawkins, 2 M. & K. 248, it was said that the Court always expected next friends to be substantial persons, and that they should be relations, connections or friends of the family, not mere volunteers: see also Foster v. Cautley, 10 Ha. App. 24, and Woolf v. Pemberton, sup.; but see cases supra and infra. Circumstances connecting a next friend too closely with parties adverse in interest may render him an improper person, and liable to be removed, though nothing is alleged against his character, circumstances or conduct: Re Burgess, Bottomley v. Burgess, 25 Ch. D. 243. The consent of the next friend should be obtained before using his name, though the infant's consent is unnecessary: Worthan v. Pemberton, 9 Jur. 291. If a suit is instituted on an infant's behalf without a next friend, it may, on the defendant's motion, be dismissed with costs, to be paid by the solicitor: Dan. Prac. 5th ed., 67, 6th ed., 105.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 314.

Notwithstanding that generally anyone may sue as next friend of an infant, the Court will, on the application of the defendant, or of any person acting as next friend of the infant for the purpose of the application: Guy v. Guy, 2 Beav. 460, institute an inquiry as to whether the suit is for the benefit of the infant, and if the result shows that the proceedings are not for the benefit of the infant, the suit may be stayed: Anderton v. Yates, 5 DeG. & S. 202, or dismissed with costs, to be paid by the next friend: Fox v. Sawerkrop, 1 Beav. 583; Golda v. Kerr, W. N. 1884, 46; and see Re Elsom, Thomas v. Elsom, W. N. 1877, 177; Mill v. Mill, 4 C. L. T. 252; 20 C. L. J. 252.

In an action on behalf of an infant by a next friend acting with the father's authority, the father died and the mother, the testamentary guardian, was held entitled to be substituted as next friend though no charge of improper conduct had been made against the actual next friend; Hutchinson v. Norwood, 31 Ch. D. 237.

The next friend of an infant was indemnified against the costs of an appeal to the Supreme Court out of the infant's estate, where the appeal was advised by more than one counsel and the Court of Appeal was not unanimous: Cottingham v Cottingham, 11 P. R. 13.

If no next friend is named a motion may be made to dismiss the action, with costs to be paid by the solicitor: Flight v. Bollard, 4 Russ. 298.

A compromise cannot be forced upon infants if it is of no benefit to them, even though agreed to by their counsel: Rhodes v. Swithinbank, 22 Q. B. D. 577; or if it is contrary to the opinion of their legal adviser: Re Birchall, Wilson v. Birchall, 44 L. T. N. S. 113; 16 Ch. D. 41.

When the next friend dies pending the action a new next friend may be appointed on an ex parte motion: Daly v. Daly, 9 L. R. Ir. 383; Dan. Forms 34.

The next friend should not take any step in the cause in the name of the infant after he attains twenty-one, for the infant may abandon the suit: Brown v. Weatherhead, 4 Ha. 122. If the infant adopts the proceedings after he becomes of age, he becomes liable for all the costs of the suit.

A next friend who refuses to appeal may be removed: Depuy v. Welsford, W. N. 1880, 121.

The next friend, if directed to pay costs, is personally liable for them, unless the Court gives direction otherwise: Caley v. Caley, 25 W. R. 528.

As to whether a next friend is entitled to solicitor and client costs: see Damant v. Hennell, 33 Ch. D. 224.

Married women.

314. A married woman may sue for alimony without a next friend.

(a) In cases not provided for by The Married Women's Property Act, a married woman may sue as plaintiff by her next friend. J. A. Rule 97; 47 V. c. 19, s. 11.

Not the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 8, (1883, R. 138).

In suits for alimony a wife could always formerly sue alone; and may compromise the suit and deal with it just as any other suitor can: Vardon v. Vardon, 19 C. L. J. 229; 6 Ont. 719.

Practice before Act of 1872.

Prior to The Married Woman's Act of 1872, a married woman could not sue at law without her husband being joined as a co-plaintiff: Lush's Prac. (2nd ed.) 33. In Equity she might sometimes be sole plaintiff, but was required to sue by next friend. It had long been a settled rule of the Court of Chancery, that wherever the husband and wife without a next friend sue or defend together, or where the husband sues as next friend of his wife, the suit or defence is regarded as that of the husband alone, and would not prejudice any future claim by the wife: Wake v. Parker, 2 Keen 59, 70; Hughes v Evans, 1 S. & S. 185; Moie v. Smith, 1 J. & W. 605. Where the suit related to the separate property of a wife, she was required to sue by next friend, otherwise the defendant might demur: Houlding v. Poole, 1 Gr. 206; Blackburn v. McKinlay, 3 Chy. Ch. 65; Wake v. Parker, supra. That rule applied not only where a bill was filed, but in all applications made exclusively on the wife's behalf: Re Waugh, 15 Beav. 508; Cooney v. Girvin, 1 Chy. Ch. 94; and this practice was not altered by the Judicature Acts in England: Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830. Where the wife sued by next friend, the husband was still often required to be a party, and he was usually made a defendant: Wake v. Parker, supra; Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830; see, however, Aboulaff v. Oppenheimer, 47 L. T. N. S. 702; 52 L. J. Q. B. 309; unless he had no adverse interest, in which case he might be co-plaintiff: Meddowcraft v. Campbell, 13 Beav. 184; Beardmore v. Gregory, 2 H. & M. 491; Davis v. Prout, 7 Beav. 288. Rule 314.

So where a suit was brought against a married woman as having separate estate it was necessary to join her husband and generally the trustees of such estate as defendants: see Atwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 722; Hancocks v. Lablache, 3 C. P. D. 197; McFarlane v. Murphy, 21 Gr. 81; Collett v. Dickenson, 11 Ch. D. 687; Flower v. Buller, 15 Ch. D. 665.

A change was introduced in 1872, by The Married Woman's Property Act, 35 Vict. c. 16, (see Rev. Stat. 1877, c. 125, sec. 20), which was as follows:— M. W. Act of 1872.

"20. A married woman may maintain an action in her own name for the recovery of any wages, earnings, money and property by this or any other Act declared to be her separate property, and shall have in her own name the same remedies, against all persons whomsoever for the protection and security of such wages, earnings, money, and property, and of any chattels or other her separate property for her own use, as if such wages, earnings, money, chattels and property belonged to her as an unmarried woman, and any married woman may be sued or proceeded against separately from her husband in respect of any of her separate debts, engagements, contracts or torts, as if she were unmarried." 35 V. c. 16, s. 9. Suits by married women. Suits against.

It seems to have been established in Lawson v. Laidlaw, 3 Ont. App. 77, that the personal property enjoyed by a married woman under The Married Women's Property Acts of 1859 and 1872 and real estate enjoyed by her under the Act of 1872, were her "separate property" within the meaning of the above sec. 20 so as to enable her to sue alone in respect thereof.

Dower not set apart was held to be separate estate: Douglas v. Hutchinson, 6 Ont. 581.

After the Act of 1872 in those cases in which it allowed a married woman to be sued alone, or enabled her to sue without a next friend, it was not necessary to make her husband a party, unless he had an interest, and was made a party in respect of that interest: see McFarlane v. Murphy, 21 Gr. 80; Boustead v. Whitmore, 22 Gr. 222; Murdoch v. O'Sullivan, 25 Gr. 392; but if the husband was joined as a co-plaintiff, the wife was required to sue by next friend, otherwise the rule applied that the suit was that of the husband: Re Spencer & McDonald, 19 Gr. 467; Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 434.

The Act of 1872 enabled a wife to sue alone and without a next friend in relation to such estate only as by that, or any other Act, is declared to be her "separate property": Redman v. Brownscombe, 6 P. R. 84; Hooper v. Maitland, 7 P. R. 50. If the property did not answer the description of separate property, she was compelled to sue by next friend: Pruyn v. Soby, 7 P. R. 44. The Act of 1872 was then the only Act which gave the quality of separate estate to unsettled property of a married woman; and whether or not her unsettled real property acquired that quality depended upon whether the marriage took place before or after 2nd March, 1872: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 125, s. 20, and Godfrey v. Harrison, 8 P. R. 272.

Rule 97 of the original J. A. 1881, was the next step, and followed in a great measure, but was also an extension of, the Act of 1872. Original Rule 97.

The Act of 1872 rendered a wife capable of being sued at law, as before the Act she could be in Equity, separately from her husband in respect of her separate engagements, contracts or torts; but it was only in respect of her separate property, or her contracts in regard to any separate business carried on by her: see Berry v. Zeiss, 32 C. P. 231, that she could sue alone. The original Rule 97 enabled her to sue alone, not only in respect of her separate

Rule 314. estate, but also in cases relating to her separate engagements, contracts or torts; and by leave in all other cases in which theretofore a next friend was necessary, upon giving security for costs, if the Court should think fit.

Under the corresponding English Rule a married woman in receipt of a separate income of £1,150 was not required to give security for costs on obtaining leave to defend separately: Noel v. Noel, 13 Ch. D. 510. So a married woman suing alone without a next friend, and having sufficient separate property to pay costs of the action, was not required to give security: Brown v. North, 9 Q. B. D. 52.

There was held to be nothing in the Rule to preclude the Court from exercising the power to give leave after action brought: Kingsman v. Kingsman, 6 Q. B. D. 122, where refusal to stay an action was considered equivalent to leave to sue without next friend.

Present practice, under R. S. O., 1887, c. 132.

On 1st July, 1884, The Married Woman's Property Act, 1884, (47 Vict. c. 19), came into operation (now R. S. O. 1887, c. 132), and the capacity of a married woman to sue and be sued, will now be governed by s. 3 of that Act, and thenceforward a married woman plaintiff will stand in the same position so far as security for costs is concerned as any other plaintiff: Threlfall v. Wilson, 8 P. D. 18, though she has no separate estate: Re Isaac, 30 Ch. D. 418; and even though the cause of action may have arisen prior to 1st July, 1884: Severance v. Civil Service Supply, 48 L. T. N. S. 485; James v. Barraud, 31 W. R. 786; 49 L. T. N. S. 300.

Section 3 of the R. S. O. c. 132, is as follows:—

Married woman to be capable of holding property as a feme sole.

"3. (1) A married woman shall be capable of acquiring, holding, and disposing by will or otherwise, of any real or personal property as her separate property, in the same manner as if she were a feme sole, without the intervention of any trustee.

(2) A married woman shall be capable of entering into and rendering herself liable in respect of and to the extent of her separate property on any contract, and of suing and being sued, in all respects as if she was a feme sole, and her husband need not be joined with her as plaintiff or defendant, or be made a party to any action or other legal proceeding brought by or taken against her; and any damages or costs recovered by her in any such action or proceeding shall be her separate property; and any damages or costs recovered against her in any such action or proceeding shall be payable out of her separate property, and not otherwise.

(3) Every contract entered into by a married woman shall be deemed to be a contract entered into by her with respect to and to bind her separate property, unless the contrary is shewn.

(4) Every contract entered into by a married woman with respect to and to bind her separate property, shall bind not only the separate property which she is possessed of or entitled to at the date of the contract, but also all separate property which she may thereafter acquire."

This section is in the terms of the Eng. Act of 1882, 45 & 46 V. c. 75.

So far as it enlarges the liability of a married woman or her capacity to contract it is not retrospective. Sub-sections (3) and (4) have been held not to be retrospective so as to include contracts made before the Act: Conolan v. Leyland, 27 Ch. D. 632; Turnbull v. Forman, 15 Q. B. D. 234; Scott v. Wye, 11 P. R. 93.

Sub-sec. (4) does not enable a married woman, who has no separate property, to contract so as to bind separate property she may afterwards acquire: see Re Shakespear, 30 Ch. D. 169; Palliser v. Gurney, and other cases, infra.

The Act seems to apply in the case of all married women, whether married before or after 1st July, 1884, to enable them to sue or be sued alone after that date, whether in respect of a cause of action arising before or after that date: James v. Barraud, 49 L. T. N. S. 300; 31 W. R. 786, an action for trespass committed before the Act brought in her own name: Gloucester, etc. v. Phillipps, 12 Q. B. D. 533, an action of contract: Weldon v. Winslow, 13 Q. B. D. 784; Weldon v. DeBathe, 14 Q. B. D. 339; Lowe v. Fox, 15 Q. B. D. 667, actions for torts.

Under 47 V. c. 19, s. 22 (now repealed), the right to sue, and the liability to be sued under the Act of 1872 were preserved; see Scott v. Wye, supra. Rule 314.

Time under the Statutes of Limitations runs against a married woman from the commencement of the Act: Weldon v. Neal, 32 W. R. 828, 51 L. T. N. S. 289: see also Re Lady Hastings, 35 Ch. D. 94.

Section 14 of R. S. O. c. 142 is as follows:—

"14. Every woman, whether married before or after this Act, shall have in her own name against all persons whomsoever, including her husband, the same remedies for the protection and security of her own separate property, as if such property belonged to her as a feme sole, but, except as aforesaid, no husband or wife shall be entitled to sue the other for a tort. In any proceeding under this section it shall be sufficient to allege such property to be her property; and in any proceeding under this section a husband or wife shall be competent to give evidence against each other." Remedies of married woman for protection and security of separate property.

A husband may bring an action against his wife for money lent and for money paid at her request after marriage: Butler v. Butler, 14 Q. B. D. 831; affirmed in appeal, 16 Q. B. D. 374: see McGregor v. McGregor, 20 Q. B. D. 529; and a wife may sue her husband to recover possession of her real estate: Till v. Till, 15 Ont. 133.

R. S. O. 1877, c. 125, s. 20, was held to affect procedure only, and not to render a married woman liable in respect of her contracts except in the same way as she was formerly liable in Equity, that is to say, her liability was made to depend upon the possession of separate estate; and that fact was therefore required to be alleged: Darling v. Rice, 1 Ont. App. 46; Standard Bank v. Boulton, 3 Ont. App. 93; see Field v. McArthur, 25 C. P. 167; 27 C. P. 15. See also per Bramwell, L.J., Atwood v. Chichester, 3 Q. B. D. 723; and Durrant v. Ricketts, 3 Q. B. D. 177. These authorities were followed in subsequent cases, though not without expressions of dissent on the part of some of the Judges: see Clarke v. Creighton, 45 U. C. Q. B. 514, ; Griffin v. Patterson, 45 U. C. Q. B. 536; Hessin v. Baine, 2 Ont. 302; G—— v. R——, 9 P. R. 174 and Anon, 1 C. L. T. 730. See also Jones v. Elderton, W. N. 1884, 39. Liability dependent on possession of separate estate under Act of 1872.

It was at first supposed that the intention of the English Act of 1882, and of the above Ont. Act of 1884, was to make the material change that the power of suing and being sued, in respect of a contract, should be, as in the case of a feme sole, not regulated by the possession of separate estate, and some of the earlier cases decided in England under the Act of 1882 tended to shew that the plaintiff need not aver the possession of separate estate as the foundation of her right to sue; that the married woman might be sued "as if she was a feme sole," and unless she, by pleading, raised the question of separate estate or of its being bound, judgment might be "recovered against her"; but that since "any damages or costs recovered against her," are to be "payable out of her separate property and not otherwise," execution could only issue against, and therefore only in the event of her possessing, such separate property: see Gunston v. Maynard, 75 L. T. Jour. 102; Brown v. Morgan, 12 L. R. Ir. 122; and Perks v. Mylrea, W. N. 1883, 64, in which the apparently conflicting decision in Moore v. Mulligan, W. N. 1884, 34, is explained: The Quebec Bank v. Radford, 10 P. R. 619. The cases were, however, not uniform, and later cases were not consistent with this view: Jones v. Elderton, W. N. 1884, 39; Gloucestershire Banking Co. v. Phillips, 12 Q. B. D. 533; Re Shakespear, Deakin v. Lakin, 30 Ch. D. 169; and it is to be observed that in Gunston v. Maynard, supra, it was shewn that the defendant had separate estate. Effect in this respect of the present Act, R. S. O., c. 132.

When the point came before the Court of Appeal, however, it was decided that the disability of a married woman to contract was only removed by the Act, so as to enable her to enter into a binding contract in respect of her separate property. If she has no separate property she cannot contract. A plaintiff, therefore, alleging in his statement of claim a contract by a married woman must allege and prove the existence of separate property, at the time of entering into the alleged contract: Palliser v. Gurney, 19 Q. B. D. 519; Tetley v. Griffith, 36 W. R. 96; 57 L. T. N. S. 673; Meager v. Pellew, 14 Q. B. D. 973; Beckett v. Tasker, 19 Q. B. D. 7.

Rule 314.

In England the Practice Masters' Rules provide specially (see (38), Snow & Winstanley Ann. Prac. 1888, p. 1100; Wilson Jud. Act, 7th Ed. 706) that when a married woman sues alone, or is sued, it must appear upon the face of the writ that she is suing, or being sued, in respect of her separate estate. There is no corresponding provision in the Ont. Rules, but the construction placed upon the Act is, as in England, that a married woman must have separate estate to found a liability on a contract, and a plaintiff must allege and prove the existence of separate estate in respect of which she is entitled to contract: Molsons Bank v. Drew, 9 C. L. T. 107; Moore v. Jackson, 9 C. L. T. 334; 25 C. L. J. 409; Bank of Commerce v. Woodcock, (before Ferguson J., 16 Oct. 1889).

The law remains as before the Act, that separate property which is subject to a restraint on anticipation, is not separate property upon which a judgment can operate: Bursill v. Tanner, 13 Q. B. D. 691; Myles v. Burton, 14 L. R. Ir. 238; Scott v. Morley, 20 Q. B. D. 120; Beckett v. Tasker, 19 Q. B. D. 7; see also Pike v. Fitzgibbon, 17 Ch. D. 454; Smith v. Lucas, 18 Ch. D. 531; Re Holgate, 34 Ch. D. 385; Re Dixon, 35 Ch. D. 4; Smith v. Whitlock, 34 W. R. 414; Roberts v. Watkins, 46 L. J. Q. B. 552; Re Glanville, 31 Ch. D. 532; Re Andrews, 30 Ch. D. 159; except (under sec. 20 of the Act) a judgment on a contract entered into before marriage, which is unaffected by such a restraint, contained in any settlement of her property, made by the married woman herself: see Bursill v. Tanner, supra. It would seem, therefore, that the possession of such separate estate only, will not be sufficient to enable her to enter into a contract: see Beckett v. Tasker, supra.

The execution by a married woman of a general power of appointment by will makes the property appointed liable to meet her debts: see sec. 6 of the Act. This was not the case before the Act and the section does not apply in the case of a contract entered into before the Act: Re Roper, 59 L. T. N. S. 203.

The Act, in enlarging the capacity of a married woman to take property as her separate property, does not affect the rule that on a gift to a husband, his wife, and a third party, the husband and wife take one moiety and the third party the other moiety: Re Jupp, 59 L. T. N. S. 129.

Where a wife is sued on a contract made before marriage there is no need to shew the possession of separate estate at the time of entering into the contract or at the time of judgment: Downe v. Fletcher, 21 Q. B. D. 11; more fully reported, 59 L. T. N. S. 180. Quære, whether judgment in such case will be restricted to property not subject to any restraint on anticipation as in Scott v. Morley, infra: see Downe v. Fletcher, 59 L. T. N. S. 181, per Lord Coleridge; and Axford v. Reid, 22 Q. B. D. 548, decided under the English M. W. Act of 1870.

In the case of a contract entered into after 1st July, 1884, both separate property at the date of the contract, and all separate property thereafter acquired, will be liable to satisfy any judgment recovered: see sec. 3, (4) of the Act.

Form of judgment under Act of 1872.

This was not so before the Act. In England the form of order against a married woman was for an inquiry as to the separate estate which she had at the time of the contract, and still has, with a declaration that the claim in question may be recovered out of it: see Picard v. Hine, L. R. 5 Chy. 274. McQueen v. Turner, 30 W. R. 80; 30 W. R. 428; Davis v. Belleuden, 46 L. T. N. S. 797; Robinson v. Pickering, 50 L. J. Chy. 527; Gallagher v. Nugent, 8 L. R. Ir. 353; Darrant v. Ricketts, 8 Q. B. D. 177; King v. Lucas, 23 Ch. D. 712, and a receiver of it might be appointed by the same order: Re Peace v. Waller, 24 Ch. D. 405. A charge by a married woman upon her separate estate was held sufficient evidence of separate estate to entitle plaintiff to an inquiry: London Discount Alliance Co. v. Kerr, 1 Cab. & El. 5. In Ontario under the Act of 1872 the judgment was similar: Lawson v. Laidlaw, 3 Ont. App. 91, 92; Wallace v. Hutchinson, 3 Ont. 398.

Under present Act.

The form of judgment, under the present Act, against a married woman as settled in Scott v. Morley, 20 Q. B. D. 132 is as follows:

"It is adjudged that the plaintiff recover £ and costs to be taxed against the defendant, such sum and costs to be payable out of the separate property as hereinafter mentioned and not otherwise; and it is ordered that execution herein be limited to the separate property of the said defendant not subject to any restraint against anticipation, unless by reason of s. 19 (s. 20 of Ont. Act) of The Married Woman's Property Act, such property shall be liable to execution notwithstanding such restriction." Rule 314.

See also Quebec Bank v. Radford, 10 P. R. 619; Turnbull v. Forman, 15 Q. B. D. 234; Kinnear v. Blue, 10 P. R. 465; Cameron v. Rutherford, ib. 620.

This is not a personal but a "proprietary" judgment: per Bowen L.J. in Scott v. Morley, 20 Q. B. D. at p. 128. The married woman is not liable; it is only her separate property which is made liable.

A writ of sequestration against the "estate and effects" was held to be in proper form, but would only operate on separate property, not subject to any restraint on anticipation: Hyde v. Hyde, 59 L. T. N. S. 529; 36 W. R. 708.

The property liable may be reached in execution in the usual way: Barker v. Westover, 5 Ont. 121-2; Lawson v. Laidlaw, supra; and see Perks v. Mylrea, W. N. 1884, 64; Peace v. Waller, 24 Ch. D. 405. Execution.

In actions in this Province against a married woman for a tort committed by her, it was held under the Act of 1872 that the husband was not a proper party, but the wife was to be sued alone, and that her liability was not dependent upon her possession of separate estate: Amer v. Rogers, 31 C. P. 195; Barker v. Westover, supra. This seems to be in accordance with the opinions expressed by Hagarty, C.J., in Stone v. Knapp, 29 C. P. 609, Spragge, C., in McFarlane v. Murphy, and Wilson, J., in Wagner v. Jefferson, 37 Q. B. 577, 578. Under the present Act it is held in England that the husband and wife may be sued jointly, or the wife may be sued alone, for torts committed by her after marriage: Seroka v. Kattenburg, 17 Q. B. D. 177; see Scott v. Morley, 20 Q. B. D. at p. 125; Bahin v. Hughes, 31 Ch. D. 390; but as to the law in Ont. see Amer v. Rogers, supra. Actions of tort.

In actions by a married woman for a tort suffered by her, unconnected with her separate estate, her husband was, even after the Act of 1872, required to be a party plaintiff: see Amer v. Rogers, 31 C. P. 199; but under the present Act it would seem that the wife may sue alone: Weldon v. Winslow, 13 Q. B. D. 784; Spahr v. Bear, before Boyd, C., 2 Oct. 1889.

A married woman in sole occupation of a house bought by her out of her own earnings may sue alone, without her husband, in an action for trespass: Weldon v. De Bathe, 14 Q. B. D. 339.

See generally on the present law in Ontario, 3 C. L. T. 63; and in England 87 L. T. Journ. 419.

It is not easy to see what cases are not provided for by The Married Women's Property Act, and in which, therefore, under clause (a) of the present Rule, a married woman may sue by next friend. The Act renders a married women capable of suing and liable to be sued "in all respects as if she were a feme sole." The Act of 1884 had before these words, the words "either in contract or in tort or otherwise." In the Revision of the Rules, these words have been omitted, as giving no additional force to the language, and as being inappropriate under the present system, which does not recognize different forms of action: Spahr v. Bear, supra. Next friend.

It is also left in doubt whether in cases where a next friend may be necessary the practice formerly existing in Chancery applies, such as for instance the rule that the next friend must be a solvent person: see Re Thompson, Stevens v. Thompson, 38 Ch. D. 317.

The following summary of the principal decisions under the former practice may however be useful:

The defendant may raise the question of want of next friend by motion to stay proceedings till a next friend is appointed: McPherson v. McCabe 1 Chy. Ch. 250; Pruyn v. Soby, 7 P. R. 44; Aboulof v. Oppenheimer, 47 L. T. N. S. 702; 52 L. J., Q. B. 309; and formerly by demurrer: Jessop v. McLean, 15 Gr. 489; Blackburn v. McKinlay, 3 Chy. Ch. 65; but a demurrer would not now be a proper course: see Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 434 and notes to Rule 384. Objection for want of next friend, how taken.

Rule 315.

A question whether a next friend was necessary was not allowed to be taken upon a motion to limit the time for the appointment of a new next friend. The original order was required to be first rescinded: Olmstead v. Rutherford, 7 P. R. 140, and see Shelley v. Goring, 8 P. R. 36; Webster v. Leys, 10 P. R. 86; 5 Ont. 599; and Re Thompson, Stevens v. Thompson, 38 Ch. D. 317.

The objection was one that formerly might be waived by conduct, as it stands on the same footing as the right to security for costs: Mallory v. Mallory, P. R. 446; but see now Martano v. Mann, 14 Ch. D. 419, where it was held that since the Judicature Acts the Court has a judicial discretion to direct security for costs to be given at any time, and that the old rule as to waiver by step taken is abrogated: see also note to Rule 1245.

If the next friend is not appointed in a reasonable time, a motion may be made to limit the time therefor, or, in default, that the action be dismissed: Thompson v. McCabe, supra. The time limited is the same as upon an application to limit the time for furnishing security for costs, as to which: see Grant v. Winchester, 6 P. R. 56.

A defendant cannot act as next friend of a married woman plaintiff: Payne v. Little, 13 Beav. 114: Bennett v. Sprague, 4 C. L. J. 45; see Lewis v. Nobbs, 8 Ch. D. 591; except perhaps a merely formal defendant: Taylor v. Taylor, 16 L. J. N. C. 66. The next friend must be a person of substance, as he is liable for the costs: Hind v. Whitmore, 2 K. & J. 458; Rann v. Lawless, 1 Chy. Ch. 333; Van Winkle v. Chaplin, 2 Chy. Ch. 98; Re Thompson, Stevens v. Thompson, 38 Ch. D. 317. If not solvent an order may be made, on motion of defendants, to stay proceedings till a new next friend be appointed or security for costs given: Slovel v. Coles, 3 Chy. Ch. 421. Where such an order had been made and, not being complied with, the action was dismissed with costs, a second action by another next friend was stayed till the costs of the first were paid: Re Payne, Randle v. Payne, 23 Ch. D. 288.

A next friend of a married woman plaintiff must be authorized to act as such, otherwise the action may be dismissed on the application of the defendant. Where a next friend's authority was disputed by defendant, and not deposed to by the next friend, the action was dismissed with costs, payable by the next friend: Schjott v. Schjott, 19 Ch. D. 94: see also Cook v. Fryer, 4 Beav. 16. A writ issued by a next friend without employing a solicitor was set aside with all the proceedings: Swann v. Swann, 43 L. T. N. S. 530.

The next friend may be changed by the married woman on notice to the defendant: Eastman v. Eastman, 2 Chy. Ch. 183; Harvey v. Boomer, 3 Chy. Ch. 11.

Where parties are numerous.

315. Where there are numerous parties having the same interest in one action, one or more of such parties may sue or be sued, or may be authorized by the Court to defend, in such action, on behalf of, or for the benefit of, all parties so interested. J. A. Rule 98.

This is the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 9, (1883, R. 131), and corresponds with what had long been the practice of the Court of Chancery: see Dan. Ch. Pr. 5th ed. 207, et seq., 1088; Thomson v. Victoria Mutual Company, 29 Gr. 56.

A plaintiff suing under this Rule must indorse his writ accordingly: see Rule 224, and Hynes v. Fisher, 4 Ont. 78.

In De Hart v. Stevenson, 1 Q. B. D. 313, it was held that one part-owner of a ship might sue under this Rule on behalf of himself and his co-owners for freight. So also one underwriter on behalf of all: Leathley v. McAndrew, W. N. 1875, 259; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 58; one of a number of co-owners of a patent: Sheehan v. G. E. Ry., 16 Ch. D. 59; or bondholders: Fraser v. Cooper, Hall & Co., 21 Ch. D. 718; or policy holders in an Insurance Company: Thomson v. Victoria Mutual Company, 29 Gr. 56; or shareholders of a Company: International Wrecking Company v. Murphy, 12 P. R. 423. See also Bergman v. McMillan, W. N. 1881, 39.

In Andrews v. Salmon, W. N. 1888, 102, (see also ib. 176,) defendants were authorized to defend on behalf of all the members of the committee of a club. Rule 316.

This Rule was acted on in a case where certain charitable bequests in a will, if held invalid would go to the next of kin, and four of the next of kin besides the widow of the testator, and the Atty.-Gen. as representing the charities had been served, and it appeared that there were a large number of next of kin, many of whom were unknown, and service upon others would be difficult and expensive. An order was made declaring that the next of kin were sufficiently represented by those before the Court: Gillies v. McConochie, 18 C. L. J. 179.

Where a person suing on behalf of himself and others is disentitled to sue on his own behalf, he cannot do so on behalf of the others interested: Dillon v. Raleigh, 13 Ont. App. 53.

In suits by one on behalf of all others of a particular class the other members of the class, if fairly represented, are bound by the judgment: Commissioners of Sewers v. Gellatly, 3 Ch. D. 610; Leathley v. McAndrew, W. N. 1876, 38; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 24; Burt v. British Nation Life Assurance Association, 4 DeG. & J. 158, 174; Barker v. Walters, 8 Beav. 97. Where one of the class objects to the proceedings, he may, on applying, be made a party defendant: Wilson v. Church, 8 Ch. D. 552; Fraser v. Cooper, 21 Ch. D. 718. That is the proper course if he is really not represented by the plaintiff. He cannot otherwise appeal from an order obtained by the plaintiff: Watson v. Cave, 17 Ch. D. 19; unless perhaps in a case where a person has already been made a defendant in the same interest as the applicant, and appointed under this Rule to represent that interest: see Fraser v. Cooper, etc., 21 Ch. D. 718.

A person fairly represented will not be allowed to attend the proceedings unless he may be joined as a party: Conybeare v. Lewis, 48 L. T. N. S. 526.

316. In any case in which the right of an heir-at-law or of the next of kin, or of a class depends upon the construction which the Court may put upon an instrument, and it is not known or is difficult to ascertain who is or are such heir-at-law or next of kin or class, and the Court considers that in order to save expense or for some other reason it will be convenient to have the question or questions of construction determined before such heir-at-law, next of kin or class, shall have been ascertained by means of inquiry or otherwise, the Court may appoint some one or more person or persons to represent such heir-at-law, next of kin or class, and the judgment of the Court in the presence of such person or persons shall be binding upon the party or parties or class so represented. J. A. Rule 99. Persons appointed to represent a class.

Same as the Eng. R. June, 1876, R. 7 (1883, R. 154).

Where upon the construction of a will, questions had arisen as to what classes of representatives of the testator were entitled, and great difficulty was foreseen in attempting to find the heir, who in the result might be held not entitled, an order was made under this Rule appointing persons to represent the various classes of persons, some or one of which might be held to be entitled before the questions of construction came on to be decided: Re Peppitt's Estate, Chester v. Phillips, 4 Ch. D. 230.

Rule 317. affected by an order directing accounts and inquiries, are not bound by proceedings under that order, at any rate where they ought to be served, unless they are served with notice of the order or an order, has been made appointing a member of their class to represent them: May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347.

In Re Rees, Rees v. George, 49 L. J., Chy. 568, persons who had not been parties, but had been served with notice of decree, were directed to be served with notice of hearing on further consideration, where an order was asked for against them personally.

In Re Cooper, Cooper v. Vesey, 20 Ch. D. 611, one of four trustees under a will was a beneficiary and son of the testator and bore the same name. He, personating the testator, mortgaged the trust estate, and employed the mortgage money for his own use. After his death the remaining trustees brought an action against the mortgagees and beneficiaries to have the mortgage declared void. It was held that the plaintiffs represented the beneficiaries and that the latter were improperly made parties, and an order directing the mortgagees to pay their costs was therefore reversed on appeal.

In Re Pringle, 17 Ch. D. 821, an action by legatees for construction of a will, the defendants the executors, two of the next of kin, were at the hearing authorized to represent the absent next of kin.

In Cook v. Fearn, 27 W. R. 212, representation of an unascertained class, viz., the next of kin of the plaintiff, was dispensed with.

See also Loveap v. Smith, 15 Ch. D. 655; Hobbs v. Reid, W. N. 1876, 95; and Beale v. Ruston, W. N. 1878, 179; Moore v. Siskin, 53 L. T. N. S. 815.

Partners may sue in firm name.

317. Any two or more persons claiming or being liable as co-partners may sue or be sued in the name of the respective firms, if any, [of which such persons were co-partners at the time of the accruing of the cause of action]; and any party to an action may in such case apply [to the Court or a Judge] for a statement of the names of the persons who [were, at the time of the accruing of the cause of action,] co-partners in any such firm, to be furnished in such manner, and verified on oath or otherwise, as the Judge may direct. [Provided that, in the case of a co-partnership which has been dissolved, to the knowledge of the plaintiff, before the commencement of the action, the writ of summons shall be served upon every person sought to be made liable.] J. A. Rules 100, 501 and Eng. R. 1883, 136.

The power to partners to sue and be sued in the name of their firm was first given by the Jud. Act 1881, Rule 100, now 317. In such cases, if partners are suing in the name of the firm, they must, on the demand of the defendant, disclose the names of the partners; and whether suing or being sued, they may be ordered by a Judge, on the application of any party to the action, to make such disclosure: Rules 251 and 317. If a firm is sued as such, service may be effected either upon any one or more of the partners, or at the principal place of business of the partnership upon any person having the control or management of the business. The partners are to appear individually in their own names, but all subsequent proceedings go on in the name of the firm: Rule 228.

After judgment against the firm, execution may issue against any property of the firm, or against any person admitted or adjudged to be a partner, or against any person served as a partner with the writ who has failed to appear. If the judgment creditor claims to be entitled to issue execution against any one else as a partner in the firm, he may apply for an order to that effect, and an issue may be directed to try the question : Rule 876. Rule 317.

This Rule is the same as the Eng. Rule 1883, 136, except that for "to the Court or a Judge" the Eng. R. has "to a Judge." This alteration to suit our practice has apparently by reason of a slip not been carried into the subsequent part of the Rule where the furnishing of the statement is to be as the Judge may direct.

The original Rule 100 and Eng. R. 1875, O. 16 r. 10, did not contain the other words in brackets. The question therefore arose whether the Rule applied to persons only who were at the time of the commencement of the action, partners in an existing firm, or also to persons who were partners at the time the debt was contracted, but who had ceased to be so at the time of bringing the action, either by the firm being dissolved, or new partners having come in and former partners retired. In ex p. Blain, 12 Ch. D. 533, James. L.J., pointed out the difficulty, and he and Brett, L.J., expressed doubt whether in a case where A. B. & C. were partners at the time of bringing the action and E. F. & G. at the time of the contract, the same firm name being used by both, the firm could be sued. In ex p. Young, 19 Ch. D. 124, Lord Selborne, without absolutely expressing an opinion, seemed inclined to agree with the views of Brett, L.J., who thought that the Rule authorized the suing, in the name of their firm, the members of a partnership dissolved before the issue of the writ, in respect of a cause of action which arose during the existence of the firm, Cotton, L.J., thought the Rule applied only to a partnership existing at the time when the writ issued. The point was not in that case decided, as the majority of the Court held that the judgment was not at any rate binding on a member of the dissolved firm who had not been served with the writ as a partner, nor had admitted on the pleadings that he was, nor had been adjudged to be, a partner : see Rule 876. Subsequently, in Davis v. Morris, 10 Q. B. D. 436, the question again arose, and it was expressly held by Watkin Williams, J., that under the original Rule the right to sue partners in the name of their firm was not limited to the case of partners carrying on business at the date of the writ ; and also that it is a question of fact whether the plaintiff intended to sue under the firm name former partners as well as those who were members of the firm at the commencement of the action.

The view of Brett, L.J., was followed in Ontario in Wilson v. McKay, 20 C. L. J. 368 ; S. C., Wilson v. Rodger, McKay & Co., 4 C. L. T. 548 ; 10 P. R. 355 ; and is now expressed in the above Con. Rule that the point may be clear.

Where an individual has entered an appearance in an action against a firm there must be a novation to render him liable for a debt contracted before he was a member, the fact that the individual had undertaken to indemnify the firm is not enough : Cripps v. Tappin, 1 Cab. El. 13. See Scarf v. Jardine, 7 App. Cas. 345.

A judgment obtained against some partners is a bar to an action for the debt against others not sued : Kendall v. Hamilton, 4 App. Cas. 504. See Re Hodgson, Beckett v. Ramsdale, 31 Ch. D. 177 ; 34 W. R. 127 ; 55 L. J. Chy. 241 ; Cambefort v. Chapman, 19 Q. B. D. 229.

In Escott v. Gray, 39 L. T. N. S. 121, it was held that a cost book mining company, though unincorporated, might be sued by its partnership name.

As to the effect of partners severing in their defence and not raising the same defences, see Cropper v. Smith, 53 L. J. Chy. 891 ; and Smith v. Cropper, 10 App. Cas. 249.

A plaintiff in a class suit cannot under this Rule be compelled to disclose the names and addresses of the persons on whose behalf he sues : Leathley v. McAndrew, W. N. 1875, 259.

A form of notice of motion for a statement of the partners under this Rule is given in the App. No. 11, and a form of order in No. 131.

The order for the statement cannot be enforced by attachment under Rule 523 : Pike v. Keene, 24 W. R. 322.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 318, 319. Person trading under firm name.

318. Any person carrying on business in the name of a firm, apparently consisting of more than one person, may be sued in the name of such firm. J. A. Rule 101.

Same as Eng. R., June, 1876, R. 8; (1883, 137.)

Appearance must be entered by such a person in his individual name: see Rule 288, and Taylor v. Collier, 30 W. R. 701.

Court may proceed though some of the parties interested are not before it.

319. Where questions arise between parties, who are some only of those interested in the property respecting which the question arises; or where the property in question is comprised with other property in the same settlement, will, or other instrument, or is the property of an intestate, the Court may adjudicate on the questions arising between such parties without making the other parties interested in the property respecting which the question arises, or interested under the same settlement, will, or other instrument, parties to the action; and without requiring the whole trusts and purposes of the settlement, will, or instrument, or the whole estate of the intestate, to be executed or administered under the direction of the Court, and without taking the accounts of the trustees or other accounting parties, or ascertaining the particulars or amount of the property touching which the question or questions have arisen, or of the whole estate or assets; but where the Court is of opinion that the application is fraudulent, or collusive, or that for some other reason the application ought not to be entertained, it may refuse to make the order asked. Chy. O. 57.

The Court may under this Rule execute one or more of several specific trusts embraced in an instrument without making all the persons interested in the other trusts embraced therein parties: Parnell v. Hingston, 3 Sm. & G. 337. But some of the parties interested on both sides of the question involved must be before the Court: Swallow v. Binns, 9 Hare App. xlvii. The Court has refused to permit a plaintiff at the hearing to strike out the names of defendants whom he had improperly omitted to serve with a subpœna to hear judgment, and proceed in their absence although such parties had merely a nominal interest: Lanham v. Pirie, 2 Jur. N. S. 1201, and see Quantz v. Smelzer, 6 P. R. 228; but where at the hearing it was discovered that an order pro confesso against certain defendants had been vacated by a subsequent amendment, the Court pronounced a decree saving the rights of such defendants: Waddle v. McGinty, 15 Gr. 261. A decree for foreclosure could not be made under this Rule as against some only of the parties interested in the equity of redemption: Caddick v. Cook, 32 Beav. 70. But where the parties interested in the equity of redemption are numerous, the Court may, under Rule 306, award judgment, and direct that parties so interested be made parties in the Master's Office, but such order can only be made, when one or more parties interested in the equity of redemption, are already parties to the action.

The Rule applies to applications made under The Trustee Relief Act, 1850, and some out of several parties entitled to the equity of redemption were held entitled to apply under that Act for a reconveyance: Re Sharpley's Trusts, 1

W. R. 271. The Rule also applies to parties to special cases : Swallow v. Binns, 9 Hare App. xlvii ; Re Brown, 29 Beav. 401. Rule 320.

When the Court proceeds under this Rule in the absence of any parties interested, the absent parties are not bound by the proceedings : Doody v. Higgins, Hare App. xxxii.

Cases where one of a class may sue without joining others.

320. It shall not be competent to a defendant to take an objection for want of parties in any case to which the seven sub-clauses next hereinafter set forth apply.

Residuary legatee, etc.

1.—A residuary legatee, or next of kin, may have a judgment for the administration of the personal estate of a deceased person without serving the remaining residuary legatees or next of kin.

Legatee whose legacy is charged on realty.

2.—A legatee interested in a legacy charged upon real estate ; or a person interested in the proceeds of real estate directed to be sold, may have a judgment for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, without serving any other legatee or person interested in the proceeds of the estate.

Residuary devisee or heir.

3.—A residuary devisee, or heir, may have the like judgment, without serving any co-residuary devisee, or co-heir.

One of several c. q. t.

4.—One of several cestuis que trustent, under a deed or instrument, may have a judgment for the execution of the trusts of the deed or instrument, without serving any other of such cestuis que trustent.

In actions for protection of property.

5.—In all cases of actions for the protection of property pending litigation, and in all cases in the nature of waste, one person may move on behalf of himself, and of all persons having the same interest.

Administration against one c. q. t.

6.—An executor, administrator, or trustee, may obtain a judgment against any one legatee, next of kin or cestui que trust, for the administration of the estate or the execution of the trusts.

Assignee of chose in action may sue without joining assignor.

7.—An assignee of a chose in action may institute an action in respect thereof without making the assignor a party thereto. Chy. O. 58 ; J. A. Rule 102. (See Imp. Act 15 & 16 Vict. c. 86, s. 42.)

The English Rule, 1883, R. 155-160 are to the same effect as clauses 1-6.

The object of this Rule is to save unnecessary expense, and where unnecessary parties are made to the action, the Court will refuse to charge the estate with

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 320. extra costs thereby occasioned: Rodgers v. Rodgers, 13 Gr. 457; Bradley v. Wilson, Ib. 645, and it would seem that the plaintiff may be ordered to pay such costs.

Persons interested in an estate the subject of administration proceedings to which they have not been made parties, and whose rights may be affected, are not bound by the proceedings unless they are served with notice of the order: see Rule 322; or an order has been made appointing a member of their class to represent them: see Rule 316: May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347.

Persons not made parties, must be served with judgment.

Although in the several cases mentioned in this Rule the action may be commenced and judgment obtained without making all persons interested parties to the action, yet the persons who but for this Rule, would be necessary parties to the proceedings must under Rule 322, be served with a copy of the judgment, unless the Court, or Master, dispense with the service, and it is not until "after such service," that they are bound by the proceedings. Whether persons upon whom service of the judgment is dispensed with, are bound by the proceedings as if they had been actually served, is not stated in the Rule, and it is possible that they would not be so bound: see Doody v. Higgins, 9 Hare App. xxxii.

Persons from whom an account is sought, should be made parties.

Notwithstanding this Rule, all persons from whom an account is sought, must be made parties in the first instance: Latch v. Latch, L. R. 10 Chy. 464; Walker v. Steigmann, L. R. 12, Eq. 152; Rolph v. U. C. Building Society, 11 Gr. 275, 278-9; Hopper v. Harrison, 28 Gr. 22; and the judgment cannot be varied under Rule 322, at the instance of persons served with the judgment so as to direct the taking of accounts for which no foundation is laid in the pleadings: Foster v. Foster, L. R. 3 Chy 330, at all events not without giving the party from whom an account is sought an opportunity to adduce evidence to show that the account should not be ordered; and persons served with the judgment, have no greater right to call the original defendants to account, than they would have if such persons had been originally made co-defendants in the action; thus in an action by a remainderman for an account, it was held that a tenant for life served with the judgment could not claim an account of the income: Whitney v. Smith, L. R. 4 Chy. 513.

All persons in the same interest with the plaintiff, necessary to be made parties, except perhaps infants, should be made co-plaintiffs; where they are made defendants in consequence of their refusal to join as plaintiffs, they will be refused their costs: Ling v. Smith, 25 Gr. 246.

Action by residuary legatee.

SUB-CLAUSE 1.—Where the action is brought by one of several residuary legatees, the plaintiff sufficiently represents all the residuary legatees, and the others are not entitled as of course to appear in the Master's Office, by a separate solicitor, and if they do, they may be refused their costs; to entitle them to costs some sufficient reason should be stated in the Master's report, for their being represented by a separate solicitor: Gorham v. Gorham, 17 Gr. 386.

Personal representative a necessary party to action for administration.

The legal personal representative is ordinarily a necessary party to an action for general administration, and it is necessary to allege that the person named as the legal personal representative has proved the will or obtained letters of administration as the case may be: Penny v. Watts, 2 Ph. 149; Re Marshall, Fowler v. Marshall, 1 Chy. Ch. 29; Kelly v. Ardell, 11 Gr. 579; Simons v. Millman, 2 Sim. 241; Lowry v. Fulton, 9 Sim. 104; Zimmerman v. O'Reilly, 14 Gr. 646; Groves v. Lane, 16 Jur. 1061; Cooke v. Gittings, 21 Beav. 497; Beardmore v. Gregory, 2 H. & M. 491; Caru v. Hills, L. R. 15 Eq. 79; Dowdeswell v. D., 9 Ch. D. 294; Rowsell v. Morris, L. R. 17 Eq. 20; but see Rule 312. But probate, or administration, obtained by the alleged personal representative pendente lite before the trial of the action, will be sufficient to bind the estate: Bateman v. Margerison, 6 Hare 496; Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433; and this was held even though the objection was taken by defendant in his answer; Edinburgh Life Assurance Co. v. Allen, 19 Gr. 593; and see Stump v. Bradley, 15 Gr. 30; McDonald v. McDonald, 14 Gr. 133, where probate not obtained until after judgment. Judgment for the general administration of a deceased person's estate may now be granted against an executor de son tort where the legal personal representative is not a party, Rule 312; formerly it was otherwise: Rowsell v. Morris, L. R. 17 Eq. 30; Outram v. Wyckoff, 6 P. R. 150; Re Kirkpatrick, Stevenson v. Kirkpatrick, 10 P. R. 4; but see Re Lovett, Ambler v. Lindsay, 3 Ch. D. 198. Judgment for administration, however, cannot be granted against one of several executors who have proved, even though the absent executor be out of the jurisdiction: Re Freeborn, F. v. Carroll, 6 P. R. 188; Latch v. Latch, L. R. 10 Chy. 464. All the executors who have proved, and all who have acted, even though they have not proved, are necessary parties: Vickers v. Bell, 4 D. J. & S. 274; Hamp v. Robinson, 3 D. J. & S. 97; Latch v. Latch, supra; but an executor who has renounced, or who has neither proved nor acted, need not be made a party: Forsyth v. Drake, 1 Gr. 223; Willis v. Walker, Vern. 90 (n) 2; Stinson v. Stinson, 2 Gr. 508; but where the plaintiff brought a suit for administration against one of three executors and trustees, alleging in the bill that the others had never acted, and the bill having been served by publication, on a hearing pro confesso the Court refused to make a decree in the absence of the other two executors and trustees as parties, or of proof of the facts alleged, accounting for their not being made parties: Lane v. Young, 17 Gr. 100. The renunciation of an executor under R. S. O. c. 50, s. 62, is peremptory and cannot be recalled on the death of the acting executor: Allen v. Parke, 17 C. P. 105; and after renunciation he cannot execute a power of sale given to him, qua executor: Travers v. Gustin, 20 Gr. 106; and see Re Delaronde, 19 Gr. 119. As to the acts which will render an executor liable, notwithstanding his renunciation of probate, see Vannatto v. Mitchell, 13 Gr. 665. Rule 320.

The representative of a deceased executor who fully accounted to the surviving executor, need not be made a party: Webster v. Leys, 28 Gr. 471.

An executor proving the will, after judgment has been obtained, against another executor who had previously proved, might formerly have been added as a party by a supplemental order: Guthrie v. Watrond, 22 W. R. 723; and it would seem he might under the present practice be brought before the Court under an order to continue proceedings, see Rules 621, 622. A general decree for administration was granted in a creditor's suit against an administrator ad litem, it being alleged in the bill that there was no personal estate, and the parties interested in the realty having allowed the bill to be taken pro confesso against them: Dey v. Dey, 2 Gr. 149, but see remarks of Spragge, C., in Garrao v. McDonald, 20 Gr. 130.

Action for protection of estate until probate.

An action for protecting the estate until probate cannot be joined with an action for administration; formerly a bill so framed was demurrable for want of parties: Rawlings v. Lambert, 1 J. & H. 458; Overington v. Ward, 34 Beav. 175; and see Tempest v. Camoys, 35 Beav. 201; and Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392; but now any objection to an action on the ground of the absence of necessary parties, can not under The Judicature Act be taken by demurrer, but the question must be raised on motion to add the necessary parties: Werdermann v. Société Generale D'Electricité, 45 L. T. N. S. 514; 18 C. L. J. 18; 19 Ch. D. 246; Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 439.

Removal of assets may be restrained.

The removal of the assets out of the jurisdiction will be restrained by injunction even though the deceased's domicile was out of the Province: Shaver v. Gray, 18 Gr. 419.

Real representatives, when necessary parties.

Where the action relates to the realty as well as the personalty, unless the executor is also trustee, or devisee, of the realty, or of some part of it: Stewart v. Hunter, 14 Gr. 132, or entitled thereto under The Devolution of Estates Act, (R. S. O. c. 108) s. 4, it is necessary to join the heir, or if the lands be devised, then the devisee, or one or more of the devisees: Calvert, 151, 153; Rule 970 post. But execution against the lands of a deceased person might, prior to The Devolution of Estates Act, be issued upon a judgment against his personal representative, although those interested in the realty were not parties to the action; R. S. O. c. 64, s. 26, and see McEvoy v. Clune, 21 Gr. 515.

No action for admin-

No action can be brought by a legatee, or next of kin, against a personal representative before a year has elapsed from the death of the testator, or

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 320.

Administration lies by legatee, or next of kin, within a year of death.

intestate, 33 Geo. 3, c. 8; Slater v. Slater, 3 Chy. Ch. 1; Virian v. Westbrooke, 19 Gr. 461; but see Wallis v. Wallis, 9 Ir. Chy. 511; Prosser v. Mossop, 29 W. R. 439. But an action for the protection of the estate simply, may be brought by a legatee, or next of kin, against an executor de son tort before the lapse of the year; Beardmore v. Gregory, 2 H. & M. 491; but not for administration as well: Rawlings v. Lambert, 1 J. & H. 458; Overington v. Ward, 34 Beav. 175. Formerly the High Court had no power to appoint an executor, in place of executors who have become incompetent to act through bodily infirmity, that could only be done by the Surrogate Court; nor would the High Court appoint a trustee in place of such executors: Corrigal v. Henry, 2 Gr. 310; but in Re Moore, McAlpine v. Moore, 21 Ch. D. 778. Under The Trustee Relief Act a trustee was appointed to discharge the duties of an executrix who retired: and see Re Morphy before Boyd, C., 9th April, 1887, and it would seem that Rule 311 does not extend the power of the High Court in this respect: see Rule 311, note. But where an executor has become insolvent a receiver will be appointed: Harrold v. Wallis, 9 Gr. 443; and see Meacham v. Draper, 2 Gr. 316.

High Court can not appoint trustee in place of executor.

When personal representative has distributed estate after advertising under statute, administration refused.

Where the personal representative has duly advertised for creditors under R. S. O. c. 110, s. 36, and has distributed the estate, that is an answer to a subsequent action against him for administration, by a legatee: see Newton v. Sherry, 1 C. P. D. 246; or by a creditor; Clegg v. Rowland, L. R. 3 Eq. 368, even though he have retained money in his hands to answer legacies, because from the time he sets apart moneys to answer legacies, he ceases to hold them as executor, but becomes then a trustee thereof for the legatees: Ib.; Cameron v. Campbell, 27 Gr. 307; Ballard v. Marsden, 42 L. T. N. S. 763; Galbraith v. Duncombe, 28 Gr. 27; but see Noble v. Brett, 24 Beav. 499. But if he has notice of a creditor's claim, he is not discharged because it was not sent in: Wood v. Wood, Markwell's Case, 21 W. R. 135; Re Land Credit Co. of Ireland, W. N. 1872, 210; and if the advertisement is insufficient he is not protected: Wood v. Weightman, L. R. 13, Eq. 434.

Account in Surrogate Court.

Where also there had been an accounting in the Surrogate Court by the personal representative, and no objection made for eight years, the right to a further account in the High Court of Justice was held to be barred: Bell v. Landon, 18 C. L. J. 178.

Personal representative distributing estate without advertising under statute, remains liable to creditors.

Personal representatives distributing an estate without advertising under the Statute (R. S. O. c. 111, s. 36), or without the authority of the Court remain liable to a creditor, though they had no notice of his claim: Knatchbull v. Fearnhead, 3 My. & Cr. 126; Noble v. Brett, 24 Beav. 499; Jefferys v. Jefferys, 19 W. R. 464; and also to legatees; and where the executor has distributed under a mistaken construction of the will he is liable to the parties injured: Hilliard v. Fulford, 4 Ch. D. 389; Boulton v. Peard, 3 D. M. G. 608; Doyle v. Blake, 2 Sch. & L. 243; but he would have a right to recoup himself out of any further payments due to those who had been overpaid: Dibbs v. Goren, 11 Beav. 483; and would also seem entitled to call on them to refund the money overpaid them, but not any interest thereon: Jervis v. Wolferstan, L. R. 18 Eq. 18.

Infant not liable to account.

An infant executor or administrator is not liable to account for assets received by him whilst a minor: Nash v. McKay, 15 Gr. 247; Hindmarsh v. Southgate, 3 Russ. 324; Merchants' Bank v. Monteith, 10 P. R. 334; 20 C. L. J. 377. But a judgment for an account against a trustee who has received moneys while an infant ought to be general in its terms and not confined merely to his receipts after he comes of age: In Re Garnes, Garnes v. Applin, 31 Ch. D. 147.

Payment of legacy, is admission of assets.

Payment of a legacy in full, is, prima facie, an admission of assets to pay all legacies in full, but it is open to explanation: Coleman v. Whitehead, 3 Gr. 227. Where an executor in a residuary account stated that he retained £500 to meet outstanding legacies he was held to be precluded from afterwards showing that the statement was a mistake: Brewster v. Pryor, 55 L. T. N. S. 771.

Administration re-

Administration has been refused where the estate was sworn by the executors not to have exceeded £50: Foster v. Foster, 19 Gr. 463; but see Re Falconer,

1 Chy. Ch. 273; and where the plaintiff's claim as legatee, only amounted to $28, notwithstanding it was alleged that there were other legacies for a considerable sum remaining unpaid, administration was refused, though the suit was unopposed: Reynolds v. Coppin, 19 Gr. 627. Administration has also been refused where the applicant was a partnership creditor of the deceased and it was proved that his separate estate was insufficient to pay his separate creditors: Re Barnard, Edwards v. Barnard, 32 Ch. D. 447; 55 L. T. N. S. 40. Rule 320. fused when estate small.

This Rule applies to applications for administration on summary applications in Chambers, under Rules 965, 969, 972; but it is to be noted that Cl. 1 of this Rule is confined to actions by a residuary legatee, or next of kin, and Rule 2 is confined to actions by a legatee interested in a legacy charged upon real estate, and therefore neither of these clauses extend to actions by specific legatees, or pecuniary legatees whose legacies are not charged on real estate. Rule applies to application in Chambers for administration.

Sub-Clause 4.—A new trustee may be appointed in an action by one of several cestuis que trustent: Jones v. James, 9 Hare, App. lxxx.

A suit by one of two cestuis que trustent to recover an annuity charged upon land devised to the defendant, was held maintainable without making another cestui que trust interested in another annuity charged on the same land, a party: Rees v. Engleback, L. R. 12 Eq. 225.

But parties who claim adversely to the trust could not formerly be made parties to a suit for the execution of the trust: Attorney-General v. Avon Corporation, 3 D. G. J. & S. 637, where it is said that Talbot v. Earl of Radnor, 3 My. & K. 252, to the contrary had been constantly disapproved and never followed; but see now Rules 301, 302.

All persons from whom an account is required must be made original parties to the action, see Rule 320, p. 346; thus a cestui qui trust who has been party to a breach of trust, is a proper party: Jesse v. Bennett, 6 D. M. & G. 609; and a stranger or a creditor, who has joined in the breach of trust may be joined: Land v. Blanshard, 4 Hare 9; Bank of Toronto v. Beaver & Toronto Mutual Fire Insurance Co., 26 Gr. 102; Consett v. Bell, 1 Y. & C., C. C. 569; Stainton v. The Carron Co., 18 Beav. 146. But if a trustee commits a breach of trust, the person participating is not a necessary party to an action for the general administration of the trust estate: Tiffany v. Thompson, 9 Gr. 244. Persons from whom account required, must notwithstanding be parties.

Where a suit was brought by a remainderman for an account against trustees, the tenants for life who were served with the decree, were held not entitled to call the trustee to account as to the income: Whitney v. Smith, L. R. 4 Chy. 513.

The Court will decree the execution of a trust of lands in a foreign country when the trustee is resident within the jurisdiction: Smith v. Henderson, 17 Gr. 6; and see Re Robertson R. v. R., 22 Gr. 449. Execution of trust in foreign country.

Sub-clause 5.—Where property was offered for sale by a trustee under depreciatory conditions of sale as to title, the sale was restrained in a suit instituted by one of several cestuis que trustent: Dance v. Goldingham, L. R. 8 Chy. 902. Sale by trustee restrained in suit by one of several c. q. t.

Where the action is necessary and proper, and has resulted in benefit to the co-owners, they may be compelled to bear their proportion of the expense of the action, according to the advantage they are shown respectively to have derived from the proceedings: Gage v. Mulholland, 16 Gr. 145.

Sub-clause 6.—Where an action for administration is brought by the personal representative, some special circumstances requiring the intervention of the Court must be shown: Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392; Barry v. Barry, 19 Gr. 458; Grant v. Grant, 10 P. R. 211; 18 C. L. J. 99. It seems that he has no right to institute an action merely to obtain an indemnity by passing his accounts: White v. Cummins, 3 Gr. 602; Cole v. Glover, 16 Gr. 392. As to whether a deficiency of assets to pay debts in full is alone a sufficient reason, seems doubtful: Sweetnam v. Sweetnam, 6 P. R. 149; Re Ette, 6 P. R. 159; Re Shipman, Wallace v. Shipman, 24 Gr. 177; Marsh v. Marsh, 7 P. R. 129; Re Jack, Jack v. Jack, 13 C. L. J. 358; Re Bromley, (Blake, V.C., 28th Jan., 1878); and see further, Rule 969. Where there were leaseholds it was held that the executor was entitled to bring an action in order to obtain indemnity against liability on the In action for administration by personal representative, special circumstances must be shown.

covenants in the lease: Re Bosworth, Howard v. Easton, 45 L. T. N. S. 136; Dodson v. Sammell, 1 Dr. & Sm. 575; 4 L. T. N. S. 44; but see R. S. O. c. 110, s. 34. The absence of a legatee beyond the jurisdiction, whom the executors are unable to discover, was held to be a sufficient ground for the executors coming to the Court: Re Wade, Dee v. Wade, 18 Gr. 485.

He may be ordered to pay costs.

Where the action is unnecessarily brought by the personal representative, he may be ordered to pay costs, or may be refused his costs: see cases cited Rule 972.

Executor may begin suit before probate.

An executor may begin an action before obtaining probate, but he must obtain probate before the trial: Newton v. Metropolitan Railway Co., 1 Dr. & Sm. 583; Trice v. Robinson, 16 Ont. 433; or before a defence is filed that he is not executor; Simons v. Milman, 2 Sm. 241; but see Edinburgh Life Assurance Co. v. Allen, 19 Gr. 593; and the same rule applies to administrators: Humphreys v. Humphreys, 3 P. Wms. 350. But where an executor, before probate, brought an action to recover an asset of the estate, which the defendant had refused to deliver up until probate should be obtained, the action was stayed as being frivolous and vexatious: Turn v. Commercial Banking Company, 12 Q. B. D. 294; 50 L. T. N. S. 365; and an executor intermeddling with the estate before probate may be restrained from so doing, and a receiver may be appointed at the suit of a co-executor: In re Moore, 13 P. D. 36; 58 L. T. N. S. 386.

Executor suing one of several co-executors.

An executor cannot under this order bring an action against one or two co-executors who have proved, without making the other a party: Lutch v. Lutch, L. R. 10 Chy. 464.

But c. q. t. need not be joined.

An action may be brought by a trustee against his co-trustee to recover and secure the trust fund, without joining any of the cestuis que trustent as parties: Horsley v. Fawcett, 11 Beav. 565; Baynard v. Woolley, 20 Beav. 583; May v. Selby, 1 Y. & C. C. C. 235; Peak v. Ledger, 4 D. G. & S. 137; Franco v. Franco, 3 Ves. 75; and an action may also be brought by the trustee against one cestui que trust to recover the trust fund without making the other cestuis que trustent parties: Bridget v. Hames, 1 Coll. 72.

Action by personal representatives to enforce claim against realty.

An executor who advanced money to pay the price of certain land held by his testator as lessee with a right of purchase, was held entitled to enforce his claim against the land, for the advances so made, the personal estate being exhausted: Lannin v. Jermyn, 9 Gr. 160.

A personal representative who is a creditor of the estate may, where the personality is exhausted, obtain judgment against a devisee for administration of the reality devised. To such an action the heir-at-law was a proper party; but where the devisee made no objection in his answer to his not being joined, and the plaintiff alleged by his bill that there were no lands descended, a decree was made in the absence of the heir, for the administration of the realty: Tiffany v. Tiffany, 8 Gr. 158; but see now The Devolution of Estates Act (R. S. O. c. 108) s. 4.

Assignee must take beneficially.

And absolutely.

Bond to secure alimony is not assignable.

Defences existing at date of assignment may be set up.

SUB-CLAUSE 7.—See R. S. O. c. 122, s. 6. The assignee must take the beneficial interest in the claim assigned. He cannot sue in his own name alone, either under the statute, or under this Rule, where the assignment is made merely to enable him to bring the action: Wood v. McAlpine, 1 Ont. App. 234; and see National Provincial Bank of England v. Harle, 44 L. T. N. S. 585; 6 Q. B. D. 626; but see Burlinson v. Hall, 12 Q. B. D. 347; 50 L. T. N. S. 723; 53 L. J. Q. B. 222; where the assignment is only by way of security, the assignor may sue in his own name notwithstanding the statute: Hostraeser v. Robinson, 23 C. P. 350; Dawson v. Graham, 41 U. C. Q. B. 532. A bond to secure alimony to a married woman was held not to be assignable so as to enable the assignee to sue in his own name: Reiffenstein v. Hooper, 36 U. C. Q. B. 295; Re Robinson, 27 Ch. D. 160. Any defence existing against the assignor at the date of the assignment may be set up in an action by the assignee: Exchange Bank v. Stinson, 32 C. P. 158. Where the plaintiff has only a partial assignment, the assignor should be made a party; but the objection when taken at the hearing was cured by the assignor appearing by counsel and submitting to be added as a party plaintiff, and bound by the proceedings: Yates v. Great Western Railway Company, 24 Gr. 495.

321. In all the above cases the Court, if it sees fit, may require any other person to be made a party to the action, and may, if it sees fit, give the conduct of the action to such persons as it deems proper; and may make such order in any particular case, as it deems just for placing the defendant on the record on the same footing in regard to costs as other parties having a common interest with him in the matter in question. Chy. O. 59.

Rules 321, 322. In such cases Court may require persons to be joined as parties.

Where proceedings are necessary against persons who have had dealings with the testator whose estate is being administered, the executor has a right to the conduct of the cause unless misconduct has been proved: Longbourne v. Fisher, 40 L. T. N. S. 124.

Where trustees were accounting parties they were not given the conduct of proceedings: Allen v. Norris, W. N. 1884, 118.

Conduct of a sale was given to the party most interested in getting a good price: in Woolley v. Colman, 30 W. R. 769; and Davies v. Wright, 32 Ch. D. 221.

Where the conduct of an administration action is given to a creditor he is entitled to costs as between solicitor and client: Re Richardson, Richardson v. Richardson, 14 Ch. D. 611; 43 L. T. N. S. 279.

As a general rule where two actions for administration have been commenced the conduct will be given to the plaintiff in the first, even though a decree may have been first obtained in the second. This rule is not however inflexible. There may be special circumstances which the Court will take into account such as the object of the first plaintiff in commencing his action, the amount of his interest, and the nature of his claim: Re Swire, Mellor v. Swire, 21 Ch. D. 647; Townsend v. Townsend, 23 Ch. D. 100; Re McRae, Forster v. Davis, 25 Ch. D. 16. See also Perrin v. Perrin, 3 Chy. Ch. 452, and Re Draggon, 8 P. R. 330, and notes to Rule 968.

Where the conduct of the cause was refused to a party, and he appealed, it was held that all parties were interested and should be served with notice: Sephton v. Quillam, 71 L. T. Jour. 264.

322. In all the above cases the persons who, but for Rule 320, would have been necessary parties to the action, are to be served with an office-copy of the judgment (unless the Court or Master dispenses with such service) indorsed with the notice set forth in Form No. 33 in the Appendix, and after such service, they shall be bound by the proceedings in the same manner as if they had been originally made parties to the action; and upon service of notice upon the plaintiff they may attend the proceedings under the judgment. Any party so served may apply to the Court to add to, vary, or set aside the judgment within fourteen days from the date of such service. Chy. O. 60, 587.

Persons who would be necessary parties except for Rule 320 must be served with judgment.

The Eng. Rule 1883, R. 162, make the service of such persons necessary only if directed by the Court or a Judge. See May v. Newton, in note to Rule 320, pp. 341-2, 346.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 322. Office copy to be served.

Office Copy to be Served.—An office copy of the judgment must be served. The copy of the judgment for service may be made an office copy, either by the Registrar, or Local Officer in whose office the judgment is entered, or by the Deputy Registrar, or Local Registrar, or Deputy Clerk of the Crown, at the place where the reference is being prosecuted: see Rules 19, 547. The office copy may be made, either by comparing the copy intended to be made an office copy, with the entry in the judgment book, or with another office copy.

All persons who (but for Rule 320) would have been necessary parties to action, must be served.

Who to be Served.—All parties, who, but for Rule 320, would have been necessary parties to the action, who have not been made parties by writ, must be served with the judgment, unless service be dispensed with. Infants and persons of unsound mind not so found who are interested must be served: Clarke v. Clarke, 20 L. T. O. S. 88, in such manner as the Master before whom the reference is being prosecuted directs: Rule 338. Before proceedings can be validly carried on against an infant or a person of unsound mind not so found, a guardian ad litem must be appointed for such person. Service of the office copy of the judgment on the Official Guardian ad litem seems of itself sufficient to constitute him guardian ad litem for infant parties requiring to be served under Rule 322; Rule 337; see Rule 3; but see notes to Rule 337. The procedure to obtain the appointment of a guardian ad litem for persons of unsound mind by order is not prescribed by these Rules: see Rule 338 and notes. Where a guardian ad litem is appointed by order, he must be served with the order appointing him guardian, and the office copy of the judgment. The Official Guardian is usually appointed guardian ad litem.

Infants.

Lunatics.

Service out of the jurisdiction may be directed: see Chalmers v. Laurie, 10 Ha. App. xxvii.; Strong v. Moore, 22 L. J. Chy. 917; or substituted service: Dan. Pr. 6th ed. 999.

Parties who are served, are bound by proceedings.

Effect of Service.—The person served is not liable to account, nor can a motion for an injunction be made against him: Walker v. Seligmann, L. R. 2 Eq. 152; Hopper v. Harrison, 28 Gr. 22; Rolph v. U. C. Building Society, 11 Gr. 275, 278-9; see, however, In re Rees, Rees v. George, 15 Ch. D. 490. Neither can he require the defendant to account any farther than if he had been himself an original defendant in the action: Whitney v. Smith, L. R. 4 Chy. 513. A party served, however, may impeach in the Master's office an instrument set up in answer to his claim as a legatee, on the ground of fraud: Darling v. Darling, Rosa's claim, 15 C. L. J. 112.

Whether the party served attend the proceedings or not, he is bound by the proceedings. Unless he gives notice to the plaintiff of his intention to attend the proceedings under the judgment, he is not entitled to service of notice of the proceedings in the Master's office: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441.

Persons who have been improperly served may move to set aside the service: Re Symons, Betts v. Betts, 54 L. T. N. S. 501.

Parties served may on notice to plaintiff attend the proceedings.

Attending Proceedings.—A person served is entitled, on giving notice to the plaintiff, to attend the proceedings. A party so attending, although entitled to notice of the future proceedings in the action, does not thereby become a party to the action: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441; Walker v. Seligmann, L. R. 12 Eq. 152; but see Re Rees, Rees v. George, 15 Ch. D. 490.

Costs where attending unnecessary.

Under Rule 55 the Master has power, among other things, to give special directions as to the parties who are to attend on the several accounts and inquiries: and see also Rule 334. A person served under Rule 322, and attending the proceedings without special leave, may be ordered to pay all the extra costs occasioned by his so attending, if it appear that his attendance was unnecessary: Sharp v. Lush, 10 Ch. D. 463; and see Daubney v. Leake, L. R. 1 Eq. 495: Re Marshall, W. N. 1879, 12.

Persons not attending proceedings not entitled to notice.

Persons served with the judgment, and not attending the proceedings, are not entitled to service of the warrant to settle the report: Green v. Measures, W. N. 1866, 122; nor of the notice of hearing on further directions: Lee v. Sturrock, W. N. 1876, 226. If any relief is intended to be asked against them they are entitled to notice, even though they have not attended the proceedings before the Master: Re Rees, Rees v. George, 15 Ch. D. 490.

Motion to vary Judgment.—The motion to vary, or set aside, the judgment must be made on notice to the plaintiff. The motion is to be made before a Judge in Court. In the Chancery Division, the motion should be set down to be heard on a Wednesday; and in the other Divisions on a Tuesday, or Friday; but see Rule 211 at present suspended. Two clear days' notice of the motion must be given: see Rule 479; and it must be set down at least the day before the day named for hearing the motion: see Rule 541. Rule 322. Parties served may move against judgment.

On the motion to vary the judgment by any person served with a copy, the Court will not direct the taking of accounts for which no foundation was laid in the pleadings or proceedings in the action, except perhaps on the terms of allowing the party from whom such account is sought, an opportunity to adduce evidence, to show why it should not be granted: Foster v. Foster, L. R. 3 Chy. 330; and see Murgatroyd v. Caldwell, 10 L. T. N. S. 410. Additional accounts and inquiries have been directed after the report, at the instance of a party subsequently served with the decree: Reeve v. Reeve, W. N. 1871, 52. Under the former practice in Chancery, any person served with the decree might rehear the cause: Ellison v. Thomas, 1 D. J. & S. 18.

Where the question intended to be raised does not appear on the pleadings or previous proceedings in the action, it may be necessary to present a petition in the nature of a bill of review under the former Chancery practice. No petition for leave to file this petition is necessary: Kidd v. Cheyne, 18 Jur. 348; Duggan v. McKay, 1 Chy. Ch. 380; and see Rules 782, 786.

It would seem that a purchaser under a judgment pronounced in an action constituted under Rule 320, is bound to see that it has been served on all necessary parties, so as to bind them by the proceedings, in the same way that a purchaser is bound to see that all necessary parties, are made parties to any other action in which a sale is directed by the Court. Prima facie, only the persons who are actually named as parties to the record are bound; Rule 322 forms an exception to this rule: see Reeve v. Reeve, W. N. 1871, 52, and Russell v. Romaine, 3 Ont. App. 635. Purchaser bound to see that all necessary parties are bound by the proceedings.

A purchaser, however, is not bound to inquire into the regularity of the proceedings antecedent to the judgment: Gunn v. Doble, 15 Gr. 655; Shaw v. Crawford, 4 Ont. App. 371; Collins v. Denison, 2 Chy. Ch. 465, and see R. S. O. c. 44, s. 10.

Dispensing with Service.—The Master, to whom an action is referred, as well as the Court, has under this Rule power to dispense with the service of a copy of the judgment. Formerly, where the Master dispensed with service he must have stated the reasons therefor in his report: see Chy. Ord. 587; but this provision has not been embodied in these Rules. Dispensing with service of judgment.

An advertisement may be published for persons who cannot be found to be served, as a condition of dispensing with service on them: see Rule 60. Advertisement.

Service on some of the next of kin, who were resident out of the jurisdiction was dispensed with: English v. English, 12 Gr. 441. An application to the Court to dispense with service may be made ex parte: Ib.

Absence from the jurisdiction is not of itself sufficient reason for dispensing with service: Chalmers v. Laurie, 10 Hare, App. xxvii.; Maybery v. Brooking, 7 D. M. & G. 673; Strong v. Moore, 22 L. J. Chy. 917. Absence from jurisdiction.

Whether parties on whom service of the judgment is dispensed with, either by the Court, or Master, are nevertheless bound by the proceedings, is nowhere stated; it would seem that they are in the same position as parties in whose absence judgment is pronounced under Rule 319, and that they are not bound: see Doody v. Higgins, 9 Hare, App. xxxii.; May v. Newton, 34 Ch. D. 347; but see Bunnett v. Foster, 7 Beav. 540. How far persons not served are bound.

Parties not having an interest at the date of the judgment cannot be brought before the Court under this Rule: Colyer v. Colyer, 11 W. R. 355; but see Rule 46.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 323, 324. Objection to non-joinder at hearing, judgment saving rights of absentees.

323. Where a defendant, at the trial or on motion for judgment, objects that an action is defective for want of parties, the Court, if it thinks fit, may pronounce a judgment saving the rights of the absent parties. Chy. O. 65.

The Court may now in every action deal with the matters in controversy, so far as regards the rights and interests of the parties actually before it: Rule 324.

The Court will only act under Rule 323, where justice can be done to all parties nothwithstanding the defective constitution of the action: Lambert v. Hutchinson, 1 Beav. 277, 286.

Cases in which Rule acted on.

Where in a suit to set aside an alleged fraudulent conveyance by a debtor, it appeared at the hearing that a note pro confesso entered against one of the defendants, the original debtor, had been waived by a subsequent amendment of the bill, the Court dismissed the bill as against that defendant, on the application of the plaintiff, without the dismissal being equivalent to a dismissal on the merits, and made a decree, saving the rights of that defendant: Waddle v. McGinty, 15 Gr. 261.

A decree has been made under Chy. Ord. 65, from which this Rule is taken in the absence—of the assignee of a bankrupt: Maybery v. Brooking, 7 D. G. M. & G. 673;—of a mortgagee: Feltham v. Clark, 1 D. G. & Sm. 307;—of a person entitled in a remote contingency: Daubuz v. Peel, 1 Coop. temp. Cott. 365;—of the heir-at-law of the last surviving trustee, and of the personal representative of a testator: Faulkner v. Daniel, 3 Hare. 199.

Objections for want of parties must be taken promptly.

An objection for want of parties should be taken as soon as possible, and not postponed until the trial, or motion for judgment: Lake v. South Kensington, 11 Ch. D. 121; Sheehan v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 59; 29 W. R. 69; the objection should be taken by motion, and not merely raised by statement of defence; Ib., and see notes to Rules 319, 324; and see Vallance v. Birmingham, 24 W. R. 454; Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830; 26 W. R. 280, where no costs of pleadings were allowed to plaintiff from the time the objection was taken.

Misjoinder.

324. No action shall be defeated by reason of the misjoinder of parties, and the Court may in every action deal with the matter in controversy so far as regards the rights and interests of the parties actually before it.

Adding and striking out parties.

(a) The Court or a Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and upon such terms as may appear to the Court or Judge to be just, order that the name of any party, (x) whether as plaintiff or defendant improperly joined, be struck out, and that the name of any party, whether plaintiff or defendant, who ought to have been joined, or whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the action, be added.

(x) i.e. person: Long v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 391.

(b) No person shall be added [or substituted] as a plaintiff suing without a next friend, or as the next friend of a plaintiff under any disability, without his own consent [in writing] thereto to be filed. Rule 324.

The words "in writing" were not in the original Rule.

(c) All parties whose names are so added [or substituted] as defendants shall be served with a writ of summons or notice in manner hereinafter mentioned, or in such manner as may be prescribed by any special order, and the proceedings as against them shall be deemed to have begun only on the service of such writ of summons or notice (y). J. A. Rule 103.

Same as Eng. Rule 1875, O. 16, r. 13 (1883 R. 133), except the words in brackets

(y) As to the words "only on the service of such writ of summons or notice," see The Bowesfield, 51 L. T. N. S. 128.

As a general rule where an action is brought against one only of several joint contractors, he is entitled to have his co-contractors joined as defendants and is not limited to serving them with a third party notice under Rule 329; Pilley v. Robinson, 20 Q. B. D. 155; Scarf v. Jardine, 7 App. Cas. 364; but where the party sued is on the face of the contract the sole contractor, and other persons are behind jointly interested, the contracting party, when sued, has no right to force the other persons on the plaintiff as joint contractors: Toronto & Hamilton Nav. Co. v. Silcox, 12 P. R. 622; see also Eyre v. Moring, W. N. 1884, 58.

The proper course for a defendant desirous of raising the objection that some one jointly liable with him has not been joined as defendant is to apply in Chambers to have the action stayed, shewing that the person alleged to be jointly liable with him, is within the jurisdiction: McArthur v. Hood, 1 Cab. & E. 550.

The first clause is an extension of the Chy. O. 53, which provided that no suit should be dismissed by reason of the misjoinder of persons as plaintiffs.

The Court of Chancery formerly under Chy. O. 65, exercised a similar power of dealing with the questions raised in a suit, wherever justice could be done to all parties notwithstanding misjoinder or nonjoinder: see Lambert v. Hutchinson, 1 Beav. 277, 286. Where necessary, the decree expressly saved the rights of absent parties.

From the provisions for adding parties contained in the sub-clause of this Rule, it would appear that "misjoinder" includes "non-joinder."

Misjoinder, though it cannot defeat an action, may affect the costs: Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830.

Misjoinder and non-joinder of parties are not since the Jud. Act grounds of demurrer: see Blake & Co. v. Moore, 8 L. R. Ir. 95; Werderman v. Société Générale, etc., 19 Ch. D. 246; Hunter v. Young, 4 Ex. D. 256 in notes to Rule 384; Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 434; Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370. The defendant's course is to apply under the present Rule to add, or strike out, parties, or require the plaintiff to do so; and the defendant should raise any objection of this kind that he may have, at the earliest possible moment: Sheehan v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 59, where the objection was not allowed though taken by the defence; see also Ruston v. Tobin, W. N. 1880, 19; Roberts v. Evans, 7 Ch. D. 830; Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370. Where the defendant's contention is that additional parties are necessary to enable the action to proceed at all, it would seem, however, that it is sufficient for him to take the objection by his defence, leaving the plaintiff to apply to add parties if so advised: see Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jones, 28 W. R. 653; 42 L. T. N. S. 754; 49 L. J. Chy. 726; Lydall v. Martison, 5 Ch. D. 780. Striking out and adding parties.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 324. A demurrer will still be proper where the plaintiffs are not persons entitled to bring the action, so that the objection is one of substance, and not merely that other parties should be also joined: McClenaghan v. Grey, 4 Ont. 329.

Clause (a) provides a cure for misjoinder and non-joinder, by striking out or adding parties. Applications under it may be made by either party, or the Court may act mero motu: Kino v. Rudkin, 5 Ch. D. 160. The power given is very extensive, and may be exercised at any stage of the proceedings, before trial on motion, and at the trial: Kino v. Rudkin, 6 Ch. D. 160, in a summary way: Rule 325. An order was made after delivery of a statement of claim: Anon. 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 25; but was refused as being asked for at an unreasonably late stage where the case had come on for trial and had been adjourned: Williams v. Andrews, W. N. 1875, 237; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 60. It cannot be made after final judgment: Attorney-General v. Corporation of Birmingham, 15 Ch. D. 423. In that case new parties had succeeded to the rights and liabilities of the defendants, and it was held on appeal, that the pleadings could not be amended to introduce these parties after final judgment, and that when it becomes necessary to enforce such a judgment against persons who had acquired a title after it was made, an action must be brought for that purpose. Where the judgment is not drawn up, however, and can therefore be recalled, the plaintiff may be allowed to amend and add parties: Keith v. Butcher, 25 Ch. D. 750.

An application to add as a defendant a person who ought to be, but has not been joined, ought to be granted or refused upon the same principles on which a plea in abatement for the non-joinder of such person would have succeeded or failed: per Lord Cairns in Kendall v. Hamilton, 4 App. Cas. 516.

Striking out parties.

Striking out Parties.—Under the former practice, if a party was improperly joined, the defendant might demur if the impropriety appeared on the face of the proceedings; otherwise it was necessary to defend, and proceed to a hearing of the cause. The present Rule enables the Court to strike out a party improperly joined, before expense is incurred.

If a defendant is improperly joined, he should apply to have his name struck out, at the earliest possible moment; but a defendant was struck out on his own application, though he had delivered a statement of defence upon which issue had been joined, and delay only influenced the decision as to the costs: Vallance v. Birmingham & Midland Land, etc., Corporation, 2 Ch. D. 369.

Where defendants did not move under this Rule to be struck out, but took part in the defence, they were held jointly liable with other defendants to the costs of the action: Twinbarrow v. Braid, W. N. 1878, 169.

The Court will not virtually try the cause, however, on such an application. Where, therefore, a plaintiff, a builder, sued for work and labour done, and made two persons defendants who occupied the position of lessee and lessor, alleging that there was a doubt which was liable to him, Lush, J., on the application of the lessor, refused to strike him out on his statement that the lessee was liable to do all repairs: Anon. W. N. 1875, 203; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 59. Under an order striking out a defendant and giving the plaintiff leave to amend, he may not amend by striking out another defendant, even though that defendant's interest was determined: Wymer v. Dodds, 11 Ch. D. 436; Elwon v. Vaughan, W. N. 1879, 69. A defendant sought to be struck out is entitled to notice, that he may be heard as to the question of his costs: Wymer v. Dodds, sup.

A defendant in ejectment, a tenant, whose landlord had obtained leave to defend, and whose lease had expired pending the suit, was not allowed to have his name struck out, as the plaintiff's security would thus be diminished: Johnston v. Oliver, 9 P. R. 353.

On grounds apart from any question of personal responsibility defendants on their own application may not be allowed to be struck out: see Heatley v. Newton, 19 Ch. D. 336.

Adding parties.

Adding Parties.—This Rule is to be read in connection with Rules 300, 301, 445: Edwards v. Lowther, 24 W. R. 434; and any person who might have been joined originally under the latter Rules may be added under this Rule.

see Smith v. Haseltine, W. N. 1875, 250; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 56; Lony v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 388, subject to the restrictions hereafter referred to, and to the power of the Judge in his discretion to refuse to interfere if injustice is likely to be done in any way by the addition: see Edwards v. Lowther, 34 L. T. N. S. 255. Rule 324. Adding parties.

The words "who ought to have been joined," in this Rule mean "ought, in order to do complete justice, to have been joined," and, as a general rule, "all parties against whom remedy or relief is sought should, if possible, be joined in the same action": per Archibald, J., in Edwards v. Lowther, 45 L. J. C. P. 419. There, an action was brought against a publisher of a newspaper for libel, and after issue joined the proprietor of the newspaper was added as a defendant on the plaintiff's application.

Where a plaintiff assigned his interest to a third person, who obtained an order giving him liberty to prosecute the suit in the name of the original plaintiff, it was held on the application of the defendant, that the assignee was bound to set forth the assignment, by amendment or otherwise, in the statement of claim, and that all proceedings after the order should be entitled in both causes: Secar v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121.

But the Courts do not interpret the Rules as empowering them to add parties at the instance of a defendant to the same extent as upon the plaintiff's application.

In an action to restrain defendants from using certain premises as a smallpox hospital, application was made under this Rule by the plaintiff, to join another person with his consent who was an inhabitant of the same neighbourhood, on the ground that since the action was commenced the plaintiff had given up his business and was going abroad. An order was refused, on the ground that the cause of action was injury to the plaintiff's own property only, and it was not necessary to enable the Court effectually to dispose of all questions in the action that anyone be added: Dalton v. St. Mary Abbotts, 47 L. T. N. S. 349.

Where the plaintiffs were lessees of eleven houses for a long term, one being sub-let, they, together with the sub-tenant, brought an action to restrain a nuisance, etc., subsequently the sub-tenant declined to go on. The other ten houses having been let in the meantime, two of the other sub-tenants were on application added as co-plaintiffs with their consent: House Property & I. Co. v. H. P. Horsenail Co., 29 Ch. D. 190.

Persons were added as defendants who appeared to be the persons really liable to plaintiffs, and were conducting the defence for the defendants sued: Adams v. Watson Manufg. Co., 15 Ont. 218; see 9 C. L. T. 81, where the decision was affirmed as to the terms of payment of costs imposed as a condition precedent to amending.

In Hathaway v. Doig, 6 Ont. App. 246, where the plaintiff in an action to restrain a nuisance appeared to have no interest, his wife being the owner of the property injured, an application to substitute the wife with her consent as plaintiff was refused, it being held that the suit was not merely not properly constituted but had no proper existence at all, and another person who had a right should not be substituted for a person who had no right to institute proceedings; see also New Westminster Brewery Co. v. Hannah, 24 W. R. 899; Walcott v. Lyons, 29 Ch. D. 584, where an action was brought by a life tenant against trustees for improper investment; the defence made was that the life tenant had acquiesced; a motion to add the tenant in remainder, who had not acquiesced, as co-plaintiff was refused; but see Rule 445.

An application to add parties must be made upon notice: Re Colbeck, Hall v. Colbeck, 36 W. R. 259: see notes to Rule 325.

Adding Plaintiffs.—The addition of a plaintiff is subject to the provision of clause (b) of this Rule, that the addition shall be by his consent; but if he consents, the addition may be made against the wish of the other plaintiffs if necessary as where the right of action has passed from the original plaintiff: Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 169: 29 W. R. 666. Adding plaintiff.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 324.

Adding plaintiffs.

Where a party brought an action in his own name instead of in the name of the person in whom the legal title of the property to be recovered was vested, an amendment was allowed adding such party: McIlwin v. F. Retts, 7 C. L. T. 159, Walcott v. Lyons, 29 Ch. D. 584: and see Ayscough v. Bullar, 41 Ch. D. 341.

In De Hart v. Stevenson, 1 Q. B. D. 313, one of the several co-owners of a ship, sued for freight dues; the defendant applied to add the other co-owners as plaintiffs, confessedly in order to obtain the benefit of their liability for costs. The application was refused, on the ground that it was not shown that the presence of the others was necessary in order to completely adjudicate upon and settle the question arising in the action; see also Harry v. Davey, 2 Ch. D. 721, and Walcott v. Lyon, supra.

In Long v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 388, an action was brought by a tenant for life for specific performance of an agreement, signed by her "for myself and those entitled after me," to accept a lease of a coal mine. After notice of trial the plaintiff died, and the persons entitled in remainder of whom the plaintiff's executor was one, wishing to adopt the suit, were, at their request, added as plaintiffs, at the trial. The question whether the action would nevertheless fail was not considered by the Court. Fry, J., said, "I think that at present I have nothing to do with that. The object of the provision was, not that a party's case should be framed so as to succeed, but that it can be adjudicated on by the Court, whether in his favour or against him."

In Cormack v. Grofrian, W. N. 1876, 22, the action was by a shipowner against consignees of the cargo for demurrage, and a counter-claim was put in for damage to the cargo. Leave was refused to the plaintiff to add as co-plaintiffs the other owners (perhaps because they did not consent), though it was admitted to be hard that the plaintiff should have to meet the counter-claim alone if others were liable as much as he.

In Beck v. Dear, W. N. 1876, 40; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 25, the addition of a plaintiff was refused where the object was to bring a counter-claim against him. See also Bank of Commerce v. Bank of B. N. America, 10 P. R. 158; Norris v. Beazley, 2 C. P. D. 80.

See also Seear v. Lawson, 16 Ch. D. 121, supra, where a plaintiff was in effect added on a defendant's application.

In Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 169, a trustee of a bankrupt plaintiff was added as a plaintiff, and the conduct of the action given to him on his own application, he alleging that the interest in the action passed from the plaintiff to him. A similar order was made in Bird v. Matthews, 46 L. T. N. S. [illegible] Woodward v. Shields, 32 C. P. 282, and notes to Rule 622.

In Saylor v. Cooper, 2 Ont. 398, where the equitable owner of land sued in respect of a right of way of necessity implied by a grant of land, [illegible] permitted to make the owner of the legal estate a co-plaintiff by amendment at the hearing.

Adding defendants.

Adding Defendants.—Whether a defendant will be added or not upon a defendant's application, depends upon whether the adjudication upon and settling of the questions arising in the action requires the presence of the person proposed to be added: Harry v. Davey, 2 Ch. D. 721. In general a defendant will not be added against the plaintiff's will, unless in the language of clause (a) his presence is necessary to enable the Court to effectually and completely settle all matters in question, and unless the parties will be prejudiced by his non-joinder: Ledue v. Ward, 54 L. T. N. S. 214. In Norris v. Beazley, 2 C. P. D. 80, a defendant sought to add a person as a defendant. The person sought to be added consented, and the object of the application was to enable such person to set up a counter-claim against the plaintiff. The plaintiff objected, and it was held that this Rule should not be made use of in a manner harassing to plaintiffs, by forcing them to include in their action persons against whom they do not seek to proceed, unless a strong case is made out, showing that in the particular case justice cannot be done without the person being brought in. Denman, J., there said, "we ought not to act upon it (the Rule) by adding a defendant without the consent of the plaintiff, except in cases where it is clearly made out that it is necessary to do so." See also Drage v. Hartopp, 28 Ch. D. 414; where one executor brought an action for foreclosure without joining either as plaintiff or defendant his co-executor who had absconded to avoid prosecution for fraud: and Toronto & Hamilton Navigation Co. v. Silcox, 12 P. R. 622, supra, and Sanders v. Peek, 50 L. T. N. S. 630; 32 W. R. 462.

The addition of a defendant contemplated by this Rule, is not of a person against whom the original defendant may have a remedy over; Hewitt v. Heise, 11 P. R. 47 (as to which see Rule 328); nor of a person claimed by a defendant to be liable to the plaintiff instead of himself: Leveuley v. Harrison, W. N. 1876, 39; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 26; Lovell v. Holland, W. N. 1876, 53; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 26. In such case the defendant can defend himself without the presence of the other party; and if the plaintiff does not proceed against the other party, the defendant is not injured.

In Byrne v. Brown, 22 Q. B. D. 657, lessors sued the son of the lessee who was entitled to the term, subject to a sub-lease to D., for damages for breach of covenant caused by dilapidations made by D. Under the terms of the sub-lease to D. (who was brought in under a third party notice) it was doubtful whether he was liable to indemnify the defendant, or only the executors of the deceased lessee. On defendant's application, the plaintiffs not objecting, the executors were added as defendants to enable them to get indemnity from D., and D. was held not entitled to object though the case might be different if plaintiffs objected.

In Day v. Radcliffe, 24 W. R. 844, an administration suit, where the plaintiff's title as a beneficiary under a will was doubtful, and the trustee under the will was the only defendant, the beneficiary interested in disputing the plaintiff's claim was added.

In Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 768, a defendant died, and the cause of action alleged in the claim did not survive. Upon the plaintiff's motion, alleging further facts which shewed a cause of action which did survive, the administrator of the deceased defendant was added. See also Rule 622.

In Head v. Bowman, 9 P. R. 12, the plaintiff sued for damages caused by the flooding of his lands by defendant's mill dam. The G. W. Ry. Co. had turned the waters of the stream into another channel, which was not deep enough to carry off all the water if the defendant's dam were removed, so that plaintiff could not obtain complete relief by succeeding against the defendant. Liberty was therefore given to add the Ry. Co.

Defendants might under the former Chancery practice and probably may still be added after the judgment, for the purpose of a motion for injunction to preserve the subject of the suit: Young v. Huber, 29 Gr. 49.

In Kitching v. Hicks, 9 P. R. 518, an action against an assignee for the benefit of creditors, claiming a lien on goods taken by the assignee, certain creditors claiming that they had a substantial interest in the subject of the action were on their own application, added as defendants.

In Dix v. G. W. Ry. Co., 34 W. R. 712; W. N. 1886, 130; 54 L. T. N. S. 830; 55 L. J. Chy. 797, the defendant Company covenanted separately with the plaintiff and two other covenantees by one indenture. The plaintiff sued for specific performance of the covenant without joining the separate covenantees. They were added on the application of the Company.

An officer of a corporation cannot be added merely for the purpose of discovery: Wilson v. Church, 9 Ch. D. 552. See notes to Rule 301.

In Kino v. Rudkin, 6 Ch. D. 160, a person to whom the defendant had assigned pendente lite was added at the trial at his own request. Where plaintiff had assigned his interest before suit it was doubted whether it was proper to allow the assignee to be added as plaintiff: Foster v. Ward, 9 L. R. Ir. 447.

In Molloy v. Kilby, 29 W. R. 127, it was held that persons, not parties, made defendants to a counter-claim and wishing to interrogate the plaintiff, should apply under this Rule to be made defendants to the original action.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 324.

In Hewitt v. Heise, 11 P. R. 47, it was held that the facts did not show a case for adding a defendant but rather for service of a notice under Rule 329 claiming indemnity.

Adding a defendant at his own instance.

Cases have arisen in which a third party has applied for leave to come in as a defendant. For such a case no express provision is made. In Mills v. Griffith, 45 L. J. Q. B. 771, an action of ejectment was brought by a lessor against a lessee who had incurred a forfeiture. On motion of a mortgagee of the lessee to be added as a defendant, the Court refused to make an order, holding that the questions involved in the action were wholly on the covenant between the lessee and lessor. In Wilson v. Church, 9 Ch. D. 552, a representative action, a bond-holder who had a substantial interest and disputed the plaintiff's contention, was, on his own application, added as a defendant. See also Watson v. Cave, and Kino v. Rudkin, supra, p. 359.

In Vavasseur v. Krupp, 27 W. R. 176, a foreign sovereign (the Mikado,) applied and was added as a defendant in order to enable him to apply to dissolve an injunction.

In Ferris v. Ferris, 9 P. R. 443, an action was brought by a father, to recover arrears under an annuity deed against his son who had absconded. The son's wife had barred her dower by the annuity deed and had brought a suit against her husband for alimony. She now applied to be let in to defend this action on the ground that it was collusively brought to defeat her suit for alimony, and defraud her of dower. She was let in to dispute the amount claimed.

Consent of person added as plaintiff.

The consent referred to in clause (b) must be proved: Turquand v Fearon, 27 W. R. 396; Mason v. Harris, Ib., 700; but before the present Rule it need not have been in writing. It was sufficient if the solicitor for the existing plaintiff stated that he was authorized to consent on behalf of the new plaintiff, the solicitor taking the ordinary responsibility of using a plaintiff's name: Cox v. James, 19 Ch. D. 55. The present Rule makes a change in the practice and requires the consent to be in writing. The objection that there is no consent of a plaintiff sought to be added may be taken by defendant: Turquand v. Fearon, supra; see also Jackson v. Krüger, 54 L. J. Q. B. 446; 52 L. T. N. S. 962; Tryon v. National Prov. 16 Q. B. D. 678.

The case of trustee and cestui que trust is no exception to this provision, the trustee's consent will be required in order to make him a co-plaintiff on the application of his cestui que trust: Besley v. Besley, 37 Ch. D. 648; so also where an assignee for the benefit of creditors was sought to be added as a plaintiff in an action by a creditor to set aside a fraudulent conveyance: Bank of London v. Wallace, 13 P. R. 176.

In Duckett v. Gover, 6 Ch. D. 82, a Company was made, by mistake of law, a defendant instead of a plaintiff. Time was given to obtain the consent of the Company to be joined as co-plaintiffs: see also Mason v. Harris, 11 Ch. D. 97, and Pender v. Lushington, 6 Ch. D. 70. Where a resolution of a Company had been passed that the Company's name should not be used in an action brought by a shareholder for himself and also in the name of the Company against directors alleging misapplication of the funds, the Company's name was struck out as plaintiff, and leave was given to amend the writ by adding the Company as defendants: Silber Light Co. v. Silber, 12 Ch. D. 717. In MacDougall v. Gardiner, 1 Ch. D. 13, 22, it was said that every litigation on a Company's behalf should be in the name of the Company if the Company really desires it. See also McHenry v. Lewis, 25 So. Jour. 777. Where there is a fraud committed by persons who can command a majority of votes, the majority may sue and the Company need not be plaintiff: see Atwool v. Merryweather, L. R. 5 Eq. 464; Menier v. Hooper, L. R. 9 Chy. 350; Mason v. Harris, 11 Ch. D. 107.

The consent must be filed.

Mortgagees were made co-plaintiffs with the mortgagor in Goodrich v. Everglyn Coal Co., W. N. 1889, 152, an action on covenants in a lease made by both mortgagor and mortgagees to defendants.

As to when mortgagees are necessary parties: see Saylor v. Cooper, 2 Ont. 398; Re Nickle v. Walkerton, 11 Ont 433, and Platt v. G. T. Ry. Co., Ib. 246.

Jessel, M.R., in Duckett v. Gover, 25 W. R. 554, said: "An application to strike out the name of a person added as plaintiff without his consent can only be made by the person so added:" but where proceedings were instituted without the authority of a Co. they were set aside at the instance of defendants: see Cape Breton Co. v. Fenn, W. N. 1881, 23. Rules 325, 326.

The authority given by a married woman to a next friend to sue for her is not a document which can be filed: Rogers v. Horn, 26 W. R. 432.

For the manner of service of added parties: see Rules 326 and 327.

325. Any application to add, or strike out, or substitute a plaintiff or defendant may be made to the Court or a Judge at any time before trial by motion, or at the trial of the action in a summary manner. J. A. Rule 104. How application is to be made.

The same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 14 (1883, R. 134).

An application to add or strike out parties should be made promptly: Sheehan v. Great Eastern Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 59; Williams v. Andrews, W. N. 1875, 237; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 60; Valance v. Birmingham, etc., 2 Ch. D. 369. It may be after delivery of statement of claim: Anon. 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 25; or at the trial, even during examination of witnesses: Ruston v. Tobin, W. N. 1880, 19; Kino v. Rudkin, 6 Ch. D. 160; House Property Co v. H. P. Horsenail Co., 29 Ch. D. 190; Gandy v. Gandy, 30 Ch. D. 57; though it may under the circumstances be then too late: Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jones, 28 W. R. 653; or in some cases after judgment if the party to be added does not object: see Re Mason, Turner v. Mason, W. N. 1883, 134, 147; sed quære, see Heard v. Borgwardt, W. N. 1883, 173 and 194, and Hurst v. Hurst, 21 Ch. D. 278, 289. Where it becomes necessary to enforce a judgment against persons who acquired title after it was made, an action must be brought: Attorney-General v. Council of Birmingham, 15 Ch. D. 423. But see cases under Rule 423, and Morgan v. Day, Dan. Pr. 5th Ed. 463 note (o), and Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 166.

The application is made in Chambers: see Wilson v. Church, 9 Ch. D. 552; and on notice: Tildesley v. Harper, 3 Ch. D. 277; Re Colbeck, Hall v. Colbeck, 36 W. R. 259; but an order nisi has under peculiar circumstances been made ex parte, to become absolute unless moved against within a time named in the order: Re Wortley, 4 Ch. D. 180; Wilson v. Church, supra.

The order, whether for adding, striking out, or substituting parties, is in the discretion of the Judge: and after trial it was held too late to add new plaintiffs and make a new case: New Westminster Brewing Co. v. Hannah, 24 W. R. 899.

326. Where a defendant is added [or substituted], unless otherwise ordered by the Court or Judge, the plaintiff shall sue out an amended writ of summons, and serve the new defendant with such writ, or notice in lieu of service thereof, in the same manner as original defendants are served. J. A. Rule 105. Amended writ where new defendant added.

Original Rule 105 was identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 16. r. 15. The words in brackets which were not in the original Rule are taken from Eng. Rule 1883 R. 135, which is to the same effect as the present Rule. Where the person added is out of the jurisdiction, the writ if originally issued for service within the jurisdiction, should before service be amended according to the form for service out of the jurisdiction: Keate v. Phillips, W. N. 1878, 186. The directions for service of the writ on new defendants do not meet the case of consolidated actions: Re Wortley, Culley v. Wortley, 4 Ch. D. 180, where the defendants were added to the consolidated action without service of any writ being required.

Where a sole plaintiff died after delivery of statement of claim and his executors took out the common order to revive, copies of the writ, order to revive and order adding a defendant were directed to be served on the added defendant: Austen v. Bird, W. N. 1881, 129; 17 C. L. J. 365.

Amended statement of claim.

327. If a statement of claim has been delivered previously to such defendant being added, the same shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or Judge, be amended in such manner as the making of the new defendant a party may render desirable; and a copy of the amended statement of claim shall be delivered to the new defendant at the time when he is served with the writ of summons or notice, or afterwards within 4 days after his appearance. J. A. Rule 106.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 16.

Contribution or indemnity between defendants and other persons.

328. Where a defendant is, or claims to be, entitled to contribution or indemnity, or any other remedy or relief over against any other person, or where from any other cause it appears to the Court or a Judge that a question in the action (a) should be determined, not only as between the plaintiff and defendant, but as between the plaintiff, defendant and any other person, or between any or either of them, the Court or a Judge may on notice (b) being given to such last-mentioned person make such order as may be proper for having the question so determined. J. A. Rule 107.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 17.

This Rule, with the next six Rules, provide machinery for giving effect to sec. 52. sub-s. 1 of the Ac

(a) "Question in the action:" as to the meaning of these words, see Horwell v. London General Omnibus Co., 2 Ex. D. 365; 46 L. J. Ex. 700; and Rice v. Alliance, etc., Gas Co., 12 L. R. Ir. 172.

(b) This notice refers not to notice of a motion contemplated by Rule 330 for leave to bring in a third party, but to a notice (corresponding to that prescribed by Rule 329 in cases of contribution, etc.), for the service of which leave is obtained on the application under Rule 330.

Third parties.

By Rules 301 and 302 plaintiffs are given the fullest liberty to join as defendants all persons against whom, jointly, severally, or in the alternative, they may jointly, severally, or in the alternative claim relief. By sec. 52 of the Act, in furtherance of one of the main objects of the Legislature, namely, to have the claims of all persons interested in the subject of the litigation disposed of in the same action, a further and entirely new jurisdiction is conferred upon the Court. By that section a defendant to an action may obtain (1) against a plaintiff—any relief that might be granted in an independent suit by the same defendant against the same plaintiff; (2) against (a) a co-defendant, or (b) any other person—any relief relating to or in connection with the original subject of litigation which might be granted in an independent suit by such defendant against such co-defendant or other person.

The mode in which a defendant may obtain the relief above mentioned against a plaintiff is by counter-claim, and is treated of hereafter: Rules 373, et. seq.; but the Rules at present framed do not provide means to enable the Courts to give a defendant the full benefit of the remaining provisions of the above section. Rule 328. Third parties.

By a counter-claim, to a certain extent complete relief may be obtained against a co-defendant, or a third person not originally a party: Rules 373 and 375; but no counter-claim can be set up which does not seek relief against a plaintiff: see notes to Rule 373; and no mode of obtaining, as of right, actual present relief was intended to be provided by the English Rules (though it may be different in Ontario), in those cases in which a defendant claims relief against a co-defendant or a third party, independently of the plaintiff. Rules were framed (and have been adopted substantially in Ontario) enabling a defendant to bring in third persons, not already parties to the action, but interested in the subject of litigation; but all that was intended to be secured was a binding decision, with a view to future relief against such third party in a subsequent independent action. This limited effect was given to the English Rules designedly. Their scope and intention were discussed in Treleven v. Bray, 45 L. J. Chy. 113; 1 Ch. D. 176. There Mellish, L.J., said: "The meaning of sec. 24, sub-s. 3" (R. S. O. 1887, c. 44 sec. 52, sub-s. 7), "was carefully considered by the Judges. We came to the conclusion that it was not advisable to make any Rules which would enable one defendant to obtain relief against his co-defendant without an independent action against him. We considered that we had power to do so, but thought that it would be inadvisable that a plaintiff who might have a good case against an original defendant should be compelled to wait for his remedy while the defendants were fighting inter se. The only object of the Rules was to bind the third party conclusively, by the judgment given as between the plaintiff and the original defendant, but if he wants to get an indemnity or other relief against the third party, he must bring an action of his own." Scope of the Rules.

To the same effect are Warner v. Twining, 24 W. R. 536, and Measures v. Thomas, W. N. 1875, 203; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 65; Padwick v. Scott, 2 Ch. D. 736; Schneider v. Batt, 44 L. T. N. S. 142; 17 C. L. J. 368; 30 W. R. 420; and this view seems to have been approved in Ontario in Dundas v. Gilmour, 2 Ont. 463, to the extent at least that after a judgment disposing of the plaintiff, the other parties may not further litigate in the action between themselves so as to prevent the plaintiff's judgment from being entered. See also Lockie v. Tennant, 5 Ont. 52., where in cases of "indemnity, etc.," it seems to be decided that a separate action is necessary to obtain the indemnity, following Treleven v. Bray, supra. In Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329, more fully reported, 45 L. T. N. S. 781, after the questions between plaintiff and defendant had been tried pleadings were in the same action delivered between the defendant and third party, and the liability of the latter to indemnify the defendant was determined. There are also expressions of opinion in several other cases that the Rules have a wider scope: see Horwell v. The London Gen. Omnibus Co., 2 Ex. D. 374; The Cartsburn, 5 P. D. 35, 59 and 62. See also Butler v. Butler, 14 Ch. D. 329; Sawyer v. Sawyer, W. N. 1883, 181 and 212; the issue directed to be tried in Bagot v. Easton, 11 Ch. D. 392; Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198; and Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 705; Steel v. Dixon, 28 W. R. 796. In Nealds v. Corkindale, 4 Ont. 317, it was laid down that these later cases show the practice to be, to settle the rights between the defendants and third party in the same action in which the third party has been notified; and relief was accordingly given to the defendant to the extent of protecting him against the plaintiff's demand.

The English Con. Rules of 1883 expressly enable judgment to be given against the third party (see Rule 184); but the scope of the third party procedure is confined to cases of contribution or indemnity only: see Pontifex v. Foord, 12 Q. B. D. 152; Sanders v. Peck, 32 W. R. 462; 50 L. T. N. S. 630; Catton v. Bennett, 26 Ch. D. 161, and shown to be such by contract express or implied, not merely a claim to relief over: Speller v. Bristol Steam Navigation Co., 13 Q. B. D. 96; see also Birmingham etc. Co. v. London & N. W. Ry. Co., 34 Ch. D. 261; Tritton v. Bankart, 35 W. R. 474; 56 L. T. N. S. 306; 56 L. J. Chy. 629; Caistor v. Chapman, W. N. 1884, 31; Gloucestershire v. Phillipps, 32 W. R. 522; 12 Q. B. D. 533; Johnston v. Salvage Association, 19 Q. B. D. 458; Carshore v. N. E. Ry. Co., 29 Ch. D. 344.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 328. Two classes of cases in which a third party may be brought in, are provided for by the Ontario Rules.

Cases of contribution or indemnity.

(1) Where a defendant is, or claims to be, entitled to contribution and indemnity, or any other relief over, against any other person: Rule 328, first part.

These are the cases of the most frequent occurrence, and examples of them will be found in the forms of the notice required to be given to the third party: see Appendix Form No. 18.

The mode of procedure is provided by Rules 329, 331 and 332, taken together. Defendant serves a notice on a third party: Rule 329, the latter may appear, if he resists the plaintiff's claim as against the defendant who served the notice. If he does not appear he is bound by the decision: Rule 331. If he appears, before anything further can be done in respect of the claim to contribution, etc., directions must be obtained as to the extent to which, and the mode in which, the claim is to be determined: Rule 332.

The claim which the defendant has against the third party, need not be identical or co-extensive with the plaintiff's claim against the defendant himself. The object of the Rules is that "if there is a substantial question which may be determined in the action, not only between the plaintiff and the defendant, but also between the defendant and a third party, then that question is not to be tried twice over," per Jessel, M.R., in Swansea Shipping Co. v. Duncan, 45 L. J. Q. B. 640; in such a case the third person "is to be cited to take part in the original litigation, and so to be bound by the decision on that question once for all:" S. C. 1, Q. B. D. 649.

"The object of the Act was not only to prevent the same question being litigated twice, but to obviate the scandal which sometimes arose by the same question being differently decided by different juries": Beuecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 422, per Blackburn, L.J.; see also Re Coltie, 2 Ch. D. 51.

A right to indemnity arising after action brought, entitles a defendant to notify a third party: Edison & Swan Co. v. Holland, 33 Ch. D. 497.

The third parties can only be joined before trial: Lockie v. Tennant, 5 Ont. 52, and will not be allowed to be brought in, if the plaintiff will be prejudiced: Bower v. Hartley, 1 Q. B. D. 652; Wye Valley R'y. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489; see also Swansea, etc., v. Duncan, 1 Q. B. D. 648-9, and Rule 333; Hutchison v. Colorado United Mining Co., W. N. 1884, 40.

See notes to Rules 329, 331 and 332.

Common "question in the action."

(2) Where from any other cause, it is made to appear that a question in the action should be determined between the plaintiff, defendant, and any other person, or between any or either of them: Rule 328, last part.

The mode of procedure in these cases is provided by Rules 328, 330 and 332 taken together. The defendant must obtain leave to bring in the third party by motion under Rule 330; when an order will be made for the service of the "notice" mentioned in Rule 328, last part. That order will contain all necessary directions as to appearance and the effect of non-appearance. If the third party appears further directions must be then obtained, under Rule 332.

This class will comprehend a great variety of cases in which the plaintiff may, or may not, be interested, and it is therefore left entirely to the Court or a Judge to direct what persons shall be allowed to be notified, what questions may be raised, and what proceedings shall be taken: Rule 330, and to what extent the person brought in shall be bound or made liable: Rule 332; and in considering how far the questions allowed to be raised should be determined in the action, the plaintiff's convenience, as in the former class of cases, is to be consulted: Rule 333, and Swansea, etc., v. Duncan, 1 Q. B. D. 644; Bower v. Hartley, 1 Q. B. D. 652; Associated Home Co. v. Whichcord, 8 Ch. D. 457; and Wye Valley R'y. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489.

A person cannot be brought in as a third party because he is alleged to be the beneficial plaintiff, and for the purpose of raising equities against him which do not attach against the plaintiff: Bank of Commerce v. Bank of B. N. America, 20 C. L. J. 136; 4 C. L. T. 200; and see Jackson v. Krüger, in note to Rule 324.

A third party cannot counter-claim against the plaintiff: Edes v. Wardale 28 Ch. D. 333; quære, whether he may counter-claim against the defendant who brings him in: Ib. 338; 54 L. J. Chy. 384. Rule 329.

A third party is not a person served with notice of proceedings within the definition of "defendant" in sec. 2 of the Act: Ib.

See notes to Rules 330 and 332.

In Walker v. Balfour, 25 W. R. 511, it was held that a third party brought in under Rule 328 was not entitled under that Rule to have any other person, against whom he has a claim, added; but in Fowler v. Knoop, 36 L. T. N. S. 219; W. N. 1877. 68, the third party against whom indemnity was claimed, was allowed under the concluding words of sec. 52, sub-s. 7, of the Act to bring in a fourth party, from whom he claimed indemnity upon the same grounds upon which it was claimed from him. Perhaps the point cannot yet be considered as settled: see Yorkshire Waggon Co. v. Newport Coal Co., 5 Q. B. D. 268; and Witham v. Vane, W. N. 1880, 108. Fourth, etc., parties.

The Rules relating to third party procedure apply in an action of replevin; Bradley v. Clarke, 19 C. L. J. 80; 9 P. R. 410. Replevin.

Where a defendant makes a claim against a co-defendant for indemnity or other relief, his proper course is to proceed under Rule 328, and not by counter-claim: Furness v. Booth, 4 Ch. D. 586. The contrary ruling of V.-C. Hall in Shephard v. Beane, 2 Ch. D. 223, (an earlier case) has not been followed, and was subsequently disapproved of by the same Judge in Harris v. Gamble, 6 Ch. D. 748. The defendant may raise a question against a co-defendant by a pleading which also states a defence against a plaintiff; but such pleading is not a counter-claim, and should not be so entitled: Furness v. Booth, supra. Claims against co-defendants.

329. Where a defendant is entitled to contribution, indemnity, or other remedy or relief over against any person not a party to the action, he may (x) serve a notice to that effect: Notice to persons not already parties.

(a) A copy of such notice shall be filed with the proper officer, and served on such person, according to the rules relating to the service of writs of summons;

(b) The notice shall state the nature and grounds of the claim, and shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge, be served within the time limited for delivering his statement of defence;

(c) Such notice may be in the form or to the effect of the Form No. 18 in the Appendix, with such variations as circumstances may require and therewith shall be served a copy of the statement of claim, or if there be no statement of claim, then a copy of the writ of summons in the action. J. A. Rule 108.

This is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 18 (see 1883 R. 170), except that the latter requires the notice to be stamped with the seal with which writs of summons are sealed, and inserts at (x) the words "by the leave of the Court or Judge."

The right to indemnity may have arisen either before, or after, the commencement of the action: Edison v. Holland, 33 Ch. D. 497; see also Edison v. Jablochoff, 35 W. R. 178.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 330. The notice referred to may be given without any leave being first obtained, and is confined to the first class of cases mentioned in Rule 324 (see notes to that Rule); namely, where the defendant claims a remedy, or relief, over against a third party.

The Eng. Rules of 1883 make express provision (Rule 177) for serving a third party notice, where contribution, etc., is claimed from a person already a party to the action.

Delivery of pleading to co-defendant in lieu of notice.

Under the Ont. Rules the procedure is different, and the notice, of which the form is given in the Appendix No. 18, need only be given where the third party is not already a party to the cause. Where the relief over is claimed from a co-defendant, notice is sufficiently given by delivering to such defendant a statement of defence raising such claim: Furness v. Booth, 4 Ch. D. 586. An order directing that such delivery shall be sufficient notice, was made in Marner v. Bright and Bagot v. Easton, 11 Ch. D. 392, but even in England was held unnecessary in Butler v. Butler, 14 Ch. D. 329, and Towse v. Loveridge, 25 Ch. D. 76. Since the notice provided by this Rule may under the Ontario Rules be given, without order, to a person not already a party, so where contribution or other relief over is claimed from a party to the cause, the delivery to him of a pleading claiming such relief is sufficient notice of the claim without an order: see Burke v. Pittman, 12 P. R. 662, and Rule 376 in the case of a counter-claim.

It will then be open to the party served to move to discharge the service, if the case is not one of contribution or indemnity within the Rules: see Towse v. Loveridge, supra; or when an application is made under Rule 332, for directions as to the proceedings upon such claim, he may perhaps object to the claim being entertained: see Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 705; Wye Valley Ry. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489.

A claim by a defendant against a co-defendant for indemnity will not be tried without an order under Rule 332 providing for the determination of the claim raised: Burke v. Pittman, supra; Flower v. Todd, W. N. 1884, 47.

The procuring by a defendant of the pleadings of a co-defendant who claims contribution, etc., from him does not operate as a notice to the former: Steel v. Dixon, 28 W. R. 796; 42 L. T. N. S. 765.

Service of notice out of jurisdiction.

The notice to the third party is to be served according to the Rules relating to the service of writs of summons. Such notice may therefore be served out of the jurisdiction under Rule 271: see notes to that Rule and Swansea Shipping Co. v. Duncan, 1 Q. B. D. 644; Dubout v. Macpherson, 23 Q. B. D. 340. In such case the time for appearance (eight days) mentioned in Rule 331 will not be sufficient, and in Swansea, etc. v. Duncan, supra, this was used as an argument that the enactments as to notice to third persons were not intended to apply to persons out of the jurisdiction. The answer given by the Master of the Rolls to this objection was, that the order giving leave to serve the notice out of the jurisdiction is to name such a time for appearance as the necessity of the case as to time and place requires: see English Order 11, R. 4 (1883 R. 68) and the Rule allowing eight days only must be taken to be modified accordingly. That Rule has not been adopted in the Ontario Act, but probably Rule 276 would be held in like manner to modify Rule 331. It would be prudent to obtain leave to serve the person out of the jurisdiction, instead of merely applying under Rule 274 to have the service, when effected, allowed.

Court may direct notice to be given.

330. Where, under Rule 328, it is made to appear to the Court or a Judge, at any time before or at the trial, that a question in the action should be determined, not only as between the plaintiff and defendant, but as between the plaintiff and defendant and any other person, or between any or either of them, the Court or Judge, before or at the time of making the order for having such question determined, shall direct such notice to be given by the plaintiff at such time and to such person and in such manner as may be thought proper; and if made at the trial, the Judge may postpone such trial as he may think fit. J. A. Rule 109. Rule 331.

This Rule is identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 19, and prescribes the procedure for the second of the two classes of cases mentioned in Rule 328, namely, where a third party is sought to be brought in for the determination of a question in the action, not only as between the plaintiff and defendant, but as between the plaintiff and defendant and such third person, or between any or either of them. Notice in cases of "common question."

In that case, Rule 329 does not apply, and therefore it is necessary under Rule 328, last part, to apply for leave to serve notice on the third party. This motion for leave will be made in Chambers on notice, not necessarily to the third party: see Pearson v. Lane, W. N. 1875, 248; Corrie v. Allen, 48 L. T. N. S. 464; W. N. 1883, 35; but notice to the plaintiff will be proper: Wye Valley Ry. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489; Finlay v. Scott, W. N. 1884, 8, though see Corrie v. Allen, 48 L. T. N. S. 464. If notice is not given to the plaintiff he may, if he considers himself prejudiced, apply to discharge the order: see Corrie v. Allen, 48 L. T. N. S. 467-8; The Bianca, 8 P. D. 91; but he could as conveniently take any objection he may have, on any motion for directions under Rule 332.

Leave to give a notice where necessary should be promptly applied for: Birmingham & District Land Co. v. London & N. W. Ry. Co. 56 L. T. N. S. 702.

On the motion for such leave, the propriety of having the question so tried must be "made to appear," but probably it will be enough as (in England) on an application for leave to serve a motion claiming contribution or indemnity, if a "plausible" case is made out for serving the third party: see Beynon v. Godden, 4 Ex. D. 247, or that a "common question" is bona fide raised without considering the validity of any claim which it may involve against the third party: see Carshore v. N. E. Ry., 29 Ch. D. 344, leaving him to move to discharge the service. If leave is granted, the order will ordinarily direct the plaintiff: Rule 330; Horwell v. London General Omnibus Co., 46 L. J. Ex. 700; 2 Ex. D. 365, to serve notice on the third party, and will provide for the form of notice, the mode of service, and the time for appearance, or pleading, by the third party, and any other directions that may be necessary: Steel v. Dixon, 42 L. T. N. S. 765; 28 W. R. 796.

Where defendants wished to raise, and to have decided, a question in the action, as between them and a co-defendant, they, instead of the plaintiff, were allowed to serve a pleading on their co-defendant raising the question: Steel v. Dixon, 42 L. T. N. S. 765; 28 W. R. 796.

This Rule was applied under complicated circumstances in Brown v. Cousineaux, 11 P. R. 363. See also Burke v. Pittman, 12 P. R. 662.

331. If a person not a party to the action, who is served as mentioned in Rule 329, desires to dispute the plaintiff's claim in the action as against the defendant on whose behalf the notice has been given, he must enter an appearance in the action within 8 days from the service of the notice; in default of his so doing, he shall be deemed to admit the validity of the judgment obtained against such defendant, whether obtained by consent or otherwise; provided always, that a person so served and failing to appear Appearance by third party.

OSGOODE HALL LAW SCHOOL LIBRARY YORK UNIVERSITY

Rule 332. within the said period of 8 days, may apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to appear, and such leave may be given upon such terms, if any, as the Court or Judge shall think fit. J. A. Rule 110.

This Rule is identical with Eng. R. 1875, O., 16 r. 20. It applies only to the cases of contribution, etc., in which a notice under Rule 329 has been served.

Appearance by third party served under Rule 329.

As to the time for entering appearance in the case of a third party out of the jurisdiction, see note to Rule 329.

Appearance indicates a desire "to dispute the plaintiff's claim in the action, as against the defendant, on whose behalf the notice has been given": Rule 331.

By non-appearance the third party is taken to admit the validity of any judgment obtained against the defendant who brought him in, but it seems that no actual relief can be obtained against him: see the form of notice in Appendix, No. 18; Treleven v. Bray, 45 L. J. Chy. 113; 1 Ch. D. 176, and The Cartsburn, 5 P. D. 59.

The third party may move to set aside the notice served upon him: Benecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 429; Bower v. Hartley, Ib. 652; Horwell v. London Gen. Omnibus Co., 2 Ex. D. 365. He should not in such cases, properly speaking, enter an appearance: see Horwell v. London General Omnibus Co., 2 Ex. D. at p. 366; and Corrie v. Allen, 48 L. T. N. S. 466; but it would seem that the party would not be prejudiced by appearing: Benecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 421. In England a conditional appearance may be entered: see Eng. R. 1883, 100. Pleasants v. E. Dereham, 47 L. T. N. S. 439; Nelson v. Pastorino, 49 L. T. N. S. 564; for which, however, there is no provision in Ontario.

Notice of an application to set aside the notice must of course be given to the defendant who served the notice, and may also properly be given to the plaintiff, who is interested in seeing that no question is introduced into the litigation which may prejudice him: see Bower v. Hartley, 1 Q. B. D. 652; Wye Valley Ry. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489; Rule 333.

If the defendant who gave the notice cannot, from the nature of the case, become entitled to remedy or relief over against the third party, the service will be set aside: Horwell v. London General Omnibus Co., 2 Ex. D. 365. See also Harry v. Davey, 2 Ch. D. 721; Rice v. Alliance, etc., 12 L. R. Ir. 172.

A married woman who has no separate estate cannot be brought in as a third party: Jones v. Elderton, W. N. 1884, 39; Gloucestershire Banking Co. v. Phillipps, 12 Q. B. D. 533.

Where the third party appears, nothing more can be done in regard to the claim for contribution, without an application under Rule 332 for directions as to subsequent proceedings: see The Cartsburn; Swansea v. Duncan; Benecke v. Frost; Burke v. Pittman, supra.

Where the third party appears, he may be limited in the extent to which he may take part at the trial: Exton v. London & N. W. Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 144; Byrne v. Brown, 37 W. R. 592; 60 L. T. N. S. 651; or may be allowed to actively assist in resisting the action: Pearson v. Lane, W. N. 1875, 248. In the latter case he may obtain discovery from the plaintiff: Eden v. Weardale (No. 3) 35 Ch. D. 287; and the plaintiff may treat him as a defendant and obtain discovery from him: McAllister v. Bishop of Rochester, 5 C. P. D. 194; Eden v. Weardale (No. 2) 34 Ch. D. 223; see Bradley v. Clark, in note to Rule 488, 510; Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 201; Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; and he may be ordered to pay the costs: Edison v. Holland, 37 W. R. 699. Quære, whether, after judgment, plaintiff can amend and claim an injunction against third party: Ib.

Direction as to mode of deter-

332. If a person not a party to the action served under these Rules appears pursuant to the notice, the party givin-

the notice may apply to the Court or a Judge for directions as to the mode of having the question in the action determined; Rule 332. determining questions in action.

(a) The Court or Judge, upon the hearing of such application, may, if it shall appear desirable so to do, give to the person so served liberty to defend the action upon such terms as shall seem just, and may direct such pleadings to be delivered, or such amendments in any pleadings to be made, and generally may direct such proceedings to be taken, and give such directions, as to the Court or Judge shall appear proper for having the question most conveniently determined, and with respect to the mode and extent in or to which the person so served shall be bound or made liable by the decision of the question, [and as to the costs of the proceedings]. J. A. Rule 111.

The words in brackets were inserted in consequence of the decision in Yorkshire Waggon Company v. Newport, 5 Q. B. D. 268, that the Court under the Eng. R. of 1875 had no jurisdiction to impose any terms as to costs. See Tomlinson v. Northern Ry., 11 P. R. 538, and other cases infra, p. 372. Otherwise this is the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 21, (1883, R. 175).

Where a third party has appeared the Court has power to direct him to pay the costs of the action: Edison v. Holland, 37 W. R. 699; Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329.

In either of the two classes of cases mentioned in Rule 328, before the trial of any issue raised against a third party, whether a co-defendant or a stranger, can be had, the direction of the Court or Judge must be obtained under this Rule as to the extent to which the question is to be entertained in the action and the mode in which it is to be determined: Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198; Flower v. Todd, W. N. 1884, 47; Burke v. Pittman, 12 P. R. 662; Tritton v. Bankart, 35 W. R. 474.

This application in cases within Rule 329 is the first opportunity the plaintiff has of examining how the introduction of the third party will affect him, and notice of the motion must of course be given to him: see Bower v. Hartley, 1 Q. B. D. 652; Wye Valley, etc. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489; Swansea, etc. v. Duncan, 1 Q. B. D. 648-9; Finlay v. Scott, W. N. 1884, 8.

In general the motion will be made, as the Rule provides, by the party giving the notice; but an application seems to have been made by the third party in Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198.

Where judgment has been obtained under Rule 739, a Judge cannot give directions as to the trial of the question of the liability of the third party who has been brought in: Rich v. Darrett, 28 Sol. Jour. 513; but in Flower v. Todd, W. N. 1884, 47, judgment having been obtained against one defendant under Rule 739, the question of the liability of his co-defendant to a claim for indemnity in respect of the judgment was directed to be determined at the trial.

The costs of the proceedings will in general be reserved till the trial: Benecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 422, but quære whether the order giving directions should not make some reference to the costs of the proceedings: Tomlinson v. Northern Ry. 11 P. R. 526.

The Court or Judge may give such directions as may be proper for having the question in which the third party is interested determined, subject always to the condition that the plaintiff must not be prejudiced or unreasonably delayed.

Rule 332.

Directions which may be given.

Directions may be given that the third party is to be "bound" only by the decision upon some question: Benecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 422; or that he may be "made liable" by the decision apparently to either the plaintiff or the defendant who gave the notice: Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198; Horwell v. London Omnibus, etc. Co., 2 Ex. D. 374; and all proper pleadings will be ordered to be delivered and directions given as to the trial: see Witham v. Vane, 49 L. J., Chy. 242; or looking at the circumstances, and notwithstanding that the third party may not have moved to discharge the service of the notice upon him, the Court or Judge may determine that it is not a proper case for citing a third party, or that the giving of any directions will prejudice or delay the plaintiff and may therefore refuse to give any: Schneider v. Batt, 44 L. T. N. S. 142; 8 Q. B. D. 101; see Bower v. Hartley, sup.; Associated Home Co. v. Whichcord, 8 Ch. D. 457, in which case the third party must be considered as dismissed from the action: Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 701; 45 L. T. N. S. 370; 50 L. J. Q. B. 525; 30 W. R. 420; 18 C. L. J. 56.

A defendant who is entitled to indemnity from a co-defendant is entitled to judgment before he has actually paid anything in discharge of his liability to the plaintiff: English and Scottish Trust Co. v. Flatau, 36 W. R. 938. See Underhay v. Read, Ib. 75; Cunningham v. Lyster, 13 Gr. 575; Clendennan v. Grant, 10 P. R. 593.

Practice prior to English Rules of 1883, and in Ontario.

It was established in England under the Rules prior to those of 1883, on which the Ontario Rules are founded, that the object of the Rules was that where the same question, of a substantial nature: Corrie v. Allen, 48 L. T. N. S. 464; W. N. 1883, 34, 65, though not necessarily the whole question in the action: Bower v. Hartley, 1 Q. B. D. 625, exists between several persons, that question shall be tried once for all; and that if there were no questions which could be determined between the plaintiff, the defendant and the third party at one trial, the case was not a proper one for citing a third party, and he should be dismissed: Schneider v. Batt, 50 L. J. Q. B. 525; 8 Q. B. D. 701; and this whether the third party was cited under Rule 329: Swansea, etc. v. Duncan, 45 L. J. Q. B. 640; 1 Q. B. D. 649; Corrie v. Allen, supra; or under Rule 330; Schneider v. Batt, supra; Marner v. Bright, infra, and The Bianca, 8 P. D. 91, where the third party was dismissed on the ground that the questions between the defendant and the third party were totally different from those between the plaintiff and defendant, which would be embarrassing to the plaintiff. See also Blaina Iron Co. v. Garbutt, 46 L. T. N. S. 162, where a question of seaworthiness, as between the plaintiff and defendant, and defendant and the third party, was not identical in point of time. The same view seems to have been taken in Dundas v. Gilmour, 2 Ont. 463, as the defendant and third party were not allowed to further litigate between themselves, after a trial had disposed of all questions as far as the plaintiff was concerned. That course was, however, allowed in Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; 45 L. T. N. S. 781; and there is a very distinct expression of opinion by the Court of Appeal in England under the Rules of 1875 that it is competent to the Court or Judge, after the matters in which the plaintiff is concerned are disposed of, to give directions by which any subsequent question between the defendant and the third party might be put in course of investigation: The Cartsburn, 5 P. D. 62. Probably the point can not yet be said to be settled in Ontario. See notes to Rules 328 and 333.

In Neald v. Corkindale, 4 Ont. 317, accounts between defendant and a third party were adjusted at the trial, and out of a balance found in favor of the defendant, the third party was directed to pay the defendant the amount of the plaintiff's claim against the defendant.

Judgment against third party, where a co-defendant.

Where a defendant claims contribution from a co-defendant in respect of the plaintiff's claim, it seems that there is no difficulty in giving the plaintiff judgment and adjusting the liabilities of the defendants between themselves by a subsequent inquiry: Butler v. Butler, 14 Ch. D. 329; Sawyer v. Sawyer, W. N. 1883, 181, 212; see also Borough v. James, W. N. 1884, 32; but directions for such inquiry must be obtained under this Rule: Burke v. Pittman, 12 P. R. 662; Tritton v. Bankart, 35 W. R. 474; 56 L. T. N. S. 306; 56 L. J. Chy. 629; Flower v. Todd, W. N. 1884, 47.

The English Rules of 1883 are limited to cases of contribution, indemnity, etc., and expressly provide for the trial of the question of the liability of the third party to defendant (Rule 174), at or after the trial of the action, which has been construed as meaning that this question should be tried at the trial between the plaintiff and defendant: Caister v. Chapman, W. N. 1884, 31. The English decisions therefore, under those Rules, cannot be fully applicable in Ontario. Rule 332. Practice under the Eng Rules of 1883.

If the third party admits his liability to indemnify defendant, he may be allowed to defend. If he does not admit his liability that question may be determined at the trial: Coles v. Civil Service Supply Ass., 26 Ch. D. 529; Flower v. Todd, W. N. 1884, 47; 28 Sol. Jour. 301; see also Callender v. Wallingford, 53 L. J. Q. B. 569; Blore v. Ashby, W. N. 1889, 158. Where a third party appeared pursuant to a third party notice, but declined to state any defence, it was held that judgment might be ordered at once against him under the English Rule (No. 174 of 1883) if the Judge was not satisfied that there was any question as to the liability of the third party proper to be tried: Gloucestershire Banking Co. v. Phillips, 12 Q. B. D. 533.

In Borough v. James, W. N. 1884, 32, it was said that the fact that the third party has a counter-claim against the defendant is sufficient to prevent judgment being given against the third party.

These cases under the Eng. Rules of 1883 will not be precisely in point under the practice in Ontario but bearing in mind the difference in the scope of the Rules, they may be usefully consulted in cases of contribution, etc.

The following references will further illustrate this subject:

(1) Cases of contribution, indemnity, etc., within Rule 328 first part, and 329.

Examples illustrating the practice as existing in Ontario.

In Benecke v. Frost, 1 Q. B. D. 419, an action was brought for not accepting goods, and the defence was raised (amongst others) that the goods were not according to contract; the defendants were allowed to bring in persons to whom they had re-sold upon the same terms, in order to bind them by a decision as to the quality of the goods.

In an action by the holders of a bill, indemnity as to part was claimed by the acceptors from the drawer on the ground that the consideration had in part failed; the drawer denied failure of consideration; an order was made substituting the drawer for the plaintiff, and allowing him to sue on the bill, upon the acceptor's undertaking to pay the amount not in dispute, and the drawer's paying to the plaintiff the balance in dispute: National Provincial Bank of England v. Bradley Bridge, etc., Co., W. N. 1876, 63; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 30.

Third parties admitting their liability to indemnify were substituted as defendants with the plaintiff's consent: Commissioners of Waterford v. Veale, W. N. 1876, 23, but not where plaintiff objected: Measures v. Thomas, W. N. 1875, 203; see also Norris v. Beasley, 2 C. P. D. 80: Dawes v. Thornton, W. N. 1876, 74; Seligman v. Mansfield, W. N. 1875, 240; Barton v. London & N. W. Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 144; Byrne v. Brown, 37 W. R. 592; 60 L. T. N. S. 651.

A. contracted to sell goods to B. with a warranty, and himself bought the goods from C. stipulating for a similar warranty. B. sued A. for breach of warranty. It was held that C. was properly brought in, and directions were given for trial of the liability of C. to indemnify A.: Hart v. Brown, 28 Sol. Jour. 577.

Third parties were properly served, where defendant claimed contribution from them as partners, to the extent of one-half of what might be recovered against defendant: McLaren v. Marks, 10 P. R. 451.

(2) Cases of common question within Rule 328, last part.

An order will be made for the trial, with the issues in which the plaintiff is interested, of other issues between co-defendants, if they are germane to the matter in dispute, and convenient to be tried with the former issues, but not unless the plaintiff consents: Marner v. Bright, 11 Ch. D. 394, n; W. N. 1878, 211, or does not object: Bagot v. Easton, 11 Ch. D. 392, or though the plaintiff objects if he cannot be prejudiced: Tebbs v. Lewis, W. N. 1875, 204; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 66.

Rule 332. Third parties.

In Bayot v. Easton, the plaintiff jointly with defendant B., entered into a contract with defendant E. to work in partnership an adventure on lands belonging to E. Plaintiff alleged that E. obtained the contract by misrepresentation, and asked for rescission, or, in the alternative, for dissolution. Defendant B. obtained leave to serve a notice of a claim he had against defendant E., arising out of the subject matter of the action. On an application by defendant B. under Rule 332, for directions as to the trial of the issue between B. and E., an order was made, allowing B. to prosecute his claim in the pending action.

In Tebbs v. Lewis, W. N. 1875, 204, the plaintiff, an intending vendee, sued an auctioneer for his deposit. The auctioneer claimed part of it for commission, and the vendor, who was brought in as a third party, claimed the deposit as forfeited. Lush, J., ordered the right of the third party against the auctioneer to be tried, and the vendor who appeared as third party was ordered to plead to the statement of claim as it stood, and deliver defence and counter-claim, if any, to the plaintiff and original defendant, plaintiff to have leave to reply, and defendant to amend his defence within six days.

In Driver v. Canada Permanent L. & S. Co., 1 C. L. T. 730, an action was brought by D. against mortgagees to recover surplus moneys in their hands after a sale. The mortgagees claimed to retain part of the moneys as assignees of a judgment against D., and the whole was claimed by X. On motion by the mortgagees, X. was allowed to be brought in, that the question between all parties might be determined.

In an action for specific performance of an agreement to sell land, persons claiming an interest in the land were allowed to be cited as third parties to bind them on the question of title: Harry v. Davey, 24 W. R. 515; but an application afterwards to add them as defendants was dismissed: 2 Ch. D. 721.

In an action for damages for breach of contract to supply a pumping engine which had failed through the breaking of the crank shaft; third parties were allowed to be cited to be bound on the question of a latent defect in the forging: Northampton, etc. v. Easton, cited Archibald, Pr. 136.

Where the third party was alleged to have sold goods to defendant as of a certain quality, and defendants represented them to be of the same quality when they re-sold to the plaintiffs, this was held to be a ground for indemnity without any special agreement on the subject, and the third party was directed to be bound by the decision as to the quality: Jacobs v. Brown, W. N. 1884, 23; and see Hart v. Brown, supra. See also Steel v. Dixon, W. N. 1880, 113; 42 L. T. N. S. 765; 28 W. R. 796.

Where a defendant is sued in different Divisions by different persons for the same money, the proper course for his protection is matter for the discretion of the Court: Associated Home Co. v. Whichcord, 8 Ch. D. 457.

Costs.

It was at one time held in England under the corresponding English Rule of 1875, that no power was given to the Court to impose terms as to costs on the parties bringing in the third party: see Yorkshire Waggon Co. v. Newport Coal Co., 5 Q. B. D. 268. This will not be so under the present Rule, as the concluding words "and as to the costs of the proceedings" have been introduced to meet the objection. Later English cases also affirm the jurisdiction, and where a third party appears and obtains leave to defend, his costs may be ordered to be paid by the plaintiff: Witham v. Vane, 28 W. R. 812; W. N. 1880, 108; 1881, 79; 44 L. T. N. S. 718; Fulton v. Brown, 9 C. L. T. 313; or by defendant: Dawson v. Shepherd, 49 L. J. Q. B. 529; W. N. 1880, 110; or to be borne by himself: Williams v. S. E. Ry. Co., 26 W. R. 352; Tomlinson v. Northern Ry. 11 P. R. 419, 526; or he may be ordered to pay the plaintiff's costs directly: Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198; Edison v. Holland, 41 Ch. D. 28; or defendant's costs; and costs payable by him to the plaintiff may be given to defendant against the third party: Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; see also Beynon v. Godden, 4 Ex. D. 246.

The English Rules of 1883 make express provisions (Rule 176) for the determination of all questions of costs between the third parties and all other parties to the action.

333. A plaintiff is not to be unnecessarily delayed in recovering his claim by reason of questions between defendants in which the plaintiff is not concerned; and the Court or Judge is to give such direction as may be necessary to prevent such delay of the plaintiff, where this can be done, on terms or otherwise, without injustice to the defendants. J. A. Rule 112.

Rules 333, 334. Plaintiff not to be delayed by questions between defendants.

There is no express Rule like this in the English Act, but the decisions of the Courts are to the same effect: see Bower v. Hartley, 1 Q. B. D. 652; Wye Valley R'y. Co. v. Hawes, 16 Ch. D. 489; Barton v. London & N. W. Ry. Co., 38 Ch. D. 144; Byrne v. Brown, 37 W. R. 592; 60 L. T. N. S. 651.

Procedure has not been unknown in Chancery, by which in some cases a matter in dispute solely between co-defendants, might be litigated by them. In Cayley v. Hodgson, 13 Gr. 433, that procedure operated so as to delay the plaintiff. It has, therefore, not been followed in some later cases: see Biscoe v. Ward, 1 C. L. T. 129; and Campbell v. Robinson, 27 Gr. 634. A question of title between two defendants was decided at the trial in Woods v. Woods, 16 Gr. 471; and see the decree in Johnson v. Neezer, D. B. 27, fo. 150. Where an inquiry was directed to determine the rights of the defendants inter se, as a separate reference, that the plaintiff should not be delayed thereby.

This Rule seems to recognize that there may be a determination of more than a question in which all parties are interested, and that issues may be tried in which the plaintiff is not concerned; and there does not seem to be any good reason why, after a judgment disposing of the plaintiff's claims has been pronounced, it should not be entered, and issues between other parties, either at the same trial or afterwards, disposed of without any new action, as was suggested in The Cartsburn, 5 P. D. 62; Piller v. Roberts, 21 Ch. D. 198, and in Hamilton Prov. L. & S. Co. v. Smith, 17 Ont. 1, and as was done in Hornby v. Cardwell, 8 Q. B. D. 329; 45 L. T. N. S. 781; Blore v. Ashby, W. N. 1889, 158: It seems, however, now settled otherwise in cases of indemnity at any rate: see Schneider v. Batt, 8 Q. B. D. 701; Dundas v. Gilmour, 2 Ont. 463, in note to Rule 332, Lockie v. Tennant, 5 Ont. 52; Edison v. Holland, 38 Ch. D. 28; Caister v. Chapman, W. N. 1884, 31.

334. In any cause [or matter] for the administration of the estate of a deceased person, no party (a) other than the executor or administrator shall, unless by leave, be entitled to appear either in Court or in Chambers, or in a Master's office, on the claim of any person not a party to the cause against the estate of the deceased in respect of any debt or liability. The Court, Judge or Master as the case may be, may direct any other party to the cause to appear, either in addition to or in the place of the executor or administrator, upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as he shall think fit. J. A. Rules 114, 518.

Parties to administration proceeding.

Same as Eng. Con. Rules, 1883, 169.

The Eng. Rule April, 1880, R. 8, has not the words in brackets and has at (a) the words "to the cause." Otherwise the Rules are the same.

Mere liberty to attend proceedings does not necessarily entitle the party to costs of attendance. The order should so provide if it is the intention that costs should be allowed: Day v. Beatty, 21 Ch. D. 830.

Only one party should in general attend to oppose a contested claim in an administration action: Re Smith v. Watts, 52 L. J. Chy. 209.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 335.

(ii) Guardians.

Insane persons.

335. In all cases in which lunatics and persons of unsound mind, not so found by inquisition [or judicial declaration] might respectively before the passing of The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, have sued as plaintiffs, or would have been liable to be sued as defendants, in any action or suit, they may respectively sue as plaintiffs in any action by their committees or next friends in manner practised in the Court of Chancery before the passing of the said Act, and may in a like manner defend any action by their committees or guardians appointed for that purpose. J. A. Rule 124.

The words in brackets are not in the English Rules, in other respects this is to the same effect as Eng. R. 1875, O. 18, (1883 R. 139).

The practice adopted by this Rule is that of the Court of Chancery.

Lunatics as plaintiffs.

Lunatics—As Plaintiffs.—A lunatic so found by inquisition (or judical declaration under R. S. O. 1887, c. 54, s. 8,) and having a committee, must sue by him. If he has no committee, or if the committee has an interest in the subject matter of the action adverse to the lunatic, the suit in certain cases may be brought by the Attorney-General: Atty. Gen. v. Panther, 2 Dick. 748, but is usually by next friend: Light v. Light, 25 Beav. 248; Porter v. Porter, 37 Ch. D. 420; who may be any person who chooses to act, just as in the case of an infant: Skinner v. White, 19 C. L. J. 115; and need not be a solvent person: Sharp v. Sharp, 2 Chy. Ch. 244; Crumley v. Kingston, 3 C. L. T. 311; but a committee before instituting a suit on behalf of a lunatic or his estate must obtain the sanction of the Court: Dan. Prac. 5th ed. 82; 6th ed. 118.

If an action is brought in the name of a person, who was at the time in a state of mental incapacity, without either a committee or next friend, the defendant may move to dismiss the action, but not if the plaintiff becomes imbecile after commencing an action in the ordinary way: Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 81, 83; 6th ed. 118; Wartnaby v. Wartnaby, Jac. 377; Blake v. Smith, You. 594.

An action which can be shown to be not beneficial to a lunatic plaintiff will be stayed on application, as in the case of an infant: Waterhouse v. Worsnop, 59 L. T. N. S. 140.

Where an action is brought by a next friend on behalf of a person alleged to be of unsound mind, but who is really of sound mind, the action will on his application, shewing by affidavit his sanity and ability to manage his own affairs, be ordered to be dismissed with costs against the next friend: Palmer v. Walesby, L. R. 3 Chy. 732; and the defendant may make a similar application: Skinner v. White, 19 C. L. J. 115; sed vide Quantz v. Smeltzer, 6 P. R. 126.

The application must be to a Judge in Chambers, since if the affidavit is contradicted or doubtful, an inquisition in lunacy might be directed and the Master in Chambers has no jurisdiction to entertain such a question: Skinner v. White, sup.

Plaintiff becoming insane pendente lite.

If a plaintiff is found a lunatic, and a committee appointed after the commencement of an action, an order should be obtained for the committee to carry on the proceedings: Green v. Pratt, 41 L. T. N. S. 30, and see Beall v. Smith, L. R. 9 Chy. 85, where the effect of the appointment of a committee was said to paralyze a preceding action by a next friend. If during the action the committee dies or is removed, and a new committee is appointed, a similar order should be obtained. If the plaintiff's solicitor neglects to obtain an order in either of such cases, to carry on the proceedings, the defendant may, before judgment, move to dismiss the action, unless the order is obtained within a limited time; after judgment the defendant may obtain the order himself. See Dan. Forms 3rd ed. 55. Rule 336. Lunatics.

The Court has no jurisdiction over the property of a person of unsound mind, except to protect it, so that where more is desired the proper course is to apply for the appointment of a committee to prosecute the suit: Skinner v. White, sup.; see Jones v. Lloyd, L. R. 18 Eq. 265; Beall v. Smith, L. R. 9 Chy. 85.

As to the effect of a person of unsound mind being declared a lunatic after an action commenced by next friend: see Beall v. Smith, supra.

Lunatics—As Defendants.—A lunatic defends by the committee of his estate, if he has one. If he has none, or the committee has an adverse interest, or the lunatic has not been so found by inquisition or judicial declaration, he defends by guardian ad litem under this Rule: see also Howlett v. Wilbraham, 5 Mad. 423; Worth v. McKenzie, 13 M. & G. 363. As defendants.

The committee of a lunatic's estate is a necessary party defendant with the lunatic in an action relating to that estate, and may defend without obtaining leave: Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 82.

In certain cases lunatics may be served with notice of application to the High Court by serving the Official Guardian. See the Act, s. 32 and notes, and Wolff v. Ogilvy, 12 P. R. 645.

As to the mode in which a lunatic defendant in an action is to be served, see Rule 263; Wolff v. Ogilvy, supra.

After service under Rule 263, no further proceedings are to be taken against a lunatic who has no committee, until a guardian ad litem is appointed: Rule 264. If the friends of a lunatic desire to defend for him, they should cause an appearance to be entered for him: see Rule 336, (a) and then apply in Chambers: Crawford v. Crawford, 9 P. R. 178, to have a guardian ad litem appointed. Any fit person who has no adverse interest may be such guardian: Dan. Pr. 5th ed. 160, but in general the Official Guardian will be appointed.

If no application is made on the lunatic's part the plaintiff may, after the time for appearance has expired, apply for the appointment of a guardian by motion on notice; in which case the Official Guardian will be appointed, unless he be already acting as solicitor for the plaintiff, or for some other parties having an interest in the subject matter of the action adverse to the lunatics, or unless the friends of the lunatic ask for the appointment of some other person, in which case some other proper person may be appointed: see Rule 336, though some good reason is now required for appointing some one other than the Official Guardian: see Rule 336 and notes.

The defence of a lunatic or person of unsound mind should be expressed to be by his committee or guardian: Arch. Pr. 13th ed. 1048.

Where a person of unsound mind not so found has to be made a party in the Master's office after judgment, or to be served with notice of motion for an administration order, a guardian ad litem must be appointed in the same manner as before judgment, or rather by analogy to the practice (see Rule 3) in an action before judgment: see Rules 335, 336, 337, and Wolff v. Ogilvy, 12 P. R. 645. The procedure will therefore be by special motion in Chambers: in the latter case before the application for the administration order is made: Wolff v. Ogilvy, supra; Barry v. Brazil, 1 Chy. Ch. 237.

Service of persons of unsound mind with an office copy of a judgment, pursuant to Rule 322 or otherwise, is effected as the Master before whom the reference is pending may direct: Rule 338.

A guardian ad litem to a defendant, who became of unsound mind after judgment, was appointed at the instance of a co-defendant who wished to obtain indemnity from the insane defendant: Re Dawson, Johnston v. Hill, 41 Ch. D. 415.

mind not so found by inquisition, or judicial declaration in lieu of an inquisition, the plaintiff may (a) apply to the Court or a Judge for an order that a guardian of such defendant be appointed, by whom he may appear and defend the action.

(a) But no such order shall be made unless it appears on the hearing of such application that the writ of summons was duly served, and that notice of the application was, after the expiration of the time allowed for appearance, and at least six days before the day in the notice named for hearing the application, served upon, or left at the dwelling-house of, the person with whom or under whose care such defendant was staying at time of serving such writ of summons. J. A. Rule 69.

(b) Upon such application the Official Guardian shall be so appointed unless a Judge otherwise orders. J. A. Rule 588.

Eng. R. 1875, O. 13, r. 1, (1883 R. 101), does not speak of an Official Guardian, and includes the case of an infant which is here provided for by Rule 258 et seq.

It would seem that Sunday is reckoned in computing the six clear days: see Brewester v. Thorp, 11 Jur.; see also Rules 473, 475 and 479.

The corresponding English Rule of 1875 has been held not to render it obligatory on the plaintiff to apply for the appointment of a guardian to a person of unsound mind; but only to enable him to do so, and if he does not desire the person of unsound mind to appear and defend, he may on filing an affidavit of due service, proceed as if the person of unsound mind had appeared: Taylor v. Peele, W. N. 1881, 74; 45 L. T. N. S. 514. The English Rule of 1883 makes the application obligatory; instead of the word "may" at (a) the words "shall before proceeding further with the action against the defendant" are substituted.

It will be seen, however, from the terms of Rule 264, that the practice in Ontario is different from the Eng. Rule of 1875, and the same as the Eng. Rule of 1883, and that even though an appearance should be entered for a lunatic, if he has no committee or guardian ad litem, the plaintiff cannot proceed until a guardian ad litem is appointed. It is apprehended that the intention of the Rules is, that application may be made on behalf of a lunatic for the appointment of a committee or guardian ad litem by whom he may appear and defend; but that if no such appointment is made, the plaintiff may under this Rule apply to have a guardian appointed.

Applications under this Rule should be made to the Master in Chambers not to a Judge: Crawford v. Crawford, 9 P. R. 178. If the person has not been found to be of unsound mind by inquisition, or judicial declaration, facts must be shewn upon which the Court may judge for itself that the person is of unsound mind: McIntyre v. Kingsley, 1 Chy. Ch. 281. The official guardian is to be appointed, unless a case is made for appointing another proper person: see Rule 336, (b). It will doubtless have to be shewn that such other person has no conflicting interest: see ib., and James v. Robertson, 1 Chy. Ch. 197. Service of notice of the application is necessary though the person to be served is out of the jurisdiction: O'Brien v. Maitland, 10 W. R. 275.

This Rule is based upon the English Chancery Order 7, Rule 3. There are, however, two alterations, viz., the substitution of "the official guardian or some other proper person" for, "one of the Solicitors of the Court," and the omission of persons of weak mind from the persons regarded as non compotes mentis. In the Court of Chancery persons of great age and incapable of attending to business have been ordered to be defended by guardian ad litem: Steel v. Cobb, 11 W. R. 298; Newman v. Selfe, 11 W. R. 764; and in Lord Cardwell v. Tomlinson, 33 W. R. 814; 52 L. T. N. S. 746; 54 L. J. Chy. 957, the plaintiff having become by age and illness incapable of complying with an order for production or continuing proceedings, the proceedings were on application on his behalf amended by adding his brother as next friend. See Re Kelly, 6 P. R. 220. Rules 337, 338.

For further information on this subject, see Morgan's Chy. Orders, p. 400, 4th ed.; Seton 706.

An appointment of a guardian without notice served as directed by this Rule was held to be not a mere irregularity, and to be not capable of being waived by the fact that the Official Guardian who was appointed, acted as such, and made all the inquiries usual in such cases in the interests of the lunatic: Warnock v. Pricur, 12 P. R. 264.

337. Where infants, or persons of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, are served with any office copy of a judgment or order in any proceedings, or are made parties to actions after judgment, guardians ad litem are to be appointed for them in like manner as before judgment. Chy. O. 522, 525. Appointment of guardian ad litem to infants, or lunatics added after judgment.

Infants.—The appointment of guardians ad litem to infants before judgment, is now governed by Rules 258, 261, 262. Under those Rules service of the writ on the Official Guardian ad litem, ipso facto constitutes him the guardian of the infant on whose behalf he is served in all cases except actions for personal torts, or for the mere recovery of money: see Rule 260. Where an infant is required to be served with an office copy of judgment it is ordinarily in that class of cases in which service of a writ on the Official Guardian is sufficient service on the infant if an original defendant, and by analogy to Rule 258, (see Rule 3), in such cases, service of the office copy of the judgment on the Official Guardian would be sufficient service on the infant, and the Official Guardian would thereby become ipso facto his guardian ad litem. Where there are several infant defendants to be served, by analogy to Rule 258, only one copy of the judgment need be served on the Official Guardian.

Lunatics.—This Rule refers to persons of unsound mind not so found by any inquisition or order of the Court. The appointment of guardians ad litem to such persons before judgment is regulated by Rule 336.

The appointment is made on an application in Chambers, notice of which motion may be served along with the office copy of the judgment—or afterwards, but no further proceedings affecting the person of unsound mind can properly be taken until a guardian ad litem shall have been appointed for him: Wolff v. Ogilvy, 12 P. R. 645. Where the Master before whom the reference is pending, has also jurisdiction in Chambers, it would seem that he would have power to entertain such applications.

When a person has been judicially declared a lunatic, service is effected on his committee, who should be made a co-defendant: Sm. Pr. 7th ed. p. 311, and it would seem not to be necessary in such a case to appoint a guardian ad litem: Ib., but when the lunatic has no committee within the jurisdiction, it has been held proper to serve the Official Guardian ad litem on behalf of such lunatic; see Re Hagar, 12 P. R. 645, sed quære.

338. Where a person required to be served with an office-copy of a judgment or order is an infant, or a person of unsound mind not so found by inquisition, the service is Service of infant or lunatic with judgment, to be effected upon such person or persons, and in such manner, as the Master, before whom the reference under the judgment or order is being prosecuted, directs. Chy. O. 523.

Service of office copy of judgment. INFANTS.—For the reasons given in the note to the preceding Rule, service on the Official Guardian of an office copy of a judgment required to be served on an infant, may be sufficient service on the infant, and the Official Guardian may thereby ipso facto become his guardian ad litem, but at present this is a matter of inference; and until it has been judicially decided that such is the effect of the Rules, it may be safer to obtain an order expressly appointing a guardian ad litem for infants so required to be served and directing the guardian so appointed to be served on behalf of the infant under this Rule.

A guardian ad litem must be appointed for an infant whether he is made a party in his own right, or in a representative capacity, e.g., as executor or trustee, or the proceedings will be void as against such infant: Re Jackson, Massey v. Crookshanks, 12 P. R. 475.

LUNATICS.—When a person who has been judicially declared a lunatic is required to be served with a judgment, the office copy should be directed to be served on his committee, who should be a co-defendant: see note to Rule 337, sed vide Re Hagar, 12 P. R. 645. Where the person required to be served is of unsound mind, but has not been judicially declared to be a lunatic, the direction of the Master before whom the reference is pending should be obtained under this Rule as to the mode in which he is to be served. By analogy to Rule 263 (see Rule 3) it would appear that the person with whom, or under whose care he is, should be directed to be served; and, unless it is shown that service on the person of unsound mind would be attended with danger, it would seem that he should be directed to be personally served as well: see Re Miller, 1 Chy. Ch. 215; Re Newman, 2 Chy. Ch. 390; Re Mein, 2 Chy. Ch. 429. No proceedings can be validly taken against a person of unsound mind until a guardian ad litem has been appointed. It is therefore necessary not only to obtain the Master's direction for service of the office copy of judgment on the person of unsound mind under this Rule, but it is also necessary to obtain an order appointing a guardian ad litem to such person. This is to be done by order to be obtained in Chambers on motion, supported by affidavits. Two clear days' notice of the motion is sufficient: Rule 479.

When a defendant in an action becomes of unsound mind after judgment, a guardian ad litem must be appointed for him before proceedings can be validly continued against him: Wolff v. Ogilvy, 12 P. R. 645. This must be done by order, upon motion, and cannot be effected by merely serving the Official Guardian on his behalf: Ib; sed vide Re Hagar, 12 P. R. 645, where it was held that this might be done where the defendant had been judicially declared insane, sed quære.

Person desiring to have a guardian ad litem appointed to himself, may attend Judge with proposed guardian. Evidence required on application.

339. A person desirous of appointing a guardian for himself other than the Official Guardian to defend an action or matter, may go before a Judge or Master with the proposed guardian if he thinks fit to do so. But he must satisfy the Judge or Master by affidavit that the proposed guardian is a fit person, and has no interest adverse to that of the person of whom he is to be the guardian in the matter in question; and if the affidavit is not sufficient for this purpose, the Judge or Master may examine the proposed guardian, or the person making the affidavit, viva voce, or require further evidence to be adduced until he is satisfied of the propriety of the appointment. Chy. O. 526. Rule 340.

This Rule would appear to apply to all cases of disability where the appointment of a guardian is necessary.

When on the application of the plaintiff for the appointment of a guardian ad litem to an infant, or lunatic defendant, the guardian appointed was the nominee of the Court, the plaintiff was bound in any event to pay the guardian's costs, but where the nominee of the defendant was appointed, there was no such liability: Clements v. Arnold, 3 Chy. Ch. 75. The Official Guardian ad litem is now, by the direction of the Court, appointed in all cases, unless some special reason exists for the appointment of some other person. Costs of guardian ad litem. Official guardian to be appointed.

Where a guardian was irregularly appointed upon insufficient notice to the infant, the appointment was set aside on the application of the infant after decree: Hamilton v. Hamilton, 2 Chy. Ch. 160; and see Re Jackson, Massey v. Crookshanks, 12 P. R. 475. Proceedings set aside where guardian ad lit. irregularly appointed.

6. Joinder of Causes of Action.

340. Subject to the following Rules, the plaintiff may unite, in the same action and in the same statement of claim, several causes of action. J. A. Rule 115 first part. What causes of action may be joined.

Substantially identical with the first clause of Eng. R. 1875, O. 17, r. 1 (1883 R. 188).

Under the former practice (prior to The Administration of Justice Act, at least, see 20 Gr. 574 n), the Court of Chancery forbade multifariousness, or the uniting of separate and distinct subjects in one suit; but sought to deal with the rights of all parties interested in the subject matter brought before the Court. The Courts of Common Law limited the subjects of litigation by reference to parties; and sec. 84 of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, chap. 50), allowed causes of action of whatever kind to be joined in the same action, provided they were by and against the same parties and in the same right; but this enactment did not extend to replevin or ejectment. The Commissioners who recommended this change, first introduced in the English C. L. P. Act of 1852, s. 41, thought a plaintiff might be trusted not to jeopardise his case by an inconvenient combination of claims. They said in their first report, "A plaintiff is not likely to damage his claim for criminal conversation by adding a claim which may direct attention to a question of whether he is entitled to the price of goods sold, or other incongruous matter." Former practice.

The principles which formerly governed in Chancery and the Common Law Courts on this subject have been superseded by the Rules under this and the preceding heading respecting parties. Multifariousness is no longer an objection of itself: see Cox v. Barker, 3 Ch. D. 359; and the right to join several causes of action is not limited to cases where they are between the same parties, nor (save as provided in these Rules) in the same right.

The present Rule is an extension of s. 84, of the C. L. P. Act, and it is apprehended that the words "cause of action" must receive the same construction as they received under the above section of the C. L. P. Act: see Bustros v. White, 1 Q. B. D. 423. The Rule must, therefore, as put by an able commentator on the English Judicature Act, be taken to include, not only different legal relations arising out of the same transaction, but also separate and independent transactions: Wilson's Jud. Act, 7th ed. 189.

Under Rules 300 et seq. relating to parties any number of plaintiffs may be joined, claiming relief against any number of defendants, jointly, severally, or in the alternative; and this and the following Rules relating to the joinder of causes of action give a very wide discretion to a plaintiff, as to the Rule 340. subject-matters which may be investigated in the action; but it was not intended that any number of plaintiffs should be at liberty, by a number of separate trials in one action, to settle all the different complaints they might have against all persons whatsoever.

After the passing of The Administration of Justice Act, the view of some of the Judges in the Court of Chancery was, that a bill respecting several distinct subject-matters was not open to the objection of multifariousness, provided all the defendants were interested in the several causes of action: see Brown v. Capron, 20 Gr. 574. n.

Under the Judicature Act.

Under The Judicature Act and Rules it is submitted that there may be in an action:

(1) Several subject matters; in which case some one or more of the parties to the action should be interested in each of the different subject matters, though the relief claimed against different defendants may be on distinct grounds, and arising out of distinct legal relations of the parties; or,

(2) One subject matter; in which case the plaintiffs may claim relief separately in respect of the same or distinct grounds, against one or more of the defendants, or two or more of them may claim relief jointly against one or more of the defendants: see Smith v. Richardson, 4 C. P. D. 116, where Denman, J., said in giving judgment: "There is much force in the argument used to support the note to Order 17, Rule 1, in the valuable edition of the Judicature Act, 2nd ed., p. 187 (7th ed. p. 199), by Mr. Arthur Wilson, who sums up his reasoning thus. 'Order 16, dealing with parties, assumes an ascertained subject matter. Order 17 (now 18), dealing with subject matters, assumes ascertained parties. There must, therefore, be either identity of subject matter, in which case Order 16 gives ample liberty in the choice of parties, or identity of parties, in which case Order 17 gives a like liberty in the choice of subject matters.'"

Examples.

In Honduras Ry. Co. v. Tucker, 2 Ex. D. 301, there was one subject matter, a contract made and broken. The plaintiffs claimed relief against L. who made it, if T. was authorized to make it as agent of L., but if not so authorized then against T. as principal. Both were held to be rightly made defendants.

In Child v. Stenning, 5 Ch. D. 695, the plaintiff claimed damages from S. for a trespass, or in default from W. who had covenanted for quiet enjoyment. Both were held to be rightly made defendants.

In Howell v. West, W. N. 1879, 90, an action was held to be rightly brought against two defendants for totally distinct causes of action; against defendant West for breach of a contract to personally look after the plaintiff's son who was in delicate health at the defendant West's school; and against defendant Jones, a medical man, for negligent treatment of the plaintiff's son in an illness which resulted in his death at the school.

In Booth v. Briscoe, 2 Q. B. D. 496, eight plaintiffs were held to have rightly joined in an action for libel, each having an independent cause of action, but in respect of the same libel.

In Verney v. Thomas, 36 W. R. 398; 58 L. T. N. S. 20, several plaintiffs brought an action to restrain an infringement of certain rights of pasture, which they severally claimed as appurtenant to their respective lands.

In Bagot v. Easton, 7 Ch. D. 1, separate alternate causes of action were held to have been properly joined against the same defendant.

In Dessi'ta v. Schunck, etc., W. N. 1880, 96, it was held, that separate causes of action against separate defendants might be joined with joint and several causes of action, where all related to the same subject matter.

The liberty given by the present Rule is, however, subject to the limitations contained in the following Rules, and to the discretion of the Court (see Rule 346) to interfere in order to prevent issues being raised which embarrass a fair trial of the action.

Lord Selborne, in Burstall v. Beyfus, 26 Ch. D. 39, said: "To bring into one claim distinct causes of action against different persons neither having anything to do with the other (and only historically connected) is not contemplated by Order 18, s. 1 (Rule 340), which authorizes the joinder not of several actions against distinct persons, but several causes of action." Rule 341.

341. No cause of action shall, unless by leave of the Court or a Judge, be joined with an action for the recovery of land, except claims in respect of mesne profits or arrears of rent or double value in respect of the premises claimed, or any part thereof, and damages for breach of any contract under which the same or any part thereof are or is held [or for any wrong or injury to the premises claimed]. J. A. Rule 116. Action for recovery of land.

Same as Eng. R. 1883, R. 189.

The words in brackets were not in the original Rule 116, which was the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 17, r. 2.

In actions of ejectment and replevin, s. 84 of the C. L. P. Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50) did not allow the joinder of other causes of action. That exception in cases of ejectment is continued in a modified form by the present Rule; but an action of replevin seems now to stand in no different position from other actions, no special provision having been made for cases of replevin.

Formerly, no claim could be joined with a claim for possession in ejectment, except a claim for mesne profits, in the case of a landlord against a tenant: Rev. Stat. 1877, c. 51, s. 70; and nothing was required to be stated in the writ or the issue, to enable the plaintiff to claim mesne profits: Smith v. Tett, 9 Ex. 307, 23 L. J. Ex. 93. Under The Judicature Act a claim for mesne profits, or any other claim, joined by leave or otherwise under this Rule, must be indorsed on the writ: see App. Form No. 6, and Rules 715 and 725, and set up in the statement of claim: see Forms Nos. 82 and 83.

Where the leave of the Court or Judge is necessary under this Rule, it must be obtained before the writ is issued: Re Pilcher, Pilcher v. Hinds, 11 Ch. D. 905; Mellhargey v. McGinnis, 9 P. R. 157.

Under special circumstances leave may be granted after the issue of the writ: Rusbrooke v. Farley, 33 W. R. 557; 52 L. T. N. S. 572; 34 L. J. Chy. 1079; but the plaintiff must show some reason why the bringing of a separate action will not do as well: Musgrave v. Stevens, W. N. 1881, 163.

Leave was refused after issue joined and the action set down for trial: Clark v. Wray, 31 Ch. D. 68. See also Re Derbon infra.

Semble, (1) that an objection that a writ of summons, joining a claim to recover land with other claims has been issued may be taken by defence, (2) that the plaintiff cannot cure the irregularities in his writ by omitting the claim to recover land in his statement of claim, (3) that to cure the irregularity the writ of summons must be amended, (4) that such amendment cannot be made without the consent of the defendant: Wilmott v. Freehold, etc., 51 L. T. N. S. 552; but see Mulkern v. Doerks, 51 L. T. N. S. 429; 53 L. J. Q. B. 526; 28 Sol. Jour. 688, where a defendant, by appearing to a writ of summons, was held to have waived any objection there might be under this Rule. The irregularity appears to have been waived by reason of the Eng. R. corresponding to Rule 443: In re Derbon, 36 W. R. 667; 58 L. T. N. S. 519, it was held to be too late at the trial to object that claims had been improperly joined.

In an action uniting a claim to recover land and a claim for specific performance of a contract to purchase, asking for possession if specific performance should not be decreed, it was held that the two claims were improperly joined without leave, but leave was given, after statement of claim, to amend proceedings so as to join the claims, inasmuch as the two causes of action could not conveniently be prosecuted separately: Campbell v. James, 11 P. R. 347.

Rule 341. Joinder of causes of action.

A claim to obtain quiet possession of land, and an injunction to restrain defendant from interfering with the plaintiff's quiet enjoyment, is not joining a separate cause of action with an action to recover land: Kendrick v. Roberts, W. N. 1882, 23; 30 W. R. 365; 46 L. T. N. S. 59. An action to establish title to land, to declare that a lease was entered into by mistake, for a receiver, and an injunction to restrain defendant from receiving the rents, was held not to be within this Rule: Gledhill v. Hunter, 14 Ch. D. 492, not following Whetstone v. Dewis, 1 Ch. D. 99; see also Mayor of Norwich v. Brown, 48 L. T. N. S. 898.

An action for the assignment of dower is an action for recovery of land: McCulloch v. McCulloch, 4 C. L. T. 252.

On motion to set aside a writ in which claims are improperly joined, the writ may upon proper terms be amended so as to strike out the claims wrongly joined: White v. Ramsay, 12 P. R. 626. In a foreclosure action against the assignee of the equity of redemption acquired from the trustee in bankruptcy of the mortgagor, it was found upon demanding possession that the mortgagor was on the land and refused to go out. Leave to amend the writ by adding the mortgagor was refused: Sutcliffe v. Wood, 50 L. T. N. S. 705; 53 L. J. Chy. 970; but see clause (a) of this Rule infra.

Where a plaintiff claimed possession as the assignee of a lease made by him to the defendants who assigned to a third party, who assigned and surrendered to the plaintiff, and the defence was, that the lease was in effect a mortgage, and fraud and want of consideration were alleged, the plaintiff was not allowed to amend his statement of claim and ask foreclosure of the land as mortgagee: McIlhargey v. McGinnis, 9 P. R. 157.

Leave was given in Trust & Loan Co. v. Osborne (23 Aug., 1881, Mr. Dalton), to join causes of action for specific performance of an agreement to purchase, and in default for rescission and recovery of possession, or sale, and a personal order for recovery of any deficiency.

In an action for recovery of land, leave has been granted to join a claim for recovery of a deed relating to the land, and for an injunction and receiver: Cook v. Enchmarch, 2 Ch. D. 111; a claim for a receiver of the rents and profits: Atten v. Kennett, 24 W. R. 845: and a claim for the administration of the personal estate of an intestate whose land was sought to be recovered: Kitching v. Kitching, 24 W. R. 901; W. N. 1876, 225.

In Manisty v. Kenealy, 24 W. R, 918, an action for recovery of chambers in Gray's Inn, of which Dr. Kenealy was trustee, a claim was allowed to be added for execution of a conveyance of the property to new trustees.

This Rule applies to a counter-claim as well as to an original claim, and a counter-claim by a mortgagee for a declaration that he was entitled to possession against a person in possession who was alleged to have no title, was held to be a claim for the recovery of land within this Rule: Compton v. Preston, 21 Ch. D. 138; Pritchard v. Pritchard, 17 Ont. 50; Goring v. Cameron, 10 P. R. 496; see also Clark v. Wray, 31 Ch. D. 68.

Leave was granted to join in an action for recovery of possession of a house, a claim for an injunction restraining interference with plaintiff's occupation of the house and a claim for trespass and for an assault committed at the time of the trespass: Dennis v. Crompton, W. N. 1882, 121.

Where leave has not been granted, the action may be stayed on motion: Brandreth v. Sears, W. N. 1883, 89; but see White v. Ramsay, 12 P. R. 626.

(a) Nothing in these Rules contained shall prevent any plaintiff in an action of foreclosure or redemption, [or for the immediate payment of the mortgage moneys,] from asking for or obtaining a judgment or order against the defendant for delivery of the possession of the mortgaged property to the plaintiff, [either forthwith or] on or after a final order for foreclosure or redemption, as the case may be, and such an action shall not be deemed an action for the recovery of land within the meaning of the Rules. See Chy. O. 464. Rule 341.

The words in brackets are not in Eng. R. 1883, 189, which is otherwise to the same effect.

This clause is taken from Chy. O. 464, and is more explicit than the proviso regarding actions on mortgages contained in the original Rule (see Maclennan Jud. Act, 2nd ed. 271), under which same doubts might have been entertained as to whether claims for possession and payment (without foreclosure) might be joined.

The terms of the present clause preclude questions such as arose under the Eng. R. 1875, which was not so clear, and under which it was held that a foreclosure action was not an action for the recovery of land : see Tawell v. State Co., 3 Ch. D. 629 ; (as to which : see Hoar v. Loe, W. N. 1884, 251) ; unless perhaps it included a claim for possession : Wood v. Wheater, 22 Ch. D. 281, so that no leave was necessary to join with a claim for foreclosure of a mortgage, a claim for the administration of the trusts of the mortgage. Since those decisions and since Barwick v. Barwick, 21 Gr. 39, was decided, it has been held that a foreclosure action is an action for the recovery of land within the Statute of Limitations : Harlock v. Ashberry, 18 Ch. D. 229 ; 19 Ch. D. 539 ; Fletcher v. Rodden, 1 Ont. 155 ; see also Heath v. Pugh, 6 Q. B. D. 345 ; 7 App. Cas. 235 ; but these cases will not affect the construction of the present Rule.

Order for possession may now be included in judgment.

The order for delivery of possession may now, if claimed by the writ, be included in a judgment of foreclosure, or sale, in the first instance : see Imperial Loan & Investment Co. v. Boulton, 22 Gr. 121 ; Forms, Nos. 182, 183 ; but where the relief has not been given by the judgment, it may still be obtained after the final order has been granted, upon application in Chambers, under this Rule : Salt v. Edgar, 54 L. T. N. S. 374 ; Best v. Applegate, 37 Ch. D. 42.

Order may be granted where writ claims a sale.

The Chy. Ord. 464, on which the latter part of this Rule is founded, was construed to apply to mortgage cases, where a final order for sale had been granted, as well as to foreclosure suits.

Order for possession not granted under the Order in specific performance cases.

But the Chy. Ord. 464, was held only to apply to mortgage cases, and not to actions for specific performance against a purchaser in possession, against whom a final order for rescission of the contract had been obtained : Mavety v. Montgomery, 1 Chy. Ch. 21 ; Chisholm v. Allen, 2 Chy. Ch. 411. Formerly the order could only be made against a party to the action, or persons who had acquired possession pendente lite, from a party to the action, and having no pretence to a paramount title : Bank of Upper Canada v. Wallace, 13 Gr. 184 ; McKenzie v. Wiggins, 2 Chy. Ch. 391 ; Scott v. Black, 3 Chy. Ch. 323 ; Trust & Loan Co. v. Start, 6 P. R. 90. Such an order was not granted against a tenant of the mortgagor not a party to the suit, though the tenancy were created after the mortgage : Bank of Montreal v. Ketchum, 1 Chy. Ch. 117 ; nor even against the mortgagor if he were in as a trespasser : Irving v. Munn, 1 Chy. Ch. 240 ; but under The Judicature Act, it is possible that a more liberal construction may be placed upon the Rule : see Mason v. Seney, 2 Chy. Ch. 30 ; but see Salt v. Edgar, 54 L. T. N. S. 374.

Not against tenant of mortgagor.

Order for possession, when it may be obtained.

The motion may be made on applying for a final order, or at any time afterwards : Lozier v. Ranney, 6 Gr. 323 ; Keith v. Day, 39 Chy. D. 452. Notice must be given of the application, but a demand of possession need not be shown : Hodkinson v. French, 1 Chy. Ch. 201 ; Buckley v. Ouillette, 2 Chy. Ch. 439 ; and see Walker v. Mathews, 1 Chy. Ch. 232 ; but it must be shown that the mortgagor is in actual possession : Hodkinson v. French, 1 Chy. Ch. 223 ; McKenzie v. Wiggins, supra ; Buckley v. Ouillette, supra ; and where a considerable time has elapsed since the final order was granted, it should be shown that the mortgagor has not since relinquished possession : Irving v. Munn, Ib. 240.

YORK UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 342-344. Ejectment action.

The bringing of an action of ejectment is no bar to the application, but the applicant may be required to discontinue the ejectment, and pay the costs: Moffatt v. White, 1 Chy. Ch. 227.

On the motion, the Court will not, as a general rule, look behind the final order: Mills v. Choate, 2 Chy. Ch. 374.

Costs of application.

The plaintiff is entitled to the costs of the application: Lazier v. Ranney, 6 Gr. 323; but where they were not asked for by the notice of motion, nor on the argument, and no demand of possession was proved, the order was made without costs: Mills v. Choate, 2 Chy. Ch. 374.

Order, how enforced.

On disobedience of the order for possession, a writ of possession may now issue: see Rules 868, 870.

Delivery of title deeds may be ordered.

The mortgagee may also obtain an order for the delivery of the title deeds, as against the mortgagor, or any one claiming under him subsequent to the foreclosure: Stennett v. Aruyn, 2 Chy. Ch. 218.

Claims by assignee in insolvency.

342. Claims by an assignee in insolvency as such shall not unless by leave of the Court or a Judge, be joined with any claim by him in any other capacity. J. A. Rule 117.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 17, r. 3 (1883, R. 190), except that for "an assignee in insolvency," the English Rule has "a Trustee in Bankruptcy."

The general rule as to joinder of causes of action being now made without the proviso contained in C. L. P. Act, s. 84, that they be in the same rights, it became necessary to specify cases in which causes of action accruing in different capacities shall not be joined. This is one of the cases: see also Rule 344.

Claims by or against husband and wife.

343. Claims by or against husband and wife may be joined with claims by or against either of them separately. J. A. Rule 118.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 17, r. 4 (1883, R. 191).

By the Common Law Procedure Act (R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 86) a husband might add claims in his own right in an action brought by him and his wife, for a cause of action accruing personally to the wife in respect of which they were necessarily co-plaintiffs: see Harrison, C. L. P. Act 87.

Claims by or against executor.

344. Claims by or against an executor or administrator as such may be joined with claims by or against him personally, provided the last mentioned claims are alleged to arise with reference to the estate in respect of which the plaintiff or defendant sues or is sued as executor or administrator. J. A. Rule 119.

Same as Eng. R. 1875 O. 17, r. 5 (1883 R. 192).

The joinder of claims provided for by this Rule, was not possible under the former practice: see Williams on Executors, 6th ed. 1729; and difficulty was experienced in deciding whether an executor or administrator should be sued as such, or personally. For instances, see Ashby v. Ashby, 7 B. & C. 444: Corner v. Shew, 3 M. & W. 350; Bolingbroke v. Kerr, L. R. 1 Ex. 222; Moseley v. Rendell, L. R. 6 Q. B. 338; Abbott v. Parfitt, L. R. 6 Q. B. 346.

Semble that as regards claims by an executor, this Rule refers to a case where the plaintiff's personal claim is in respect of the assets of the testator qua assets; the claim as executor and the claim personally are to be with reference to the same estate: Johnson v. Burgess, 47 L. J. Chy. 552.

The Rule it seems does not apply to a counter-claim, so as to enable the defendant to set up by way of counter-claim, claims against the plaintiff personally and as executor, where he is only suing in a distinct personal character: Macdonald v. Carington, 4 C. P. D. 28). Rules 345-347.

345. Claims by plaintiffs jointly may be joined with claims by them or any of them separately against the same defendant. J. A. Rule 120. Joint and several claims.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 17 r. 6 (1883 R. 193).

346. If it be made to appear to the Court or a Judge that several causes of action joined in the same action are such as cannot all be conveniently disposed of in one action, the Court or a Judge may order any of such causes of action to be excluded, or may direct the issues respecting the separate causes of action to be tried separately, and may direct the statement of claim, or, if no statement of claim has been delivered, the copy of the writ of summons and the indorsement of claim on the writ of summons, to be amended accordingly, and may make such order as to costs as may be just. J. A. Rules 115, 121, 122, 123. Order for separate issues.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 17, r. 1, 7, 8, 9, (1883, R. 188, 194, 195, 196).

In Re Worssam, Hemery v. Worssam, 51 L. J. Ch. 669, the Court declined to entertain an action to set aside a transaction and in the same proceedings inquire whether to do so was for the benefit of infants or unborn persons.

The provisions of the Rules for preventing any of the parties from being prejudiced are two:

(1) A claim which embarrasses a fair trial of the action may be struck out: Rules 346, 423. This was done in a case where a claim was made for inconsistent alternative relief by different plaintiffs: Smith v. Richardson, supra, where the vendor of goods and indorsees of a bill given by the purchaser to the vendor for the price, jointly sued the purchaser to recover the price, and also upon the dishonoured bill. Striking out embarrassing claims for diverse causes of action.

(2) The Court may direct the different causes of action to be tried separately under this Rule: see Bayot v. Easton, 7 Ch. D. 1; Child v. Stenning, 5 Ch. D. 695, and Day v. Radcliffe, 24 W. R. 844; Barker v. Cox, 3 Ch. D. 359. This course might formerly have been directed under R. S. O. 1877, c. 510, s. 85: see Fitzsimmons v. McIntyre, 5 P. R. 119. Separate trials.

Compare similar power given in Rules 373, 374, in regard to counter-claims and see Hall v. Old Tatarcoch Lead Mining Co., 45 L. J., Chy. 775; 34 L. T. N. S. 901; re Woodfine, 38 L. T. N. S. 753; Bayot v. Easton, 7 Ch. D. 1; Dessilla v. Schunk, etc., W. N. 1880, 96; Cox v. Barker, 3 Ch. D. 372.

7. Mortgage Actions.

347. Instead of a foreclosure, a mortgagee may pray for a sale of the mortgaged premises, and that any balance of the mortgage debt remaining due after such sale may be paid by the mortgagor, [or any surety for payment of the Mortgagee may have sale instead of foreclosure.

Rule 347. mortgage debt who is a party to the action,] and the same may be adjudged accordingly. Chy. O. 426.

The words in brackets were not in Chy. Ord. 426.

Order for payment of deficiency when granted.

The relief mentioned in Rule 347, may be claimed by indorsement on the writ. A mortgagee, however, is only entitled to an order for the payment of the deficiency, where there is an express or implied contract by the defendant with the plaintiff, by covenant, or otherwise, to pay the mortgage debt. If there be no such contract the mortgagee is entitled to no personal remedy against the defendant: see Christie v. Dowker, 10 U. C. L. J. 161; Turnbull v. Symmonds, 6 Gr. 615; Forbes v. Adamson, 1 Chy. Ch. 117; Clarkson v. Scott, 25 Gr. 373; Norris v. Meadows, 28 Gr. 334; Pierce v. Corcoran, Ib. 356; Mathers v. Helliwell, 10 Gr. 175; where, however, the mortgage deed contains no express covenant to pay, the law will imply a contract by the mortgagor to pay: see Sutton v. Sutton, 22 Ch. D. 511; 48 L. T. N. S. 95; provided there be evidence that the mortgage was made to secure a debt or loan: Hall v. Morley, 8 U. C. Q. B. 584; Pearman v. Hyland, 22 U. C. Q. B. 202; Jackson v. Veomans, 19 C. P. 394; 28 U. C. Q. B. 307; 39 U. C. Q. B. 280. The mere acknowledgment of the receipt of the mortgage money, is not sufficient to raise any presumption of a loan, or an implied promise of repayment: London Loan Co. v. Smyth, 32 C. P. 530. Where there is a contract for the payment of the mortgage debt, judgment may now be obtained, if claimed by the writ, for the full amount due with costs, for which execution may issue at once, without waiting for a sale of the mortgaged property.

Not if there be no personal liability to pay.

Liability, when implied.

Order for immediate payment, when made.

Where, however, a reference to the Master to inquire as to incumbrances, is necessary, then where relief is also sought on the contract, the judgment should refer it to the Master to take the account, and direct payment of the amount which he may find due forthwith, after the making of the Master's report: see App. Form No. 182; North of Scotland v. Beard, 19 C. L. J. 252.

Surety, rights of.

A surety against whom a judgment has been recovered, which by agreement is to stand as security for the payment of the deficiency, is entitled to have the security realised before he can be called on to pay anything: Teeter v. St. John, 10 Gr. 85. An assignee of the equity of redemption who covenants with the mortgagee to pay off the mortgage debt, becomes a principal debtor, and if time be given him by the mortgagee, the mortgagor may be discharged: Mathers v. Helliwell, 10 Gr. 172.

Mortgagee entitled to sale, or foreclosure.

A mortgagee is now usually entitled to a sale or foreclosure, at his option: Meyers v. Harrison, 1 Gr. 449. But a subsequent mortgagee cannot, as plaintiff, have a sale against a prior mortgagee without the latter's consent: McDougall v. Campbell, 6 S. C. R. 502; although he may as a defendant, under Rule 350. Where infants are concerned, and the mortgagee claims foreclosure, the judgment usually directs a sale, or foreclosure, as the Master may find most beneficial for the infants.

Mortgagee of chattels right of, to foreclosure.

A mortgagee of chattels: Cook v. Flood, 5 Gr. 463; a municipal corporation: Oxford v. Bailey, 12 Gr. 276; and a chartered bank: Bank of Upper Canada v. Scott, 6 Gr. 451; are each entitled to foreclosure. But a mere pledgee of chattels is said to be only entitled to a sale: Carter v. Wake, 4 Ch. D. 605.

Mortgagee by deposit, when not entitled to a sale.

A mortgagee of lands by deposit is said not to be entitled to a sale, but only to a foreclosure: Pryce v. Bury, L. R. 16 Eq. 153 n; James v. James, Ib. 153; Backhouse v. Charlton, 8 Ch. D. 444; but where the deposit is accompanied by an agreement to execute a legal mortgage, the mortgagee is entitled to either sale, or foreclosure: York Union Banking Co. v. Artley, 11 Ch. D. 205; although an equitable mortgagee by deposit cannot insist on a sale, yet if a subsequent incumbrancer, or the mortgagor himself, desires a sale, it may be granted as in any other case: Kerr v. Beebe, 12 Gr. 204.

Crown cannot be foreclosed.

The Crown cannot be foreclosed, the only judgment that can be awarded where the equity of redemption is in the Crown, is one authorizing the mortgagee in default of payment to take possession until the Crown shall think proper to redeem: Reeve v. Attorney-General, 2 Atk. 223; Dunn v. Attorney-General, 10 Gr. 482; or until the debt should be satisfied: Hodge v. Attorney-General, 3 Y. & C. 342; or, if the Crown consent, or do not object, a sale may be ordered: Seton, 1044; Prescott v. Tyler 1 Jur. 470; 2 Jur. 870; Rogers v. Maude, 1 Y. & C. C. C. 4; Hancock v. Attorney-General, 12 W. R. 569; Bartlett v. Rees, L. R. 12 Eq. 395. Rule 348. Form of judgment against the Crown.

A mortgagee of a railway is not entitled to enforce payment of his mortgage, by either sale, or foreclosure of the railway, he is only entitled to have a receiver, or manager, of the undertaking appointed: Galt v. Erie and Niagara R. W. Co. 14 Gr. 499; Peto v. Welland R. W. Co., 9 Gr. 455; Furness v. Caterham R. W. Co., 25 Beav. 614. But it seems a vendor of a right of way to a Railway Company is entitled to enforce a lien for unpaid purchase money, by sale, or rescission of the contract: Walker v. Ware, H. & B. R. W. Co., L. R. 1 Eq. 195; Martin v. London, Chatham & Dover R. W. Co., 12 Jur. N. S. 775; but see the Bishop of Winchester v. Mid-Hants R. W. Co., L. R. 5 Eq. 17; Pell v. Northampton & B. J. R. W. Co., L. R. 2 Chy. 100, where the lien was enforced by the appointment of a receiver. Mortgagee of railway not entitled to sale, or foreclosure. Vendor of Ry. Co., rights of.

The right of a mortgagee to either a sale or foreclosure, may be lost by his having sold, or parted with, part of the mortgaged property, without the concurrence of a person to whom the equity of redemption in the remainder has been conveyed. But this rule does not apply where the sale has been made under a power contained in the mortgage, or where the mortgage is of chattels which the mortgagee has a right to sell without any express power. But it applies to a sale under a decree in a suit to which the owner of the unsold portion was no party: Gowland v. Garbutt, 13 Gr. 578, and see Crawford v. Armour, Ib. 576; Monsen v. Hauss, 22 Gr. 279. Right to sale, or foreclosure, when lost by sale of part of property

Where the mortgaged lands are out of the jurisdiction, although the Court may grant judgment for foreclosure: Paget v. Ede, L. R. 18 Eq. 118; it will not grant a judgment for sale: Strange v. Radford, 15 Ont. 145.

Where the writ, or statement of claim, does not claim any personal remedy against the defendant, the judgment is erroneous, if it contain any personal order for payment of the mortgage debt, and such a defect was amended after the lapse of four years: Cockenour v. Bullock, 12 Gr. 138. Personal relief should not be directed if not claimed.

Where the judgment directs foreclosure, on default in payment, a final order may be made in Chambers, directing a sale in lieu of foreclosure, without appealing from the judgment: Laslett v. Cliffe, 2 Sm. & G. 278; Fish v. Carnegie, D. B. 3 & 4; Thompson v. Badgley, O. B. 25; but usually the sale will not be ordered until after the mortgagor has had the usual time to redeem: Trust and Loan Co. v. Reynolds, 2 Chy. Ch. 41; where the application is made by a defendant he will be required to deposit $80 to meet the expense of the sale, and this deposit will not be dispensed with, although the security be ample: Thompson v. Macaulay, 3 Chy. Ch. 111. But if the plaintiff prefer it, the defendant may be required to conduct the sale in lieu of making the deposit. Formerly the Court would not, after a decree for sale, direct a foreclosure without rehearing the cause: McClelan v. Jacob, 9 Gr. 50; except where the sale had been attempted, and proved abortive: Goodall v. Burrows, 7 Gr. 449; Odell v. Doty, 1 Chy. Ch. 207; Girdlestone v. Gunn, Ib. 212. In such a case, an order for foreclosure is granted in Chambers on motion; but the mortgagor must be allowed three months further time to redeem: Ib.; but in Goodall v. Burrows only one month was allowed. Where judgment for foreclosure, f. o. for sale may be granted. But if judgment is for sale, f. o. f. not granted,

After a judgment of foreclosure, an order for sale may be obtained, by a subsequent incumbrancer, under Rule 350.

348. The Court may direct a sale of the property, instead of a foreclosure of the equity of redemption, on such terms as the Court thinks fit; and, if the Court thinks fit, without previously determining the priorities of incum- Sale may be ordered, instead of foreclosure.

brancers, or giving the usual or any time to redeem. Chy. O. 428.

Ordinary time for redemption, when shortened.

Some special ground must be shown in order to deprive the mortgagor of the ordinary six months time to redeem: Rigney v. Fuller, 4 Gr. 198; Swift v. Minter, 27 Gr. 217; Newman v. Selfe, 33 Beav. 522; and even where an application for sale was made, in a foreclosure suit, by subsequent incumbrancers, after the time allowed them for redemption had expired, it was held that the mortgagor was entitled to an opportunity to redeem, before a final order for sale could be made: Trust and Loan Co. v. Reynolds, 2 Chy. Ch. 41.

Defendants when entitled to a sale in foreclosure action.

Where the writ claims foreclosure, the defendant is entitled to have the judgment drawn up for sale, on paying into Court $80; and where a judgment has been entered for foreclosure, a subsequent incumbrancer may also, on being made a party, at any time before the report is settled, on making a like payment, obtain on præcipe an order for sale in lieu of foreclosure; see Rule 350. The $80 is intended as security for the costs of the sale: see Rule 349 and notes.

On the Court being satisfied by evidence that the value of the mortgaged property was not sufficient to pay the amount due to the plaintiff, and that it was for the benefit of infant defendants, an account was dispensed with, and a judgment for immediate foreclosure was granted on the consent of the infant's solicitor: Wolverhampton & Staffordshire Banking Co. v. George, 24 Ch. D. 707.

Judgment for immediate sale, how awarded.

A judgment for an immediate sale, without appointing any day for redemption, can only be granted on motion for judgment, it cannot be awarded on præcipe. The motion may be made in Chambers, where infants are concerned: see Rule 717; Cayley v. Colbet, 2 Chy. Ch. 431; but in other cases the motion must be to the Court. An immediate sale has been granted on the consent of the mortgagor, and without the consent of the subsequent incumbrancers: Township of Hamilton v. Stephenson, 25 Gr. 198; but Blake, V.C., repeatedly refused to make such a decree without the consent of the subsequent incumbrancers, on the ground that the equity of redemption might be worthless, and the mortgagor might have really no interest in the mortgaged property.

Where a decree for sale was pronounced in Court, the Referee in Chambers refused to entertain a motion for a final order for sale, before the time for redemption had expired: Buell v. Fisher, 6 P. R. 51.

Where sale is asked by the mortgagor or incumbrancer, deposit to be made.

349. If the request for a sale is made by a subsequent incumbrancer, or by the mortgagor, or by any person claiming under them respectively, the party making the request is to deposit in Court the sum of $80 for the purpose of covering expenses unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge. See Chy. O. 429.

Chy. Ord. 429, from which this Rule is adapted, required the deposit of "a reasonable sum." The usual amount required was $80, but on special application before the sale, it was sometimes increased: London & C. L. & A. Co. v. Morrison, 7 P. R. 450; 15 C. L. J. 57. But an application after the sale had taken place to increase the deposit would not be entertained, even though the sale had failed to realise the amount of the plaintiff's claim: London & C. L. & A. Co. v. Pulford, 7 P. R. 432; 15 C. L. J. 55.

Deposit to secure sale in mortgage cases.

By the form of indorsement on the writ in mortgage actions, the amount of the deposit to be made by a defendant served with the writ, in order to secure a sale, is $80: see Form 9 c. When the sale is applied for by an original defendant to the action, an application to increase the amount of the deposit cannot be entertained, even though the costs of the sale will exceed $80: Cruso v. Close, 8 P. R. 33; and it would seem that the same rule will apply to subsequent incumbrancers obtaining a sale under this Rule: but the plaintiff may notify the defendant desiring the sale, to take the conduct of it: see Rule 351.

The deposit will not be dispensed with, even though the security be ample : Thompson v. Macaulay, 3 Chy. Ch. 111 ; or the applicant be a trustee : Machell v. Campbell, 5 U. C. L. J. 117 ; and a defendant cannot claim a sale against the consent of the mortgagee without making the deposit : Taylor v. Walker, 8 Gr. 506 ; except in the case of infant defendants, who are entitled to a sale, without the usual deposit : Bank of Upper Canada v. Scott, 6 Gr. 451 ; Lawrason v. Fitzgerald, 9 Gr. 371 ; but see Western Canada Loan & S. Co. v. Dunn, 9 P. R. 587. Where the sale is abortive, the deposit is applicable to the payment of the plaintiff's costs thereof : Corsellis v. Patman, L. R. 4 Eq. 156 ; and where the deposit was paid in by the mortgagor, and the sale realised enough to pay the claim of the plaintiff, but not all the subsequent incumbrances, the mortgagor was held not to be entitled to get back the deposit, but it was directed to be applied in payment of the claim of a subsequent incumbrancer : Gzowski v. Beaty, 8 P. R. 146.

Rule 350.
Cannot be dispensed with.
Except in case of infant defendants.
Application of deposit.

350. An incumbrancer made a party in the Master's office, and entitled to, and desiring a sale of the mortgaged premises, is to make the necessary deposit therefor before the Master's report is settled, whereupon an order may be issued on præcipe directing a sale of the mortgaged premises instead of a foreclosure, and thereupon the Master is to compute subsequent interest, and appoint a time and place, or times and places, for payment ; and all subsequent proceedings are to be taken and had as if the judgment had been in the first instance a judgment for sale. Chy. O. 456.

Incumbrancer made a party to a foreclosure suit, in the M. O., may apply for a sale.

The powers conferred by Chy. Order 456, from which this Rule is taken, were not extended under the former practice to the Deputy Registrars ; and there appears to be nothing in these Rules to extend the powers hereby conferred to Local Registrars, Deputy Registrars, or Deputy Clerks of the Crown. The order for sale does not come within the class of orders referred to in Rule 25. All applications under this Rule therefore should be made to the Registrar of the Division in which the action is pending.

Powers conferred by Rule 350, not extended to local officers.

The præcipe should show on whose behalf the application is made, and should also state that the applicant is an incumbrancer, made a party in the Master's office, who has proved a claim ; and that the Master's report has not been settled ; and should be accompanied by the certificate of the Accountant of the payment into Court of the requisite deposit of $80.

Præcipe for sale, form of.

An application, after the sale has taken place, to increase the amount of the deposit is too late : London & Canadian Loan & Agency Co. v. Pulford, 7 P. R. 432. Such an application should be made before the order for sale has been acted on : London & Canadian Loan & Agency Co. v. Morrison, 7 P. R. 450.

Application to increase deposit.

If the plaintiff deem the deposit inadequate he may require the incumbrancer obtaining the order for sale to conduct the sale : see Rule 351.

Where the sale realises sufficient to pay the plaintiff's claim, but not the claims of subsequent incumbrancers, the deposit will be ordered to be applied on account of the claims of the latter, according to their priorities : Gzowski v. Beaty, 8 P. R. 146. And where the sale proved abortive, except as to one parcel, which did not realize sufficient to pay the plaintiff's claim, the deposit was applied on account of plaintiff's costs of sale : Corsellis v. Patman, L. R. 4 Eq. 156.

Deposit, how applied.

Although a mortgagee by deposit is not entitled to a sale : see Rule 347, note ; yet a subsequent legal mortgagee made a party to the suit by the equitable mortgagee, is entitled to apply for a sale under this Rule : Kerr v. Beebe, 12 Gr. 294.

Rules 351-353.

Plaintiff may require defendant asking sale to conduct it.

351. If before or upon the deposit to obtain a sale being made, the plaintiff prefers that the sale be conducted by the defendant desiring the sale, he may so elect; and he is thereupon to notify the defendant of such election. The notice may be to the effect set forth in Form No. 32 in the Appendix. Chy. O. 430.

Plaintiff may have reserved bid fixed.

Where the defendant claims a sale contrary to the wish of the plaintiff, the latter may protect himself against the mortgaged property being sold for less than his claim by getting a reserved bid fixed, and in the event of the sale proving abortive, he may obtain a final order for foreclosure: see note to Rule 347.

As to when the plaintiff may apply to increase the deposit, see note to Rule 349.

On filing notice, deposit to be returned to defendant.

352. Upon the plaintiff's filing in the office in which appearance is required to be entered a note of such election, and proof of service of such notice, the defendant making the deposit is to be entitled to a return thereof. Chy. O. 431.

Before the money can be obtained proof will have to be given to the Accountant of the due filing of the notice of election. The production of an office copy, with a certificate of its being filed would seem to be the proper proof.

In default of redemption final order may be granted in Chambers.

353. In default of payment being made according to the report in a foreclosure or redemption action, a final order of foreclosure may be granted against the party making default on an ex parte application. Chy. O. 451.

Judgments in mortgage actions in the usual form, are to be read as if this Rule was incorporated therein: see Rule 776. By the terms of this Rule it is confined to foreclosure and redemption actions, but it was always the practice under the Chy. Ord. 451, which was in similar terms, where the judgment was for sale in default of redemption, in like manner to obtain a final order for sale; and see Rule 133.

A final order is, generally speaking, necessary in all cases where a judgment directs anything to be done, upon the default of a party in doing a given act by a future day; the final order being the judicial determination that the default has in fact taken place.

Application for, how made.

Application for Final Order.—The application may be made to the Master in Chambers, or to any local officer having like jurisdiction.

Affidavit of non-payment to be produced.

In order to obtain a final order for default of redemption in a mortgage action, it is necessary to produce an office copy of the judgment, an office copy of the report, if any, the affidavit of the party to be redeemed of non-payment, and non-receipt of rents, and negativing his being in possession: Scott v. McDonnell, 1 Chy. Ch. 193; Burford v. Lymburner, Ib. 275; Prees v. Coke, L. R. 6 Chy. 645; or in case any sum has been paid since the account was taken, and before the day appointed for redemption, showing that notice has been given pursuant to Rule 365; or in case the party is in possession showing no receipts, beyond those for which credit has been given in the account. For forms of affidavits, see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., Nos. 684-686.

Certificate of bank officer.

There must also be produced a certificate of the cashier, or other like officer: Campbell v. Garrett, 1 Chy. Ch. 255, of the Bank, where the money is appointed to be paid, of non-payment of the money, before, on, or since, the day appointed for payment: Farrell v. Stokes, 1 Chy. Ch. 201; duly verified by affidavit. Rule 353.

Affidavit of Non-payment.—Where there are several parties entitled to the money directed to be paid, the affidavit of non-payment should be made by all: Annis v. Wilson, 1 Chy. Ch. 217; Kinnaird v. Yorke, 60 L. T. N. S. 380; but where one of the parties is out of the jurisdiction, his affidavit may be dispensed with: Lyman v. Kirkpatrick, 2 Gr. 625; Counter v. Wylde, 1 Gr. 538; and see Frith v. Cooke, 52 L. T. N. S. 798, where the affidavit of the plaintiff's solicitor was accepted; Kinnaird v. Yorke supra; where a sole plaintiff resides out of the jurisdiction, the affidavit of his agent will be accepted, and in such case the affidavit should show where the custody of the mortgage has been: Roe v. Shaw, 1 Chy. Ch. 209; and where, in such a case, the affidavit is made by the solicitor of the plaintiff, it should show that the plaintiff has no other agent within the jurisdiction authorized to receive the money: Taylor v. Cuthbert, 1 Chy. Ch. 240; but see Moody v. Tyrrell, 6 P. R. 313; Gillen v. Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation, 7 Ont. 146; McMullen v. Polly, 12 Ont. 702; 13 Ont. 209. An agent should state that he is authorized to receive the money: Powers v. Merriman, 1 Chy. Ch. 225; but it is not, however, necessary to produce the agent's authority: Radclyffe v. Duffy, 1 Chy. Ch. 302; and where the party to receive the money is a corporation aggregate, the affidavit of an officer of the company, must show that he is the proper officer to receive the mortgage money: Western Assurance Co. v. Capreol, 1 Chy. Ch. 227. Affidavit of non-payment, by whom to be made.

The affidavit of non-payment must be made after the day appointed for redemption: Blong v. Kennedy, 2 Ch. Ch. 453. When to be made.

When Notice Necessary.—The motion for a final order is usually ex parte: Henderson v. Cowan, 1 Chy. Ch. 297; Rule 353. But where two years had elapsed since the default, before the motion was made, notice was required to be served: Kirkchoffer v. Stafford, 2 Chy. Ch. 52; Ardagh v. Orchard, 2 C. L. J. 303; and where it appeared by the report, that the defendant had not received notice of the proceedings in the Master's office, in a case in which he was entitled to notice, notice of the motion was required to be served: McCormick v. McCormick, 6 P. R. 208; and where the account has been changed even after the day appointed for redemption, notice should be served: Portman v. Smith, 2 C. L. J. 167. Notice of motion when necessary.

On what Grounds Final Order Refused.—The order may be refused where the account is changed by the receipt of money before the day fixed for redemption: Prees v. Coke, L. R. 6 Chy. 645; Garlick v. Jackson, 4 Beav. 154. Final order when refused, where account changed.

Where the mortgagee is in occupation, or receipt of rents, he should be charged with rents up to the day fixed for redemption, or a new account must be taken, and a new day appointed for payment: Pipe v. Shafer, 1 Chy. Ch. 251; and it was held that this must be done even where the plaintiff swore he was in occupation merely as a caretaker: Cummer v. Tomlinson, 1 Chy. Ch. 235; or where a receiver had been appointed: Jenner-Fust v. Needham, 31 Ch. D. 500; 54 L. T. N. S. 420, affirmed by C. A.; 32 Ch. D. 582; Piat v. Nicholson, 80 L. T. Jour. 374; but see ante Rule 130, note: Hoare v. Stephens, 32 Ch. D. 194; 54 L. T. N. S. 230; Holt v. Beagle, 55 L. T. N. S. 592.

But the plaintiff's going into possession and receiving rents, after the day appointed for payment, does not affect his right to a final order: Portman v. Smith, 2 C. L. J. 167; Greenshields v. Blackwood, 1 Chy. Ch. 60; Constable v. Howick, 5 Jur. N. S. 331.

Where before the day appointed for payment, the office of the bank, at which the money is made payable, is closed, a new day must be appointed: King v. Connor, 1 Chy. Ch. 274. So where a Sunday was appointed for payment, the final order was refused: Holcumb v. Leach, 3 Gr. 449. Refused, where bank closed.

Where it appeared that the decree was erroneous, a final order was refused: Commercial Bank v. Graham, 4 Gr. 419; and see Mitchell v. Strathy, 28 Gr. 80. Or judgment erroneous.

Rule 353.

Death of mortgagee, effect of.

Where a sole mortgagee, or one of several joint mortgagees, dies before the day appointed for payment, unless the judgment provides in the latter case for payment to the survivors, a new account must be taken, and a new day appointed: Blackburn v. Caine, 22 Beav. 614; Kingsford v. Poile, 8 W. R. 110.

Crown cannot be foreclosed.

Where the Crown is entitled to the equity of redemption, a final order of foreclosure cannot be obtained, but merely an order authorizing the mortgagee to take possession until the Crown may see fit to redeem: Dunn v. Attorney-General, 10 Gr. 482, or the security be satisfied; Hodge v. Attorney-General, 3 Y. & C. 342; Seton, 1044. A sale may be ordered where the Crown is interested: Bartlett v Rees, L. R. 12 Eq. 396.

Effect of final order. A bar to right of redemption.

Effect of Final Order. The final order of foreclosure, so long as it remains in force, is an absolute bar to the parties foreclosed from claiming the right to redeem. But it is no bar to the mortgagee, as long as he is in a position to restore the mortgaged property, from seeking to enforce payment of the mortgage debt: Lockhart v. Hardy, 9 Beav. 349; Munsen v. Hauss, 22 Gr. 279. But if, after a final order of foreclosure, he takes proceedings to enforce payment of the debt, that ipso facto operates as an opening of the foreclosure, and entitles the mortgagor to a reconveyance on payment of the money: Palmer v. Hendrie, 27 Beav. 349; 28 Beav. 341. If, however, the mortgagee, by his own act, unauthorized by the mortgagor, has made it impossible to restore the mortgaged property, proceedings to enforce payment of the debt will be stayed on the application of the mortgagor: Ib.; The British & Canadian Loan & Investment Co. v. Williams, 15 Ont. 366.

Unless mortgagee enforce payment of mortgage debt.

A final order of foreclosure obtained against an assignee of the equity of redemption for the benefit of creditors, is no estoppel to a subsequent action by him on behalf of the creditors of the mortgagor, under R. S. O. c. 124, s. 7, s.s. 2, to set aside the mortgage for fraud, where no such issue was raised in the action for foreclosure: Glass v. Grant, 16 Ont. 233.

Opening foreclosure at the instance of the mortgagor.

Opening of Foreclosure at the Instance of the Mortgagor.—Even after a final order has been obtained, the mortgagor may apply to set aside the order, and to be let in to redeem; and this relief was granted even as against a purchaser from the mortgagee after the final order of foreclosure: Campbell v. Holyland, 7 Ch. D. 166; 26 W. R. 160; Johnston v. Johnston, 9 P. R. 259; but it has been said that this relief can only be granted where the final order has been obtained by actual, positive fraud, or under circumstances of oppression: Patch v. Ward, L. R. 3 Chy. 203, 212; and in Trinity College v. Hill, 2 Ont. 348; 18 C. L. J. 387, the relief was refused as against a purchaser from the mortgagee after the final order, there being no such circumstances; but this case was subsequently reversed in appeal on the ground of irregularity in the proceedings; the sale having taken place under a decree nisi, which had not been made absolute before the final order was obtained: S. C. 10 Ont. App. 99.

Not opened as against purchaser from mortgagee except where fraud shown.

When rights of third parties do not intervene, it may be opened.

When the rights of third parties do not intervene, and the plaintiff can be replaced in the same position he occupied before the default, and recompensed for any damages he may have suffered, and there is a reasonable prospect for payment shewn, the foreclosure may be opened and the time for payment extended: Waddell v. McColl, 2 Chy. Ch. 62; but some reasonable excuse must be shewn for not redeeming at the time appointed, and the fact that the property is of much greater value than the amount due should be established: Johnson v. Ashbridge, 2 Chy. Ch. 251. The fact that the property has increased in value, is not alone a sufficient ground for opening the foreclosure: Miles v. Cameron, 9 P. R. 502; 19 C. L. J. 235; 3 C. L. T. 361. In Platt v. Ashbridge, 12 Gr. 105, the foreclosure was opened after a lapse of eighteen months, the mortgagor being illiterate, and having no solicitor, and not understanding the proceedings, and the property appearing to be worth three times the amount of the incumbrance. Where, after a final order of foreclosure against subsequent incumbrancers, the mortgagor redeems; that has the effect of opening the foreclosure as against the subsequent incumbrancers: Read v. Smith, 14 Gr. 250, S. C. 16 Gr. 52; Box v. Bridgman, 6 P. R. 234; Otter v. Lord Vaux, 2 K. J. 650; 6 D. M. & G. 638; and see Ledbrook v. Passman, 59 L. T. N. S. 306. In Hilliard v. Campbell, 7 Gr. 96, a final order of foreclosure

Terms on which Foreclosure Opened at the Instance of the Mortgagor. The terms on which a foreclosure is opened are in the discretion of the Court. Where the security is not ample, the mortgagor may be required to pay the interest and costs by an early day, and six months may be allowed for the payment of the principal: Fisher on Mortges. 3rd ed. 1063. But where the security is ample, the costs of the action, and of the application, may be ordered to be paid forthwith, and the time extended for payment of the principal and interest, the defendant being charged with interest on the gross amount of the principal and interest, for the period of the extension: see Trinity College v. Hill, 8 Ont. 286; 20 C. L. J. 359, 385; Holford v. Yate, 1 K. & J. 677; Whitfield v. Roberts, 7 Jur. N. S. 1268; and see Howard v. McClura, 1 Chy. Ch. 27, and other cases cited in note to Rule 130. Terms on which foreclosure opened.

Opening of the Foreclosure by the Mortgagee. So long as the mortgagee is in a position to restore the mortgaged property, he may at any time, open the foreclosure by enforcing payment of the debt. But if, after he have obtained a final order, he has parted with the mortgaged estate, or any part of it, so that he is not in a position to re-convey, he will be restrained from recovering the debt: Lockhart v. Hardy, 9 Beav. 349; Gowland v. Garbutt, 13 Gr. 583; Burnham v. Galt, 16 Gr. 417; but see Bald v. Thompson, 16 Gr. 177; but the making of a mortgage by the mortgagee on the mortgaged estate, will not prevent him from opening the foreclosure by suing for the mortgage debt, if at the time of his bringing the action, he has paid off the mortgage, and is in a position to re-convey: Munsen v. Hauss, 22 Gr. 279. Opening foreclosure by mortgagee. Cannot be opened by mortgagee if not in a position to re-convey.

A mortgagee who has exercised his power of sale, where there is a personal liability to pay the mortgage debt, is entitled to sue for the deficiency; the fact that the mortgagee has acquired the land since the sale, is no objection to his right to recover; Pegg v. Hobson, 14 Ont. 272. In the absence of any objection to the sale under the power, the acquisition of the estate by the mortgagee would not give the mortgagor any new right of redemption.

354. In the event of the purchase money being insufficient to pay what has been found due to the plaintiff for principal, interest, and costs, subsequent interest, and subsequent costs in an action for sale, the plaintiff is to be entitled (where the mortgagor is a defendant, and such relief is prayed for), to an order ex parte for the payment of the deficiency. Chy. O. 455. Order for payment of deficiency may be obtained, when.

Where a personal order for payment is claimed by indorsement on the writ, that relief may now be awarded by the judgment in the first instance, without waiting for the ascertainment of the deficiency: see Forms 182, 183. Judgment on covenant, on præcipe.

Where the judgment is for foreclosure, accompanied by a personal remedy for payment of the mortgage debt, if the mortgagee, after obtaining a final order for foreclosure, enforce the judgment for payment, by issuing execution, or otherwise, he thereby opens the foreclosure. If he have, in such a case, parted with the mortgaged property after obtaining the final order, any further proceedings to enforce the payment of the debt will be restrained on motion: see Rule 353, note. Enforcing judgment on covenant after foreclosure.

The order for payment of deficiency can only be granted where there is a personal liability to pay. Where there is no contract to pay the debt between the plaintiff and defendant, or no privity between them, the order will not be granted, even though the defendant have agreed with some third party who is liable to the plaintiff, to assume and pay the mortgage debt: Christie v. Dowker, 10 Gr. 199; 10 U. C. L. J. 161; Clarkson v. Scott, 25 Gr. 373; Norris v. Meadows, 28 Gr. 334; and other cases cited in note to Rule 347. In the absence Order for payment of deficiency, only granted when there is a personal liability.

of an express covenant in the mortgage, the law will imply a contract to repay: Sutton v. Sutton, 22 Ch. D. 511; 48 L. T. N. S. 95; but there must be evidence of a debt, or loan: Hall v. Morley, U. C. Q. B. 584; Pearman v. Hyland, 22 U. C. Q. B. 202; Jackson v. Yeomans, 19 C. P. 394; Jackson v. Yeomans, 28 U. C. Q. B. 307; S. C. 39 U. C. Q. B. 280.

A mortgagee who has exercised his power of sale is entitled to sue for any deficiency which may remain due after deducting the proceeds of the sale, and the fact that the mortgagee has again acquired the land is no objection to his right to recover: Pegg v. Hobson, 14 Ont. 272.

Where a mortgagor who has parted with his equity of redemption is sued on his covenant to pay the mortgage debt, he is entitled, as against the assignee of the equity of redemption, to a lien on the mortgaged land, if still in the hands of the mortgagee, for any sum so paid, if the assignee of the equity of redemption has agreed to assume the mortgage: Hamilton Provident L. & I. Co. v. Smith, 17 Ont. 1.

Where account changed after order, or report, notice of credit may be given.

355. Where the state of the account ascertained by an order, or by the report of the Master, is changed by payment of money, by receipt of rents and profits, by occupation rent, or otherwise, before the final order for foreclosure or sale is obtained, the plaintiff, or other party to whom the mortgage money is payable, may give notice to the party by whom the same is payable, that he gives him credit for a sum certain, to be named in the notice, and that he claims that there remains due in respect of such mortgage money a sum certain, to be also named in the notice. Chy. O. 457.

Notice of credit must be served before day of payment.

The notice of credit must be given before the day for payment arrives: Knottinger v. Barber, 1 Chy. Ch. 258. Notice of credit of payments, or rents, which have been received after the day fixed for redemption, need not be given: see Rule 353 note. Such payments do not affect the plaintiff's right to a final order, unless indeed they amount to a total extinguishment of the debt.

When notice has been duly given under this Rule, the final order may be obtained notwithstanding the alteration in the state of the account, without appointing any new day.

Final order may be granted.

356. Upon the final order for foreclosure or sale being applied for, if the Judge thinks the sums named in the notice proper to be allowed and paid under the circumstances, the order for final foreclosure is to go without further notice, unless the Judge directs notice to be given. Chy. O. 458.

See notes to Rule 353; in practice that Rule has been construed as authorizing a final order for sale, or foreclosure, according as the judgment might be for sale or foreclosure.

Party receiving sums after report, etc., may apply

357. The party to whom the mortgage money is payable, may apply in Chambers for a reference to a Master, or for an appointment, to fix such sums respectively; and in the latter case either upon notice, or ex parte, as the Judge thinks fit; and the order to be made thereupon is to be served, or service thereof to be dispensed with, as the Judge directs. Chy. O. 459.

Rules 358, 359. for new day for payment.

358. The party to whom such notice is given may apply in Chambers for an appointment to ascertain and fix the amounts proper to be allowed and paid, instead of the amounts mentioned in such notice; or for a reference to a Master for the like purpose; and in case the Judge thinks a reference to a Master proper, the same may be made ex parte unless the Judge otherwise directs. Chy. O. 460.

Party served with notice of credit, may apply.

359. In an action for the foreclosure or sale of the equity of redemption in any mortgaged property, or for recovery of possession thereof, for default in the payment of interest, or of an instalment of the principal, the defendant may, [before judgment,] move to dismiss the action upon paying into Court the amount then due for principal, interest and costs. Chy. O. 461; R. S. O. 1877, c. 51, s. 71.

Action brought for default in payment of instalment of principal, or interest may be dismissed on payment of arrears and costs.

The words in brackets are new and have been inserted for the sake of greater clearness.

After judgment Rule 360 applies.

Rule 359 applies, to actions for redemption.

The Rule in terms is confined to actions for foreclosure, or sale, but it has been held that a mortgagor bringing an action for redemption, is within the equity of this Rule: Moore v. Merritt, 6 Gr. 550; Dornyn v. Fralick, 21 Gr. 194; but see contra, Tyler v. Hinton, 3 Ont. App. 53; but a plaintiff claiming the benefit of this Rule is not entitled to six months for payment of the instalment in default: Dornyn v. Fralick, supra. The Rule is held not to apply where the mortgagee is seeking to enforce a power of sale: Robertson v. Hetherington, 8 C. L. T. 141.

Mortgagee bringing action cannot claim six months' notice, or six months' interest.

Formerly when the principal money due under a mortgage was not paid off at the date at which it was covenanted to be paid, the mortgagee was entitled to six months' notice of payment, or six months' interest: Latshaw v. Davis, Blake, V.C., 7 June, 1877; and see Re Houston, 2 Ont. 84; Trust & Loan Co. v. Kirk 8 P. R. 203; Archbold v. Building & Loan Association, 15 Ont. 237; notice was not necessary where the six month's credit was paid: Johnson v. Evans, 61. L. T. N. S. 18; but a mortgagee bringing an action for sale, or foreclosure, could not insist on getting six months' notice of payment, or in default thereof, six months' interest: Letts v. Hutchins, L. R. 13 Eq. 176; Re Alcock, Prescott v. Phipps, 23 Ch. D. 372; 49 L. T. N. S. 240; nor could a mortgagee who proved his claim in a partition action: Re Houston, 2 Ont. 84; and see In re Moss, Levy v. Sewill, 31 Chy. D. 90; 54 L. T. N. S. 49. This right to six months' notice, or six months' interest does not exist as regards mortgages made after 1st July, 1888, unless there is an express stipulation therein to that effect: see 51 Vict. c. 15, s. 2 (O.)

In default of payment of instalment, whole amount secured becomes due.

Upon default in payment of any instalment of principal, or interest, the mortgagee has a right, without any express stipulation to that effect, to call in the whole amount secured by the mortgage: Cameron v. McRae, 3 Gr. 311; but this right may be qualified by the express stipulation of the parties, as, for instance, where there was an express proviso that in default of payment of any instalment of interest for six months, the whole principal money should become payable, it was held that a suit for foreclosure would not lie until the lapse of the six months: Parker v. The Vine Growers' Association, 23 Gr. 179. Where there was a proviso accelerating payment of principal and interest in the event of the mortgagor mortgaging, or otherwise incumbering, the property, or suffering it to become liable to sale for taxes, it was held that a voluntary assignment in insolvency was not within the proviso: McKay v. McFarlane, 19 Gr. 345. Under a clause accelerating payment of mortgage money in the event of default, a mortgagee who neglects to call in the mortgage money pursuant to the proviso, cannot in a redemption suit treat the sums, of which the payments is accelerated as overdue, and claim interest thereon: McLaren v. Miller, 20 Gr. 637.

How far Court can relieve against express proviso for accelerating payment in event of default, quære?

It was held by Spragge, C., that even though there be an express stipulation in the mortgage, that in default of payment of any instalment the whole mortgage money shall become payable, that the mortgagor may, nevertheless, after default, claim the benefit of this Rule: Gemmell v. Burn, 7 P. R. 381; and see Knapp v. Cameron, 6 Gr. 559; but in Tylee v. Hinton, 3 Ont. App. 53, Moss, C.J.A., expressed a doubt whether the Court had any power to relieve against such a stipulation, either under this Rule, or under its inherent jurisdiction to relieve against penalties, and forfeitures; and see General Credit & Discount Co. v. Glegg, 48 L. T. N. S. 182. It cannot, therefore, be said to be clear that the Rule applies to cases where there is an express proviso accelerating the payment of the mortgage debt in the event of default.

Interest to be paid up to last gale day.

Where a defendant moves to stay proceedings under this Rule, he may obtain the stay, on payment of the interest calculated up to the last gale day, and is not obliged to pay it, up to the time of making the application: Strachan v. Murney, 6 Gr. 378; but, if the defendant desires to pay off the whole amount of the mortgage debt, the mortgagee cannot refuse to accept it: Cruso v. Bond, 9 P. R. 111; 1 Ont. 384, (overruling Green v. Adams, 2 Chy. Ch. 134); although in a redemption suit he might not be bound to accept more than the instalments in arrear.

Mortgagee plaintiff cannot refuse to accept payment of whole debt.

An application may be made, after judgment has been obtained, to stay proceedings on payment of the arrears: see Rule 360.

After judgment proceedings may be stayed on payment of arrears and costs.

360. In an action for the purpose and under the circumstances specified in the last Rule, a defendant may move to stay proceedings in the action, [after judgment,] but before sale or final foreclosure, or recovery of possession of the mortgaged property by the plaintiff, upon paying into Court the amount then due for principal, interest and costs. Chy. O. 462.

See notes to preceding Rule.

Stay of proceedings under Rule 360, effect of.

After payment has been made, under this Rule, of the instalments in arrear, it is irregular for the plaintiff to take any further proceedings in the action, until another instalment falls due: Carroll v. Hopkins, 4 Gr. 431; and see Rule 361.

On subsequent default decree may be enforced.

361. Where an application is made to stay the proceedings under Rule 360, the judgment may afterwards be enforced, by order of the Court, upon subsequent default in the payment of a further instalment of the principal, or of the interest. Chy. O. 463.

Where subsequent default made

Where, after a judgment of foreclosure, the proceedings are stayed under Rule 360; on a subsequent default being made on the plaintiff's application to enforce the judgment, and the defendant asking for a further stay on payment of the arrears, an order may be made directing payment of the whole sum in six months, and in default foreclosure, with liberty to the defendant to pay the arrears forthwith, and in that event staying the proceedings: Strachan v. Devlin, 1 Chy. Ch. 8. Rules 362-364. after stay, form of order.

362. In a redemption action, in default of payment being made according to the report, the defendant is to be entitled on an ex parte application in Chambers to a final order of foreclosure against the plaintiff, or to an order dismissing the action with costs to be paid by the plaintiff to the defendant, forthwith after taxation thereof. J. A. Rule 333. Order on default.

See Rules 353, 363, and notes.

363. In a redemption action where the plaintiff is declared foreclosed, directions may be given either by the final order foreclosing the plaintiff, or by subsequent orders, that all necessary inquiries be made, accounts taken and proceedings had for redemption or foreclosure, or redemption or sale, as against any subsequent incumbrancers, or for the adjustment of the relative rights and liabilities of the original defendants as among themselves, and such order shall have the same force and effect as a judgment obtained by the original defendant. J. A. Rule 334. Directions where plaintiff in redemption suit is foreclosed.

The provisions of this Rule seem to be based on Chy. Ord. 466.

The dismissal of an action for redemption by a mortgagor usually operates as a foreclosure; and where a bill did not pray redemption, but a decree for redemption was granted, it would seem a subsequent dismissal operated as a foreclosure: Cornwall v. Henriod, 12 Gr. 338; but this is not the case where the mortgage is by deposit of title deeds, because in such a case a judgment of foreclosure would provide for the execution of a legal mortgage, but the mere dismissal of an action to redeem, cannot have that effect, though it may preclude the mortgagor from bringing another action to redeem: Marshall v. Shrewsbury, L. R. 10 Chy. 250. Dismissal of action for redemption operates as a foreclosure.

Where an action for redemption is brought by a second mortgagee and he is foreclosed, the mortgagor, as well as the first mortgagee, has a right to have a day appointed for the redemption of the first mortgage by the mortgagor: McKinnon v. Anderson, 18 Gr. 684. The defendant who is sought to be redeemed, need not, unless he pleases, proceed under this Rule, and he cannot be deprived of costs of any subsequent action for foreclosure, or redemption, for not having done so. Ib. Subsequent proceedings.

Where a second mortgagee brings an action to redeem a prior mortgagee and to foreclose the mortgagor in default of redemption, the action may be dismissed as against both the prior mortgagee, and the mortgagor, with costs: Hallett v. Furze, 31 Ch. D. 312; 54 L. T. N. S. 12.

CROWN ACTIONS.

364. The procedure and forms which are from time to time in force for the prosecution of rights, claims or demands, or for the recovery of the possession of any lands, Forms and procedure in Crown actions.

deeds or personal property between subject and subject, shall be used in the like cases for the prosecution of rights, claims or demands which her Majesty may have against any person or persons, body or bodies corporate, or for the recovery of the possession of any lands, deeds or personal property whereto Her Majesty claims to be entitled, but the right of reply shall be always allowed to the Attorney-General, and to any Queen's Counsel having written authority from him for that purpose. R. S. O. 1877, c. 58, ss. 6, 8.

Costs in revenue cases.

365. In case in any action, or other proceeding before any Court or tribunal in Ontario, by or on behalf of the Crown, against any corporation or person, in respect of any lands, tenements or hereditaments, or of any goods or chattels belonging to or accruing to the Crown, or standing or being in the name of Her Majesty, or in respect of any sum of money due and owing to Her Majesty by virtue of any vote of the Legislature for the service of the Crown, or by virtue of any statute relating to the public revenue, or in any manner whatsoever, judgment is given for the Crown, Her Majesty's Attorney-General may recover costs in the same manner as and under the same rules, regulations and provisions that apply to the payment or receipt of costs in proceedings between subject and subject. R. S. O. 1877, c. 58, s. 9.

Defendant may recover costs in revenue cases.

366. If in any information, action, or other proceeding, judgment is given against the Crown, the defendant is entitled to costs, subject to the same rules as though such proceeding had been had between subject and subject. R. S. O. 1877, c. 58, s. 10.

In Atty.-Gen. v. Winser, 60 L. T. N. S. 930, the Atty.-Gen. notified the defendant that the information would not be further prosecuted, and it was held that there was no power to dismiss it for want of prosecution, or to award costs to the defendant as the cause was not determined. Quære, in Ontario.

High Court may issue writs of summons in the same cases as sci. fa. formerly issued.

367. Notwithstanding the want of enrolment, writs of summons to repeal letters patent, grants or other matter of record under the Great Seal, shall be issued in the same cases and under the same restrictions, as nearly as may be, as writs of scire facias were on the 5th day of December, 1859, issuable from the Court of Chancery in England; and all the proceedings thereafter shall be the same as the proceedings in an ordinary action; but before the issue of any such writ, the party making application for the same shall, in addition to the fiat of the Attorney-General, file in the Court from which the writ is to be issued, an exemplification under the Great Seal of the Province of the letters patent, grant or other matter of record with respect to which the said writ is to be issued. See R. PLEADINGS.

1. Statement of claim, 368-370.
2. Defence and Counterclaim, 371-383.
3. Demurrer, 384-391.
4. Close of Pleadings, 392, 393.
5. Pleading Generally, 394-419.
6. Issues, 420.
7. Striking out, amending Pleadings, etc., 421-433.
8. Pleading Matters arising Pending Action, 434-440.

1. Statement of Claim.

368. The plaintiff shall state the nature of his claim and the relief sought in a pleading to be called the Statement of Claim. New.

Statement of claim, when necessary.

A statement of claim is necessary where the defendant has not dispensed with it at the time of appearance: see Appendix, Form 93 and Rule 369; and even where no appearance is entered, if the case is one in which the plaintiff can only obtain judgment by motion for judgment: see Minton v. Metcalfe, 46 L. J. Chy. 584; Hunter v. Wilcockson, 9 P. R. 305, except where Rule 299 applies.

No statement of claim is necessary where (1) the defendant does not require one; or (2) the Court dispenses with it: Chorlton v. Dickie, 13 Ch. D. 160; or (3) the defendant has not appeared, and the judgment can be obtained by default of appearance: see Rules 704, et seq., and 718; or (4) a defendant has not been allowed to defend under Rule 739. So also formerly under original Rule 162, where he had obtained leave to defend, and no order was made as to delivery of pleadings: Atkins v. Taylor, W. N. 1876, 11; Margate Pier & Harbour Co. v. Perry, W. N. 1876, 52. That Rule has, however, been abrogated by the Con. Rules.

If the defendant dispenses with the delivery of a statement of claim, the summons is filed, and becomes the only pleading necessary: Rule 369 b. Where a statement of claim is necessary, if the writ has been specially indorsed, Rule 369. the plaintiff may deliver notice, under Rule 370, that his claim is that which appears by the indorsement upon the writ. Where such notice will not suffice, the statement of claim will be framed in accordance with the models given in Appendix No. 53, et seq.

The plaintiff may deliver a statement, even though the defendant has stated in his appearance that he does not require one (Rule 369 c); subject to the power of the Court, or the taxing officer (Rule 1195), with regard to costs occasioned thereby, if the delivery be unnecessary or improper.

Form. Form of Statement of Claim—A statement of claim will, to some extent, follow the writ as to the names of the parties and the character in which sued or suing. Probably, as formerly, the plaintiff will not be strictly confined to the particulars of his cause of action specially indorsed: Rule 265; see Sowden v. Sowden, 4 P. R. 276; Huggins v. Guelph Barrel Co., 7 P. R. 170; Johnson v. Palmer, 4 C. P. D. 258; Large v. Large, W. N. 1877, 198; Lainchberry v. Dunn, 9 C. L. T. 412; and note to Rule 444; but see Ker v. Williams, W. N. 1886, 16; and United Telephone Co. v. Tasker, 59 L. T. N. S. 852, where it was held to be irregular to introduce into the statement of claim a different cause of action not mentioned in the writ.

If the defendant does not appear, the plaintiff cannot, in his statement of claim, enlarge his claim as indorsed on the writ: Law v. Philby, (2), 35 W. R. 450; Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160; see also Foord v. Brown, 20 L. R. Ir. 185; Stone v. Smith, 35 Ch. D. 188.

The plaintiff need not ask relief against all the defendants named in the writ, but may claim against some only, if he abandons proceedings against the rest, but not otherwise: Arch. Prac. 13th ed. 215.

In a statement of claim the mention of the date of the issue of the writ of summons, as shewn in Form 53 et seq., is essential. Where it was omitted, leave to amend was given on a motion to set aside the statement of claim: Scott v. Creighton, 9 P. R. 253. See Form 59.

As to printing the statement of claim: see Rules 395, 396. As to the causes of action which may be joined: see Rule 340. As to the form in which material facts should be set out: see Rule 399.

The facts in support of each separate cause of action should be separately stated as far as may be: Rule 405. Under the English Rules it has been said that, in general, a defence should not be anticipated and answered: Hall v. Eve, 4 Ch. D. 341; Clarke v. Callow, 46 L. J. Q. B. 53. The relief desired must be asked for: Rule 404. The place where the plaintiff proposes to try the action is to be mentioned in the statement of claim; and the plaintiff has a prima facie right to have the trial at any place he names in every kind of action, except ejectment: Rule 653; and except in certain kinds, actions which under particular Statutes are directed to be tried in a particular place: see notes to Rule 653; unless the preponderance of convenience is greatly in favour of some other place, in which case the place of trial will be changed: see Plum v. Normanton Iron, etc., Co., W. N. 1876, 105; Wood v. Kay, W. N. 1879, 206; Green v. Bennett, 32 W. R. 848; 50 L. T. N. S. 706; Walton v. Wideman, 10 P. R. 228. This, in effect, was the practice formerly in Chancery: Noad v. Noad, 6 P. R. 48; but as to the weight which is to be given to the cause of action as an element in determining the place which is most convenient for the trial, the opinions of the judges are conflicting: see note to Rule 653.

The signature of Counsel, though unnecessary: Rule 399, has been said in England to be desirable; Duckett v. Jones, W. N. 1876, 17; 33 L. T. N. S. 777; but is seldom if ever added in Ont.

Attention should be given to the matters mentioned in Rule 397. For the time for delivery: see Rules 369 and 480; and as to the mode of delivery: see Rules 397 and 461. A copy should be filed as well as served: Rule 398.

369. The delivery of the statement of claim shall be regulated as follows:—

Rule 369. Time within which to be delivered.

(a) If the defendant does not state that he does not require the delivery of a statement of claim, the plaintiff shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge, deliver it within three months from the time of the defendant's entering his appearance. J. A. Rule 158.

The Eng. Rules 1875, O. 21, r. 1 (a), (1883 R. 225), are different.

As to obtaining further time for delivery: see Higginbottom v. Aynsley, 3 Ch. D. 288.

An order extending the time will not be made ex parte: Wigle v. Harris, 9 P. R. 276.

A statement of claim filed after the time for doing so has expired without leave, has been held under the Irish Act to be not irregular, unless the defendant has served a notice of motion to dismiss: O'Connell v. O'Connell and Sampson v. O'Donnell, 6 L. R. Ir. 470, 471; but in Ontario it has been decided that a statement so filed is irregular, and may be struck out on motion in Chambers unless circumstances are shewn justifying an extension of time: Clarke v. McEwing, 9 P. R. 281; see Rule 369 (c). It cannot be treated as a nullity: Gill v. Woodfin, 25 Ch. D. 707; see also Graves v. Terry, in notes to Rules 371, 381.

Where a statement of claim was delivered after the time limited by an order, and an order afterwards was made extending the time for delivery on payment of $20 costs, and the costs were paid, but no new statement delivered, it was held, that though the delivery was irregular, it was waived by retaining the copy served and the costs: Pierce v. Palmer, 12 P. R. 275.

Where an order is made giving a further limited time to file a pleading, and providing that, in default, judgment may be signed, a judgment signed without serving a copy of the order is regular: see Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124.

A guardian ad litem of an infant, and a married woman, may waive delivery of a statement of claim: see Knatchbull v. Fowle, W. N. 1876, 2; Fryer v. Wiseman, W. N. 1876, 3.

The three months are calendar months: Rule 472; and in computing them long vacation is not reckoned: Rule 484. For the mode of delivery, see Rules 397, 461.

Where plaintiff has obtained an injunction or registered a lis pendens, or for other reasons justice so requires, the plaintiff may be ordered to file a statement of claim before the three months above mentioned: Hall v. Forteye, 9 C. L. T. 231; Jamieson v. Laing, 7 P. R. 404; Shepherd v. Kennedy, 10 P. R. 242.

See also notes to Rules 371, 381.

(b) If the defendant states that he does not require the delivery of a statement of claim, the plaintiff shall file a copy of the summons with all indorsements thereon within the same time.

Not in the English Rules, and seems to be now rather an unnecessary provision, as a copy of the writ with all indorsements is filed when the writ is issued: see Rule 234. The filing of another copy will, however, probably be necessary if proceedings in default of a defence are contemplated. As to delivery of defence in such case; see Rule 372.

The defendant is in his memorandum of appearance to state whether he requires the delivery of a statement of claim: see Rule 286 and Appendix Form, No. 93.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rule 370.

(c) The plaintiff may, if he thinks fit, deliver a statement of claim, with the writ of summons, or notice in lieu of writ of summons, or at any time afterwards, either before or after appearance, and although the defendant may have appeared and stated that he does not require the delivery of a statement of claim: Provided that in no case where a defendant has appeared shall a statement be delivered more than 3 months after the appearance has been entered, unless otherwise ordered by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 158. See J. A. Rule 126.

Substantially the same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 21, r. 1 (b), O. 19, r. 2 (1883 R. 225 d).

If the plaintiff delivers a statement of claim though not required to, the defendant must deliver a defence, but the plaintiff may be punished by being made to pay costs if his action is improper: see Rule 1195.

An application to enlarge the time will, in general, be by motion in Chambers. Or the time may be enlarged by consent: Rule 478. The consent should be in writing, and no order is then necessary: Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D. 759.

Where by mistake of a clerk of the plaintiff's solicitor, the statement of claim was served too late by two days, further time was given. The Court thought it immaterial that plaintiff had delayed bringing the action till shortly before the Statute of Limitations would have barred the claim: Canadian Oil Works v. Hay, 38 L. T. N. S. 549; W. N. 1878, 107; but the Court has refused to renew a writ of summons after the time for effecting the renewal has expired, where the claim, in the absence of such renewal, would be barred by the Statute of Limitations: Doyle v. Kaufman, 3 Q. B. D. 7, 340.

See also notes to Rules 369 (a) and 646.

Notice in lieu of statement of claim.

370. Where the writ is specially indorsed and the defendant has not dispensed with a statement of claim, it shall be sufficient for the plaintiff to [~~file a copy of the writ, with a copy of the special indorsement thereon, if not filed already, and~~] deliver as his statement of claim a notice to the effect that his claim is that which appears by the indorsement upon the writ, unless the Court or a Judge orders him to deliver a further statement.

(a) Such notice may be either written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, and may be in the Form No. 16 in the Appendix, and shall be marked on the face in the same manner as is required in the case of an ordinary statement of claim.

(b) When the plaintiff is ordered to deliver such further statement it shall be delivered within such time as by the order is directed; and if no time is so limited then within the time prescribed by Rule 369. J. A. Rule 159.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 21, r. 4, except the words in brackets. These words were originally consequent on the previous filing of a copy of the writ being made optional, instead of being imperative as in England: see original Rule 25. The filing of a copy is, however, now required upon the issuing of the writ: Rule 234. Rule 370.

The Eng. Rules of 1883 make a specially indorsed writ always suffice as a statement of claim: Rule 225 (a).

A "specially indorsed" writ would seem to be one indorsed within the meaning of Rule 245. Where a writ claims specific sums and also damages, and an injunction, it is not specially indorsed within the meaning of that Rule: Yeatman v. Snow, 28 W. R. 574.

A writ specially indorsed, and a notice given under this Rule, were in the earlier decisions on the Act, held to together constitute a pleading which might be demurred to: Robertson v. Howard, 3 C. P. D. 280; but it is now decided that a demurrer is not proper, and that the defendant's course is to apply under the present Rule for delivery of a further statement of claim: Fawcus v. Charlton, 10 Q. B. D. 516.

In money cases the plaintiff ought to indorse his writ in such a way that the notice may be given under this Rule, and with the view that the indorsement may furnish all necessary information to the defendant in regard to the claim: see Anon, W. N. 1875, 202, per Lush, J. Where the indorsement is not sufficiently explicit, particulars may be ordered, and further time to put in a defence given, if necessary: see Cotton v. Houseman, W. N. 1876, 22; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 36; but the proper form of application in such case would seem to be for a further statement of claim: Schomberg v. Zoebelli, W. N. 1876, 106; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 36. Particulars of lump sums, for which credit was given, were ordered in Godden v. Corsten, 5 C. P. D. 17.

For further information with regard to particulars, see notes to Rules 245, 399.

In an action for money alleged to have been obtained by fraudulent misrepresentation, the nature of which misrepresentation, and the particulars of the sums sued for being set out in the indorsement of the writ, it was held that notice in lieu of a statement of claim was sufficient, and a motion to compel the delivery of a better statement of claim was refused: Young v. Beattie, 16 L. R. Ir. 192.

2. Defence and Counter-claim.

The defendant may waive the delivery to him of a statement of claim: Rule 286. If none is then delivered he must deliver his statement of defence within 8 days from appearance: Rule 372. For the time for delivering a statement of defence: see Rule 371. When to be delivered.

The facts relating to the defence must be stated in the same manner as is provided in respect to other pleadings: Rules 399, 406-411. If the defendant has no facts to set up he may simply "join issue" or deny the statement of claim. Such a pleading will prevent an implied admission and put the plaintiff to the proof of his claim: Hare v. Cawthorpe, 11 P. R. 355. All facts not in the statement of claim, on which the defendant means to rely should be set out: Rule 402. Where distinct grounds of defence are relied on, founded on separate and distinct facts, such facts should be stated separately and distinctly: Rule 405. Though a defendant is not taken to have admitted what he does not deny: see Rule 403, he should nevertheless make all proper admissions: Rule 400; otherwise he may have to bear the costs rendered necessary by the failure to admit: Rule 1189. The character in which the plaintiff sues: Rule 411, and the legality or sufficiency of a contract in point of law, if intended to be disputed, must be expressly traversed: Rule 413. In an action for the recovery of land the defendant need only state that he is in possession: Rule 416, unless he has some equitable ground to set up. Form.

There may be a plea to the jurisdiction: see Rule 271, Dart v. Citizens Ins. Co., 11 P. R. 513.

Inconsistent pleas may still be used where applicable: Re Morgan, Owen v. Morgan, 35 Ch. D. 492; e.g., in an action for money, a denial of the loan, and plea that, if lent, it has been repaid or release given: Barnicott v. Hann, W. N. 1876, 24; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 39. A defence amounting to pleas of not guilty, and justification, may be properly pleaded: Restell v. Steward, W. N. 1875, 231, 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 87. The offering of an apology, payment into Court and a justification may be pleaded together in an action for libel: Hawkesley v. Bradshaw, 5 Q. B. D. 302. This was not formerly allowed: see Doyle v. Owen Sound Printing Co., 8 P. R. 69. But where payment into Court was pleaded together with a justification, in a libel action, and it was not clear from the pleading in respect of which particular part of the cause of action, the payment was made, the defence was struck out as embarrassing: Fleming v. Dollar, 23 Q. B. D. 388; and on Rule 633.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

As a general rule, the defendants may deny the plaintiff's causes of action, and plead payment into Court in respect to the whole or any part of them: Rule 632; Berdan v. Greenwood, 3 Ex. D. 251, in which the decision in Spurr v. Hall, 2 Q. B. D. 615, was questioned. A defendant may plead "not guilty by Statute" where that defence is applicable: Rule 417; also grounds of defence arising after action brought: Rule 434, et seq.; but pleading in abatement is abolished: Rule 414.

As to the form of a counter-claim, see note to Rule 373.

When defence must be delivered.

371. Where a statement of claim is delivered to a defendant he shall deliver his defence, counter-claim ~~or demurrer~~ within 8 days from the delivery of the statement of claim, or from the time limited for appearance, whichever shall be last, unless such time is extended by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 160. See J. A. Rule 126.

Same as the Eng. R., 1875, O. 22, r. 1 (1883 R. 239), except that the Eng. R. has 10 days. The eight days will be counted from the time for appearance, where a statement of claim has been delivered with the writ, or before appearance: Rule 369 c. Long vacation is not reckoned in the eight days: Rule 484.

The time may be extended by consent: 478, which Rule should be in writing: Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D. 759. No order is then necessary; but if consent cannot be obtained, the Court will probably be liberal in granting further time. The motion for further time is made in Chambers on notice: Wigle v. Harris, 9 P. R. 276.

A defence put in, without leave, after the proper time but before judgment, cannot be treated as a nullity: Gill v. Woodfin, 25 Ch. D. 707. See also Harding v. Lyons, 13 L. R. Ir. 302; Gibbings v. Strong, 26 Ch. D. 66. See also notes to Rules 369 and 381; but where it is delivered after service of a notice of motion for judgment by default of pleading, the motion for judgment may nevertheless be proceeded with, and it is incumbent upon the defendant to move for leave to deliver the defence and stay the motion for judgment: Potts v. Deane, 11 L. R. Ir. 396. But see Gibbings v. Strong, 26 Ch. D. 66, where it was held that a defence delivered between notice of motion for judgment and the hearing could not be ignored, but the Court must exercise its discretion under all the circumstances: see Montagu v. Land Corporation, 56 L. T. N. S. 730, where, on motion for judgment, one week was given to defendant to discharge the judgment by default. Where the plaintiff proceeds under Rule 393 to note the defendant as being in default, no defence can be thereafter filed and therefore delivered (see Rule 398) without leave. Where the mode of trial had been appointed, and affidavits had been filed for the trial, a defence so delivered was struck out on motion of the plaintiff: Wilson v. Noble, 11 L. R. Ir. 546.

A defence delivered after the time, and after a motion for leave to deliver it had been refused, was set aside with costs: Meehan v. Meehan, 14 L. R. Ir. 301.

A defence delivered after the time, and upon the day when the case was to be heard on a motion for judgment, was held irregular and ordered to be struck out, unless the defendant paid the costs of setting down the action and motion for judgment, within a limited time: Snider v. Snider, 11 P. R. 34. Rules 372, 373.

Where an order is made giving a further limited time to the defence, and providing that in default judgment may be signed, a judgment signed after default is regular, though no copy of the order is served: Farden v. Richter, 23 Q. B. D. 124.

By the practice in Chancery, as a general rule, the costs of a first application for further time were costs in the cause, but those of subsequent applications were ordered to be paid by the applicant: Dan. Pr., 5th ed. 643.

Where the time is extended a demurrer may be filed within the extended time: Hodges v. Hodges, 2 Ch. D. 112. Formerly, a defendant who obtained further time to answer was not at liberty to demur: see note to Rule 380.

See also notes to Rules 369, 381.

372. A defendant who has appeared in an action and stated that he does not require the delivery of a statement of claim and to whom a statement of claim is not delivered, may deliver a defence, counter-claim ~~or demurrer~~ at any time within 8 days after his appearance, unless such time is extended by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 161. Where no statement of claim.

Except as to the time, the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 2. The Rule of 1883, R. 240, is different.

In Harrison v. Surrey Masonic Hall Co., and Grimshaw, etc. v. McDowell, 66 L. T. Jour. 277 (cited in Chitty Forms p. 116), it was held that where the defendant dispenses with the delivery of a statement of claim, he must deliver his defence within eight days from the time of appearance, otherwise judgment may be signed under Rule 719. These cases overruled Hooper v. Giles, W. N. 1876, 10; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 68 (see note to Rule 719).

373. A defendant in an action may (x) set up by way of counter-claim, against the claim of the plaintiff, any right or claim whether the same sound in damages or not. Set-off and counter-claim.

(a) A counter-claim shall have the same effect as a statement of claim in a cross action, so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same action, both on the original and on the cross claim. J. A. Rule 127 (a).

This is a Rule made in furtherance of sec. 52 (7) of the Act.

(x) The original Rule following Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 3, (1883, R. 199) had here the words "set off or"; and clause (a) commenced "Such set off or counter-claim shall" etc.

The alteration in the present Rule was made in consequence of what was said in Chamberlin v. Chamberlin, 11 P. R. 501, where it was held that what was really a set-off, was pleadable as a defence, and could only be set up as a defence, if it arose before the commencement of the action, and that pleading it in the form of a counter-claim made no difference. A counter-claim may set up any matter properly pleadable by counter-claim, though arising after the commencement of the action: Ib. and Rule 434; and consequently a set-off, if arising after action, may, under the present Rule, and in fact can only, be set up by way of counter-claim.

OSGOODE HALL LAW SCHOOL UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 373.

Other cases recognize that a set-off and counter-claim are quite distinct: see Cutler v. Morse, 12 P. R. 594; Taggart v. Marcus, 36 W. R. 469; and cases infra, p. 409, and on the subject of costs: see the notes to Rules 1170, 1172.

The effect of the original Rule seems to have been to enlarge the right of set-off, so as to make it extend to claims sounding in damages. The present Rule seems not to interfere with what was before the Jud. Act, 1881, capable of being pleaded as a set-off, but to enable a defendant to set up any cross claim whether sounding in damage or not, by means of a counter-claim.

Part of the benefit given by this section has been discussed under Rule 328. In addition to the class of cases there mentioned, the defendant is by the above sub-section enabled (subject to the discretion of the Court) to set up in an action brought against him, any claims whatever which he may have against the plaintiff, and under certain restrictions claims against other persons: see Naylor v. Farrer, 26 W. R. 809; Besant v. Wood, 12 Ch. D. 605; Gray v. Webb, 21 Ch. D. 802; Fried v. Galloway, 4 C. L. T. 191.

Former practice as to set-off.

It will be seen that a most important change has been made in the law relating to set-off, and cross-demands. Prior to the statutes of set-off: 2 Geo 2, cap. 22, sec. 13, and 8 Geo. 2, cap. 24, secs. 4, 5, where there were cross-demands unconnected with each other, the parties were put to their cross-actions. The former Act enabled "mutual debts" to be set-off against one another at law, and by the latter this was permitted though the mutual debts were of a different nature, that is, a bond debt could be set off against a simple contract debt. Under the bankruptcy law, set-off was permitted in cases in which it could not have been pleaded in an action at law. In Equity, set-off has been allowed in many cases not within the Statutes of set-off: see Story's Eq. Jur. ss. 14, 38, et seq.; Lundy v. McCulla, 11 Gr. 368; Macbeth v. Smart, 13 Gr. 332. The Statutes of set-off applied only where the set-off was of a legal debt, excluding equitable debts and unliquidated damages. The Judicature Act abolishes the distinction between legal and equitable debts; and the present Rule expressly authorizes the setting up of unliquidated demands as an answer to either liquidated or unliquidated demands, not merely by way of set-off, but so as to enable the defendant to obtain judgment in his favour for any balance, or for any such other relief as he may be entitled to, on the merits of the case: see note to Rule 375, and Staples v. Young, and Horrocks v. Rigby, there referred to. The effect of The Judicature Act would seem to be to abolish any distinction in effect between set-off and cross demands so far as the right to recover is concerned, though any cross demand which could not formerly be pleaded as a set-off must now be pleaded by a counter-claim.

A distinction has, however, been recognized which is still of importance in reference to the disposition of the costs where a counter-claim is set up, not by way of a defence against the plaintiff's cause of action. Mr. Pitt Lewis, in his work on County Court Practice, quoted with approval by Cockburn, C.J. in Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 577, says:—"A set-off would seem to be of a different nature from a defence (qu. counter-claim) inasmuch as a set-off appears to shew a debt balancing the debt claimed by the plaintiff, and thus leaving nothing due to him; while a counter-claim, it would seem, consists of a cross-claim, not necessarily extinguishing or destroying the plaintiff's demand. In other words a set-off appears to consist of a defence to the original claim of the plaintiff, a counter-claim is the assertion of a separate and independent demand, which does not answer or destroy the original claim of the plaintiff. The right to rely on a set-off has long existed. The right to set up a counter-claim was first given by the Judicature Acts." See also Gathercole v. Smith, 7 Q. B. D. 626; Pellas v. Neptune Marine Ass. Co., 5 C. P. D. 34; and notes to Rule 1170.

Under the Jud. Act.

The terms of the present Rule are wide enough to allow a defendant to set up any cross demand, whether connected with the plaintiff's claim or not, and whether it sounds in damages or not; but the Rule must be read in connection with Rules 374, 423, providing for the exclusion of counter-claims and the compulsory amendment of pleadings in the discretion of the Court: Gray v. Webb, 21 Ch. D. 802.

The Rule is only one of procedure, designed to prevent the necessity of bringing a cross-action where a cross demand can conveniently be tried in the original action. It does not give rights as against third parties, or confer rights of set-off between the parties which did not exist before. Thus claims against a Company held by a director and bonâ fide for value assigned to a third person, were held not subject to be set-off against damages payable under an order afterwards obtained by the liquidator of the Company against the director: Re Milan Tramways Co. Ex. p. Theys, 22 Ch. D. 122; affirmed in appeal, 25 Ch. D. 387: see Mersey Steel, etc. Co. v. Naylor, 9 Q. B. D. 648; 9 App. Cas. 434. In an action for calls by the liquidator of a Company, a claim by a shareholder against the Company was not allowed to be set up: Re Whitehouse, 9 Ch. D. 595. A set-off claimed against arrears of pension, against which, by statute, no set-off was permissible, was disallowed: Gathercole v. Smith, 7 Q. B. D. 626. Rule 378.

A defendant cannot set-off a debt due by the plaintiff to him and another person in equal shares: Bowyear v. Pawson, 6 Q. B. D. 540; see also Federal Bank v. Harrison, 10 P. R. 271; 20 C. L. J. 194.

In an action by a receiver over a landlord's estate for rent due the landlord, the defendant set-off money due by the landlord. It was held that the action by the receiver being in the interest of incumbrancers on the lands, the set-off could not be relied on: Mullarkey v. O'Donohue, 16 L. R. Ir. 365.

The mode in which a defendant proceeds to obtain the cross relief contemplated by the Rule is by counter-claim, which has been defined as "a pleading where a defendant claims some remedy or relief either against the plaintiff alone, or against the plaintiff together with some other person or persons, whether already parties to the action or not: see Haynes Chy. Pr. 77 and per Blackburn, J., in Treleven v. Bray, 45 L. J. Chy. 115. Counter-claim.

A defendant is not bound to make his cross claims by counter-claim, but may assert them by cross action: Adamson v. Tuff, 44 L. T. N. S. 420; see note to sec. 52 (7) of the Act supra p. 40; Neale v. Clarke, 4 Ex. D. 295.

But where an action and cross action have been brought there is power, in a proper case, to stay one, and compel the plaintiff in it to proceed by way of counter-claim in the other action: see Irwin v. Sperry, 11 P. R. 229; Conmee v. C. P. Ry. Co., Ib. 149.

The Courts should give a liberal interpretation to these Rules, which were no doubt passed with the intention of settling in one litigation all questions arising out of the subject matter of the dispute: per Brett, L.J., in Turner v. Hednesford Gas Co., 3 Ex. D. 151.

It is of the essence of a counter-claim that it claims relief against the plaintiff. There can be no counter-claim against a co-defendant alone: Warner v. Twining, 24 W. R. 536; McLay v. Sharp, W. N. 1877, 216; Benecke v. Craddock, W. N. 1881, 54; — Shephard v. Beane, 2 Ch. D. 223, is not to be considered an authority: see Harris v. Gamble, 6 Ch. D. 748; Furness v. Booth, 4 Ch. D. 586. So there can be no counter-claim against a third party, unless a claim is made against plaintiff along with such third party: Dear v. Sworder, 4 Ch. D. 476; Romann v. Brodrecht, 9 P. R. 2; Barber v. Blaiberg, 19 Ch. D. 473; and Rule 376.

Where a counter-claim is brought against a plaintiff alone, it is not necessary that the claim of the defendant should be connected with the plaintiff's original cause of action; it may relate to any matter which might be the subject of an independent suit: Quin v. Hession, 40 L. T. N. S. 70; where it was held that the words, "relating to or connected with the original subject of the cause or matter," in sec. 52, sub-sec. 7, of the Act, only qualify that portion of the section with which they are in immediate connection, viz., a counter-claim which seeks relief against a third party as well as the plaintiff. But the defendant may not set up by way of counter-claim against the claim of a plaintiff, suing only in a distinct personal character, claims against him personally, and also as executor: Macdonald v. Carington, 4 C. P. D. 28; and see Rule 344. Against plaintiff.

OSGOODE HALL LAW LIBRARY

Rule 379. Where a counter-claim is made against a person other than the plaintiff it is subject to certain restrictions:

Against the plaintiff and others.

(1) The relief sought to be obtained against him must relate specifically to, or be connected with, the subject matter of the action: Padwick v. Scott, 2 Ch. D. 736; see Harris v. Gamble, 6 Ch. D. 748; Quin v. Hession, and Barber v. Blaiberg, supra.

(2) The counter-claim must, as before mentioned, claim relief against the plaintiff along with such other perso : Rule 376; Treleven v. Bray, 45 L. J. Chy. 113; 1 Ch. D. 176; Dear v. Sworder, and Harris v. Gamble, supra; Turner v. Hednesford Gas Co., 3 Ex. D. 145. Where relief is not claimed against the third party along with the plaintiff, the proceedings must be under Rule 328: Central African Trading Co. v. Grove, 40 L. T. N. S. 540; 48 L. J. Ex. 510. It is not enough that the counter-claim be in form, if it be not in substance, for relief against the third person along with the plaintiff; thus where the matter of the counter-claim may be set up against the plaintiff as a defence without the third party, and the plaintiff is not interested in what is claimed from the third party, the counter-claim is improper: Romann v. Brodrecht, 9 P. R. 2; Torrance v. Livingstone, 10 P. R. 29.

Furthermore, it has been held, perhaps under the terms of original Rule 167 (now 379), that a third party cannot counter-claim against the defendant who brought him in: Street v. Gover, 2 Q. B. D. 498; but, in Green v. Thornton, 9 C. L. T. 139, a third party, made with the plaintiff a defendant to a counter-claim, was allowed to amend a reply to the defendant's counter-claim, by asserting another counter-claim against the defendant: see Toke v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 428; Rule 379 and notes. In Evans v. Buck, 4 Ch. D. 432, it was held that a person cannot be brought in as a defendant to a counter-claim against whom relief is claimed in one of two inconsistent alternatives: see note to Rule 301.

A defendant is not entitled to set up in his counter-claim a hypothetical case for relief against a third party: Sackville v. Pacey, 18 C. L. J. 14.

A defendant may not serve a third party out of the jurisdiction with a counter-claim: Potters v. Miller, 31 W. R. 858. See, however, Re Luckie, W. N. 1880, 12; and notes to Rule 271.

Where a defendant counter-claims against plaintiff as liable alone, the plaintiff cannot have added another person who, he alleges, is also liable as to a part of the counter-claim: Eyre v. Moreing, W. N. 1884, 58.

Counter-claim only where a separate action would lie.

In any case, a counter-claim can only be set up where an action might be brought. A counter-claim has therefore been disallowed where it set up a debt alleged to have been incurred by the plaintiff when an infant, and not ratified under Lord Tenderden's Act: Rawley v. Rawley, 1 Q. B. D. 460. So in an action by an administrator for the balance of an intestate's banking account, a debt due from the intestate on a note which became due after his death was not allowed to be set up, because an administration order had been before action obtained, of which the defendants had notice; and under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 38, s. 14, Equity, would restrain the defendant from proceeding on the note, leaving him to prove for it in the administration proceedings: Newall v. National Provincial Bank of England, 1 C. P. D. 496; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 82; see also Monteith v. Walsh, 10 P. R. 162. So also, where the claim set up in the counter-claim had been extinguished by the obtaining of a judgment in another Division, which judgment the defendant was not at liberty to enforce without leave, it was disallowed: Birmingham Co. Estates v. Smith, 13 Ch. D. 506; see also Beddall v. Maitland, 17 Ch. D. 174, where a counter-claim for damages for forcible entry under the Statute of Richard II. failed, because that Act gave no civil remedy. So also, where a counter-claim was by a surety against the plaintiff and third parties (the debtors) to require the plaintiff to first proceed against the debtors (they being able to pay) and for indemnity from the debtors, it was disallowed: Federal Bank v. Harrison, 10 P. R. 271.

See also Re Milan Tramways Co., ex parte Theys, 22 Ch. D. 122, affirmed in appeal 25 Ch. D. 587; followed in Re Gillespie, 54 L. J. Q. B. 342; Gathercole v. Smith, 7 Q. B. D. 626; Beatty v. Mair, 10 L. R. Ir. 208.

Rule 373. Counter-claim, how far an independent action.

Whether a counter-claim is to be considered merely as a defence, or as something like a separate action, has been much discussed. It is not an action: Irwin v. Brown, 12 P. R. 639, though by the terms of the present Rule it has the same effect as a statement of claim in a cross-action, to enable judgment to be given on both claim, and counter-claim; see Lumsden v. Winter, 8 Q. B. D. 654, and it was early viewed as in the nature of an independent action in dealing with the question of the costs of it: see Stooke v. Taylor, 5 Q. B. D. 577; Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 695 and notes supra p. 406, and to Rule 1170; Waring v. Pearman, 32 W. R. 429; 350 L. T. N. S. 633.

It has since been so viewed for other purposes. For instance, in Beddall v. Maitland, 17 Ch. D. 174, it was held by Fry, J., that a counter-claim is an independent action, and relief may be given upon it in respect of a cause of action that arose after the issue of the writ in the original action; and this view seems now established in England by decisions: see McGowan v. Middleton, 11 Q. B. D. 469; see also Chamberlain v. Chamberlin, 11 P. R. 501, and all doubt is removed in Ont. by Rule 434.

In Ellis v. Munson, W. N. 1876, 253; 35 L. T. N. S. 585, the Court of Appeal had previously held that such a counter-claim should, under Order 16, state that it was founded on facts which have arisen since the action was brought; and in 1877, in Original Hartlepool Collieries Co. v. Gibb, 5 Ch. D. 713, Jessel, M.R, had expressed the opinion that damages claimed by counter-claim must be limited to the date when the writ issued.

In accordance with the principle of Beddall v. Maitland, it has further been now decided (and the decision was confirmed in England by an express Rule: Eng. R. 1883, 249), that the discontinuance of an action by the plaintiff does not put an end to the counter-claim: McGowan v. Middleton, 11 Q. B. D. 464, overruling Vavasseur v. Krupp, 15 Ch. D. 474; that a counter-claim may be revived on the death of the defendant, independently of the revivor of the action by the plaintiff: Andrew v. Aitken, 30 W. R. 701; 46 L. T. N. S. 689; and that a plaintiff may in his reply to a counter-claim set up a counter-claim against defendant: Toke v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 428; see also 19 C. L. J. 162.

An order will not, however, be made upon the counter-claim until the original claim is dealt with: Aitkin v. Dunbar, 46 L. J. Chy. 489; but whether issues raised by the claim and counter-claim shall be tried together is a matter of convenience: Re Woodfine, Thompson v. Woodfine, 38 L. T. N. S. 753; 47 L. J. Chy. 832.

Where two or more plaintiffs sue for a joint claim, the defendant may set up separate claims against the plaintiffs severally: Manchester & Sheffield Railway Co. v. Brooks, 2 Ex. D. 243.

It is not necessary that the amount claimed by the defendant should be equal to the claim of the plaintiff: Mostyn v. West Mostyn Co., 1 C. P. D. 145.

Where the issues of fact in the claim and counter-claim were identical, it was held that the plaintiff was not entitled to adduce in reply to the counter-claim fresh evidence which would have been material to the original case: Green v. Sevin, 13 Ch. D. 589: see also, as to the evidence where claim and counter-claim are tried together, Re Woodfine, Thompson v. Woodfine, 38 L. T. N. S. 753.

A counter-claim may be set up by the Crown in a petition of right: Thomas v. The Queen, W. N. 1875, 218; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 71.

Striking out counter-claims.

In order to prevent the abuse of the extensive powers of counter-claim given to defendants, the Court has a discretion under Rule 374 to consider whether the counter-claim should be proceeded with or struck out, leaving the defendant to make it the subject of an independent action.

There is jurisdiction to stay proceedings in a cross-action and allow the claim to be set up by counter-claim in another action, yet it should only be done when the points at issue are the same: Adamson v. Tuff, 44 L. T. N. S. 420; see Irwin v. Sperry, 11 P. R. 229; Commee v. C. P. Ry., 11 P. R. 149.

OSGOODE UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 373.

In respect to security for costs also, a defendant who sets up a counter-claim becomes to some extent in the position of a plaintiff in a cross-action: Winterfield v. Bradnum, 3 Q. B. D. 324; and, when out of the jurisdiction, was in one case ordered to give security for costs: The J. Fisher, 2 P. D. 115; but a defendant will not be entitled to security where his counter-claim is in respect of the same subject-matter as the plaintiff's claim: Mapleson v. Masini, 5 Q. B. D. 144; see also Shepherd v. Hayball, 13 Gr. 681; and where he admits the plaintiff's claim and sets up a counter-claim founded on a distinct claim, he cannot demand security for costs from a plaintiff if out of the jurisdiction: quære, however, where he sets up a counter-claim for an amount greater than the plaintiff's claim: see Winterfield v. Bradnum, supra; see also notes to Rule 1245.

Form.

Form of Counter-Claim.—A counter-claim and statement of defence must be included in the same pleading, and the same rules apply in many respects to a counter-claim as to a statement of claim: see Holloway v. York, 25 W. R. 627.

A counter-claim is subject to the same rules as a claim in respect to the causes of action which may be joined, and therefore a counter-claim for recovery of land with an independent claim for damages was disallowed as contrary to Rule 341: Compton v. Preston, 21 Ch. D. 138.

By the express terms of the Rules, the relief prayed for by way of counter-claim must be specifically stated: Rule 404; and the facts supporting each cause of action are, as far as may be, to be kept distinct: Rule 405; but a counter-claim under the Ontario Acts and Rules is not governed by as strict regulations as in England. Rules 10 and 20 of the English Order 19 (of 1875) were not adopted here. Rule 10 provided that "where any defendant seeks to rely upon any facts as supporting a right of set-off or counter-claim, he shall, in his statement of defence, specifically state that he does so by way of set-off or counter-claim." Under this Rule a defendant is not allowed in England to mix the facts supporting his counter-claim, indiscriminately with those constituting his defence. Where a pleading was headed "statement of defence and counter-claim," and set forth in thirteen paragraphs facts on which the defendant relied for his defence without making any reference to counter-claims, and concluded in the fourteenth paragraph with a claim by way of counter-claim for damages," it was held by Fry, J., to be not a proper counter-claim and was dismissed: Crowe v. Barnicot, 6 Ch. D. 753; see also Hillman v. Mayhew, 24 W. R. 485; but the same Judge afterwards qualified his decision in another case, and held that it is not necessary that a set-off or counter-claim should have a separate heading, or be separated by a marked line from the defence, or that paragraphs containing the facts relied on should be separately numbered: Lees v. Patterson, 26 W. R. 399; 7 Ch. D. 866.

The necessity for strict compliance with Rule 10 of the English Orders may have been partly due to the principle of the English system in regard to admissions (see note to Rule 403) and to Rule 20, which required the plaintiff to deal specifically in his reply with each allegation in the counter-claim of which he did not admit the truth.

The result under the English Act is, therefore, that though the statement of defence and counter-claim may be combined in the same document, they are quite distinct pleadings. The paragraphs of the document, may be numbered consecutively; and the counter-claim need not be separated from the defence by any marked line or separate heading; but it is necessary that all the facts which the defendant relies upon by way of counter-claim should appear in that part of the document which in fact constitutes the counter-claim; and it is not enough if the facts be found scattered through the defence and counter-claim. If the facts relied on by way of defence are also relied upon to support the counter-claim, they may be incorporated in the counter-claim by reference to the paragraph in which they are set forth in the defence: Birmingham Estates Co. v. Smith, 13 Ch. D. 506.

The result under the Ontario Act would seem to be, that it is not necessary, by separate numbering of paragraphs, headings, or otherwise, to distinguish the defence from the counter-claim. It should be sufficient if the facts on which the defendant relies, whether by way of defence or counter-claim, are concisely stated and without prolixity: Rule 399, keeping, as far as may be, separate and distinct, the facts relating to several and distinct causes of action relied on by way of counter-claim: see Rule 405. A prayer for the counter-relief desired should be added: Rule 404. Then by analogy to the decision in Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884, if the facts stated show either a defence, or a right to any relief prayed for by way of counter-claim, the defendant should be entitled to the benefit of such defence or to such relief. If relief, by way of counter-claim, whether general or otherwise, is not asked, it will be taken that it is not wanted: Holloway v. York, supra. A form of counter-claim is given in the App. No. 84. Rule 374.

As to the time for delivering a counter-claim in the case of a person already a party to the cause: see Rule 376, and in the case of a third party: Rule 377.

374. Where a defendant sets up a counter-claim, if the plaintiff, or any other person named in manner aforesaid as party to such counter-claim, contends that the claim thereby raised ought not to be disposed of by way of counter-claim, but in an independent action, he may at any time [before trial] apply to the Court or a Judge for an order that such counter-claim may be excluded; and the Court or a Judge may on the hearing of such application, make such order as shall be just. J. A. Rule 168. Striking out counter-claim.

Instead of "before trial" the original Rule had "within three weeks from the delivery of statement of defence." The words "before trial" come from Rule 127, last clause, which is here consolidated with Rule 168. The Eng. R. 1875 O. 22, r. 9 (1883, R. 248), has "before reply;" otherwise the Rules are the same.

An application under this Rule may, in England, be made in Court: see Dear v. Sworder, 4 Ch. D. 476; Huggons v. Tweed, 10 Ch. D. 359; but, as a general thing, should be made in Chambers: see Naylor v. Farrer, 26 W. R. 809; and Coe's Prac. in Cham. 78. It is to be made before trial. In Lynch v. Macdonald, 37 Ch. D. 22, it was said that it was too late to apply after reply, (the period fixed by the Eng. Rule,) but doubtless also at the trial the Judge has power to deal with the pleadings and the action as he may deem proper: see Barber v. Blaiberg, 19 Ch. D. 473.

For the principles upon which the Court acts in excluding counter-claims: see Naylor v. Farrer, supra; Padwick v. Scott, 2 Ch. D. 736; Dear v. Sworder, 4 Ch. D. 476; Harris v. Gamble, 6 Ch. D. 748; Birmingham Estates v. Smith, 13 Ch. D. 506; Rotherham v. Priest, 28 W. R. 277; also the examples infra.

The decision of a Judge under this Rule, if appealed from, will rarely be interfered with: Huggons v. Tweed, 10 Ch. D. 359.

In Naylor v. Farrer, Jessel, M.R., said that, in his opinion, under order 19, Rule 3, a defendant might set up any number of counter-claims. There was no limit laid down in that Rule either to their number or nature; but it was left to the discretion of the Court or a Judge to do so, otherwise fifty causes of action of the most diverse nature might be joined together and set up, and witnesses of all kinds called in support of each. How would it be possible for the Court to try all those in one action? There must also be some limit to the character of the claim set up. Suppose, for instance, an action for account brought by a surviving partner against the widow, who was also the executrix of the other, to which the widow set up a counter-claim for damages for breach of promise of marriage, could that be said to be a counter-claim which could be conveniently disposed of in the pending action? It was impossible. The Judge must exercise the discretion given to him by the Rule in allowing or rejecting a counter-claim.

In that case, the matters set up by defendant were totally unconnected with the partnership, the subject of the plaintiff's claim. In his Lordship's opinion they could not be conveniently disposed of as a counter-claim, but were fit subjects for a cross-action. No injustice, he said, would be done to the defendant by striking out the counter-claim, because his Lordship would not be allowing the plaintiff, as in some cases, to get money from the defendant which he might not be entitled to, and which the defendant might not afford to spare; for the defendant would be able to get his money in the cross-action before the plaintiff, who would only get an order for taking accounts, could get any order for payment in the present action.

In Bartholomew v. Rawlings, W. N. 1876, 56; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 32, Archibald, J., said, "There is no doubt whatever that a defendant is entitled to set up any counter-claim that is not so incongruous as to be incapable of being conveniently tried with the original claim." The question of the convenience of trial depends greatly upon whether the subject of the counter-claim is germane to the subject of the action. But though a counter-claim be not in relation to matters foreign to the subject of the action, still the fact that it will necessitate a long account, and thus unduly delay the action, may furnish grounds for excluding it: Gray v. Webb, 21 Ch. D. 802.

In Canadian Securities Co. v. Prentice, 9 P. R. 329, Cameron, J., said: "I have assumed that allowing or disallowing a counter-claim where third parties are to be brought in, is matter of discretion, not of course to be exercised arbitrarily, but upon consideration of all the circumstances, including rights involved in the counter-claim and the question of delay and convenience of trial. In jury cases there can be no question that much difficulty may arise by the mixing up of different claims—if I may use the term "mixing" in such connection—and cross or counter-claims in the same action: and unless the clear legal rights of the defendant for his protection against the plaintiff's action would seem to require it, counter-claims ought not to be favoured."

A counter-claim for damages arising out of the same subject matter or contract as the plaintiff is proceeding upon, is therefore in general, proper. So also a counter-claim in the nature of a cross demand, pecuniary or otherwise, unconnected with the subject matter of the plaintiff's claim, provided there is no inconvenience in having a trial of both in the same action.

Counter-claims allowed.

Counter-Claims allowed.—Examples:—Action by a stockbroker for price of shares. Counter-claim for fraudulent misrepresentations as to the value of the shares: Anon, 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 73; Evans v. Gann, W. N. 1875, 199; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 70; see also Lee v. McMahon, 2 Ont. 654.

A counter-claim was allowed claiming against an assignee a set-off of damages due from the assignor: Young v. Kitchen, 3 Ex. D. 127; Exchange Bank v. Stinson, 32 C. P. 158; see Pellas v. Neptune Marine Ass. Co., 5 C. P. D. 34. Rule 374. Counter-claims allowed.

Where A. sued B. on a bill and B. defended by alleging that A. was really trustee for C. who owed B. money, B. was allowed to bring in C. and claim set-off: Macdonald v. Bode, W. N. 1876, 23; but this case was disapproved of in Tugart v. Marcus, 36 W. R. 469; see infra, p. 414.

Action by executors to charge a married woman's estate with a debt to their testator. Counter-claim by her and her husband, also a defendant, for money belonging to the wife, not part of her separate estate, and for chattels in the possession of the testator at his death, and alleged to be the property of the husband: Hodson v. Mochi, 8 Ch. D. 569.

Action by cestuis que trustent against a surviving trustee to make good purchase money of testator's share of a partnership business, allowed to remain outstanding. Counter-claim to be indemnified by all cestuis que trustent including the plaintiffs, as the retention of the money by the surviving partner was by consent of testator's children: Re Holmes, Wright v. Weatherhead, W. N. 1883, 110.

Action propounding will of defendant's wife, who had obtained a protection order. Counter-claim to set aside the protection order as fraudulent, pronounce against the will, and for letters of administration: Mudge v. Adams, 50 L. J. Pro. 49; 17 C. L. J. 369.

A mortgagor was allowed to set up, in a foreclosure suit, a claim to open signed accounts: Eyre v. Hughes, 2 Ch. D. 148.

A County Court judgment was allowed to be set off against a judgment of a Superior Court: Sandys v. Louis, W. N. 1875, 249; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 81.

M. and C. are partners with B. in London and Honduras; the two firms are separate. Actions by M. and C. against the London firm as agents of the Honduras firm for an account. B. had a decree in Honduras for the taking of partnership accounts there, and the London firm asked by counter-claim for the accounts of the Honduras firm to be taken: Mutrie v. Binney, 35 Ch. D. 614; 36 W. R. 131.

On the other hand, counter-claims will not be allowed to be set up which cannot be the subject of an action: see Rawley v. Rawley, and other cases, p. 408, or which raise questions not capable of being conveniently tried in the action. Counter-claims not allowed.

Counter-Claims Disallowed.—Examples.—In an action of assault and battery, Quain, J., said that he would not allow a counter-claim to be set up for seduction of the defendant's daughter: Cappeleus v. Brown, W. N. 1875, 231; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 77.

Action for assault. A counter-claim for breach of agreement to repair a house was struck out, though an endeavour was made to connect the causes of action by showing that the parties were talking about the state of the house at the time of the assault: Lee v. Colyer, W. N. 1876, 8; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 86.

Action for libel consisting in the circulation of a letter by defendant among the shareholders of a colliery company. The plaintiff was one of the directors in the company, who were charged in the letter with conspiracy and fraud. Counter-claim for damages for loss sustained in respect of shares bought on false representations. Lindley, J., said: "This is one of those cases where it would be very difficult to keep the jury from mixing up the two claims." The counter-claim was therefore struck out without prejudice to any action defendant might bring, and the plaintiff was put on terms not to issue execution on any judgment he might obtain without leave of the Court or a Judge: Nicholson v. Jackson, W. N. 1876, 38; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 37.

Action for the specific performance by S. of an agreement for purchase by him of certain patent rights. H. and N., who were made co-defendants as claiming some interest in the subject-matter of the contract, alleged that the plaintiff had agreed to sell to them, and not to S., and that they had afterwards agreed to sell to S. By counter-claim H. and N. asked for specific performance by the plaintiff of his agreement with them, and by S. of his subsequent agreement with them. The counter-claim was excluded: McLay v. Sharp, W. N. 1877, 216.

Action against trustees of a settlement for breach of trust. Counter-claim against the husband of a plaintiff (also a plaintiff) for £45, due on a bill of exchange: Fendall v. O'Connell, 52 L. T. N. S. 538.

Action against an indorser on a promissory note. Defence, that it was to be paid out of a certain agency in which the defendant and the maker of the note were engaged, and that the plaintiff by libel and slander of the defendant had prevented that business from going on. Counter-claim for damages for the libel and slander: Central Bank v. Osborne, 12 P. R. 160.

Action of trover and for goods sold and delivered. Defendant was not allowed to set-off a claim against a third party, though such third party was the principal of the plaintiff: Tagart v. Marcus, 36 W. R. 469.

Action for foreclosure. Counter-claim for damages by reason of false and depreciative statements in regard to the value of the mortgaged premises: Odell v. Bennett, 13 P. R. 10; see also Lynch v. Macdonald, 37 Ch. D. 227.

Action to recover land for non-payment of rent. Counter-claim not connected with plaintiff's demand, in the absence of special circumstances disallowed: Hildige v. O'Farrell, 8 L. R. Ir. 158.

Action by A. against B. for trover of goods which C. assigned by bill of sale to A., and which B. had seized. Counter-claim by B. alleging a bill of sale from C. to him and claiming relief against C. upon it. So far as claim against C. was concerned, it was held not sufficiently connected with the original cause of action: Barber v. Blaiberg, 19 Ch. D. 473.

Action for specific performance by vendor against purchaser. Counter-claim for a comparatively small amount of money owing, as the result of an account, by plaintiff to defendant, and which the latter claimed to set-off against the purchase money. Counter-claim excluded as irrelevant to original claim and because it would be inexpedient to try the two claims together, and would unduly delay the action to investigate the account: Gray v. Webb, 21 Ch. D. 802.

Action by liquidator for calls against a newspaper proprietor. Counter-claim for price of advertisements and damages: Government Security Invest. Co. v. Demfrey, 50 L. J. Q. B. 199.

Action for damages for negligence. Counter-claim for libel: McLean v. Hamilton Street Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 193.

Where a counter-claim is not excluded, it is still a question of convenience and in the discretion of the Court, whether the action and counter-claim should be tried together or separately: Re Woodfine, Thompson v. Woodfine, 47 L. J. Chy. 832; 38 L. T. N. S. 753.

Judgment for balance of counter-claim.

375. Where in any action a counter-claim is established against the plaintiff's claim, the Court may, if the balance is in favour of the defendant, give judgment for the defendant for such balance, or may otherwise adjudge to the defendant such relief as he may be entitled to upon the merits of the case. J. A. Rule 169. Rule 376.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 10 (1883, R. 250).

"The balance in favour of the defendant;" these words mean the balance upon the hearing of the action: Rolfe v. McLaren, 3 Ch. D. 106. Judgment upon the counter-claim may give the defendant complete relief as in an independent action, by ordering payment of any balance found in his favour: Staples v. Young, 2 Ex. D. 324; or by awarding to him such other relief as he may be entitled to. In Horrocks v. Rigby, 26 W. R. 714, a defendant, who had purchased the entirety of a leasehold, resisted a claim against him for specific performance of a contract for sale of a moiety of the leasehold; he was also mortgagee, and in the latter capacity, as alternative relief by way of counter-claim, he called upon the plaintiff to redeem him, and it was held that he was so entitled, with his costs as of a foreclosure suit.

As to costs, where a balance is found in favor of the defendant, and in other cases of claims and counter-claims tried together, see Staples v. Young, supra; Blake v. Appleyard, 3 Ex. D. 195; Potter v. Chambers, 4 C. P. D. 69 and 457; Chatfield v. Sedgewick, ib., 459; Baines v. Bromley, 6 Q. B. D. 197, 691 and notes to Rule 1170.

Where the plaintiff claimed £49 12s. and defendant admitted the claim and counter-claimed for £75, and judgment was given for the plaintiff in his claim and for defendant in £40 on his counter-claim, it was ordered that the plaintiff should have costs of his claim and the defendant costs of his counter-claim, which was interpreted to mean that the plaintiff should have costs up to the delivery of their defence, and the defendant his costs after that time: Bowker v. Kesteven, 47 L. T. N. S. 545.

376. Where a defendant sets up any counter-claim which raises questions between himself and the plaintiff along with any other person or persons, he shall [entitle it as a statement of claim] setting forth the names of all the persons who, if such counter-claim were to be enforced by cross-action, would be defendants to such cross-action, and shall deliver his counter-claim to such of them as are parties to the action within the period within which he is required to deliver it to the plaintiff. J. A. Rule 164. Where counter-claim affects third persons.

The original Rule 164, instead of the words in brackets, had "add to the title of his defence a further title similar to the title in a statement of claim," following the Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 5 (1883, R. 244).

For the practice where persons not already parties to the action are made defendants to the counter-claim: see note to Rule 373, and Verney v. Thomas 36 W. R. 393; 58 L. T. N. S. 20.

Where defendant in an action on a note shewed that the note had been transferred to the plaintiffs to secure a debt of the payee, one T. N., to them, which debt had been satisfied since the commencement of the action, and the defendant swore that he had a good defence on the merits against T. N. it was held that this Rule had no application, but that the plaintiffs admitting these facts were entitled to their costs under Rule 440, and the cause of action having devolved upon T. N., he was entitled to continue it by taking out an order under Rule 622: Oshawa Cabinet Co. v. Note, 18 C. L. J. 60.

A third person made a defendant to a counter-claim is not entitled to enter an appearance until he has been served with the counter-claim; and if he appears without having been so served, the appearance may be discharged on motion by the plaintiff in the counter-claim: Fraser v. Cooper, 23 Ch. D. 685.

OSGOODE HALL LAW SCHOOL UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 377-379.

Where, in an action for the price of iron, the defendant set up a counter-claim for a deduction, which he had had to allow a purchaser, owing to the inferiority of the quality of the iron, it was held unnecessary to add the purchaser's name to the title of the action: see Anon, 60 L. T. Jour. 66; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 85, per Lush, J., who said Order 22, Rule 5 (corresponding to the present Rule), does not apply to such a case: see also Williams v. Wright, W. N. 1875, 232.

Service of counter-claim on third party.

377. Where any such person as in the last preceding Rule mentioned is not a party to the action, he shall be summoned to appear by being served with a copy of the counter-claim, and such service shall be regulated by the same rules as are hereinbefore contained with respect to the service of a writ of summons, and every counter-claim so served shall be indorsed in the Form No. 19 in the Appendix or to the like effect. J. A. Rule 165.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 6, (1883, R. 245).

For the Rules in respect to service of writs of summons, see Nos. 225 and 272.

It was held in Fraser v. Cooper, 23 Ch. D. 685, that a person not a party when made a defendant to a counter-claim is not entitled to appear gratis.

Appearance by third party.

378. Any person not a defendant to the action, who is served with a counter-claim as aforesaid, must appear thereto as if he had been served with a writ of summons to appear in an action. J. A. Rule 166.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 7, (1883, R. 246).

Probably it would have been better if the words "not already a party" had been used instead of the words "not a defendant." The plaintiff doubtless need not appear, and the person referred to, who must appear, is the third party mentioned in Rule 377.

See Rules 275 et. seq., as to appearance.

From Verney v. Thomas, 36 W. R. 393; 58 L. T. N. S. 20, it would seem that the same steps may be taken on default of appearance as might be taken by a plaintiff.

Defence by third party.

379. Any person, including the plaintiff, named as a party to a counter-claim, may deliver a [defence] thereto as if it were a statement of claim. J. A. Rule 167.

The original Rule had "reply" instead of "defence" following the Eng. R. 1875, O. 22, r. 8, (1883, R. 247).

Notwithstanding this Rule the plaintiff's defence to a counterclaim is technically his reply in the action: Irwin v. Brown, 12 P. R. 639.

The time for delivery of defence to the counter-claim will be eight days from the delivery of the defence containing the counter-claim: see Rules 371, 380.

A third party was held, under the original Rule, to be limited to a "reply;" and might not counter-claim against a defendant who brought him in: Street v. Gover, 2 Q. B. D. 498. The contrary has since been decided in Ont. under the present Rules, possibly by reason of the altered terms of this Rule: Green v. Thornton, 9 C. L. T. 139. See supra p. 408. See also Eden v. Weardale, 28 Ch. D. at p. 338.

The plaintiff may counter-claim in reply to the defendant's counter-claim : Rule 380.
Toke v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 428.

380. The plaintiff shall deliver his defence to the counter-claim within 8 days from service thereof on him. Time for delivery.

New.

This Rule places a construction upon Rules 371, 379, 381.

There is no similar English Rule, and the construction placed upon the English Rules corresponding to Rules 371, 379 and 381, has been different, the plaintiff being held to have the 21 days mentioned in Rule 381, within which to reply to the counter-claim : Rumley v. Winn, 22 Q. B. D. 265. See Irwin v. Brown, supra, and Rule 435.

REPLY AND SUBSEQUENT PLEADINGS.

At Common Law, no time was limited for reply ; but the defendant might compel a reply by giving with his plea notice to reply in four days, otherwise judgment. In Chancery, replication was required to be filed, or the cause set down to be heard on bill and answer, or motion for decree, within one month after the filing of the last answer of all the defendants : Chy. O. 152 ; otherwise the defendant might move to dismiss : Chy. O. 273.

At Common Law, the replication was either a simple joinder of issue, or set up special matter, according to the form of the previous pleas. In Chancery, the Gen. Ord. 150 and 151 made provision for admissions in the replication of facts set forth in the answer : but in practice, admissions were seldom, if ever, made in that way ; and the replication was merely a formal joinder of issue which closed the pleadings. If the plaintiff wished to reply special matter, that could only be done by an amendment of the bill : Cox v. Keating, 6 P. R. 316

In Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. at p. 790 ; Hall, V.C., said : "When the Rules were prepared, the view was taken that, after defence new matter should generally be introduced by way of amendment, and that is in my opinion the more consistent course, but it has not been in fact always enforced as the rule under the General Orders." The tendency of the English authorities seems, however, to be towards the Common Law plan of alleging in a reply any new matter on which the plaintiff relies by way of confession and avoidance : see Hall v. Eve, 4 Ch. D. 341 ; 46 L. J. Chy. 145 ; 35 L. T. N. S. 926 ; 25 W. R. 177. Under the Ontario Rules of pleading the plaintiff may either reply, or amend his statement of claim. All the forms of reply given in the Appendix are prefaced by a note to the effect that the form of reply given is to be used where the plaintiff does not introduce into his statement of claim, by way of amendment, the allegations necessary by way of reply to the defence ; and, in the cases in which forms of replies are given, the mode in which the matter in reply might be introduced into the statement of claim by amendment is also given (see Nos. 60, 65, 67, 76, 79, 83 ; also Rule 435). Where a reply is used it may traverse the allegations made in the defence, or confess and avoid them, or both : Hall v. Eve, supra.

A reply must not set up new claims ; or refer to an independent document as containing facts on which the pleader relies, without properly setting out such document as part of the reply ; and, like other pleadings, it must not state evidence, argument, or conclusions of law ; see Rule 399 and Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. 790, and Collambell v. Flight, W. N. 1877, 125.

A reply is to be delivered within three weeks after the last of the defences : Rule 381.

As to the reply to a counter-claim : see Rules 379, 380 and 435.

As to the further reply to a counter-claim founded on matter arising after the reply : see Rule 437.

Delivery of reply.

381. A plaintiff shall deliver his reply, if any, within 3 weeks after the defence or the last of the defences shall have been delivered, unless the time shall be extended by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 173.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 24, r. 1, (1883 R. 276).

The last of the defences means the last defence of all the defences: see Collett v. Preston, 3 Mac. & G. 432; Arnold v. Arnold, 9 Beav. 206; Bertolacci v. Johnstone, 2 Ha. 633; Chy. O. 152; and Ambroise v. Evelyn, 11 Ch. D., at p. 762.

Long vacation is not reckoned in computing the time: Rule 484. As to extending the time: see notes to Rules 369, 371 and 485.

A reply delivered after the three weeks, and without an extension of time was held irregular and set aside, the pleadings having, by Rule 392, become closed: Webb v. Kerr, 14 L. R. Ir. 294.

Where a reply was delivered without leave after the time, and before notice of motion for judgment, it was held to have the effect of preventing notice of motion being given for judgment, under the English Rules, on admission of the defence by default of reply: Graves v. Terry, 9 Q. B. D. 170; see also notes to Rules 369, 371.

Where the time to deliver reply would have expired on 25th July but was extended to 22nd August, and afterwards to 19th September, and on 26th September, no reply having been filed, the defendant took proceedings warranted by the English, (though not by the Ontario Rules,) to obtain judgment as on admissions by reason of the default, and on the same day the plaintiff, by leave, served notice for leave to deliver a reply; leave was refused by the Judge of first instance on the ground of unexplained delay, but was granted on payment of costs by the Court of Appeal: Eaton v. Storer, 22 Ch. D. 91.

Leave for subsequent pleadings.

382. No pleading subsequent to reply other than a joinder of issue shall be pleaded without leave of the Court or a Judge, and then upon such terms as the Court or Judge thinks fit. J. A. Rule 174.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 24, r. 2, (1883 R. 277).

Pleadings cannot go beyond reply without leave, except that the defendant may join issue if he chooses. That, however, would not seem to be essential, as the pleadings are deemed to be closed without joinder of issue, at the expiration of the time within which the delivery of subsequent pleadings is necessary: Rules 383 and 392. If the plaintiff replies specially, it may be necessary for a defendant, either to amend his statement of defence or to rejoin, so as to set up some new feature in the case, in the nature perhaps of a confession and avoidance, or something destroying the effect of the reply: see Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. 792-3. In such case a defendant is only allowed to introduce by amendment, without leave, new matter where he has set up a counter-claim or set-off: Rule 425; in other cases it will be necessary for him to apply for leave to amend or rejoin.

In Norris v. Beazley, 35 L. T. N. S. 845, leave to rejoin was refused, the proposed rejoinder being regarded as unnecessary, and only amounting to a statement of matters contained in the statement of defence in a more detailed way.

In Evans v. Gann, W. N. 1875, 199, leave was granted to add a counter-claim after issue joined.

Time for delivery.

383. Subject to the last preceding Rule, every pleading subsequent to reply shall be delivered within 4 days after the delivery of the previous pleading, unless the time is extended by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 175. Rule 384.

Identical with Eng. R. 1875, O. 24, r. 3 (1883 R. 278).

3. DEMURRER.

384. Any party may demur to any pleading of the opposite party, or to any part of a pleading setting up a distinct cause of action, ground of defence, counter-claim, reply, or as the case may be, on the ground that the facts alleged therein, do not shew any cause of action or ground of defence to a claim or any part thereof, or counter-claim, or reply, or as the case may be, to which effect can be given by the Court as against the party demurring. J. A. Rule 189. Demurrer when allowed.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 28, r. 1.

The Eng. Rules of 1883 have abolished demurrers and substituted a procedure by which (1) points of law raised in pleadings may be disposed of before trial, and (2) a pleading disclosing no reasonable cause of action may be struck out on motion: see Order 25.

Where a pleading on its face clearly shews no ground of action, the opposite party may, and generally should, demur: see Cunnington v. G. N. Ry. Co., 49 L. T. N. S. 392; Attorney-General v. Birmingham, 17 Ch. D. 685; Griffiths v. London & St. Katherine Docks Co., W. N. 1884, 85; 51 L. T. N. S. 533. A counter-claim may be demurred to if it discloses no cause of action: The Charles Napier, 5 P. D. 73. When demurrer may be made use of.

A party, whose pleading is demurred to, may still serve a notice of exception to the pleading of the opposite party: O'Donnell v. Duchenault, 14 Ont. 1.

If a paragraph of a pleading deals with a distinct ground of action or defence, the proper course for the party objecting thereto is to demur, and not to apply to strike it out: Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884.

Where on the pleading some relief might be given, though not what was specifically mentioned, a demurrer was over-ruled: Hale v. Bousteud, 30 W. R. 677; 51 L. J. Q. B. 255; 46 L. T. N. S. 533; Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 434.

In an action against the owner of a tug by a ship owner for improper navigation, the defence was, that the liability of defendant was limited under sec. 54 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1862, to £8 per ton of the tug's tonnage. On demurrer by the plaintiff, the Court held (though it over-ruled the demurrer) that the defence was properly pleaded as a distinct defence pro tanto, a statement of defence being the only mode in which it could be set up; and that if so properly pleaded as a distinct ground of defence, it was a proper subject of demurrer under the present Rule: Wahlberg v. Young, 24 W. R. 847. Illustrations.

Where justices had under a special statute made an order directing the guardians of a union to pay £100 for the support of a pauper lunatic, and an action was brought under the Act to enforce the order, the guardians defended; the Queen's Bench Division refused to strike out the defence as frivolous, the guardians being entitled to defend, and held that, if the defence shewed no answer to the plaintiff's case, the plaintiff should demur: Finch v. Guardians of the York Union, 35 L. T. N. S. 360.

A statement of claim alleging simply that a good and valid donatio mortis causa had been made, without stating the facts which constituted it, was held to be demurrable: Re Parton, Townsend v. Parton, 30 W. R. 287; 45 L. T.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 384.

N. S. 755. In such a case a demurrer could only lead to an amendment, and, therefore perhaps, a proper course would be to apply to strike out the pleading as embarrassing.

When should not be employed.

Since the Judicature Act the use of demurrers is discouraged by the Court, except in cases where the whole question or a substantial question in controversy may be decided upon the demurrer: see note to Rule 385.

Wherever, therefore, a demurrer will not dispose of a substantial question in the action it should not be employed: see Grant v. Eddy, 21 Gr. 568; Rumohr v. Marx, 29 Gr. 179. Thus, a demurrer to an uncertain or ambiguous pleading is improper; application should be made to strike it out: Attorney-General v. Midland, 3 Ont. 511. So in Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370, it was held (1) that the objection that a solicitor's bill sued on was not delivered a month before action, should be taken by defence and not by demurrer, unless the claim shows that it was delivered less than a month; and (2) that the omission in a claim by a simple contract creditor to state that he sues on behalf of all creditors in an action to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent against creditors, is not the proper subject of a demurrer, but the objection should be taken, as soon as the writ is served, under Rule 324, et seq. If the representative character in which the plaintiff sues is indorsed on the writ, the statement of claim will be read for the purposes of a demurrer as if that fact were stated therein: Johnson v. Burges, 47 L. J. Chy. 552.

Demurrer for want of parties or misjoinder abolished.

For similar reasons there is now no such thing as a demurrer for want of parties: Werderman v. Société Générale D'Electricité, 19 Ch. D. 246; Hunter v. Young, 4 Ex. D. 256; or for misjoinder of parties: Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 434; Blake v. Moore, 8 L. R. Ir. 95; the proper course being for the defendant making the objection to apply under Rule 324, to add the necessary parties, or amend as the case may require: see cases supra. See also as to this practice: Aboulaff v. Oppenheimer, 30 W. R. 429, where a statement of defence alleging that the plaintiff was at the time of bringing the action a married woman, was held to be only an informal plea in abatement, and therefore no defence; and it was pointed out that the proper course was for the defendant to obtain an order to join the husband. In Hancocks v. Lablache, 3 C. P. D. 197, however, a demurrer by a married woman defendant, on the ground that she could not be sued without her husband, was allowed.

The defendant should at any rate take the objection by defence as early as possible, so that the plaintiff may, if so advised, add parties or amend: see Sheehan v. G. E. Ry. Co., 16 Ch. D. 63; Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jones, 28 W. R. 653; and note to Rule 324.

A demurrer on the ground that the plaintiff is not a person who can maintain the action, will, however, lie, and is not a demurrer for want of parties: McClenaghan v. Grey, 4 Ont. 329.

Action for recovery of land.

A demurrer will not lie, except perhaps for impertinence, in an action to recover land: Scott v. Creighton, 2 C. L. T. 548.

Multifariousness.

Want of interest in the greater part of the matters in question is no ground for demurrer: Cox v. Barker, 3 Ch. D. 359.

Demurrer to pleading previously answered.

The former rule of the Court of Chancery that a defendant cannot demur to what he has previously answered: see Dan. Prac., 5th ed., p. 643, is no longer in force; so that a defendant who had not originally demurred to a statement of claim was held entitled to demur to part of the statement of claim in his amended statement of defence: Powell v. Jewesbury, 9 Ch. D. 34. This was not formerly allowed: Attorney-General v. Cooper, 8 Ha. 166, unless the nature of the case made by the bill had been changed by amendment: Cresy v. Bevan, 13 Sim. 354.

As to demurrer to part of a pleading: see note to Rule 385.

Doubtful questions need not be decided on demurrer.

The Court need not on demurrer decide a doubtful question, but may require the case to be brought to a hearing in the usual way: Cochrane v. Willis, 10 Jur. N. S. 162; Cox v. Barker, 3 Ch. D. 359. Where a Judge has considered that the question ought not to be decided on demurrer, his decision will not ordinarily be reviewed in appeal: Sheffield Water Works v. Yeomans, L. R. 2 Chy. 8.

As to raising the question of the Statute of Limitations or Statute of Frauds by demurrer: see notes to Rules 402 and 413, and Vane v. Vane, L. R. 8 Chy. 383. Rule 385.

Where a point which will determine the suit is apparent on the face of the plaintiff's statement of claim, so that it might be raised by demurrer if the action be dismissed on that point, the defendant will be entitled only to the costs as of a demurrer allowed: Attorney-General v. Campbell, 19 Gr. 302; and charges of fraud have been held not to justify a defendant in answering instead of demurring: Saunders v. Stull, 18 Gr. 590. Full costs were, however, allowed where several important questions of law and fact were involved, and the case was not one which raised a single or simple question capable of being disposed of by demurrer: Simpson v. Grant, 5 Gr. 267. The later Chancery cases in England, prior to the Judicature Acts, tend to show that the question of costs is in the discretion of the Court, and the Court will generally exercise its discretion so as not to deprive the defendant of his full costs: Bush v. Trowbridge Water Works Co., L. R. 10 Chy. 459; Pearce v. Watts, L. R. 20 Eq. 492; but see Gildersleeve v. Cowan, 25 Gr. 460; and 15 C. L. J., 95. Costs where parties plead instead of demurring.

385. A demurrer shall state specifically whether it is to the whole or to a part, and if to part only, to what part, of the pleading of the opposite party. It shall state some ground in law for the demurrer, but the party demurring shall not, on the argument of the demurrer, be limited to the ground so stated. A demurrer may be in the Form No. 89 in the Appendix. If no ground, or only a frivolous ground of demurrer is stated, the Court or a Judge may set aside such demurrer, with costs. J. A. Rule 190. Form of demurrer.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 28, r. 2.

This Rule authorizes a demurrer to part of a pleading, but the Courts usually discourage the use of such a demurrer unless by that means a substantial question may be decided. In Leyman v. Latimer, 26 W. R. 305; 37 L. T. N. S. 819; 47 L. J. Ex. 470, Brett, L.J., said (as reported in the W. R. 307): "Under the new system, unless you are prepared to say that there are no facts in dispute, that even if everything alleged is proved then there is no case, a demurrer is idle and useless." Cotton, L.J., in the same report says (p. 308): "On the demurrers I shall add nothing except to express my entire concurrence in the opinion of my brother Brett, that now demurrers, unless the whole question as to whether there is any ground of action arises on the statement of claim or on the defence to the entire action, do no good. They only raise a question which could be as well decided without a demurrer, and are therefore useless."

See also Metropolitan Ry. Co. v. Defries, 25 W. R. 841.

Where alternative relief was prayed, a demurrer to one of the alternatives was held not irregular under the former Chancery Practice: Abbott v. Canada Central Railway Co., 24 Gr. 579, and see Chy. Gen. Order 546, now effete.

A demurrer to part must specify precisely the part demurred to. This was also the former practice under which it was held insufficient to file an answer to "such part of the bill as the defendant is advised he is bound to answer," and to demur "as to all the rest of the matters charged in the bill": Devonsher v. Newenham, 2 Sch. & Lef. 199; and Martin v. Kennedy, 2 Gr. 80.

A demurrer can rarely be to a single paragraph of a pleading. The whole defence will in general be looked at. Where one or more paragraphs are demurred to, the Court may properly look at any other paragraph bearing on the same matter, and if when taken together they disclose a sufficient defence Demurrer to a paragraph of a pleading.

Rule 385.

the demurrer must be over-ruled: Attorney-General v. Midland, 3 Ont. 511; see also Rumohr v. Marx, 29 Gr. 179; and Flower v. Local Board, 5 Ch. D. 351; Nathan v. Batchelor, W. N. 1876, 172; Beasley v. Hamilton, 9 Ont. 112.

In Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884, it was held that a party need not distribute his facts so as to show which are intended to support particular prayers for relief. Lord Coleridge said: "So long as a paragraph supports some one or more of the claims in the prayer it is not demurrable. The plaintiff is not bound to assign such and such paragraphs to such and such prayer. He states all the facts he deems material, and then asks for such and such relief; and if each of the facts set out tends to show that he is entitled to some relief, and that relief is asked for by one of the prayers, the paragraph setting out that fact must stand." In the opinion of Mr. Justice Lindley, in the same case, if there was a prayer for general relief, and the pleading showed the plaintiff entitled to any relief, the statement was not demurrable. See also Young v. Robertson, 2 Ont. 434, where it was held that a demurrer did not lie, if, in any aspect of the case, the plaintiff was entitled to some relief.

On the argument of a demurrer, any document referred to must be taken to be truly stated, and cannot be looked at to contradict or alter the averments in the pleading, even though there be a reference to the instrument for greater certainty as to its contents: Lougheed v. Stubbs, 27 Gr. 387. Statutes may be looked at which are in part recited in the pleading: Kiely v. Kiely, 3 Ont. App. 438, and the Court has assumed that a rule of a Building Society existed, referring disputes between the Society and a member to arbitration pursuant to a Statute (Imp. Act, 10 Geo. 4, c. 56, s. 27), though not appearing by the statement of claim: Johnson v. Altrincham Perm. Benefit Society, 49 L. T. N. S. 568; see also Huckle v. Wilson, 2 C. P. D. 410.

Stating grounds of demurrer.

By the former practice in Chancery a demurrer for want of equity was in very general terms, and was not required to state the particular ground of demurrer. A plaintiff was therefore sometimes at a loss to know what the point to be argued on the demurrer was. The preferable Common Law practice has here been adopted, and some ground in law for the demurrer must be stated, though the party demurring may still, as formerly, demur ore tenus, on other grounds not so stated: see the present Rule, and Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, 4 App. Cas. at p. 58.

A demurrer to "such part of the amended statement of claim as claimed damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the alleged wrongful acts of the defendants in opening the accounts therein in that behalf referred to," was held good in form, and to a substantial part of the claim: Powell v. Jeveasbury, 9 Ch. D. 34; see Hogg v. Darley, W. N. 1878, 80; 47 L. J. Chy. 567.

Where there was a demurrer to a statement of claim "on the ground that the facts therein alleged do not show any cause of action to which the Court can give effect as against the defendant, and on other grounds sufficient in law to sustain the demurrer," it was held that though a general demurrer for want of equity not alleging any specific ground might not always be sufficient, there were cases in which it would be, and that this was such a case, the equity having to be gathered from a long and complicated series of facts set out in the claim: Bidder v. McLean, 20 Ch. D. 512.

A demurrer alleged that "the statement of claim was bad in law"; and, after other statements, concluded with these words, "and on other grounds sufficient in law to sustain this demurrer;" it was held that the last words were sufficient to raise the defence of the Statute of Limitations: Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, 4 App. Cas. 51. If no ground or a frivolous ground was stated, a demurrer might, under the Common Law Practice, have been struck out in Chambers: see Arch. Prac., 12th ed., p. 926. However frivolous, it could not be treated as a nullity, even though no ground was stated: Lyons v. Cohen, 3 Dowl. 243. In an action for breach of an agreement to pay deposit money, the statement of claim, instead of asking for damages, asked for the deposit money as a debt. Archibald, J., at Chambers, would not strike out the demurrer as frivolous, but gave the plaintiff leave to amend: Wilks v. Parker, 386-388. W. N. 1876, 74. Rules

As to what is a frivolous demurrer: see Brice v. Munro, 10 P. R. 548; followed in Book v. Book, 7 C. L. T. 114. The jurisdiction to set aside as frivolous should rarely be exercised where the point is a new one and is apparently raised in good faith for the opinion of the Court; S. C. 552. See Brice v. Munro, 7 Ont. 435, where after argument the demurrer was allowed.

386. A demurrer shall be delivered in the same manner and within the same time as any other pleading in the action. J. A. Rule 191. Delivery of demurrer.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 20 r. 3.

As to the manner of delivering pleadings: see Rules 461 and 397. For time of delivery: see Rules 371, 372, 379, 381. A defendant who has obtained an order extending the time within which to deliver his defence, may demur within such extended time: Hodges v. Hodges, 2 Ch. D. 112; see Powell v. Jewesbury, 9 Ch. D. 34. A consent to an extension of time to deliver a defence will in like manner authorize the filing of a demurrer: Privett v. Pearson, 4 C. L. T. 353. This was formerly not allowed; and a demurrer filed under such circumstances might have been taken off the files with costs: Boultbee v. Cameron, 2 Chy. Ch. 41; Chamberlain v. McDonald, 2 Chy. Ch. 204; see Attorney-General v. Cooper, 8 Ha. 166. These cases, however, no longer apply: Privitt v. Pearson, 4 C. L. T. 353.

See Rule 540 as to setting down demurrers, and delivering demurrer books.

387. A defendant desiring to demur to part of a statement of claim, and to put in a defence to the other part, shall combine such demurrer and defence in one pleading. And so in every case where a party entitled to put in a further pleading desires to demur to part of the last pleading of the opposite party, he shall combine such demurrer and other pleading. J. A. Rule 192. Demurrer and defence to be combined.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 20, r. 4.

A party may by the same pleading, join issue to some part of the previous pleadings, and demur to others, and on the argument of the demurrer will be taken to admit only the facts stated in the parts demurred to: Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884; Day v. Brownrigg, 27 W. R. 217.

388. Either party may without leave plead and demur to the same pleading at the same time, by filing an affidavit by the party distinctly denying some one or more material statement or statements in the pleading; or stating that the several matters sought to be pleaded by way of confession and avoidance are respectively true in substance and in fact; and that he is further advised and believes that the objections raised by such demurrer are good and valid objections in law. The affidavit is to be annexed to and filed with the plea and demurrer, and a copy of the affidavit is to be served with the plea and demurrer. J. A. Rule 193. Plea and demurrer to same pleading without leave.

OSGOODE HALL LAW SCHOOL LIBRARY

Rules 389, 390. Pleading and demurring to the same pleading at the same time had not before this Rule been allowed without leave: see R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 118, and notes to next Rule.

See Metropolitan, etc., v. Defries, 25 W. R. 841, where it was pointed out that by demurring alone the truth of the pleading is admitted, which may be a source of danger if the demurrer is over-ruled. An informal demurrer, such as a clause stating that the claim shows no cause of action, is a transgression of this Rule if filed without an affidavit: Vandusen v. Malcolm, 4 C. L. T. 211.

Leave to demur and plead to the same matter.

389. If the party demurring desires to be at liberty to plead as well as to demur to the matter demurred to [without filing such affidavit], he may, before demurring, apply to the Court or a Judge for an order giving him leave to so plead and demur; and the Court or Judge, if satisfied that there is reasonable ground for the demurrer, may make an order accordingly, or may reserve leave to the party to plead after the demurrer is over-ruled, [and may direct which issue shall be first disposed of]; or may make such other order and upon such terms as may be just. J. A. Rule 194; C. L. Rule May 21, 1877. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 118.

This Rule contains substantially the former English practice. The corresponding English Rule (1875, O. 28, r. 5), does not contain the words in brackets; it is otherwise in effect the same.

The original Rule 194 required also that the affidavit in support of the motion should be such as was required by Reg. Gen. 21st May, 1877, namely, an affidavit distinctly denying some one or more material statement or statements in the pleading demurred to: see 41 U. C. Q. B. 565.

This made the Rule require really the same affidavit as Rule 388 requires, and if it could be made there was no reason for an application for leave. The present Rule was therefore altered, so as to enable a party to plead and demur by leave, where he can not make the affidavit mentioned in Rule 388.

Leave was given by Lindley, J., to plead and demur where the ground of demurring was that the statement of claim disclosed no cause of action: Anon, W. N. 1876, 37; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 46.

Where defendants had combined with their defences demurrers to the whole claim, but the demurrers were not filed soon enough to enable them to be argued before the trial, the Court acted under the concluding clause of this Rule and Rule 655, and gave leave to the plaintiff to enter the action for trial, and directed the demurrers to be argued at the trial: Bank of Montreal v. Cousins, 3 C. L. T. 265; see also Rule 555.

Where a question of law has been decided on a demurrer on a preliminary objection and an appeal is brought, the Court will not in general stay the trial of issues of fact pending the appeal: Re J. B. Palmer, 22 Ch. D. 88.

After a demurrer had been overruled, the bill was amended and the defendant answered, not stating in his answer the objection which had been raised on the demurrer. It was held that the defendant might at the hearing renew the objection without pleading: Johnasson v. Bonhote, 2 Ch. D. 298.

Amending.

390. The party whose pleading is demurred to may, at any time within four days from delivery of the demurrer or before the demurrer is set down, on payment of $5 to the party demurring, obtain an order on præcipe to amend the pleading or that portion of it which is demurred to. New. Rules 391-392.

This Rule is adopted from the former practice in Chancery: see Baldwin v. Borst, 1 Chy. Ch. 82, which under the Jud. Act, prior to the present Rule, was held not to be in force: Privett v. Pearson, 4 C. L. T. 353.

Orig. Rule 196 provided that no amendment of a pleading demurred to should be made pending the demurrer except by order. It is presumed that now no amendment can be made except under this Rule. A præcipe order is required to ensure the payment of the $5 costs before amending. The order will not be issued except on proof payment of the $5: this may be done by production of a receipt for it, or by affidavit.

Amendments are made under Rule 424 without any order.

391. Where a demurrer is overruled, the Court may make such order, and upon such terms as to the Court shall seem right, for allowing the demurring party to raise by pleading any case he may be desirous to set up in opposition to the matter demurred to. J. A. Rule 201. Pleadings after demurrer is overruled.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 28, r. 12.

After demurrer overruled, if the defendant desires further to defend, he must ask leave to do so. Leave will be given almost as of course upon payment of costs, and expediting proceedings: Bell v. Wilkinson, 26 W. R. 275; W. N. 1878, 3, and after demurrer allowed, leave to amend will be generally given unless the case is one which cannot be bettered by any amendment, in which case leave will be refused: Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, 4. App. Cas. 62; Tyler v. Bell, 2 M. & C. 89; Spencer v. Hart, 26 Sol. Jour. 140. Where a demurrer is overruled, the same objection may be raised at the hearing without being pleaded: Johnasson v. Bonhote, 2 Ch. D. 298.

4. Close of Pleadings.

392. As soon as either party has joined issue upon any pleading of the opposite party simply, without adding any further or other pleadings thereto, [or as soon as the time for amending the pleadings under these Rules or under any order made in the action or for delivering a reply or subsequent pleading ~~or demurrer~~, has expired,] the pleadings as between such parties shall be deemed to be closed [without any joinder of issue being pleaded by any or either party]. J. A. Rule 176. When pleadings closed.

The clauses in brackets are not in Eng. R. 1875, O. 25 (1883 R. 280), and O. 29, r. 12, which is in other respects the same.

Under this Rule, in an action in which there is no counter-claim, the pleadings are closed when the plaintiff has delivered a joinder of issue with the defence, or three weeks have elapsed from the delivery of the defence: Schneider v. Proctor, 9 P. R. 11.

In Webb v. Kerr, 14 L. R. Ir. 294, it was held that when the pleadings were closed by expiry of time under this Rule, neither party could reopen them without the leave of the Court.

By the delivery by the plaintiff of a simple joinder of issue upon the statement of defence and counter-claim, the pleadings are closed, and notice of trial may be

Rule 393. given: Hare v. Cawthorpe, 11 P. R. 353. They are also closed by the expiration of three weeks without joinder: Lockington v. King, 7 C. L. T. 47.

If the plaintiff delivers a reply, not being merely a joinder of issue, it does not seem to have been yet decided whether the reply closes the pleadings, or whether they are not closed until a joinder of issue has been delivered, or four days have elapsed from the delivery of reply: see Rule 383. The point may be left in some doubt where leave is required to deliver a further pleading: see Rule 382 The opinion that a reply, not being a joinder, does not close the pleadings may perhaps be inferred from Weller v. Proctor, 10 P. R. 323, though was not necessary there to decide the point; but where a reply has been made to a counter-claim the defendant may, of right amend his counter-claim under Rule 425, and the pleadings are not closed till the time for so amending has expired. This was decided in Palmer v. Gibbs (Mr. Dalton, 22nd Oct., 1881), where a statement of claim was delivered on 4th Oct., defence and counter-claim on 11th Oct., reply to counter-claim and joinder of issue to defence on 14th Oct., and a notice of trial on 14th Oct., was held to be premature; and again in Garner v. Tune, 12 P. R. 280.

Where a third party has been made a defendant to a counter-claim, the action is not at issue till the counter-claim has been struck out, or the third party has pleaded, or become in default: Canadian Securities Co. v. Prentiss, 2 C. L. T. 90.

Where a plaintiff issued a writ against several defendants, but only served one, and proceeded against him to the close of the pleadings, it was held that he must be assumed to have abandoned as to the others, and the pleadings in the action were closed, and notice of trial could be regularly given: Vandusen v. Johnson, 3 C. L. T. 505.

See also notes to Rules 647, 654.

A counter claim must be a defence, and therefore a joinder of issue on the defence, not mentioning the counter-claim, closes the pleadings, and notice of trial thereafter is therefore regular: Macara v. Snow, 12 P. R. 616.

Note may be entered of default.

393. Where any party makes default in delivering a statement of defence, ~~demurrer~~, or subsequent pleading, within the time limited therefor, in cases where interlocutory or final judgment cannot be signed, the opposite party may, at any time before the pleading is filed, upon proof of the default, by præcipe to the officer with whom the pleadings are filed, require him to note that the pleadings in the action are closed as to the party in default; and thereupon the officer shall enter such note in the pleadings book accordingly, and thereafter no pleading by the party in default shall be received or filed without the order of a Judge. J. A. Rule 596.

There is no similar English Rule. The practice hereby prescribed is somewhat similar to that under the former Chancery G. O. 104, which enabled a plaintiff to note a bill pro confesso, against a defendant not answering, in which case the plaintiff was at liberty to bring the cause to a hearing without any further notice to such defendant. The present Rules, however, make no provision for carrying on proceedings ex parte against defendants in default, as to whom a note has been entered under this Rule.

In Lloyd v. Ward (before Galt, C.J., 25 Oct., 1889), Saturday being the last day to deliver a defence, the plaintiff caused a note under this Rule to be entered at 2.25 p.m., conceiving that no defence could be validly delivered on that day, none having been served by 2 o'clock; but it was held that under Rule 398, filing was part of the delivery, and the defendant had under Rule 7, up to 3 o'clock to file the defence, whether it had been delivered or not.

See notes to Rules 371, and 380-383.

5. Pleading Generally.

Rules 394-397.

Old rules abolished.

394. The following Rules of pleading substituted for those used in the Court of Chancery and in the Courts of Common Law, prior to The Ontario Judicature Act, 1881, shall continue to be used. J. A. Rule 125,

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 1, (1883, R. 197).

For the definition of "pleading" see sec. 2 of the Act.

The former system of pleading at Common Law required the parties to set forth the legal result of the facts, and not the facts themselves. Under The Judicature Act the facts must be stated, and the Court decides what is the legal result: Hanmer v. Flight, 35 L. T. N. S. 127. The new system is thus to a great extent similar to that of the Court of Chancery; and the forms of Chancery pleadings, except in some points noticed hereafter, (notes to Rule 399), will in general serve as guides: Heap v. Morris, 2 Q. B. D. 630.

Copies of pleadings.

395. Every pleading may be either printed or written, or partly printed and partly written, but no more than four copies of any pleading or other document are to be allowed to any party in a cause or matter, exclusive of the draft, but inclusive of all other copies that may be required or made, in the progress of the cause. J. A. Rule 129.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 5, (1883, R. 205).

This Rule contains the same provisions as Chy. Gen. Orders 66 and 403, except that by Gen. Ord. 66 dates and sums were required to be expressed in figures instead of words, where the pleading was wholly printed.

Printing pleadings.

396. If more than three copies exclusive of the draft are required of any pleading or other document, the party may have the pleading or other document printed for the purposes of the cause or matter, and in that case he shall in lieu of all charges for copies be allowed thirty cents per folio of the pleading or document, and his reasonable disbursements of procuring the same to be printed. J. A. Rule 130.

This is the same as the Chy. Gen. Ord. 404. The Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 5, (1883, R. 205), is not similar.

How pleadings delivered should be marked.

397. Every pleading in an action shall be delivered between parties, and shall be marked on the face with the date of the day on which it is filed, and with the reference to the Division to which the action is assigned, the title of the action, the description of the pleading, and the name and place of business of the solicitor and agent (if any) of the party filing the same, or the name and address of the party filing the same if he does not act by a solicitor. J. A. Rule 132.

Substantially the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 7, (1883, R. 207), except that under the latter, pleadings are to be delivered only, and need not be filed. Filing is necessary in Ont. under Rule 398.

OSGOODE HALL LAW SCHOOL LIBRARY

Rules 398, 399.

Delivery includes filing.

398. Delivering a statement of claim or defence or other pleading includes filing. J. A. Rule 150.

The English practice does not require pleadings to be filed.

See Lloyd v. Ward, in note to Rule 393.

Form of pleadings.

399. Pleadings shall contain a concise statement of the material facts upon which the party pleading relies, but not the evidence by which they are to be proved; dates, sums and numbers shall be expressed in figures; the signature of counsel shall not be necessary; forms similar to those in Part VI. of the Appendix may be used. J. A. Rule 128, part.

This is to the same effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 4, (see 1883, R. 200).

The Eng. Rules of 1883, R. 200, provides for the signing of pleadings, and that a pleading "shall contain, and contain only, a statement in a summary form of the material facts, etc." The pleadings in England since this Rule are now like a special indorsement on a writ which indeed always serves as a statement of claim: see O. 20, r. 1. The English pleadings and decisions thereon, and as to particulars can not now be safe guides in Ontario.

Facts to be stated.

The new system of pleading requires not the legal result of the facts, but the facts themselves, to be stated: see note to Rule 394. A statement of claim therefore which merely alleged that a good and valid donatio mortis causa had been made to the plaintiff, without stating the facts which constitute it, was held to be demurrable: Re Parton, Townsend v. Parton, 30 W. R. 287; 45 L. T. N. S. 755. In an action of libel it was held that the defendant must set out all the facts which he relies upon as showing justification or privilege: Belt v. Lawes, 51 L. J. Q. B. 359; and in a similar action, evidence of the plaintiff's general bad character was held not admissible unless referred to in the statement of defence: Scott v. Sampson, 8 Q. B. D. 491.

A plea of purchaser for value without notice may be relied on at the hearing, though not expressly pleaded, if it be a just inference on the facts admitted on the pleadings, or subsequently by agreement of the parties: Taylor v. Blacklock, 34 W. R. 175.

The pleadings in dower are governed by the same rules as those in other actions. The right of dower is a legal conclusion from certain facts, and those facts should be stated in the pleading: Lawder v. Currier, 10 P. R. 612.

In an action of slander it is not sufficient to allege that the defendant falsely and maliciously spoke and published the defamatory words complained of. The time and place, and the persons to whom, or in whose presence, they were spoken must be stated with reasonable certainty: Thornton v. Capstock, 19 C. L. J. 254.

A plaintiff who claimed to be entitled to a right of way over a road, and an injunction against the obstruction of the road, was required to state in his pleading, the way and the route and limitations of the road over which he claimed the right. A general statement that there was a road over a certain farm connecting two other farms, and that the plaintiff and his tenants were entitled to a right of way over it, was held to be embarrassing: Harris v. Jenkins, 22 Ch. D. 481: see also Spalding v. Fitzpatrick, 38 Ch. D. 410. So a plaintiff claiming an easement must set out the facts on which he relies as entitling him, by grant, prescription or otherwise, Furwell v. Hoogan, 12 L. R. Ir. 14.

Where the pleadings alleged "that the company has otherwise acknowledged the insolvency," it was held that as a matter of pleading the manner of acknowledgment should have been stated: Re British Canadian Loan & Investment Co., 4 C. L. T. 248.

In a foreclosure action where the mortgagee applies for judgment, on default of appearance, not only for foreclosure but also for a personal order for payment, the statement of claim ought, however shortly, to contain an express statement of the covenant upon which the order is claimed: Law v. Philby, 56 L. T. N. S. 230; 35 W. R. 401. Rule 399.

The "material facts" are not confined to facts which must be proved in order to establish the cause of action; any facts which may affect the damages, and which the plaintiff is entitled to prove at the trial, are properly pleadable in a statement of claim: Midlington v. Loring, 6 Q. B. D. 190; Lumb v. Beaumont, 49 L. T. N. S. 772; Glossop v. Spindler, 29 Sol. Jour. 556; so facts in mitigation of damages in an action for malicious arrest: Pursley v. Bennett, 11 P. R. 64. The Eng. Rules of 1883 (R. 237), provide that no defence as to damages shall be necessary; and, therefore, such a defence is not allowed to be pleaded: Wood v. Earl of Durham, 37 W. R. 222. There is no similar provision in Ontario. What are "material facts."

In an action for malicious prosecution, a part of the statement of claim, setting out the observations of the Judge, before whom the plaintiff was tried on a criminal charge, was struck out, but a part, stating damage from publication of such charge, was allowed to stand: Morrow v. Cheyne, 12 P. R. 487.

Though each paragraph should as nearly as possible contain a separate allegation, it need not contain a separate cause of action or defence: Union, etc. v. Lyman, 46 U. C. Q. B. 453. The facts must be stated concisely, without any rhetoric: per Mellish, L.J., in Watson v. Rodwell, 45 L. J. Chy. 744; 3 Ch. D. 380; but if a pleading states only material facts, it will not be struck out merely because the facts are stated at too great a length: Heap v. Marris, 2 Q. B. D. 630; unless the pleading is so prolix as to embarrass: Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. at p. 488; Marsh v. Pontefract, etc., W. N. 1876, 7. Prolixity may consist in (1) necessary facts being stated at undue length; or (2) statements of unnecessary facts: per Baggallay, L.J., in Davy v. Garrett, 38 L. T. N. S. 77. It is improper to state argument, or inferences and conclusions of law: Davy v. Garrett, supra; per Mellish, L.J., in Watson v. Rodwell, supra; Hanmer v. Flight, 35 L. T. N. S. 127; Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. 787; or matters of law that might be raised by demurrer: Stokes v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 25; or "charges" such as were sometimes introduced in Equity pleadings and were merely statements of the pleader's view of the equity: Watson v. Rodwell, supra; or evidence, e.g., facts showing that a person is the heir-at-law of a deceased person: Evelyn v. Evelyn, W. N. 1880, 62; see also Blake v. Albion Life Ins. Co., 35 L. T. N. S. 269; 45 L. J. C. P. 663; Jones v. Turner, W. N. 1875, 239: Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., supra; or evidence in the shape of admissions: Askew v. N. E. Ry. Co., W. N. 1875, 238. Documents relied on as admissions are nothing but evidence: Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473. Prolixity. Admissions and other evidence.

The Court has a discretion to strike out statements which are open to any of these objections: Rule 423. There are many cases in which facts and evidence are so mixed up as to be almost indistinguishable: per Archibald, J., in Smith v. West, W. N. 1876, 55; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 41.

The plaintiff in an action to recover land, must set out all the material facts upon which his title is founded: see note to Rule 416.

The plaintiff need not state under what particular form of action he is proceeding; nor in what legal relation he claims to stand to the defendant: Metropolitan Ry. Co. v. Defries, 36 L. T. N. S. 150, 494; Hanmer v. Flight, 24 W. R. 346.

What is material, is a statement of the facts and of the relief claimed; and the facts need not be distributed so as to show which of them support each claim to relief. So long as they show that the plaintiff is entitled to any one kind of relief claimed, or, where there is a claim for general relief, to any relief at all, the paragraph containing them will not be demurrable: Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884.

Where the old forms of Common Law pleadings will serve as models, they are not necessarily abolished. Where a defendant has received a sum of money for the plaintiff, it was considered that the statement of that fact was all that Former Common Law Forms.

Rule 399.

could be required; and an application for the amendment of the statement of claim by setting forth the circumstances under which the money was received, was dismissed: Bartlett v. Roche, W. N. 1876, 54.

Defences, however, of "never indebted" and "set off," in the old forms have been struck out as violating the present Rule: Davis v. Yeo, Mr. Dalton, 11 April, 1882. See Copley v. Jackson, W. N. 1884, 39.

The pleading of the "common counts" is not admissible: Sproule v. Ferrier, 20 C. L. J. 284.

The plea of "not guilty" without statutory authority to plead it is not admissible: Peterborough v. Midland Ry. Co. 12 P. R. 127.

As to "non est factum," pleaded after the Jud. Act in an action begun before: see note to Rule 413.

It has been held by some Judges in England that the old general allegation of the performance of conditions precedent is improper, not being an allegation of facts: see 72 L. T. Jour. 343.

Quære, whether hypothetical defences can be pleaded: Smith v. Farr, 14 Ont. 729.

Particulars of pleadings, when ordered.

Particulars of Pleadings.—The practice in Ontario as to ordering particulars depends upon the inherent jurisdiction of the Court to prevent injustice; no Rules similar to those in force in England having been adopted: Queen Victoria Park, etc. v. Howard, 13 P. R. 14. The defendant is entitled to have the plaintiff's case presented in an intelligible form: Harbord v. Monk, 38 L. T. N. S. 411; and if the charges are not sufficiently explicit, particulars may be ordered: see Anon, W. N. 1875, 202, 220; or an amendment of the claim may be applied for: Schomberg v. Zoebelli, W. N. 1876, 106; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 36.

In Kohfreitsch v. McIntyre, 19 C. L. J. 116; 3 C. L. T. 173; it was held by Mr. Dalton, in Chambers, that, in a case where formerly a party would have been entitled to particulars of a pleading, the proper course will in general be to move to compel an amendment of the pleading so as to state the particulars required. In that case the defence was that a note sued on had been obtained by fraud. The defence was ordered to be amended so as to state the circumstances of the fraud: see Wallingford v. Mutual Soc., 5 App. Cas. 685. Particulars have sometimes been ordered: see Baston v. Bradshaw, 8 L. R. Ir. 30; Appleman v. Appleman, 12 P. R. 138. A like order would seem to be proper where justification is pleaded in general terms in an action of libel: see Corcoran v. Robb, 8 P. R. 49; or an action for wrongful dismissal: see Saunders v. Jones, 7 Ch. D. 435, 448.

There may, however, be cases in which a general allegation may be allowed in the pleading to avoid prolixity, leaving the opposite party to apply for particulars if necessary: see The Rory, 7 P. D. 120, where a statement of claim, claiming damages for delivery of cargo in a damaged condition, alleged that the damage was occasioned by the defective condition of the vessel or by the negligence or breach of duty of the defendants: see also Appleman v. Appleman, 12 P. R. 138.

Particulars will be ordered giving information to prevent the opposite party from being taken by surprise at the trial: Spedding v. Fitzpatrick, 38 Ch. D. 410; but not such as will oblige a party to disclose the evidence upon which he relies: Queen Victoria Park Commissioners v. Howard, 13 P. R. 14.

Alimony cases.

In suits for alimony, the former Chancery practice required that the various acts of violence or adultery relied on, should be set forth specifically in the bill, that the defendant might have notice of them, otherwise no evidence of such acts could be given: Rodman v Rodman, 20 Gr. 428, 440, 441. This is in accordance with the new Rules of pleading: see Brook v. Brook, 35 W. R. 351; 57 L. T. N. S. 425; in Rosenstadt v. Rosenstadt, 9 P. R. 31., an order was made for delivery of particulars of acts relied on, within one month, and confining the plaintiff's evidence to such acts; and though in that case it was considered convenient to order particulars, the decision shews clearly enough that the plaintiff's statement of claim was not properly framed to enable her to go into evidence.

Examples.—Defendants pleading that certain lands were Ordnance Lands were not ordered to give particulars of facts and means by which, and the time at which, the lands so became Ordnance Lands, it not appearing that the defendants had any special means of information not open to the plaintiffs: Queen Victoria Park Commissioners v. Howard, 13 P. R. 14. Rule 399. Examples.

Defendants claiming a road to be a highway by dedication were ordered, if they relied on any specific acts of dedication or declarations of intention to dedicate, whether alone or jointly with user, to give the nature and dates of the acts or declarations and the names of the persons by whom they were done or made: Spedding v. Fitzpatrick, 38 Ch. D. 410.

Particulars have also been ordered:—of payments which the defendants, who were mortgagees in a redemption action admitted having received, and in respect to which they counter-claimed: Kemp v. Goldberg, 36 Ch. D. 505; of negligence and damages in an action for damages for injuries caused by negligent driving: O'Meara v. Stone, W. N. 1884, 72; 28 Sol. Jour. 359; of general allegations of trust, and breaches thereof: Re Anstice, Anstice v. Hibbell, 33 W. R. 557; 52 L. T. N. S. 572; of errors in progress certificates, though these were the result of information derived from documents prepared for the litigation which were privileged: C. P. R. v. Commee, 11 P. R. 297; of items alleged to be false entries and of the nature of objection to each: Newport v. Paynter 34 Ch. D. 88; of false and fraudulent misrepresentations: Seligman v. Young, W. N. 1884, 93; 28 Sol. Jour. 411; in a libel suit, of matter material to the defendant's case upon the issue on a plea of justification, though involving disclosure of names of persons intended to be called by the plaintiff as witnesses: Marriott v. Chamberlain, 17 Q. B. D. 154; 34 W. R. 783; 54 L. T. N. S. 714: in an action for infringement of a trade mark, of "divers persons" alleged to have been deceived: Humphries v. Taylor, 39 Ch. D. 693; of items of a claim in respect of which the defendant pays money into Court, but only if the trial will be facilitated and neither party embarrassed: Orient Steam Nav. Co. v. Ocean Marine Ins. Co. 34 W. R. 442. This case was decided under Rule 203, of Eng. Rules of 1883, providing expressly for a demand of particulars and order therefor, if not given on demand, which is the practice pursued in Ontario without special Rule: see Tariff of costs, item 69.

In an action for goods sold and delivered, a counter-claim for damages for inferior quality was set up. Particulars of the damages claimed were ordered: Anon, W. N. 1875, 220; see also notes to Rules 245 and 370.

In an action for false imprisonment as a lunatic, reasonable and probable cause as a defence was held, and immaterial allegations and particulars of it were refused: Cave v. Torre, 54 L. T. N. S. 87, 515. False imprisonment.

In an action of seduction defendant was held not entitled to particulars of times and places, unless he made affidavit denying the seduction so as to shew that he did not know the nature of the charges brought against him, which otherwise would be deemed to be matters within his own knowledge: Thompson v. Birkley, 31 W. R. 230; 47 L. T. N. S. 700. Seduction.

In some cases the particulars may be obtained by examination for discovery: see Saunders v. Jones, 7 Ch. D. 435, explained in Benbow v. Low, 16 Ch. D. 97; Frost v. Brooke, 32 L. T. N. S. 312; Hill v. Wates, L. R. 9 C. P. 688. Particulars obtained by examination.

Where by examination for discovery the defendant had obtained the information which would be given by particulars, particulars were refused: Gould v. Beattie, 11 P. R. 329.

In determining what particulars may be demanded, the decisions under the English practice of delivering interrogatories may be usefully referred to. These shew that a party cannot be compelled to disclose the details of his evidence as contra-distinguished from the facts: Eade v. Jacobs, 3 Ex. D. 335; explained in Atty.-Gen. v. Gaskill, 30 W. R. 558; Bidder v. Bridges, 29 Ch. D. 29; Benbow v. Low, 16 Ch. D. 93; Re Leigh, Rowcliffe v. Leigh, 6 Ch. D. 256; Steward v. Lord Lonsdale, 5 C. P. D. 47; 42 L. T. N. S. 172; Commissioners of Sewers v. Glasse, L. R. 15 Eq. 302; or matters which do not pertain to the questions to be raised at the trial, though they may be relevant if a judgment is obtained: Parker v. Wells, 18 Ch. D. 477; but the material facts upon

OSGOODE UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 399. which the issues in the case will be raised must be disclosed: Ashley v. Taylor, 38 L. T. N. S. 44, such as, in an action for dissolution of a partnership in the practice of surgeons, occasions when the defendant conducted himself in such a way as to make it impossible for the plaintiff to practice with him: Lyon v. Tweddell, 13 Ch. D. 375; and, in an action for wrongful dismissal, instances of misconduct relied on to justify the dismissal; Saunders v. Jones, 7 Ch. D. 435.

Wrongful dismissal.

Slander Libel.

In an action of slander, particulars may be ordered of the persons to whom the slanderous words were spoken, or if such persons were unknown, or the words were spoken to the plaintiff, then the name of any person who was present and heard, or might have heard the words spoken: Thornton v. Capstock, 9 P. R. 535; which, it has been held in Gould v. Beattie, 11 P. R. 329, is in Ontario, to be followed in preference to the contrary views expressed in Bradbury v. Cooper, 12 Q. B. D. 94, and Roselle v. Buchanan, 16 Q. B. D. 656; but see McMillan v. Colwell, 7 C. L. T. 141; but it has been held even in England that those decisions are not to be extended to occasions of publication of an alleged libel: Gourand v. Fitzgerald, 37 W. R. 55; but particulars as to names of persons alleged to have been passing by when the slanderous words were used, and particulars as to the alleged damages have been refused: Wingard v. Cox, W. N. 1876, 106; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 33; see also Colonial Insurance Corporation v. Prosser, W. N. 1876, 55; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 35; Restell v. Steward, W. N. 1875, 231; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 87.

Patent cases.

The general law applicable to discovery governs actions for infringement of patents. Full disclosure of the lines of attack must be made, but no such individualizing of the persons who are alleged to be prior users as would enable the plaintiff to fix upon the defendant's witnesses: Smith v. Greey, 4 C. L. T. 589; 21 C. L. J. 58: see 11 P. R. 169.

In Moseley v. Victoria Rubber Co., 55 L. T. N. S. 482, particulars of breaches of two patents were delivered. The defendant answered the plaintiff's interrogatories, whereupon he discontinued as to one patent. The defendants then required the plaintiff to distinguish between the breaches complained of, referring him to their answers and interrogatories and interrogating him as to which of the processes they described infringed the patent relied on by him. It was held that the plaintiff was not obliged to particularize the breaches: see Birch v. Mather, 31 W. R. 362; 22 Ch. D. 629; see Anglo-American Brush Co. v. Crompton, 34 Ch. D. 152; 35 Ch. D. 283; under Imp. Act 46 & 47 Vict. c. 57, s. 29

Particulars were ordered of respects in which the defendants denied that the plaintiffs' patent was for any new invention, etc., (as alleged) and dates and occasions when, and also names of persons by whom, prior user was had: Smith v. Greey, 11 P. R. 169; see also Holliday v. Heppenstall, 41 Ch. D. 109; Union Electrical, etc. Co. v. Electrical Storage Co., 38 Ch. D. 325; Boyd v. Farrar, 57 L. T. N. S. 866.

Particulars of objections to a patent must be given: see Cropper v. Smith, 51 L. T. N. S. 729; see form of order in Ehrlich v. Ihlee, 56 L. T. N. S. 819.

An application by the defendant to amend his particulars of objections to a patent on the ground that pending the trial the defendant had discovered new facts shewing want of novelty, was refused, it not being shown that he could not with reasonable diligence have discovered the new facts sooner: Moss v. Malings, 33 Ch. D. 603.

All defects in the specifications of a patent on which the defendant intends to rely at the trial must be specified in the particulars of objection: Anglo-American Brush Light Co. v. Crompton, 34 Ch. D. 152; 35 Ch. D. 283.

In an action for libel in a newspaper publication, which the defence said was an accurate report of certain public proceedings and fair comment thereon, particulars by interrogation were denied as to the names of persons on whose information the report was based: Hennessy v. Wright (No. 2), 36 W. R. 879; and where the action is against the proprietor of a newspaper who admits the publication of the libel, and pleads an apology, the plaintiff is not entitled to interrogate the defendant as to the name of the writer, unless the identity of the writer is a fact material to some issue raised in the case: Gibson v. Edwards, 23 Q. B. D. 384. Rule 400.

Particulars were ordered of a defence of justification in a libel suit, where it was not clear whether the defence was that what was charged against plaintiff was true, or was truly reported: Hennessay v. Wright (No. 1), Ib. 878; 57 L. J. Q. B. 594. In Mills v. Carman, 17 Ont. 223, a defendant not pleading justification, but saying that the alleged libel was a fair comment on matters of public interest, was held entitled to show that the matters commented upon were true.

The practice in the Probate Division in England is not to order particulars of undue influence charged: Lord Salisbury v. Nugent, 9 P. D. 23; or of allegations of a testator's unsoundness of mind: Hankinson v. Barningham, 53 L. J. Pro. 16.

Particulars having been ordered of false entries alleged by the statement of claim to have been made by the defendant in the books, it was held not sufficient to set out a list of items complained of, but that the plaintiff must state shortly as to each item the nature of the objection made to it: Newport, etc., Co. v. Paynter, 34 Ch. D. 88.

An order striking out particulars complained of as too general was refused, it being held that if too general the admission of evidence thereunder was in the discretion of the Judge at the trial: Citizens Insurance v. Campbell, 10 P. R. 129.

Where an order was made for particulars of certain paragraphs of defence, and in default the paragraphs to be struck out, it was held that the officer with whom the pleadings were filed could strike out the paragraphs without further order upon default being shown by affidavit: Hamilton Road Co. v. Platt, 10 P. R. 581.

A defendant does not waive his right to particulars by delivering a defence: Sachs v. Speilman, 37 Ch. D. 295.

When the defendant has the means of knowing the facts in dispute, and the plaintiff has not, the defendant is not entitled to particulars till after he has given discovery: Miller v. Harper, 38 Ch. D. 110; Sachs v. Speilman, supra; Whyte v. Ahrens, 26 Ch. D. 717; Leitch v. Abbott, 31 Ch. D. 374.

Signature of Counsel—The provision that signature of counsel is not to be necessary, does not mean that it is improper and ought to be struck out: Bernard v. Harwick, W. N. 1876, 134. In Duckitt v. Jones, W. N. 1876, 17; 33 L. T. N. S. 777, counsel's signature was said to be desirable; and in case of a petition by trustees for advice, necessary: Re Boulton's Trusts, W. N. 1882, 62; 30 W. R. 596; 51 L. J. Chy. 493.

400. Each party is to admit such of the material allegations contained in the statement of claim or defence of the opposite party as are true; or he may give notice, by his own statement or otherwise, that he admits for the purposes of the action the truth of the case generally, or of any part of the case, stated or referred to in the statement of claim or defence of the opposite or any other party. J. A. Rule 240. Admission of statements of opponent.

This Rule corresponds in principle with the former practice in Chancery. The Eng. R. 1875, O. 32, r. 1 (1883, R. 371), is permissive only, and authorizes, but does not require (as this Rule does) a party to the action to give notice, by his own statement or otherwise, that he admits the truth of the whole or part of his adversary's statement.

Rules 401, 402.

In Lee v. Button, 12 Ch. D. 383, Malins, V.C., said that a defendant ought not to deny the plain and acknowledged facts, which it is neither to his interest nor in his power to disprove.

As to the construction of admissions not made by reference to paragraphs of the opposite party's pleading: see Dovey v. Irwin, 4 Ont. 8; see also notes to Rule 756.

Where allegations in the plaintiff's claim were admitted he was not allowed to go into evidence: The Hardwick, 9 P. D. 32.

As to costs where proper admissions are not made: see Rule 1189.

Manner of making admissions

401. Admissions are, in all cases where it is practicable, to be by reference to the numbers of the paragraphs in the pleading to which they relate, with such qualifications as may be necessary or proper for protecting the interests of the party making such admissions: thus—"the defendant admits the allegations made in the first, second and third paragraphs of the plaintiff's claim." J. A. Rule 146.

Not in the English Rules. See notes to Rule 403.

See Rule 400, which requires each party to admit such of the material allegations contained in the pleading of the opposite party as are true.

What facts must be pleaded.

402. Each party in any pleading must allege all such facts not appearing in the previous pleading (if any), as he means to rely on, and must raise all such grounds of defence or reply, as the case may be, as if not so raised on the pleadings would be likely to take the oppposite party by surprise, or would raise new issues of fact not arising out of the pleadings, as (for instance) fraud, or that any claim has been barred by a Statute of Limitations, or has been released. J. A. 147.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 18. The Con. Rule of 1883, R. 211, is more full and specific.

In Byrd v. Nunn, 5 Ch. D. 781, where a statement of defence denied the making of an agreement alleged, and proceeded to say that the person by whom it was alleged to have been made was of unsound mind, it was held that the only issue was the unsoundness of mind of the alleged contractor. In Collette v. Goode, 7 Ch. D. 842, the defendant alledged that a song was not duly registered by reason of the time of registration not being entered; he was not allowed to prove that the registration was void by reason of the name of the publishers not being truly stated. Both the above cases depended to a great extent upon the English Rules as to admissions, which have not been adopted in the Ontario Act: see note to Rule 403.

Want of notice of action must be pleaded: Verratt v. McAulay, 5 Ont. 313; McKay v. Cummings, 6 Ont. 400.

As to pleading statutes relied on other than the Statute of Limitations, see 83 L. T. Jour. 93; Coburn v. Collins, 35 Ch. D. 373 (registration necessary under Bill of Sales Act); Hayward v. Lely, 56 L. T. N. S. 418 (registration under the Copyright Act); from which it would appear to be well to mention any statute relied on in the pleading, in order to prevent the imputation of an attempt to surprise. The pleadings in the above cases were held insufficient, but amendments were allowed: see also McKay v. Cummings, 6 Ont. 400.

As to the averment of performance of conditions precedent, see note to Rule 403. Rule 399.

As to the mode in which fraud must be pleaded, see note to Rule 407.

Where the Statute of Limitations bars the remedy only, it must be pleaded, and cannot be taken advantage of by demurrer; Wakelee v. Davis, 25 W. R. 60, notwithstanding the remarks in Noyes v. Crawley, 10 Ch. D. 31, which was decided before the appeal in Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, 4 App. Cas. 51; see also Re Burge, Gillard v. Lawrenson, 57 L. T. N. S. 364. But where the Statute takes away the title, as in an action for recovery of land, it is clear that the defence may be raised by demurrer: Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, 6 Ch. D. 318; 4 App. Cas. 51, 58, 64; Willis v. Earl Howe, 50 L. J. Chy. 4. In Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, Lord Cairns said: "The analogy of the Statute of Frauds is not an analogy of any weight. The Statute of Frauds must be pleaded, because it never can be predicated beforehand that a defendant who may shelter himself under the Statute of Frauds, desires to do so. He may, if it be a question of an agreement, confess the agreement, and then the Statute of Frauds will be inapplicable. With regard also to the Statute of Limitations, as to personal actions, the cause of action may remain, even although six years have passed. It cannot be predicated that the defendant will appeal to the Statute of Limitations for his protection. Many people, or some people at all events, do not do so, therefore you must wait to hear from the defendant whether he desires to avail himself of the defence of the Statute of Limitations or not. But with regard to real property it is a question of title. The plaintiff has to state his title, the title upon which he means to rely; and the Statute of Limitations with regard to real property says, that when the time has expired within which an entry or claim must be made to real property, the title shall be extinguished and pass away from him who might have had it, to the person who otherwise has the title by possession, or in whatever other way he may have it": 4 App. Cas. 58-59.

See also notes to Rule 413.

403. Save as otherwise provided, the silence of a pleading as to any allegations contained in the previous pleading of the opposite party is not to be construed into an implied admission of the truth of such allegation; and any allegation introduced for the purpose of preventing such implied admission, and not for the purpose of making intelligible the grounds of defence, is to be considered impertinent. J. A. Rule 148. Silence of pleading no admission.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 21 (1883, R. 209), which is different.

This Rule introduces the practice of the Court of Chancery as to admissions: G. O. 123; see also Rule 400. It was a principle of Common Law pleading that each party was to be taken to admit those allegations in the pleadings of the opposite party which he did not deny.

"Save as above otherwise provided," the exceptions referred to in these words are those which require the pleading to specifically deny the right of the party to claim in a representative capacity; or the alleged constitution of a partnership firm: Rule 411; or the legality of a contract; or its sufficiency in point of law: Rule 413.

Where a material fact therefore is alleged in a pleading, and the pleading of the opposite party is silent in respect thereto, the fact must be considered in issue: Waterloo Mutual, etc. v. Robinson, 4 Ont. 295; Seabrook v. Young, 7 C. L. T. 152.

Where a pleading, however, does not maintain silence, but contains an answer to allegations in opposite pleadings which has no sense if not read as admitting certain statements, those statements must be taken as admitted: Richardson v. Jenkins, 10 P. R. 292.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 404.

The English Rules under the Judicature Acts, in regard to admissions, differ from the above: see Order 19, Rules 17, 20, 22, the effect of which is that, so far as regards statements of claim and defence and counter-claim, and as regards parties who are not infants or lunatics, the want of a specific denial of a fact will operate as an admission, and will entitle the party whose pleading is thus admitted to move for judgment under Rule 756; and thus upon a technical construction of pleading, final judgment may be signed: see Thorpe v. Holdsworth, 3 Ch. D. 637, and Rutter v. Tregent, 12 Ch. D. 758; and the merits might sometimes not be reached: see Tildesley v. Harper, 7 Ch. D. 403; reversed however in appeal, 10 Ch. D. 393; Lumsden v. Winter, 8 Q. B. D. 650; Caroli v. Hirst, W. N. 1883, 115; Thornton v. Church, 10 L. R. Ir. 378; Williamson v. London, etc., 27 W. R. 724; Elliot v. Harris, 17 L. R. Ir. 351.

The rule of the Court of Chancery adopted in the present Rule has not been found in practice to render the arriving at an issue a difficult thing, or to unduly increase evidence.

By Rule 400 (which is founded upon Chancery G. O. 124) each party is to admit such allegations in the pleadings of the opposite party as are true; and if he does not do so, Rule 1189 gives to the Court or Judge power to make a proper order with respect to any extra costs occasioned by the failure to admit.

Relief claimed to be stated specifically.

404. Every statement of claim shall state specifically the relief which the plaintiff claims, either simply or in the alternative, and may also ask for general relief. And the same rule shall apply to any counter-claim made, or relief claimed by the defendant, in his statement of defence. If the plaintiff's claim be for discovery only, the statement of claim shall shew it. J. A. Rule 133.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 8. The Rule of 1883, R. 230, is different, providing that general or other relief need not be prayed for and may always be given.

A claimant is not entitled to any relief unless it is specifically prayed for, or can be given under a prayer for general relief; and if general relief is not asked for, it will be considered that the party does not want it: Holloway v. York, 25 W. R. 627; Cargill v. Bower, 10 Ch. D. 508. Where general relief is claimed, a pleading will not be demurrable, if the facts stated in it show that the plaintiff is entitled to any relief: Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884, unless the relief be foreign to the scope of the claim: Gaughan v. Sharpe, 6 Ont. App. 417; Gunn v. Trust & Loan Co., 2 Ont. 393. It is sufficient to set out in the statement of claim facts which entitle to relief and pray for any relief that the facts warrant: Phelps v. White, 7 L. R. Ir. 160. Under a prayer for general relief the Court will grant the appropriate relief which the facts warrant, although unable to grant the specific relief claimed: Slater v. The Canada Central Ry Co., 25 Gr. 363.

Facts, arising after action brought, entitling the plaintiff to further relief, in respect of the subject matter of the litigation, beyond what they were entitled to at its commencement, have been allowed to be set up by amendment: Yorkshire Wagon Co. v. Cornwall Minerals Co., 73 L. T. Jour. 120.

In an action for an injunction under the usual prayer for general relief damages are included under sec. 53 (9) of the Jud. Act (Lord Cairn's Act): Serrao v. Noel, 15 Q. B. D. 549.

As to the efficiency of a prayer for general relief, see Cook v. Martyn, 2 Atk. 3, and the observations thereon in Byrne v. Frere, 2 Moll. 166.

It does not follow because a plaintiff has asked for reformation of a document that a defendant is entitled to claim the same relief though he has not asked for it: Wolfe v. Hughes, 1 Ont. 322, 18 C. L. J. 177. See as to asking two inconsistent kinds of relief, Evans v. Davis, 27 W. R. 285, referred to in note to Rule 423, and Breslauer v. Barwick, 24 W. R. 902. Rules 405-407.

405. Where the plaintiff seeks relief in respect of several distinct claims or causes of complaint founded upon separate and distinct facts, they shall be stated, as far as may be, separately and distinctly. And the same rule shall apply where the defendant relies upon several distinct grounds of defence, or counter-claim founded upon separate and distinct facts. J. A. Rule 134. Distinct claims or defences.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 9, (1883, R. 231).

Rules 301 and 340, enable the plaintiff to unite in the same statement of claim several causes of action. The present Rule requires such a statement of claim to keep the facts supporting one cause of action, as far as may be, together, and distinct from the facts supporting another cause of action. It is not necessary, however, to distribute the various facts so as to show which are intended to support any particular prayer for relief: Watson v. Hawkins, 24 W. R. 884. The same rule applies to a counter-claim.

406. Where the contents of any document are material, it shall be sufficient in any pleading to state the effect thereof as briefly as possible, without setting out the whole or any part thereof unless the precise words of the document or any part thereof are material. J. A. Rule 135. Effect of document may be stated.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 24, (1883, R. 217).

This does not dispense with the necessity for setting forth the precise defamatory words in an action of libel or slander: Harris v. Warre, 4 C. P. D. 125; M'Laugh v. The Queen, 3 Q. B. D. 607; see also Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473.

Where res judicata in an Irish Court was alleged, a brief statement of the Irish judgment was held sufficient: Houstoun v. Sligo, 29 Ch. D. 448.

407. Where it is material to allege malice, fraudulent intention, knowledge or other condition of the mind of any person, it shall be sufficient to allege the same as a fact, without setting out the circumstances from which the same is to be inferred. J. A. Rule 136. Allegation of malice, etc.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 25, (1883, R. 218).

Fraud should be distinctly charged as fraud: Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. at p. 489; and if "fraudulently," or words of similar import are omitted, there must be allegations of fact which necessarily and per se amount to fraud: Byrne v. Muzio, 8 L. R. Ir. 396, and see Rule 402; and the facts constituting the fraud should be stated, or no evidence in support will be received: Re Rica Gold Washing Co., 11 Ch. D. 36, 43, 47; Redgrave v. Hurd, 25 Sol. Jour. 372; Arkwright v. Newbold, Ib., 338; Symonds v. City Bank, W. N. 1886, 19; 80 L. T. Jour. 245; see Smith v. Chadwick, 9 App. Cas. 187. Fraud.

A general allegation of fraud, however strong the words used, where there is no statement of the circumstances relied on as constituting the alleged fraud is insufficient even to amount to an averment of fraud, of which any Court ought to take notice: Wallingford v. Mutual Society, 5 App. Cas. 685, 697, 701.

Rules 408, 409.

Fraudulent concealment of fraud, which within Gibb v. Guild, 9 Q. B. D. 59, may be relied on as ground of equitable relief against the running of the Statute of Limitations, being a question of fact, must be averred as such in the pleadings: Barber v. Houston, 14 L. R. Ir. 273.

In Herring v. Bischoffscheim, W. N. 1876, 77, the statement of claim alleged the purchase of bonds through fraudulent misrepresentations in the prospectus of the company, and, on a motion to strike out parts of the statement of claim as prolix, it was held sufficient to allege generally that the prospectus which was set out was fraudulent to the knowledge of the defendants without specifying the particulars, and without going into either the motive which led to the issue of the prospectus, or the particulars of the fraudulent scheme of which the prospectus formed a part.

As to obtaining more specific allegations of or particulars of fraud charged: see note to Rule 399. See Kaltenbach v. Lewis, 30 W. R. 356; 45 L. T. N. S. 666, for allegations which were considered to amount to a charge of fraud.

Malice.

It will be sufficient under this Rule, in an action for malicious prosecution, to allege that the proceedings were taken without reasonable or probable cause, without setting forth the circumstances from which the same would be inferred: Aderis v. Thrigley, W. N. 1876, 56; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 43.

In an action for malicious prosecution the burden of proof of the absence of reasonable cause, and the presence of malice rests on the plaintiff: Abratt v. N. E. Ry. Co., 55 L. T. N. S. 63; Hicks v. Faulkner, 8 Q. B. D. 167; in an action for false imprisonment, neither allegation nor proof of malice is necessary, and the burden of shewing reasonable cause is on the defendant; Hicks v. Faulkner, supra.

Negligence.

A statement of claim was held sufficient, which alleged that while the plaintiff was using an hotel, of which the defendant was a proprietor, as a guest for reward to the defendant, by the negligence of defendant the ceiling of the room, in which the plaintiff then was, fell upon and injured him: Sandys v. Florence, 47 L. J. C. P. 598. Negligence averred generally, was held sufficient in Quillinan v. Canada Southern Ry., 6 Ont. 567.

Allegation of notice.

408. Where it is material to allege notice to any person of any fact, matter or thing, it shall be sufficient to allege such notice as a fact unless the form or precise terms of the notice (a) is or are material. J. A. Rule 137.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 26, that of 1883, R. 219, has at (a) the words "or the circumstances from which the same is to be inferred."

Implied contract.

409. Where any contract or any relation between any persons does not arise from any express agreement, but is to be implied from a series of letters or conversations, or otherwise from a number of circumstances, it shall be sufficient to allege the contract or relation as a fact, and to refer generally to the letters, conversations, or circumstances without setting them out in detail; and if in such a case, the person so pleading desires to rely in the alternative upon more contracts or relations than one, as to be implied from such circumstances, he may state the same in the alternative. J. A. Rule 138.

To the same effect as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 27, (1883, R. 22

An agreement is not strictly speaking a fact: it is an inference of law from facts. The material facts should therefore be stated: Rule 399. If the "express agreement" is in writing, that fact will best be stated, and the effect of the document set forth: Rule 406. If the agreement is to be gathered from a series of letters, conversations or circumstances, the present Rule applies: Turquand v. Fearon, 40 L. T. N. S. 543; see also Smyth v. Levinge, 39 L. T. N. S. 579; Noad v. Murrow, 40 L. T. N. S. 100; and App. Form 58. Rules 410-413.

Where an agreement to have any effect in law must be in writing, it is sufficient to allege that there was an agreement without alleging that it was in writing. That it was in writing is matter for evidence at the trial: Pascoe v. Richards, 50 L. J. Chv. 340; and it lies upon the party setting up the agreement to prove one sufficient in law at the trial: Privett v. Hay, Mr. Dalton, 4 March, 1884.

410. Neither party need in any pleading allege any matter of fact which the law presumes in his favour, or as to which the burden of proof lies upon the other side, unless the same has first been specifically denied. Facts presumed need not be stated.

[E.g.—Consideration for a bill of exchange where the plaintiff sues only on the bill, and not for the consideration as a substantive ground of claim.] J. A. Rule 139.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 28, (1883, R. 221).

411. If either party wishes to deny the right of any other party to claim as executor, or as trustee, or as assignee in insolvency, or in any representative or other alleged capacity, or the alleged constitution of any partnership firm, he shall deny the same specifically, [or the same will be taken to be admitted.] J. A. Rule 140. Denial of representative capacity.

The Eng. R. 1875 O. 19, r. 11 (1883, R. 238), does not contain the words in brackets; otherwise the Rules are the same.

See notes to Rule 403.

The rule was the same as Law under Reg. Gen. T. T. 1856, No. 5, as to assignees in insolvency, executors, and administrators and persons authorized by any Act of Parliament to sue or be sued as nominal parties: see Jones v. Brown, 1 Bing. N. C. 484, and Harr. C. L. P. Act, 712.

412. Unless the incorporation of a corporate party to an action is specifically denied in the pleadings, it shall not be necessary to prove it. New. Incorporation.

413. Where a contract is alleged in any pleading, a bare denial of the contract by the opposite party shall be construed only as a denial of the making of the contract in fact, and not of its legality or its sufficiency in law, whether with reference to the Statute of Frauds or otherwise. J. A. Rule 141. Bare denial of contract only denial of the making.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 23. The Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 216, is a little more explicit.

THE UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 414.

A plea of non est factum pleaded to a declaration filed before The Judicature Act, in an action on a policy of insurance, was held not embarrassing; as under this Rule it must be treated as a denial of the making of the contract of insurance in fact: Burnett v. Union Mut. F. Ins. Co., 32 C. P. 134.

In an action of ejectment by an assignee of a lessee against the assignors, the statement of claim alleged an assignment by deed by defendants to the plaintiffs. The defendants denied "that they had assigned or made over the premises" to the plaintiff. This was held under the corresponding Irish Rule to put in issue the execution of the assignment only, and not its invalidity as contrary to a covenant against alienation in the lease: Hayes v. Corcoran, 8 L. R. Ir. 75.

Statute of Frauds.

The effect of this Rule is to require the defendant who wishes to rely on the Statute of Frauds to plead the statute specifically. Before this Act there was a difference in this respect between the practice at Law and in Equity. "At Law if the contract was denied, it was a matter of evidence whether the contract was one which could be sued upon, or whether the remedy was barred by the statute; but in Equity, if the defendant intended to rely upon the Statute of Frauds or any other special statute, he was compelled to make a special averment of his intention": per Mellish, L.J., in Clarke v. Callow, 46 L. J. Q. B. 54; see also Morgan v. Worthington, 38 L. T. N. S. 443.

Formerly in Equity the statute might have been relied on by demurrer where the facts, which made the statute apply, appeared on the face of the bill: Wood v. Midgeley, 2 Sm. & G. 115; Agnew on Statute of Frauds, 494; and might have been relied on as a defence, though not pleaded in the answer: Wilde v. Wilde, 20 Gr. 521; sed vide Butler v. Church, 18 Gr. 190; but in Clarke v. Callow, supra, the plaintiff by anticipation of the defence of the statute alleged facts to show that the contract though verbal was a binding one under the statute, and the defendants traversed these facts merely, not setting up the statute. It was held that defendant was not entitled to rely on the statute.

The facts which make the statute apply should be stated, and the particular provisions relied upon should be pointed to. It is not sufficient to merely make a general statement of reliance on the statute: Pullen v. Snelus, 40 L. T. N. S. 363.

The defence of the statute cannot since the Judicature Acts be raised by demurrer: Catling v. King, 5 Ch. D. 660; Morgan v. Worthington, 38 L. T. N. S. 443; Towle v. Topham, 37 L. T. N. S. 308; Dawkins v. Lord Penrhyn, 4 App. Cas. 51; Shardlow v. Cotterill, W. N. 1881, 2; Futcher v. Futcher, 29 W. R. 884, and see notes to Rule 402. But where the objection of the statute has been once raised by demurrer and overruled, it may be afterwards insisted on at the hearing without being pleaded: Johnasson v. Bonhote, 2 Ch. D. 298.

Where the statute is not pleaded, it cannot now be relied on as a defence: see Olley v. Fisher, 34 Ch. D. 367.

As to particulars in pleading The Master and Servant Act so as to negative a partnership, see Neil v. Park, 10 P. R. 476.

No plea in abatement.

414. No plea or defence shall be pleaded in abatement. J. A. Rule 142.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 13, (1883, R. 253).

A plea in abatement was one which showed some ground for abating or quashing the writ, or the writ and declaration. Such pleas were generally based on the non-joinder of parties, or the personal competency of the parties to sue, or be sued. An instance of an ineffectual attempt to raise what amounted to a plea in abatement, will be found in Preston v. Lamont, 1 Ex. D. 361.

Though the form of objecting by means of a plea in abatement to the non-joinder of a defendant, who ought to be included in the action, is abolished, yet an application to have such person included as a defendant ought to be granted or refused upon the same principles on which a plea in abatement would have succeeded or failed: per Lord Cairns in Kendal v. Hamilton, 4 App. Cas. 516. Rules 415, 416.

A defence stating that the plaintiff is a married woman and her husband is a necessary party is in reality an informal plea in abatement and is no defence: Aboulof v. Oppenheimer, 30 W. R. 429.

415. No new assignment shall be necessary or used. But everything which was formerly alleged by way of new assignment is to be introduced by amendment of the statement of claim. (a) J. A. Rule 143. No new assignment.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 14. The Rule of 1883, R. 281, adds at (a) the words "or by way of reply."

Sometimes, owing to the generality of a declaration, the defendant was not sufficiently guided by it to the real cause of complaint, and was therefore led to apply his plea to a different matter from that which the plaintiff had in view; for example, a plaintiff might have been twice assaulted by defendant; one of these assaults may have been justifiable, as having been committed in self-defence, while the other might be without excuse. Supposing the plaintiff to sue in respect of the latter, the declaration from its general terms would not necessarily inform the defendant that it was the second assault, and the defendant might plead to the first, son assault demesne. The plaintiff then had no course but by new assignment to declare that he brought his action, not for the first, but for the second assault: see Stephen on Pleading, 187. Such an occurrence is not easily conceived under the present system, where the facts are stated, and not the legal result of facts only. Should it happen, however, the statement of claim may be amended. This Rule is not to be construed as rendering an amendment of the statement of claim necessary in other cases than those in which a new assignment would have been necessary under the old system pleading at law. In other cases, if new matter is raised by defendant, the plaintiff may either amend, or may reply by traverse, or confession or avoidance, or both: see Hall v. Eve, 4 Ch. D. 341, and Earp v. Henderson, 3 Ch. D. 254.

416. No defendant in an action for the recovery of land who is in possession by himself or his tenant need plead his title, unless his defence depends on an equitable estate or right, or he claims relief upon any equitable ground against any right or title asserted by the plaintiff. But except in the cases hereinbefore mentioned, it shall be sufficient to state by way of defence that he is so in possession. And he may nevertheless rely upon any ground of defence which he can prove, except as hereinbefore mentioned. J. A. Rule 144. Defence to action for recovery of land.

Identical with the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 15, and with Eng. Rule of 1883, R. 254, except that the latter provides that by so pleading he shall be taken to deny the allegations in the statement of claim: see Danford v. McAnulty, and note infra.

This Rule only applies to a defendant. In an action of ejectment the statement of claim is as much subject to the foregoing Rules as any other action, and the plaintiff must therefore set forth the material facts upon which he relies to prove his title. The effect of a deed is not a fact, and a statement of claim which merely alleged that by virtue of certain deeds, etc., plaintiff was

Rule 417. entitled to possession of land and did not state the purport of the deeds or set out the plaintiff's pedigree, or show the devolution of title by which the land in question became vested in the plaintiff, was therefore held embarrassing: Philipps v. Philipps, 4 Q. B. D. 127; 39 L. T. N. S. 329 and 556; Davis v. James, 26 Ch. D. 778. So also a statement of claim which simply alleged that the plaintiff had been wrongfully dispossessed of the land by the defendant was set aside for not stating the facts which shewed the plaintiff's interest in the land: O'Connor v. O'Hara, 8 L. R. Ir. 249.

In an action for dower, the fact showing the right of dower (which is a legal conclusion from the facts) must be stated: Lauder v. Carrier, 10 P. R. 612.

A statement of claim stating that "by virtue of a certain settlement, the plaintiff is entitled" without setting out or stating the effect of the limitations in the settlement is insufficient: Riddell v. Strathmore, 31 Sol. Jour. 183.

A statement that the plaintiff, or any person through whom he claims, was on such a day seized in fee simple in possession, would seem to be sufficient statement of a plaintiff's title: see the Form in Wilson's Jud. Act 7th ed. 572, and Smith v. Cairns, (before Chief Justice Galt, 8th April, 1889.) In Beatty v. Leacy, 16 L. R. Ir. 132, a general allegation of the plaintiff's derivative title was held sufficient.

In several cases under the Irish Jud. Act a defence in actions of ejectment for non-payment of rent has been set aside as embarrassing, where it in effect merely denied that defendant was tenant, without alleging anything as to the defendant's title, or saying that he was in possession: see Hildige v. O'Farrell, 8 L. R. Ir. 158; Barnes v. Barnes, 8 L. R. Ir. 165; Rowley v. Laffan, 10 L. R. Ir. 9.

Where the plaintiff's case depended on the heirship of A., and that fact was stated simply, without showing how A. became heir, the pleading was held sufficient: Evelyn v. Evelyn, 42 L. T. N. S. 248; 28 W. R. 531. The defendant relying on an equitable title must, in his statement of defence allege the nature of the deeds and documents on which he relies; and it is not sufficient to allege that by virtue of divers mesne acts and mesne assurances, all the estates and interests of the plaintiff's predecessor in title are now vested in the defendant: Sutcliffe v. James, 40 L. T. N. S. 875; 27 W. R. 750. A defendant who pleads merely that he is in possession, was always at liberty to question the plaintiff's title, even under the English system of pleading, by which what is not denied is taken to be admitted: Danford v. McAnulty, 6 Q. B. D. 645, affirmed in H. L. 8 App. Cas. 456; and this is now expressly provided in the Eng. Con. Rule of 1883, 254; a fortiori under the Ontario system, where mere non-admission puts the plaintiff to proof.

See Attorney-General v. Midland Ry. Co., 3 Ont. 511, and Adamson v. Adamson, 17 Ont. 425.

Plea of not guilty by statute.

417. Nothing in these Rules contained shall affect the right of a defendant to plead not guilty by statute. And every defence of not guilty by statute shall have the same effect as a plea of not guilty by statute has heretofore had. But if the defendant so pleads he shall not plead any other defence without the leave of the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 145

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 16, (1883, R. 208).

There are numerous statutes authorizing this defence of "not guilty" by statute to be pleaded: e.g., R. S. O. c. 73, s. 15, empowers Justices of the Peace and other public officers to plead it: Dale v. Coon, 2 P. R. 160.

By R. S. O. c. 170, s. 42, in actions against a Railway Company for indemnity for damage or injury sustained by reason of the railway, the defendants may plead it: but see Reist v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 15 U. C. Q. B. 355;

Pew v. Buffalo & Lake Huron Ry. Co., 17 U. C. Q. B. 282; and by R. S. O. c. 246, s. 90, in any action brought for anything done in pursuance of that Act, which relates to private lunatic asylums, the defendant may plead it: see Bullen & Leake Prec. of Pleadings, 3rd ed. 704. Rule 418.

The statute must be formally pleaded to enable the defendant to avail himself of any defence under it: McKay v. Cummings, 6 Ont. 400.

Where the plaintiff was not aware of the defence intended, qualified particulars of a defence of "not guilty by statute" were ordered: Jennings v. G. T. Ry. Co., 11 P. R. 300.

"Not guilty by statute" cannot be pleaded to an action for specific performance of a contract: Peterborough v. Midland Ry. Co., 12 P. R. 127; and see Brown v. Blackwell, 35 U. C. Q. B. 239.

The plea of "not guilty by statute" puts in issue not only the defence which the statute gives, but also all the defences which were admissible under the general issue at Common Law: Ross v. Clifton, 11 A. & E. 631.

An equitable defence is not admissible under the general issue by statute: Brown v. Blackwell, 35 U. C. Q. B. 239.

The Court will not in general with this plea allow other pleas: Neale v. McKenzie, 2 Dowl. P. C. 702; Fisher v. Thames June. Ry. Co., 5 Dowl. P. C. 773; O'Brien v. Clement, 15 M. & W. 435; Legge v. Boyd, 1 M. & G. 898; O'Donohue v. Maguire, 1 P. R. 131; Dale v. Coon, 2 P. R. 160.

In Hazelfoot v. Chelmsford Local Board, (not reported but cited, Charley's Jud. Act, 3rd ed. 503), an action for taking gravel, Jessel, M.R., gave leave to defendants to plead the defence of sale by, and payment to, the authorized agent of the plaintiff, in addition to "not guilty."

A plea of the general issue by statute is not demurrable though no statute is applicable: Cairns v. Water Commissioners of Ottawa, 25 U. C. C. P. 551.

In an action in the County Court a plea of "not guilty by statute" does not necessarily raise any question as to the title of land, so as to exclude the jurisdiction of the Court; the general rule being that that particular defence must not only be pleaded but verified by affidavit: Bell v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co., 16 C. P. 252.

418. Where a defendant pleads not guilty by statute, intending to give the special matter in evidence, by virtue of an Act of Parliament, he shall insert in the margin of the paragraph of the statement of defence containing the plea the words "By Statute," together with the year or years of the reign in which the Act or Acts of Parliament upon which he relies for that purpose were passed, and also the chapter and section of each of such Acts, and shall specify whether such Acts are public or otherwise, otherwise the plea shall be taken not to have been pleaded by virtue of an Act of Parliament. (Rules of pleading T. T. 1856, 21.) Plea of "not guilty by statute," to contain reference to statute relied on.

The provisions of this Rule must be strictly followed: Bond v. Conmee, 15 Ont. 716. Both the statute by which the plea is allowed and that containing the matter relied on by way of defence must be mentioned in the margin: VanNatter v. Buffalo & L. Huron Ry. Co., 27 U. C. Q. B. 581; Belch v. Arnott, 9 C. P. 68.

If the defendant omits to follow the requirements of this Rule, he cannot give special matter in evidence to bring himself within the terms of an Act of Parliament which allows a plea of "not guilty": Coy v. Lord Forester, 8 M. & W. 312; Joy v. McKinn, 1 U. C. C. P. 13. An amendment may sometimes be allowed to supply the omission, even after verdict: Edwards v. Hodges,

Rules 419-421.

15 C. B. 477; VanNatter v. Buffalo & Lake Huron Railway Company, 27 U. C. Q. B. 581. But where a defendant pleaded "not guilty," intending to justify under a statute, but the Nisi Prius record had not the words "by statute" in the margin, the Judge at Nisi Prius refused to allow an amendment by the addition of those words, as it was not shown that they were in the margin of the defendant's plea: Forman v Dawes, 1 Car. & M. 127. The parties may so act at the trial, and subsequently, as to be precluded from raising the objection of the omission to name a particular statute in the margin of the plea: Burridge v. Nicholetts, 6 H. & N. 383.

The words "according to statute" instead of "by statute," written in the margin, are sufficient: Robertson v. Cooley, 7 U. C. Q. B. 305.

Inconsistent pleadings.

419. No pleading (a) shall, except by way of amendment, raise any new ground of claim or contain any allegation of fact inconsistent with the previous pleadings of the party pleading the same. J. A. Rule 149.

This is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 19, r. 19 (1883, R. 212), except that at (a) are the words "not being a petition or summons," and the former practice was substantially the same.

A second pleading may add a fact to, but must not contradict, the first: per Bre t, L.J., in Breslauer v. Barwick, 36 L. T. N. S. 52; 24 W. R. 901; nor raise a fresh cause of action: Collambell v. Flight, W. N. 1877, 125. See also Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. 787.

In an action for goods sold, the defence was coverture; plaintiff replied, that he was not aware that defendant was a married woman, and thought she was a widow, and that she obtained credit by representing herself to be entitled to an annuity under a separation deed: and it was held that the reply did not raise a claim inconsistent with the previous pleading: Collett v. Dickenson, W. N. 1878, 52.

6. Issues.

Settlement of issues.

420. Where in any action it appears to a Judge that the pleadings do not sufficiently define the issues of fact in dispute between the parties, he may direct the parties to prepare issues, and such issues shall, if the parties differ, be settled by the Judge. J. A. Rule 177.

To the same effect as Eng. R. 1875, O. 26, (1883, R. 380).

Issues were directed to be framed under this Rule for trying preliminary questions, under Rule 519, in Wood v. Anglo-Italian Banking Co., Limited, 34 L. T. N. S. 255.

7. Striking out, Amending Pleadings, etc.

Court may order scandalous matter to be expunged.

421. If upon the hearing of a cause or matter, the Court is of opinion that any pleading, petition or affidavit, or any part of a pleading, petition or affidavit is scandalous, the Court may order the pleading, petition or affidavit to be taken off the file, or may direct the scandalous matter to be expunged, and is to give such directions as to costs as it may think right. Chy. O. 69.

As to scandalous matter in the statement of claim, or defence, see Rule 423.

Rules 422, 423.

Although there is no Rule specially giving the Court power to take pleadings or affidavits off the files for prolixity, it has nevertheless an inherent power to do so: Hill v. Hart Davis, 26 Ch. D. 470; and pleadings may also be ordered to be struck out for prolixity: Marsh v. Pontefract, W. N. 1876, 7; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 66; Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473.

As to the power of the Court to strike out scandalous matter see Bright v. Marner, W. N. 1878, 211; Cracknall v. Janson, 11 Ch. D. 1; and as to scandalous matter in affidavits, Warner v. Mosses, W. N. 1881, 69; Kenrick v. Kenrick, 12 W. R. 335; Sadlier v. Smith, 7 P. R. 409; Blake v. Albion, 24 W. R. 677.

Application to strike out scandalous matter.

Nothing can be scandalous which is relevant: per Cotton, L.J., in Fisher v. Owen, 8 Ch. D. 653; Jones v. Huntingdon, 3 Chy. Ch. 117; B—— v. W——, 31 Beav. 342; Millington v. Loring, 6 Q. B. D. 190; and the test is whether the matter alleged to be scandalous would be admissible in evidence to show the truth of any allegation which is material with reference to the relief prayed: Christie v. Christie, L. R. 8 Chy. 499; Cashin v. Craddock, 3 Ch. D. 376. The Court has power to strike out scandalous matter from an affidavit, or to order the person who has filed it to pay the costs of it, on the application of any person, even a stranger to the action, or mero motu. It is not necessary that the applicant should be the injured person: Cracknall v. Janson, 11 Ch. D. 1; Middlemas v. Wilson, L. R. 10 Chy. 230; Sadlier v. Smith, 7 P. R. 409; 15 C. L. J. 52; Goddard v. Parr, 24 L. J. Chy. 783.

Where proceedings are ordered to be taken off the files it is said to be the proper practice to destroy them: Hill v. Hart Davis, 26 Chy. D. 471: sed quære is not the proper practice to seal them up? otherwise should they be destroyed, and the order be subsequently reversed, they could not be restored to the files.

The Court has jurisdiction to order any proceeding which contains scandalous matter to be amended; thus, scandalous statements in a bill of costs were ordered to be struck out: Re Miller & Miller, 51 L. T. N. S. 853; 33 W. R. 210; W. N. 1884, 234; Erskine v. Gartshore 18 Ves. 114.

Costs of motion.

The costs of the motion are between solicitor and client: Ex parte Thorp, 1 Ves. 394; Ex parte Porter, 2 M. & Ayr. 220; Ex parte Simpson, 15 Ves. 476, and both the party and his solicitor concerned are liable to pay costs of an application: Ib.; Ruttray v. George, 16 Ves. 232, and see Bishop v. Willis, 5 Beav. 83; Anon, 4 P. R. 242. As to the disallowance of the costs of unnecessary matter in pleadings and affidavits, see Rule 1195.

Motion may be made at any time before hearing.

422. A motion to have any pleading, petition or affidavit taken off the file for scandal, or to have the scandalous matter expunged, may be made to the Court or a Judge at any time before the hearing of the cause or matter. Chy. O. 70.

Scandal in pleading.

As to scandalous matter in statements of claim or defence, see Rule 423.

As to disallowance of costs of unnecessary matter contained in pleadings and affidavits, see Rule 1195.

Master no power to strike out interrogatories for impertinence.

Under this Rule the Master in Chambers, or Local Judge, or Master, has no power to strike out for impertinence, interrogatories which have been delivered for the examination of a witness under commission; Williams v. Corby, 8 P. R. 83.

For form of notice of motion, see Leggo's Forms, 2nd ed., No. 526.

Amendment with leave.

423. The Court or a Judge may, at any stage of the proceedings, order to be struck out or amended any matter in the pleadings respectively which may be scandalous, or

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 423. which may tend to prejudice, embarrass, or delay the fair trial of the action. J. A. Rule 178.

Scandal. Same as Eng. Rule 1875, O. 27, r. 1. Rule 309 of the Rules of 1883 is different in language. As to striking out scandalous matter see Rule 421 and notes.

Amendments. The original Rule contained an additional clause providing that all such amendments shall be made as may be necessary for the purpose of determining the real question or questions in controversy between the parties": as to which see Collette v. Goode, 7 Ch. D. at p. 847; Bannicott v. Harris, W. N. 1876, 9; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 95; Laird v. Briggs, 19 Ch. D. 22, 29. This is in effect the provision made by Rule 444, and has probably therefore been omitted here. The peremptoriness of the Rules was, however, and will still be subject to the limitation that the whole nature of the action may not be changed by amendment: Blenkhorn v. Penrose, 29 W. R. 237; 43 L. T. N. S. 668; and subject also to whether justice will be advanced having regard to the nature of the proposed amendment: Mellhargey v. McGinnis, 9 P. R. 157; Caughill v. Clark, 9 P. R. 471; 3 Ont. 269; Hendricks v. Montagu, 17 Ch. D. 642; Weldon v. Neal, 19 Q. B. D. 394; and the time when the application is made: see Cropper v. Smith, 26 Ch. D. 700; 10 App. Cas. 249, and other cases, infra.

Certain amendments may be made without leave. The plaintiff may so amend his statement of claim before the expiration of the time for reply: Rule 424; and a defendant may so amend a counter-claim to which a reply has been made within the time allowed for pleading to such reply: Rule 425. In other cases leave is necessary, and two classes of amendments are provided for by leave:—(1) On the application of the party pleading, to enable him to raise his real case; (2) on the application of the opposite party, to have struck out or amended any pleading which is improper, or framed so as to prejudice, embarrass, or delay: Rule 423.

Rules 444 and 780 also contain provision for amendment of defects and errors.

As to amendment of writs see note to Rule 444.

Amendments respecting the parties are treated of in Rules 308, 324 and 445.

Amendments which require the addition of parties as well as the restatement of allegations are made by the combined action of Rule 324 and the present Rule. The latter kind are alone here discussed.

On a party's own application. (1) Amendment on the application of a party to amend his own pleading, so as to properly frame his case.

In Tildesley v. Harper, 10 Ch. D. at p. 396; Bramwell, L.J., said his practice in Chambers had been to give leave to amend, unless satisfied that the party applying was acting mala fide, or that by his blunder he had done some injury to his opponent which could not be compensated for by costs or otherwise: followed in Re Trufort, Trafford v. Blanc, 34 W. R. 56; 53 L. T. N. S. 498; Kurtz v. Spence, 36 Ch. D. 770, 773. This rule has been subsequently held by the Court of Appeal to be the correct one to be adopted until a final judgment is obtained by one party. After that he acquires a vested right, of which he is not lightly to be deprived on account of blunders by the opposite party committed without fault on his side: Claparede v. Commercial Union, 32 W. R. 151, 262. This rule is similar to that where an extension of time is applied for: see Ib. and notes to sec. 71 of the Act, supra p. 81.

The Court of Appeal in Tildesley v. Harper applied in respect of an amendment at the trial the same principles as if the application had been made before trial on motion: see Green v. Sevin, 13 Ch. D. 589, 595.

When allowed. Amendments of the first kind are liberally viewed, and have been allowed after issue joined, and the cause entered for trial, and accidentally postponed: Roe v. Davies, 2 Ch. D. 729; or at the trial: King v. Corke, 1 Ch. D. 57; Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jones, 17 Ch. D. 721, 724; Long v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 388; Green v. Sevin, supra; Russell v. Canada Life Assurance Co., 32 C. P. 256. In such a case perhaps the opposite party may obtain costs incurred in respect to the old pleadings: see Dan. Prac. 5th ed. 351-52; or if a plaintiff, he may have the opportunity given him to consider whether he will discontinue: see Edison Telephone Co. v. India Rubber Co., 17 Ch. D. 137. Rule 423.

Leave to amend will generally be granted where there has been a slip in pleading, but not, in general, so as to raise a fresh cause of action: Clarke v. Yorke, 31 W. R. 62; 44 L. T. N. S. 381.

Where by a slip in a pleading the legality of a will intended to be impeached was admitted, leave to amend was granted: Smith v. Smith, 5 Ont. 690, 698.

Leave to amend at the hearing may be granted, though the proposed amendments set up a case not raised by the claim, and may require an adjournment to obtain fresh evidence: Budding v. Murdoch, 1 Ch. D. 42: see, however, the remark as to the headnote to that case, Re St. Nazaire Co., 12 Ch. D. at p. 92; Betts v. Doughty, 5 P. D. 26. Such leave will in general be granted on proper terms so as to enable the real question between the parties to be tried: Laird v. Briggs, 19 Ch. D. 22; Kurtz v. Spence, 36 Ch. D. 770, 773.

Where all the evidence that could throw light on the case has been given, it is a mere matter of form to adapt the pleadings to the matters proved: Gough v. Beach, 6 Ont. 699.

The Court has, however, a discretion as to the amendment: see Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 772; Oates v. Foresters, 4 Ont. 535; and leave was refused at the hearing, where no reason appeared why the bill was not amended when the answer came in: Offord v. Offord, 1 Charl. Ca. (Court) 102; see Lowther v. Heaver, 37 W. R. 55; 59 L. T. N. S. 631; and where the effect of allowing an amendment would be to compel the plaintiff to new assign and adduce new evidence: Edevain v. Cohen, 41 Ch. D. 563. When refused Leave was refused, where the Judge thought the amendment would merely enable the defendants to raise, to the plaintiff's title to sue, a technical objection which was not raised on the pleadings (as required by Rule 402), and which the defendant never intended to raise, till he adroitly sought to avail himself of it at the hearing: Collette v. Goode, 7 Ch. D. 842; see also Caughill v. Clark, 9 P. R. 471; Oates v. Foresters, 4 Ont. 535. So also where the effect would be to raise a new question which would involve an estate in further intricacies, and might more conveniently be raised in a separate action: Re Blight, Blight v. Hartnoll, 42 L. T. N. S. 531; or to convert a claim based on a subsisting lease into one based on an eviction: Newby v. Sharpe, 8 Ch. D. 39; see also Clarke v. Wray, 31 Ch. D. 68; Crowe v. Barnicot, 6 Ch. D. 753; Mellhargey v. McGinnis in note to Rule 426; Blackmore v. Edwards, W. N. 1879, 175, 24 Sol. Jour. 67; and where the plaintiff had elected to claim in a manner inconsistent with the proposed amendment: Cargill v. Bower, 10 Ch. D. 502; Hipgrave v. Case, 28 Ch. D. 356; and where the effect would be to raise a new issue merely to determine how the costs of the action should be borne: Webber v. Wedgewood, W. N. 1883, 8; or to raise a charge of fraud Montagu, when the case has been launched independently of fraud: Hendricks v. at a time 17 Ch. D. 642; or vice versa: Duncan v. Meek, 32 C. P. 195; or require the addition of parties, and raise a new case: Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jones, 17 Ch. D. 721; Edevain v. Cohen, supra; and where the trial was approaching and the amendment would have the effect of delaying the trial: Tottenham Local Board v. Lea Conservancy Board, 80 L. T. Jour. 244.

Where a claim was for specific performance or damages for breach of an agreement, and the plaintiff, pending the action, re-sold the subject of the contract notifying the defendant of his intention to do so, but went to trial without amending his claim, it was held that, as he had disabled himself from enforcing specific performance, the action must be dismissed. Leave to amend at that stage by striking out the specific performance claim was not considered proper: Hipgrave v. Case, 28 Ch. D. 356. See also Cropper v. Smith, 26 Ch. D. 700; 10 App. Cas. 249.

In an action for personal injuries, the defendants denied the charge of negligence. After more than six months they proposed to amend by alleging a contract that would transfer the liability to a local body. An action against such local body was required by statute to be brought within six months from the accrual of the cause of action. Leave to amend was accordingly refused as the Rule 423. plaintiff would be irremediably injured, and could not be restored to the same position as before the defendants' mistake in pleading: Steward v. Metropolitan Tramways Co., 16 Q. B. D. 556.

Materiality or nature of amendment need not be shewn.

A defendant who had put in a joint defence with another was allowed to amend by raising defences separately from his co-defendant; and an affidavit showing the nature of the new defence sought to be raised or its materiality was not required: Cargill v. Bower, 4 Ch. D. 78; see also Long v. Crossley, 13 Ch. D. 391, supra, p. 446; and Chesterfield v. Black, 25 W. R. 409. In the last case an application was made by the plaintiffs in January, 1877, to amend their statement of claim after reply delivered in May, 1876, and hearing fixed for February, 1877. Within a few weeks of the hearing documents had been produced by the defendant for inspection, which contained particulars previously unknown to the plaintiffs, and which strengthened their case; it was contended that the old practice was not altered by which due despatch and the materiality of the amendment must be shown. Bacon, V.C., said: "By the provisions of the Judicature Act I am relieved from the necessity of inquiring into the materiality of the proposed amendment. I think the enlarged power given to the Court by the Judicature Act is one of the most useful and beneficial which has ever been conferred on the Court. It is against justice that a man should not be at liberty to bring his case forward in the way he thinks best, and that he should be precluded from bringing before the Court those materials which he considers necessary for the proper prosecution of his case. I do not think it was the intention of the Act that the old qualification should apply. In this case, till a recent period, the plaintiffs did not know of certain documents affecting the subject matter of the action. These documents have been laid before Counsel, and on his advice application is made to the Court for leave to amend. Is not this a ground on which the Court will exercise the discretion which it takes under the Act? With the rest of the case I have nothing now to do."

The Court would seem, however, to have power in its discretion, to consider the amendment and refuse to allow an amendment which does not appear to be true, or capable of being substantiated: see McIlhargey v. McGinnis, in note to Rule 426, or which would set up an unmeritorious defence, where the time for raising it without leave has expired: see Caughill v. Clarke, 9 P. R. 471; 3 Ont. 269; Oates v. Foresters, 4 Ont. 535.

As to appealing from orders granting, or refusing leave to amend, see infra p. 450.

An action may, by amendment of the writ and statement of claim, be turned into an action by the Attorney-General at the suit of a relator without prejudice to a pending motion in the action; the necessary sanction of the Attorney-General being obtained: Caldwell v. Pugham Harbour, etc., 2 Ch. D. 221; see Mounsey v. Earl of Lonsdale, L. R. 6 Chy. 141. Where an amendment of a matter of account as stated in the pleadings would be allowed before decree, a similar amendment in respect of accounts filed should be allowed in the Master's Office: Court v. Holland, 4 Ont. 688.

On application of the opposite party to strike out.

(2) Amendment by striking out a pleading as improper or embarrassing, on the application of the opposite party.—An embarrassing pleading has been defined as one in which matter is pleaded which the party is not entitled to make use of: Heugh v. Chamberlain, 25 W. R. 742; W. N. 1877, 128; e.g., in an action to enforce a contract for the sale of a patent without warranty, a defence putting in issue the validity of the patent: Liardet v. Hammond Electric Light, 31 W. R. 710; W. N. 1883, 96; allegations respecting matters compromised in a former suit, and which therefore could not be relitigated: Knowles v. Roberts, 38 Ch. D. 263.

A pleading not drawn according to the Rules respecting pleadings is embarrassing.

As a general rule a pleading should not be set aside on summary application unless plainly frivolous or indefensible. The party should be left to demur. Even if the pleading appears to be demurrable that is not a sufficient reason for not striking it out: Glass v. Grant, 12 P. R. 480.

The power to strike out is not so exercised as to enable one party to dictate to the other how he should plead: Rolfe v. Maclaren, 3 Ch. D. 106, 108; but portions of pleadings have been struck out which are not in accordance with Rule 399; e.g., where they contained irrelevant allegations of fraud, to the effect that in transactions other than the one in question the defendants had been guilty of fraud: Blake v. Albion, etc., 35 L. T. N. S. 269; statements in the nature of a demurrer: Stokes v. Grant, 4 C. P. D. 25; Menhinick v. Turner, W. N. 1876, 55; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 42; immaterial facts set out with prolixity: Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473; admissions; Askew v. N. E. Ry. Co., W. N. 1875, 238; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 90, Davy v. Garrett, supra; evidence: Jones v. Turner, W. N. 1875, 239; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 91: scandalous statements which were immaterial: Duncan v. Vereker, W. N. 1876, 64; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 44; see Cracknall v. Janson, 11 Ch. D. 1; Sadleir v. Smith, 7 P. R. 409; Christie v. Christie, L. R. 8 Chy. 499; Wood v. Earl Durham, 21 Q. B. D. 501; and notes to Rule 421; but nothing is scandalous that is relevant to the merits: Dan. Prac. 5th ed. 290. General statements of title may be struck out: Philipps v. Philipps, 4 Q. B. D. 127; Riddell v. Stathmore, 31 Sol. Jour. 183; Rule 416; allegations so prolix as to be obscure: Marsh v. Pontefract, W. N. 1876; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 66; see also Hill v. Hart-Davis, 26 Ch. D. 470; and unnecessary details though not amounting to statements of evidence: Aderis v. Thrigley, W. N. 1876, 56; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 43. The whole of a pleading may be struck out; a statement of claim: Cashin v. Cradock, 3 Ch. D. 376; Ker v. Williams, W. N. 1886. 16; a defence: Preston v. Lamont, 1 Ex. D. 361; or a reply: Williamson v. L. & N. W. Ry. Co., 12 Ch. D. 787. See also Golding v. Wharton Saltworks Co., 1 Q. B. D. 374; W. N. 1876, 40; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 40, and Harris v. Gamble, 6 Ch. D. 748. Rule 423.

In an action for seduction a paragraph of the statement of claim alleged that the defendant administered noxious drugs to the plaintiff's daughter. It was held that the paragraph could not be struck out as disclosing a felony for which the defendant ought to have been prosecuted, inasmuch as the plaintiff was not the person upon whom the felonious act was committed, and had no duty to prosecute: Appleby v. Franklin, 17 Q. B. D. 93.

Allegations in the statement of claim may be struck out where they have been abandoned by the reply: Brooking v. Maudsley, 55 L. T. N. S. 343.

Where allegations are properly pleadable under Rule 399, the Court has no power to strike out the paragraph containing them, unless scandalous, or tending to prejudice, embarrass or delay, within the meaning of the present Rule: Millington v. Loring, 6 Q. B. D. 190.

Pleadings will not necessarily be struck out because they are inconsistent: Re Morgan, Owen v. Morgan, 35 Ch. D. 492; as a rule the only grounds for striking out pleadings are that they are (1) embarrassing, (2) scandalous, (3) tending to prejudice or delay: Ryan v. Fish, 10 P. R. 187, 192; but in Chamberlain v. Chamberlin, 11 P. R. 501, it was held that a defence which was wholly inapplicable, might be struck out, though neither scandalous nor tending to prejudice, embarrass, or delay. See Glass v. Grant, 12 P. R. 480.

A plaintiff by writ joined without leave other claims with a claim to recover land. By the statement of claim he omitted the claim to recover the land. A defence setting up that the writ was issued without leave was held not embarrassing: Wilmott v. Freehold House Property Co., 51 L. T. N. S. 358.

Reasons pleaded to shew why an act, said to be ultra vires, was not ultra vires, were held not to be irrelevant or embarrassing, and a matter alleged as a reason should not be struck out because it is a bad reason: Tomkinson v. S. E. Ry. Co., 57 L. T. N. S. 358.

A defence separating a libel, and justifying as to part, without leaving it clear what part was justified, was struck out as embarrassing: Fleming v. Dollar, 23 Q. B. D. 388.

An amendment, under leave to amend, granted when a new trial was ordered, adding claims for assault and false imprisonment, which would be barred by the Statute of Limitations if made by a new writ, was struck out. An amendment which will injuriously alter the rights which the parties would have if there were no amendment will not be allowed: Weldon v. Neal, 19 Q. B. D. 394.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 424.

Where the plaintiff asked for an injunction and damages, and recovery of possession, it was held that such claims were inconsistent and embarrassing, and the plaintiff, though granted an injunction, was refused costs: Evans v. Davis, 27 W. R. 285.

In Restell v. Steward, W. N. 1875, 249, paragraphs introduced into a statement of defence by amendment were struck out.

Where a pleading is defective in not containing all allegations necessary to show a case for relief, or a defence, the pleading may for that reason be embarrassing, and where the defects can be supplied it will in general not be proper to demur, but a motion to strike out the pleading or paragraph may be made. Thus, in Scane v. Duckett, 3 Ont. 370, the omission in a claim by a simple contract creditor to state that he sues on behalf of all creditors to set aside a conveyance as fraudulent against creditors, was held not matter of demurrer. So where a claim for ejectment alleged that prior to 1874 defendant was tenant and had paid rent, but since 1874 had not paid rent, it was held to be embarrassing as not showing any subsisting tenancy: Molloy v. Lewers, 12 L. R. Ir. 39; see also Rowley v. Laffan, 10 L. R. Ir. 9.

In Finch v. The Guardians of York Union, 35 L. T. N. S. 360, a motion to strike out the whole statement of defence was held to be misconceived, as the defence was not so frivolous as to justify its being set aside, and the plaintiff ought to have demurred. In Weir v. Barnett, W. N. 1875, 258; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 93, a defendant applied to compel the plaintiff to amend, in an action for false representations in regard to debentures, stated to have been made in a letter and prospectus, and Huddleston, B., refused to order an amendment of the claim, so as to show which of the false representations were in the letter, and which in the prospectus.

Where pleadings are such as should be struck out, they ought to be struck out by the Judge, and not be left to be dealt with as a question of costs: Watson v. Rodwell, 3 Ch. D. 380.

Ordinarily, instead of altogether striking out a pleading, or part of a pleading, the party whose pleading is defective will be given an opportunity to amend: Moorhouse v. Colville, W. N. 1876, 12; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 95; Anon, W. N. 1876, 24; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 39.

Applications under this Rule to strike out a pleading are under the practice in Ontario made to the Master in Chambers; for the practice in England in this respect, and as to the costs of such motions, see Marriott v. Marriott, 26 W. R. 416.

By Eng. R. 1883, O. 25, demurrers are abolished, and in lieu thereof, r. 4, provides for making of a motion to strike out pleadings as disclosing no reasonable cause of action. That practice has not been adopted in Ontario.

Appeals.

The striking out of pleadings is in the discretion of the Judge; and, as a general rule, an appeal from his order will not be entertained, unless a question of principle is involved: see Golding v. Wharton Saltworks Co., 1 Q. B. D. 374; Watson v. Rodwell, 3 Ch. D. 380; Ruston v. Tobin, 10 Ch. D. 558, 565; Re Martin, Hunt v. Chambers, 20 Ch. D. 365. Such an appeal was entertained in Davy v. Garrett, 7 Ch. D. 473; Knowles v. Roberts, 38 Ch. D. 263; see also Laird v. Briggs, 19 Ch. D. 22; Peterkin v. McFarlane, 4 Ont. App. 25.

On this subject see also notes to sec. 65, supra pp. 74 and 75.

In view of the difference between the English and Ontario systems as to admissions (see Rule 403,) caution will be necessary in applying the English authorities on the subject of striking out embarrassing pleadings. The English Rules require a party to deal specifically with the allegations in the previous pleadings, and to deny such allegations as he is not prepared to admit; but where, as under the Ontario system, a party is not so bound to make denials, he might not, in framing his pleading, be embarrassed by an improper pleading, though he might be prejudiced by allowing irrevelant statements of fact to go before a jury.

Amendment by plaintiff

424. The plaintiff may, without any leave, amend his statement of claim once at any time before the expiration of the time limited for reply and before replying, or, where no defence is delivered, at any time before the expiration of four weeks from the appearance of the defendant who last appears. J. A. Rule 179. Rule 425. without leave.

This is the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 2, (1883, R. 310), and introduced a practice new to the Common Law Courts.

A precipe order to amend was formerly obtained in Chancery but is unnecessary under this Rule as the amendment may be made "without any leave." Rule 432, by using the words "if any," seems also to point to an amendment without order.

The former Chancery practice warranted the addition, under an order of course to amend, of a plaintiff: Dunn v. McLean, 6 P. R. 97, or defendant; Attorney-General v. Nethercoat, 2 M. & Cr. 604, but not the striking out of a defendant or of a plaintiff, if any of defendants had answered: Dunn v. McLean, supra. As, however, this Rule relates to the amendment of a pleading only, and as an action is not now commenced by a pleading but by a writ, it would seem that no alteration in the frame of the action as to parties can be made by amendment under this Rule. It is to be observed also that Rules 326 and 327 point to the service of added defendants with a writ. Rule 324 et seq., and perhaps 444, would seem to apply where an amendment in respect to the parties is desired.

It has been held under the similar provisions of the Irish Judicature Act, that a plaintiff amending without leave may not add a fresh cause of action not covered by the indorsement of the writ, and that such an amendment is liable to be moved against under Rule 426: Moore v. Atwill, 8 L. R. Ir. 245.

Such an amendment may affect the costs of prior pleadings, and on a motion under Rule 426 such costs may be provided for, but under the English practice it is not the rule that the statement of claim must be no wider than the claim indorsed on the writ: see Johnson v. Palmer, 4 C. P. D. 258; and Bourke v. Alexandra Hotel Co., W. N. 1877, 30; (except when a defendant has not appeared, and a statement of claim has to be delivered, in order to found a motion for judgment: Gee v. Bell, 35 Ch. D. 160; 56 L. T. N. S., 305); and there seems to be no reason why the plaintiffs should not, except as to parties, make under this Rule as large amendments as by the former Chancery practice might have been made under an order of course: as to which see McGillivray v. McConkey, 6 P. R. 56. The provisions of Rule 426 will enable the defendant to obtain the imposition of any terms that may be just.

As to making amendments pending a demurrer, see Rule 390.

The plaintiff may not change the place of trial by amendment under this Rule: Bull v. N. British, 10 P. R. 622; and it has also been held in England that he may not by amendment under this Rule supply an omission to name the place of trial in his statement of claim: Locke v. White, 33 Ch. D. 308. But this may not be so in Ontario, for it would not be known where the place of trial was to be; while in England the effect of omitting to name any place is that the action is to be tried at the Middlesex Sittings. Such an amendment in England, therefore, would amount to changing the place of trial without order, but would not have that effect here. See also Powell v. Cobb, 52 L. T. N. S. 183.

Where the plaintiff amends after a statement of defence has been put in, the defendant may amend his statement of defence under Rule 427, or put in a new defence, or may proceed with his original defence: Boddy v. Wall, 7 Ch. D. 164, (not following Durling v. Lawrence, 46 L. J. Chy. 808; W. N. 1877, 182.) If he neither amends or puts in a new defence, it is presumed that the original defence will stand as a defence to the amended statement of claim.

425. A defendant who has set up any set-off or counter-claim, may, without any leave, amend such set-off or counter-claim at any time before the expiration of the time Amendment by defendant without leave.

Rules 426, 427.

allowed him for pleading to the reply, and before pleading thereto, or in case there be no reply, then within twenty-eight days from the filing of his defence or counter-claim. J. A. Rule 180.

Substantially the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 3, (1883, R. 311).

The time for pleading to a reply is four days : Rule 383. For the course to be pursued by plaintiff if the defendant amends, see Rules 426 and 427, and Boddy v. Wall, supra.

The last clause allowing an amendment to be made though there is no reply is similar to the provision in the case of a plaintiff made by Rule 424, and is doubtless to enable the defendant to amend if he has obtained any fresh light by examination for discovery.

Until the time allowed by this Rule for amending has expired the pleadings are not closed and notice of trial can therefore not be given : Garner v. Tune, 12 P. R. 280 ; and see notes to Rules 392 and 654.

Disallowance of amendment.

426. Where any party has amended his pleadings under either of the last two preceding Rules, the opposite party, may, within eight days after the delivery to him of the amended pleading, apply to the Court or a Judge, to disallow the amendment, or any part thereof, and the Court or Judge may, if satisfied that the justice of the case requires it, disallow the same, or allow it, subject to such terms as to costs or otherwise as may seem just. J. A. Rule 181.

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 4, (1883, R. 312). The giving of security for costs has been imposed as a term where a new case was raised by the amendment : Northampton Coal, Iron & Waggon Co. v. Midland Waggon Co., 7 Ch. D. 500.

Where the plaintiff issued a writ indorsed for the recovery of land, claiming under an assignment and surrender of a lease ; and the defence was that the lease was in effect a mortgage, and the surrender was obtained by fraud : an amendment by the plaintiff asking, in the alternative, foreclosure [illegible] as mortgagee was disallowed on motion under this Rule : McIlhargey v. Dennis, 9 P. R. 157.

Where a plaintiff strikes out allegations so as to make the answer of defendant useless, the defendant may apply under this Rule for the costs unnecessarily incurred ; see McGillivray v. McConkey, 6 P. R. 56 ; Clarkson v. White, 4 Ont. 663 ; Strickland v. Strickland, 3 Beav. 242 ; Mavor v. Dry, 2 S. & S. 113 ; Mounsey v. Burnham, 1 Ha. 22 ; Dan. Pr. 5th ed., 351-2 ; Bourne v. Coulter, 50 L. T. N. S. 321 ; 53 L. J. Chy. 699. See also Weldon v. Neal, 19 Q. B. D. 394, in note to Rule 423.

Leave to plead or amend after amendment.

427. Where any party has amended his pleading under Rules 424 ~~or 425~~, the other party may [without leave amend his former pleading within four days after the delivery of the pleading so amended ; or he may] apply to the Court or a Judge for leave to (a) amend his former pleading within such further time and upon such terms as may seem just. J. A. Rule 182.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 5, has not the words in brackets, and inserts at (a) the words "plead or to." In other respects the Rules are the same. The Eng. R. of 1883, R. 313, is more like the present Rule. It allows eight days for pleading or amending without leave, and provides that if neither course is taken the party shall be deemed to rely on his original pleading. Rules 428-430.

428. Either party may amend his pleading at any time without order on filing the written consent of the opposite party or his solicitor. J. A. Rule 183. Amendment by consent.

429. In all cases not provided for by the preceding Rules [numbered from 424 to 428] application for leave to amend any pleading may be made by either party to the Court or a Judge in Chambers or to the Judge at the trial of the action, and such amendment may be allowed upon such terms as to costs or otherwise, as may seem just. J. A. Rule 184. Application for leave to amend.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 6, (1883, R. 314), has the words "of this order" instead of the words in brackets; otherwise it is the same as this Rule.

The English Rule seems to be intended to provide the mode in which an application under Rule 423 is to be made. The object of the present Rule is probably the same and to authorize application for leave to amend when the time for doing so without leave under the preceding Rules has expired.

The expression "the Court or a Judge in Chambers" would seem to have no different force from "the Court or a Judge" used in Rules 423, 444 and other Rules, so that the motion may be made before the Master in Chambers or other officer having like jurisdiction. See notes to Rules 2 and 30.

Where an application is made at a late stage, doubtless the person applying will have to pay the costs: see Chesterfield v. Black, 25 W. R. 409; Cargill v. Bower, 4 Ch. D. 78; King v. Corke, 1 Ch. D. 57. The time to amend or deliver a new pleading will vary with each case. Fourteen days was allowed in Planet Building Society v. Part, W. N. 1878, 204; a week in Chesterfield v. Black, supra; a month in Williamson v. L. & N. W. Railway Co., 12 Ch. D. 787. Where no time is limited by the order, Rule 430 applies.

Where an allegation was admitted on the pleadings (under the Eng. system by not being denied) and evidence was given contradicting it, leave to amend so as to deny the allegations was refused at the trial, the Judge considering that the balance of convenience was against giving the leave: Lowther v. Heaver, 37 W. R. 55; 59 L. T. N. S. 631.

Amendment was allowed at the trial in Nobel's Explosives Co. v. Jones, 17 Ch. D. 721; King v. Corke, and other cases mentioned in note to Rule 423. p. 447, and Dullinger v. St. Albyn, 41 L. T. N. S. 406. The application should be in Chambers, as a general thing: Marriott v. Marriott, 26 W. R. 416.

430. If a party who has obtained an order for leave to amend a pleading delivered by him does not amend the same within the time limited for that purpose by the order, or if no time is thereby limited, then within 14 days from the date of the order, such order to amend shall, on the expiration of the time limited as aforesaid, or of the 14 days, as the case may be, become ipso facto void, unless the time is extended by the Court or a Judge. J. A. Rule 185. Time limited for amendment.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 7, (1883, R. 315), and as Chy. G. O. 83: see Morgan, Chy. Orders 4th ed., 415-17; Dan. Prac. 5th ed. 346.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 431-434.

How alterations to be made.

431. A pleading may be amended by written alterations in the copies filed and served and by additions on paper to be interleaved therewith if necessary; unless the amendments require the insertion of more than 200 words in any one place, or are so numerous or of such a nature that making them in the copies filed and served would render the same difficult or inconvenient to read; in either of which cases the amendment must be made by delivering a re-print or fresh copy of the pleading as amended. J. A. Rule 186.

Substantially the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 8, (1883, R. 316), 144 words mentioned in the Eng. R. is two folios according to the English mode of computation by which a folio is 72 words.

In John v. Lloyd, L. R. 1 Chy. 64, it was held that, though amendments to a bill did not in any place exceed two folios, the Clerk of Records and Writs had discretion to refuse to file the bill without a reprint, if the amendments were numerous and complicated.

Marking of amended pleadings.

432. Where any pleading is amended, such pleading when amended shall be marked with the date of the order, if any, under which the same is so amended, and of the day on which such amendment is made, in manner following, viz: "Amended day of under order dated day of ."

Same as Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 9, (1883, R. 317).

(a) Where a pleading is amended, the amendment shall be written in ink of a different colour from that used in the original pleading. J. A. Rule 187.

Delivery of amended pleadings.

433. Where a pleading is amended, such amended pleading shall be delivered to the opposite party within the time allowed for amending the same. J. A. Rule 188.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 10, (1883, R. 318).

8. Pleading Matters arising pending the action.

Before delivery of defence.

434. Any ground of defence [or counter-claim] which has arisen after action brought, but before the defendant has delivered his statement of defence (a) may be pleaded by the defendant in his statement of defence [or counter-claim] either alone or together with other grounds of defence. J. A. Rule 151.

Same as the first part of Eng. R. 1875, O. 20, r. 1, (1883, R. 282) except that in the latter at (a) the words "or before the time limited for his doing so has expired" are inserted, and the Eng. Rules have not the words in brackets, Reg. Gen. T. T., 1856, No. 22, was to the same effect: see also R. S. 1877, c. 50.

ss. 106 and 107, and Harr. C. L. P. Act, pp. 115 and 731. The result is, that under this Rule the defendant may in his defence set up any ground of defence which he has at the time of delivering the defence, whenever such ground arose; and not merely grounds of defence which arose before the time limited for delivering the defence. Whether a ground of counter-claim arising after action brought can be set up was the subject of conflicting decisions in England: see Beddall v. Maitland; Toke v. Andrews, and other cases cited in notes to Rule 373. The words "or counter-claim" have been inserted in this Rule to remove any doubt. See also Chamberlain v. Chamberlin, 11 P. R. 501, and notes to Rule 373 and 436. Rules 435-436.

435. If, after a counter-claim has been delivered, any ground of defence arises to anything alleged therein by the defendant, it may be pleaded by the plaintiff thereto, or be introduced by amendment into the statement of claim, within three weeks after the counter-claim or the last of the counter-claims has been delivered, unless the time is extended by the Court or a Judge. See J. A. Rule 152. Before delivery of defence to counter-claim.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 20, r. 12; O. 24, r. 1, (1883, R. 282, last part).

The original Rule 152 was similar to the Eng. Rules referred to, except that the latter confined plaintiff to a reply, nothing being said about amending the statement of claim. The original Rule and the English Rules authorized the plaintiff to take the course provided for "after a statement of defence has been delivered." The present Rule is confined to cases where a counter-claim has been delivered so that if no counter-claim, but only a defence is delivered and facts exist, having arisen after action, which constitute a reply to the defence, the plaintiff may not be entitled to proceed under this Rule, but must have recourse to an application under Rule 439.

A plaintiff may, in his reply to a counter-claim of defendant, counter-claim in respect of a cause of action accruing after the issue of the writ, but arising at the same time and out of the same transaction as the counter-claim of defendant: Toke v. Andrews, 8 Q. B. D. 428. See also note to Rule 373.

436. Where any ground of defence [or counter-claim] arises after the defendant has delivered his statement of defence, (a) he may within eight days after such ground of defence [or counter-claim] has arisen, deliver a further defence or counter-claim setting forth the same, [or introduce the same by amendment into his statement of defence or counter-claim.] J. A. Rule 153. After delivery of defence.

Same as that part of the Eng. R. 1875, O. 20, r. 2, (1883, R. 283) which relates to a defendant; except that the English Rule has at (a) the words, "or after the time limited for his doing so has expired," and provides that the additional defence is to be raised only "by leave of the Court or a Judge." Leave will be unnecessary under this Rule if an affidavit is filed under Rule 438. The words in brackets are new.

A counter-claim and set-off were, under the Eng. Rules corresponding to the original Ont. Rules, held to constitute a ground of defence within this Rule: Wood v. Goodwin, W. N. 1884, 17, and this will no doubt be so now under this Rule and Rule 373; see contra, Chamberlain v. Chamberlin, 11 P. R. 501, under the original Rules.

In computing the eight days long vacation is not reckoned: Rule 404; and the time may be enlarged: Rule 485; and see Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, 25 W. R. 303.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rules 437-440.

By pleading such a plea at law under the former practice, a defendant abandoned all his former pleas: Barber v. Palmer, 1 Salk. 178; but this is not so under the present Act, though semble other defences fall to the ground if the plaintiff confesses the new plea; see Foster v. Gamgee, 1 Q. B. D. 666.

After delivery of reply.

437. Where a ground of defence to any counter-claim arises after the expiration of three weeks from the time of delivering the counter-claim or the last of the counter-claims, the plaintiff, within 8 days after such ground of defence has arisen, may deliver a further pleading setting forth the same, [or may introduce such new ground of defence into his statement of claim by amendment.] J. A. Rule 154.

This Rule is substantially the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 20, r. 2, (see 1883, R. 283), in the case of a plaintiff, except that the words in brackets are new, and that the leave of the Court or a Judge is required under the English Rule. The same liberty is here given to a plaintiff after the time for delivering a reply has expired as is, by the preceding Rule, given to a defendant after the delivery of his defence.

Amendment on præcipe.

438. In any such case the amendment of the pleading filed may be made without an order, on filing a præcipe and an affidavit that the matter of the amendment arose within 8 days next before the day of the making of such amendment. J. A. Rule 155.

The affidavit here required is similar to that formerly required in obtaining leave to plead a plea puis darrein continuance, under R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 107.

Amendment by leave.

439. In cases not provided for by the preceding Rules, the leave of the Court or a Judge to amend the statement of claim or defence or counter-claim, or to deliver a further defence or counter-claim or reply, is to be obtained on notice supported by affidavit. J. A. Rule 156.

See Eng. R. 1875, O. 27, r. 5, 6 and 1883, R. 313, 314.

This Rule will apply, for instance, where a further defence or reply has not been delivered under Rules 436, and 437, within the eight days mentioned. See also Rule 485, and Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, 25 W. R. 303. The affidavit should set forth the new grounds of defence or reply, and explain any delay: Haynes' Ch. Pract. 88.

Plaintiff may deliver confession of defence.

440. Where any defendant, in his statement of defence or counter-claim, whether by way of amendment or otherwise, alleges any ground of defence or counter-claim which has arisen after the commencement of the action, the plaintiff may deliver a confession of such defence; which confession may be in the Form No. 17 in the Appendix with such variations as circumstances may require; and he may thereupon sign judgment for his costs up to the time of the pleading of such defence unless the Court or a Judge shall, either before or after the delivery of such confession, otherwise order. J. A. Rule 257. Rule 440.

This is substantially the same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 20, r. 3, (1883, R. 284). Rules 22 and 23 of Reg. Gen. T. T. 1856, were to the same effect, but were not applicable where a plea raising such a defence was pleaded by one, or more only, of several defendants.

Payment of money into Court is not a "defence" within the meaning of this Rule: Callander v. Hawkins, 2 C. P. D. 592.

Under the Rules of T. T. 1856, though a defendant pleaded with such a plea other defences arising before action, the plaintiff was nevertheless entitled to confess the plea and have his costs, the other pleas falling to the ground. And the present Rules seem to have the same effect: Foster v. Gamgee, 1 Q. B. D. 666. There is no difference in this respect between a plea of bankruptcy and any other plea: Foster v. Gamgee, supra. A plea that defendant was an adjudicated bankrupt, upon an act of bankruptcy which occurred after the service of the writ, was held to be "a ground of defence which has arisen after the commencement of the action;" and the plaintiff was held entitled to confess and sign judgment for his costs under this Rule: Champion v. Formby, 7 Ch. D. 373.

Such a confession is a determination of the matters in litigation, and precludes a second action for the same cause: Newington v. Levy, L. R. 5 C. P. 607; 6 C. P. 180.

For form of confession see App. Form No 17; and of judgment for costs, No. 179.

These Rules apply to a counter-claim in the nature of a pecuniary set-off arising after action brought: Ellis v. Munson, 36 L. T. N. S. 585, and to counter-claims generally: see notes to Rules 373 and 436, and Beddall v. Maitland, 17 Ch. D. 174.

Where a Judge refused to deprive the plaintiff of the costs, under the last clause of this Rule it was held that they were costs left within the discretion of the Judge within section 49 of the English Judicature Act (corresponding to s. 65 of the Ont. Act), and that therefore there could be no appeal from the decision except by leave: Perkins v. Beresford, 47 L. T. N. S. 515.

Defendants delivered a further defence of matter arising since former defence. Plaintiff delivered a confession of this defence and signed judgment for costs. The defendants asserting that the point was sufficiently raised by the former defence, which was not intended to be waived, and consenting to withdraw the further defence, the judgment for costs was set aside under this Rule: Bridgdown, etc. v. Barbado, etc., 38 Ch. D. 378.

This Rule was held not to apply where the defence confessed did not amount to a waiver of pleas founded on matters which had occurred before the commencement of the action: Harrison v. Marquis of Abergavenny, 57 L. T. N. S. 360.

As to discontinuance of the action by the plaintiff in other cases, see Rule 641.

1. Effect of Non-compliance and Errors.

Formal objections.

441. No proceeding shall be defeated by any formal objection. R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, s. 7.

Non-compliance with Rules.

442. Non-compliance with any of these Rules shall not render the writ or any other proceeding in any action or matter void unless the Court or a Judge so directs, but such proceedings may be set aside either wholly or in part as irregular, or amended, or otherwise dealt with in such manner and upon such terms as the Court or Judge thinks fit. J. A. Rule 473.

To the same effect as Eng. R. 1875, O. 59, (1883, R. 1037).

Where short notice of motion had been irregularly given but the opposite party had not been injured by the irregularity, the Court exercised its discretion under this Rule, disregarded the irregularity, and heard the motion: Dawson v. Beeson, 22 Ch. D. 504; see also Williams v. De Boinville, 17 Q. B. D. 180; Re Coulton, 34 Ch. D. 22. Rules 443, 444.

An irregularity may be condoned, in the discretion of the Court, even on a motion for attachment: Pettie v. Daniel, 34 Ch. D. 172; Litchfield v. Jones, 25 Ch. D. 64: see Pilcher v. Hindes, 11 Ch. D. 905.

As to moving against an irregularity, see Rules 443, and 534.

Affidavits not served with a notice of motion were allowed to be read: Re Wyggeston Hospital & Stevenson, 33 W. R. 550.

443. No application to set aside process or proceedings for irregularity shall be allowed, unless made within a reasonable time, nor if the party applying has taken a fresh step after knowledge of the irregularity. Rules T. T. 1856, 106. Irregularity, motion to set aside proceedings to be made promptly.

The same in effect as Eng. R. 1883, R. 1038.

If an objection can be waived, it amounts to an irregularity, if not, it is a nullity: Bank of Upper Canada v. Van Voorish, 4 U. C. L. J. 232. The tendency of the cases is to consider defects as irregularities, rather than nullities: Herr v. Douglas, 4 P. R. 102. A stranger cannot set aside proceedings for irregularity: Perrin v. Bowes, 5 U. C. L. J. 138; Balfour v. Ellison, 8 U. C. L. J. 330; McKenzie v. Harris, 10 U. C. L. J. 213; Nicholls v. Nicholls, 3 P. R. 201; see, however, Bonistiel v. McMaster, 6 O. S. 32; unless they are, in effect, fraudulent: McDonald v. Boice, 12 Gr. 48; and see Martin v. Boulanger, 8 App. Cas. 296.

The notice of motion must specify the irregularity: Rule 534.

A writ joining causes of action which should not be joined without leave is an irregularity, and appearance to such a writ is a "fresh step," within this Rule; and a defendant who appears instead, of applying to strike out the irregularity, cannot insist upon it: Mulckern v. Doerks, 51 L. T. N. S. 429; 53 L. J. Q. B. 526; Re Derbon, 36 W. R. 667, in note to Rule 341.

See also Fry v. Moore, 23 Q. B. D. 375, and Boyle v. Sacker, 39 Ch. D. 249, in notes to Rule 271, p. 302.

2. Amendments.

444. The Court or a Judge may at any time, and on such terms as to costs or otherwise as to the Court or Judge may seem just, amend any defect or error in any proceedings; and all such amendments may be made as may be necessary for [the advancement of justice], determining the real question or issue raised by or depending on the proceedings, [and best calculated to secure the giving of judgment according to the very right and justice of the case.] J. A. Rules. 10, 474. Amendment of defects or errors.

The words in brackets are not in the Eng. R. April 1880, R. 44 (see 1883, R. 309), and are taken substantially from R. S. O. 1877, c. 49, ss. 7, 8; Ib. c. 50, s. 270.

The first clause of this Rule differs from the Eng. R. of 1883.

This Rule is in regard to amendment of defects and errors generally, and is supplemental to Rule 423 respecting amendment of pleadings and Rule 780 respecting clerical errors and slips.

UNIVERSITY LAW LIBRARY

Rule 444.

Where an order had been made for sale of property as described in a claim, but afterwards it was discovered to have been mis-described, the claim was amended and the order post-dated, so as to appear to have been made after the amendment: Winkley v. Winkley, 44 L. T. N. S. 572; 29 W. R. 628. In general, however, an order ought not to bear a fictitious date: Ashley v. Taylor, 10 Ch. D. 773.

On a motion for prohibition to a Division Court the affidavit and notice of motion were not styled in any Division of the High Court, but the defect was held to be amendable under this Rule: Re Olmstead v. Errington, 11 P. R. 366.

In Re Smart, 12 P. R. 312, 435, 635, proceedings by habeas corpus to obtain the custody of children were supplemented, by the applicant being directed to file a petition under R. S. O. 1877, c. 132: see supra p. 63.

If the Court comes to the conclusion that an amendment is "necessary for the advancement of justice, the prevention and redress of fraud, the determination of the rights and interests of the respective parties, and of the real questions in controversy between them, and best calculated to secure the giving of judgment according to the very right and justice of the case," the granting or refusing of the amendment ceases practically to be a matter of discretion: Peterkin v. MacFarlane, 4 Ont. App. 45; Gilleland v. Wadsworth, 1 Ont. App. 82.

An amendment made affecting a person not a party was at his instance rescinded: Glass v. Cameron, 9 Ont. 712.

Amendments of the writ of summons were specially provided for by original Rule 10, which has been omitted in the Consolidation, the present Rule covering the case.

Amendment of Writ.

The plaintiff will have to pay the costs of an amendment of the writ. An order to amend has been held to be necessary, even though the writ has not been served: per Lush, J., Anon, 60 L. T. Jour. 32; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 34; and this decision has been followed by Mr. Dalton in Chambers: see Globe, 6th Oct. 1881, and App. Form 91; see contra under the former practice, Worthington v. Boulton, 6 P. R. 68.

When a statement of claim has been delivered, an amendment of the indorsement on the writ seems to be unnecessary: Large v. Large, W. N. 1877, 98; Johnson v. Palmer, 4 C. P. D. 262; but see Conybeare v. Lewis, W. N. 1881, 31; 44 L. T. N. S. 242; 29 W. R. 391; see also Re Jones, Eyre v. Cox, 24 W. R. 317. An action may, by amendment of the writ and statement of claim, be turned into an information without prejudice to a pending motion in the action, the necessary sanction of the Attorney-General being obtained: Caldwell v. Payham Harbour Reclamation Company, 2 Ch. D. 221.

When a writ has been amended it must be served in the same way as the original: The Cassiopeia, 4 P. D. 188, where a new claim was introduced: Guess v. Perry, 12 P. R. 460, where a claim for damages was struck out by amendment; see also Bryans v. Hughes, 14 L. R. Ir. 62.

Irregularities in a writ of summons may be amended either on motion by the plaintiff, or leave to amend may be granted where the defendant moves to set aside the writ. The following irregularities have been allowed to be amended:—A writ signed by a Process Clerk issued after the appointment of his successor: Stevenson v. Williams, 7 P. R. 358; a writ issued without the signature of the Process Clerk: Labadie v. Darling, 7 P. R. 355; a writ tested in the name of a retired Chief Justice after the appointment of his successor had been gazetted, but before he had taken the oath: Nelson v. Roy, 3 P. R. 226; a writ tested in the name of a Lord Chancellor after his resignation and the appointment of his successor: Pleasants v. East Dereham, etc., 47 L. T. N. S. 439; a mistake in the date in the teste, as "eighty——" for "eighty-two": Wesson v. Stalker, 48 L. T. N. S. 444. But the absence from the Province of the Judge in whose name writs are tested does not render it improper to teste a writ in his name: Brett v. Smith, 1 P. R. 309.

445. Where an action has been commenced in the name of the wrong person as plaintiff, or where it is doubtful whether it has been commenced in the name of the right plaintiff or plaintiffs, the Court or a Judge, if satisfied that it has been so commenced through a bona fide mistake and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, may order any other persons or persons to be substituted or added as plaintiff or plaintiffs, upon such terms as may seem just. J. A. Rule 90.

Rule 445. Substitution and addition of plaintiffs.

Same as the Eng. R. 1875, O. 16, r. 2, (1883, R. 124).

Actions have been inadvertently brought by the wrong person, as by cestui que trust, instead of trustee; by mortgagor, instead of mortgagee. The same mistake has been made where it was matter of real difficulty to say which of the two persons ought to sue: as in the case of contracts made by agents, as to which it is sometimes a question of much nicety to determine who ought to sue. Previous to The Administration of Justice Act, 1873, in Ontario, and until the Judicature Acts in England, though the Common Law Courts had the largest powers of adding parties, or amending misdescriptions of parties, they had no power to substitute one plaintiff for another, such as this Rule confers: see De Geadre v. Bogardus, L. R. 7 C. P. 409.

An application under this Rule can only be made by a plaintiff: Clowes v. Hilliard, 4 Ch. D. 413, and is restricted to cases where a bona fide mistake has occurred, which has been discovered after action brought; as where a new partner was brought into a firm before the dealing in question; but it is not intended to confer upon the Judge unlimited discretion to re-model the proceedings: per Mellor, J., in Turquand v. Fearon, 4 Q. B. D. at p. 282. In Smith v. Haseltine, W. N. 1875, 250; 1 Charl. Ch. Ca. 56, Huddlestone, B., said: "You have to satisfy me of two things; 1st, that there has been a bona fide mistake in the issue of the w[illegible] and 2nd, that it is a necessary change." See also Clowes v. Hilliard, 4 Ch. D. 413.

In an action by assignees of insolvents, the Judge at the trial held that the claim sued for did not pass, under the circumstances, to the assignees. The defendants having been given time during the sittings to ascertain whether they had any defence to a suit by the insolvents, the latter were added under this Rule as plaintiffs, and judgment was given in their favour, but without costs: Woodward v. Shields, 32 C. P. 282. See Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 169.

In an action to restrain the violation of a covenant and for damages, the plaintiff was advised, after action commenced, that there was something in her title which might act as a personal bar to her obtaining relief. An amendment by making another person a co-plaintiff who was also entitled to the benefit of the same covenant was allowed, the real question being the effect of the covenant: Ayscough v. Buller, 4 Ch. D. 341. Where a new plaintiff is thus added, the action, as regards him, is to be deemed to have been commenced, only from the date of his being added: Ib. See also Walcott v. Lyons, in note to Rule 324.

For other cases in which the Rule has been acted upon, see Val de Travers Asphalte Co., (Limited), v. London Tramway Co., (Limited), 48 L. J. C. P. 312; 40 L. T. N. S. 133; W. N. 1879, 46, and Mercantile River Plate Co. v. Isaac, W. N. 1876, 104; 2 Charl. Ch. Ca. 23; Blackburn Union v. Brooks, 26 W. R. 57.

The bona fide mistake, which must be shewn, may be one of law: Duckett v. Gover, 6 Ch. D. 82; Mason v. Harris, 11 Ch. D. 97.

Rule 324 (b) is to be read into this Rule, so that a plaintiff will not be added or substituted unless he consents: Turquand v. Fearon, 4 Q. B. D. 280, though the terms may otherwise be "such as may seem just": Tryon v. National Prov.

Ins., 16 Q. B. D. 678; and see Rule 324; nor under this Rule unless the original plaintiff consents: Emden v. Carte, 17 Ch. D. 169.

An order will not be made on an ex parte application: Tildesley v. Harper, 3 Ch. D. 277.

Where the present Rule is not applicable, plaintiffs may nevertheless sometimes be added under Rules 324, and 325, supra: see notes to those Rules, and Emden v. Carte, and Smith v. Haseltine, supra.

Amendment at trial.

446. In case an amendment is directed or allowed to be made at the trial, it shall not be necessary to draw up or issue an order therefor. The amendment may be at once made on the record, or a minute of the amendment to be made may be entered in the book of the Registrar, Deputy or Local Registrar, Clerk or Marshall, and the amendment may be formally made at any time afterwards. New.

3. Paper, Notices and Written Proceedings Generally.

Notices to be written or printed.

447. All notices required by these Rules or the practice of the Court shall be in manuscript or print, or partly in [manuscript and partly in print], unless expressly authorized by the Court or a Judge or by these Rules to be given orally. J. A. Rule 451; Rules T. T. 1856, 131.

Instead of the words in brackets, the Eng. R. 1875, O. 56, r. 1 (1883, R. 1003) has "writing."

A verbal notice to produce is insufficient: Provincial Ins. Co. v. Shaw, 19 U. C. Q. B. 537.

Regulations as to printing proceedings.

448. Proceedings, if printed, shall be printed with pica type leaded, on good paper, of foolscap size. J. A. Rule 452.

The Eng. R. 1875, O. 56, r. 2 (1883, R. 1005), is more particular in its directions.

See Chy. G. O. 66, and Cossey v. Ducklow, 2 Chy. Ch. 227, where service of a bill not printed, etc., in conformity with the Gen. Orders was set aside.

Paragraphs

449. Every petition, issue, special case, affidavit and other proceedings of a like nature, shall be divided into numbered paragraphs, and shall state concisely such matters and facts as may be necessary to truly inform the Court. See J. A. Rule 128, part.

Clerks of Crown to prescribe width and length of paper, etc.

450. All rolls and records shall be upon parchment, or paper, of such width and length as the Registrars shall prescribe by written notice, to be put up in some conspicuous place in their respective offices and in the offices of the several Deputy Clerks of the Crown, and none of these officers shall be bound to receive any roll or record not made up in conformity to such notice, and such rolls and records shall not exceed, when folded, 14 inches in length and 4 inches in breadth, written upon at least a sheet of paper and folded accordingly. Rules T. T. 1856, 147. Rules 451-453.

See as to pleadings, Rule 395; as to mode of printing to be adopted, Rule 448.

451. In all proceedings in a cause or matter, except pleadings, petitions in the nature of pleadings, judgments and decretal orders, the following short style of cause shall be sufficient: Short style of cause.

"Between John Smith and others,—Plaintiffs, and Richard Roe and others,—Defendants."

In case of proceedings which it has been the practice to entitle more shortly thus: "Smith v. Roe," such practice is to continue. Chy. O. 597.

In all pleadings, petitions in the nature of pleadings, judgments, and decretal orders, the full style of the action or matter is to be set out; in other proceedings, including affidavits, interlocutory orders, notices of trial, to produce, to admit, notices of motion, and of appeal, the shortened style first given in the Rule may be used.

The shorter title, e.g., Smith v. Roe, is usually confined to appointments for settling minutes of judgments or orders, Master's warrants, notices of taxation or other notices and appointments not already mentioned, which are required to be taken out or served in the progress of a cause. There is, however, no authority for styling affidavits in this way.

452. The word folio shall mean one hundred words. Rules T. T. 1856, 167. A folio is 100 words.

4. Copies of Papers—Forms.

453. Office-copies of affidavits, and other proceedings for service are dispensed with; and where service is required, true copies, instead of office-copies, are to be served; but this order is not to apply to judgments or orders of which office-copies are by the practice of the Court required to be served. Chy. O. 402. Service of office copies of affidavits and other proceedings dispensed with in certain cases.

An "office copy" of a document is a copy authenticated by the proper officer, usually the one in whose custody the original record of the proceedings is deposited. But under Rule 454, Local Registrars, Deputy Registrars, and Deputy Clerks of the Crown, have power to make office copies. Office copies of decrees were expressly required to be served in certain cases: see Rules 46, 322; and where according to the former practice an office copy of a decree, or Office copies.

order, was required to be served, in like cases an office copy of the judgment, or order, would seem to be necessary under the present practice, except where a different practice is expressly provided.

Under the former Chancery practice, the first proceeding in the cause served upon a defendant was usually required to be an office copy; e.g., bills, or decrees, or orders, served on parties added in the Master's office, and orders of revivor. But under the present practice, it would seem sufficient to serve a plain copy of an order adding parties upon a change of interest, instead of an office copy as formerly: see Rule 623.

As to what is "a true copy": see Walker v. Niles, 18 Gr. 213; Sharp v. McHenry, 38 Ch. D. 427.

Office copies may be certified by Deputy Clerks, etc.

454. Office copies of judgments to be served on persons made parties in the Master's office, may be certified by the Deputy Clerk of the Crown, Deputy or Local Registrar, as the case may require, at the place where the reference is being prosecuted. Chy. O. 547.

Office copies, how made.

Office copies are copies authenticated by the proper officer. In order to enable a local officer to authenticate a judgment which has not been entered in his own office, an authenticated copy must be produced to him, with which other copies may be compared. It has been usual to mark them "Examined," and stamp them with the seal of the officer who certifies them.

The right to certify office copies under this Rule has been in practice extended to cases where an office copy is required to be served on parties interested, but who are not made parties: see Rule 322.

Copies of documents to be demanded in writing.

455. A party requiring a copy of any pleading, affidavit, exhibit, or document not directed to be served is to make a written application for the same to the solicitor of the party by whom it has been filed, or on whose behalf it is to be used; and where the party has no solicitor, then to the party himself. Chy. O. 548.

Pleadings are required to be served on the opposite party without a demand: Rule 461.

An irregularity in the indorsement of an affidavit is waived by demanding a copy of it: Bennett v. O'Meara, 2 Chy. Ch. 167.

Where copy of document demanded, it is to be furnished within 48 hours.

456. Where an application is made for a copy of any pleading, affidavit, exhibit or document, it is to be delivered within 48 hours from the time of the demand; and any further time which may elapse before the delivery is not to be computed against the party demanding the same. Chy. O. 549.

Copies of affidavits, costs of furnishing.

This Rule is imperative, and the Court will enforce compliance with it: Totten v. Macintyre, 2 Chy. Ch. 80; Burrows v. Hainey, 2 Chy. Ch. 186. Formerly the costs of furnishing copies were part of the costs of the cause, or application, and payment of the costs of the copies could not be required as a condition of furnishing them. Whether the Rules are intended to make any change in this respect is not very clear: see Rule 457.

In practice, the costs of furnishing copies of affidavits on a motion have been regarded as part of the costs of the motion; and it has not been usual to demand payment for copies so demanded, as a condition of furnishing them.

457. As to taking copies of documents in possession of another party, or extracts therefrom, under Rules of Court or any special order, the party entitled to take the copy or extract is to pay the solicitor of the party producing the document for such copy or extract as he may, by writing, require, at the rate of 10 cents per folio; and if the solicitor of the party producing the document refuses or neglects to supply the same, the solicitor requiring the copy or extract is to be at liberty to make it, and the solicitor for the party producing is not to be entitled to any fee in respect thereof. J. A. Rule 433. Rules 457-461. Copies of documents in possession of another party.

The Eng. R. of Aug. 12, 1875, "Costs," R. 16 (1883, R. 1002, r. 18), gives fourpence per folio; with that exception, the two Rules are the same.

458. The forms contained in the Appendices hereto are to be used with such variations or modifications as circumstances may require; but any variance therefrom, not being in matter of substance, shall not affect their regularity. Rules T. T. 1856, 169; J. A. Rule 485. Forms to be used.

See Eng. R. April, 1880, R. 52.

In Turquand v. Fearon, 40 L. T. N. S. at p. 545, Thesiger, L.J., said, "although the forms given in the Judicature Acts are not absolutely binding, they are still of assistance as illustrating the meaning of the Act." See also Scott v. Creighton, 9 P. R. 253.

5. Service of Papers.

459. Unless otherwise provided by Statute or Rule of Court, pleadings and notices required to be served in any action, whether in the Supreme Court of Judicature or County Courts, may be served in any County. R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 59. Pleadings etc., may be served in any County.

460. Admissions and acceptances of the service of an order, notice of motion or other paper, upon the opposite solicitor, need not be verified by affidavit. Chy. O. 48. Solicitor's acceptance need not be verified.

See Rules 252, 704, as to acceptance of service of writs of summons.

Under Rule 704, acceptances of service of writs of summons, and undertakings to appear, are required to be verified by affidavit; but all other acceptances and admissions of service may under this Rule be received and acted on, without verification.

461. All writs, pleadings, notices, orders, appointments, warrants, and other documents, and written communications, which do not require personal service upon the party to be affected thereby, shall be served upon his solicitor Country agent, when to be served.

when residing in Toronto, or if his solicitor does not reside in Toronto then either upon his solicitor, or, if such solicitor does not reside in the county where such proceedings are conducted then upon the agent, if any, named in the "Solicitors and Agents' Book," provided for by Rule 204, or upon the Toronto agent of such solicitor named in the "Solicitors and Agent's Book," provided for by Rule 203, unless the Court, or a Judge, or a Master, before whom any such proceeding is had, shall give any direction as to the solicitor upon whom any such notice, appointment, warrant, or other document or written communication is to be served. Where any solicitor has not caused such entry to be made in either of the "Solicitors and Agents' Books," provided for by Rules 203 or 204, then the posting up of a copy of any such notice, appointment, warrant, or other document, or written communication, for such solicitor in the office in which the proceedings are being conducted, is to be deemed sufficient service, unless the Court, or Judge, or Master, as the case may be, directs otherwise. Chy. O. 42, 43; R. S. O. 1877, c. 50, s. 57; Rules T. T. 1856, 136, 137.

Service, where solicitor neglects to enter name of agent.

By Rule 203 it is imperative upon every solicitor to appoint an agent in Toronto and have his name entered as such agent in the books kept at Osgoode Hall; but under Rule 204 it is entirely at the solicitor's option to have, or not have, a booked agent in any county town. If a solicitor does enter an agent's name in the books kept in a county town, then service can be effected on such solicitor, but if he does not, then service can be effected only by serving the solicitor himself, or his Toronto agent. Service can only be effected by posting up copies, when there is no entry of an agent in the books at either place: Essery v. G. T. Ry. Co., 9 C. L. T. 413; 25 C. L. J. 507.

Service of papers on a solicitor as agent for another solicitor is not good, unless the solicitor served is the booked agent of the other, even though he has acted as agent in the same suit: Robinson v. Robinson, 13 P. R. 51.

This Rule only applies to the service of documents, which do not require personal service.

A solicitor cannot, as agent for one principal, serve himself as agent for another principal: Horseman v. Coulson, 6 P. R. 263; Ontario Bank v. Fisher, 4 P. R. 22.

Service of solicitor on record, good, though he have ceased to act.

Until an order has been made and served, changing the solicitor of any party to an action, or authorizing such party to sue, or defend, in person, service on the solicitor originally named is sufficient, even though such solicitor have ceased to act for such party: Wright v. King, 9 Beav. 161; and see Newton v. Thompson, 16 Jur. 1008; De la Pole v. Dick, 29 Ch. D. 351; 52 L. T. N. S. 457. Where a solicitor has absconded, a notice of motion left at his unoccupied place of business was held properly served: Newton v. Thompson, 22 L. J. Chy. 10; and see Re Templeman, 20 Beav. 574; Re Wisewold, 16 Beav. 357; Re Catlin, 18 Beav. 508; Re Dufaur, 16 Beav. 1; Re Thompson, 20 Beav. 545; Wilson v. Emmett, 19 Beav. 232; Ex parte Belton, 25 Beav. 368; Re Walton, 4 K. & J. 78.

462. Where a party sues or defends in person, and no address for service of such party is written or printed pursuant to the directions of Rules 238 to 240, or where a party has ceased to have a solicitor, all writs, notices, orders, appointments, warrants, and other documents, proceedings, and written communications, not requiring personal service upon the party to be affected thereby, shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, be deemed to be sufficiently served upon such party, by posting up a copy in the office in which the proceedings are being conducted. But if an address for service is written or printed as aforesaid, then all such writs, notices, orders, warrants and other documents, proceedings, and written communications, shall be deemed sufficiently served upon such party if left for him at such address for service. Chy. O. 45. Rule 463. indorsement.

The reference to Rules 238 to 240 is erroneous; the Rules intended are Rules 240 to 242.

The omission of a defendant's address, or address for service when necessary, in an appearance by a defendant in person, is expressly provided for by Rule 285.

Proceedings whereby the liberty of the person is intended to be affected; e.g. proceedings upon which to found an application for an attachment, are usually required to be personally served on the party, even though he have appeared, or sued, by a solicitor. Applications to commit for non-production of documents are, however, an exception to this rule: see Rule 521.

463. A party suing or defending by a solicitor shall not be at liberty to change his solicitor in any action or matter without an order of the Court for that purpose, which may be obtained on præcipe; and until such order is obtained and served, and notice thereof given to the officer with whom the pleadings are filed, the former solicitor shall be considered the solicitor of the party. Chy. O. 49. Rules T. T. 1856, 4. Change of solicitor.

Order to Change Solicitor.—An order to change the solicitor is necessary, not only where the client desires to discharge his solicitor in an action, but also where the solicitor discharges himself: see Griffiths v. Griffiths, 2 Hare 587; 7 Jur. 573. But no order is necessary to enable the client to appoint a new solicitor, in place of one deceased: Whalley v. Whalley, 22 L. J. Chy. 632; Alchin v. Buffalo & L. H. Ry. Co., 2 Chy. Ch. 45. In the latter case, however, notice should be given of the appointment of the new solicitor to the officer with whom the pleadings are filed, and also to the opposite party: Rule 463, Hunt v. Fineburg, 22 Q. B. D. 259; Braith Pr. 564, 565; Bank of Montreal v. Harrison, 4 P. R. 331. Order to change solicitor when necessary.

Until an order to change the solicitor is obtained and served, service on the solicitor on the record is good, or his agent, even though the former has ceased to act, and though a new one has been appointed: Davidson v. Leslie, 9 Beav. 104; Wright v. King, ib., 161; Brown v. Burgar, 2 Chy. Ch. 446; De la Pole v. Dick, 29 Ch. D. 351; 52 L. T. N. S. 357.
